api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāk sādhur eva sa
mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ

"If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all nondevotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life. "
(Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30)

It is so dangerous, ananya-bhakti is a dangerous thing. So many apparent anomalies cannot make him object of blame. Because the very rarest thing of ananya-bhakti whose future is guaranteed. Ananya connection, exclusive connection with the Lord, that means his bright future is guaranteed, only a question of time. What he has, the connection, the high valuable connection that he has got, that is very, very, very, very rarely to be had, and that he has got. And other things are negligible, negligible of the negligible. So don't approach that dangerous place or you will be doomed.

So api cet sudurācāro, at your consideration he may be much filthy, but at once the day will dawn there, and you will be nowhere, you have no position at all. You are now a commentator making remarks and you will be nowhere. But his position is sure because that ananya-bhakti connection, exclusive devotion connection, that highly earned most rare valuable thing he has got. So I am such that my connection, real connection, is so valuable that all the worldly attributes in consideration to that has no position at all. The worldly relative consideration of good and bad, that has got no value, it is all illusory but that is reality whatever least it may be that is reality.

Devotee: Mahārāja could you explain this again, the good and the bad, will you explain this again?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are disturbing the thought. What good and bad? Good and bad.

'dvaite bhadṛābhadrā-jñāna, saba-'manodharma' 'ei bhāla, ei manda',-ei saba 'bhrama'

Therefore, saying, 'This is good, this is bad,' is a mistake." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.176)

As in a dream, we may have a good dream or a bad dream, but both are false. Something like that. In the relative consideration of this worldly position we may think that he's a good man and he's a bad man, but everything, that's all illusory. The imaginary standard conception, everything. And the connection with Kṛṣṇa, that is reality, that is reality, that is absolute, that

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: nirguṇa.

Devotee: We should try to enquire and we should be submissive and have an attitude of rendering service. Is there any disqualification that will make the disciple bona fide if he has got the spirituality chastened?

A disciple that wants to enquire about the truth. He's submissive and he's got an attitude of service. Will any disqualification make him not bona fide disciple?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the question?

Devotee: He says: "If a disciple is submissive, is there any disqualification that makes him not bona fide?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Devotee: If he's submissive and he's rendering service, any disqualification to make him not bona fide?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's submissive, and?

Devotee: Renders service.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rendering service, and inquisitive. And what is want in him?

Devotee: There may be any other thing that this one will make him not bona fide?

That's the question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does it mean by bona fide? What is bona fide?

Devotee: Well qualified to approach the spiritual master and get his mercy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Guru and the śiṣya, the preceptor and the disciple, we find in different planes of life. Everywhere the disciple and Guru they meet and that transaction we find everywhere. In many planes of life. In Paramātmā, the plane of exploitation, mainly, that is also bad and good. Plane of renunciation, that is also of variegated nature. The plane of devotion, there is also different stages. But everywhere the submissive attitude if necessary and the preceptor will teach him the general things. But in the plane of knowledge also, the plane of liberation seekers, there also we find the Buddhistic school, the Śāṅkara school, everywhere the Guru śiṣya, the preceptor and the disciple. They must have some qualification, both parties.

So (that question is?) the real plane. Both must come in the highest plane and there the negotiation, the submission, and the teaching. That may occur in any plane, such things.

tad viddhi praṇipātena, paripraśnena sevayā upadekṣyanti te jñānam, jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ

"You will be able to attain all this knowledge by satisfying the enlightened spiritual master with prostrate obeisances, relevant enquiry, and sincere service. Great souls who are most expert in scriptural knowledge and endowed with direct realisation of the Supreme Absolute Truth will teach you that divine knowledge."

(Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34)

Praṇipāta means surrender, paripraśnena honest enquiry, and sevayā serving attitude.

Three qualifications in the disciple, in the plane of the enquiry of the higher truth.

And the preceptor he also must be qualified, jñāni and tattva darśinaḥ. He must have śāstric knowledge that he can explain the thing how it is, and he must have some realisation of the truth, practical knowledge, both theoretical and practical knowledge the Guru must have.

But the apparent paramārtha spiritual life, even the Buddhistic, the Śaṅkara, the Rāmānuja, Mādhva school we may find in different planes of life. They think that to renounce the world that is the holiest position, to give up everything and to enter into eternal samādhi, which means the eternal stop of his life. Nothing remains, to get out of the undesirable elements forever. That is, according to them, the highest position. Any transaction with the environment is troublesome so to get the highest relief means to dissociate the environment permanently, successfully.

That is their aim and object. There also they require such submission and they explain about the paramārtha.

But the Vaiṣṇava they have got another plane of life. They do not want the stop of activity of movement, that is not. But movement will remain, movement will be for positive purpose not for negative purpose, undesirable things, but wholesale desirable and positive things. The life must be there, movement must be there, and still that cent per cent holy life we must have.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:bhakti is ahaitukī, means causeless, and apratihātā. sa vai puṁsāṁ paro dharmo, yato bhaktir adhokṣaje

ahaituky apratihātā, yayātmā suprasīdati

"The supreme occupation (dharma) for all humanity is that by which men can attain to loving devotional service unto the transcendental Lord. Such devotional service must be unmotivated and uninterrupted to completely satisfy the self."

Ahaitukī means causeless, it is its own cause. None from outside can produce bhakti. And apratihātā, none can resist its source. This is bhakti, so bhakti can give bhakti, no other thing can give bhakti. This is the nature, this is the most original plane of the whole existence. That is love, that is beauty, that is charm, that is the highest conception of divinity. Nothing in the world can produce bhakti, all bhakti is self existent.

Just as Hegel tells: "Reality is by Itself and Reality is for Itself." None can produce reality, then if anything can produce reality he will be in the first position. The reality must be causeless, it will be its only cause. So bhakti is its own cause, none can produce bhakti. This is the original nature of bhakti, devotion. And bhakti exists for bhakti not for any other thing, not subservient to any other existence, then also it must not be absolute. Because it is absolute so its cause is within and its object is also within. It does not exist to satisfy any other persons whim, then if it exists for any other to satisfy him then he will be the greater thing.

So reality must be "By Itself and for Itself." Bhakti is for bhakti and bhakti is by bhakti. No other outside thing can contribute to help anything about bhakti, it is quite independent and absolute. That is our understanding from our Gurudeva and from our śāstric knowledge. That it is absolute, none can give bhakti, nothing in the world, only bhakti can give bhakti. So any other foreign element can never produce or enhance our devotion. That must come, the cause of its development must come from within bhakti and not from outside. That is our understanding by them, and we are settled, established there firmly. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā:

sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulakāṁ tanum

"The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti-yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, and thus, even within this world, their spiritualised bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end."(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31)

One great sage asked Kṛṣṇa after the battle of Kurukṣetra: " Kṛṣṇa, I will curse You." "Why brāhmaṇa ?" "You have caused a great disaster. So many widows, orphans, are crying after Kurukṣetra battle and You are responsible for that. So I want to curse You." "Brāhmaṇa, you have gathered with great penance some power, but that will be finished by your cursing. I won't be affected. Why? I am in the nirguṇa area, I am beyond all this reality, good or bad, ahaitukī apratihatā. Where I take My stand that is causeless and that exists for its own purpose not for any other purpose. So you have with great penance you have collected some force (approval?) that will be finished. But I shall remain unaffected."

Ahaitukī apratihatā, the deepest plane of whole existence is of that character. It is automatic, and irresistible, and it is causeless. The wave going on constant and anyhow we are to come to the harmony of that, we are out of that so the clash. Local interest or provincial interest has made us separate from that wave who is original and irresistible that wave going, that wave of love. And our local interest, or provincial, selfish interest has created all clashes. We are to give up that and anyhow to dance in the same tune with that original plane that is of devotional love. That is what is necessary. No other thing can give any help to bhakti but bhakti can give bhakti, nothing else.

(Śrīla Viśvanātha) Cakravartī Ṭhākura in his commentary he has written there: ahaitukī and apratihatā, ahaitukī means causeless, she's her own cause. And apratihatā means nothing can oppose her. Irresistible wave is going and we are to identify, go back, back to Godhead means to catch that wave. And giving up all other local and selfish interest wave, all giver, and that is within us, really the soul can come in touch with that and the body and the mind they can never come to any understanding in that plane. It will vanish and the soul can only dance in that plane, participate in the dancing wave of that plane. This is bhakti proper we have understood. And it is not possible to budge an inch from that position standard of thinking. No other thing can enhance any bhakti but bhakti. Only bhakti can give bhakti, enhance bhakti. Everything, that must come from bhakti, and bhakta means bhakti, and no other thing in the world can give bhakti. Good karma, or power, or anything else of the kind. Only bhakti can give bhakti, nothing else can give it. He can give Himself.

Whomever Kṛṣṇa will accept can understand Him - others cannot.
(Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23)

Whomever He will come to accept, he will get it, and not otherwise. He can give Himself and no other thing can give Himself. Scholarship, extensive study, and so many things are mentioned, but nothing can give bhakti, only Kṛṣṇa can give Kṛṣṇa and no one else in the world. And His devotee means His potency, he's delegated, so there means Kṛṣṇa. But no non Kṛṣṇa things can give Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee:Kṛṣṇa is Mahāprabhu Himself, His weapon in this age of Kali. You have Kṛṣṇa, you have love of Kṛṣṇa, but what about the millions of people in the age of Kali who have no Kṛṣṇa and don't care for Kṛṣṇa? They don't care about Kṛṣṇa. The Hare Kṛṣṇa movement has failed, ISKCON has failed, Swāmī Prabhupāda, A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Prabhupāda's movement has failed miserably. So the Ācāryas will not give up ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is very rare things, failure does not mean on the surface if there is not seen much, that is not failure. Ha, ha, ha. Real failure is to come out from the quality and not the quantity. It is already mentioned in the scripture the quantity will be very small. Denotation increases connotation decreases, connotation increases denotation decreases. So highly developed persons their number will be very, very few, few and far between.

manuṣyāṇāṁ sahasreṣu, kaścid yatati siddhaye yatatām api siddhānām, kaścin māṁ vetti tattvataḥ

"Out of countless souls, some may have reached the human form of life, and among many thousands of human beings, some endeavour to attain direct perception of the individual soul and the Supersoul; and among many thousands of such aspirants who have attained to seeing the soul and the Supersoul, only a few receive actual perception of Me, Śyāmasundara." (Bhagavad-gītā, 7.3)

And in Bhāgavatam:

muktānām api siddhānām nārāyaṇa-parāyaṇa sudurlabhaḥ praśāntātmā
koṭīṣv api mahā-mune

"O great sage, among many millions who are liberated and perfect in knowledge of liberation, one may be a devotee of Lord Nārāyaṇa, or Kṛṣṇa. Such devotees, who are fully peaceful, are extremely rare." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.14. 5)

bahūnām janmanām ante, jñānavān mām prapadyate vāsudevaḥ sarvam
iti, sa mahātmā sudurlabhaḥ

"After many, many births and deaths, one who is actually in knowledge surrenders unto Me, knowing Me to be the cause of all causes and all that is. Such a great soul is very rare." (Bhagavad-gītā, 7.19)

tapasvibhyo 'dhiko yogī, jñānibhyo 'pi mato 'dhikaḥ karmibhyaś cādhiko
yogī, tasmād yogī bhavāṛjuna yoginām api sarveṣāṃ, mad-gatenāntarātmanā śraddhāvān bhajate yo

mām, sa me yuktatamo mataḥ

"The yogī who is a worshipper of the Supersoul is superior to persons engrossed in severe austerities such as the cāndrāyaṇa, superior to the worshippers of Brahman, and superior to the fruitive workers. Know this certainly to be My conclusion. Therefore, O Arjuna, be a yogī."

"Among all types of yogīs, the most elevated of all is the devotee who has full faith in the authoritative pure devotional scriptures, and who adores Me with all their heart by hearing and singing My divine glories, rendering all services unto Me. Certainly this is My opinion." (Bhagavad-gītā, 6.46-7)

koṭi-jñāni-madhye haya eka-jana 'mukta' koti-mukta-madhye 'durlabha'
eka kṛṣṇa-bhakta

"Out of many millions of such wise men, one may actually become liberated, and out of many millions of such liberated persons, a pure devotee of Lord Kṛṣṇa is very difficult to find." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.148)

So connotation increase denotation decrease, and denotation higher increase then connotation must be left, decrease.

Mother, you take some Prasādam and then after we shall talk again. Now high time take some Prasādam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is religion? I'm not very careful to know. To create sukṛti, that unconsciously their energy anyhow should be utilised for the service and the underground work for those souls he gave his attention very carefully. All these things whatever he did for the highest good of the people and that the highest service of the Supreme Lord and Guru. In one word he tried his best to take the Goloka in this Bhuloka, the Goloka to take the Bhuloka into Goloka.

Transformation, transformation, wholesale transformation. The struggling consciousness we have got within us, everyone of us, that struggling is to be converted into transformation of the centred calculative object, not any provincial, individual, or national, or provincial, or any sort of higher local interest calculation. But the calculation from the standpoint of the whole, and what sort of whole infinite?

"Whatever infinite conception you may have Arjuna, that forms only one of My negligent parts. Your infinite is a negligent part in Me."

That sort of infinite, that sort of infinite is centred, all our movements, calculation, every step we must take: 'For Itself - Reality is for Himself.' Everything for Him. We must initiate our selves to that sort of knowledge. Everything belongs to Him. That central and that universal knowledge we shall be an agent and we shall be a unit to that sort of movement. For everything is for the highest centre, and what sort of centre? As I told that "My conception of infinite is His negligent part."

Such sort of habit only through faith it can be connected. Not by knowledge, not by senses, nothing of the kind, only faith can pass there. Just as electricity can go to sun or star not anything else here. So the faith can reach there and no other means can connect us with that sort of higher infinite. And we are told that is love divine, that is good, that is beauty, that is your home after all. This is the most encouraging word: Back to God, back to home.

svarūpeṇa vyavasthitiḥ

You are requested to go back to your home, everything is quite at home to you going to the friend's circle that you can conceive what sort of friendly life. This most courageously he came to preach instead of what is going in the name of religion you all know. But he had to establish a particular program cancelling, opposing, and discarding all other waves that are coming to devour us every moment with difficulty.

So this day is the day when our Guru Mahārāja Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, whose attempt, whose life was such, he appeared. So it is a blessed day for the world and we have come together to show our honour and respect to him and to the day also which gave him to this world.

As we find in Rāmānanda Rāya: "The moment when suddenly a flash came about the Supreme Lord, I wanted to give a little condensed attention towards and it disappeared, disappeared. But is such occasion comes again then what should I do? I shall honour the time, the time which gave Him to me, I shall try to satisfy my best the time so that if time being satisfied with me, he takes some fixed position, then he will be there in the background. But neglecting the time I wanted to approach direct what the time expressed and I missed, the time passed, that finished, disappeared. But it is a kind of sentiment. But now if such a time comes anyhow in my fortune then I shall try to worship to satisfy the time so that the time may be, may stand for some time, then on the background my object of heart will be there in the present."

So his day in which he came to this world we want to worship and show our reverence to that day, that the time may again give that free jewel to us so that we may be highly benefited. Our fulfilment will be assured, we will be satisfied, wholesale satisfaction we can get there.

Wholesale, full fledged theism, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says, after giving all the scriptures Vyāsadeva says under the dictation of Devarṣi Nārada: "Full fledged theism I am giving. So far what I have given in the name of religion, all partial standpoint. Because no such person to purchase with price. None I found to give proper price so I shall have to make the standard down. But here in the last time I am giving the truth as it is. And those persons that are nirmatsara, that can tolerate that is I say them to be servants they won't feel any disturbance. The so ham class, that I must be a holder of the highest position, that section eliminated here. And those that have got more tolerating spirit to hear what is truth naked, they have got that courage, that perseverance, that toleration, that higher truth is so high and they're so low, their heart may not fail them, they may not die of heart failure. Such courageous nirmatsara where jealousy is eliminated fully, such audience I want to deliver the truth of Bhāgavatam that Kṛṣṇa is everything. You are nowhere, you are His eternal slave."

bhedābheda-prakāśa'

"The constitutional nature of the jīva soul is that of an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa; the jīva soul is a manifestation of divinity which is one with Kṛṣṇa and different from Him. The jīva souls are the marginal potency of the Lord."

Everything belongs to Him, you belong, you are a property to Him. Can you tolerate to hear? You may not be present in the civilised world, you have no position, a position of a slave. Gaudīya Maṭh preaches slave mentality to the world. But they're dealing with which? Slave to whom? Slave to the Absolute Good, Divine Love. Your heart, you may not die of heart failure. Toleration to hear, bold to hear what is truth. Your position you know every moment changing, changing, and every moment you are prey to death, mortality, every second you are dying. Everything here is always dying in spite of their trying to maintain their existence. All failure. This is your position and you are puffed with energy: "I am the ultimate reality."

This false hoax. You are being cheated. But Vyāsadeva says that uncheating things I am delivering here, that the Truth is all in all, and you are only a slave and this slavery is a very highly valued jewel. You try to understand. Slavery to whom? Slavery not to a neighbour, a jungle king. Slavery to whom? All love, all beauty. Everything that comes from Him that is nectar. And you are His property, you are part of the potency, tatasthā potency, the external potency, higher potency. They're all guardians, suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati:

Kṛṣṇa says: "I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshipping object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshipping Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."(Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29)

You will only find peace in your mind when the dictator of the whole world, He's your friend. He's friendly to you, He's not a robber, He's not a cheater. He has ample, He's infinite, He has ample. Why will He come to rob you, to cheat you? Is He a bankrupt that He will come cheating to collect money, capital by cheating? Only He can give and you will be able to give if you come in His connection. He's so high, so noble, so great. Such a news the Vaiṣṇava, the Bhāgavata, and Mahāprabhu's school, they want to take to our door. Nityānanda Prabhu approached every ordinary person and rolled on his gate: "Accept what Gaurāṅga says. Accept Gaurāṅga your highest fulfilment is guaranteed." Appealed with folded palms and weeping and rolling on the gate in the dust. "Accept Gaurāṅga and you will have such brightest future which is unknown hitherto to the world.

transcendentally situated in the innermost chambers of your heart. Resplendent with the radiance of molten gold, He has appeared in this age of Kali by His causeless mercy to bestow what no incarnation ever offered before: the most sublime and radiant spiritual knowledge of the mellow taste of His service." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.4)

All these things. A pioneer in the present age, this mahātmā Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda. He appeared this day so this is the holiest to us.

With this I want to finish, retire. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Devotee:

deva-siddha-mukta-yukta-bhakta-vṛnda-vanditaṁ pāpa-tāpa-dāva-dāha-dagdha-duḥkha-khaṇḍitaṁ

First can you talk on that, speak on that?

deva-siddha-mukta-yukta-bhakta-vṛnda-vanditaṁ pāpa-tāpa-dāva-dāha-dagdha-duḥkha-khaṇḍitaṁ kṛṣṇa-nāma-sīdhu-dhāma-dhanya-dāna-sāgaraṁ prema-dhāma-devam eva naumi gaura-sundaram

"All glories, all glories, unto my golden Lord Gaurasundara the beautiful, the divine abode of pure love. Demigods, mystics, salvationists, yogīs and pure devotees of Lord Kṛṣṇa - all sing constantly His praise. He removes at once the miseries of all tortured souls who are scorched by the heat of their own sins and consequently are burning incessantly within the great forest fire of the material world. Blessed is the Lord who is a vast ocean of divine generosity, the abode of the sweet nectars that are the Holy Names of Kṛṣṇa."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is translated there in the book. Deva, the gods, the demigods. Siddha, siddha means the mystics who are masters of subtle powers, siddha. Mukta, they are liberated, salvationists. Yukta the yogī that wants Paramātmā or wants the darśana the touch or sight of Paramātmā, that is the inner voice of the Supersoul. Bhakta as a devotee who is praised and worshipped by all those sections. Vanditaṁ, admired and praised and praised by all these different sections of higher personalities, vanditaṁ.

Pāpa-tāpa-dāva-dāha-dagdha-duḥkha-khaṇḍitam, by whom all the troubles that come out of all those circumstances are quite finished. What are they? Pāpa, the sins, tāpa, the pain that is the outcome, product of our sins. Dāva-dāha, dāva means dāva na? that in the forest, the conflagration in the forest, automatically some fire breaks out in the forest and the whole forest is burned to ashes, that is Dāva-dāha. Pāpa, from the general sin the fire of suffering that comes from our, the sins of the past year, past ages, lives, and that is quenched, extinguished, that fire is extinguished by whom? Who can do away with all pains which comes like conflagration rising from different births of previous lives, they're all finished, extinguished.

And kṛṣṇa-nāma-sīdhu-dhāma-dhanya-dāna-sāgaraṁ, and who is the giver of the nectar of the Holy Divine Name of Kṛṣṇa? Suddha-dhāma, the Name which is the very abode of divine nectar. Dhanya-dāna, such a very notable gift, dhanya-dāna, which makes us very fortunate that sort of gift, who is the ocean of such gift, ocean of such gift. Dāna-sāgaraṁ, there the technical meaning of the word dāna-sāgaraṁ means a ceremony in which different types of gift are offered, including even elephants, various things are offered as gift in some occasion, that is known as dāna-sāgaraṁ. He is the ocean of various divine gifts, nāma-sīdhu-dhāma, His gift is the abode of the divine nectar, the very Name of the Lord Kṛṣṇa, (as if whose gift?).

Prema-dhāma-devam eva naumi gaura-sundaram, we praise in heaven in hymns, we offer our prayer to such God only Who is the abode of divine love. Prema-dhāma-devam eva naumi gaura-sundaram, Who is, we chant in praise of such God only adored who is Gaurasundara Whose gift is such. That is the meaning.

First inauguration that He has, He's in an established position hold up and commands respect of different sections of high personality. The second, the negative side of He is, He can extinguish the fire of all our troubles, the fire. And the third, the positive gift, that nectar which makes us very caught, everyone very fortunate that the Name Divine. And Who is the abode of such love and sympathy to others that Gaurasundara alone we shall bow down, none else.

I am forgetful of You so my tongue is influenced by ignorance, avidyā bilai, attacked by the disease of ignorance, the tongue. Kṛṣṇa-nāma-śuddha, but nectar in Name of You does not please me, does not produce any hankering, earnestness, no taste for me, it is not tasteful to me, the Divine Name. But the devotees they say only one tongue, one mouth is not sufficient, crores and millions of mouths are necessary to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa. There are such devotees and they deplore their own construction, blame Vivarta? Only one mouth he has given to him who is to take kṛṣṇa-nāma. Millions of mouths, lips, and tongue is necessary for him who will take kṛṣṇa-nāma. So much tasteful honey is there but we are devoid of that, why? Avidyā, ajñāna, misconception, we are not getting the proper conception or touch of the thing. It is so sweet but to us it does not feel so much sweetness there. That is covered with ignorance, the tasting sense is covered with clay, covered with clay so no direct touch with the honey so we can't taste. But those that have got their uncovered tongue they can feel the sweetness of the Name, Nāma, and the eye, the figure, the mind, the quality, and the līlā holds that also the heart and mind, so very sweet, so very loving, so very sweet. But our barren heart does not produce anything useful, thing of truth, of truth of the creeper of devotion which will connect with Kṛṣṇa, and connect me with Him. Bhakti-latā, will go to Kṛṣṇa and roll on His feet.

The gods, dibyanai ? pranai tahai dibyanai giri sa parames cit prakrti ? girisa ? means Śiva and parames cit ? means Brahmā. Brahmā, Śiva, and so many other gods coming in disguise of this human body are worshipping the earnestly charming figure of Śrī Gaurasundara. Beautiful appearance that is related anywhere and everywhere, they're all eye witness. Rūpa Goswāmī, Ragunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, Sanātana Goswāmī, so many writers, they're all eye witness to His beautiful figure. Very charming stalwart and eyes are very lotus like, and charming complexion, tall figure, and every limb has got the charming presentation. They've all described Him, the exceptionally beautiful figure, Mahāprabhu.

So many gods came here and in human form, come to worship Him in the form of devotee.

sado bhasya te mam yetamoni ya cari pranami tam ?

So many gods whose principle amongst them, Brahmā, Śiva, etc, the creator and the destroyer of this universe, including them all the demigods.

And who is showing to His own devotees His own Name, what is the real line of worshipping the Lord who He Himself is.

sabhaktay bhasya sudham nija bhajana mudra uprarisam nija bhajana mudra ?

The way in which He's worshipping that, and also His own worship how it will be managed, it will be done, in both meaning He is playing.

Rūpa Goswāmī says: "Should I be able to see that holy figure again, will that come gain, will that appear on my eye again what I saw previously?"

Would I be fortunate enough to have a view of that extraordinary wonderful figure, could I get once more, once more?" Rūpa Goswāmī, he saw first in Rāmakeli (one-time capital of Bengal). Second he saw in Allahabad (a.k.a Prayaga). Third he saw he came to Jagganātha (Purī), there he had, thrice he had direct experience of His beautiful darśana. In this poem he says: "Should I see Him again that beautiful figure whose just directing us how to worship our Lord of heart."

su esa nama durgam ?

Very, with great (difficulty?) the gods can approach Him with great troubles, it is not easy for then to approach Him, for the gods even, even the gods could approach Him with much difficulty.

Upaniṣad, the highest type of revealed scripture also anyhow showing Him (half hearted?) patishai naiva ? not very plain, if we can study very deeply then we can find Upaniṣad is giving hints that He is the most original, the Lord of love, He is the fulfilment of everything. Deep study can disclose only those things. patishai naiva ?

The munis, the speculationists, good normal speculationists, they will find everything what we want all is embodied here, it can satisfy all our hankerings.

mahinam sarvasyam prano pati nama madhuri nama ?

And those that surrender, submit to Him, they find Him sweetest of the sweet, madhuri nama.

And who is seen by the fortunate, who is the very substance, the gist of the divine love of the gopīs in Vṛndāvana, as if the divine love of the gopīs is personified with Him.

The heart, the object of the thirst of their heart as if personified, such said Caitanya Deva, "Will She come once more before My sight, My eyes, will She come, will He come."

svarupam divyano jagata tulam advaita dvaita ?

She showed His figure at about everything that has been showed up till now, jagata tulam. Which can never be compared with anything in this world. In such a way he has showed His beautiful sweet figure. And at the same time another meaning, svarūpam, Svarūpa Dāmodara, He showed that Svarūpa Dāmodara he's the possessor of the unparalleled wealth capital in Him. Svarupam divyano jagata tulam, he's incomparable in the whole of the world. Who? Svarūpa Dāmodara. Because he's in possession of the highest capital of the Divine Love of His highest order.

Jagata tulam advaita dvaita, and he showed himself that he's very devoted to Advaita Kṛṣṇa, or the Advaita Ācārya Prabhu, he's very favourite to Him, by His request He had to come here, as if.

prapanna srivasa, He showed Himself as surrendered in the holy feet of Śrī Rasa Lakṣmīpati Nārāyaṇa. And at the same time the devotee Śrīvāsa who was always surrendered under His feet.

prapanna srivasa janito paramananda renu ?

One meaning that due to ecstatic divine sentiment in him he is seen by the public as a proud figure very much. Nothing uncomparable difference he has got in his figure from the whole other beautiful things. The pride of beauty as if very clear in his figure, Paramānanda. And another, Paramānanda was a sannyāsī, Paramānanda the disciple of Mādhavendra Purī, he was a staunch supporter of Śrī Caitanyadeva and for that he felt himself proud. "That my guru's brother," Godbrother of his Gurudeva Īśvara Purī, he was a staunch supporter and follower of Śrī Caitanyadeva. For that he felt much pride, "That my guru appreciates me, my guru's Godbrother he appreciates me." This sort of high feeling was in him.

And He, the Lord Hari, He's vinodhari ? Vinoda who is the friend and deliverer of all the fallen souls, the deliverer of the fallen, of the poorest of the poor, that Hari He is. And here also the suppressed meaning, vinodhari ? "We are very poorest of the poor." Rūpa Goswāmī says and this fellow is also delivered, vinodhari, because He's deliverer and friend of the poor, so this humble person has got a position in His holy feet.

Nārāyaṇa, the Kṛṣṇa, He delivered the elephant Gajarāja. Gajarāja in his past birth he was a king in the Pāṇḍava country. For some fault, he committed some offence against some devotee so he became an elephant. He showed some gesture of an elephant towards a devotee without caring for him so he had to become an elephant in the next life. And when that elephant went to take bath in a lake there was a big crocodile and that attacked him and there was a long fight and ultimately the elephant he was very much troubled, tired, and prayed for the help divine. And Kṛṣṇa went and destroyed that crocodile and saved that elephant. That reference is here gajapati kṛpā seka tavata ? Whose heart is melted by the prayer of that elephant devotee, and who went to deliver him from his danger. And the other side the Gajapati, Pratāprudra the King of Orissa, Whose heart melted with kindness for the king, Gajapati. And he was taken in within his home.

Will it be possible that I shall again have the chance of having the darśana of that Caitanyadeva whom I saw in this way previously? Will He come, will He appear in the jurisdiction of my fleshy eye again?

Whose appearance is like kama budha madhura dhama ujjatano ?

If it is possible that the god Cupid, millions of Cupids, Cupid who is supposed to be the most beautiful god, and when that is in the fullest stage of its excitement, full grown Cupid and millions in number, if we can imagine, such appearance we find in Him when He's surcharged with the divine love and taking the Name of the Lord.

Looking at His beautiful figure he thinks that millions of the beautiful Cupids they're combined into one in its most proud position in its highest grade, His figure seems like that.

That beautiful figure and in the garb of a sannyāsī, red robbed.

And dress is also seen modified by the lustre of His body, just like the lustre of the sun's rays. The dress has also merged the grace of His lustrous body, in this way we find Him.

The golden colour, all the high quality gold they have got their lustre and beauty and that has been subdued, such a colour, by His colour. Such a colour we find because this is good gold not this temporary bad gold but good gold of the highest type and that ray, that has been subdued by His ray.

Defeating the lustre of so many gold of different high types of gold, that has been defeated by His lustre.

Such was the ray of His body.

Should I be fortunate enough to have a look of that figure once more?

When He's chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa at the top of His voice, nama gana nama, and at the same time He's counting the beads.

And around His waist there are the (scriptures?) and the counting beads perhaps and He is counting and there His hands were seen to play with that very big lotus eyes and the hands seem to be like by which we close the door

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And everything automatically done, none knows how.

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati yasmin prāpte sarvam
idam prāptam bhavati

"By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained." (Upaniṣads)

"If you know one, everything is known. If you get one, everything is got."
This is the key to the highest life. So we try to have some understanding with the main consumer of everything automatically done you will get a peaceful life.

bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasāṁ, sarva-loka-maheśvaram suhṛdaṁ sarvabhūtānāṁ, jñātvā mām śāntim ṛcchati

"I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshipping object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshipping Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."

(Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29)

"I am all in all. Only have understanding with Me proper and then everything is done for you."

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca na tu mām
abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te

"-Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death."

"I am a friend and a guardian to you and I do everything." Everything is done from this centre and you can make some understanding proper with the centre you have got you may not have any worries in your life. It is not unreasonable. The greatest peace you can find only in this method, that that understanding with the highest controlling centre. And understanding reality comes surrender and faith, that He's good, Absolute Controller is Absolute Good. And He's Autocrat so no law, no science, nothing has to give anything, He's Autocrat. So you know to explore anyway, waste your energy anywhere, concentrate all your energy to make understanding with the Autocrat Controller. And He's loving, He's sweet absolute, He's not responsible for any other thing, He's all in all. And higher understanding we should surrender and He will take up your case, consider your case favourably. That is what is necessary in the whole of the universe this one law that will satisfy everything.

Devotee: So, Mahārāja, Parīkṣit, he wants to study international politics to serve Kṛṣṇa by that study of a new subject, politics, he wants to serve in that way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja ahaṁ tvām sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ

"Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair." (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66)

As much as you eliminate other obligations of the environment and collect the whole of your energy and lead towards the centre, that will be more beneficial, bring more prospect.

Devotee: One devotee has come from England also, Bhakta-rasa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You take care of him, newcomer amongst you. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So inform everything to Aksayananda Mahārāja about the latest developments there. Mādhava Mahārāja has secured a promise to clear up the debt of the loan of Ambrosia, one gentleman has undertaken to relieve him.

Devotee: The same day your letter came he also came and said that he can help. So I thought it's by Kṛṣṇa's arrangement he had come. I was also having a difficult time getting my visa to India, and when your letter came I thought, "Oh, you didn't want me to leave England, that's why I was having difficulty with visa. Until I solved this problem then I could get my visa." And other devotees they have also promised to help, Janaka and Saranga, they will also all help to collect money.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're unhappy because of leaving you there they have to come ahead.

Devotee: Also Dr Sharma he proposed that he wanted Aranya Mahārāja to buy the house for £40.000. He's ready to sell it to them by some instalments if they would like to purchase it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If possibly arranged. Dayādhara Prabhu is also expected to come. A little indifference and pressure from Hansadhūta Mahārāja. He was indifferent first, now a little pressure against him. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

One half-mad boy came here I'm told this morning I heard from Govinda Mahārāja. One half-mad boy came and told that one foreign lady was coming from ISKCON from this Maṭh and she was taken away by the hooligans. We do not like to believe this but anyhow we heard these things.

Devotee: We're not sure whether to believe him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is possible. But to draw our attention towards that matter, some conspiracy.

Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, I'm told that his portrait has been very nice, wonderful. When will they begin Samādhi Mandir we don't know but something is already come out from here. He had much affection and appreciation of mine from the beginning of Maṭh life. I sometimes chastised him but he did not care.

When I wrote to Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura), our Guru Mahārāja, I was in Delhi Maṭh in charge. "If you allow, I can take Vaivikānanda? Prabhu here."

He told: "If you can do so you will do the duty of a friend, work of his true friend, if you can take him there and engage him in the service."
sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ.

ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ

"Because the Name of Kṛṣṇa is identical with Kṛṣṇa Himself, and on the absolute spiritual platform, Kṛṣṇa's Name, Form, Qualities, and associates, cannot be appreciated by the material senses. However, when one engages the tongue in chanting the Holy Names of the Lord and tasting the remnants of the Lord's food, Kṛṣṇa gradually reveals Himself to the purified senses of that devotee."

(Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234)

This was the main point on the whole activity of our Gurudeva. Whatever, you take the Name, or whatever you do must be in a serving attitude of the surrendering basis. Our faith, should not be miser there, then the foundation will be otherwise. The foundation is the śraddhā, faith, that the real form service, dedication. All other forms will be productive only when it is done with the spirit of dedication. If you are a miser there then so many forms of bhajana, of serving attitude, won't do us any good because the miser mentality that is the test. With how much intensity you require you really require, want, the degree of your requirement will be judged by your surrender, your real want. Not by the fashion outside. Inner thing is wholesale. You all belong to Him completely and we shall go to make trade with Kṛṣṇa "that I shall do so much He must give so much."

It is not possible there. Wholesale we belong to Him, He has got every right try to realise your position, give recognition to that, what you are must have that recognition. In the beginning I'm hearing Bhāgavatam and who will get the benefit? I'm studying a book, whatever I'm doing, He'll get the benefit. He's my owner, I'm His property, property belongs to Him. That consciousness must be there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I have got within me the real self that is immortal and that has got a plane within. He's a child of a particular soil, a plane that is immortal and remember I'm immortal. But proper knowledge, proper estimation. The Bhāgavatam says:

tvam tu rājan mariṣyeti, paśu-buddhim imām jahi na jātaḥ prāg abhūto

'dya, deha-vat tvaṁ na naṅkṣyasi

"O King, give up the animalistic mentality of thinking: "I am going to die."
Unlike the body, you have not taken birth. There was not a time in the past when you did not exist, and you are not about to be destroyed."
(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.5.2)

At the conclusion of Bhāgavata, Śukadeva is giving impression to Parīkṣit Mahārāja: tvaṁ tu rājan mariṣyeti, paśu-buddhim imāṁ jahi - That you will die, this animal consciousness you kill, you kill this animal consciousness that you will have to die. That is this body will die and you don't die, you never die. And that aspect of yourself must be brought out from this cage of flesh and bone. You don't die, so no fear of mortality in yourself. But your attention is focussed towards the mortal elements and so you think "I am dying" and everything which is dying and your concentration only with that environment. So solve yourself, you are to face this one day or other otherwise you will continue to be mortal, the play of birth and death.

uddhared ātmanātmānaṁ, nātmānam avasādayet ātmaiva hy ātmano
bandhur, ātmaiva ripur ātmanaḥ

"The living being must be delivered from the dark well of material life by means of the mind detached from sense objects, and he must never in any way be flung down into the material world by the mind enchanted by sense objects - because the mind is sometimes his friend, and in another situation the very same mind is rather the enemy."

(Bhagavad-gītā, 6.5)

We're our friends, we're our foe. If we help me to get out of this entanglement then I am my friend. Otherwise if I indulge in going through the mortality I am my foe.

bandhur ātmātmanas tasya, yenaivātmātmanā jitaḥ anātmanas tu
śatrutve, vartetātmaiva śatruvat

"For the soul who has conquered his mind, his mind is his friend and well-wisher. For a person unable to control it, his own mind remains constantly engaged in his disservice, like an enemy." (Bhagavad-gītā, 6.6)

One who has got self control, control over the senses, and guide according to the scriptures, he's his friend. And those who play like a doll at the hands of the senses, kāma, krodha, lobha - lust, anger, greed, etc., at their hand play like a doll, he's his own enemy. So Parīkṣit Babu, he has come up to this mark of consciousness.

It is very valuable time for you, now whether you will begin to have a wholesale solution of all the lives together in the future, or having this human birth, coming to the goal like a footballer, or coming to the gate to get out of the prison, again you will enter into the prison, that is to be decided. So think very, very seriously whether you are going to help you in what way, and this ordinary stereotype way or a novel way, you will try to help yourself. Revolutionary or this mundane ordinary stereotype method, so many going on, the progress has got no value. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Try to help yourself, you have got the chance in human birth, it is most valuable. It is not sure that once we have come to human birth it will continue, very valuable. It can serve the highest purpose but it is flickering, it may vanish next moment.

In Bhāgavata, Bharata Mahārāja, he went up to such a stage that when young he left his whole kingdom, whole empire, just like one passes his stools. Passing like stool, so hatefully he left his empire and went to the Ṛṣis for tapasya. But last moment slight deviation. He was nurturing the calf of a deer and when the time of his death came he was engrossed in the thought of that infant deer, that the jackals and other tigers may devour him, just the very moment his life passed away and got a figure of that deer.

kaunteya, sadā tad-bhāva-bhāvitaḥ

"O son of Kuntī, at the time of leaving the body, whatever object a person meditates upon will be attained by him, due to his constant contemplation on the object."

(Bhagavad-gītā, 8.6)

Whatever idea will capture in the last moments of our departure from this body, that idea will take me to a particular factory and give material body. So Bharata Mahārāja who could leave his empire just like stool, he had some attraction for the infant deer and he had to get the birth of a deer.

Such are the subtle laws of the nature, so we must be very careful about our own future. All that glitters is not gold. Things that seem to be good may not really be that. What is the proverb? As it seems to be, as it appears, things may not be so as it appears. So sādhu sadvan ? Think seriously what to do. We've got a most valuable chance in human body. When by the help of the scriptures and the saints, living scriptures, we can work out our salvation from this bondage of mortality, should we use that that way or in a stereotype way?

Money, go on as a slave of the senses, at present we are slaves of our senses. The tongue, the nose, the ear, sweet sound, sweet taste, sweet sight, they attract us and we gather some money and purchase these pleasing sense experience and deceive ourselves and distribute to others. We distribute this sense pleasure to others then we are religious men? What is this? To be religious that I distribute sense pleasure to others. I am selfish when I use for myself and when I distribute them for others, this sense pleasure, then I am a good man and very kind and very benevolent? But the transaction of sense pleasure is all mortal. The wholesale should be dismissed. We are to find out what am I? Where am I? The senses or the mind, or the faculty of judgement, the reason, or transcendental, something more, but where am I located?

buddhir, buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ

"The learned proclaim that the senses are superior to inert objects, the mind is superior to the senses, and the faculty of resolute intelligence is superior to the mind. And he who is superior to the intelligence is the soul himself." (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.42)

I am that element which is above reason. Our senses are very important, if all our senses wanting then no want to us. If no eye no figure appearance, no ear no music, no tongue no taste, so no senses no world experience. But the mind, sometimes we say: "He passed by our front? No, no, I have not seen, I did not see, I was unmindful, inattentive, I could not see." So mind is the recipient through the senses, and then there is the faculty of judgement, and reason more important. Mind says: "I want this thing." Reason says: "No, don't go there, rather take this, it will be helpful to you." This is more finer and more fine and more valuable within us. Then above reason, the judgement, there is ātmā, the soul. What is its characteristic? It's like a spark, it gives light, then the judgement is possible - "this is black this is white, this is good this is bad." The light must be there, ātmā is like that. Then buddhi will select and the mind will say: "I want this I don't want that." And then our senses will come to experience, to perceive good or bad. But we are that ātmā, that spark of knowledge, and it has got its own soil. The plane of that light a part of which is our ātmā, our soul, the soul's plane.

"The earth, water, fire, air and ether of Vaikuṇṭha are all spiritual. Material elements are not found there." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.53)

The earth, water, air, ether, everything is conscious in Vaikuṇṭha. Subjective plane there is also earth, water, air, all these things, and this is perverted reflection here. These things are to be discussed and thought out and accepted, realised. It is cash transaction, not any loan. You can feel it, you can make experiment what I say. I have made experiment when I was a college student. I found out where is my ātmā, eliminating the scope of the senses, the mind, the intelligence, crossing them tried to find out what is my soul. What characteristic? How it is? If we can do that as recommended in Bhagavad-gītā, if you really want to check your senses then this method will help you most.

"O mighty Arjuna! Knowing the soul to be thus perfectly distinct from the intelligence, steady the mind with resolute intelligence and destroy the indomitable enemy, lust." (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.43)

This attraction for mundane things, this kāma, this lust, if you want to check it successfully, conquer it, then adopt this process. You first try to understand what is the world, then next your sense through which you receive them. Next stage you take your affinity towards these pleasures, mind, saṅkalpa vikalpa - "I want this I want that. I don't want this." This element within you that is your mind. Then there is reason also within you who can say: "No, this is good this is bad, don't take it take this." That faculty also with you. Then above that there is soul proper. In Bhāgavatam there is an illustration in the moonlit night the cloud has covered the moon, the Bhāgavatam says:

bhāsitayā, svabhāsā puruṣo jyathā

(In this example the soul is likened to the moon and the ahaṅkāra is likened to cloud cover. The sense-consciousness, the mind and the intelligence have all combined to form a system, ahaṅkāra, which has covered the soul. But they are seen, and it is possible for them to act, only because there is light - the light of the soul, the moon. So by the help of our reason we must try to perceive what is above reason, and we shall come to see that it is the ātmā, the soul. In this way we may have some direct connection with the ātmā, or at least some conception, however vague, of its existence and nature.)

End of side A, 25-3-83, start of side B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Inconceivably greater, higher, this is what we are, our proper position and our prospect is very, very great, as given by vidyato avadhuta tatani prkriti susrustas vigravan ?

By the process of surrender we can get favour of the Highest Entity, by devotion. That is a process given by the devotional school. The Absolute may be a very close friend to you, śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā:

kleśa-ghnī śubhadā mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt sudurllabhā sāndrānanda-viśeṣātmā, śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā

"Uttamā-bhakti, the purest devotion, is the vanquisher of all sin and ignorance, and the bestower of all auspiciousness; liberation is belittled in the presence of such devotion, which is very rarely attained, the embodiment of the deepest ecstasy, and the attractor of Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrvva, 1.17)

The higher devotion is such that the Absolute, just as a great General after the victory of a great war he has come he has come home. And his child is catching by his finger, drawing him, attracting him towards a room and the General is going. The General is defeated by the child's attraction, of his son. He has got big force and strength, but the child is drawing and the great General is following the child. He's defeated by his affection, so affection is so forceful.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Came to distribute Their Own wealth to the public, that sort of. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa combined giving Their most secret wealth to the public. Coming in that form, anyhow. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Parīkṣit how, when Aśvatthāmā threw his brahmāstra, particular weapon, apāṇḍavam idaṁ kartuṁ (S-B, 1.8.11) "The name of the Pāṇḍavas should be faded from this world." With this idea, this aim, he threw his particular weapon, brahmāstra.

Then it entered the womb of Uttarā and was just going to kill the child within the womb. Suddenly, Uttarā began to wail: "Oh, too much pain in my womb, fainted."

Kṛṣṇa could understand that this is the weapon of Aśvatthāmā. He entered into the womb and He touched the child within the womb. Viṣṇu-rāta is one of the names of Parīkṣit, (meaning) saved by Viṣṇu in the womb. (S-B, 1.12.17). Then the pain went away and in time Uttarā gave birth to Parīkṣit, the child of Abhimanyu, grandson of Arjuna, King Parīkṣit. When that child was born, when Kṛṣṇa touched the child in the womb, he could see Him, so when that child was born he was searching: "Oh, where is that man, that figure whom I saw in the womb?" parīkṣeta, testing. Whomever he found: "Is he that man who was seen in the womb?" In this way, he used to examine every case: "Is he that man whom I saw from the womb?" So Parīkṣit, this nāma, this name came from that act. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Fulfilment of life, that is the universal and that is the most fundamental question of everyone of us. Ostentatiously how to save us from the jaws of death, from destruction, how to save? Apparently money may help us, to save us, this body, but this is not mine. Who am I? What is my real need? That dire necessity, the most important and urgent. Without that everything is valueless, all movement valueless. When Śukadeva Goswāmī inaugurating his spirit of Bhāgavatam just in the beginning, such ground has been shown to us. We are all busy but very busy about nothing. We must be busy only for our real, to satisfy our real need, that is what is required of us. Work, but work intelligently.

That Hitler divided his workers into four sections; clever and industrious, clever and lazy; stupid and industrious, stupid and lazy, four classifications. He told that generally my workers I take from clever and industrious. And it's peculiar to hear that he selected his leaders from the clever and lazy class. That the time of need they will be ready to work and they will save energy, and when necessary they will be able to give more energy, so leaders from clever and lazy. And ordinary workers clever and industrious. And the next, stupid and lazy, if possible they may work. But stupid and industrious he avoided very flatly.

So most of us are stupid and industrious. What way to labour we do not know but we are very proud of working. Stupid and industrious, the karmis, the karmi section generally stupid and industrious. Stupid and lazy, this renunciationist, Buddhist, Śaṅkara, wants samādhi or zero, the renunciationist stupid and lazy. And clever and industrious is the devotee section, they work in a proper line not misuse the work, clever and industrious. And clever and lazy is Kṛṣṇa, He only enjoys but does not working.

So we should be afraid to be grouped in the stupid and industrious always making progress in the wrong direction. We have to come back to the place again that anomaly, movement is there but not to stay there, that will go against my own interest, we must be saved from that, that my energy is working against my interest.

karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara

"Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death.

Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa-bhakti)." (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9)

Do some sacrifice otherwise that karma will tie you down with reaction. Every karma has equal and opposite reaction but do for yajña. Who is yajña ? "Do for Me always do but do for Me otherwise all other doings will bind you down with reaction, unavoidable." Laziness is not recommended, to become lazy that is tama-guṇa the worst position. Working, energising is better than that but that must be regulated and regulated it must be performed for yajña, sacrifice. For whom? "All sacrifice is made to Me." Everything is for itself, Reality is by Itself and for Itself.

"I am the Lord and I alone am the only enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices, of every action and all movements in this world. Everything belongs to Me, unconditionally, and you must be fully conscious of this fact. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death." (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24)

Work for yajña which means sacrifice, sacrifice for whom? Not for any local interest, extended selfishness, work for the country, for the society, all extended selfishness, all local and provincial. Do for the Absolute, you are saved there, you are relieved from any prejudices, for universal cause. "And universe is in My one part, I am so and so."

"But Arjuna, what is the need of your understanding this elaborate knowledge of My almighty grandeur? By My fractional expansion as the Supreme Soul of material nature, Mahā-Viṣṇu (Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī Viṣṇu), I remain supporting this entire universe of moving and stationary beings." (Bhagavad-gītā, 10.42)

"The infinite of your conception forms My one part, I am, so do for Me."

"Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair." (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66)

Bāl Gaṅgādhara Tilak, he has mentioned here: "In this last śloka of Bhagavad-gītā the Lord has given, has distributed nectar in a golden plate." In a golden plate He has served nectar. "Wherever you are does not matter, turn towards Me. Surrender, I shall embrace, I shall accept you. Does not matter in whatever position of your life you are at present, does not matter, but keep towards Me and I am ready to embrace you."

With this assurance is most hopeful for our, most encouraging and hopeful. Does not matter, from time immemorial we are moving and changing our position from here, there, infinite position. But the last call of Bhagavad-gītā says: "Does not matter where you are at present, whatever will be your acquired position only towards the centre come, look forward for Me I am shelter by direct connection with Me."

You can have and you won't have, with this assurance in Bhagavad-gītā the last grand call of the Lord there. So we need not waste our time and energy for any other but to attend that call. How to understand that call? What is that call? "Come to Me, surrender to Me, I shall be your guardian, accept Me as your guardian and everything will be done from My side for your best benefit. How much welfare you know about yourself? What do you know about you? You do not know fully about you but I know everything so depend on Me, you'll be benefited beyond expectation."

Human birth is a great chance, very happy chance. It should not be utilised in discharging the duties of so many animals to cleverly gather the fodder of sense gratification, āhāra, nidrā, bhaya, maithuna - (to eat, to sleep, to be under apprehension at every minute, and to have sense pleasure; the practices of animal life).

these are our aims ultimately, it should not be wasted. This valuable time of human birth should not be wasted only to collect the food, the sleep, the slumber, āhāra, nidrā, then for apprehension of future uncertainty, bhaya, maithuna, and sense satisfaction. It is present anywhere and everywhere in life so you should not waste your time only for the acquisition of the sense pleasure. But give yourself wholesale to analyse you, your necessity, your prospect, and your fulfilment. That will be a clever step, most clever step of life will be there. Self analysis and self fulfilment. Diagnosis and treatment, first diagnosis and then treatment. So many diagnosis have been recommended there is a jungle, the Carvaka, the Buddhists, the Śāṅkarites, so many classes, the Jains. And Vyāsadeva in his last book, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, he has given a comparison of so many past things and something is given in the end.

dharmah projjhita-kaitavo 'tra paramo nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ vedyaṁ vāstavam atra vastu śivadaṁ tāpa-trayonmūlanam śrīmad-bhāgavate mahā-muni-kṛte kiṁ vā parair īśvaraḥ sadyo hṛdy avarudhyate 'tra kṛtibhiḥ śuśrūṣubhis tat-kṣaṇāt

"Completely rejecting all religious activities which are materially motivated, this Bhāgavata-Purāṇa propounds the highest truth, which is understandable by those devotees who are fully pure in heart. The highest truth is reality distinguished from illusion for the welfare of all. Such truth uproots the threefold miseries. This beautiful Bhāgavatam, compiled by the great sage Vyāsadeva (in his maturity), is sufficient in itself for God realisation. What is the need of any other scripture? As soon as one attentively and submissively hears the message of Bhāgavatam, by this culture of knowledge the Supreme Lord is established within his heart." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2)

Hitherto liberation, liberation, liberation, from undesirable condition, that is the end of our life. In this way a great hue and cry was shown so long but that is all negative. The positive attainment is there so engagement with the perfect good, absolute good. Participation in His līlā, in His service, the positive characteristic of life. Not withdrawal from the negative side, that is be all and end all, but participation into the positive life. And what is the conception of that positive life? There is also gradation. He has given all these things to consider.

No time, we can't believe our longevity. How long I shall live in this form I don't know, any moment. The lord of death has caught me by my hair tuft, and any moment he may take me. With this sort of mentality you will begin your work, "any moment I may be withdrawn from this plane." I may have attained, hopeless, the chance will be taken away. Again when I will get such chance it is uncertain because the impulse as the effect of my previous karma waiting there to get their satisfaction, with their demand. So where they will take us we don't know, but now I have got this chance. And whatever be the time extended before me to every per cent I shall try to use for that universal demand, not any provincial, local, or selfish demand. We are living in an organic whole. My interest cannot be considered partial, independent part, never, the organic connection of the outside is there.

So mukti, samādhī, that cannot be a conclusion. "I have no independence of my environment, I can live like a zero." But that is also temporary, the availability may be a little more, but still it cannot be but temporary, sleep, temporary sleep, samādhī, because the environment is there watching and it will arouse me. So mukti is not also permanent, that sāyujya mukti.

Enter into the positive direction, bhakti, service, as we say, "virtue is its own reward," so service is its own reward. We are to understand that. By exploitation we die by service we live. We are to understand this principle of life. By service we live and by exploitation we die. We become fodder of reaction by exploitation. Service, and service to the Autocrat and the Autocrat is beauty, is sweetness. In a nutshell this is the thing to understand. We cannot demand any law and rules.

"Bhakti (pure devotion) is engaging all the senses in service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa who is the Master of the senses. In such service, one is totally free from all relative conceptions of material self interest (upādhis), with senses purely engaged in the service of Kṛṣṇa." (Nārada Pañcarātra)

Sarvopādhi, lakomadipādhi ? prejudice, vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam, the only criterion that is meant for His satisfaction, that is the criterion and nothing else. Everything can be maintained but only with this standpoint that it is to satisfy the prime centre. Nothing to be rejected, everything may be maintained, whatever type it may be, but its standard will be with each deed, each word, and its aims at the highest centre, then it is all right.

Those that we apparently kill, but he's not killed, he's saved. tat paratvena nirmalam, sarvopādhi vinirmuktaṁ. Upādhi means what is thrust on it, not within it but thrust from outside, upādhi, sarvopādhi, upādhi means like dress.

By all our senses to serve Him, that is the highest type of devotion. Nothing to renounce, nothing to reject, engage everything at your command for the service of the central truth. Religion is adjustment, our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) used to say this expression often. "Religion is proper adjustment." Improperly adjusted or no adjustment, the stop of adjustment, stand still, they're both artificial. Religion is adjustment, organic whole, smooth working organic whole, every part must contribute for the smooth working of the organic whole.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

He's dancing with his own Name, Gaurāṅga taking His own Name in a different way and dancing. A śloka in Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta. He's the fullest form of rasa, that is shown by His dancing. Mahāprabhu is advaya, undivided whole, absolute rasa, ecstasy, absolute ecstasy. He's full in Himself and that is shown by His dancing, natasya nitya, nityam. A madman also dancing, but dancing is līlā, tasting His own sweetness and dancing, the perfect. And kīrtana means distribution of the same ecstasy, so nitya, self sufficiency indicated by dancing and kīrtana to distribute the same towards the environment. This we find in Śrī Gaurāṅga.

Kṛṣṇa attracting His own group and Kṛṣṇa-Rādhā combined distributing Themselves outside. The two types of absolute conception in the highest quarter, Goloka. Mādhurya, audārya, side by side, sweetness within a particular circle (mādhurya), and sweetness when distributing the same quality sweetness is of self distributing nature (audārya). Quality is the same but two types. One tasting within the circle, another to throw it outside the circle, propaganda, enlist more to join, invite more. Two compartments in Goloka, that has been given the idea.

I asked (Śrīla A.C Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja to build a temple there Br̥hat- Bhāgavatāmṛta scale, how the adjustment, this karma, jñāna, vidhi-bhakti, raga-bhakti, and the two phases of raga-bhakti. All these should be shown in the temple in a spiral development.

Mental strain is more, to compensate the defect in the eye, the memory is being taxed, is it not?

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has given explanation of the self fighting in Yadukula, in Yadu, amongst the Yadus. He wrote that this is an example. In an organic whole generally we find if one part is defective then another part comes out to help it, this is the normal position. One eye is defective another eye works more to compensate this defect. But when the last day comes just the opposite. When the dissolution final is approaching then one part wants to live at the cost of another part, his neighbour. So Yadukula they're fighting amongst themselves, just showing, setting this example of the mundane world that at the time of withdrawal such things happen. Who were friends with close connection they began to live at the cost of another, by killing another, wants to establish. To show this example, ideal of this world, it was done in that way. In Śrī Kṛṣṇa Saṁhitā he has written in that way, that it was a show of the picture of this world when one's going to die he tries to live at the cost of his very nearest and dearest.

But there are exceptions, in the case of Sidney, "Thy necessity is greater than mine, you come." He was dying for water but still he gave that last glass of water to an ordinary soldier. "Thy necessity is greater than mine." Mental balance was not lost, but generally things are such.

In B.A class I wrote I read one book Landers Imaginary Conversation. There one article I found two philosophers in England in a garden in summer time. Two philosophers are talking together, engaged in some private discourse on philosophical topics. One was Sidney and the other gentleman I forget his name. One thing that can be appreciated even now, in the course of their talk they mentioned comparing different types of examples of life, different ideals of life. Then when they came to this public works one put the question: "How do you think about the fate of the, about the nature of the public workers?"

Then the other philosopher he replied: "I consider them like hotel boy, hostel boy. When someone wants a particular dish the boy is only supplying that, whether that dish is good or bad he's not concerned with that. According to demand he's supplying that, not responsible whether it is poison, or it is healthy, he does not care. Taking from one. Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: and calculative service, love, infinite sacrifice, infinite sacrifice. For whom? For whom? Who is meant, who is in a constitutional position to be the receiver of all of the whole. That peculiar position, that Absolute Centre, that Absolute Centre who can consume them and digest, who can receive the produce of all and can digest them, and can distribute them in some form or other.

Like the stomach receives the food and distributes properly. Stomach knows how to distribute and what sort of food where. So put food into the stomach, not into the liver or to the lungs.

All the religious experts here they're all one in opinion that all the results should be given to Kṛṣṇa, the all attractor. All attractor Kṛṣṇa means attractor, the all attractor. Who can attract? Who has got some supernatural power for attraction, He can attract. Kṛṣ - ṇa, two functions to draw and to distribute and the distribution makes everyone happy. Just as the stomach draws the food and distributes it in the form of blood or something. So Kṛṣ - ṇa, to attract everything that is not a small matter to attract everything. And then Kṛṣ - and then ṇa, na means that vidhi vacaca ?

When religious receives and when religious everyone feels satisfaction by that type of product. Kṛṣ - ṇa. And He is accepted as the all consuming principle underlying. Kṛṣ - ṇa. Good or bad does not matter. Kṛṣ - ṇa.

Sun attracts water of different type and then it also supplies in the way of the gas, the cloud, pure water which is desirable for us. He attracts water of different types but when he gives back it is very healthy. So Kṛṣṇa, connect with that, Mahāprabhu told that, connect with that. The life of your life, the existence of your existence, the desirability of you desire. The basic principle of all our existential hankering.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

And the jñāna sunya bhakti, jñāna sunya bhakti, some oxymoron or something like which seems to be of opposite concern. Just as when we are a child in the mother's womb, no knowledge for our own improvement is there, a child. But the motherly affection helps her/him. And Mahāprabhu says to attain that stage that will be most desirable and judicious, judicious. Throw yourself in some motherly care, the land of affection, opulent affection, affection herself that will nurture you. Your intellect of the child is unnecessary when in it's very early stage as a baby. No growth of care taking intellect there but automatically in such position s/he's well handled.

So there is a plane where you need not try yourself for your good, it is automatically done. Try to acquire that plane for your home where everything is automatically and perfectly done to satisfy your selfish, satisfy your real welfare, automatically done.

Jñāna sunya bhakti, jñāna sunya bhakti, no necessity for you to calculate what is good for you what is bad for you but the atmosphere will do what is necessary on your behalf and that will be perfect good. So jñāna sunya bhakti, jñāna sunya bhakti, the most peaceful stage of life, jñāna sunya bhakti, peaceful stage. And when you are labouring engaging your reason to improve you sometimes by exploiting the environment, or how you can look after your own interest. So much trouble, the stage of this trouble it is not a good life. A good life is to acquire such a stage, such a plane of life where automatically everything is done to my best interest, jñāna sunya bhakti.

Gaura Hari bol!

That is intelligence, reason, Mahāprabhu says that. And still you are not desired to be idle there, you'll have your engagement. And that is also very peaceful, peaceful.

Suppose if you can get any service where all our fundamental necessities are free, the quarter, the food, all free, and then we work some. The indispensable necessities of life are automatically supplied, we have no worry for that. And then also we do some service quite happily, something like that, the jñāna sunya bhakti. Everything necessary for us automatically done to our highest satisfaction. Still we are engaged in some loving service more and more. And the company is also there suitable, and the competition also is there but all happy competition, happy competition harmonised by the same quarter which sometimes may be apparently seen to clash with one another. But still it is not so because the common interest comes at the side between them, in this way. From far away we are having some idea. Mahāprabhu came with all these things, as I told, on a special train, to book a special train. Our Dhir Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja, Goswāmī Mahārāja has pointed out that, a special train booked from Navadvīpa and to leave Vṛndāvana. No halt in any place. jñāna sunya bhakti, Kṛṣṇa- loka, Vṛndāvana line.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

We are to be educated what is to be desired, what should be our summum bonum of life, that is all important, all important factor to select. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna, devotion and this prema bhakti, love divine. Different planes. Bhāgyavān jīva, sukṛti, previous sukṛti helps us for selection and free will has got little part to play.

"Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151)

The resultant of all different lives, the forces which you used in different past lives, the resultant of that comes to us as fortune. And that should be the prime cause as a sort of free will helped by that we can try to have.

The attraction may come independent of our intellectual conception, calculation. Intellectual calculation may not always understand. So ruciḥ, śraddhā, faith. Intellect cannot explain always but śraddhā guides us to such an aim, destination, the śraddhā. "I won't be satisfied with that which is less in standard from this." Our inner hankering. But intellect cannot always satisfy that feeling, that inner feeling of necessity, but with the sādhu saṅga. So our company with the sādhu, that can help to clear the doubts in the intellectual plane, and help the faith to make progress in a sound way, sādhu saṅga, śāstra saṅga. But the most original thing required that is faith, śraddhā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And to read the environment from the selfish standpoint has not preparedness, to receive the standpoint from the universal angle of vision. The trouble, the problem is there.

Gaura Hari, Gaura Hari, Gaura Hari.

And not only unprejudiced but that also some positive point missing. That is interest for the līlā of Gaurāṅga, or Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Not only to brush aside the undesirable prejudices within us, but positive affinity towards the real nature of things outside. Reality, by Itself and for Itself. By Itself in the background, but for Itself, that is floating over. Everything meant for Him, that positive prejudice is necessary for Him, everything for Him, for Him. And Gaurāṅga. Mahāprabhu came here with His party to introduce this vision that everything is for Him.

Beauty, Reality the Beautiful, and by serving the beauty we can contribute something to make it more beautiful, and to make others also beautiful. So service is the sacrifice, service, that is the unit of duty, harmony. By sacrifice we can participate into a real harmony and harmony is beauty, harmony is beauty, and harmony contributed by the sacrifice of so many units, together for the common end. So we can make ourselves beautiful, environment beautiful, and we can add to the beauty of the beauty if we really can understand what is service and sacrifice ourselves in that positive. Die to live, self participation, apparently, self sacrifice, self Devotee: Abnegation?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Abnegation negative side, positively jīva means self, with that die to live, self dissipation or something, disown the selfishness, the positive dynamic.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Then beauty will come on our front, beauty, when our contribution will be for the beauty, beauty will come to flow, to show it on us.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Beauty, sweetness, we all want sweetness, beauty, all these things, inherent nature and that is harmless, but how to get that, raso vai sa, that is only by service.

sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ, The very gist of spiritual life is sevonmukhe, whether taking the Name, or talking about Him, or whatever form may be of the serving attitude. Innumerable types of service, the very life will be the serving and the dedication, otherwise all imitation, all may be imitation. We should not be afraid of service. Die to live, a very good expression. Die means our ego, who are we. Ego means a particular type of ego, and die means to dissolve that ego. More and more you dissolve your ego, more and more you come in contact with the universal plenary position, so die, die, die to live.

Being deeply attracted by that, the materialists have given up talking about their wives, children and mundane affairs. The paṇḍits have given up arguing the scriptural conclusions, the yogīs have given up the difficulty of controlling the breath, the ascetics have given up their austerity, and the impersonalist renunciates have given up their pursuit of impersonal philosophy. Now there is only one exclusive and super excellent taste, the nectar of pure devotional service, compared to which, nothing else is attractive anymore." (Caitanya-Candrāmṛta, 113)

strī-putrādi-katham jahur viṣayaṇaḥ: Those who are busily engaged in household talks, for the time being, that was stopped, he began to talk about Gaurāṅga. Giving away their household talks, they began to talk about Gaurāṅga. What He's doing? The general talk of every lip was Śrī Gaurāṅga when He came here.

śāstra-pravādaṁ budhā: And the scholars they're fighting to find out the proper meaning of the śāstra, every Hindu scripture. They for the time being stopped that and began to read what Śrī Caitanya Deva is saying, what He's giving out to us, what is that? Is that the real purport for the whole scriptures?

yogīndrā vijahur marun niyamaka-kleśaṁ: And those controllers, the yogīs that are out to control their lower phase of life, and want to enter into higher and more subtle position of life, by controlling the air, the breath, they for the time being stopped that. 'That we are trying so hard, by controlling our breath, we are going to achieve some astonishing stage of consciousness. But what this Nimāi Paṇḍit teaches here, that was very wonderful. That we should continue in our own way, or should we accept the course of Nimāi Paṇḍita recommended?'

tapas tāpasāḥ: And those are very favoured of under going penances by voluntary appreciations on our free will, we can rather give loan to nature, pleasure. The first, I shall gain some, and then suffer after that, no. I am suffering in the beginning, and then I shall enjoy as a result of that penances, close a party business is like that. The suffering first, not that enjoying first and then suffering, no, suffering first, and then we shall enjoy. tapas tāpasāḥ, they also gave up their position for the time being.

jñānābhyaśa-vidhiṁ jahuś ca yatayaś: The sannyāsīns, the renunciationists, they also for the time being stopped their culture about Vedānta, Athāto brahma-jijñāsā, brahma-jijñāsā, janmādy asya yato, Why brahma-jijñāsā ? With everything coming out of it, so that is the prime cause, and we must be acquainted with the prime cause of the whole. It is most reasonable, brahma-jijñāsā. They also left their campaign for the time being.

naivānya āsīd rasaḥ: When Mahāprabhu came with a novel style of devotional sentiment, all lost their purity in their respective departments.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

To understand Him, that requires great fortune, bhāgya. To eliminate exploitation, renunciation, and calculative service, love, infinite sacrifice, infinite sacrifice for whom? For whom? He's meant, He's in a constitutional position to be the receiver of all of the whole. That peculiar position, that Absolute centre, that Absolute centre who can consume them and digest, who can receive the produce of all, and can digest them and can distribute them in some form or other. Like the stomach receives the food and distributes properly, stomach knows how to distribute, and what sort of food where. So put food into the stomach, not into the liver, or to the lungs.

All the religious experts, here they're all one here in opinion, that all the results should be given to Kṛṣṇa, the all attractive. Kṛṣṇa means attractor, the all attractor, He can attract who has got something, for attraction He can attract. Kṛṣ - ṇa, two functions, to draw and to distribute, and the distribution gets everyone happy. Just as the stomach draws the food and distributes it in the form of blood, or something. So Kṛṣ - ṇa, to attract everything. that is not a small matter to attract everything. And then Kṛṣ then ṇa, ṇa means (that vidi vacara ?) When religious receives, and when religious everyone feels satisfaction by that transfer. Kṛṣ - ṇa, and He's accepted as the all consuming principle. Kṛṣ - ṇa. Good or bad does not matter. Kṛṣṇa. Sun attracts water of different types and then if also supplies in the way of gas, the cloud, pure water, which is deserving for us. He attracts water of different types, but when He gives it back it is very healthy so Kṛṣṇa, connect with that. Mahāprabhu told that: "Connect with that, the life of pure life, the existence of your existence, the desirability of your desirability. The basic principle of all our existence and hankering."

jñāna sunya bhakti, jñāna sunya bhakti. From oxymoron or something like which seems to be of opposite concern. Just as when we are a child in the mothers womb, no knowledge of our own improvement is there, for a child, but the motherly affection helps us. And Mahāprabhu says to attain that stage, that will be most desirable and judicious. Throw yourself in some motherly care in the land of affection, opulent affection, affection herself, that will nurture you. Your intellect of the child is unnecessary, in the early stage as a baby, no growth of their taking intellect there, but automatically in such position, he's well.

jñāna sunya bhakti, jñāna sunya bhakti. No necessity for you to calculate what is good for you, bad for you, but the atmosphere will do what is necessary on your behalf, and that will be perfect good. So jñāna sunya bhakti, jñāna sunya bhakti, the most peaceful stage of life, jñāna sunya bhakti, peaceful stage. And when you are labouring, engaging your reason, to full view, sometimes by exploiting the environment, or how you can look after your own interest, so much trouble, the stage of this trouble it is not a good life. A good life is to acquire such a stage, such a plane of life where automatically everything is done to my best interest. jñāna sunya bhakti.

Gaura Hari bol. That is internal. Mahāprabhu says that. And still you are not desired to be idle there, you'll have your engagement and that is also very peaceful, peaceful. Suppose if you can get any service where all our fundamental necessities are free, the quarter, the food, all free and then we work something, indispensable necessities of life are automatically supplied. We have no worry for that, and then also we give some service, most happily, something like that, it is, jñāna sunya bhakti. Everything necessary for us automatically done towards highest satisfaction. Still you are engaged in some loving service, more and more. And the company there is also suitable and the competition is also there but all happy competition. Happy competition harmonised by the sweet quarter which sometimes may be apparently seen to be clashing with one another, but still it is not so because the common interest comes at the side between them. In this way, from far away we are having something.

Mahāprabhu came with all these things, as I told, to get a special train. Sudhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja, Goswami Mahārāja has pointed out, a special train, left from Navadvīpa and went to Vṛndāvana, no halt going there. jñāna sunya bhakti, Kṛṣṇa-loka, Vṛndāvana.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. We are to be educated what is to be desired, what should be our summum bonum of life, that is all important factor to select.

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam bhaktir uttamā

"One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11)

+ (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.21.11, purport) + (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167)

Anyābhilāṣ, karma, jñāna, devotion, and prema bhakti, love divine, different planes. But go on with your sukṛti, previous sukṛti helps us for selecting and free will has a little part to play.

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya
bhakti-latā-bīja

"Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151)

The resultant of all different lives enforces. Which we used in different past lives, the resultant of that comes to us as fortune. And that should be the prime cause and that sort of free will helps like that. We can try to have it. The attraction may come independent of our intellectual consciousness calculation, intellectual calculation may not always understand. So ruci, śraddhā, faith. Intellect cannot explain, always, but śraddhā guides us to such an aim, destination, the śraddhā.

"I won't be satisfied which is less than, in standard from this."

Towards inner hankering, but intellect cannot always satisfy, that inner feeling of necessity. But the sādhu saṅga, so our company with the sādhu that can help the, to clear the doubts in the intellectual plane and help the faith to make progress in a sound way. Sādhu saṅga, śāstra saṅga, but the most original thing required that is faith, śraddhā.

The classification of śraddhā, mundane, mundane śraddhā also is there, but not proper, śraddhā proper. The meaning of every word ultimately leads to the Absolute, because all potency of the Absolute. The origin is the slave of every wave with Him.

Mādhvācārya says: mukta padyava ? A reign unlatched, the reign of the horse, horse is controlled always by the reign, but when reign removed, the horse runs in his own way. So every word, when you take off the reign from the meaning, it will reach to Kṛṣṇa, trying to find it's origin. And by our local interest we put reign and try to take the meaning to this direction, that direction, according to our own interest, local interest. But if the reigns removed:

andhā yathāndhair upanīyamānās, te 'pīśa-tantryām uru-dāmni baddhāḥ

Prahlāda Mahārāja says: "Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.31)

All the meanings of all the words and everything will run towards the centre, towards the centre, mukta pagraham ?These things have been analysed by Mādhvācārya.

Mahāprabhu also began to explain grammar in that light when He came from, returned from Gayā. He began to explain grammar as a devotional scripture. Grammar, to go, to do, all these to analyse, what is doing? What is going? All potency of Kṛṣṇa. Deeply analysed everything, every wave coming from Him. This sound is sleeping, that sound is exciting, or reading, running, all different potencies, different waves coming from the centre. So dhatti ? means clear, all the paths?, they have got their origin from Kṛṣṇa, so whatever word comes to Him, He says it should be meant for Kṛṣṇa and you I know, explanation came from the (background, kalpa ?), everything.

The students went to complain to the teacher of Mahāprabhu, Gaṅgā Dāsa Paṇḍit. "He used to teach us exceptionally well previously, but now after coming from Gayā, how He explains things we can't understand. Some say we understand, but it won't serve our purpose, a present life." Came to complain to Gaṅgā Dāsa Paṇḍit who was the teacher of Mahāprabhu, Nimāi Paṇḍit.

Gaṅgā Dāsa Paṇḍit asked them: "Send Him to me, I shall request Him to teach you properly."

That information came and Mahāprabhu visited.

"Nimāi, why do You explain things in a different way, peculiar new fashion?" "No, no. By the grace of your feet dust none can challenge Me."

"Yes, I heard your name as a teacher. But what is this after coming from Gayā You are explaining things in a different way. Your students came to complain to me. One thing I remind You, that go in a proper channel, as the ancients have chalked out. What do You think, You're a devotee and Your forefathers and the other scholars they are not devotees? What do You mean that You have come to preach a new thing, crossing Your forefathers and the other respectable persons in the campaign. You have come to create a new thing here, that's not desirable."

Mahāprabhu told: "No, by the grace of your feet dust, what I shall do rightly you need not trouble you with this."

That universal vision everywhere. To save us from local prejudice, local interest and no interest, local interest is no interest, no interest is also a dangerous thing. To be reduced to zero, that is also all devouring, all devouring temporary demon. But interest is there and that should be properly located. Religion is proper adjustment, our Guru Mahārāja used to say: "Religion is proper adjustment." We are in the discordant way, discord... and apparent discord also we find in Vṛndāvana, but that is of quite different type, that comes from another centre of interest that encourages more in our progress.

Devotee: "We must not allow ourselves to be led by those who lived and thought before us. We must think for ourselves and try to get further truths which are still undiscovered." So when he's (Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura) speaking in this way it seems that he's speaking from a point of an advanced realised soul because for an ordinary person he has to accept.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He is preparing a ground, for the thought of Bhāgavatam, he's quoted from his Bhāgavat speech. Generally that is some say, that Bhāgavat is a departure from the Vedic school. Devashi Nārada came and gave some special instruction to Vedavyāsa to understand, to try to understand the real purpose of the whole Veda is this Bhāgavat truth. At that time he was associated with the brahma, this, Rabithakur (Rabindranath Tagore?), Ramhuray (Rām Mohan Rāy?) All these things. They are of impersonal conception, this brahma. Taking from the Upaniṣads, they are very close to impersonal conception of the ultimate reality.

But Bhāgavat has given such a truth of Vṛndāvana to be the highest, which seems to be mundane, apparently. And he's making the basis of that, that you must have free will. After Śaṅkara, Rāmanuja, what Mahāprabhu has given, if we have got free will, free thinking, then we can eliminate the old Ācārya and find out something, we may prepare ourselves for finding something higher. With this attitude if we try to understand, then we will be able to appreciate what Mahāprabhu has given. And if we allow ourselves to be fully captured by the previous Ācārya, then we will have no freedom to give them up and seek a new one and realise and appreciate Mahāprabhu's decision and advice. It is a ground he's preparing for that. The free will. Not engrossed in the so-called interpretation of the Upaniṣads ever given in India by the Ṛṣis.

This higher truth has been delivered in Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu is giving that, that we have got our free will from the religious stereo type conception. Then we can understand the new thing Mahāprabhu has given, we will be able to appreciate. So we must not make our free will slave to the ancient interpreters of the Vedas. Do you follow?

"May that Lord, who is known as the son of Śrīmatī Śacī Devī, be transcendently situated in the innermost chambers of your heart.

Resplendent with the radiance of molten gold, He has appeared in this age of Kali by His causeless mercy to bestow what no incarnation ever offered before: the most sublime and radiant spiritual knowledge of the mellow taste of His service." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.4)

Never delivered in this world, ever, a new thing Mahāprabhu has come to give to us, and we must have our free nature to welcome that. If we are prejudiced, covered with old prejudiced, it will be difficult for us to understand what Mahāprabhu wants to give.

And also giving some hint in Vṛndāvana līlā, the freedom, that's Kṛṣṇa, gopī Kṛṣṇa, means that free, even, not bound by the social laws, and Vedic laws, a hint to that also we may find here.

Svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā, bhejur mukunda-pada-vīm śrutibhir vimṛgyām. How that can be the highest attainment in Vṛndāvana, ignoring the existing social laws and also the association of our so-called guardians and well-wishers. Kṛṣṇa's position is so high, so loving, so natural, so innate, that that must, if there is any comparison, everything should be cancelled and the selection must go to His holy feet, neglecting all other possible engagements and demands from us from any other side. That is also hinted there.

āsā maho caraṇa-renu-juṣāṁ aham syām vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauṣadhīnām

Uddhava says: "The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to renounce, and they have sacrificed even their religious principles to take shelter of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, which are sought after by even the Vedas. O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How do you do?

Devotee: Very well, by your grace, very well.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ha, ha, ha. Very well, you are always very well. Ha, ha, ha. Our Guru Mahārāja told, when we are very well, when we are in bhajan we are very well, otherwise the physical comfort is not very well. Ha, ha.

Haridāsa Ṭhākura he was put into prison by the Kāzī (the Mohammedan magistrate), he was considered criminal, because he used to take Kṛṣṇa-Nāma. Coming from the Mohammedan association, put into prison, but when released, the co-prisoners, they're all so very mortified that we got one prisoner so taking Hari-Nāma, such strength and holy temperament, and he's going away. Then Haridāsa Ṭhākura gave blessings to them: "I bless you to be as you are at present."

Then they misunderstood, some of them: "That you bless that we shall remain in this prison house, as we are?"

Then some complaint came, Haridāsa Ṭhākura told: "That is not the meaning. At present by my association you are all conscious of some sort of God consciousness, your mind is filled up. So my blessing is only looking to that aspect. Kṛṣṇa keep you in this temperament as you are at present, that some holy conception predominating your mind at present."

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Not your physical environment, but your mental aspiration, I bless for that."

So how we are in relation with Kṛṣṇa, Vaiṣṇava, Guru. That is our proper concern, existence, other existence to be ignored and eliminated. That is real life. Life proper is there in which we are in connection with Kṛṣṇa, that is considered to be the life, others ignored. Māya, māya means illusion. That has no value, negative value. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

End of side A. side B. 29,30-3-83

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Utilise your capital, anyhow taking consent from your father. In the press line you can start your business, publication line, try to help them.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhāratī Mahārāja sent a letter yesterday to your name.

Devotee: We have just seen it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I heard part of that.

Devotee: He's a little undecided.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His tone is a little depressive. He was much energetic before, but now he seems to be a little depressed. Then what to do? Consider together. His life has got quality. He may be helped in a proper way. You know it best. He has got some tendency always in the literary side. And one gentleman who was previously in charge of building Swāmī Mahārāja's Temple here, he gave a letter here, to send to Bhārātī Mahārāja, that by the help of government he wants to, Vaiṣṇava encyclopaedia. Maheshvara, he wanted his help to assist him in that matter. He told that he has got not interest in this literary work so he should re-communicate. But that gentleman withdraw, attract Bhārātī Mahārāja, if you do not give attention to him, in his present age, present time. Try to engage him in Mahā Maṇḍal activity suitably. But why suddenly such depression? I don't understand. He already reported that he has got good prospects there for preaching, but suddenly.....

Devotee: Perhaps due to not having much company of equal nature.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Any suitable helping hand may not be sent to that province? This Parivrājaka and this Sudama Kṛṣṇa, they come from that part, is it?

Devotee: No, his dealing with South Africa which is predominantly run by the whites and North Africa is mostly black. Parivrājaka was there in North Africa. Sudama Kṛṣṇa comes from an island off the coast of South America.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kuṇḍalatā may help him, but Kuṇḍalatā's husband is otherwise.

Kuṇḍalatā, this Kalpa-vṛkṣa she may help him but her husband is the opposite.

Devotee: Yes, she's a very good lady. We shall meet today, all the sannyāsīs will have a short meeting today and discuss all that and then may consult you later.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How to help him. But he's not coming, just now here?

Devotee: Unlikely.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. No mention of Parisevum in any letter.

Devotee: He mentions Parisevum at the end of the letter.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh he mentioned. I was told that he got a press there. He was waiting for some publication but suddenly, such news I don't follow. He was progressing well I thought, intimation before hand.

Devotee: It was seemingly more like promises, somebody may have promised things and later may not have honoured the promise. It seems like that. But he says he has a business.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One gentleman he was in South Africa he's eager to help us, some intimation I got. There is some gentleman who is very eager to help this Mahā Maṇḍal activity. But who he is I forget, don't remember. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: One gentleman came here to the Maṭh, but he stayed here only a short time, and no relationship was established.

Devotee: Dayādhara Gaurāṅga has just returned from Calcutta and he has brought me an exert from the Harmonist, the title is, Śrī Guru and His Grace, it says by Tridaṇḍi Swāmī Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It was published in Harmonist first and then in Back to Godhead, second time.

And what is the position of Dayādhara Prabhu there in Malaysia? Is he favourable or unfavourable? Now I'm told that Hansadūta Mahārāja is away from ISKCON perhaps.

Devotee: No, he's still in ISKCON, but very sick.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's still in ISKCON, but he did not attend the meeting.

But some information came to me that his ways of preaching is not appreciated but depreciated by ISKCON, with the ladies and chanting in some sahujiya way, they do not like. And Kīrtanānanda Mahārāja has remarked that he should be kicked out of ISKCON. Then I heard that he did not attend this meeting annually.

Devotee: But he stopped playing music like that and he's changed his programme a little bit, made an adjustment.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So Hansadūta Mahārāja may give some pressure to Dayādhara Prabhu not to preach independently there, independent of ISKCON. So how is his position, we are to enquire. If so the whole ISKCON, including Hansadūta Mahārāja, against him, then he may be sent to England. You are to consider that point. He's not separate there.

No sympathy of Hansadūta Mahārāja and ISKCON. But will he stay there and try some independent success, or he may be posted somewhere else, what is his own opinion? You are to sound him and find and consult with him what is his future line of action. He already reported and I asked him: "You come here and with the consolation of the others we shall say, give our opinion about your future activity." So he has come, now you consult with him about the situation there, and his mental stage, and where to utilise him. In England, or some other place, or he's willing to work there, in that place.

Devotee: No, the wound is gone.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gone.

Devotee: But our hearts have got some wound.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Your hearts have some wound? For retaliation? Ha, ha.

I remarked that he has purchased a gun and that may be given presentation to Tamal Kṛṣṇa.

Devotees: (laughter). Govinda Mahārāja told that he's Bhakti Cannon Giri Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. For the reward of your activities, this gun is presented. Go on with your gun. Torture in your hands. Kṛṣṇa's will is nothing, you are taking management in your own hands to quash the devotees. What is this? This is suicidal, suicidal. It will slacken the very foundation of ISKCON, such attempt, and the gainers will be the opposite party.

Nityānanda Prabhu, He got the wound on His head from Jagāi, Mādāi, and that promoted His propaganda to a high level, Nityānanda Prabhu. Even Mahāprabhu went to punish them but Nityānanda Prabhu stopped Him. "No, no, not this time. In this Avatāra such action does not look well, it is beyond Our promise."

So Swāmī Mahārāja when attacked here by the local goondas in ISKCON temple Māyāpura. Whether you know or do not know, I heard he sent a saṅkīrtana party on the street. They entered the compound and showed some rowdyism by physically striking some of the devotees. Then Swāmī Mahārāja ordered: "Form a saṅkīrtana party and go out on the street and if any attack comes you all tolerate." And it was done, he was present within, and the party was sent on the road with saṅkīrtana to be prey to all those goondas, but they vanished gradually.

Rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāśah - (confidence in the Lord's protection).

Goptr̥tve-varaṇam tata -(embracing the Lord's Guardianship)

He will protect. I revealed you may remark of our..... first he stayed in a rented house on the banks of the Ganges. Some senior sober man, an advocate, he loved me, he told:

"That there is a conspiracy to finish you." I remarked that, some gentleman, he put some name of some gentleman, he told on my face. That advocate says that: "Śrīdhara Mahārāja will be finished very soon, so he need not stay in a solitary place on the banks of the Ganges, you go on the inner side of the town."

I remarked: "That if that gentleman has got the power to do, to make or mar, then it is better to die. Kṛṣṇa is not there? Kṛṣṇa is there and he thinks that he can do anything and everything, that he has become the ultimate authority, it is better not to live in his in this way life, nothing." So many times came such things. Rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāśah. Who is the protector? Who is the keeper in the practical life? We are to understand, we are to examine ourselves, examine ourselves.

So Jesus is revered for His sacrifice of life, so by length and breadth, the Christianity could spread. Not so much for His principles, but as much for His sacrifice, it spread like anything. If I am accepted in the political field also, so many persons that he, if I am accepted as a sacrifice for the cause, if I will be faultless. It is not so easy, it is not so easy to acquire such fortune, that I will be prey for the service of Kṛṣṇa.

It will be individual consideration at least and in a group we may sometimes take up a Vaiṣṇava is being molested, so we must try in any way. That conclusion come, can come from other plane, not from ones own self, but a Vaiṣṇava is being molested, disturbed, and it will be our duty to drive away those inauspicious forces, adjustment is there. Viṣṇu, Vaiṣṇava. To protect Them we shall take any measure, sincerely, but not for one's own self.

Rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāśah - Goptrtve-varaṇam. "Accepted Him as my protector, sustainer, my guardian, my everything, I won't care for my own protection." Sometimes in sakhya-rasa we find that.

rakṣā koribo tuhuṁ niścaya jāni pāna korobuṁ hāma yamunā pāni

"Fearless and confident of Your protection, I shall drink the waters of the Yamunā, whether they are poisoned or not. I am Your property. You must take care of me; You can't leave me." (The songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 26-7)

We shall indent, welcoming danger. "My friend is there, we do not care for anybody, we may take poison." The vraja rakal ? The Kṛṣṇa's friends, they was aggressor to drink poison. "That Kṛṣṇa is there, whom we should fear?" None, nothing, not there is nothing to be afraid of. Kṛṣṇa is there. So such indulgence one may have in śaraṇāgati.

Rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāśah. "He'll protect me, other's protection I won't accept, I shall hate other's protection in the physical world, who'll protect? I deny, if any proposal comes I shall deny. I am under His care." Is it not practical? Is it all theoretical, abstract? Then my life is an abstract thing, only imagination, religion is imagination, not in practice.

This is one case, but in the case of molestation of the Guru, Vaiṣṇava, and Vighraha, there of course, that chance we get and that is in devotion, not for one's own, he will say no. "Let him do, let him do, abusing." A Vaiṣṇava says: "No, what are you saying? I am already filled up with so many abuses, so this abuse is nothing, so many things of abuse is in me."

And the fact is that if one Vaiṣṇava is abused, then the abuser he takes up the defect himself. The poison is taken up by him, it is transferred, transferred. If one is above abuse and any abuse comes to him, then who abuses, he gets that, he eats it and he becomes more pure, more pure.

So, vaiṣṇava ninda vanka, very dreadful thing, but if we are well-wisher, well wishing is there, then not aparādhā. To be subordinate if any defect is there the guardian will say: "Oh you have these defects, you must be careful." Careful, with well-wishing, then you may. Otherwise:

śūlapāṇi-sama yadi vaiṣṇavere ninde tathāpiha nāśa pāya, - kahe śāsta-

"It is the conclusion of all the revealed scriptures that one who blasphemes a devotee is doomed. For such a person, everything is torn to pieces by the powerful trident of his sinful reactions. A sinful person who disregards this principle and insults great souls will suffer birth after birth for his offence." (Caitanya-Bhāgavata, Madhya 22.55-56)

He may be in the position of Mahādeva, but if he abuses any Vaiṣṇava he will be punished. But if with the abuse there is affection, from his own heart wants to remove that bad habit, then it is all right, well wishing. Otherwise only to remark, it will be dangerous, it will be transferred to him.

mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ

"If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all nondevotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life. "
(Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30)

It is so dangerous, ananya bhakti is a dangerous thing. So many apparent anomalies cannot make him object of blame. Because that very rarest thing of ananya bhakti, whose future is guaranteed, ananya, connection, exclusive connection with the Lord, that means his bright future is guaranteed. Only question of time, what he has, the connection, the high valuable connection that he has got, that is very, very, very, very, rarely to be had, and that he has got. And other things are negligible, negligible of the negligible, so don't approach that dangerous place or you will be doomed.

So, api cet sudurācāro. At your consideration he may be much filthy. But at once the day will dawn there and you will be nowhere. You have no position at all, you are now a commentator and making remarks, you will be nowhere. But his position is sure become that, ananya bhakti, exclusive connection, that highly earned most rare, valuable thing he has got. So I am such that my real connection is so valuable that all the worldly attributes in consideration to that, no position at all. The world will be relative consideration of good and bad, that has got no value, it is all illusory, but that is reality whatever mist it may be, that is reality.

Devotee: Mahārāja, would you explain again this good and bad.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are disturbing the thought, what good and bad, good and bad.

'dvaite bhadṛābhadrā-jñāna, saba-'manodharma' 'ei bhāla, ei manda',-ei saba 'bhrama'

"In the material world, conceptions of good and bad are all mental concoctions. Therefore, saying, 'This is good, this is bad,' is a mistake."
(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.176)

As in a dream, you may have a good dream, or a bad dream, but both is false, something like that. In the relative consideration of this worldly position we may think that he's a good man, or he's a bad man, but everything is all illusory. The imaginary standard conception, everything.

And the connection with Kṛṣṇa, that is reality, that is reality. That is absolute. That connection, His protection, His sympathy, it is genuine, it is real thing. And all others are, they have got no real position, they that are friendly to us, favourable to us, that may be vanishing, change of the course of the world. But this is constant, our connection with Kṛṣṇa, whatever small quantity, that is constant, nitya, and others all relative. They may change any position. I may be a king, but the next life I may be a beggar, and in this life I may be a beggar, king may be murdered as becomes my king's position. So all these things, I am a scholar, then next I may be a madman. This one (Brajānśi?) a good scholar of international fame (Brajānśi?), philosopher. Many world conferences he attended but in the last stage he was, he became mad. A scholar next moment may become mad. So in this world no permanent value of any attainment.

But our plenary connection with Kṛṣṇa, that is from the soul to the Supersoul. The soul's connection in eternal plane that has got, however slight, but still it is substantial, it is real. Others are all flickering, temporary, hoaxing, no value. In the movement, coming, birth and death, we are moving within birth and death, birth and death, in this world. Not that all relative positions are illusory. Now it is, next moment it is not. But the soul to Supersoul, soul is real, Supersoul is real, and any friendship or any connection with that, it is permanent. So however bright may be this prospect of this illusory world that must be dissolved for the slight connection of the souls plane towards Supersoul. Such importance we must give in our whole life, in all the activities, they may be influenced by this thought.

Api cet sudurācāro, what is from the relative consideration, from the worldly consideration, is good or bad. 'Dvaite bhadṛābhadrā-jñāna, from 'dvaite means we are separate conception, not organised whole, connected with the Absolute, not universal but provincial, local interest, bhadṛābhadrā-jñāna. Calculation from the local provincial interest, good, bad, all false, no value. The paramount power will come and smash this provincial.

If there is war, (just as) in the second wartime, in England, when they were apprehended by the greatest attack from Hitler, after France was crushed there was some ordinance that: "All individual properties came to the prime minister." An ordinance was, all the properties, of all, big or small, all came to the state. Individual ownership was abolished for the time being. Because anywhere, any preparation for the defence may be taken. So there for that view the whole individual rights were given away to the state. So all our acquisitions of this local interest, provincial interest, they have got no value from the standpoint of the Absolute Interest. 'Dvaite bhadṛābhadrā-jñāna. Any moment the Absolute Interest may come and demolish these local transactions. So, 'dvaite bhadṛābhadrā-jñāna, saba-'manodharma.' It is mental speculation, mania, it is all mania. But from the Absolute consideration what is the truth, that is ever truth, no unchangeable truth. That may have, vilas, have play, the change of play that is not death. Līla, that is līlā, pastimes, that may come back again. In this way. Your points clear?

Devotee: He's not here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh put the questions and fled, ha ha, Because I did not like the question, interruption.

Devotee: No, Govinda Mahārāja called him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Call of Govinda Mahārāja, a practical call, this is theoretical. Ha ha ha.

"While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un-interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy." (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69)

There is a world where ordinary people are fully awake there, in their own interest there. But there are others, they do not find any interest in that worldly life, they dive deep and awake in some other world, and they have got all their interest in that plane. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Awake in your world of soul and awake in the world of matter.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

How much our attraction to Kṛṣṇa will be that we may be taken to His real connection, that should be our all concern. What the others will do, making, fabricating this conspiracy, this or that, may be ignored for our own interest. But according to the capacity, according to the stage of realisation, everything varies.

First varnāśrama karma. Then to be very particular to give up the result to Kṛṣṇa, to offer the result of all the duties towards Kṛṣṇa. Then to give up wholesale and jump into the service of Kṛṣṇa, gradually advancing. According to ones own stage of realisation it will work, the advises will be suitable and work.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: I have a few confusing thoughts in my head.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that? Say.

Devotee: Trying to serve the Absolute Good. In Malaysia many nice things are happening. But at the same time resistance is very great from Hansadūta. And I'm wondering, sometimes the sentiments are mixed, in my head, to keep going. Every time they produce some insult it seems that Kṛṣṇa supplies more reciprocation from the public, more preaching opportunity. But my presence there is an irritation to them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Naturally.

Devotee: So I wonder which is the better service for Kṛṣṇa? To go on preaching, or to consider that they are also preaching Kṛṣṇa Consciousness and to relinquish the field to them?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you find in your heart, that the type of your preaching is more purer, or their type of preaching is purer, how does your heart responds, your conscience respond to your activity?

Devotee: I think by your grace our preaching is more mature and theirs is more immature, but I don't say that they're not preaching Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But in the consideration of position, do you find you can understand that your attempt is more sincere and of purest type, is it?

Devotee: I could not say that. They are very sincere but I just think that their preaching is Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only the quality of their preaching is of lower standard?

Devotee: Not as mature standard of preaching. Their preaching is more obligatory, obliging the public to serve Kṛṣṇa, where as our preaching somehow, by your mercy is.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then with the call of the book distribution and you can give the idea which is within the book.

Devotee: Yes, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So of greater, higher level, you're preaching and they're only distributing the books and inviting them and making friendship with them, in this way. Your level will be in higher plane.

Devotee: Their conception is that it is more like a club or a society, this Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Our conception is that it is more individual necessity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: More nearer to ideal, more abstract towards spiritual ideal. And they're more in the material surface.

Devotee: I think.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Diplomacy, dollar, all these things. Society, social, and yours ontological, more ontological, and their attempt more social.

Devotee: I feel that way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But now what do you like? They're in such fighting position, do you want to go on, or you may have your field of action somewhere else? Hansadūta Mahārāja, he has taken you to me, you have got some obligation to him. And whether under his direction, his subordinates are doing something wrong to you, or he does not know the local authorities are giving some resistance to your activities? What do you think about that?

Devotee: I think he is condoning.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He is concerned?

Devotee: He is condoning the irritation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Their attempt is corroborated by him, directed and corroborated?

Devotee: I think corroborated maybe not directed, though they feel the irritation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whatever they do he gives his consent, approval? Now what do you think, if you like you can change your field of preaching of activity. In London a centre is established, then in San Jose he has got very big preaching centre. In South Africa, Bharatī Mahārāja, he was attempting, but now he's a little depressed for want of assistance, proper. Then other places also where service of your type, your type of scholarship may be well utilised. You consider with Akshayananda Mahārāja, and our Goswāmī Mahārāja, and Mādhava Purī Mahārāja, and this Aranya Mahārāja, etc, and then inform me what you will like to do. How energy should be best utilised with less hitch with ISKCON, less hitch, and more activity.

Relief work, I first told that our object is like relief work, starting a relief work. Those disappointed and dejected, with no place in ISKCON, still they're sincere, hankering for Mahāprabhu, and Kṛṣṇa, and Swāmī Mahārāja, how we shall try to help them in our sincere way. And so if any hitch we don't want, still if any collision comes we shall try to tolerate it as much as possible, and go on with our relief work. It is not a new creation, but to help the real movement of Swāmī Mahārāja from the ontological standpoint. To keep up the ontological standard of Swāmī Mahārāja's mission, with something more little added, and that is madhurya-rasa, not so much cultured by him

To keep up the ontological standard of Swāmī Mahārāja's mission, with something more, little added, that is mādhyura rasa. Not so much cultured by him, perhaps for the social position of the foreign country, that may be undermined. The social position is such that mādhyura rasa may be dishonoured as the custom of the country. So he perhaps

But as we are given up the mantram but we do not go to analyse the meanings of the mantra very much, only selected few. In this way we are to say there is something but we must approach very, very carefully. It is there on our head.

In this way keeping harmony with the mantram and the other advises in Bhāgavatam and Caritāmṛtam and Mahāprabhu, they're fully engaged in that. But respectable distance, that should be kept. And never we shall think that we can walk over that plane, but it is just over our head. In this way we are to tread that there are such things, higher things like that. You consult with your friends and select about your field of work, preaching. Fight is not very desirable, relief, a spirit of toleration we must have.

Devotee: The field has grown so intense in the last few months, the activity is very nice. There's so much to do.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very successful, so many men are favourable to you? But you have got some substantial thing to give to them. But they have got only book distribution and no intellectual food, or religious food, to explain?

Devotee: They just have some loyalty that they're pushing, pushing, like this. But since I returned to Malaysia you asked Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anyhow wherever you will go you will find your field amongst the intellect. So Malaysia, London may be higher field for you. Many people of high calibre may appreciate your characteristic of preaching. Recently our Aksayananda Mahārāja, Mādhava Purī Mahārāja, and others, they went there and preached. Where Mādhava Purī Mahārāja also delivered lectures in some universities there. The Parvata Mahārāja, that Āśrama Mahārāja, there they also want help of relied preachers, everywhere. In many places your preaching may be welcome.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, it seems even though we are working in the spirit of relief they take it as a fight, or a competition with them. How can we overcome that?

They feel threatened.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That will help us to particularly look for another plane. The decision, the Absolute decision will come from higher plane. It will help us search for the higher plane more intensely. Whether the path I have taken is only imagination or there is reality there? That Kṛṣṇa is everything, He protects His devotees. All this is imagination, theoretical or it is real? We must make experiments with this truth in our own life and then we'll make progress step by step. Such test will come, will be extended to us by Kṛṣṇa Himself. "You have faith in Me as Absolute, or in any other potency, that they're master?" Only lip deep when you speak that Kṛṣṇa is everything, He's over all, is it a lip deep statement or it really comes from your heart and conscience?" Nothing can be done without His consent. All these imaginary propaganda or it is real? To live in, reality to live in or only to preach?

Fight to fight, that is not a very high stage. Ignore the fight. Let it go on in its own way and I shall be busy in my own thing. Let them come on the back, not in the front. They will come as a consequence of my previous lives. So we shall show our back and many wounds may come to my back, but in the front there will be peace and Kṛṣṇa and I shall make progress towards that. Go forward towards Kṛṣṇa. And as a result of my previous activity they may attack in my back. Ignoring them I shall make progress towards the front. Kṛṣṇa is everything and that must be realised as truth within me otherwise what value has it got, only lip deep propaganda. There must be life within to back this preaching. The words that come from our lips must be backed by spiritual realisation, that Kṛṣṇa is all.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

In Manipur some hundred years or two hundred years, I don't remember. There, all Vaiṣṇava disciples of Narottama Ṭhākura. The King also. And one General named Mr Tikendrajit, he wanted to overthrow the influence of the British there. And he used for those war materials the Temple of Rādhā-Govinda's compound. And anyhow they sent the British military god. And one Captain or one military officer was sent to find out the truth behind the rumour, and the King did not allow him to enter into the Temple compound, he's a mleccha (a meat eater who does not follow Vedic culture), but he forcibly entered. And the General Tikendrajit he murdered him at once, that European General was murdered. Then a military force was sent to capture the whole Manipur and a special instruction that the Temple compound that was utilised for this political purpose so that must be demolished. And it was so demolished that the Deities, by the shots of the cannon, the whole Temple and the Deities was also smashed and destroyed.

Then our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) was explaining the thing. "Then what is this? People will say the Deity which was worshipped by the disciples of Narottama Ṭhākura, They had not the power to protect Themselves? Kṛṣṇa has no power to protect Themselves, They're all idols, dolls? What is this?"

some other way. "That without the will of Kṛṣṇa nothing can be done. So what is the will of Kṛṣṇa that His worshipping figure will be demolished by the shot of cannon? Nothing can even a straw cannot move without the will of Kṛṣṇa. And such a great thing, disaster was done by the will of Kṛṣṇa?" He told: "Yes." "Why?" He explained:

arcye viṣṇau śilā-dhīr guruṣu nara-matir vaiṣṇave jātī-buddhir viṣṇor vā vaiṣṇavānām kali-mala-mathane pāda-tīrthe 'mbu-buddhiḥ śrī-viṣṇor-nāmni-mantre sakala-kaluṣa-he śabda-sāmānya -buddhir viṣṇau sarvveśvareṣe tad-itara-sama-dhīr yasya vā nārakī saḥ

Śrīla Vyāsadeva states in Padma-Purāṇa: "Anyone who considers the worshipping Deity of the Lord to be made out of wood, stone, or metal; who considers the Vaiṣṇava guru to be a mortal man; who considers a Vaiṣṇava to be limited by the confines of caste, lineage, or creed; who considers the holy foot-wash of Lord Viṣṇu or a Vaiṣṇava to be ordinary water, although such water has the potency to destroy all evils of the age of Kali; who considers the Holy Name and mantra of Lord Viṣṇu, which vanquish all sins, to be common sound vibration; and who considers the God of gods, Lord Viṣṇu, to be merely on the level of the demigods - such a person is a diabolical devil."

We generally identify if spiritual truth comes down in this mundane world in our plane to help us in that formula that is not the same as wholesale spiritual. So to do away with our wrong conception that what we see that Deity that is Kṛṣṇa.

To demolish that wrong idea this was done by Kṛṣṇa's will. Do you follow? Am I clear?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We are really pilgrims to the hell, by knowing only the superficial things. Thinking that this what we see as stone that is Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is limited there. To do away with such conceptions Kṛṣṇa takes such bold steps: "That I am not your, this sense conceived, eye conceived stone piece. I am something else."

To elevate you to that position, what was given by him to elevate you from the lowest position to somewhat again that is demolished to give you some higher type.

Suppose the national flag, that is the honour of a nation. But if the flag by the enemy party is captured and it is trodden underfoot, of course that is something, it is dishonoured, nation's honour is demolished, but still we are to think that the nation is there. Though honour of the freedom, the freedom is related with that flag, that is torn to pieces, or brushed underfoot, or maybe burned to ashes, but independence it may be there. Again coming and conquering the enemy. So some sort of relation is there. The honour of the freedom of a country is with the national flag, but still the national flag does not represent the whole of the freedom. In such a way.

It is necessary, this Vighraha, but by that you must try to understand, go further, that is a symbol given to you and you are encouraged to say that It is He Himself, not otherwise. But that Himself is not what you conceive by your senses. You are to differentiate there.

So elimination and acceptance progress means always. Here Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, free, all will be unprejudiced to accept truth. Expectant to understand revealed truth and there comparative study in the revealed truth.

As I told, the Christianity. Goswāmī Mahārāja is here?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That Christianity is it static or stagnant and this is dynamic, what is that?

Devotee: You said is the position of Jesus stagnant or dynamic, progressive?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His Kṛṣṇa conception, dynamic and progressive, which?

Devotee: Or static.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Static is Christianity? Conception of Jesus is static?

Devotee: You said is the position of Jesus is static or dynamic? Is Jesus' position static or dynamic? Can He make further progress? You were saying that Jesus, is His position dynamic or static? Because the Christians may say: 'Well He knows everything.' So you said: 'Is he barred from making any further progress? Is he a member of the dynamic world or the static world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Further consideration and realisation than what was given by Jesus. Fatherhood of Godhead. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: So when we see the writings of Ṭhākura Bhaktivinoda we see that he is discussing this comparative theism of Christianity, and Vedānta, and then the Bhāgavata. He has this one English talk that he gave on the Bhāgavata, and Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhāgavata speech?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Booklet.

Devotee: Do you know when he gave that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Dinaipur (West Bengal), when he was an officer in Dinaipur district he gave that lecture (in 1869). The Brahmo party, they were trying their best to take him towards their support. But there in Bhāgavata speech he declared clearly: "No connection with you. I am a servant of the Vaiṣṇava creed." In his Bhāgavata speech openly he declared.

Devotee: Yes. He spoke in that lecture, he mentioned Ram Mohan Roy, who was the founder of the Brahmo Society.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He asked them to make further progress. "It's not ended there. With free will you are to start with open enquiry, then you will be able to see that what Mahāprabhu has told that is not idolitary." And their main objection was that these Vaiṣṇava's are idolitary, idolitors. "No, it is not idolitary. You come to see in this light."

Devotee: But when I was reading this of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura it reminded me of so many sayings that your divine grace had told us at different times. Because Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura he said that you are carrying the conception of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. So by examining these writings

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was satisfied by that poem written by me so much that: "It is not his writing, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has himself written it through him." He remarked like that. It was so accurate representation of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's creed was to him that he remarked in this way. "It is not written by him but Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written it through him."

Devotee: So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he said in that lecture that when studying a particular author that we must trace out his exact position in the line of thought.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And meant for whom? What section? Same author may write a book for the primary students, school students, college students, same author may prepare such books. It is like Veda, for different classes. According to the capacity, the standard, they will accept the teachings. In Gītā also, Gītā also recommending many things as karma, jñāna, bhakti, yoga, so many things. But there is a comparative study. If we are particular we see that all taken towards bhakti current, how? How karma ends in devotion. How jñāna ends in devotion. How yoga ends in devotion. Everything ends in devotion. The connection is given there. Who cannot, who missed this connection giving, they say:

"Oh, Gītā has supported us." The political revolutionary people they also get their support from Bhagavad-Gītā, "Gītā has supported us." Everyone: "Gītā has given us support." But the link is there ultimately leading towards devotion. And in the end:

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja ahaṁ tvām sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ

"Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair." (Bhagavad-Gītā, 18.66)

Sarva-dharmān parityajya: "All phases of duties should be abandoned."

Mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja: "And ultimate end will be to take refuge under My feet, clearly. And you will have not to be pained for that, amply rewarded you will be. Leaving aside all conceptions of duties you ever can imagine and understand, give up everything. So give up everything you have acquired so far. So much risk you have to take. Whatever conception of duty you have got so far, give up everything. Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead is a revolutionary thing, for which the right, My relationship with you, if you hear it will seem to you to be quite revolutionary. You have no independence, you are wholesale Mine. So independently you are coming to sue transactions from Me? You have come for transactions? Wholesale, every inch, you are Mine, not outside Me. That is your proper location and you have come for transactions. You are a separate party, I am a separate party. Give up all such conceptions of duties and enquiries and everything wholesale. You are Mine wholesale."

That is Kṛṣṇa. This is the truth. Prepare yourself for that, śaraṇāgati, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja. To Arjuna also He told:

man-manā bhava mad-bhakto, mad-yājī mām namaskuru mam evaiṣyasi satyaṁ te, pratijāne priyo 'si me

"Think of Me, serve Me, worship Me, offer your very self unto Me, and surely you will reach Me. Sincerely, this is My promise to you because you are My dear friend."

(Bhagavad-Gītā, 18.65)

"I promise you that I am everything. I am not deceiving you. You are My favourite, you are my friend. At least I won't deceive you, cheat you. So plainly speaking Arjuna I am everything of you."

Painfully He's speaking of Himself to His friend Arjuna

End of side A, 30-3-83a

side B, 31-3-83 + 30-5-83b

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: aspiration is within Me, cannot go outside. Your highest aspiration is within Me, can't seek it outside. I am so friendly, so near, so loving, so affectionate. In all respects you are Mine."

Such loving share or service or anything, our relationship we have got with the truth, Kṛṣṇa. Then He's wonderful, holding such position in the absolute sense, how we have become otherwise? That free will, and the position of that marginal position. That is responsible. Self determination. Die to live. Everything for Himself. This is the condition. We are for Himself. Accept this then negotiation begins.

"First you have to accept everything for Me, then the negotiation may begin. How and why you are for Me? First you have to understand that I am for Myself. The Absolute must be for Himself. You understand this properly. Reality for Itself otherwise He's not Reality if He's subservient to any other law or any other agent He's not Reality. So if Reality has got such position, Absolute position, with this basis 'For Itself' now negotiate what will be your position with Me. Complete surrender, there you are normal otherwise you are thinking abnormally about reality. That is really your creation and not in the absolute sense, your created reality. But reality is independent must be of this nature and then your position will be within me, within My sweet will. And that is your highest position. You try to, I'm your friend, I'm your guardian." Suhr̥daṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati:

"I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshipping object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshipping Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."

"You can only find peace in such condition when you accept Me as I am. I am your guardian but I am your friend, your greatest friend."

So harmony lies there. Otherwise we are god of gods. We go to the friend, rules and regulations, how a god will be, otherwise we won't accept him as God. Not that God created man but that man creates God, man created God.

That goes to Darwin theory, the fossil is the cause of everything.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, in progressive realisation of Kṛṣṇa, does one have to go through the stage of Brahman realisation, Paramātmā, and then Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not necessarily, not necessarily. He may go through that way. After general education then one goes to some specific education. After passing B.A, M.A, then goes to medical, or engineering departments. And from the beginning one may get admission in the engineering college. Something like that, with little primary education he goes. So through varnāśrama dharma, this yoga, jñāna, everything may lead ultimately to śuddha bhakti and there He says, Mahāprabhu says: eho bāhya āge: This may be excluded, without this, this only sādhu saṅga with śraddhā. We have got faith and we have got good devotee association. Wherever from any position śraddhā and sādhu saṅga, these are primary necessities, without that it is not possible. We must meet His agent and we must have some faith in His agent. Minimum demand in the bhakti school is this. Neither the brāhmaṇa Mahāprabhu says:

nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśya na śūdro nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gṛha-patir no vana-stho yatir vā kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānandapūrṇāmṛtābdher gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ

"I am not a priest, a king, a merchant, or a labourer (brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra); nor am I a student, a householder, a retired householder, or a mendicant (brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, sannyāsī). I identify myself only as the servant of the servant of the servant of the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the gopīs, who is the personification of the fully expanded (eternally self-revealing) nectarean ocean that brims with the totality of Divine Ecstasy." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.80)

All these, the yoga, jñāna, nothing is necessary. Only minimum necessity is His agent's association connection, and faith for his association. Then through that done, without that impossible.

rahūgaṇaitat tapasā na yāti, na cejyayā nirvapaṇād gṛhād vā na cchandasā naiva jalāgni-sūryair, vinā mahat-pāda-rajo-'bhiṣekam

Jaḍa Bharata said: "O King Rahūgaṇa, the perfectional stage of devotional service, or the paramahansa stage of life, cannot be attained unless one is blessed by the feet dust of the great devotees. It is never attained by austerity, Vedic worship, acceptance of the renounced order of life, the discharge of the duties of household life, the chanting of the Vedic hymns, or the performance of penances in the hot sun, within cold water or before the blazing fire." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.12.12)

matir na kṛṣṇe parataḥ svato vā, mitho 'bhipadyeta gṛha-vratānām
adānta-gobir viśatām tamisraṁ, punaḥ punaś carvita-carvaṇānām

Prahlāda Mahārāja said: "Because of their uncontrolled senses, persons too addicted to materialistic life make progress toward hellish conditions and repeatedly chew that which has already been chewed. Their inclinations toward Kṛṣṇa are never aroused, either by the instructions of others, by their own efforts, or by a combination of both."

naiṣāṁ matis tāvad urukramāṅghriṁ, sprśaty anarthāpagamo yad-arthaḥ
mahīyasāṁ pāda-rajo-'bhiṣekaṁ, niṣkiñcanānām na vṛṇīta yāvat

Prahlāda Mahārāja states: "Unless they smear upon their bodies the dust of the lotus feet of a Vaiṣṇava completely freed from material contamination, persons very much inclined toward materialistic life cannot be attached to the lotus feet of the Lord, Who is glorified for His uncommon activities. Only by becoming Kṛṣṇa conscious and taking shelter at the lotus feet of the Lord in this way can one be freed from material contamination." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.32)

Without the help of the Vaiṣṇava we cannot reach there. This is the general thing, minimum. Others may be redundant, either departmental knowledge about this, that, so many things that are not necessary. That may be sometimes ornamental for a preacher. If a devotee is a preacher, then he can be a good preacher, if the devotee is educated he may be a good preacher to the educated section, not to the ordinary. That is something ornamental. But the minimum necessity sādhu saṅga and śraddhā, śraddhā in the disciple and the genuine preceptor. This connection, praṇipāt, paripraśna, sevayā, and this jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ, this connection necessary.

Devotee: In Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, Sanātana Goswāmī shows the travels of Gopa Kumara. And he is going through different stages of progressive realisation. But that is not necessary for everyone?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not everyone. Of course he will have to pass through those stages unconsciously. Virāja, Brahmāloka, Śivaloka, Vaikuṇṭha, we have to pass, but no stopping at the station, we pass quickly through towards the destination. The stages are there, but from one stage one station to another, then another, then another, in this way many stations not stopping. He may go from anywhere unconsciously passing through those places he'll leave there. Stages are there but no stop, he may not stop there. Necessarily he'll pass through those places, or stages, unconsciously. Very quickly it will pass unknowingly, unconsciously.

Devotee: But if he had some attraction then he may stop there?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If any special attraction he may have to stop there. But if the guide is strong enough he'll say: "No, no, no stoppage here, come. No charm here. What is here is already known as this and that and that is only detention, no value, come."

Devotee: There's one breaker here, it's called Vṛndāvana Express Train.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Express also stops in the main places, only this is a special train. Ha, ha. And there is also Navadvīpa Special. And that is considered above Vṛndāvana. And we are there. Appreciation, realisation is necessary, why so? Why Vṛndāvana is superior to every stage of life? And why Navadvīpa also considered, to our poor we have got no money. Navadvīpa with very least capital we can get in Navadvīpa which is in Vṛndāvana. And more. It's difficult to understand.

The highest power of positive negative combined is giving something.

Rasa-rāja mahā-bhāva dui eka rūpa. The sweetness and the taster of the sweetness in its highest degree, They're combined to bestow, to distribute Themselves for us. If you can give away all so-called religious prejudices and concentrate towards the naked truth, the rasam, and sympathy towards Me then we shall be able to understand how Both combined together. Both the parties, giver taker. The greatest giver and the greatest receiver Both combined a pot to give to the ordinary people. That is only in a limited circle, to the qualified circle. And here ordinary mass can have entrance and in no time maybe given the tickets of that high position. Percolated.

Achievement of Kṛṣṇa's service also may be done by the Nimbarka, the Vallabha, and others. The Māyāvādīs they also have recognition. But the whole Vaiṣṇava school they have got real position of Kṛṣṇa. But their conception of Kṛṣṇa is also different from the conception of Mahāprabhu, in some respects. So if we can approach Kṛṣṇa through Mahāprabhu, the highest attainment, and any defect, that fullest, highest fullest, not partial attainment of Kṛṣṇa. We are to clearly understand for ourselves where's the difference with Nimbarka and others conception of Kṛṣṇa.

And so much so, inconceivable, that we are to give more stress towards Rādhārāṇī. That is the peculiarity of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava school. There may be sweetmeat but the absence of tongue, nothing to be lived. If proper tongue I may have, the standard of the tongue, that will give me the standard of sweetness. Something like that. Without tongue no meaning of sweetness. Without ear no meaning of music.

Independent of Rādhārāṇī we can contact with Kṛṣṇa we'll be loser. But in the service of Rādhārāṇī we get the highest quality of Kṛṣṇa realisation, highest quality. Because so much high sweetness, so much high and real intense realisation about Kṛṣṇa is not possible anywhere and that quality I can have if I participate in Her line. That quality, quantity and quality, highest quality only can be drawn from that rasa, ecstasy, by Her alone. And that type of quality I can expect to have in Her line. It is running, the current is running through high to us, towards His inmates towards His campaign, that quality. So much so that one who can understand the taste of that quality, the other current is tasteless to them, quite tasteless, the rasa.

The rasa may come through other channels, that will be tasteless to the tongue who has tasted that rasa coming through Rādhārāṇī. Something like this. Rādhā-Dāsyā (Queen kuja?). In Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's poetry I developed that in the last stanza.

pariveśitaṁ raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtaṁ aho tad dātum īśo bhavān

"What was sanctioned by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu by His descent was intimately known only to Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī. It was adored by Sanātana Goswāmī and served by Rūpa Goswāmī and his followers. Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī tasted that wonderful thing fully and enhanced it with his own realisation. And Jīva Goswāmī supported and protected it by quoting the scriptures from different places. The taste of that divine truth is aspired for by Brahmā, Śiva, and Uddhava, who respect it as the supreme goal of life. What is this wonderful truth? śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanā: that the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. This is most wonderful. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are our master. It is within your power to allow them to bestow their grace upon us. You are in a position to bestow the highest gift ever known to the world upon us all. It is at your disposal. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, please be kind to us and grant us your mercy."

The extent of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's gift, how high it is to show that Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is so great that he has given gradually this highest thing he could give. What is that? Śrī-gaurānumataṁ: sanctioned by Śrī Gaurāṅga. Svarūpa-viditaṁ: that value is known only to Svarūpa Dāmodara, he can estimate the value of such gift by Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu's sanction how valuable it was known only to Svarūpa, the Lalitā Devī avatāra. Rūpāgrajenādrtaṁ: Sanātana Goswāmī who is the master of the sambandha-jñāna, he has appreciated it very much. Rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ: Rūpa Goswāmī with his followers has served them direct to the public, to the proper persons. Raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam: Raghunātha Dāsa he has tasted it properly and enhanced, developed, give some development. Jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ: Śrī Jīva with his followers have supported, gave protection, that in the name of the Rādhā-Dāsyā any other thing may not come within. And this is the aim of the whole scripture. In this way, Jīva Goswāmī with his followers have earnestly tried to prove to the intellectuals that how this is the highest. Śuka-śiva-brahmādi: The Śuka, Śiva, Brahmā, and Uddhava, they showed their aspiration for this thing, not all, they have paid due respect to that thing. And sammānitaṁ: Such service, the service means the satisfaction, propitiation of Rādhārāṇī, and you are in the position to bestow this to us. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you hold such dignified position that you can give that thing to us. Śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam aho tad dātum īśo bhavān: Your position is so dignified that you are bestower of this highest thing and you have shown it in your writings how this is the highest aim of our life, highest realisation of the life of every soul is there.

And the next concluding śloka:

kvāhaṁ manda-matis tvatīva-patitaḥ kva tvaṁ jagat-pāvanaḥ bho svāmin kr̥payāparādha-nicayo nūnaṁ tvayā kṣamyatām yāce 'haṁ karuṇā-nidhe!
varam imaṁ pādābja-mūle bhavat sarvasvāvadhi-rādhikā-dayita-dāsānāṁ gaṇe gaṇyatām

"But where am I? I am in a most fallen condition, my intelligence bound with fault. Where are you, O deliverer of the universe? O master! By your causeless mercy alone, my unlimited offences can be pardoned. O ocean of compassion! O Gurudeva! I humbly beg for one favour before your lotus feet: kindly count me as one of the servitors of Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, that Divine Couple Who are an ocean of matchless wealth."

Where am I? A fallen soul with so much disqualification, patitaḥ, fallen of the fallen. And where are you? Your position in the highest peak of respect. Jagat- pāvanaḥ: You purify the whole world, in such a position you are, you hold. In this attempt I might have limited you. I have no capacity of doing real justice to you in this description of your greatness. This is very ruff and audacious attempt. For this haughtiness you must forgive me. You are so great. And I have got one prayer to file under your holy feet. What is that? The most favourite of the favourite of you, your most loving Dayita Dāsa, your disciple Dayita Dāsa, our Gurudeva (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura), you please grant my admission into his zone. This is my prayer to you. You recommend me to get admission amongst the so many servants of your heartfelt, affectionate disciple, our Gurudeva. You recommend me to have entrance, admission into his zone. That is my prayer to you Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura."

One or two or three centres may be given more attention and all possible workers should do for that. Then when they're very firm footing, then to exchange gradually.

Devotee: I think that that is a good idea but there may be a strong independence of desire amongst the devotees coming this side. So immediately they feel the necessity to do something completely independent. And as a result a few centres are not strengthened.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So make the best of a bad bargain, that policy. Where it is not possible to bring them within the central rule they may be given a little freedom, as less as necessary. But one, two, three, four, a few centres should be strengthened, strongholds just like forts. The fort and the ruling country, fort and ruling country, something like that. Strong centre, two, three, here there like fort, and to extend the government from there, here there so many centres may be.

This is my suggestion. You consider it according to your own knowledge and go on doing. You are known to the habits and ways of the foreign affairs more. I am only sitting here in some narrow quarter, limited. Only through books may I have some knowledge of the foreign country, not practical ideas. You are in the practical field, you are to adjust, final adjustment will be with you. My advice more or less theoretical. You are in the practical field.

Devotee: Yours in the central interest and ours is provincial so therefore yours is more broad.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mine is ontological, legal interest, but to translate that ontology into the practical activities that depends on you, and your knowledge, your experience, your experience. So I say mine is theoretical and yours practical, how to do it practically. Hare Kṛṣṇa. You may utilise me, my thoughts, ideas, my experienced knowledge about the śāstra, and the Vaiṣṇava or the sampradāya. That you may try to utilise for your purpose.

Devotee: We'd like that you utilise us for your purpose.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the highest end of course it may be like that. The idea, the ideal, the moralism, more or less you depend to be supplied from me. But how to translate them into practical line? You have got your own better experience of the locality. You are to do that.

Devotee: That has been shown most by Goswāmī Mahārāja, by the book, books of your speeches, that is the most major step in the practical line. Such books should be given first encouragement we all feel. The Search for Kṛṣṇa: Reality the Beautiful, we find this to be the first step of the practical development.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right.

Devotee: Swāmī Mahārāja used to say: "Books are the basis."

Devotee: "Utility is the Principle."

Devotee: "Preaching is the Essence."

Devotee: "Purity is the Force."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By distributing books, by publishing, by delivering lectures, and also by reading the scriptures, in many ways. Our Guru Mahārāja also did by exhibition also. In various ways he wanted to push on the ideas. Swāmī Mahārāja also doing a variety of portraits in the books of different kinds, educating, pictures through the books.

Devotee: So we see in Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura some different applications in the practical field of Kṛṣṇa consciousness theory.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that difference?

Devotee: Well, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, in the gṛhastha āśrama, it seems that in his songs and writings, he says: gṛhe thāko, vane thāko, sadā 'hari' bole' ḍāko.

(Śrī Nāma, 2, from Gītāvalī)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is Narottama Ṭhākura's song gṛhe thāko, vane thāko.

Devotee: Narottama, he says: gṛhe vā vanete thāke, 'hā gaurāṅga' bo'le ḍāke.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura?

Devotee: gṛhe thāko, vane thāko.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: je-dina gṛhe, bhajana dekhi, gṛhete goloka bhāya

(Śuddha-bhakata, 6, from Śaraṇāgati)

Devotee: So he seems to be, he's saying either, "Whether you're a householder or, it is the same." But it seems that he's Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Cultivation of kṛṣṇānusandhāna (the search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa), that is what is necessary. Wherever you be that does not matter, wherever you be that is not of much concern. But be attentive towards Kṛṣṇa and you do for Him as much as possible.

Devotee: But he seems to be giving encouragement to the householders especially.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That was a question for a long time in the Mission. They came to ask me after the departure of Guru Mahārāja. When Vasudeva Prabhu came there was a dissolution. He wanted to encourage that Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's line. "Don't have an artificial life, go and marry and be householder and do sincerely your service towards Kṛṣṇa." In this way he began to preach. So many of our Godbrothers came to me. "What do you say?"

I told: Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura came to prepare the ground and for the weak minded people, and that is constitutional method. And Prabhupāda (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) came as revolutionary. He organised missionary activity and strong minded persons he invited, who will be ready to take the risk, sarva-dharmām parityajya (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66). If there is any defect they're ready to suffer for that. For a strong minded person as much as they can command they will begin with that with boldness. This is one thing.

And the second thing is that he made arrangement for Vaiṣṇava sevā.

Vaiṣṇava sevā is very important thing to get the service of Kṛṣṇa. Here he arranged in such a way that the beginners they may have chance of serving the senior Vaiṣṇava. They will be engaged in higher services and the newcomers they may help them in their ordinary supply of necessities. The newcomers are washing the cloth of the sannyāsīns of higher. They're cooking food there and preparing bedding for the higher class of Vaiṣṇava. So they're getting the service of the Vaiṣṇava, and they're also serving in higher ways the Vaiṣṇava in the hierarchy. That was created. One generally in gr̥hastha āśrama one should not take, or in the secluded life, bābājī's secluded life, they do not take any service from any other. In gr̥hastha life they take service from ordinary persons that may not have any liking for Vaiṣṇava creed. But here the beginners have come to get chance for the service of Kṛṣṇa and they get the facility of Vaiṣṇava sevā, mutual arrangement. They're also helping them, they're also helping them. Like Napoleonic Chair, you know Napoleonic Chair?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In a circular way in a marshy land they're standing for a long time. No rest they can take, all standing. Then they wanted to take rest at least by sitting in a chair. In a circular way the soldiers were arranged and were asked to take seat. So everyone was, on his lap he carried one, and he also got another lap to take seat. In this circular way all could take a seat. So by mutual arrangement of help of service they will march towards the goal. So the tyāgī, sannyāsī, and those that are very eager to attain the goal and they're ready to take some risk as it is mentioned in Bhāgavatam:

tasyaiva hetoḥ prayateta kovido na labhyate yad bhramatām upary adhaḥ tal labhyate duḥkhavad anyataḥ sukhaṁ kālena sarvatra gabhīra-
raṁhasā

"Persons who are actually intelligent and philosophically inclined should endeavour only for that purposeful end which is not obtainable even by wandering from the topmost planet (Brahmāloka) down to the lowest planet (Pātāla). As far as happiness derived from sense enjoyment is concerned, it can be obtained automatically in course of time, just as in course of time we obtain miseries even though we do not desire them." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.5.18)

No risk no gain. The stereotype moving in this way. You must take some risk and maybe damaged, still he must take risk to come out of the vicious circle. So:

yatra kva vābhadram abhūd amuṣya kiṁ (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.5.17)

If taking greater risk one jumps into the Kṛṣṇa bhajan life but he cannot stand, he falls, what is the loss there? Because for the time being he's centred, as much time he could spend for service of Kṛṣṇa and His devotees, that is something. And without taking risk what he will have done, what is the value of that? So:

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja ahaṁ tvām sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ

"Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair." (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66)

Takes the, draws the attention of Kṛṣṇa, he has taken so much risk for His service. But everyone must be sincere, not any diplomacy in the movement, not any self cheating temperament. If sincere then, may not be qualified but sincere, he will take risk to go further. Then if he cannot go, he falls, Kṛṣṇa will look after him. That is the line of action.

And another, to be a gṛhastha: "Oh, I cannot do exclusive service, it's not possible for me. I shall try an easier life and as much as I can do Kṛṣṇa-bhakti I shall try, must be satisfied with that." That is another temperament.

Our Guru Mahārāja came with that force that those that are bold enough to march towards Kṛṣṇa at the risk of their prospect, 'yes you come.' In this way he called for and tried his best to engage them in various activities. In the press, in the platform, in the exhibition ground, in different ways he wanted to give them experience to march on towards Kṛṣṇa, cultivation of Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇānusilanam.

Anyhow to utilise oneself for the service of Kṛṣṇa and that is possible under the direction, to work under the direction of a proper devotee. That is what is very, very, very rarely found. The proper direction in the line of Kṛṣṇa-bhakti. That is not very easily found. So very special persons that are in the plane of Kṛṣṇa-bhakti who can understand what is real devotion or what is not real. Under the directions of such persons to work. That is a very rare thing to be found. And sukṛti also may be gathered. Swāmī Mahārāja sent out: "Distribute the books, anyhow utilise your energy for the service of Kṛṣṇa and acquire some sukṛti if not devotion proper, anyhow engage yourself."

In this way with much boldness our Guru Mahārāja made a campaign, a fight, totalitarian fight against māyā. Once when I visited one advocate in the court of Krishnanaga. He asked me: "Swāmījī, we are ashamed when you red clad sannyāsīns come to the court, but you do not feel any shame, that these religious persons you will have to come to court to sue for the case and sometimes amongst yourselves the fighting Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then another behest, what after that, what after that, no end. mayte naviyam ? no end, anoliyam ? no end. So the middle size, that should be considered as the prime cause, the medium. madhyam acara ? If we search the prime cause within, we are not injudicious, because no end of bigness, and no end of lowness, no end, so the prime cause must be located in the middle. madhyam arcati ?

Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Sonhood of Godhead. In the centre and not in the circumference. In this way the centre must be found here and the centre of attraction which can give cosmic character to everything, that must be located in the centre, under this ānandam, sat cit ānandam, in this way it is. But those that cannot appreciate, from them he did not want to take the Name of Śrī Rādhikā, that they will misunderstand Her and will commit only offences against Her.

Our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) also, he also told so many things, but very rarely he took the Name with great respect of Rādhārāṇī.

Once perhaps I told happened something, one big zamindar disciple of Guru Mahārāja, he had some respect, he was well educated and he was wealthy. So ordinary people had much respect for him, and he mixed with many sections. He came to Guru Mahārāja and anyhow he opened the topic that Lakṣmī Devī, or some Parvatī's beauty is better, higher, than that of the gopīs, in this way something.

Prabhupāda (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) could not tolerate this idea.

Then he began to, from internal emotion, began to describe the beauty of Rādhārāṇī. (Guru Mahārāja speaks in Bengali with another devotee)

And Prabhupāda began emotionally to describe the beauty of Rādhārāṇī, but another force was checking his attempt.

That the Rādhārāṇī's beauty will be challenged by some quarter. And also he can't describe that beauty in the ordinary public section. Not to be exposed to them, they're all of another type, unable to appreciate a very small portion of that. So two opposite forces were fighting in him and he fainted, fell from the chair. He will speak it, that extraordinary beauty, he can't give up the challenge without, that talk without challenge, at the same time, before the ordinary people, he can't speak also. He's not prepared to describe the beauty extraordinary of Rādhārāṇī. The two forces from different directions came into clash and Prabhupāda fainted and fell from the chair.

So Jīva Goswāmī, he mentioned that Śukadeva in the course of his lecture came to mention the Name of Rādhārāṇī, but again She's pushed back from the position, did not. Only in one place it is mentioned, pradana gopī, the principal gopī, in this way. In Bhāgavatam.

She lodged complain against Kṛṣṇa in different way, in the front of Uddhava, Her grievance. He represented the grievance of the gopī and Vṛndāvana against Kṛṣṇa and then minimised in the end. "He is all in all, He can make or mar, He can do everything, everything is justified, who are we, we are most negligible part of His friends circle."

In this way.

And there is another, that during the rasa, rasa, when Rādhārāṇī could not tolerate the common dealing of Kṛṣṇa with all the gopī's. Not any distinctive nature in His dealings to the superior, inferior, not such, common dealing, general dealing. That She could not tolerate and She came forward, and by Her song and dancing charmed the whole field and then suddenly disappeared. And Kṛṣṇa when He could detect that Rādhārāṇī is not seen here, She has left the place, then He left the whole rasa ceremony and tried to follow the footsteps of Rādhārāṇī. That is a very important factor, otherwise it will do wrong instead of right. Adhikāra (qualification).

Devotee: Does Mahāprabhu consider adhikāra ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course, He used to do saṅkirtana, nāma-saṅkirtana in the public, but when He used to cultivate about the rasa of Vṛndāvana, with closed doors, none could have any entrance.

One brāhmaṇa who used to drink only milk and nothing else, he came with boast that: "I must have admission, I do not eat anything, but I only live on milk drinking, I must be qualified to enter into."

Then Mahāprabhu ridiculed him, showing His thumb. "Only drinking milk is no qualification to get admission in Kṛṣṇa bhakti, go off."

So under closed door He used to go on with saṅkirtana about the high rasa of Vṛndāvana, and nāma-saṅkirtana in the public, He did. Saṅkirtana.

In Caitanya-Bhāgavata, the poem:

bahiraṅga saṅga godhi nāma-saṅkīrtana antaraṅga saṅga koraḥ rasa
sadan

Within the selected circle He used to culture about this rasa and, bahiraṅga, the ordinary public, this nāma-saṅkīrtana, that He did strictly. So much so that one day the mother-in-law of Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit, who was not up to mark, mother-in-law of Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit. It was at night in the yard of Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit's Śrīvāsangam, He used to, this rasa kīrtana, He used to do that, and none could have any entrance. Now out of curiosity the mother-in-law of Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit, she hid herself within a basket there on the veranda. And Mahāprabhu is going on with the rasa kīrtana but He say's: "Today I do not find any inner encouragement, inspiration, there must be some outsider who is not fit to attend, understand all these things."

Then Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit he tried his best to find out whether any outsider, any trespasser is there, he could not find any such person. Again Mahāprabhu attempted but He did not find any real inspiration. "You, I can't find any real inspiration, why, there must be some..."

Then in this way, twice or thrice, then Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit he found out that his mother-in-law in a big basket concealed there. Then he was so much enraged. "My Prabhu, my master is not finding ecstatic joy and you have come here to disturb us." Caught her, though as mother-in-law she should be respected, wife's mother, but he could not restrain himself, he caught her by her hair and ousted her, so much strict.

Because we are not to belittle the thing, not a thing of luxury or our mental food of the pleasure seeking thoughts, not like that. This is the highest of the highest, highest of the highest.

"O mind please listen. You have nothing else to be attached to except Śrī Gaurāṅga. Never in the past, nor in the future, will there be such a benevolent incarnation who has presented the matchless divine love ecstasy of God so generously. He poured into this world that ambrosial wealth which is ever cherished and hankered for even by great powerful personalities like Śiva and Viriñci (Brahmā). By His merciful grant, even the most common destitute persons were blessed with the chance to imbibe that nectar with great delight. Overwhelmed by spiritual ecstasy they began to sing the glory of the Lord and dance accompanied by the concert of rhythmic drums and sweet karatālas. Frightened by the power of such holy saṅkīrtana, the inauspicious atheists who were slaves to their mortal ego, ran away and hid in locked rooms to protect themselves from such purifying effect. All three worlds of existence (svarga, martya and patala) became blessed by receiving transcendental bliss and reverberated that auspicious sound. Premānanda says: "I can never have enough devotion to my beloved Gaurāṅga." (Premānanda Dāsa)

Our Guru Mahārāja. So many imitationists in Vṛndāvana, after, during a tour of Vṛndāvana in the beginning, Guru Mahārāja came and he stroked his forehead: "I came to Vṛndāvana but I could not find a single Vaiṣṇava here. But so many bābājī's were there, so many bābājī's. I could not find a single Vaiṣṇava , my fate is so hard, I'm so unfortunate." That was his remark.

They who will give due respect to Rādhārāṇī, when we went to Vṛndāvana we were ordered to read there the, polar charitur ? of Bhāgavatam, not about Kṛṣṇa topics in Vṛndāvana. Sannyāsīns of Gauḍīya Maṭh are holding classes and there they're explaining, polar charitur ? and ambarish charitur ? The primary stages of śuddha bhakti, and they're not ordered to take, to explain kṛṣṇa-līlā.

Guru Mahārāja himself, he also sometimes read, in Rādhā-Kuṇḍa and Śyāma-Kuṇḍa, there is a boundary, in that place he held classes for some time in, kartika mass ujarvita ? We attended, but he explained, (Rūpa Goswāmī's)Upadeśāmṛta not any līlā of Kṛṣṇa, Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa.

pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range

"The path of divine love is worshipping to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."

The whole sphere is taken at respectable distance on the head. Go on working in the lower level. To show proper respect to the highest thing, don't venture to enter. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread. With this idea we are to establish.

Once his class mate of the student life, afterwards he became attorney of high court and then retired and went to Vṛndāvana and lived there. His Guru was one Yati Goswāmī. And he came to pay visit to our Guru Mahārāja, as he was known from his childhood. And Guru Maharaja for formal curtsy went to see him in his quarter. And there he found that he's engaged in hearing the rasa-līlā explained by a famous Goswāmī, Fran Gopāla, there. Guru Mahārāja went to see him, he was engaged there, he bowed down there and coming out.

Then that gentleman leaving the position, leaving the listening to the Bhāgavatam, he came down: "Why you are going on, rasa-līlā is being read here and you must take your seat and you are coming and in a second you are going away?"

"Oh, I cannot stand here. My Guru Mahārāja did not allow me. He told that I will have to commit offence if I attend any rasa-līlā talk. So I can't stay here I am going."

To hear rasa-līlā from the lips of a person who is not so much realised and who is a slave of lust, and he's expressing rasa-līlā and to hear that, who are not fit to go to that level, that is committing offence, nothing else. And that offence means that will shut the door for long time to enter there, offence means that. It will close the door for long time until that offence is removed. Then we may have entrance there, admission there.

So not to belittle, it is not a novel, that I shall enjoy the pastimes of the male and female. Aprākṛta, adhokṣaja, aprākṛta. Beyond the reach of the soul, the Supersoul area and the highest quarter of the soul of the spiritual world, that is that. Otherwise if we will depreciation and it will be eternally closed to me, and not to trifle. The highest fulfilment of life, that may not be spoiled, I can do or not do, but I should not spoil my highest fulfilment of life.

What we can understand or appreciate from far off, that is enough for us, to feed us. The little ray, that will come from far away, that is of such superior quality that that can dismiss all aspirations that are known to us. What to speak of having any direct connection with there. arbasiti ? That is such. We can conjecture from far away what superiority of the position will be there. An ordinary man's private life, that we cannot enter into, that is a concealed thing and what about that pastimes of the Supreme most entity. So:

'stu raso 'stu satyam

(Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī says:) We must not be, must not try to run up, but we shall try to go down to begin, to utilise my energy. And automatically I shall find myself that I am taken by the current to a suitable position. The current of the environment will take me to my suitable position. But my tendency will always be to begin from the downward service. That should be the tendency. Dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu, My sincere attraction I shall try to regulate towards the lowest service and the environment will take me up and put me in proper position. That is healthy, and to try to go up, setting others on the side, to make progress forcibly, that is the etiquette which is not admired there and not workable. That pushing others right and left and to make progress forcibly with pride, that etiquette is unfit. Everyone is thinking that "I am the smallest." And the Yoga-Māyā is there. You make proper adjustment.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, can you explain antaraṅga asasva ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Antaraṅga, that is to engage himself in the private talk, talk of Rādhā- Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs in Their private life, that is antaraṅga-rasa. The pastimes of Kṛṣṇa with the gopīs. Antaraṅga means inner most, the satisfaction of the inner most hankering, of serving one another in the highest sentimental form.

So that attitude is indispensable in a servant. Things may be approached with the spirit of exploitation. And the opposite is to leave everything with the spirit of indifference and renunciation and to become single. And the third form of life will be to associate with everything with the spirit of service, and that service generally of two kinds. In the beginning respectable, and in the highest quarter it is very friendly, familiar, and unreserved giving and taking of the inner most senses, sentiments, in the madhurya-rasa.

In other rasa also, in vātsalya-rasa, Yaśodā is whipping the Son and if anyone wants to do that, audaciously by imitating Yaśodā, he wants to whip the Gopāla Vighraha or something, that would be too much audacity and ignoring the whole thing. When one is in the level of Yaśodā, in affection towards Kṛṣṇa, in the intense affection towards Kṛṣṇa, she can whip.

And from ordinary position he will go on to imitate Yaśodā: "Oh I can whip Gopal." And that will be suicidal, self frustrationist, self deceptive. In another way a form of atheism. This is all mental concoction. Ultimately it will come from there. "I tried for so long but I found nothing to be extraordinarily ecstatic." Atheism. The offence will take me down, hurled down.

A research scholar with great strain he has found out such truth. A blunt headed man if he goes to do that and he cannot follow the steps one by one regularly, he will go to make experiment and ultimately come back, "No it is all false."

Devotee: If it's too fierce then of course he may adjust, but we were thinking if he could have one more man because he's alone Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hamsadhūta Mahārāja sent him to me and now he's finding that he's to stand against him, is it?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To work there means to work against Hamsadhūta Mahārāja.

Devotee: Not necessarily. I'm selling his books. His picture is still on the Vyāsāsana, still on the altar, but his disciples they think.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If you work there without being much disturbed by them and not disturbing them, you go, in a positive way you will conquer.

Devotee: He will need one man to assist him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You better supply, anyone, is anyone ready to help him?

Devotee: Well in consultation with Your Grace and Govinda Mahārāja, we were thinking of a possibility of Mahānanda Prabhu, if he could be spared?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right, I shall consult and say. One helping hand he must have to work there.

Devotee: Mahārāja, somewhere in the Caitanya-caritāmṛta I am reading something about the Mahā-Purāṇas. How are they different from the Purāṇas?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of greater respect Mahā-Purāṇas, not Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is considered as Mahā-Purāṇa. More respectable.....

There are ten high symptoms of Purāṇa, in others only six.....

Because the twelve points are satisfied only there. First four points, four points first, then analysed it comes to twelve. First four points is this. Śruti, Veda, and revealed truth does not care for any reasoning. "Do this." Like a guardian, that is Veda. The temperament of the Vedic instruction is like a guardian., "Do this." No question of showing any reason because it is not necessary in that plane of life. No doubt, no suspicion can enter into that plane, of the sincere affection of the father to the son, so no questioning can enter into that temperament. Śruti is only commanding, "Do this." This is Śruti.

And smṛti is mainly like a sister, smṛti, appealing tone, in daily practices of our life, that is translated, that truth of the Veda is translated there, represented there and that is distributed rasa, that is in smṛti, smṛti, mano, patri, manyati, viṣṇu, hardita, jajyo, vago, sanangiya ? These are mahājana smṛti, our every day practices have been guided by the, just as the father instructs his daughter, "Distribute such food to my son." And she is doing that. smṛti bugni ?

And the Purāṇa is like a friend, "Oh such man did such way and he has got this good result, if you do then you'll also expect to have that benefit." In this way like a friend Purāṇa comes to help us. By showing so many stories, relating, and so many historical reference, Purāṇa comes to influence us to do particular thing like a friend, Purāṇa. And there is another, tabor ? this epic. That is also coming to sweetly represent the husband, good things, don't do this, that will not be beneficial for us, in a sweet way she represents to the husband some sort of advice, then another side, and another standpoint. Śruti, Smṛti, Purāṇa, and that is tantra, tantra means do any practice in such way that it will be finished in no time, with this policy.

"O son of Kuntī, whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you offer in sacrifice, whatever you offer in charity, and whatever austere vows you may keep - do everything as an offering unto Me." (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.27)

Then you will get relief from that thing very soon, very soon. Just as you're a patient, his favourite dish is particular to salt, or some sweet. Always if you cannot do without that, he will take that but mixed with this medicine, then the difficulty will go away. So tantra is like that, in which we have got our affinity, "do this." But mixing it with such understanding, some connection, some Godly connection, some Divine connection applied to it and then do it. And you will be very easily and shortly relieved of that, that is tantra.

But the Veda is the root of all and that is also coming, this is called, prastarnatie ? the points of departure, three points of departure. Veda, that the command of the father, Veda is like the father commanding the child, children: "Do this." And that is then coming down points of departure. One Smṛti, another Purāṇa, friendly, and another sisterly, Smṛti. Smṛti and Purāṇa and nyāya, Vedānta, yukti.

And in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam we find all of them, it is, harteti ? Smṛti like Veda is command sometimes, and like the departure about the logical side, tarka. Yukti means logical Vedānta, Śaṅkara? Then Jaimini's pūrvva-mīmāṃsā. All these ṣaḍ-darśana, these six schools of philosophy, as found in India, six schools of philosophical presentation. Nyāya means logic, then Vedānta of Vyāsadeva, that also, all represented in a logical way, that is, nyāya. In Bhāgavatam the, nyāya is there, the Śruti is there, the Purāṇa like the friendly advice is there. And also the tantrics, they're to do it in such a way that you will get relief from that very soon, that tantric pantra, that is also there.

So all the possible evidences are given in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and this is Mahā-Purāṇa. No other Purāṇa, no other śāstra is so much authentic as Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. So Jīva Goswāmī, he selected Bhāgavatam as the only Purāṇa which can help us to God realisation. And why he accepted Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam he gave explanation for that. In the beginning he counted ten kinds of evidences, ten kinds. And he eliminated them one by one, showing some defect in them. And ultimately he has taken only śruti, or apta praman? Śruti means that which comes as revealed from the beginning of the world, from Kṛṣṇa to Brahmā. Through Brahmā, through the creator of the world, the knowledge which is extended here through the creator of this world, that is śruti.

And apta, apta means those mahājana, those that come down from higher sphere to help the people here, their words also we can take as evidence. And all our empirical attempts to know the truth spiritual, that is all defective and that must be cancelled. In this way Jīva Goswāmī has approached in his first part of Bhāgavata-Sandarbha where he has considered the question of epistemology. Which should be the real evidence, we should accept, epistemology, he has cancelled. At first he counted ten kinds of evidences and then cancelled one by one, showing the defects and he has only accepted two, śruti as well as, mahājana barga ? apta barka ?

Bhrama, pramāda, karaṇāpāṭava, vipralipsā - (mistakes, illusions, cheating, and sensory inefficiency - the defects of the material body). These are the test, bhrama means commission, we commit something wrong. Then pramāda means omission, omission, we can't detect many things, that is also a defect, pramāda. Then karaṇāpāṭava, the defect in the instrument through which we examine the truth, that is also a cause to our conclusion, can cause defect in our conclusion, karaṇāpāṭava. The instrument of imperfection, karaṇāpāṭava. Bhrama, pramāda, karaṇāpāṭava, vipralipsā - Prejudice, we are prejudice in such a way that we can't see the truth. We cannot be impartial and so we cannot detect the fact, it is neglected, we are so prepossessed by prejudice. That is vipralipsā. That these four things are enemy to our right conclusion.

So these tests were put to other pramāṇas (proofs) and all failed, only śruti and, apta barka ? These two pramāṇas stand, stood. In this way he has proved in his book of epistemology in Bhāgavata, Tattva-Sandarbha. The ontological enquiry, Tattva-Sandarbha means ontological enquiry, analysis. And there he has meant most all others are defective, only Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam gives us the satisfaction of the highest evidence about the enquiry of the Supreme Entity, Transcendental. So there we find, and this, pasid? is a great Paṇḍit, six titles he has got, including Vaiṣṇava philosophy also, Vaiṣṇava darśana. And he says that twelve points there are special in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. And in other Purāṇa they can only have six, so six more special points in favour of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. So Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, what he will say that will be the highest standard of truth and Jīva Goswāmī also said the four kinds of approaches towards the truth. Śruti, Smṛti, nyāya, and tantra. And Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is said.....

End of side A, 31-3-83 + 1-3-83, side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was dealt with Bhāgavan. Bhāgavata-Sandarbha name, he really, he has dealt with what is Brahmā. And in the second, paramātmēti, Paramātmā and jīvātmā, relative, there he has dealt with what is the nature of jīva soul. Jīva soul, that is dealt in the third part. And in the fourth he has dealt with Kṛṣṇa, the highest development of the theistic Absolute. And then the fifth he has dealt with the means to the end, cancelling this knowledge, or yoga, and any other karma, eliminating everything, only devotion may be accepted as means to end he has proved. And in the fourth what is the, prayojana, the fulfilment of life, that is only love of Kṛṣṇa and nothing else. Neither liberation, nor any other achievement, but only love of Kṛṣṇa, that is the fulfilment of our life.

In this way he has made progress. And if one is well read in that book he will be invincible in the whole world, to establish what is Kṛṣṇa, what is devotion, how it is, like Hegel, For Itself and by Itself, and, Die to Live.

Devotee: What is the significance of the Kūrma-Purāṇa ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The kind of knowledge that is emanating from the incarnation of the Lord as Kūrma, that is Kūrma-Purāṇa. The ten Avātara's you know, Matsya, Kūrma, Varāha, Nṛsiṁgha, in this way. And They came and They gave Their particular advice, special advice and mainly that is the basis of that instruction. That is known as Kūrma-Purāṇa. Then Nṛsiṁgha-Purāṇa, Varaha-Purāṇa, Matsya-Purāṇa, in that figure the Lord has given such instruction and that has been recorded to certain extent and in His Name that book is going on. Nṛsiṁgha-Purāṇa is also, Nṛsiṁgha Deva is saying, His advises that came from Him and that is mainly the guiding principle there. In this way the name has been.

Devotee: So the Kūrma-Purāṇa is considered sattvic śāstra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sattvic Purāṇa, I shall show you there is a book Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, the śloka's are all quoted there. You can show him. There it is mentioned the classification of Purāṇa, sattvic, rajasic, tamasic.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, when Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu was speaking in the grammar, everything in kṛṣṇa-sambanda, that is His līlā. So Jīva Goswāmī's Hari- Nāmāmṛta-Vyākaraṇa, is that the same līlā, is that an extension of that līlā ?

(Hari-Nāmāmṛta-Vyākaraṇa was written by Śrīla Jīva Goswāmī presenting rules of Sanskrit grammar, with examples using the Holy Names of the Lord. For example when one is playing the mṛdaṅga drum, using the Names Gaura Nitāi, Gaura Nitāi to represent different drumbeats)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That nāmābhāsa has been explained there, nāmābhāsa. Some differences there, this is remote and that is direct. (nāmābhāsa is the stage of chanting the Name of God which is neither offensive nor service mood, but between the two, a kind of apathetic chanting). Paramahansa, in the highest stage, one sees everything connected with Kṛṣṇa, but in the lower stage these special things are recommended to help him for Kṛṣṇa consciousness. More distant. But when one realises to the highest point, then anything and everything will excite him about Kṛṣṇa consciousness, nothing beyond.

Devotee: So on the basis of nāmābhāsa that is more distant, not so distinct.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not distinct, more distant. Everywhere one can find Kṛṣṇa's presence, that is remote, that is not to be traced everywhere, and this is, nāmābhāsa, we nearer approach, in that way.

Devotee: But Mahāprabhu's approach was direct, when Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu gave in kṛṣṇa-sambanda that was direct.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He showed that anything and everything has connection with Kṛṣṇa. Without His support, His connection, nothing can remain. Whatever it may be, it must have some connection with Him, and we are to trace that.

"Wherever there is any scholar here in Navadvīpa, I challenge them, let them come and refute me. I say that everything is connected with Kṛṣṇa. Let the professors of the atheistic school come and convince me that without Kṛṣṇa these things can remain, nothing can remain. From every thread we can go ultimately to the prime cause, we shall have to go."

He has given connection to anything and everything here, that is my general instruction, let it be challenged by any scholar of the world, that was His fame.

Devotee: And in the case of Jīva, Hari-Nāmāmṛta-Vyākaraṇa, a slightly different conception in the case of Hari-Nāmāmṛta-Vyākaraṇa ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hari-Nāmāmṛta-Vyākaraṇa a little nearer approach, nāmābhāsa. From nāmābhāsa, if you can get nāmābhāsa, anyhow. It is not sure that all readers of this Hari- Nāmāmṛta-Vyākaraṇa they will have nāmābhāsa. In the case of nāmābhāsa, no surety, certainty, no guarantee is given, the nāmābhāsa must be, but it may come, it may come. Otherwise everyone taking the Name he must have been liberated, mukti, but they do not get mukti. So committing nāmābhāsa then sometimes we find that nāmābhāsa can help us to emancipation. But it is His will, not only in every time taking the Name nāmābhāsa will come, it is not guaranteed.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, nāmābhāsa, Śrīla (A.C.Bhaktivedanta) Prabhupāda has described it as not pure chanting of the Holy Name. What is the negative quality there?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Negative quality is that he is trying to get the passport not the visa. By passport he can go to the last limit of the country, but without visa he cannot have admission into another land. So by nāmābhāsa one can get the passport to go anywhere and everywhere, which may not be the right for all.

Suppose in the frontier, if one has got special certificate he can go to visit the frontier. Otherwise how the military arrangement is there, all the people may not be allowed there to notice that. Do you follow, am I clear? You are living suppose in West Germany, but West Germany may not give all the subjects of West Germany, to go and have inspection of the border of East Germany, because there may be some military arrangement and ordinary men should not know that. Do you see? But special ticket is given to particular persons who are reliable, they may go and inspect the frontier, where military arrangement is made. Not to all but to some, some tickets may be allowed, they can go to inspect the border land, not all, it is like that.

By nāmābhāsa you can go to the extremity of this material world, extremity, to the frontier line, and not to cross. To cross that means to encroach the other land, enter into the other land. That is Vaikuṇṭha. That only through service, through visa we can enter into another land. What is the meaning of the visa? The visa is a certificate which will be given to you that you are not, not only no danger, but you have some contribution for the interest of that country where you are wanting to enter, then visa will be allowed. So when service, that we want to do, give something to the other part, then we may be allowed to enter, otherwise not, that is bhakti, dedication, service.

Mainly nāma-aparādha (offence against the Holy Name) and rarely nāmābhāsa. And śuddha-nāma (pure Name), that means we must have some dedicating tendency, fine dedicating concern, unadulterated dedicating tendency we must have for sevonmukhe (serving tendency). Then we can get admission into that finer land where every member is to serve and not to enjoy, that is the temperament, whatever the outer expression.

To our eye we may think that they're also enjoying one another, but it is not the fact. They're meeting only in the plane of dedication, service, service. Even the union of the husband and wife, there is also no enjoying mood, also serving mood. If we can conceive that then we can conceive Vṛndāvana, what is Vṛndāvana. All serving mood. Without that none can enter into that plane. Generally we see that the husband enjoys the wife, but wife has also got some sort of enjoyment, thereby, but maybe less. Aggressive and passive, but fully there no spirit of enjoyment. Just as the wife she may not have aggressive purpose but still she gets some enjoyment.

So it is possible to feel satisfaction by our passive and serving attitude, serving attitude. But the spirit of service must remain there otherwise no entrance is possible in that plane. So similar not same, aprākṛta, prakṛta vāt - just like mundane but it is not mundane, just the opposite. So this is the highest conception of Vṛndāvana. Like mundane but not mundane, but just the opposite, of serving, it is possible.

Just the same thing that union of the men and women, one with a prostitute, that is condemned very much. But when in married life not so much condemned, the degree of adulteration, the sinfulness is being lessened. In this way if we can push it, we can enter into the land of service and that also can go to the acme of service. Though it may seem to be very crude enjoyment, but it is not only free from that but the purest possible līlā.

That is, wholesale sacrifice to the, for Itself. Everything for Him, whatever is being done, for Him. That the basic principle must be satisfied, that everything is for Him, otherwise no entrance, no existence possible there. This fundamental principle must be satisfied to have entrance there. That for Himself. Even the birds and beasts in Vṛndāvana, they are also united in whatever they do, everything is for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. Otherwise no entrance, no existence is possible for any monkey, or bird, or beast, or anything, or even the worms also. Whatever thing, all dedicated to the greatest extent, fullest extent, towards centre, towards Kṛṣṇa, then that will be Vṛndāvana. Gaura Hari bol. Otherwise that will be like mundane world.

Devotee: Kāya-mano-vākya sevā, that may not be ananya-bhajana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kāya-mano-vākya - by thought, word and deed, anyone may try to serve anything. Someone may try to his country, kāya-mano-vākya, his thought, word and deed, everything engaged for the country. Not for his own family, or own comfort, that is also, kāya-mano-vākya. So kāya-mano-vākya in it's maximum stage, in it's free and normal stage, it will have to come to Kṛṣṇa, otherwise it won't be the perfect form of dedication.

kāmais tais tair hr̥ta-jñānāḥ, prapadyante 'nya-devatāḥ taṁ taṁ niyamam āsthāya, prakṛtyā niyatāḥ svayā

"Persons whose good intelligence has been spoiled by illicit desires for exploitation and renunciation or other duplicitous pursuits, worship other godly personalities such as the Sun-god and the many demigods. Being enslaved by their instinct, they adopt the corresponding rules and regulations of fasting and other tenets accordingly."

(Bhagavad-gītā, 7.20)

One may engage his thought, word and deed, for country, for Kali sevā, for Śiva, other demigods, but that won't be considered as perfect dedication, kāya-mano-vākya. When the reign is fully taken away it must go to Kṛṣṇa conception, it can't be satisfied anywhere. The fullest emancipation, svarūpeśa, self determination to the fullest extent, it will come to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, otherwise some sort of limitation there cannot but be.

Devotee: Rūpa Goswāmī says jīvan-mukta sa uchata

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Though he's seen to live here, still he's liberated. Because he's engaging all his energy towards the service of Kṛṣṇa, satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa and Guru, he should be considered as living liberated. Jīvan-mukta, when liberated though living in the flesh and blood, but soul is already liberated. And when the body will fall down, the soul will go there, in the same layer, same plane.

Devotee: In Caitanya-Bhāgavata, that about Nityānanda Prabhu, in the world of dedication, jay dubibay ? "Who goes there in that ocean?" So that is above kāya-mano- vākya sevā ? bhakti-rasa-sagara jay dubibay se nityānanda baddhuk.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He wants that achievement, jay dubibay ? in future, he wants to dive deep into the ocean of love, and Vṛndāvana, let him come and begin his life with the instruction of Nityānanda. Let him begin here, who has got the highest aspiration of being merged in the Divine Love in Vṛndāvana. Let him come and begin, take admission from Nityānanda. That is the purport. He will have that surety, if he comes and takes admission from Nityānanda, he's sure to get such achievement of the highest type, he will be able to merge in the ocean of Divine Love. No misguidance in the way, no possibility of any kidnapping in the way, straight. If he takes care, if he gets the ticket of the company of Nityānanda, the company will surely take him there.

Devotee: Would jñāna-nāma be an example of nāmābhāsa ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nāmābhāsa - Ajāmila (who called for his son by the Name of Nārāyaṇa) is a case of Nāmābhāsa. Nāmābhāsa means four kinds, sāṅketyaṁ, parihāsyā, stobha, helanam. In these four conditions if we take the Name, that generally comes nāmābhāsa. Not Nāma real but nāmābhāsa, ābhāsa means some likeness, ābhāsa means likeness to Nāma. And near about the pure Name, but not Name proper, but just in the vicinity of the Name, pure Name, ābhāsa means that. So when one can commit nāmābhāsa then he gets release from this mundane affinity, but he waits to enter into the other final land of devotion. In the abscissa (the marginal plane or taṭastha), withdrawn from the negative side but no entrance in the positive world, in the marginal position, no mans land, buffer state, that is, Virāja, Brahmā-loka.

"One who chants the Holy Name of the Lord is immediately freed from the reactions of unlimited sins, even if he chants indirectly - s̄āṅketyaṁ (to indicating something else as in the case of Ajāmila who called for his son by the Name of Nārāyaṇa), jokingly - parihāsyā, for musical entertainment - stobha (to use the Name with some other intention; Jīva Goswāmī has taken advantage of this in his book of Sanskrit grammar, the Harināmāmṛta- vyākaraṇa; when one is playing the mṛdanga drum, using the Names Gaura Nitāi, Gaura Nitāi to represent different drumbeats), or even neglectfully - hela (when we are rising from bed in the morning sometimes, we may neglectfully say Hare Kṛṣṇa; in this way we may cast off our indolence). This is accepted by all the learned scholars of the scriptures."

Devotee: How does one get pure chanting?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Pure chanting with the influence of the sādhu, if he can understand the purity and the eligibility and desirability in the serving life of Kṛṣṇa. For Himself. Die to live. If he wants a life of dedication, sacrifice his individual interest first, if for the central government then he can enter, to catch the idea that we are all representatives of the centre. We have got no local interest, we must not care for that, we are all representatives of the centre. With this idea we shall live, for the satisfaction of the centre. We are all soldiers, we are all soldiers, dedicating the cause of our life for the centre. We have got no other individual aims in our life but to fight for the centre, work for the centre. If one can catch such disposition of mind then he'll be given recognition as a central man, man of central interest. Universal facility he will enjoy, and that is very tasteful and high noble order. That sort of life.

Devotee: Lord Caitanya came to distribute freely the Holy Name but still it is required first that service must be there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Try to understand Kṛṣṇa, the sound aspect. The sound aspect of the Absolute representation is extended to you. Take it as a thread to march towards the centre. But mind, you will have to give up your own selfish end of life and to accept the universal goodness as your own. With this idea you can make progress. But if you take the Name, go on taking the Name, but you don't sacrifice, you don't budge an inch from your selfish position, then it will be fruitless. That is only the exercise of the tongue and the sound won't be within. It will be dead sound, the cultivation of dead sound. The sound if it once will awaken, the sound will awaken and show its spiritual characteristic. To whom? Who's very eagerly sacrificing himself to catch it. And who wants that, "Whatever I shall get out of the sound I shall utilise it for my selfish, mean purpose," the Vaiṣṇava sound won't come. He won't come to serve you but if you want to serve Him then He will accept you and you will find that you are getting the connection of the real Name, that is conscious Name, spiritual Name, Name is spiritual, mainly.

A book is given to you but if you have got some idea, some sort of progress, some sort of inclination, you can read and you can get the meaning out of that. Otherwise those letters are nothing, even though it is extended to your eyesight. So many letters, so many things written in the letter, but if we do not know how to read the meaning then it is only some colour to you, all physical. But you must enter into some training, into the meaning of the words and understand the purpose, then that letter and that book is much to you. Otherwise to an ordinary illiterate man a letter or a book has no value. But who has got education, to him, a letter comes, a telegram comes, and that has value. But illiterate, no value, only outer part is shown to him, he can't read. So he can't understand the sound, the sound divine he can't understand, what is within. But who has got such affinity, such education, understanding, then we can see many things and by being encouraged we can go further and further.

Devotee: In the Dālāler Gītā by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he says that Lord Nityānanda, He is distributing the pure Holy Name simply for the price of one's faith. So that faith, that is shown by service?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, faith is the plenary, the foundation of service. If you've got faith in something then you utilise your energy for that thing otherwise why will you invest your energy there. First faith and then you will invest your energy and as much energy you'll invest, you'll make progress. Here faith means in a general sense, not in particular, things here. The faith in the Absolute that He's self sufficient, He's by Himself, He's for Himself. Faith in that, and we are all His subordinates. We are not everyone of us a separate god, that we shall enjoy our own property. It is false, this is māyā. We must save ourselves from this mania. But we are a member in the universal world. With this understanding we shall have new instruction and we shall practically follow the path. And then gradually we shall find we can have communication with the central office, and we can have progress there, and we can enjoy the facility of being connected with central life. That is immortal and also very fresh, unending, eternal, ecstasy, giving life.

Devotee: Mahārāja, I don't want to sound like broken record, going back to Caitanya- caritāmṛta, Caitanya Mahāprabhu when He travelled through the south He picked up two books, Brahmā-saṁhita, Kṛṣṇa-karnāmṛta.

Devotee: Kūrma-Purāṇa.

Devotee: No. Kūrma-Purāṇa He heard but He did not pick up.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He heard. But He took up, He brought with Him Brahmā-saṁhita and Kṛṣṇa-karnāmṛta, two books He took with Him from the south.

Devotee: But from one brāhmaṇa in one temple in South India He heard the Kūrma- Purāṇa and was very Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not He heard, one brāhmaṇa in whose house He was a guest one day. He was a devotee of Rāmacandra and he was fasting and anyhow managed to supply some food to Śrī Caitanya Deva as his guest. Caitanya Deva found he did not take anything and enquired why he is fasting and he is moaning, in a moaning mood.

Then Mahāprabhu told him: "That you don't think, otherwise. Sītā Devī She is wholesale spiritual and this material power cannot touch Her, can't see Her. So what is the question of touching, forcibly. So don't think in that way."

But anyhow that brāhmaṇa took that consolation half hearted. So when Mahāprabhu went further, in a place, in a temple, He heard that Kūrma-Purāṇa is being read there. And in that the chaste ladies' stories came in and Sītā Devī's story was also written there, in a nutshell. And there it is mentioned when Rāvaṇa came to touch Her, Sītā Devī She took shelter in the care of fire. The god of fire he gave shelter to Sītā Devī in disguise and a māyā Sītā was produced to Rāvaṇa, and Rāvaṇa took Her.

And when again after the war and fighting finished in Lanka, then that māyā Sītā, that was taken there. And Rāmacandra asked that whether She is chaste. "I want to test Her chastity. So She must be thrown into the fire and if She does not die then I shall think that She is chaste and I shall accept Her." And it was done, though Hanumān and others they're very much mortified to the extreme. It was done, and at that time that fire god, he took the imitation Sītā and gave up the real Sītā to Rāmacandra. This story is mentioned in that way in Kūrma-Purāṇa.

Mahāprabhu heard and Mahāprabhu told something like that to that brāhmaṇa, that real Sītā was not taken by Rāvaṇa. So for His corroboration of His statement, He asked the priest in the temple: "You give Me that old page and instead you write a new page and put it there." So He begged the old page from there, from that book. Indian books in ancient times were not bound together, they're all loose. So that old loose page He begged from that temple agent and He took it. After crossing two hundred miles perhaps, He came to show that page to brāhmaṇa to do away with his misgivings.

And when that brāhmaṇa got that old page, "Oh it is mentioned in the Purāṇa." He was fully satisfied that Rāvaṇa could not take Her and he was very much pleased with Mahāprabhu. And he told that: "The other day when You were my guest I could not whole heartedly feed You, I have ignored. But now You are to stay a few days in my home and I want to serve You. You have such a great affinity for me, love for me, that You have again come two hundred miles to do away with my pain, the pain of my heart. You are no other but You are Rāmacandra Himself. You appreciated my grief so deep that You have again come here. You are none but Rāmacandra, the Lord of my heart. And another new thing I want to say that I already, before this I used to take the Name of Rāmacandra, always. But from Your association the Name of Kṛṣṇa, that came to me and I can't leave that Name, Kṛṣṇa, so You are Kṛṣṇa Himself."

In this way the statement mentioned there. The Kūrma-Purāṇa it was mentioned about Sītā, that the real Sītā was not caught by Rāvaṇa but imitation Sītā he took. Corroborating the fact Mahāprabhu represented to the brāhmaṇa of the Rāmānuja sampradāya.

aprākṛta vastu nahe prākṛta-gocāra veda-purāṇete ei kahe nirantara

"All the Vedas and Purāṇas constantly warn against considering divine or nonmaterial substance to fall within the category of material nature."

The spiritual things are not at the disposal of mundane power, it is spiritual, spiritual. The higher things can come to the lower, but lower things cannot go up and enter into the higher. Transcendental things can come in this mundane world, but this gross cannot enter into subtle, subtle can enter, earth cannot enter into ether but ether can enter into earth.

Kṛṣṇa knew that Kālayavana, the day of his death had come and he will have to die in a particular way. Everything was known and He was instrumental to that. Playfully He moved in his front in such a way that Kālayavana he's just going to catch, just going to catch, in this way. As Mucukunda, that cave, carried him to that cave and there He just hid Himself. And Kālayavana when he entered the cave he found that Mucukunda is lying there in a big figure. He was in Satya yuga and in a big body, he is lying there sleeping, after this place? and this Kālayavana will break his sleep. And whoever will break his sleep he will cast a glance, fire glance to him, and he will be reduced to ashes. All this was known to Kṛṣṇa. He playfully enticed him to that cave, entered the cave and hid Himself.

And Kālayavana thought He's sleeping there. "Oh You are to deceive me, You are lying here covering Your body." So he gave a kick and Mucukunda he awakened.

"You have awakened me from my rest." And his fire look he cast on Kālayavana and he was reduced to ashes and Kṛṣṇa came out.

Jarāsandha was, when fight going on with Kṛṣṇa and Jārasandha, Balarāma wanted to kill him by His club, but Kṛṣṇa pointed, "No he will be killed by Bhīma, You don't attempt. Balarāma avoided.

Devotee: During the chase, Kālayavana is chasing, Swāmī Mahārāja commented that Kālayavana could not catch Kṛṣṇa because he was too covered with contamination, or with false ego or something like this.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course. Seeing also, we cannot see.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Though he's seen to live here, still he's liberated. Because he's engaging all his energy towards the service of Kṛṣṇa, satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa and Guru, he should be considered as living liberated. Jīvan-mukta, when liberated though living in the flesh and blood, but soul is already liberated. And when the body will fall down, the soul will go there, in the same layer, same plane.

Devotee: In Caitanya-Bhāgavata, that about Nityānanda Prabhu, in the world of dedication, jay dubibay ? "Who goes there in that ocean?" So that is above kāya-mano- vākya sevā ? bhakti-rasa-sagara jay dubibay se nityānanda baddhuk.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He wants that achievement, jay dubibay ? in future, he wants to dive deep into the ocean of love, and Vṛndāvana, let him come and begin his life with the instruction of Nityānanda. Let him begin here, who has got the highest aspiration of being merged in the Divine Love in Vṛndāvana. Let him come and begin, take admission from Nityānanda. That is the purport. He will have that surety, if he comes and takes admission from Nityānanda, he's sure to get such achievement of the highest type, he will be able to merge in the ocean of Divine Love. No misguidance in the way, no possibility of any kidnapping in the way, straight. If he takes care, if he gets the ticket of the company of Nityānanda, the company will surely take him there.

Devotee: Would jñāna-nāma be an example of nāmābhāsa ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nāmābhāsa - Ajāmila (who called for his son by the Name of Nārāyaṇa) is a case of Nāmābhāsa. Nāmābhāsa means four kinds, sāṅketyaṁ, parihāsyā, stobha, helanam. In these four conditions if we take the Name, that generally comes nāmābhāsa. Not Nāma real but nāmābhāsa, ābhasa means some likeness, ābhasa means likeness to Nāma. And near about the pure Name, but not Name proper, but just in the vicinity of the Name, pure Name, ābhasa means that. So when one can commit nāmābhāsa then he gets release from this mundane affinity, but he waits to enter into the other final land of devotion. In the abscissa (the marginal plane or taṭastha), withdrawn from the negative side but no entrance in the positive world, in the marginal position, no mans land, buffer state, that is, Virāja, Brahmā-loka.

"One who chants the Holy Name of the Lord is immediately freed from the reactions of unlimited sins, even if he chants indirectly - sāṅketyaṁ

(to indicating something else as in the case of Ajāmila who called for his son by the Name of Nārāyaṇa), jokingly - parihāsyā, for musical entertainment - stobha (to use the Name with some other intention; Jīva Goswāmī has taken advantage of this in his book of Sanskrit grammar, the Harināmāmṛta-vyākaraṇa; when one is playing the mṛdanga drum, using the Names Gaura Nitāi, Gaura Nitāi to represent different drumbeats), or even neglectfully- hela (when we are rising from bed in the morning sometimes, we may neglectfully say Hare Kṛṣṇa; in this way we may cast off our indolence). This is accepted by all the learned scholars of the scriptures." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.2.14)

Devotee: How does one get pure chanting?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Pure chanting with the influence of the sādhu, if he can understand the purity and the eligibility and desirability in the serving life of Kṛṣṇa. For Himself. Die to live. If he wants a life of dedication, sacrifice his individual interest first, if for the central government then he can enter, to catch the idea that we are all representatives of the centre. We have got no local interest, we must not care for that, we are all representatives of the centre. With this idea we shall live, for the satisfaction of the centre. We are all soldiers, we are all soldiers, dedicating the cause of our life for the centre. We have got no other individual aims in our life but to fight for the centre, work for the centre. If one can catch such disposition of mind then he'll be given recognition as a central man, man of central interest. Universal facility he will enjoy, and that is very tasteful and high noble order. That sort of life.

Devotee: Lord Caitanya came to distribute freely the Holy Name but still it is required first that service must be there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Try to understand Kṛṣṇa, the sound aspect. The sound aspect of the Absolute representation is extended to you. Take it as a thread to march towards the centre. But mind, you will have to give up your own selfish end of life and to accept the universal goodness as your own. With this idea you can make progress. But if you take the Name, go on taking the Name, but you don't sacrifice, you don't budge an inch from your selfish position, then it will be fruitless. That is only the exercise of the tongue and the sound won't be within. It will be dead sound, the cultivation of dead sound. The sound if it once will awaken, the sound will awaken and show it's spiritual characteristic. To whom? Who's very eagerly sacrificing himself to catch it. And who wants that, "Whatever I shall get out of the sound I shall utilise it for my selfish, mean purpose," the Vaikuṇṭha sound won't come. He won't come to serve you but if you want to serve Him then He will accept you and you will find that you are getting the connection of the real Name, that is conscious Name, spiritual Name, Name is spiritual, mainly.

A book is given to you but if you have got some idea, some sort of progress, some sort of inclination, you can read and you can get the meaning out of that. Otherwise those letters are nothing, even though it is extended to your eyesight. So many letters, so many things written in the letter, but if we do not know how to read the meaning then it is only some colour to you, all physical. But you must enter into some training, into the meaning of the words and understand the purpose, then that letter and that book is much to you. Otherwise to an ordinary illiterate man a letter or a book has no value. But who has got education, to him, a letter comes, a telegram comes, and that has value. But illiterate, no value, only outer part is shown to him, he can't read. So he can't understand the sound, the sound divine he can't understand, what is within. But who has got such affinity, such education, understanding, then we can see many things and by being encouraged we can go further and further.

one's faith. So that faith, that is shown by service?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, faith is the plenary, the foundation of service. If you've got faith in something then you utilise your energy for that thing otherwise why will you invest your energy there. First faith and then you will invest your energy and as much energy you'll invest, you'll make progress. Here faith means in a general sense, not in particular, things here. The faith in the Absolute that He's self sufficient, He's byHimself, He's for Himself. Faith in that, and we are all His subordinates. We are not everyone of us a separate god, that we shall enjoy our own property. It is false, this is māyā. We must save ourselves from this mania. But we are a member in the universal world. With this understanding we shall have new instruction and we shall practically follow the path. And then gradually we shall find we can have communication with the central office, and we can have progress there, and we can enjoy the facility of being connected with central life. That is immortal and also very fresh, unending, eternal, ecstasy, giving life.

Devotee: Mahārāja, I don't want to sound like broken record, going back to Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Caitanya Mahāprabhu when He travelled through the south He picked up two books, Brahmā-saṁhita, Kṛṣṇa-karnāmṛta.

Devotee: Kūrma-Purāṇa.

Devotee: No. Kūrma-Purāṇa He heard but He did not pick up.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He heard. But He took up, He brought with Him Brahmā-saṁhita and Kṛṣṇa-karnāmṛta, two books He took with Him from the south.

Devotee: But from one brāhmaṇa in one temple in South India He heard the Kūrma- Purāṇa and was very Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not He heard, one brāhmaṇa in whose house He was a guest one day. He was a devotee of Rāmacandra and he was fasting and anyhow managed to supply some food to Śrī Caitanya Deva as his guest. Caitanya Deva found he did not take anything and enquired why he is fasting and he is moaning, in a moaning mood.

Then Mahāprabhu told him: "That you don't think, otherwise. Sītā Devī She is wholesale spiritual and this material power cannot touch Her, can't see Her. So what is the question of touching, forcibly. So don't think in that way."

But anyhow that brāhmaṇa took that consolation half hearted. So when Mahāprabhu went further, in a place, in a temple, He heard that Kūrma-Purāṇa is being read there. And in that the chaste ladies' stories came in and Sītā Devī's story was also written there, in a nutshell. And there it is mentioned when Rāvaṇa came to touch Her, Sītā Devī She took shelter in the care of fire. The god of fire he gave shelter to Sītā Devī in disguise and a māyā Sītā was produced to Rāvaṇa, and Rāvaṇa took Her.

And when again after the war and fighting finished in Lanka, then that māyā Sītā, that was taken there. And Rāmacandra asked that whether She is chaste. "I want to test Her chastity. So She must be thrown into the fire and if She does not die then I shall think that She is chaste and I shall accept Her." And it was done, though Hanumān and others they're very much mortified to the extreme. It was done, and at that time that fire god, he took the imitation Sītā and gave up the real Sītā to Rāmacandra. This story is mentioned in that way in Kūrma-Purāṇa.

Mahāprabhu heard and Mahāprabhu told something like that to that brāhmaṇa, that real Sītā was not taken by Rāvaṇa. So for His corroboration of His statement, He asked the priest in the temple: "You give Me that old page and instead you write a new page and put it there." So He begged the old page from there, from that book. Indian books in ancient times were not bound together, they're all loose. So that old loose page He begged from that temple agent and He took it. After crossing two hundred miles perhaps, He came to show that page to brāhmaṇa to do away with his misgivings.

And when that brāhmaṇa got that old page, "Oh it is mentioned in the Purāṇa." He was fully satisfied that Rāvaṇa could not take Her and he was very much pleased with Mahāprabhu. And he told that: "The other day when You were my guest I could not whole heartedly feed You, I have ignored. But now You are to stay a few days in my home and I want to serve You. You have such a great affinity for me, love for me, that You have again come two hundred miles to do away with my pain, the pain of my heart. You are no other but You are Rāmacandra Himself. You appreciated my grief so deep that You have again come here. You are none but Rāmacandra, the Lord of my heart. And another new thing I want to say that I already, before this I used to take the Name of Rāmacandra, always. But from Your association the Name of Kṛṣṇa, that came to me and I can't leave that Name, Kṛṣṇa, so You are Kṛṣṇa Himself."

In this way the statement mentioned there. The Kūrma-Purāṇa it was mentioned about Sītā, that the real Sītā was not caught by Rāvaṇa but imitation Sītā he took. Corroborating the fact Mahāprabhu represented to the brāhmaṇa of the Rāmānuja sampradāya.

aprākṛta vastu nahe prākṛta-gocāra veda-purāṇete ei kahe nirantara

"All the Vedas and Purāṇas constantly warn against considering divine or nonmaterial substance to fall within the category of material nature."

The spiritual things are not at the disposal of mundane power, it is spiritual, spiritual. The higher things can come to the lower, but lower things cannot go up and enter into the higher. Transcendental things can come in this mundane world, but this gross cannot enter into subtle, subtle can enter, earth cannot enter into ether but ether can enter into earth.

Devotee: It is similar to the Bhāgavatam 10th Canto, the Kālayavana, trying to catch Kṛṣṇa but cannot catch.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Playfully He managed to take him, enticed him. Kṛṣṇa knew that Kālayavana, the day of his death had come and he will have to die in a particular way. Everything was known and He was instrumental to that. Playfully He moved in his front in such a way that Kālayavana he's just going to catch, just going to catch, in this way. As Mucukunda, that cave, carried him to that cave and there He just hid Himself. And Kālayavana when he entered the cave he found that Mucukunda is lying there in a big figure. He was in Satya yuga and in a big body, he is lying there sleeping, after this place? and this Kālayavana will break his sleep. And whoever will break his sleep he will cast a glance, fire glance to him, and he will be reduced to ashes.

All this was known to Kṛṣṇa. He playfully enticed him to that cave, entered the cave and hid Himself.

And Kālayavana thought He's sleeping there. "Oh You are to deceive me, You are lying here covering Your body." So he gave a kick and Mucukunda he awakened.

"You have awakened me from my rest." And his fire look he cast on Kālayavana and he was reduced to ashes and Kṛṣṇa came out.

Jarāsandha was, when fight going on with Kṛṣṇa and Jārasandha, Balarāma wanted to kill him by His club, but Kṛṣṇa pointed, "No he will be killed by Bhīma, You don't attempt. Balarāma avoided.

Devotee: During the chase, Kālayavana is chasing, Swāmī Mahārāja commented that Kālayavana could not catch Kṛṣṇa because he was too covered with contamination, or with false ego or something like this.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course. Seeing also, we cannot see.

When He comes down in this mundane world, so many persons have a look, but they cannot understand Him. Rather like so many hate Him, the haters are also there, avajānanti, avajāñā, does not care. Look to Him with hateful cast glance to Him. Such also is possible, avajānanti mām̐, but if He wills everything can be done. That is exceptional. But the general case is such. Without right eye we cannot see and appreciate Him though He may be in our midst.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: for the beginners it will be very much harmful. In respect of the popular opinion in the name of propaganda, ignoring the rules of the śāstra and Vaiṣṇava and the superior agents.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, because of the fear of Customs I had to leave my daṇḍa in South America. Shall I make another new one?

Devotee: Why you left it there?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Is it difficult to carry them in the plane or in the ship? The daṇḍam, is it difficult to carry out?

Devotee: Sometimes they even go with a drill through it in some countries to see if there's something inside the poles.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then many daṇḍam necessary for one preacher. He will go from this country to that country, to ABCD, everywhere one daṇḍam should be kept separate for his use. Because it may not be carried smoothly through the planes or ships. That is intolerable. The daṇḍa, when they examine in that way, daṇḍa is considered to be puruṣottraya, Puruṣa-avatāra. Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī (Viṣṇu) (a.k.a Kāraṇodakaśāyī), Garbhodakaśāyī (Viṣṇu), Kṣīrodakaśāyī (Viṣṇu). The authority representing in connection of this mundane world. Three functions of Viṣṇu, as Nārāyaṇa. One as the master of the whole of creation. Another of every brahmāṇḍa. Another every soul, in charge.

We are to preach without daṇḍa or we are to keep a separate daṇḍa in different countries, provinces, for our propaganda. Or many daṇḍa and no daṇḍa. Or not to take any daṇḍa. Without taking the robe of a sannyāsī one may preach. The alternative will be to keep separate daṇḍa in every place of preaching. And the third, if we carry the daṇḍa to tolerate the ill-treatment over daṇḍa. That is intolerable, that is not possible. That the daṇḍa will be broken and pierced through to find out whether any smuggling object is there, it is intolerable. So many daṇḍas in many places and to go there and take that daṇḍam that is somewhat easy. Kayabhyuha, with the sanction of the higher authorities. Ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ (To accept everything favourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa), or to preach without any daṇḍam. What is the necessity then of carrying daṇḍam then for preaching? Is it to get him, if a sannyāsī goes there with daṇḍam if he goes to address the public, religious public, is it very favourable for preaching? Or very impressive? Why should we carry daṇḍam ?

Devotee: In India only does anyone know what a daṇḍa means.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But how they can take the Śrī Mūrti, the Vighraha, Arcā-Mūrti? If they cannot respect daṇḍa then how can they respect this Arcā-Mūrti?

Devotee: When I went to America last time with the Arcā-Mūrti, the Customs people also were examining the Mūrti and broke the Mūrti.

Devotee: Then, what did you do?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then you are to tolerate.

Devotee: I had to put it back together again.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Adulteration and cheating is so much cent per cent so none can get relief from checking. Perhaps smuggling also going on in red cloth, being abused. So Mūrti should not be carried. One should learn how to prepare Mūrti and in his own province he will prepare. And the Mūrti should be pierced through and will be found what is within. Have they not got some machine, x-ray, that can find out what is within the Mūrti? They can find out by x-ray machine? What is within the living body, if one has swallowed some gold, how do they detect? Do they pierce the belly?

Devotee: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then how do they understand, find out? Some light and this ray or scientific research, some x-ray, some light may be put on the, it may be found what is in the belly. So what is within the Mūrti or daṇḍa they can detect with the help of that machine?

Devotee: But the x-ray does not detect everything.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then in particular plane there is x-ray it is fixed then you are to avail of that plane to save such piercing in the body of the Mūrti and daṇḍam.

But what about human beings? There are many who swallow some gold.

Devotee: Gold may be detected but not some chemicals. They swallow them. X-rays won't detect them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But how they will find that?

Devotee: No, so far there's no way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So hopeless, in that case. So a combined objection must be filed to the authorities. "Only for these things the checking system is necessary they should do by the help of the scientific instruments not by piercing through."

End of side A, 1/2-4-83. side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: they should try to convert those that are with this dress.

When Vana Mahārāja went to England with daṇḍam but came back without daṇḍam, he left it there. But that was not welcomed here. He has gone there to establish the position of daṇḍam and the Śrī Vighraha. But they can't understand, they think that the difference between idolatry and Śrī Mūrti worshipping, that should be preached there. To make them understand the difference between Arcā Mūrti and the idol. The ordinary bombastic and the daṇḍam we are to preach, we are to create field for the respect of Them and not to give away and to accept the,

Especially in the jungle propaganda. In special high case it may be tolerated that without daṇḍa you may work. But for the beginners then it will be ridiculous to accept daṇḍa and to belittle daṇḍa in this way.

Only in the stage of paramahansa he may keep the daṇḍam in a particular place and he can move freely. After serving daṇḍam for some time he may take leave, put the daṇḍam in a particular respectful place and then he can move without daṇḍam. At least after some twelve years or some years of time he will carry with respect and then he may put it somewhere. And especially in the case of emergencies when he's very sick or any other position temporary he may give up daṇḍam. Otherwise he'll keep with him daṇḍam and he'll try to push into the country the respect of daṇḍam and thereby many things will come into question. "Why should we respect this bombastic? Why should we respect the Mūrti, this earthen or this mineral doll?" These hard questions will come into the field and they must be solved. Otherwise this will be, patch-up, patch-up work, patchwork.

We must go thorough, our progress must be thorough. We are going to attack the enemies' country and we shall conquer and take possession thoroughly. Otherwise in any place I'll be in danger of being murdered if the conquest is no thorough. Enemies' land, the land of māvā is enemies' land. We must move here very carefully. We may be attacked from every possible way. We should be careful about that and move. "That my spiritual conviction I shall spread and I won't allow anything to enter into that and molest that thought." The enemy camp should not be allowed to enter into our plane. We must remain intact in our plane. Standing there we shall attack them and devastation we shall create in the enemy camp.

So many oppositions will come we are to face, we are to create opposition. "This is this. What you think, this is not right." The elephant may be more powerful but that does not mean that I shall give salute to the elephant.

What you say is not practicable but you must enter the enemies' country like so many in disguise. And then wherever we shall find favourable to us we shall begin fighting. You want that policy? To enter into the country of the enemy in disguise, suitably? And we shall try to create our position anywhere. That is gorilla war. You prefer gorilla war?

Devotee: Sometimes it is necessary.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And the specially trained persons can accept that rarely.

Devotee: Śrīla Prabhupāda (A.C Bhaktivedānta Mahārāja) he said to go in like a needle and come out like a plough.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That also not at the cost of the respect of the Deity and the daṇḍam etc. Some degree, there should be some degree.

Devotee: I went to preach in Russia, so when I would enter the country

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The special batch, gorilla, they will have another dress, they should have another dress. Why the daṇḍam will be necessary? Why the Vighraha should be taken there in the beginning? Special batch may be selected for such fight. Then when some ground is gained you can take there daṇḍam and you can take there Śrī Mūrti. Otherwise only to dishonour Them, the emblem of the Divinity, we shall push Them first, why? Gain some ground and then we can put our Śrī Mūrti and the holy emblems. In the beginning the flag will be taken to be dishonoured, no. You go and create some position then you can take your flag. Not to be dishonoured very soon, very easily. Why the flag will be taken first? We are to keep honour of the Divinity. Not to be looted, exploited by others. That will bring a reaction within me and weaken us.

When there is danger of Śrī Mūrti being attacked then they put It underground, they may put into the forest and fly away, keeping in some safe position.

Fled away, because he's coming, Muslims will come and break it, dishonour. So by concealing the Vighraha somewhere they fled. And here also when there was some attack, the apprehension of some attack over this Śrī Mūrti of Mahāprabhu they put underground, unknown place.

"That Mahāprabhu is not God, he's worshipping of His Deity that can't be allowed here." The Navadvīpa tantric scholars raised some objection to the worshipping of the Mūrti of Mahāprabhu. At that time It was concealed underground so that It may not be dishonoured.

So in the beginning we won't take things of respect to the enemy camp. We shall go take the risk. Iconoclast, the Muslims are iconoclast, icon worshipper and iconoclast. Idol breaker. We shall go, we shall take the philosophy, and the process of understanding step by step we will have to preach the thought. Cultural fight it will find fight and conclusive fight. Valuable fight is cultural fight.

Once when the Sikhs entered America they shaved their hairs and beards, then they grow. When they entered there they began to grow again and they come back with their beard and hair. But when they want to take admission, suppose perhaps there is some law or something that without shaving they cannot enter, something like that I heard.

Rabindranatha Tagore was once opposed from entering America, though he got Nobel Prize before that. 1910 or 1911 he got Nobel Prize. After that he was going to America. For his long beard perhaps, he was not being allowed. Then some advised him to take special permission, informing that he's, that Rabindranatha, has got Nobel Prize. But he did not do, he waited in the ship and wanted to come back from there without landing. Then anyhow the information went to the authority and they allowed him to get down there, we are told. That world known man, world famous.

We should try to sacrifice us and not to sacrifice Guru, Vaiṣṇava, Deity and other respectable things representing Divinity. We may risk our own self for the service and to create some position favourable. And then we shall invite others to inspect my conduct. Propaganda must be real and solid. Only outwardly to show the success, that hollow success, what meaning is there? Substantial progress should be made, a cultural conquest, a bona fide progress. And to dishonour Them who we honour, that is something suicidal. Then more or less from the background we think that They're material, They're material.

Suppose if you found to take Swāmī Mahārāja to one particular province very risky that his life may be at stake, will you allow him to go there? Then about Śrī Mūrti, Vighraha? We venture? Then we have got less faith in Śrī Mūrti as it should have been. Daṇḍam also theoretically you think that there is connection of the Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī, Puruṣa-avatāra, all these things. But not so much from the core of our heart. Molestation of the daṇḍam, how can you tolerate? We must search our own heart. With how much sincere respect and devotion we treat all these. This transformation must be wholesale not lip deep, shallow, transformation of the inner self. We must be sincere to the cause. Cent per cent we shall try.

There was an exhibition in Kurukṣetra, that Kṛṣṇa has come from Dwārakā and from Vṛndāvana also the Nanda Mahārāja, Yaśodā, and the gopīs, they have also gone there in Kurukṣetra on the occasion of the holy bath at the time of solar eclipse. At that time Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) our Guru Mahārāja ordered arrangement for an exhibition in dolls to show that incident. That from Dwārakā Kṛṣṇa has come with His party. And gopīs from Vṛndāvana they have come. So many gods they have also come at that meeting place.

Here, Vana Mahārāja, he was given responsibility to arrange for that exhibition. And Vana Mahārāja was dressing the Mūrtis. The Mūrtis were made of, earthen Mūrtis, gopīs, and Vana Mahārāja was dressing them. And he was dressing the Mūrtis with cloth and necessary garments and to fix them he was using some pins, fixing pins. Here the cloth he put and put a pin to fix the cloth.

Then it pained my heart. We are to show, see with respect these Mūrtis though they're earthen Mūrtis of the gopīs, but still we are to see with some reverence, some respect. But their body is being pierced with pins to fix the dress. I had some pain though I was a newcomer. Then I put it to the higher authority that I asked Vana Mahārāja: "Why do you enter the pin within the body, for which we can't understand, for devotion."

He answered me: "Oh, do you think that the gopīs are in this mundane figure?" In this way.

But I am not satisfied with that answer. I put it to the higher authority. They supported me that it should not have been done. That body was, the pin was fixed, rather the, some gum should have been used to fix the dress on the body, or something. That should have been used and the cloth may be attached there, a little bit fixed, and not by entering the pin, nail. Vana Mahārāja was nailing the cloth with the body, some iron pin.

We shall try to maintain our position always in the plane of devotion giving respect to anything and everything and not to tolerate disrespect of that sentiment, to that sort of conception. We shall go away from your, unable to fight any demolition, we shall be off. But we cannot be a careless onlooker where molestation will go on. If it is possible for me to stop, I try hard to stop molestation. If not I shall go away. And not standing I shall look at all those blasphemy.

No power, what can I do? But for the king, if he is a devotee, if any disturbance then he must cut his head. It is recommended in the śāstra.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

What do you think? When a sannyāsī is taking daṇḍam in the plane and whether anything hidden here in the daṇḍam, the Custom Officers come and pierce and molest the daṇḍam in various ways and then give it up. Then are we to tolerate this dishonour to daṇḍam silently, what should we do? Should we not carry daṇḍam or should we keep several daṇḍam in any and every province? One daṇḍam in every zone, then we won't have to carry? Kayabhyuha, or no daṇḍam we shall carry when preaching in the international way? What should we do? And the Vighraha also we are taking from here and Custom Officers will come and pierce through to see, examine what gold and other valuable articles are hidden under it. And we'll have to tolerate all these things helplessly? What to do? Will we allow? Otherwise what can we do?

Devotee: We shall have to tolerate to a certain degree. One Mahārāja here did not take his daṇḍa to London for that reason.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So it is better to have them prepared in that province independently. You may learn things how to construct and then going there collect materials and prepare Śrī Mūrti there to avoid this molestation. And if we have cast shadow in our own temperament, our own heart, then that will be a poison to the affair. The insult of the Vaiṣṇava and Mūrti and daṇḍa whom we worship, and I am to tolerate from my faith the molestation, insult of those things. How can we be sincere to our own self, true to our own self, own faith?

Devotee: If the preacher, if he's revolving between, if he's preaching in two major places, say he's preaching in India and preaching in London, then perhaps he can keep one daṇḍa in India, one daṇḍa in London.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is to be considered, that is rather more tolerable than this molestation.

When we were in Madras there was tridaṇḍi, though tridaṇḍi of ancient type, they do not travel by the train or bus because of that daṇḍa. One of the tridaṇḍi of Rāmānuja sampradāya came to ask me: "Why do you carry this tridaṇḍa in the train and the bus?"

I answered: "Why? Is there any provision?"

He was eager to follow us but the society did not allow that. But I told him, he came to know: "Is there any śāstric quotation which can help me to take daṇḍa in the bus or train?"

I told him: tat paratvena nirmalam:

sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam hr̥ṣīkena hr̥ṣīkeśa-sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate

"Pure devotion is engaging all the senses in service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa who is the Master of the senses. In such service, one is totally free from all relative conceptions of material self interest (upādhis), with senses purely engaged in the service of Kṛṣṇa."

(Nārada Pañcarātra)

The purity of our purpose, we hold that. And we try our best to keep the respect of the daṇḍa, it may not be molested in any way. Then: "What is your custom?"

He said: "No, we can't take it in bus or in train."

Then: "That was because train and bus was not created at that time. But can you take it by boat when crossing the river?"

He said: "Yes, we can do that."

And the boat was created first in your time so that was allowed and these buses and trains that is new creation. So the ordinary people are putting objection to you." In this way I replied to him. Tat paratvena nirmalam, the object is pure so we get and we see perhaps it may not be dishonoured, tridaṇḍa, we try to keep up the respect.

Devotee: Mahārāja, you know the prash anu daṇḍa? What does that represent?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It represents that by prash it is, a part of a circle, an arc form. That is meant to be used for cutting the anārtha, or to whom we preach. The emblem of cutting, prash means for cedana, for cutting, meant for cutting the preparation of the anārtha he sees in the soul, emblem of that.

Devotee: Like Paraśurāma?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: And there's jīva daṇḍa, when was this added?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I am here to serve you, to serve you, the Lord who is here in the relativity of the mundane world in small and bigger group.

Devotee: But this jīva daṇḍa was added by Rāmānuja sect or Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Perhaps by Rāmānuja, I don't know fully but I think it was there.

Devotee: must have created quite a stir when Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura began Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Introduced it here in Bengal, yes.

Devotee: And Vṛndāvana also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The red cloth also. Though Mahāprabhu and His colleagues had red cloth. Still Sanātana Goswāmī in the presence of Mahāprabhu he took the white dress of niskincana, that's the Guru of the sannyāsīs, something like that. Dictator of the preachers by giving instruction in the form of śāstra, śāstra. First the code and then the code keeper. So they were engaged in preparing the code, spiritual. And in white cloth, not necessary to advertise them as preachers. They're only engaged for their own benefit, not so much, only by the showing the ideal to the public as much help they can give. But wandering here and there and preaching, that is generally the function of the sannyāsīs.

So Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) created another batch under them, they have given the directions in the śāstra and to carry out them to translate them into action. The next lower batch sannyāsīs. They're beyond varṇāśrama, and within varṇāśrama the highest section is sannyāsī, they're expected to travel through the length and breadth of the country and to preach the previous doctrine to the people. And that was created by Prabhupāda under the direction of those śāstra makers, Goswāmīs. For whom this religious uniform was not necessary, this red uniform, the preachers uniform. They're niskincana, they did not want anything. But they only prepared the religious code.

Devotee: So by the example of your divine grace you are also showing that you are wearing this dress to the very end of your life.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Our Guru Mahārāja (Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) also did. Almost everyone whom he gave red dress, they up till their last breath keep up that. Only, Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī, he was a brahmacārī, he took that, last days, did not mean himself as a preacher, so he took that after the departure of Guru Mahārāja. And Vana Mahārāja, whimsical, he took for some time then again rejected that, again took the red robe. And Vasudeva Prabhu he wanted to introduce that white cloth and some of the members of the Baghbazar Maṭh they take that white cloth including the last Ācārya, Auḍalomī Mahārāja. I am told he used white cloth. They preferred, crossing Prabhupāda, they preferred to accept the idea of this cloth. They thought Prabhupāda's idea was a temporary one for the time being. And what Rūpa and Sanātana in the presence of Mahāprabhu accepted this so this is the real dress of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava. But Mahāprabhu ? the last kind of red cloth, and also when this Paramānanda Purī, Īśvara Purī, all the Godbrothers of the Guru of Mahāprabhu, here in healthy connection with Mahāprabhu, they used to wear red cloth, sannyāsīs.

And the Western preachers of the Christian school, they generally use gown, is it not? Clergy.

Devotee: Yes. Black gown.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Real self determination ends in the service of Kṛṣṇa and it helps to be re-instated in that position. So the flute of Kṛṣṇa, the sound of the flute of Kṛṣṇa, as well as the sound of the saṅkīrtana of Mahāprabhu, these two sounds, fully sets us in our highest desired position of self determination, that is pranam ? And other position we cannot say that we are fully liberated. Liberation has it's positive end in the service of Kṛṣṇa, of sweetness, of beauty, liberation has got it's positive conception there only.

svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti: (that is home, Goloka, the plane of Kṛṣṇa).

Occupation of others position not to be thought as the fullest realisation, that is comparative. Kṛṣṇa, and in madhurya rasa, and rādhā-dāsyā, gradually takes there.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Internal adjustment, question of internal adjustment, religion is proper adjustment. We are living in a discordant organic whole. Want to be properly adjusted. Everyone of us aspires for the beauty, for the blissfulness, rasa, for the ecstasy, demand everywhere, universal demand, everywhere for maximum rasa, ānandam, no objection can come against it. That is the general aspiration everywhere. raso vai sa. And our last reach must be somewhere there, in our highest aspiration.

Neither mastership of this mundane world, mortal world, nor to enter into some no man's land in unconscious samādhi, sayujya mukti, but with full consciousness, with the highest association, and to get maximum satisfaction of our inner necessity, general thing.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, could you explain the ontological differences in the members of the Pañca Tattva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, there is some differentiation there. Mahāprabhu, the central figure, Śrī Caitanya Deva, Kṛṣṇa in the mood of Rādhārāṇī. And by the side there is Gadādhara from whom Her sentiment has been drawn and he just a facsimile, a formal representation standing by. Just as a man whose wealth has been robbed, empty hearted with the only aim towards Mahāprabhu who has robbed his heart, Gadādhara. And Nityānanda Prabhu is playing the part of Balarāma. From Balarāma comes all other things, vātsalya-rasa, sakhya-rasa, etc. And Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit is the type of ordinary devotee, he's representing the general devotee. And Advaita Prabhu he represents the, in charge, the Lord Bhagavān, who is in charge of the whole mortal area. Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī Viṣṇu.

Devotee: I just found out from Goswāmī Mahārāja, I didn't know that they cut the bamboo and the cloth of the daṇḍa. That is horrible. I never knew these things. But the reason why they're doing it is because in the past it has been misrepresented so much that people have actually carried drugs inside their daṇḍa. It has happened in the past. It is our misfortune.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol! So they have invited all the slaps.

koṭiṣv api mahā-mune, one in a crore (ten million), it is hard to get a proper Vaiṣṇava, su- durlabhā - (devotion to Kṛṣṇa is very rare and very rarely achieved and difficult to attain). Denotation increases, connotation decreases, connotation increases, denotation is sure to decrease.

So something, anyhow only help on the whole that Kṛṣṇa consciousness. In war so many loss, so many gain, from the whole who gets the victory, they're the gainer, but they have also to incur much loss. The party who comes out victorious from the war they have to incur many losses. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Many lives to be sacrificed. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, one side issue. If a person accepts ketra sannyāsa, is that generally in older age, because a sannyāsī is to preach?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gadādhara, he took ketra sannyāsa, he did not go beyond the jurisdiction of Purī, but he also preached regularly Bhāgavatam and his students, the class students was Mahāprabhu and others. Nīlāmbhodhi-taṭe sadā sva-virahā-kṣepanvitam bāndhavam. I have composed a śloka, I was going to compile a very gist of Bhāgavatam. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has composed with one thousand ślokas, Bhāgavat-Arka- Marichimālā. I had a mind, two and a half, at least, or at most three hundred ślokas, to represent the whole Bhāgavatam and I composed an introduction for that book and this śloka is there.

nīlāmbhodhi-taṭe sadā sva-virahā-kṣepanvitam bāndhavam śrīmad-bhāgavatī kathā madirayā sañjīvayan bhāti yaḥ śrīmad-bhāgavatam sadā sva-nayanāśru-pāyanaiḥ pūjayan gosvāmi-prabaro gadādhara-vibhūr-bhūyāt mad-ekā-gatiḥ

"On the shore of the broad blue ocean, Gadādhara Paṇḍita used to read Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam to Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who was suffering from the great internal pain of separation from Himself (Kṛṣṇa). Gadādhara Paṇḍita supplied the wine of kṛṣṇa-līlā to intoxicate his afflicted friend and give Him relief. As he read, tears would fall from his eyes like flower offerings onto the pages of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. May the pleasure of that brilliant personality, Gadādhara Paṇḍita, the best of the Goswāmīs, be my only object in writing this book."

Gadādhara Prabhu, let him be my exclusive goal, destination of my whole life, he may be. Who is he? Who is seen to be engaged in particular duty therein. In the shore of that infinite ocean, the ocean infinite is there and just on the shore he's sitting. And what he's doing, his duties? sva-virahā-kṣepanvitam bāndhavam, he's giving consolation to his friend, and who is that friend? Who is madly searching His own self, He's mad, ā-kṣepanvitam, in very distressed condition, very greatly afflicted for the separation of His own self. Such friend He's distributing, or dealing some wine to give him relief from that pain, and what is that wine? That is Bhāgavata-kathā, the discourse of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, of Kṛṣṇa, and Vṛndāvana. He's distributing, serving, the wine of Bhāgavata-kathā to his friend who is suffering from extreme pain in the separation of His own soul life. Such is the serious pain He's feeling, separation, sva-virahā, He's searching Him, separation of His own, from His own self.

And it is so painful, afflicted, and to remove His affliction, He's serving some wine, and that wine coming from the discourse of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, that Vṛndāvana story.

Nīlāmbhodhi-taṭe sadā sva-virahā-kṣepanvitam bāndhavam, śrīmad-bhāgavatī kathā madirayā, madirayā wine, madirayā sañjīvayan bhāti yaḥ. Enlivening Him by giving that wine of kṛṣṇa-kathā. Śrīmad-bhāgavatam sadā sva-nayanāśru-pāyanaiḥ, and he's always worshipping Bhāgavatam with the tears of his own eye. Āśru-pāyanaiḥ, articles of worship. And what is the articles of worship of Bhāgavatam? His own tears, he's worshipping Bhāgavatam with his own tears. Pāyanaiḥ pūjayan, gosvāmi-prabaro gadādhara-vibhūr- bhūyāt, I may be blessed with the grace of such Gadādhara Paṇḍita, because he's the master of Bhāgavata Rūpa, from whom Mahāprabhu listens to Bhāgavatam. I invoke his mercy. I'm going to produce some gist of Bhāgavatam to give it to the devotees.

Gadadhara Paṇḍita's identification was that. And Advaita Prabhu, who is a rejoinder, a connector, he's calling for Mahāprabhu for the jīva soul. And here also, making some arrangement for His preaching and His propaganda. The middle man of the jīva, for the welfare of the jīva he's inviting Mahāprabhu to this mundane world, and helping from the background to preach the Name of the Lord, for the extensive delivery of this mundane world.

So Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu, Advaita Prabhu, Gadādhara Prabhu, and Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita. There is a section who instead of Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita, introduce Narahari Sarakāra Ṭhākura (the guru of the author of Caitanya-Maṅgala, Locana Dāsa), as the fifth one. In Caitanya-Maṅgala's school, more or less they're Gaura Nagari. They do not like to see Mahāprabhu as a sannyāsī, but Kṛṣṇa Himself. They, the Narahari Sarakāra Ṭhākura, he's putting this question to Mahāprabhu. "Who are You in disguise of a sannyāsī ? Are You not that hunter of the gopī's in Vṛndāvana? Now You have become a sādhu, a saint, You are that hunter and now you have come in the shape of a saint, I know You best."

They've told that they're more inclined and captured by Vṛndāvana līlā, than this Navadvīpa līlā. There is a group in the sakhī of Rādhārāṇī, the sakhī of Vṛndāvana, some more inclined towards Rādhārāṇī, some more inclined towards Kṛṣṇa, and some in the middle. So also the Gaura līlā and the Vṛndāvana līlā, some more inclined towards Vṛndāvana, they do not like the sannyāsa of Mahāprabhu, all these things. And some towards Navadvīpa līlā, more inclined, and some in the middle. So different types of thoughts and representation.

svajano 'satām kṣitibhujām śāstā svapitro śīśuḥ mṛtyur bhojapater virāḍ

"O King, Śrī Kṛṣṇa then appeared as a thunderbolt to the wrestlers, as the supreme male to the men, as Cupid incarnate to the ladies, as a friend to the cowherdsmen; as an emperor to the wicked kings, as a child to His father and mother, as death to Kāṁsa, as the universal form of the world to the ignorant; as the Supreme Truth to the yogīs, as the Supreme Worshipful Lord to the Vṛṣṇīs - and along with Baladeva He entered the arena."

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.43.17)

The same thing according to one's nature and capacity can be seen in different ways, one and the same thing, but there is comparison, the possible comparison is there.

Everyone from his own position, there in the liberated stage, they get the maximum rasa in that particular form. But if we can have a comparison between the different forms, śānta, dāsyā, sakhya, vātsalya, madhura. And also this Nārāyaṇa, this Rāmacandra, this Dwārakesh, the differentiation is possible by very subtle methods, it is possible, the comparison is possible.

The friendship, there may be many friends in a general way but there may also be a section of the friends more intimate, most intimate, and general friends. And of different types, one is a political friend, one is a social friend, one is a private life friend, it may be of different type and different degree. Vilas. Infinite. Accommodating everything. Adjustment with many.

In music, the highest conception of music, that can harmonise many natures of playing instruments and the sounds, etc. The greatest harmony, the credit of the harmony is in its expansive characteristic, comprehensive character, that who can harmonise the things opposite, opposite things can harmonise. So there the potency of harmony is represented most, which can harmonise the most opposite things, everything.

In Kṛṣṇa līlā, the thieving, the lying, they have got harmony. To speak lies for Kṛṣṇa, that is higher than to speak the truth here in this plane. Here whatever we see or say, all will be false because in the beginning we think that this thing belongs to him, this thing belongs to that, but everything belongs to Kṛṣṇa, ultimately, in the absolute sense. So whatever we say here, everything is lie more or less. And whatever is said about Kṛṣṇa, everything is true, all comprehensive, no lie is possible. So what we throw like mud to Him, that can never be mud, everything is harmonised there, becomes nectar.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol

But must be towards Kṛṣṇa we shall say. Throwing towards some other direction we say I've thrown to Kṛṣṇa, no. To throw mud to Kṛṣṇa, that also requires some position, bona fide. Abusing. Yaśodā is whipping Kṛṣṇa, Gopāl, but that has got also high value, whipping Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So the gradual process, the bona fide road. śrauta panthā (the descending method), sādhu anugatra vaiṣṇava ? This is indispensable, otherwise I shall take someone as Kṛṣṇa, and I am going and doing everything for him that is affective, that is misconception, māyā, hallucination, something like that. That is tama-guṇa. In tama-guṇa, in Bhagavad-gītā we find, there is a firm determination in a thing which is not that thing. But very firm assertion: "No this is that." But really it is not so, this is tama-guṇa. And where there is suspicion, it may be or may not be, that is raja. And what is really the thing to see and to locate, that is satya-guṇa. And nirguṇa is automatic. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. No mathematical calculation step by step is necessary there. All automatic, just as our reflex action in the body. jñāna sunya bhakti.

The paṇḍit came yesterday and he said: "The scholars in India they generally fail to understand what do you say as, jñāna sunya bhakti. The most desirable and that is at the bottom of all truth. We're eliminating jñāna, the knowledge, the consciousness, you say, ignorance, that is the highest position, that is higher position than conscious position. We can't understand this of Gauḍīya Sampradāya, jñāna sunya bhakti. If jñāna, consciousness, calculation, reason, all these higher elements are eliminated, how can that be a good position? And you say this is the highest position. It is ununderstandable, unintelligible."

That is the complain of the general so called scholars, either Vedic or non Vedic. "Want to eliminate jñāna ?" But Mahāprabhu eliminated. "This is external, external. Enter into the domain of love, no calculation necessary, all automatic arrangement. Everyone is well-wisher there, no possibility of being robbed, or cheated. The whole soil is happy, affectionate and conducive to your welfare. Just as when medicine cannot do any good to our health, if we change the climate, without medicine we can get some benefit. The very atmosphere, the air, the water, the shrub, the trees, the creepers, they come to contribute something for our health. So there is a stage where without calculating ones loss and gain, everything may be gainer, the soil is such opulent and well meaning."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. jñāna sunya. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: You told if the mother gives the child food should he test to see if it's poisoned food? A wonderful example.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But here mother may poison her son, but there the enemy also not poisoned. Pūtanā who went to give poison, she was given the highest position of motherly type. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

There is a song (Jadendra Lal ?) about mother land, he is writing this poem: "Where I am born, I aspire that I may die in the very same soil." That is our home land, anyhow that is our home, we are born there and we are to die there, and death and birth is harmonised there so much, so no birth no death.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

In the religious line will be that from objective to subjective, subjective, super subjective, in this way. Then everything will be reasonable. Subjective, and sat, cit, ānanda. Existence, then consciousness of that existence, and then fulfilment of that existence. Three phases of things to be understood, in a general way. Fulfilment, the consciousness of the thing, and the existence. Sat, cit, ānandam.

Satyam śivam sundaram, satyam means true, śivam means beyond mortality, that is conscious, śiva means ceta, and consciousness is over mentality, beyond mentality, cit, śiva. And then sundaram, that fulfilment is there. Rasa, beauty, so beauty is the harmonising principle, all harmonising principle is beauty, everything wants beauty, charm, ecstasy. Universal demand, none can deny. That can command the whole existence.

And reason, that calculation in the middle. Just as in the digestive system in our bodies, the voluntary work is not there by reason, we are not finishing our digest, it is a reflex action, without our consciousness the whole blood circulation, digestion, so many things are being done. So as it may be applied to us, to the world also, how it is being done without consciousness. So many things. How much consciousness or reason is working in what span of space? The automatic activity is almost everywhere and very little part affected by our independent thinking, reason, calculating, all these things. But we think it ignorant, the digestive system, the blood circulation, so many things. But the scientists they find that there is more intellect working underground, higher that they can catch the reason there. When they can find out the thread, they think themselves very wise and very scholarly, if they find out a little thing which is going on beyond the jurisdiction of their so much proud thinking. So how far has their thinking got value. The jñāna, the knowledge, we're making so much uproar that knowledge, knowledge, knowledge is better, knowledge is higher, what value has the knowledge got if we carefully try to consider the movements in the nature. The pride of knowledge, how much, what little part of the same working has been understood by the scientific brain? Very negligible part and we are proud of that.

So, jñāna sunya bhakti, faith, affection, love, that is more higher and desirable company. The brain, the energy, in this world of the scientists are mostly being wasted in the preparation of the dreadful weapons, to kill each other, because want of faith, love, and affection. So the greatest portion of the energy of the brain, as well as of the property, is being used for the purpose of killing one another. Apathy and not sympathy. Almost the three fold. Because we have got no faith, no affection, no love, and if love, we may be saved from all these false energising.

So faith, love, affection, that is desirable everywhere. That should be the highest point of our attainment. And where it is normal our aspiration to be had, our living there, our home there. So back to God and back to home, our home is under the holy feet of the Lord. The land of mercy. There are big and small, but mercy comes to minimise the difference, and everyone gets the benefit, proper. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And the key to that life is to direct us towards the centre. Just as food to the stomach, water to the root of the tree. So all our energy should be directed towards the centre, then we can achieve such conditions.

"Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa-bhakti)."(Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9)

It will tie me with reaction if it is not directed towards the centre. The difference of relativity will come and check in different points, that we are all smugglers, they'll come to check. But if directed towards the centre then it will be all right. Either provincial or local interest will clash, and there will be checking in every border.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

in Hoogli, about two hundred years or so ago. He has built a mosque, he was a big zamindar (landlord) but he did not marry. And he distributed all his wealth to the poor, a good man. He sometimes used to throw money to the needy people stealthily. They are needy but their position won't allow them to come and beg from him. He knew that his social position won't allow him to come to me to beg something. In that case at night, he used to throw some money in their house, in some cover, or cloth. Such a good man. He was like a thief, but he used to throw money stealthily to those who had got respect and cannot come out to beg. Everything can be used for higher purpose, all forms.

And one gentleman told in his lecture, when I was a student in the college: "Because Kṛṣṇa is a thief we have got some consolation. That to be a thief, we give some protection that there may be some bad weather. The thief will not consider all these things. He will come and I may give opposition and hindrance of many types, but the thief will come for his own interest, and enter my house. No arrangement of any welcome, or any good feeling, nothing necessary, but he will enter. So we have walled up all around our heart, but because Kṛṣṇa is a thief, of His own accord He will enter. He won't care for all these boundary walls, or bad weather, or the thorny way, the thief won't care, He will come. So because Kṛṣṇa is a thief, so we have got some hope, like a thief He will enter my heart one day. Otherwise I am unable to make any arrangement to welcome Him into my heart. Without my invitation, without my preparation to welcome Him, independent of anything, and putting all obstacles in the way of the thief, still the thief enters, of his own necessity. So because Kṛṣṇa is a thief that is our hope, one day He may enter my heart as a thief and capture it."

Our Sudhir Mahārāja has recorded one gentleman who was assistant editor in the Manchester Guardian for twenty years, and as a student from England he was sent to Germany, in the first great war as a spy. That gentleman from Agra came with us, myself and Goswāmī Mahārāja. I took him to Purī. Our Guru Mahārāja at that time, and took Harināma, and then Guru Mahārāja told:

"We must allow Kṛṣṇa to land in our heart and He will conquer everything. Nothing can stand in comparison to Him. He's full of such prospect. Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa conception of our destination, for our prospect, is so powerful that there may be so many proposals, so many so called prospects in our heart, but if Kṛṣṇa conception is allowed to land there, it will come gradually to fight with all other aspirations of our heart, and they will all be uprooted and driven out, and He will conquer."

praviṣṭaḥ karna-randhrena, svānām bhāva-saroruham dhunoti śamalam
kṛṣṇaḥ, salilasya yathā śarat

"The sound incarnation of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Soul (i.e. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam), enters into the heart of a self-realised devotee, sits on the lotus flower of his loving relationship, and thus cleanses the dust of material association, such as lust, anger and hankering. Thus it acts like autumnal rains upon pools of muddy water." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.8.5)

Purify the water as the autumn season.

śṛṇvatām sva-kathāḥ kṛṣṇaḥ, puṇya-śravaṇa kīrtanaḥ hr̥dy antaḥ stho hy abhadrāṇi, vidhunoti suhṛt satām naṣṭa-prāyeṣu abhadreṣu, nityaṁ bhāgavata-sevayā bhagavatṛ uttama-śloke, bhaktir bhavati naiṣṭhikī tadā rajas-tamo-bhāvāḥ, kāma-lobhādayaś ca ye ceta etair anāviddhaṁ, sthitaṁ sattve prasīdati

"Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Personality of Godhead, who is the Paramātmā (Supersoul) in everyone's heart and the benefactor of the truthful devotee, cleanses desire for material enjoyment from the heart of the devotee who has developed the urge to hear His messages, which are in themselves virtuous when properly heard and chanted."

"By regular attendance in classes on the Bhāgavatam and by rendering of service to the pure devotee, all that is troublesome to the heart is almost completely destroyed, and loving service unto the Personality of Godhead, who is praised with transcendental songs, is established as an irrevocable fact."

"As soon as irrevocable loving service is established in the heart, the effects of nature's modes of passion and ignorance, such as lust, desire, and hankering, disappear from the heart. Then the devotee is established in goodness, and he becomes completely happy."(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.17-19)

All will be driven, all the thoughts and ideas, prospects of different conceptions will be driven. None can cope with Him. Kṛṣṇa conception is full of such high prospect that none can stand in competition with Him.

They have to clear out, if in any way Kṛṣṇa conception is allowed to land in the heart. Out of His own intrinsic power all other proposals, the whole market He will capture, all competitors will have to go away with their capital.

End of side A - side B: 6-4-83

Devotee: Too short notice. He should have given a date. I've spoken to him at length on the telephone from South Africa. Anyway, Goswāmī Mahārāja's view is well known to us and we can also advise him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In his absence. You can represent him?

Devotee: Yes, if he blesses us.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then you may wait. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Anna, tarkari, dhal, roti, paramana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No kitri?

Devotee: (laughter) We can make. Then this sukta first.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: while you are here, but generally it will be heavy according to us here in Bengal.

Devotee: But we made Govinda bhoga anna, so good for digestion.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very good, that is very, very good. And dhal, moong dhal.

Devotee: And not puri because harder for digestion, so we made roti. And then sukta, sarapatan first. Then some misti dahi, and paramana, and laddu, nadika laddu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Like the laddu available in market?

Devotee: No, no, they're making.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Mahāprabhu met at Mahārastra Pandapur on the banks of....

Mahāprabhu heard that he has, Śrī Ranga Purī disciple of Madhavendra, so I should go to him and show my respect. Mahāprabhu went and told: "I am a disciple of Īśvara Purī." "Oh Īśvara Purī we know well, You are his disciple, very good, very fortunate."

Anyhow privately. Generally the custom is that sannyāsīn's previous history should not be disclosed or discussed. Still deviating from the ordinary rule, Śrī Runga Purī asked: "No objection, then you can intimate me where you come from, Bengal?"

"Yes I come from Navadvīpa and my fathers name, previous āśrama was Jagannātha Mīśra."

"Oh you come from that family, Jagannātha Mīśra's son. One of Jagannātha Mīśra's son's he took sannyāsa and he disappeared in this place. He was a good boy when he was young. And also along with Mādhavendra Purī in big batch we went to visit Nadia and was a guest in Jagannātha Mīśra's house." Śrī Runga Purī says: "We are a guest with our Gurudeva Mādhavendra Purī there and Jagannātha Mīśra's wife was a very good cook, she prepared this, muchar dunt ? something with this flower of the plantain, and that was very tasteful, we can't forget." He told.

Perhaps according to that incident Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written:

śacīr aṅgane kabhu, mādhavendra-purī prabhu, prasādana korena bhojan

khāite tā 'ra, āilo prema sudurbār, bale, śuno sannyāsīra gan

mocā-ghanṭa phula-baī, dāli-dālnā-caccaī, śacī-mātā korilo randhan tā 'ra śuddhā bhakti heri', bhojana korilo hari, sudhā-sama e annabyañjan

(3)

joge jogī pāy jāhā, bhoge āj ha'be tāhā, 'hari' boli 'khāo sabe bhāi kr̥ṣṇera prasāda-anna, tri-jagat kore dhanya, tripurāri nāce jāhā pāi'

(1) "O brothers! Whenever Mādhavendra Purī took prasāda in the courtyard of Mother Śacī, he became overwhelmed by uncontrollable symptoms of ecstatic love of God. O assembled sannyāsīs, just listen to this."

(2) "Mother Śacī prepared and cooked varieties of prasāda: semi-solid delicacies made with banana flower, a special dhal preparation, baskets of fruits, small square cakes made of lentils and cooked down milk, among others. Seeing her pure devotion, Lord Kṛṣṇa Personally ate all the different vegetable preparations which were just like nectar."

(3) "O brothers! Everyone come and eat the prasāda of Lord Hari and chant His Holy Name! All the results that the mystics obtain by executing yoga will be obtained today by taking the Lord's prasāda. The entire universe glorifies the prasāda of Lord Kṛṣṇa. Lord Śiva dances in great joy on obtaining that prasāda."

(from The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Gītāvalī, p 76)

When taking prasādam in the compound of Śacī Devī, suddenly Mādhavendra Purī was attacked by the love of Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa affection, or love, became very deep and intense it is mentioned. And he began to address the sannyāsīs there:

bale, śuno sannyāsīra gan. mocā-ghaṇṭa phula-baṛī, dāli-dālnā-caccaṛī, śacī-mātā korilo randhan. So many preparations of vegetables, how beautiful it has been arranged and cooked by Śacī Devī, this is just like nectar, very, very tasteful.

tā 'ra śuddhā bhakti heri', bhojana korilo hari, sudhā-sama e anna-byañjan. New thought.

When Śacī Devī cooked it, finding her very pure devotion temperament.

tā 'ra śuddhā bhakti heri', bhojana korilo hari, sudhā-sama e anna-byañjan. New idea, that after it is cooked, then we shall offer to Him, and then you will take. Here omitted. When she was cooking, her heart was full of dedication to Kṛṣṇa, and Kṛṣṇa accepted that. By her cooking, her cooking was committable for Kṛṣṇa to take the preparations. It does not depend on us that we shall offer to Kṛṣṇa, to Hari, but when she was preparing, then and there, Hari has taken, by her nature of dedication to Hari.

sudhā-sama e anna-byañjan. Just like nectar you all taste.

joge jogī pāy jāhā, bhoge āj ha'be tāhā, 'hari' boli 'khāo sabe bhāi. You mind it, that the great yogīs, after practising hard practices of yoga, what they gain, simply by taking prasādam we will get, more than that. Outwardly it is enjoyable to take prasādam, but this enjoyment of taking prasādam will take you higher than the yogīs. joge jogī pāy. What they get by practices of yoga, you will get simply by taking prasādam.

joge jogī pāy jāhā, bhoge āj ha'be tāhā, 'hari' boli 'khāo sabe bhāi kṛṣṇera prasād-anna, tri- jagat kore dhanya, tripurāri nāce jāhā pāi'. Mahādeva, Śiva, He also began to dance when He takes the prasādam now, He's reminding His boys, His disciples.

I sometimes put here: joge jogī na pāy jāhā, the yogī, what they get by their yoga practices, automatically you will get by enjoyment here. But I put it: joge jogī na pāy jāhā, what they cannot get, you will get it. (assembled devotees laugh). joge jogī na pāy jāhā, bhoge āj ha'be tāhā, They can't reach to such height, the yogī's.

yamādhīr yoga-pathaiḥ, kāma-lobha-hato muhuḥ mukunda-sevayā yadvat, tathāddhātmā na śāmyati

"The agitated mind, repeatedly taken captive by its enemy in the form of depravity rooted in lust and greed, is directly mastered by serving the Supreme Lord, Mukunda. It can never be likewise checked or pacified by practising the eight-fold yogic discipline, which is generally based on sensual and mental repression (yama, niyama, etc)."(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.6.35)

All artificial practices, what has that to do with the independent absolute life? What may have any influence over the Absolute. That may affect me sometimes those practices to make my mentality a little calm, durability of calm position in the mind. That sort, by controlling air, containing our breath, we can get some calmness within our mind. I practised it sometimes, but what to do with the Absolute. It is only śaraṇāgati. Without surrender no other path towards the Autocrat. None can control Him, only by the opposite method, to defeat Him approaching in the opposite method. Not to approach to conquer Him but just the opposite.

"I have not come to conquer but I have come to take shelter. I do not find any shelter in me, neither in the broad world anywhere, but only You can give proper shelter. I have come, don't avoid me my Lord, I'm the most wretched and You are the highest good. You must have to give protection to me, I'm helpless."

Independent, He's the autocrat absolute, only without śaraṇāgati, we are subject, He's super subject, He has got only subjective existence to us, not any objective, never. Always in the super subjective area He dwells.

yathā nabhasi meghaugho, reṇur vā pāṛthivo 'nile evaṁ draṣṭari dṛsyatvam, āropitam abuddhibhiḥ

"The unintelligent equate the sky with the clouds, the air with the dust particles floating in it, and think that the sky is cloudy or that the air is dirty." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.3.31)

Just as patches of cloud in the sky, then many dust in the air, so by locating the dust we say that the air is filthy with dust, by tracing the clouds we say the sky is cloudy. But what is the connection between the cloud and the sky? The sky we cannot trace, with the help of the cloud we will say: "Oh the sky is cloudy."

So: draṣṭari dṛsyatvam āropitam: Really He has got subjective characteristic, and we have to trace Him as Śrī Mūrti and others. We take Them down, take Him down in the objective world to understand the position. In the facility of understanding His position, we try to take Him down in the objective world, but really He's holding the subjective position to me. I am subject, He is super subject. I can't make Him object of my mundane or mental senses. He's naturally holding superior position. But to make it possible in our understanding, we try to attribute something of the mundane in His connection and try to understand Him. That the books, the advice, that is knowledge, that we try to keep in books, in the objective world. I may forget, so the writing system is there and I can understand Him by consulting the books. This material, we can trace, evaṁ draṣṭari dṛsyatvam, āropitam abuddhibhiḥ. He's not confined in the books, though in Bhāgavatam He's there and we worship the Bhāgavatam with flowers before we begin to read it. We try to bring Him in the objective position. But we should try to understand that by this, we are being taken to the transcendental world. It is managed for that. The book, the Bhāgavatam is His words there, so I'm to worship.

"Oh, He's such and such." To bring Him down in the objective world to facilitate our understanding about Him, but really He's always transcendental, supramental, transcendental, that is His real position.

"Oh He's not ordinary thing within our eye experience, something transcendental, so revere it."

Śrī Mūrti also, revere for pūjā because of it's infinite connection with the transcendental you must worship the Deity. In the objective world also, to take me there that is not ordinary mystic thing, it has got it's existence to trace to the super subjective world. With that idea we are to approach Bhāgavatam, or the Deity, or the Ganges water, or anything pertaining to Kṛṣṇa and His own.

Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

evaṁ draṣṭari dṛsyatvam, āropitam abuddhibhiḥ. So prasādam connecting to Him, by taking, apparently by enjoying you are doing transcendental service to prasādam, that is on the subjective world.

'hari' boli 'khāo sabe bhāi - tripurāri nāce jāhā pāi'

Śrī Ranga Purī, Mahāprabhu meet him there in Pandapura, in the river.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

End of recording.

83.4.8

(see also Guru 41) Devotee: But he referred to the śrauta brāhmaṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrauta ? T?

Devotee: Yes, t.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is otherwise śrauta and śaukra, śrauta according to the order of the śruti. Śrauta means according to the dictation or recommendation of the śruti.

Devotee: Śrauta-abhimani he told, I read it somewhere.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You mark it again, whether t or k.

Devotee: No, t.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrauta-abhimani ?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who considers themselves to be followers of Śrauti. Śrauta- abhimani.

Devotee: I see. False followers, like Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who has got that abhimani, that sentiment that I am a brāhmaṇa, without caring for the qualification of a brāhmaṇa. Guṇa gata, that is:

yasya lal lakṣaṇaṁ proktaṁ, puṁso varṇābhivyañjakam yad anyatrāpi-dṛśyeta tat tenaiva vinirdiśet

"If one shows the symptoms of being a brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya or śūdra, as described above, even if he has appeared in a different class, he should be accepted according to those symptoms of classification."
(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.11.35)

In Bhāgavatam. In general we have said this śrauta, this śaukra, the physical propaganda, the lineage, is accepted. Then there is an exceptional thing there if I have already enumerated so many symptoms of a brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra. But if any of the symptoms of a brāhmaṇa is seen in a śūdra, he should be recommended as a brāhmaṇa. According to the symptoms the final recognition and classification should be accepted, that is said. Ordinarily you may accept this physical connection. But if the qualification of the same is not seen in a particular, they will be reckoned and they will be given recognition according to the quality and not to the physical connection, in Bhāgavatam. This should be considered superior in the point of judgement, that guṇa, symptom, and not the physical connection, these descents, physical descendants. That has got some value but instead of that facility if one cannot brāhmaṇa, a brāhmaṇa's son has got some facility to become a brāhmaṇa from his childhood. But still if he does not show the symptom of a brāhmaṇa proper then he should be rejected from the brāhmaṇa class. And if a brāhmaṇa's symptom is seen in any other caste he should be taken in as brāhmaṇa. This will be a dynamic varṇāśrama, a living varṇāśrama, otherwise it will be a dead thing.

A doctor's son may not be, well and good if he becomes a doctor, he has got the chance of being a doctor from the childhood he's getting so much experience how to be a doctor. But still if he can't become a doctor he should not be given recognition of a doctor. So everything. The quality must be given more preference than the physical association and physical connection. That is daiva-varṇāśrama, and that is śaukra-varṇāśrama, aśura-varṇāśrama. That lays much stress to the body and not the inner existence.

Hiraṇyakaśipu, he comes from a brāhmaṇa descent, (and his brother) Hiraṇyākṣa, but they're considered aśura, aśura-varṇāśrama. Rāvaṇa also a brāhmaṇa's son but asura, rākṣasa.

Brāhmaṇa's are offering things to Rāmacandra and Rāmacandra Himself taking the Prasāda of Buhak-candal (?). The Buhak-candal through his extreme love whatever he found very sweet he kept it for Rāma. And when Rāma again became his guest, he said very sweet fruit I have got and Rāmacandra took that. Savari (?), then one perhaps the sister of Buhak-candal, he collected something, Rāma took there the remains. And brāhmaṇa's are trying to offer bhoga to Rāma. A devotees' position is such, nirguṇa. Tasmai deyaṁ tato grāhyaṁ, sa ca pūjyo yathā hy aham:

na me 'bhaktaś catur-vedī, mad-bhaktaḥ śva-pacaḥ priyaḥ tasmai deyaṁ tato grāhyaṁ, sa ca pūjyo yathā hy aham

"A brāhmaṇa who is expert in studying all four Vedas is not dear to Me. But a devotee who comes from a family of outcastes (caṇḍālas) is dear to Me. Whatever he touches becomes prasāda. That devotee, although born in a family of outcastes, is as worshippable as I am." (Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 10.91 + 10.127)

Just as fire within the iron, fire may be within gold, fire may be in silver, fire may be iron. But gold may not have fire, but in iron we may find fire, that is fire. "I am there in My devotee." So the iron can do the work of fire, if it is surcharged with fire it can do the work of fire, the iron rod. So tasmai deyaṁ tato grāhyaṁ, sa ca pūjyo yathā hy aham: "I am pervading to every part of My devotee, so if you give to him it is as good as to give to Me. I am there like fire in the iron." Something like that. Tasmai deyaṁ tato grāhyaṁ, sa ca pūjyo yathā hy aham: Then the iron rod should be given the honour of fire. Ha, ha.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: When our Gurudeva Śrīla Swāmī Mahārāja, when he gave Hari-Nāma, he held this halan (?) Whereas previously, generally it was only havan (?)

was for Bhāgavati-dīkṣā. So perhaps he did it for prācārya (? - a guru's guru) because without saṁskāra (purifying ceremony) we have got only the beads and not much ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Impression, to create impression favourable to spiritual life they managed something.

Devotee: Yes. But still we find that there is one Nāma-aparādha, dharma-vrata utardhi, (?) to consider that Hari-Nāma equal to this dharma-vrata uta (?)

So later if the disciple does not realise it then it's become something like smārta- brāhmaṇism, more attention to that havan (?) and less attention to the Nāma. Some danger, so how will we harmonise it?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the famine the distribution of food that is all important. If it is in an organised way, well and good. But without food only organisation display and grandeur, what value to that?

Devotee: You told: "Rāmakrishna Mission has a big sign, we are doing so much."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I told it: "The big sign-board, but if the orator goes we'll find that they're bankrupt." Ha, ha, ha. But externally a big sign-board maintaining, to the ordinary public. Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) was very much satisfied with this example. "That who has given this example?" he told me, "very suiting." Mādhava Mahārāja was there, he told: "Śrīdhara Mahārāja's analogy." Ha, ha, ha. The other day you took my short history but some points are omitted, points of appreciation of Prabhupāda about me. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Important remarks he had about me.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

End of side A, 8-4-83. side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: the most original conception of everything is to be found in Goloka Vṛndāvana. And all other that is for the time being they're different representations, vilāsa, vilāsa in different planes but originally everything is there. We are to consider.

Devotee: Do we consider the Tulasī Devī in our home nondifferent from tulasī in Navadvīpa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not so much, slight difference there may be. Navadvīpa, Vṛndāvana, holy places, there that aspiration may beautify. Just as different dress, one may appear beautiful by particular dress. Different dresses may increase the beauty of the person. A comparison in that way, that is formal. Materially that is the same thing. Kṛṣṇa in Dvārakā, Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana, Mathurā, Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa in Rādhā-Kuṇḍa, differentiation according to the environment importance varies.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: difference between a servant and a trader. Many comes, approaches with some trade purpose. And really the devotees should be of servant characters. Prahlāda Mahārāja says: "One who wants something in return maintaining his self interest, he's also negotiating and associating with the sādhus but his personal interest is there. Then he's making trade with the sādhus." How much can I gain, how much I shall give? A separate interest. But a pure devotee should not have any separate interest. He or she will try to merge within the interest of the Lord. In whatever position he's in does not matter a brahmacārī, a sannyāsī, a gṛhastha, or any shape, vānaprastha or any shape, only to merge, viśate tad-anantaram.

bhaktyā mām abhijānāti, yāvān yaś cāsmi tattvataḥ tato mām tattvato jñātvā, viśate tad-anantaram

"Only through love and devotion can I be understood as I am. Thereafter, fully understanding Me, you can merge into My entourage." (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.55)

Not separate account he will like to keep but to enter into the family of the Godhead, that will be his object, not separate account keeping. That will be the very basis of pure devotion, tato mām tattvato jñātvā, viśate tad-anantaram. Wants to surrender, to be one of common interest with the Lord. And not to approach and to ask some questions, and to pocket those answers, and to trade with them in other parts, or in any way, any way. So once I told, so many questions are coming, "That this is not a place where, this is not enquiry office." That idle inquisitive enquirers they want to satisfy their curiosity, they want to be masters of many keys. That they can give solution and have a position or any other object they may have. Not enquiry office. They can't understand, can't follow.

Pranīpāt, paripraśna and sevā, the three requirements before we come to enquire about superior knowledge, super subjective knowledge, we must come with these three equipment's, three upayan (?), the Devotees: Methods, means?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Methods? No, upayana means the object of worship, what is this? The object, the so many things necessary for the worship, that is upayana, or pūja samagray (?) Things necessary for worshipping. So if we really want to know about the super subjective plane then we must have these three things. Otherwise it will be a farce, it will be imitation, not substantial, not real. Three things, praṇipāt, paripraśna, sevā.

Praṇipāt means to fall flat near the feet. What does it mean? The meaning is, "I have finished my enterprise into the whole, my previous plane. I have not found anything anywhere to satisfy my object. Only lastly I have come here. That is praṇipāt, to fall flat. "I have finished all my errands. Lastly I have come here."

The sign of that paripraśna, honest enquiry is allowed, honest enquiry, that is sincere enquiry. Enquiry of all others finished, only, "How I will get anything from here?" That sort of enquiry. Not any enquiry and collecting something and to make trade with the world which I have left, not with that purpose, not that purpose. If that sort of connection with the outside only in the interest of the object I have come to search. I have lost all my faith in the previous environment. So honest enquiry means that sort of enquiry. "I want to know whether I can be utilised here in any way or not." With that spirit, "How I can be accommodated here. All other charm of living anywhere else is finished. The enquiry only how I can be utilised here for this purpose." Honest enquiry, paripraśna.

And sevā, the most important, the all important thing is sevā. "I have come to serve and not to take anything from here, come to serve. Whether I may utilise myself for the cause of the subject for which I have come. All finished, only I want to be utilised by what I enquired for that." In Veda also:

tad vijñānārthaṁ sa gurum evābhigacchet samit pañiḥ śrotriyaṁ brahma niṣṭhaṁ

"One who wants scientific knowledge about the Supreme Truth must approach a bona fide guru and offer him everything required for sacrifice. The guru must be fixed in the truth, having heard it from a genuine source." (Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 1.2.12)

Ābhigacchet means samyak-gacchet - 'not with a return ticket.' Sa gurum evābhigacchet, ābhi means samyak - fully. I have finished my charm of previous lives, so evābhigacchet. Śrotriyaṁ brahma niṣṭhaṁ, one who can explain things to me and who is already in position there, both theoretical and practical knowledge about the object, śrotriyaṁ brahma niṣṭhaṁ. Without this process everything will be useless. In Bhāgavatam also:

tasmād gurum prapadyeta, jijñāsuḥ śreyaḥ uttamam śabde pare ca
niṣṇātaṁ, brahmaṇy upaśamāśrayam

("Therefore any person who seriously desires real happiness must seek a bona fide spiritual master and take shelter of him by initiation. The qualification of the bona fide guru is that he has realised the conclusions of the scriptures by deliberation and is able to convince others of those conclusions. Such great personalities, who have taken shelter of the Supreme Godhead, leaving aside all material considerations, should be understood to be bona fide spiritual masters.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.21)

Prapadyeta means prapanna, śaraṇāgata. So, so means 'consequently'

so means because he had no charm for the world he has experienced already, no charm, tasmād. For this reason. What is the reason? Because he lost all his charm for his past experience so he has come with one object. "Whether I can have an honourable place of my future life here." With this regard, prapadyeta, prapadyeta prapanna, prapanna means surrender. He will come and surrender there exclusively devote himself for the cause for which he has come, prapadyeta.

Jijñāsuḥ śreyāḥ uttamam, whether higher life is possible here? The lower lives I have already finished. Any possibility of higher life can be had here? So jijñāsuḥ śreyāḥ uttamam, to whom?

Śabde pare ca niṣṇātaṁ, śabde, or śruti-śāstre, revealed truth that come from outside, not found in the world of experience, that aspect of the world which our senses can contact with. From the revealed quarter, from the higher quarter, that extended anything. Śabde pare ca niṣṇātaṁ, who is established in both the literary aspect as well as the real reality, the reality and the literary description of the same. One who is well versed in these two aspects of the truth, to him he has come, prapanna, has come to surrender. So: na sa bhr̥tyaḥ sa vai vaṇik:

nānyathā te 'khila-guro, ghaṭeta karuṇātmanaḥ yas ta āśiṣa āśāste, na sa bhr̥tyaḥ sa vai vaṇik

Prahlāda Mahārāja states: "Otherwise, O my Lord, O supreme instructor of the entire world, You are so kind to Your devotee that You could not induce him to do something unbeneficial for him. On the other hand, one who desires some material benefit in exchange for devotional service cannot be Your pure devotee. Indeed, he is no better than a merchant who wants profit in exchange for service."

Who come to make trade, he has got his separate interest and he's there and he has come here to collect something to satisfy his own purpose. So this possibility is there. We must be very careful about the same nature within us. "What for I have come? What for I have come?"

There may be many, that Gaura Kiśora Bābājī when a renowned goswāmī well versed in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and explanation, he explained in a place Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam and Gaura Kiśora Bābājī asked his servant: "Purify this place."

"Why? This is already purified. Here Bhāgavata-kathā takes place, so many persons came and hear."

"You heard Bhāgavata-kathā but I heard only money, money, money." He explained: "Because if he can advertise that I have heard his Bhāgavata-kathā explanation then he will have greater scope in his trade, more money. For that purpose he has come to read Bhāgavata here. Not to satisfy Bhāgavata who are Kṛṣṇa Himself. Not for the purpose of Bhāgavatam but for his own business he has come, trade, trade." Trading with Bhāgavata that is offence to, against Bhāgavata, that will be detrimental to pure devotion, aparādha. So the attitude is all important, so much so that Śrīdhara Swāmī has said:

na tu kṛtā satī paścād arpyeta:

"I am collecting them, I shall try to utilise in the service of the Lord. No. Already I am committed and so I have come to do it. Committed to Kṛṣṇa, Him. I have come to know about Him for Him not for me or for any other. Then this preaching department, why for others? Only if I get impression from that quarter, "Go and preach." Then I shall do, serve, that will be service. Not to get name and fame that I am a good preacher, I am doing for the," I must have engagement from the higher office, on their behalf I shall preach, then it shall be preaching. Otherwise it won't be preaching, it will be tradery.

Na sa bhr̥tyaḥ sa vai vaṇik, Prah̥lāda Mahārāja is against this tradery mentality, trade mentality about spiritual truth.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotion means that. Another plane, to live for the centre, as the agent of the centre, to live, move, to do anything as the agent of the centre. Not otherwise, not disconnected with the centre. Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Reality is for Itself. We must strictly abide by this rule. He is for Himself and everything for Himself and I am for Himself and what I shall do it must be for Himself. We shall strictly stick to this understanding. Whether it is for Him or for any part however greater I may think it. And what is the guarantee? The guarantee is Vaiṣṇava and śāstra. That is, I can't conceive the whole thing. So much audacity one should not have, so vaiṣṇuve anugati ?

When I came and joined the Maṭh in the beginning, our Professor Sanyal told me one day: "If you read Bhāgavtam yourself it will be acquiring some knowledge or something, not bhakti. But when a Vaiṣṇava orders you to read, if you read that will be devotion." Even reading of the scripture, if you read it by the order of a Vaiṣṇava then it will be devotion. But if you go to read yourself it will be to collect some knowledge about something.

So interest is already, the bond is already there, it is for Him, for Him. So vaiṣṇuve anugata ? sādhu anugata, sādhu-saṅga kṛṣṇa-nāma. That must be guaranteed, it will be as far as possible, what I am doing for Him, for Him. Where is the guarantee? His agent is saying so. I have engaged myself. I am not my master, I am His servant. That consciousness must be genuine as much as it is possible. The whole thing depends on that. Reality is for Itself. This truth however hard it may be, it must be accepted. That for Itself. Die to live. I like very much this Hegel's expression, die to live. Reality for Itself. These two things. And He's by Itself, Reality is by Itself and for Itself. And die to live. Very helpful to Vaiṣṇava cult.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

aham hi sarva-yajñānām, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca na tu mām
abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te

"-Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death."

(Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24)

Na tu kṛtā satī paścād arpyeta

Otherwise you will get something and pocket and fly away. No. Contract that everything given to you then do, don't rely you, yourself.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Is it desirable, such a life? We are to think out. So much risk, die to live. Should we first death, first dying and then live in future. Should we take such risk? Are you so much disgusted with the present environment that with taking so much risk we are for some bright future I shall jump? Are we so much disgusted, are we? Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Then if so much risk I may take, then I am sincere to me, I have got a speck of the future, how bright it is, then we can take risk. Otherwise there is not a fool who will take risk leaving the present for the uncertain future he will jump, such a fool should not be found. But before that he must have got some ray, a smallest ray of such existence, that, "yes, I can risk sukṛti, śraddhā, śraddhā, faith, such a noble faith, a point of noble faith has arisen in one's heart, then he may take such bold steps and must jump. Otherwise it is not possible. Śraddhā, ādau śraddhā, then sādhū-saṅga, then bhajana-kriyā, all these practices.

ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā tato' nārtha-nivṛttiḥ syāt tato niṣṭhā rucis tataḥ athāsaktis tato bhāvas tataḥ premābhyudāñcati

sādhakānām ayaṁ premṇaḥ prādurbhāve bhavet kramāḥ

"In the beginning there must be faith. Then one becomes interested in associating with pure devotees. Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhanā-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."

The process of realisation one can accept when he has got that śraddhā, then it is possible, so ādau śraddhā, the faith.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

sakala chāḍiyā bhāi, śraddhādevīra guṇa gāi, yanra kṛpa bhakti dite pare

Give up everything and praise only with your utmost energy the nobility of the śraddhā, the faith, of the faith. The ray of new and noble life.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Na vai vidur ṛṣayo nāpi devāḥ: So many scholars, so many stalwarts of the religious world, even they may not know anything of such quality of life, the surrendered life to Kṛṣṇa. Na vai vidur ṛṣayo nāpi devāḥ:

dharmam tu sākṣād bhagavat-praṇītam na vai vidur ṛṣayo nāpi devāḥ na siddha-mukhyā asurā manuṣyāḥ kuto nu vidyādhara-cāraṇādayaḥ

"Real religious principles are enacted by the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Although fully situated in the mode of goodness, even the great ṛṣis who occupy the topmost planets cannot ascertain the real religious principles, nor can the demigods or the leaders of Siddhaloka, to say nothing of the asuras, ordinary human beings, Vidyādharas and Cāraṇas." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.3.19)

No question about human, about the mankind, no question. The great spiritual scholars they also do not know. They're posing and they're knowers of the higher plane, ṛṣayo nāpi devāḥ.

The great dictators of the religious worlds famous, they also do not know this, this Bhāgavata-dharma. Where Mahāprabhu says in the Rāmānanda Rāya discourse: "eho bāhya āge kaha āra: Yes, here it must be. The beginning is here. All other lower stages they are only preparatory. But the real beginning is here. That ruci, taste, taste for that supreme divinity. The taste wherever can be traced, real taste, "yes, he's sure, he has begun this life, he has got admission. Now go further, further, deeper and deeper. And on the outside? Yes they're trying but not come to the soil."

Miracle substance of oil, they're trying to find out from within the earth. Outer symptoms and then when they go deep and they find yes, there is oil within the earth we have got. Otherwise so many symptoms that may be otherwise. But when it comes to a certain stage they're sure, "Aha, here is oil, here is gold, here is iron." In this way.

"There is, now go further, now go further." Eho bāhya āge kaha āra. Faith, śraddhā. We put food to the stomach, not local injection, but put food to the stomach then naturally the whole body will be fed. Faith of this nature. Water into the root, the whole tree will be fed. Faith means to come to such understanding that it is possible.

Now to the central, to the Beauty, Personified Centre, do for Him, then everything will be very beautifully done. Contribute your small quota, the might, to that and from there it will be distributed beautifully. And this is the highest harmony, highest form of living for every part is such of nature.

A good cooker, don't go, run to cook yourself, the good cook is there and you help him as he wants from you. Then your objects when it will be cooked by his hand, very tasteful to all. So the smallest energy, might, what you have got you place it at the disposal of the highest beauty or love divine and that will be distributed. And you will also be inundated with that higher quality of feeling, or ecstasy, or joy, or whatever you call it. Fulfilment, fulfilment to the highest quality and degree. That is the key to our living that is recommended, devotion means such life.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahārāja has warned us, who is known as śuddha-bhakta, pure devotee of the primary stage, Prahlāda. Śānta-rasa, he's warning against the dirt, the trading temperament is a great danger on our way to approach towards pure devotion, na sa bhr̥tyaḥ sa vai vanik: (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.10.4). So analyse your, scrutinise you, whether trading temperament is within you, that is pratiṣṭha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol.

The general devotion will be of that temperament then there is also division, śānta, dāsyā, sakhyā, vātsalyā, mādhyā, the nature for service, how beautiful and how loving they may be further developed on that plane. The foundation must be strong and pure.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

The real reality, and here, janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhī, (Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9), this transient character, coming and going, coming in the scene and then vanishing, and while staying always dying and it's finished. In this stage we are living with our head erect and with scientific intellectual reason we're living. We are masters of the whole creation we see. We can utilise everything for humanity and at the same time we are kept ready if necessary for my interest I shall crush the whole human section with atom bomb. Suicidal civilisation side by side, that we shan't avoid death, ha, ha, even we want to flourish by death. Ha, ha, we like to establish ourselves with the help of death, and this is the greatest weapon, our reliance on the death. To improve our own position we are ready to take the help of the death. We are so magnanimous, so highly civilised persons, ha, ha. What we hate, what we try to avoid, but we court death if necessary. So heinous satanic self within us. Whether as a collective or individual we foster such selfish mean things within our heart.

Should we believe us? Ha, ha, ha. We belong to that part, ha. We are members of that exhibition, that civilisation.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa. Hare Rāma.

One gentleman put a question to (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja: "Why don't you recognise or give recognition to Christ?"

"Are you Christian? First become Christian then come to say what is the difference. First become true Christian. Are you following His method? That slap on one cheek then give another cheek for the slap, are you doing like that? God is everything, this is nothing, are you trained in that? Be a Christian then come to question what is the difference between Christianity and Vaiṣṇavism. Go on." He dismissed them I am told. Become a true Christian and then come, "Where is the difference, differentiation?"

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

The enemy is within not outside, so much, it is living within. Quisling, Quisling you know? No?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A man in Norway, (Major Vidkun Quisling, 1887-1945) he was in the intrigue privately with Hitler. And when Hitler attacked Norway he came forward to help him. So his name was Quisling, in some higher position there. After that the word Quisling that became an expression to express wherever the enemy from within, he's a quisling, he's a quisling when his enemy is within.

Just as it is told Vibhīṣaṇa here, Vibhīṣaṇa who killed the enemy of Rāvaṇa, Laṅkā, came from within. Vibhīṣaṇa here, though Vibhīṣaṇa is a devotee, but from the social standpoint they use it in this way, jana-śatru, who is an internal enemy. (Vibhīṣaṇa is the virtuous younger brother of the rākṣasa Rāvaṇa and became an ally of Lord Rāmacandra and king of Laṅkā after Rāvaṇa's death).

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So Vṛndāvana has stopped? Then he's leaving for Vṛndāvana or where?

Devotee: Hong Kong.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why? The Kṛṣṇa Janmāṣṭamī is drawing near, the appearance of Baladeva, Kṛṣṇa, Rādhārāṇī, Lalitā Devī, Rūpa Goswāmī, are coming, drawing very near and you are leaving the soil? Rather you should visit Vṛndāvana during the time. It is already fixed?

Devotee: My plan is to come back, and also bring my wife and family.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When? Our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) often told that to see by ear. Ha, ha, ha, ha. śrute kita vata ?

To learn to see by ear. What we see it is not so. What it is it comes from the plane of reality to us through sound, ear, śruti should be our guide.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura Prabhupāda, he writes about the śrauta brāhmaṇas, but these śrauta brāhmaṇas seem to be the smārta brāhmaṇas. Is that correct?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrauta ?

Devotee: Yes. śrauta brāhmaṇas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrauta and the other part? Śaukra ?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrauta or śaukra ? Śaukra means semen, which is coming by the physical order, śaukra.

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.4)

Discoverer of my highest worth, one who discovers my highest worth, highest value, He has come down to utilise me for that highest call. I do not know what value I have got.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! aparadha padamano citra halo bhatrasam, tuwa ne malave ? Neti, neti, neti, not this, not this, not this.

Kṛṣṇa is inconceivable. Our hope is with the Vaiṣṇava more. In the beginning of the life of a devotee, s/he thinks that, "My necessity is with Kṛṣṇa. Why in the scriptures so much stress has been given for the Vaiṣṇava? Between Kṛṣṇa and me they're placing so many barriers." Though they outwardly have no other way but to admit this, "Yes, Vaiṣṇava." But really the inner heart is not satisfied, "My necessity with Kṛṣṇa." But when he really comes to have any touch of pure realisation they begin to understand that Vaiṣṇava is all. Without Vaiṣṇava we cannot have any trace of Kṛṣṇa. So abstract, so fine, so free, and so, cancala means restless, that is impossible for us to have any connection. The Vaiṣṇava they're our solace of life. So many post of consolation standing on our way. We can find peace also in our heart that they're of my nature, my friend. They know my pleasure and pain of my type at present in my heart, what is the nature of pain and pleasure in me. They're my friends.

Kṛṣṇa is almost untraceable abstract thing, He's so unapproachable, and so unattainable, and so fickle, and so playful that we cannot have, we cannot fix any real prospect in Him. But the Vaiṣṇava's are standing like pillars, easily approachable and they can give us consolation and they can help in our disaster like sympathetic friend. They're really our necessity, Vaiṣṇava than Kṛṣṇa, the Vaiṣṇava they will be, must have more interest from me. Unknown and unknowable, untraceable, and so many disappointing qualifications we find in Him. But the Vaiṣṇava's are all sympathetic, always helping. So they gradually come to hold important position in us. Not for the time being, "As long as I cannot have intimacy with Kṛṣṇa, so long we have some necessity with them," it's not like that. Permanently and eternally they are our everything. This will be our realisation as much as we shall go deep towards the goal.

Kṛṣṇa's nature is something like treacherous, ha, ha. Rādhārāṇī when helpless She says that: "I can't walk any longer. You may take Me where You like, You may take, You are to carry Me. I can't" But disappeared suddenly, disappeared. Then, of course, She was of that strong type, "I know You can't go away, You are nearby but You have concealed You." With this attitude She was going and again perhaps for some time He met. He's of that type.

So the śakti group, the Svarūpa Śakti, they're all helpful towards us. So, (Raghunātha) Dāsa Goswāmī he was very clever. He told: " Kṛṣṇa, I don't want You if I don't have Rādhārāṇī. First I want my position to be certain, a sure position. A real relationship with Rādhārāṇī then I must, first necessity will be that, and You must fall around Her. So I don't care to have any independent connection with You. But Their post around which You are hovering always, I want my real bona fide position with Her, I want Her service. To get One, that means service, I want, I appreciate the service of Rādhārāṇī to be the highest. Because I know to have any direct service, direct connection with You, that is rather imaginary and uncertain. But if I can acquire my intimate relationship in the service of Rādhārāṇī, You are already conquered, You cannot but hover about Her.

So I have understood what is my real position. You are permanently sold to Her so I have nothing to do with You, You are not independent, You are dependent. I have found it out that You are dependent, and where Your dependence is I want to fix my whole attention there. Where Your unknown and unknowable characteristic that has left You when Rādhārāṇī's position is concerned. She is so pure that You can't hope to leave Her side. I have found out this truth so I am no longer running after You."

So Vaiṣṇava should attract our heart's attention and care, then it will be hopeful, it will be better prospect for us, sure prospect to our relationship with the Vaiṣṇava which at present life of a beginner we can't realise. Rather we feel disturbed with that proposal to us. That is substantial, that is real progress and sure progress.

karsna, visnu bhakta vaisnava krsna bhakta jana, karsna

Viṣṇu is also used in the sense of Kṛṣṇa in many places.

vikrīḍitaṁ vraja-vadhūbhir idaṁ ca viṣṇoḥ śraddhānvito 'nuśṛṇuyād atha varṇayed yaḥ bhaktiṁ parām bhagavati pratilabhya kāmaṁ hṛd-rogam āśv apahinoty acireṇa dhīraḥ

"One who hears with firm faith the supramundane amorous affairs of Lord Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs, as described by a pure devotee of the Lord, soon becomes freed from mundane lust and achieves divine love of Kṛṣṇa."
(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.39)

Vraja-vadhūbhir vikrīḍitaṁ, that is only reserved for Kṛṣṇa conception of the truth, not who is known generally as Viṣṇu. Every word in it's full fledged meaning is bound to go to Kṛṣṇa because He's the centre of everything really. So all words may be used when the rein of the universal jurisdiction, universal discourse, the rein of the horse, the universal discourse when withdrawn, then every meaning of every word will have to go to Kṛṣṇa, to the highest centre. This is the source of every vibration, every wave. So every wave is having origins from Him. But for our understanding from our own position the meaning has been located somewhere else, here, there, so many centres. But that is the only centre controlling everything. But for our facility, we are finite souls, for our facility so many working centres have been opened to us.

Mahāprabhu, coming from Gaya began to explain grammar, and in grammar He used to give explanation of Bhāgavatam. From Dacara (?) a book of grammar. He was explaining grammar and He's taking meaning of every word to Kṛṣṇa. And not a mental skill but His eyes are shedding tears, He's finding Kṛṣṇa. Dhatu sutra (?)

He's finding everything coming from Kṛṣṇa. "To go, to walk, to speak, to see, these potencies they have got their origin to that sweet Kṛṣṇa My Master, My Lord." Everything is reminding Him of His loving Lord. He can't see anything else than Him. Every point of experience carrying quickly with lightning speed to His origin Kṛṣṇa, all loving centre. And He's shedding tears for His separation. That is possible.

bon dheki bhama ei vrndavana soli vekhi manihai ei govardhana ?

Any mountain takes Him to the Govardhana. Any jungle takes Him to the Vṛndāvana forest. He does not see all these things. Whatever He sees to that unknown highest quarter, we are travelling. "All belongs to Him, everything belongs to My Lord. You are everywhere. How can I live without You? My friends, show Me the Lord of My inner heart, I can't go on living, I can't stand, I can't live, I can't exist, I'm going to be finished." What is this? This is also possible.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Navadvīpa, the land of Mahāprabhu. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Vṛndāvana, Navadvīpa, and the Virāha Kṣetra Purī. Kṛṣṇa has become cruel and come in Dwārakā, Purī Kṛṣṇa is that of Dwārakā Kṛṣṇa, the land of separation for the gopīs, gopī mentality. He's in an ocean of separation, sorrow, in Purī. Separation, long separation of Rādhārāṇī. These things are all, dream becomes dumb, and dream dumbing affairs.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, Can you explain the difference between audārya and mādhyura ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Audārya and mādhyura. When mādhyura wants to distribute Himself outside becomes audārya. When within a particular group and circle, previous circle, there is mādhyura. And when it thinks to be surplus and export to others places, exports Himself to others surrounding places, that is audārya. He has a mind to give these things beyond the circle, extending Himself when He wills to extend Himself.

Though infinite, every point is infinite. Infinite minus infinite is infinite. We are to think it in that level, otherwise if He extends Himself then He's limited. The consideration will come then He's limited within limitation and

He can extend outside. Then there is outside also that's not within Him. Such intellectual satisfaction is not possible in the world of infinite. The intellect of the finite won't have its play there.

Seeming non Kṛṣṇa that is māyā, so many gradations there. So when He likes it is a fact that all do not know about Him. But when He exerts Himself to make Himself known to those who are not known about His sweetness, then He becomes at that time, of that function, of that pastimes, He's said to be audārya, generous, magnanimous, audārya, magnanimity. The sweetness becomes magnanimous, sweetness - mādhyurya, and magnanimity, added with magnanimity Kṛṣṇa becomes Mahāprabhu.

It is side by side, so Navadvīpa and Vṛndāvana of same plane. In one portion the highest sweetness is being tasted, displayed, displaying Itself in a particular group that līlā functioning. And in another that thing is being distributed to those that are not within the camp, outside. But substance of the same level, that highest prema. Dedication to a despot, desperate dedication to the despot, that is the highest plane, desperate dedication to the despot, to the centre.

Devotee: But there are some devotees in Vṛndāvana and also Navadvīpa at the same time?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, yes. Some exclusively there, some representing both the places, some more nearer to one a little indifferent to another. Different types there classes. Equal interest in both, and less interest in one, and greater interest in another. And some may be absent here and present there. Maybe, according to His will, according to līlā.

Devotee: Then would that coincide with the bhajanānandī and the goṣṭhyānandī, the bhajanānandī who is only doing his own bhajana or he might stay just in Vṛndāvana. And the goṣṭhyānandī whose the preacher, more concerned with audārya, distributing?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may be of different order. In Mahāprabhu's section like that. But there are also apparent Vaiṣṇavas of some other type, that Nimbārka, Rāmānuja, they may not care to come in the group of Mahāprabhu but they're always conceiving them mainly in connection with Kṛṣṇa. In a particular plane that is also to be found, they do not understand what Mahāprabhu is, still, they have got some connection with Kṛṣṇa. According to their capacity they come in their own plane and conceives like that. Some think Kṛṣṇa is vilāsa Mūrti of Nārāyaṇa. Some say Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa is representation of Vasudeva Kṛṣṇa, He's higher, Vasudeva is higher and this gopā Kṛṣṇa is lower. As He Himself likes to show to particular groups they have to see like that.

"O King, Śrī Kṛṣṇa then appeared as a thunderbolt to the wrestlers, as the supreme male to the men, as Cupid incarnate to the ladies, as a friend to the cowherdsmen; as an emperor to the wicked kings, as a child to His father and mother, as death to Kaṁsa, as the universal form of the world to the ignorant; as the Supreme Truth to the yogīs, as the Supreme Worshipful Lord to the Vṛṣṇis - and along with Baladeva He entered the arena."

In different phases there are different types of recipients and He also has corresponding contact with them in that similar way.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa says: "As a person takes refuge in Me and surrenders unto Me, I respond and reward accordingly. Being the ultimate goal of all philosophies and doctrines, I am the objective to be attained by all. Certainly, O Pārtha (Arjuna), everyone follows My various paths in all respects." (Bhagavad-gītā, 4.11)

According to our approach He comes to respond that way, but comparison which is higher in degree, raso vai sa, that fine understanding will allow us to know that Svayaṁ Bhagavān, gopā Kṛṣṇa, or Rādhā-Rāmana, He holds the supreme most position. The fine understanding in the judging the quality of rasa, all may not understand that.

So, to have admission in the group of Mahāprabhu, that is the highest fortune. A professor who has got greater education he can understand the position of the professor of lower education, but the lower education cannot measure the higher. Sometimes in some points he may have any conception that, "Oh, he's higher than me," but he faints, in the words of (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja, he faints there unconscious, can't enter that abstruse discussion. All the scientists cannot enter into the discussions of Newton or Einstein, though they had to admit that Einstein is by the success of his theory, but they cannot understand, follow the whole thing, the whole argument and the process and the practice, practical system.

Devotee: Mahārāja, there was one paṇḍita who lived in Bhattapalli, and his name is Śrīyupta Rāmeśvara Bhaṭṭācārya. Have you heard of him?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. I heard of Havi Pracash Adbhutam (?)

He sometimes came to Mayapūra and in Benares also he presided over a meeting where our Guru Mahārāja there are many seats of so many scholars of different scriptures with Sanskrit, Nyāya, Smṛti, Purāṇa, Śaṅkara, all these are there.

Devotee: There's also another gentleman whose name is Gokula Candra Goswāmī, it doesn't have his residence, but he's the person who printed this edition of the Śrī Nārada Pañcaratra in 1902.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where from? Is it not mentioned in the book? Calcutta? Gokula Goswāmī? Maybe there was Rāmasandal (?) Goswāmī, he was very submissive to Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, connected with Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Sandyal (?) Goswāmī. He wrote Gaurasundara and Śyāmasundara, two books.

Devotee: It was printed in Calcutta, in Upper Chitpa Rd. By one Devotee: Mahārāja, what is the significance of the fossil record?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: his representation only in Navadvīpa, and the brāhmaṇa section, so some brāhmanic tendency is found especially in him.

Whereas Mahāprabhu, Advaita Prabhu, Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita, these three They come one the eastern side, and Nityānanda Prabhu in Rādhādeśa and Gadādhara Paṇḍita also. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura mentioned. A very meek and modest temperament, unassuming, always pushing the backside, not pushing forward nature.

When Mahāprabhu took sannyāsa and went to Purī, among His followers

Gadādhara Paṇḍita was one. Before that we are told from the very childhood he was given to devotion of Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa, Kṛṣṇa. Mahāprabhu after coming from Gaya, before this Mahāprabhu knew that he's very much addicted to His Personality. Before coming from Gaya when Mahāprabhu came with full fledged devotional activity He met Paṇḍita Gadādhara. And He, every now and then, He's shedding tears. "My life has been useless. So long I have lost My time and energy without any gain. I did not try to attain kṛṣṇa-bhakti." This is the nature after He comes back from Gaya, at the age of eighteen or twenty or so. He met Gadādhara Paṇḍita:

.....Gadādhara, Mahāprabhu.

Then, there was one Mukunda (Datta), Mukunda was devotee and his temperament was to mix different circles of thought, mainly religious. Mukunda's home was in Chaṭṭagrām district town nearby and Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi also comes from Chaṭṭagrām. Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi was a rich man and here in Navadvīpa also he had one house. He came from Chaṭṭagrām to Navadvīpa to live sometimes on the banks of the Ganges.

And also a place where learning had, a place of high education culture, Navadvīpa, all different departments of culture. Navadvīpa was the ancient seat. The Nyāya, Smṛti, then Tantra, then Bhāgavatam, and so many other departments. So near the eastern people, those that could manage, they had a second house in Navadvīpa on the banks of the Ganges. Śāntipura Advaita Prabhu had his house in Śāntipura though he comes from Śrīyatra (?) and still one house was in Navadvīpa town.

So Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi from Chaṭṭagrām to Navadvīpa house, Mukunda was also of that locality, he could know that Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi has come. He was a devotee of Kṛṣṇa, it was well known to Mukunda. Then Mukunda proposed Gadādhara Paṇḍita: "Gadādhara, you are fond of Vaiṣṇava and Vaiṣṇava scripture, will you go to meet a sādhu? A wonderful sādhu has come here."

"Yes, you please show me, take me to him."

So Gadādhara Paṇḍita was taken by Mukunda to Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi's house. Few days before, Mahāprabhu in His trance began to cry: "Where is My father Puṇḍarīka? Puṇḍarīka! Bāp, My father Puṇḍarīka where are you." In this way in trance Mahāprabhu was crying.

And now Puṇḍarīka came, and Mahāprabhu used to call him not by Vidyānidhi though his title was Vidyānidhi. Premanidhi, Mahāprabhu used this name Premanidhi not Vidyānidhi.

Anyhow, Mukunda took Gadādhara Paṇḍita to Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi. Gadādhara Paṇḍita having the darśana of Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi was astounded: "What is this? You have taken me to show a sādhu, a saint, but what I see in my front is a man of luxury. The hairs' also were curling and also it is very carefully maintained and so many scents also we find there. And his dress is like zāmindār (landowner), a rich man. And he's smoking in a pipe, the silver, in this way. So much luxury and so much fashion in his dress and even in the hair. Is this the type of a sādhu?"

He was nonplussed. Mukunda could understand that Gadādhara Paṇḍita was perplexed. "I took him to see a sādhu and instead of that he's seeing a man of high luxury type. Then Mukunda had a very musical tone and he chanted the śloka from Bhāgavatam:

aho bakī yaṁ stana-kāla-kūṭaṁ, jighāṁsayāpāyayad apy asādhvī lebhe
gatiṁ dhātry-ucitāṁ tato 'nyaṁ, kaṁ vā dayāluṁ śaraṇaṁ vrajema

"Oh, how amazing it is! The sister of Bakāsura, Bakī (Pūtanā), desiring to kill Śrī Kṛṣṇa, smeared poison on her breasts and forced Kṛṣṇa to drink their milk. Even so, Lord Kṛṣṇa accepted her as His mother (dhātrī), and so she reached the destination suitable for Kṛṣṇa's mother. In this way she came to try and kill Him; yet Kṛṣṇa gave her a position as a nursemaid in His group of assisting mothers. So gracious is the Lord. There is limitless Grace in Him. Of whom should I take shelter but the most merciful Kṛṣṇa? Who else but Kṛṣṇa should we approach for our good? Who can be so kind, so gracious?" (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.2.23) + (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.98)

This is in Bhāgavatam, the meaning is, "Pūtanā, the sister of the demon Baka, she came to suck her breast with poison, with poisonous breast she came to suckle Kṛṣṇa to kill, for the purpose of killing Him. Aho bakī yaṁ stana-kāla-kūṭaṁ, jighāṁsayāpāyayad: but she came to kill Kṛṣṇa and in return what she got? Dhātry- ucitāṁ, she got in return the position of mother, motherly position she got. She came to murder Kṛṣṇa but Kṛṣṇa gave her the supreme position of one like a mother, dhātry- ucitāṁ. So, so kind, that leaving such a Lord, whom shall I go to worship? Where should we surrender ourselves? So much gracious that one came to murder Him and He gave her in return the high position like a mother. So leaving that sort of gracious Lord, whom should we take refuge under, surrender where?"

This is the purport and this touched the heart of Puṇḍarīka. After a little meditation the movement in the body, the nervous system began. "Kaṁ vā dayāluṁ, kaṁ vā dayāluṁ," he's only repeating this and gradually wonderful changes came in his body. He threw away that tobacco pipe, began to shiver, and then began to tear off his beautiful hairs, his dress he began to tear off. And began to roll on the bed and then on the floor and half mad was uttering kaṁ vā dayāluṁ, kaṁ vā dayāluṁ: "whom, who will be such kind and gracious?" In this way began.

Then Gadādhara Paṇḍita, the boy Gadādhara he was struck dumb. "What is this affair? I could not conceive it, outward figure, outward appearance was like a man of luxury. But internally he's so rich with devotion of Kṛṣṇa. Those things are ignored and he's rolling on the floor and by the strike of his leg and hand so many things are being removed and broken to pieces, no care of what is going on, his convulsions is going on."

Then Gadādhara Paṇḍita very much afraid stood in one corner of the house of the room and seeing those miracles. Then after some time when it was finished, ended, then he told Mukunda: "I have committed offence against this great mahātmā, Vaiṣṇava aparādhā. I undermined him. Then how to escape from the offence? How to escape from the offence? I have heard that Gurudeva, the preceptor, he does not take any offence of the disciple. So I have not yet taken initiation from anywhere, I shall have to ask my Master Nimāi Paṇḍita and I wish that I shall take initiation from this great Vaiṣṇava. Then only he will forgive my offences, otherwise I have no other way to get relief."

In this way he anyhow went and asked Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu very gladly gave His consent and Gadādhara Paṇḍita took initiation from Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi. And Mahāprabhu already was crying loudly:

"Puṇḍarīka! Bāp, Bāp - My father, Oh, My father Puṇḍarīka Premanidhi." Thereby the devotees' came to know that Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi is the incarnation of Mahārāja Vṛṣabhānu, father of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. And Gadādhara Paṇḍita accepting his discipleship also came in the same rank. And Mahāprabhu inspired by his Rādhikā mood He cried: "Bāp Puṇḍarīka! Where are you?" In this way Gadādhara Paṇḍita took initiation from Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi.

Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi had some peculiarity, he never took bath in Ganges though he came to Navadvīpa he did not take bath. His attitude was something else, that we should not touch our foot in the pure and revered water of Ganges. And also he could not tolerate that other people are coming to take bath and molesting the purity, the dignity, they're throwing, they're spitting, and so many objectionable ways they're treating with Ganges he could not tolerate. So at night when there was none on the banks he went to see Ganges and to take water on his head. That was his practice in there faith.

This Gadādhara Paṇḍita took initiation and then when Mahāprabhu went to Purī after sannyāsa Gadādhara Paṇḍita was follower. And he, after reaching Purī, he took kṣetra-sannyāsa, kṣetra-sannyāsa means a type of sannyāsa that he won't leave the place in the whole of his life, he will stay there. As Gadādhara Paṇḍita knew that Śrī Caitanyadeva has promised to His mother, that by Śaci Devī told that: "You may stay in Nīlācala, Purī, and nearby then I shall get some information, many persons are going and coming. Not Vṛndāvana far away, and Mohammedan rule and here Hindu rule. No sect is guaranteed and in Vṛndāvana no accepting and that is also a long way. So if You stay in Purī I will be happy."

Mahāprabhu told: "Yes, I shall do that."

So Gadādhara Paṇḍita thought that Śrī Caitanyadeva will remain there forever and he also took kṣetra-sannyāsa that none can ask him to leave the place any longer in his whole life. So he took sannyāsa there and stayed. He stayed in what is known as Tota Gopīnātha, tota means garden. Gopīnātha, installing the Śrī Mūrti of Gopīnātha in a particular garden house, he used to stay there by worshipping Gopīnātha in his own way, in a very poor style. Avana sak (?) Generally he offered Gopīnātha that which is not cultivated, the vegetable that is not cultivated, a class of vegetable, anywhere, everywhere, it grows automatically. And that sak He used to take and some leaves of tamarind tree, to prepare some sour, acid. In this way in a very plain way he used to worship his Deity and remain there and reading Bhāgavatam. And Mahāprabhu with His devotees went there to hear Bhāgavatam from Gadādhara Paṇḍita. Almost regular classes of Bhāgavatam, the reader was Gadādhara Paṇḍita and so many others are audience along with Śrī Caitanyadeva.

In this way, when Mahāprabhu went to Vṛndāvana, Gadādhara Paṇḍita he does not know kṣetra-sannyāsa or anything, only he knows Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu going to Vṛndāvana he also followed but Mahāprabhu told: "Why? You have taken the vow that you won't leave this place. Why you go with Me? Then your vow is being disturbed I can't tolerate. You remain here."

And with great painfulness, very painful at heart, he carried out the order of Mahāprabhu. At that time he said: "I do not know what is kṣetra-sannyāsa or this virtue or that religion, I know You only, I know You only. Wherever You there is my everything. All my religious sentiments are with You, never outside. So wherever You shall go I shall go. I do not care for any slackness in any vow or any religious duty or this or that."

But when Mahāprabhu ordered him strongly, what to do? He fainted there. When ordered him strictly: "Don't follow Me, stay here, remain here." Then he could not put forward a step, he fell there and fainted. And Sarvabhauma anyhow managed to take him back towards that Tota Gopīnātha, his place in Purī.

Then Mahāprabhu came back. There are many things he, his, Gadādhara Paṇḍita's ideal was very strict, more brāhmaṇic style but continued flow of devotion, Mahāprabhu and Kṛṣṇa-Vṛndāvana Gadādhara. And more innocent type, not speaking a harsh word to anybody else, anybody. Very meek and mild temperament, no aggression in any way in him. In this way he lived there.

Then, when Vallabhācārya, the Ācārya of the present Gujarat Vaiṣṇava.

Vallabhācārya formerly he was a follower of Viṣṇu Swāmī sampradāya. Śrīdhara Swāmī also comes from that sampradāya. Then Vallabha had some cloud over his scholarship, he came to meet the Vaiṣṇavas' of, devotees' of Mahāprabhu and he tried to show his scholarship especially in Bhāgavatam discussions here and there. Then one day he told that: "I can't accept Śrīdhara Swāmī. He's not consistent in his commentary. In somewhere he expresses his opinion in a particular way, and in another place he says another thing. So no consistency, I can't accept."

Then Mahāprabhu could not tolerate. He was already dissatisfied with his proud gesture, posture, and style of discussion. And when he discarded Śrīdhara Swāmī, the Guru of his own line, Mahāprabhu could not tolerate, burst out and told: "Śrīdhara Swāmī has given the real purport of Bhāgavatam. He has drawn from the Śāṅkara school and other schools, they rather twisted the real meaning of Bhāgavatam in many ways but Śrīdhara Swāmī has shown the substantial way. And we all more or less indebted to him for his commentary of Bhāgavatam. He was Bhāgavata viran ?

And one who does not care for her husbands," swāmī means, there is a pun in the word, swāmī means husband, "so if anyone does not care for her husband that lady should be considered to be a prostitute." In this way Mahāprabhu remarked against Vallabhācārya.

What to do? There were many paṇḍitas, Svarūpa Dāmodara, Advaita Ācārya, and other paṇḍitas. Vallabhācārya comes now and then and discusses with them but he can't go back with flying colours, some sort of discontentment in his heart. In this way coming, going. And after Mahāprabhu remarked in that way none wants to talk with him in a friendly way, indifferent.

Then he began to go to Gadādhara Paṇḍita and Gadādhara Paṇḍita he has a very mild temperament, humble. He cannot say the, to the person approaching him any, roughly he can't treat him. So he's coming and going to Paṇḍita Gadādhara and there was a rumour among the followers of Caitanyadeva: "We show indifference to that Vallabhācārya but Gadādhara Paṇḍita, he likes him. So he has ceased to come to our party and he always visits Paṇḍita Gadādhara." And Gadādhara out of his humble and modest temperament he can't say: "Don't come here." These rough words he can't use. And taking advantage of that he's coming and going.

Then he was impressed by Gadādhara Paṇḍita's behaviour, conduct, and his internal dignified position and devotion to madhūrya-rasa, Kṛṣṇa, he was very much impressed. And in the meantime so many followers of Mahāprabhu presented complaints against Gadādhara Paṇḍita. And Mahāprabhu also showed some indifference to Paṇḍita Gadādhara for that behaviour. Then some very intimate circle asked Paṇḍita Gadādhara: "Mahāprabhu is chastising you. Why you are silent, you can't say something to Him?"

And Gadādhara Paṇḍita told: "No, no, it is not from my position, how can I do so?" In this way the temperament of Rukmiṇī not of Satyabhāma.

Then after some days Vallabhācārya came with a proposal to Gadādhara Paṇḍita: "That our sampradāya they follow the service in vātsalya-rasa, filial temperament, but coming in your connection I have got some attraction in madhūrya-rasa, to serve Kṛṣṇa in madhūrya-rasa it is developed in me and I want to take such mantram from you, you are my Guru, I accept you to be my Guru in that rasa."

Then Gadādhara Paṇḍita told: "I am not independent I can't say that. If my Master Śrī Caitanyadeva He gives me permission then I can fulfil your desire."

Then Vallabhācārya had to come to Śrī Caitanyadeva and to express his motive there. And Mahāprabhu gave permission and he was initiated from Gadādhara Paṇḍita, the Vallabha school. But now in that sampradāya we find deviation from that temperament, they go on in their own way. Again, instead of Rādhārāṇī they present Yamunā or Candravali to be the highest servitor in madhūrya-rasa against Rādhārāṇī. Generally we hear from that, Yamunā, this Vallabha sampradāya.

So Gadādhara Paṇḍita he used to read Bhāgavatam almost in a regular class and Śrī Caitanyadeva with His followers used to listen to that. Then afterwards, before the departure of Caitanyadeva He ordered Paṇḍita Gadādhara: "My devotee, one Śrīnivāsa Ācārya will come here shortly and you please teach him the principles of Bhāgavatam to him, he will preach hereafter." Śrīnivāsa Ācārya he was the son of Padmanava Bhaṭṭācārya who was the classmate of Nimāi Paṇḍita. When Nimāi Paṇḍita took sannyāsa in Katwa that Padmanava Bhaṭṭācārya whose natural village was named one Chakundi just opposite Agrawli (?) on the other side of the Ganges. And his father-in-law's house was near Katwa, Yajigram (?). From Yajigram he was going home and he heard that Nimāi Paṇḍita has come to take sannyāsa here, so he attended the function. He knew the extraordinary personality of Nimāi Paṇḍita when studying along with Him and that Nimāi Paṇḍita is taking sannyāsa. He was a sightseer there, dumb, and when everything was finished, Nimāi Paṇḍita Kṛṣṇa Caitanya started towards Vṛndāvana in a mad temperament, in a mad devotional temperament, and ran towards Vṛndāvana. The Padmanava went home, went back to home, and he was beside himself, only: "Kṛṣṇa Caitanya," Caitanya in His name, whatever anyone says he says: "Caitanya" and nothing, no words coming from his mouth, whatever anyone comes to say he says: "Caitanya" madly. Then his name was Caitanya dāsa, people gave him the name Caitanya dāsa.

And his son was Śrīnivāsa, when young, about fifteen or sixteen, Śrīnivāsa lived ..... in devotional temperament. He heard that Caitanyadeva is living there in Purī. He started to have darśana. On the way he heard He has left, then what to do? "Anyhow I shall see the remaining persons and the place where He lived so long." He went on, and met Gadādhara Paṇḍita. Gadādhara Paṇḍita gave him the news that "Caitanyadeva has asked, requested me to teach you Bhāgavatam. But the Bhāgavatam copy that I have got it is almost washed away by the tears. You won't be able to follow this. You go and ask in my name one copy of Bhāgavatam from Narahari Sakara in Śrīkanda and then I shall teach you Bhāgavatam. This is the order of my Lord."

So Śrīnivāsa Paṇḍita came back from Śrīkanda, nearby his maternal father's mother's house and a copy he got and with that he was going to Purī but he heard that Gadādhara Paṇḍita had disappeared. Then broken hearted he saw and came back disappointed. But that wish, Mahāprabhu's will and Gadādhara Paṇḍita's will inspired him with the truth of Bhāgavatam, meaning of Bhāgavatam. He was an unprecedented scholar in Bhāgavatam culture, Śrīnivāsa Ācārya.

Gadādhara Paṇḍita when passed away after that Raghunātha dāsa started towards Vṛndāvana. Svarūpa Dāmodara immediately passed away just after the disappearance of Mahāprabhu. And Vakeśvara Paṇḍita, the disciple of, the favourite devotee of Mahāprabhu was installed by the devotees a mahant of that Temple where Mahāprabhu lived, that Gambhīrā.

In this way Gadādhara Paṇḍita's life is this, very meek, humble, unashaming, simple and cent per cent submissive to Śrī Caitanyadeva. When from his very childhood he knew none but Śrī Caitanya as his Master. That was Gadādhara Paṇḍita. And we are told by the scholars, by the pāṛṣada devotees of Mahāprabhu.

Really he was the potency of Kṛṣṇa, Śrī Caitanya. And devotees of higher type in Navadvīpa līlā, they sometimes see as Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and others. Here when a flash of the spiritual Dhāma comes in their mind in their eye, sometimes they say Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, and sometimes Gaura-Gadādhara, Gaura-Gadādhara, in Madhyama-līlā in yuthal dhana (?) and in many places Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura in his transcendental eye he saw and gave description. "Suddenly a flash came and we found Gaura-Gadādhara, and immediately the vision changed I saw Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa." Who is Rādhā! of same plane of two varieties. Navadvīpa audārya and madhūrya.

We cannot see them but they can show themselves to us, the initiative in that side must be and our hankering our capital, our hankering, our earnest desire, exclusive endeavour to have Their service. On our part this will be the qualification of seer. Then They will take initiative and come down in our level as if we are seeing Them. That is the realm if we have got abnormal duty in our rational position, no faith in the rational calculative world where we are living at present. And something transcendental, our prospect in the transcendental world, and the degree of hankering to get it if sufficiently intense then we can come across such vision which is at the sweet will of Them. And we have got nothing to do but to hear the līlā, Their līlā, Their pastimes in the higher circle and to have faith in that, and in that way to move and gain and with the earnest desire: "When the day will come when I shall get such opportunity." How much adherence, how much intense should be our hankering for that higher experience that I shall have some direct experience of the same. Through faith we are to contact and backed by the sukṛti that our previous tendency acquired from the company of the sādhu that has got some practical experience about that transcendental family. That will push us to continue in our way at present though we have got no practical direct experience of the thing. Śraddhā, my regard, that is our capital to go on in the path. However imaginary whether I get it or not get I cannot live without that model of life

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "Everywhere I am the man of his interest, I am the person of his interest, intellectual I am, everywhere, reflection, I am the object of search, the search."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

"The knot in the heart is pierced, all misgivings are cut to pieces and the chain of fruitive actions is terminated when I am seen as the Supreme Personality of Godhead."

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.20.30)

"He's My own." When the seal of the heart is broken, that flow of love comes out and love can give recognition. "Who is My own, or who is not My own." And then all knowledge of alternative process vanishes, no alternative. "This is the man, my heart says." bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, so prema, the flow of love can only, it will not go and make friendship with anybody and everybody, it will go to the proper place. And then all possible alternatives will vanish, of the search. And then the little reaction what I had in the previous platform of plane, that will vanish. So first pray bhakti, then knowledge, karma yoga jñāna. He is independent, bhakti, love, He's independent in finding out the object of his search. And the knowledge, that will have no position there. And the reaction that I already had in the past locality, that will also vanish.

bhidyate hr̥daya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ kṣīyante cāśya
karmāṇi, mayi dr̥ṣṭe 'khilātmani

Wherever I shall cast my searching look, the response will come, one and same, everywhere the response will come. "I am your own, You are searching Me." From everywhere the ego will come and corroborate, "You are searching Me." So no other alternative, so enquiry will be finished, and what loan I incurred in this ordinary plane of senses, that will also disappear. This is proof positive transaction.

Love is independent, nothing can produce it. Ahaitukī apratihatā. This is causeless, as well as its progress can never be stopped or hampered by any other force in the world. Ahaitukī apratihatā.

Devotee: Causeless means unconditional.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Causeless means it is eternally existing, nothing has created it, causeless, it is Svayaṁ Bhuv. It is self existent, causeless means self existent, self existent. And it's apratihatā, it's progress can never be disturbed by anything else. Uncontrollable, ahaitukī, or causeless, apratihatā, irresistible.

Devotee: If the heart is the source of love then what is the source of knowledge?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Knowledge, that is what is calculated, not automatic. What, when we analyse, then which comes within the calculation, that is knowledge. So jñāne prayāsam udapāśya (S-B, 10.14.3), set aside, leave aside the attempt that your calculation will make you, will bring fulfilment for you. Give up this once and for all. No calculation can take you there, it is automatic, ahaitukī, causeless, self sufficient.

Bhakti, that is normal, that is normal, that is automatic function, spontaneous, spontaneous. And unfortunately you are cast away from that normal position, to some foreign conception, and there you are to calculate all these things. In a limited position you are cast so long, but in original position, calculation is unnecessary. Calculation is there where there is possibility of being deceived, where possibility of deception, calculation comes there. There no deception, cent per cent, friendly flow of affection there, so no place of any calculation. When we come in the layer of calculation, we're already in limited position, undesirable and unhealthy position, so the calculation is necessary. In uncivilised world where one is eager to cheat another, there calculation has got some position. But where there is no possibility, no trace of any cheating, mutual help and that is spontaneous, then it is redundant calculation. Calculation is a diseased state of a soul proper, so in soul's soil there is no calculation, no room for any calculation. It is opulence and opulence of affection and love. Everyone is of sacrificing, of giving mood, not robbing mood. So it is redundant there, it is a cursed position to have our life in a calculative area, it is deplorable.

So jñāna sunya bhakti, Mahāprabhu says the real civilisation begins here, this, jñāna sunya bhakti. That is to be adaptable to a particular plane which is above calculation. We must try to have admission as a member in that plane of high civilisation. There no calculation, no cheating, nothing of the kind, try to have a ticket of that. "Yes, here you are, I am purchasing a ticket in the jñāna sunya bhakti, the plane of love, yes I admit."

Otherwise it is all false scent, to run after false scent, the knowledge. And this karma is the positive madness, mad energising his karma, exploitation, exploitation, with a mad activity. And the calculation in the middle, that is to live in the land of doubt. That is undesirable. Try to have your ticket to live in the land of opulence, and opulence of affection and love, service, co-operation. That is the real civilised world where we can go. That is God's domain, Kṛṣṇa's domain is more intensive, Kṛṣṇa's domain.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Jñāna sunya bhakti. bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, ahaitukī, apratihātā. No knowledge can take us to the plane of devotion, it independently comes by sukṛti from that plane. Anyhow, any connection develops without our consciousness, this mad consciousness, and anyhow takes us, helps us to take us there in that plane.

Sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate pumbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-saṅcitaiḥ - Through the agents we can have that association, and to have the association of the agents, that means sukṛti, ajñāta sukṛti, which originates from that plane and not produced from here.

sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate pumbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-saṅcitaiḥ

"Actually we can recognise a sādhu by sukṛti. Apparently we can know him from the śāstras, the scriptures, because the śāstra helps us to know who is a sādhu, and the sādhu gives us the interpretation of the śāstra. So sādhu and śāstra are interdependent, but the sādhu holds the more important position and the śāstra has the secondary position. The living śāstra is the sādhu, but to know who is guru, who is sādhu, we are to consult the descriptions given about them in the scriptures. The symptoms of the sādhu, both of the guru as well as the disciple, have been written in the Bhāgavatam, in the Gītā and in the Upaniṣads." (Bṛhan-Nāradiya-Purāṇa)

Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ, (S-B, 11.20.30): That plane will say clearly to you, "Oh I am yours, you are searching Me, I am yours, is it not?"

"Yes, You are mine."

All differences gone in a second. The touch of that magical flow, magical flow, at once will say: "Oh you are Mine though it is I am yours." No calculation, no scientific research, anything, is necessary for that. Heart to heart. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva- saṁśayāḥ. Then you are out of all negative influences, possibilities. Chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ, kṣīyante cāśya karmāṇi, the tendency to make you captivate in the plane, that is futile, that is a trifle thing, then it vanishes very soon. Mayi drṣṭe 'khilātmani, when the positive meeting of the parties is effected any way.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Generally it is difficult for the scholars to understand why the jñāna, Bhagavad-gītā is also preaching too much for jñānam, and that jñānam is eliminated totally from our prospect. What is this? Jñāna, where we find our own self, our own interest, jñāna means this knowledge that helps us to know our own interest, by comparative study. That is thoroughly to be eliminated? What is this? We can't accept this. That is almost suicide." The scholars will think like that. "That to give up the charm of jñāna, knowledge, that means to commit suicide, how can we accept such a foolish proposal? Jñāna sunya, devoid of knowledge, never, it is impossible." Even sincerely they come to think if anything is above knowledge, they can't, it is suicide, to give up knowledge.

Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam has a big hammer on the head of the jñāna. "You are responsible for all these troubles, your calculation. Self calculating agent, he has contaminated this disease, to everyone, and create havoc in this world, and so much cheating and gaining, all these things, all your creation."

You can think, when a boy, he has got no knowledge to look after his own interest, how he's managed to grow safely in his mothers lap, where is your knowledge at that time? Does it come to help him? No. So all of you in the very beginning, without knowledge you have come up, and there is such arrangement in the nature, in God's domain. Without knowledge also, thousands, lākhs, crores, millions, they are coming out to the stage of knowledge, and a child, where is the knowledge? You can't say, suicidal.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

"The knot in the heart is pierced, all misgivings are cut to pieces and the chain of fruitive actions is terminated when I am seen as the Supreme Personality of Godhead."(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.20.30)

All friendly, all friendly, and what you conceive to be your own interest, that is not your interest at all. Your knowledge has frustrated you, cheated you there. To select your own interest, you are wrong in the very beginning. That is not your interest, there is error in the diagnosis. Gītā says also:

bhūtānām, jñātvā mām śāntim ṛcchati

"I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshipping object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshipping Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."
(Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29)

"Don't keep anything for you, give everything to Me, and know that I am the best looker of your interest, and then you will find peace within you, no other remedy. I am all in all, all controller, but I am your friend." The position is really such and it is only your duty to understand that the all controller is your friend, you're well represented there, than your half knowledge, your interest is fully represented, not ignorantly represented as you think, represented there, then you will find real peace in life. Suhrdaṁ sarvva- bhūtānām, jñātvā mām śāntim ṛcchati - prapnoti - "You will attain peace of life. Mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani, everywhere I am represented as your well-wisher, everywhere. I am there and I am your guardian, I am your well-wisher, I am everywhere. So no apprehension from any corner, then you must find real peace in life."

accommodation everywhere.

In this way you will take the Name of Kṛṣṇa, and you will find His help at once, in no time. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The qualification of the taker of the Name Divine, the standard has been recommended as this. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Where is Kṛṣṇa? Come to the level, come to the plane, and you will see, there we were. But your eyes and your senses are all attracted by the charm of different planes, you have no time to look towards Kṛṣṇa.

Everywhere there is perception of Kṛṣṇa, but your sight is caught, attracted by so many floating charms, and they're catching your attention, your sight, your feeling, and you can't see Kṛṣṇa, can't see Kṛṣṇa. Prejudice, your own prejudice for the outside world has covered your eyes. Drawing all your attention towards them. You can't see Kṛṣṇa, the real well-wisher, the real guardian, the real friend, the real lover, you can't see. You are so busy with your transaction with outer aspired things, you have no time at all to look towards Him. You're ignoring the best friend. You're ignoring, for false transaction, you are wholesale caught, whole attention drawn by false transaction with the environment. And the transaction continues by a false ego of you, a false person, you are absent there, you.

Our Guru Mahārāja used to this word as minor, soul is minor, and the manager he's working on the behalf of the soul. Soul is proprietor, but proprietor is minor and the manager working on behalf of the proprietor, they're looting things accordingly to own interest. That is the position of a person in bondage proper, foreign soil. Their true self is not represented in their transaction, in their name going on, but in whose transaction, they're absent, their interest is suppressed, absent. The managers, mind, intelligence, they're surcharged with other interest, and they're going on in transaction. But in the name of the proprietor, they're minor, nothing to me, but without Him no transaction is possible, minor.

When calculating all these things, we reach to the highest position of disappointment, then sometimes, somehow or other, but from the core of the heart. "Oh Lord, I am helpless, save me. I am helpless. I am overpowered in my home. I am in the midst of so many enemy like, at the hand of my enemies, no freedom. I am totally under the control of so many enemies in the form of friends within me. Such hopeless position I hold my Lord. You come without, at least aggressively, otherwise no hope, even I may not be allowed to make connection with You. karmadinam koti?"

From time immemorial I am serving all my masters, but they're not satisfied with my service. I am made the slave, eternal slave, no possibility of getting, or giving any relief to me. Now I find this helpless position my Lord. If You only come of Your own accord and assert Yourself in a new way, then they will fly away, otherwise no chance have I got. Only little attention of some engagement if You extend to me, then these will fly, in fear of You, otherwise I am nowhere."

This sort of pathetic prayer from the core of the heart towards the saviour, that is what is necessary for us.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Same question always.

Devotee: Well, I hope not. This is a question I've asked once or twice before but I'm asking it for the full explanation. We're encouraging everyone to chant Hare Kṛṣṇa mantra, yet we're seeing now there's one quote in Padma-Purāṇa that's saying without proper initiation the mantra received is without effect. So is it that those without proper connection, they're not getting the benefit of chanting the mantra ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only solid progress is not possible, proper progress. It may be something like, punya, to acquire merit, like good activity and suddenly, abruptly, it may become or may not, nāmābhāsa, and that giving mukti. Up to nāmābhāsa, up to mukti, it may be, or may not, that Name. Just as the seed without the potency within it, imitation is like that, without the seed. The medicine is there, apparently, but the potency of the medicine is absent, it will be like that, but at most it may produce what is nāmābhāsa.

One thing is the Name proper, Name means it is not material, it is not under the jurisdiction of the concocted area, misunderstood area. It must not have root there, in the false imitation, the root must not be there. The root, the Name proper must have to become, have its connection with Infinite proper. One thing, and the next thing, it must be treated properly, that is sevonmukhe, serving attitude. Not exploiting mood, nor indifferent mood, serving attitude must be there, and the seed must be proper seed, bona fide, two things necessary, everywhere.

Sādhū-saṅga, that is also bona fide, we are to differentiate it from the sham, from the apparent, that is from mayic conception. Which is not so. That is the treachery, the hypocrisy, we are to avoid it. Imitation side which is not proper and is going on in the name of proper, that is dangerous, we are to avoid that. We are to come in connection with the truth, with the reality and to deal also really, and not any facsimile, any imitation way. Our dealing will be sincere, true, and we must come in touch with the truth, then the truthful result we may expect. Truth is independent, it is not subservient to anything else, we shall have to come in connection with the truth. How to get that connection, that is difficult thing, and that is by sukṛti and by sādhū-saṅga.

So we are to understand the very basic principle of the thing, the fundamental. Then if you can understand that, all other questions will be solved, you can deduce from that. If we have a general truth in our hand, the particular cases may be dealt according to that. The general mental law, we must come to be acquainted with what is what. Bhaktyā sañjātayā (S-B, 11.3.31), bhakti can produce bhakti, not never māyā can produce bhakti. Reality can give reality, and not any misrepresentation of reality can give reality, deliver it in any way. You are to understand that, it is very simple and fundamental thing, others will be deduced from that conception.

There in the midst of misconception, and misconception of any nature cannot give us relief from misconception, some positive thing must have to come for our rescue.

So if we do not understand the basic principle, so similar and same questions come.

Devotee: I think I understand what your saying now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Always similar questions come. Assimilation is necessary, to hear and to assimilate that, to hear properly and hear with assimilation. Only repetition of sensation is not experience, experience is not repetition of sensation, congregation of senses. But some assimilation, then principle on the background, and it receives in a particular way and puts in a particular way, then it becomes experience. Only a sensation, repetition of sensation cannot be said as experience, experience means something, some other principle handles those sensations in such a way and it adjusts in such a way, then the sensations that, they become experience, knowledge. The cluster of sensations is not experience. So rending the ear is not hearing, the inner man must be there, to attend it, and to assimilate, and to group it, adjust it, in proper place, it will keep them, and at the time they will get from that particular position. All what we hear jumbled together, without any discrimination, that is no knowledge, that cannot improve our condition.

End of side A. side B. 13/14/16-4-83

Knowledge of experience. The inner most man must be there to attain. Hearing, seeing, everywhere, it is the inner man, he receives the sensations, and adjusts them in such a way that he can use them in a proper way in the future, and that is knowledge.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

In Bhagavad-gītā we find assimilation unique, so many things of different types, they're adjusted in such a way, it is unique thing Bhagavad-gītā. Karma, vikarma, jñāna, yoga, many things, devotion, many things are properly adjusted. Not in any other book do we find where everything has been adjusted in such a way, with the exception of Bhāgavatam.

Devotee: Mahārāja, does that refer to the three types of rati ? sadurayania rati ? Is that more or less the same thing?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes in general, common, and then specific, specified, general attraction towards God, then attraction will take form of particular rasas, śānta, dāsyā, sakhyā, vātsalya, madhura. And there are also sub divisions, asālana ? viśeṣa, developed condition general, and then particular types. When particular rasa, aim in that rasa, so many groups, divided into many departments, and to be specialised in one department, specialist.

Devotee: That is samañjasā ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Samañjasā. Harmonised, many in one, organised. All accommodating, all adjusting. Our Guru Mahārāja used to say: "Religion is proper adjustment." Adjustment to the extreme, general adjustment, then particularised and it goes to the extreme. Divided into different departments, like government.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.

Devotee: In the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam we find that the gopī's of Vṛndāvana, at one point when they were very, very, eager to have darśana of Kṛṣṇa, they were unable because their husbands kept them within their houses. At that time some of them left their bodies. So someone may ask, they are eternal associates of Kṛṣṇa, how is it possible that they left behind these seemingly, bodies?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is a show, that aspect, the real aspect of the gopī's relationship with Kṛṣṇa and the other aspect a show. Just as here we represent a thing which is not real here, in a picture, in a picture I may show the Himalaya here but it is not real Himalaya.

So in the case of the gopī's, the husband life, that life is like a picture. It has been written by Dāsa Goswāmī, just as a doll made by the wood, a wooden doll

A particular type of bird which can cry aloud

Something like show, it is arranged by Yoga Māyā, that sort of theatrical stage is built to enhance the attraction towards Kṛṣṇa. It is to the extreme, attraction to the extreme, for the gopī's, it is already extreme, again to enhance that, this policy has been adopted by Yoga Māyā. That there is outer demand on them, some design, outer demand, it won't allow them to be united with Kṛṣṇa, some concocted demand. The wholesale cover is like that, this parakīya bhāva. Local demand, something, and attraction for the universal life, the real attraction, and the local is futile, just putting some demand on them, but can't do anything ultimately, they're futile. But it has been managed to enhance their quality of life.

Just as a boy may be offered: "Do you like the lap of your mother or this doll?" A doll is given to the boy: "Take this doll", but he won't go to go to the lap of your mother. "What do you want?" Only want to dismiss the doll and go to the, to a particular temptation and the whole side to enhance, boy likes a real favour. Boy. "No I don't want the doll, I want the food, I want the mothers lap, affection, not doll."

Some test is given to judge the quality and increase the appeal, even dismissing these demands of moral, religious, either social, status. But this unknowingly flowing towards Kṛṣṇa, spontaneous, unknowingly, unconscious flow towards Kṛṣṇa, to prove that, this test put before them.

There was an instance that German Kaiser, his mother was a British lady, royal family of Britain. The Kaiser who was the cause of the first great war (against) Germany, he went to his maternal house and there with his cousin, some boys fighting and some strike came on Kaiser's nose and blood oozing, falling down. And Kaiser is supposed to have said: "Let the British blood fly away from my body." He was so German in his ego: "Let the British blood fly all away." So let our subtle, all, including even this body, which has come from such society, let it go I am a German.

I am Kṛṣṇa's,, I can't leave Kṛṣṇa at any cost, whatever belongs to you, you think, you keep it, I shall go. That sort of spirit, selection, unity and oneness. That has been shown to us in different types, different types of Kṛṣṇa attraction. Kṛṣṇa attracts the whole universe, everything, all the atoms are attracted by Him. But there is differentiation, distinction. All atoms are not equally attracted. The attraction on the whole is sweet, but there is differentiation in the sweetness, the degree. All not of the same type, gradation is there, and it goes up to such a mark that it denies the very existence of them, so much attraction feels within, he knows his own existence, his own ego. Such is possible, such attraction is possible. The very gist is being attracted, the form eliminated. Just as when one is swimming and feels danger, one gives away the dress and with naked body one wants to swim, something like that.

nosoramano naham ramani dumu capasala kinjani ?

Unconscious of their physical existence, they feel attracted towards Kṛṣṇa, the māyāvādī comes: "Oh there you see? All forms of jñāna, and they're one in substance." But when it again comes out, in different motives, it is going, entering and coming out, entering and coming out, the līlā continues.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Highest intensity in Rādhārāṇī, She surpasses all in that sort of attraction and feeling, and in the highest stage of unity becomes Mahāprabhu. And that hint is given in the last śloka of Rāya Rāmānanda.

vili raja nayana bhangā hela anudina balala avadina paila no so ramana naham ramani docamadhi mukhi paisala jani kesava kekahini bitula kani heno jani (?)

That was composed by Rāmānanda himself and in the last stage that was delivered when enquired by Mahāprabhu. "Any further development in the līlā ?"

Then Rāmānanda told: "I have got one thing in my mind, but I don't know whether You will relish it or not, I have composed one poem to that effect, You hear it."

When he was delivering that poem of his own, Mahāprabhu put His hand on his face, "No further." Hitting him. Combined, both combined, forgets everything, madly seeking after Himself, in the mood of the potency, and Mahāprabhu was caught red handed there. He opposed, not to give vent to this.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Rāmānanda could not stand, fainted, fell over unconscious on the ground. Mahāprabhu touched him by His magical hand and brought him to consciousness. Rāmānanda found a sannyāsī is sitting here in the front.

Then the sannyāsī told: "Am I allowed to go now, to take leave of you?"

Mechanically - "Yes you may take leave." Rāmānanda was struck dumb, and sat there a long time.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, maybe about three or four years ago I asked you about my Guru Mahārāja's identity, according to your particular bicha? what you thought his particular identity may be in the spiritual world, you gave a general analysis. So I also wanted to ask you, I don't know if you will answer, but I also wanted to ask you the same thing about Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, he openly had discourse with me.

"I know everything, I hear, but my particular attraction towards sakhya rasa, I like it most, friendly, friendly. I have heard all these things, different stages, different qualities, but my special liking is in sakhya rasa." He told.

But our Swāmī Mahārāja, whatever I found from his letter, and the letter I found when he was going towards America for propaganda, he has given his own internal aspiration. "Help me to finish my duty as ordered by my Gurudeva Rādhārāṇī, who is very favourite to You, to help me in discharging all my duties given to me by Him, He is Your very most favourite, and after that we shall have our natural pastimes in Vṛndāvana."

Such and such way, that he had expressed. From there I traced that he's there, in his natural service, he relishes that sort of service. That is my find from that letter. Before this I did not have any feeling in any talk with him.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Of course I have not gone through the portion where he has translated the madhura rasa affairs in Bhāgavatam. But still this was sufficient for me to guess, understand his innate aspiration, in that line.

Was from common as it was told of sadaraniya ? General attraction, then assimilation in different departments, general recruitment, and then examination by the specialists, and particular departments are given to particular persons, he will shine in that, after general recruitment, general test and then special test.

Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, this Arup Mitra, did he mention anything about his house in Calcutta? Arup Mitra?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. I heard he has got a place in a good position,kalki? lane, street. And I heard he puts up somewhere else, that is not very important place. And his position in that quarter is also not very substantial, solid, as far as I got from his version. It is not his own, a rented quarter, and that is also not very spacious, or accommodating perhaps. I do not know. I wanted to enquire, but what answer I got, that was not encouraging to me, so I left it.

Devotee: I don't think he's ready yet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not hopeful for us. That house belonging to Mrs Bosh. That position and independent, one, two rooms, and bathroom, etc, that was useful to certain purpose. But the position of that house is complicated now, and the proprietor of the house and it was take of rent by Mrs Bosh. Now the case is going on between them and I was told some quarter compromised already. It is not encouraging, so I left it.

Devotee: I have heard there is one place you are interested in, in Calcutta, where you received, you met also Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta and you took Harināma and mantra and sannyāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is a house, I have got temptation for that house. Now it is in the hands of a businessman, and if they get sufficient capital, and careful negotiations, both is necessary, to get that.

Swāmī Mahārāja, I was told he first met Guru Mahārāja there and I also met there. I got Harināma, I got dīkṣa, I got sannyāsa, everything there. A small, about four kartars? or so, four kartars means one fifth of a bigger? One fifth bigger? is one fifteenth of an acre.

Devotee: Which part of Calcutta is it in?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Near Parisnātha? Temple, Parisnātha? Temple is number five, Parisnātha Temple and this is number one. You know Parisnātha Temple? No, That is in Untajana? side, on the eastern canal side. You know sancta? Parishad, Mr Bowsh? Jagadeesh Bowsh? Bowsh's laboratory or some college, something that side? Vaiṣṇava Temple, Jain Temple, that was a very famous in Calcutta, or side to? Parishad, then Mr Bowsh's laboratory, eastern side of Calcutta.

Devotee: Does that man, owner, does he want to rent it, or does he want to sell it?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That I don't know. That should be cleverly negotiated by a third person. Not by you, the foreigners, neither by any man interested in the mission, should be negotiated to a third person, and better if he's influential in that quarter.

Govinda Mahārāja may manage, he lives nearby, near about three lākhs, two lakhs maybe, I have no idea, or about less than two lākhs.

Have been successful, it is my opinion that they did not care at all. This Kuṅga Babu he found the Maṭh there in the beginning. Māyāpura. Tīrtha Mahārāja. But he did not care to get, acquire that land, he went to south Calcutta, constructing one research, Caitanya Research Institute there, for preaching purposes. That was educated quarter and he selected that locality, did not care for this. Anyhow it is there, if anyone has got particular taste, that sort of blessing, he may go.

Devotee: It is almost like being invited. The higher plane has to invite the person into this process of bhakti.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His will. If Prabhupāda (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) thinks that I won't allow anyone to occupy my throne, let it be rather, even the bush within jungle. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

dvāṛakāyām ca na stheyām, bhavadbhiś ca sva-bandhubhiḥ mayā

Kṛṣṇa told before His departure: ("You and your relatives should not remain in Dwārakā, the capital of the Yadus, because) Left by Me, My capital Dwārakā will be inundated by the ocean, the ocean will devour, swallow the place where I had My capital Dwārakā. Place of My pastimes, that will be, that will come under the ocean, the ocean will devour." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.30.47)

But He could not do a similar thing in Vṛndāvana, in Vṛndāvana also those particular places of pastimes were you know forgotten. This Vajra tried his best, only with help some, his best to discover, then again that ignored, undercover. Then by the order of Mahāprabhu, Rūpa, Sanātana, they tried their utmost to bring them again, out to our consciousness.

Nastra Tīrtha Udar? Mahāprabhu ordered Sanātana Goswāmī: "Go, bhakti śāstra pūjā, pure devotional scriptures, collect and publish. And the tīrtha, the places of holy pastimes, you bring them to the notice of the people. And Śrī Mūrti, preach the worshipping of the Śrī Mūrti in a proper way. And to prepare bhakti śāstra, bhakti sadācāra, how one should practice in a formal way, according to devotional standard, how one should live, form his life, and one's daily routine, how, bhakti sadācāra."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Always above our possession, because it is of higher order, we aspire after that, but that never be taken under our nature, or utilisation, or practices, or possession. He's so, His nature is so, adhokṣaja, unaccountable. He won't come under and rules and regulations.

Only He's under the higher laws of love. The Infinite cannot be forced to come under any regulation, we must not forget that. Still by negative approach, surrender. "We are fallen, without Your help we cannot stand."

Appealing tone. Sometimes He comes to contact, but He's independent. Higher appeals also, sometimes take Him within this. But on the whole His very nature is of that type. Unmanageable, from this plane, but quite naturally. We are calculating people, we want something concrete within our palm, but the nature of the existence of that substance is not at all of that type. Super subjective, your highest intelligence, acquisition, hankering, aspiration, hardly reach Him. So how much possession you're to measure the extent of your possession over Him?

Only from far away we may see, "Oh He seems to be come within our knowledge," talking and mixing with Gurudeva, that higher Vaiṣṇava, we may have, should be satisfied with such view. And suddenly may appear in your level and whenever you're given more attention, disappears. That is His nature. Suddenly at His whim, at His whim, He may come and appear in your level, but whenever any attention you fix towards Him, it's finished. Not to come in any regulation, under any regulation. If you like to try any connection with Him you may do, otherwise you are to do in your own way, go on your own. Adhokṣaja. yato bhaktir adhokṣaje:

"The supreme occupation (dharma) for all humanity is that by which men can attain to loving devotional service unto the transcendental Lord. Such devotional service must be unmotivated and uninterrupted to completely satisfy the self." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.6)

When we consider finally all these which we can bring under our regulation, they're of trash, no value. I want to enquire after something which is unapproachable, unknown, unknowable, higher thing. Then it

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: inundated by the ocean, the ocean will devour, swallow, the place where I had My capital Dvārakā, place of My pastimes, that will be, that will come under the ocean, the ocean will devour."

But He could not do, ha ha, similar thing in Vṛndāvana. In Vṛndāvana also those particular places of pastimes were ignored, forgotten. This Vajra tried his best, Anirudha's son, his best to discover, then again that ignored, undercover. Then by the order of Mahāprabhu Rūpa Sanātana they tried their utmost to bring them again out to our consciousness.

Mahāprabhu ordered Sanātana Goswāmī four things: bhakti śāstra pacar ?

the pure devotional scriptures, collect and publish. And the tīrtha, the places of holy pastimes, you bring them to the notice of the people. And Śrī Mūrti, to preach the worshipping of the Śrī Mūrti in a proper way. And to prepare bhakti śāstra, bhakti sadācāra, how one should practice his, in a formal way, according to devotional standards, how one should live, form his life and his daily routine, bhakti sadācāra.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Mahāprabhu Gaurāṅga Sundara.

Devotee: When we were just in Vṛndāvana we also noticed that many of the places of pilgrimage, places that were established by the Goswāmīs, were again becoming dilapidated or becoming hidden. And so much misinformation is going Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He, he, he, he.

Devotee: about what is this and what is that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He, he, he. The adhokṣaja realm, it will always be above our possession, and because it is of higher order we aspire after that. But that never be taken under our nature or utilisation or practices or possession. He's so, His nature is so, adhokṣaja, unaccountable. He won't come under any rules and regulations. Only He's under the higher laws of love. Infinite cannot be forced to come under any regulation. We must not forget that. Still, by negative approach, surrender, 'we are fallen, without Your help we can't stand,' appealing tone, sometimes He comes to contact. But He's independent. Higher appeals also sometimes take Him within this. But on the whole His very nature is of that type, unmanageable, from this plane. That's quite natural.

We are calculating people, we want something concrete within our palm. But the nature of the existence of that substance is not at all of that type. Supersubjective. Your highest intelligence acquisition, hankering, aspiration, hardly reach Him. So how much possession, you are to measure the extent of your possession over Him. Only from far away we may see, "Oh, He's seen to be come within our knowledge. He's talking and mixing with Gurudeva, that higher Vaiṣṇava." We may have, we should be satisfied with such look. And suddenly may appear in your level and whenever you are giving more attention, disappeared. That is His nature. Suddenly at His whim He may come and appear in your level, but whenever any attention you fix towards Him, finished. Ha, ha. Not to come in any regulation, under any regulation. If you like to try any connection with Him you may do otherwise you are free to do in your own way, ha, ha, go on in your own way. Adhokṣaja, yato bhaktir adhokṣaje completely satisfy the self."

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.6)

When you consider finally all these, which we can bring under our regulation, they're of trash, no value. I want to enquire after something which is unapproachable, unknown, unknowable, higher thing. Then you may, you are allowed to go on that path with that risk, with that risk you are to go, yato bhaktir adhokṣaje.

Yaśodā, who once found her supremacy over Him in such a way that she is punishing, whipping, then that very Yaśodā, whole life shedding tears and crying: "How I can go on with my very existence without You my boy?" But no response.

The gopīs, who have given everything, every cost they wanted, they're also apparently seen to live the whole live disappointed, crying, wailing, in this way.

But that very crying has got a great value. That separation of Him, that fetches also great value, that is not of ordinary value, that is also concrete thing, separation for Him. Separation, and the degree of separation. And in the market the valuation is according to the intensity of the separation, separation is also valuable. To aspire after a good thing, that is also valuable. And to get in possession a bad thing, that is undesirable, and to aspire after a good thing, that is desirable. But that is our capital, the desire for the good is our capital.

Men of such type, they hate anything that can be kept in possession here. "No. That is to be dismissed. I want to be vacant. I want only to aspire after the highest thing. It may be imagination, still, my food will be that, aspiration for the highest. That is my food, that is my everything. I shall go on life after life with aspiration for the highest. And not caring for anything which can be easily got in my possession. 'I can be master,' I hate to be a master." āśliṣya vā pāda-ratām pinaṣtu mām:

(āśliṣya vā pāda-ratām pinaṣtu mām, adarśanān marma-hatām karotu vā yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ)

("Kṛṣṇa may embrace me in love or trample me under His feet. He may break my heart by hiding Himself from me. Let that debauchee do whatever He likes, but He will always be the only Lord of my life.")
(Śikṣāṣṭakam, v 8)

Anyhow to remain in connection with that, that is its own reward, virtue is its own reward. "That I am in the path, I am in the trying mood, that is enough. Such valuable. And any way I am treated by Him, still, I aspire after nothing but Him. Such valuable. I can't tolerate that I am not His, I am not one of His. However neglected position I may have to remain in, but I can't tolerate the idea that I have no connection with Him, my aspiration from my side, the highest aspiration for Him, that is my capital. I cannot think myself so great that to have in possession that highest good. That audacity I must not indulge in. Any way, any slightest connection with that. On the other hand, I dismiss all other aspirations whatever it may offer to me. That idea, ideal, āśliṣya vā pāda-ratām pinaṣtu mām, adarśanān: any way connection, any way, slightest connection however lengthy future it may be does not matter, but I'm not going to contact with anything else, alternative proposals.

He's superior, why should He come under my direction? It must be māyā, it must be an erroneous influence I'm suffering. I want a thing of my position can have command over that highest thing, then that is all concoction, naturally. In my position, a slightest, any connection, I must be satisfied with that and that will be true. And Infinite will come under my guidance? I am a finite. What is this? This is madness. The least possible connection, but with the highest, I aspire after that. That is valuable to me. Then I am normal of the highest type.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

The ideal is Caitanyadeva, but His life is horrible to us. So much madly hankering after Kṛṣṇa, ignoring His own physical aspect. What is that? How to accept His ideal? We are rather afraid of going in His connection, so mad separation pangs. So, outwardly, such sacrifice, then the treasure inward. Who will come to risk so much? Ha, ha. Kṛṣṇa-bhakti is so risky. Who will care to adore the ideal of the gopīs ? But the Uddhava and some other devotees, they say: "Śukadeva, then we think oh that then it maybe. We cannot give respect in the middleman. And they say in their gradation they're the highest." Otherwise where is the place of the gopīs in ordinary intellectual section? Nothing, nothing, who are they? What is their position?"

Then He says: "Brahmā is not My favourite, nor Mahādeva, nor Saṅkarṣaṇa, nor Lakṣmī Devī, even not Myself, as you are, My loving friend, Uddhava."

(na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir na śaṅkaraḥ na ca saṅkarṣaṇo na śrīr naivātmā ca yathā bhavān)

("Neither Brahmā nor Śīva are as dear to Me as you; My elder brother Saṅkarṣaṇa is not as dear to Me as you, nor even Lakṣmī Devī. Even My own Self is not as dear to Me as you." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15)

And that Uddhava says: "Oh, I aspire after a birth of a creeper here, the feet-dust of those great sacrifice, divinity may fall on my head."

("The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to renounce, and they have sacrificed even their religious principles to take shelter of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, which are sought after by even the Vedas. O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head.")

"Without these steps, how can I know what is their noble position? And those that are very fortunate in any way, in the course of their running within this universe, got some favour from that great sādhus, they can appreciate. I do not want anything, we do not want anything, but we want Vṛndāvana, I want."

kam prati kathayitum īśe, samprati ko vā pratītim āyātu go-pati-tanayā-kuñje, gopa-vadhūṭī-vitam brahma

("To whom can I tell it, and whoever will believe it, that the Supreme Absolute, Param Brahman, the Paramour of the damsels of Vraja, is enjoying in the groves on the banks of the Yamunā?") (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.98) + (Padyāvalī, 98)

Who will believe this, that that Para Brahmā is in Vṛndāvana, and He's making friends with these ordinary people? Who will come to believe that He's carrying the shoe of Nanda on His head? Who will come to believe this? Such a madman, where to be found who will come to believe that the highest entity is carrying the shoes of Nanda on His head? What's that?

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: They say we're all crazy, that it's craziness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Crazy, the crazy, the ordinary is a relative term. Someone says Einstein to be crazy, Newton to be crazy. We do not get full bellied food and they're showing this luxury and doing some researches, atom bomb and all these things. We don't have full-bellied food, these are all luxuries. What is the necessity? Then gives us food, we are hungry. This is concrete and that is all abstract, your intelligence, exercise of your intelligence, all luxuries. The demand of flesh, we are under so much intense trouble to meet the demand of our flesh, they're all unnecessary business, they're all mad.

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānāṃ, tasyāṃ jāgarti saṁyamī yasyāṃ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ

("While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un-interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69)

Day to one is night to another, due to their position and necessity. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

What is valuable to one, that is nothing to another, according to the necessity. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

The robber told to Alexander (the Great): "What necessity you had for conquering all these countries and troubling so many men and killing so many? The satisfaction of your whim? What more than that? So much trouble to so many countries, so many human beings and others, devastation. Only your whim, to satisfy the fodder of your whim? You're a great general, to establish you." Ha, ha.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

kim karma kim akarmeti, kavayo 'py atra mohitāḥ tat te karma
pravakṣyāmi, yaj jñātvā mokṣyase 'śubhāt

("Even very learned men are baffled in ascertaining the nature of action and inaction. Some cannot comprehend action, while others cannot comprehend inaction. Hence, I shall now teach you about such action and inaction, knowing which you will attain liberation from the evil world.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 4.16)

The great scholars they're perplexed to know what is good and what is bad, what we shall get and what we shall dismiss. Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kavayo 'py atra mohitāḥ, the great scholars they fail to understand what is their real necessity. This is perplexed jungle, different types of consciousness, jalajā nava lakṣāni, sthāvarā lakṣa viṁśati:

jalajā nava lakṣāni, sthāvarā lakṣa viṁśati kṛmayo rudra-saṅkhyakāḥ, pakṣiṇām daśa lakṣaṇam triṁsal lakṣāni paśavaḥ, catur lakṣāni mānuṣaḥ

(In the laws of Manu, it is written: "There are 900,000 kinds of aquatics, 2,000,000 kinds of trees and plants, 1,100,000 kinds of insects and reptiles, 1,000,000 kinds of birds, 3,000,000 kinds of four-legged beasts, and 400,000 kinds of human species." Manu says that the trees are in such a hopeless position as a result of their own karma. Their feelings of pain and pleasure are similar to ours; their souls are not of a lower standard. Still, they are in such a deplorable position as a result of their own karma. They have none to blame but themselves. This is the state of affairs in this external world.")(Viṣṇu-Purāṇa)

So many souls of equal position with us. Manu says these trees out their own karma are under such hopeless position today. They have got similar feeling for pain and pleasure like us, not of less standard. But they're in such position. And it is their own karma, none to blame. Such is the fun going on in this world, outside. We are living in the environment which is so afflicted with serious misconception and misunderstanding and misguidance, misbehaviour, where we are.

How to ascertain what is good, what is bad, what to aspire after, what we should reject? Innumerable alternatives have thronged in a crowd coming to influence over me. Ha, ha. So this area covered by illusion, influenced by misunderstanding is of so different diverse type, then what about infinite, Vaikuṇṭha? This finite world is so diverse in its character, and Infinite, with what attitude we should approach that adhokṣaja ?

In any way we are to accept any alliance, whatever less fruitful or less giving, less gain, whatever it may be we shall try to have connection with that perfect thing of our internal, innate aspiration, slightest connection. We are helpless, we are hopeless, in the midst of disappointment, in danger extreme. We are to rely on our free will, our capacity of selection for our own good, but it is so helpless, our guide is so helpless. In what danger we are? Our guide is so helpless, we are getting witnesses all around.

So how a real Guru is important who can guide us to our real wealth. Guide, guidance, guidance is the most important thing at present for us, proper guidance. Forces of different nature, I'm drawing towards them, attracted towards them, we are in the midst of that. Proper guidance is most valuable, how valuable is Gurudeva's guidance.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Dhyeyaṁ sadā paribhava-ghnam: After mentioning who is the incarnation for Kali- yuga, yuga-avatāra, Bhāgavata suddenly begins the song in praise of that great yuga- avatāra:

dhyeyaṁ sadā paribhava-ghnam abhīṣṭa-dohaṁ tīrthāspadaṁ śivaviriñci-nutaṁ śaraṇyam bhr̥tyārti-haṁ praṇata-pāla bhavābdhi-potaṁ

("O guardian of the surrendered, O great personality (the Supreme Personality of Godhead Himself, who enacts His divine pastimes as a pure devotee - mahā-bhāgavata), You alone are the reality to be constantly meditated upon by the pure souls. You are the destroyer of the soul's illusion, You are the divine wish-fulfilling tree, the refuge of all devotees. Worshippable by Śiva and Viriñci (Sadāśiva in the form of Śrī Advaita Ācārya, and Brahmā in the form of Haridāsa Ṭhākura), You are the shelter of all and everything, and You are the dispeller of Your devotees' suffering which originates in offences to the Holy Name (nāma-aparādha). You are the only boat for crossing the ocean of this material world of suffering. I do worship Your holy lotus feet."

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.33)

tyaktvā su-dustya-ja-surepsita-rājya-lakṣmīm dharmiṣṭha arya-vacasā yad agād araṇyam mājyā-mrgam dayitayepsitam anvadhāvad vande mahā-puruṣa te caraṇāravindam

"O Supreme Lord, You gave up the goddess of fortune and Her great opulence, which is most difficult to abandon, and is sought after even by the gods. In order to perfectly establish the principles of religion, You left for the forest to honour the brāhmaṇa's curse. To deliver the sinful souls who chase illusory pleasures, You search after them and award them Your devotional service. At the same time, You are engaged in search of Yourself, in search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa: Reality the Beautiful."

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.34)

With a very grand temperament the Bhāgavata has come to sing in praise of that guide in Kali-yuga. This occurs just after:

kṛṣṇa-varṇam tviṣā 'kṛṣṇam sāṅgopāṅgāstra-pārṣadam yajñaiḥ saṅkīrtana-prāyair yajanti hi sumedhasaḥ

"In the age of Kali, intelligent persons perform congregational chanting to worship the incarnation of Godhead who constantly sings the Names of Kṛṣṇa. Although His complexion is not blackish, He is Kṛṣṇa Himself. He is accompanied by His associates, servants, weapons and confidential companions." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.32)

In a covered, disguised way, only giving hints who is the Avatāra of Kali-yuga. Kṛṣṇa- varṇam, who is always describing about Kṛṣṇa. Or, who has got on His lips the words Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa always. Or, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, but by His lustre He looks yellow, but really if we can look with deep attention we shall find that hidden under that yellow lustre there is the blue body. Kṛṣṇa-varṇam tviṣā 'kṛṣṇam sāṅgopāṅgāstra-pārṣadam, with His own paraphernalia He has come. Yajñaiḥ saṅkīrtana-prāyair, and the service is continuing under the cover of saṅkīrtana, only with the help of the sound in a mass prayer in processional way. That will be His real symptom. With the masses He will go on chanting divine sound. Through that symptom we shall try to understand Him, He's a channaḥ-avatāra, (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.9.38), because in Kali-yuga He will come in disguise.

(Prahlaḍa Mahārāja said: "In this way, my Lord, You appear in various incarnations as a human being, an animal, a great saint, a demigod, a fish, or a tortoise, thus maintaining the entire creation in different planetary systems and killing the demoniac principles. According to the age, O my Lord, You protect the principles of religion. In the age of Kali, however, You (as Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu playing the part of a devotee) remain hidden to the common people, and do not assert Yourself as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and therefore You are known as Triyuga, or the Lord who appears in only three yugas.")

So, the hint is given in this way, not very clearly. channaḥ kalau, tri-yugo, Prahlaḍa Mahārāja. The yuga-avatāra in Kali is in disguise. So, some says about You by the Name of Triyuga, You appear only three yugas, not Kali. But those that know that You, in disguise in Kali-yuga comes, they only understand the fact why this Triyuga has been added in Your Name, channaḥ kalau.

kr̥ṣṇa-varṇaṁ tviṣā 'kr̥ṣṇaṁ sāṅgopāṅgāstra-pārṣadam yajñaiḥ
saṅkīrtana-prāyair yajanti hi sumedhasaḥ

("In the age of Kali, intelligent persons perform congregational chanting to worship the incarnation of Godhead who constantly sings the Names of Kṛṣṇa. Although His complexion is not blackish, He is Kṛṣṇa Himself. He is accompanied by His associates, servants, weapons and confidential companions.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.32)

And such group is worshipped by the special intellectual section, intellectual and divinely intellectual. Sumedhasaḥ, who has got good guidance, su means good, sumedhasaḥ, the inner suggestion is good. They are generally attracted by such affairs, that with the name of the Supreme they were guiding a group taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa. And He's blue within but by lustre He seems to be yellow, that avatāra. Extraordinary personality, uncommon merit that He will come, but only in a very Riddle, what is riddle?

Devotee: Puzzle. Enigma.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In a puzzling way describing these things the Bhāgavata comes to chant the nobility, greatness of that Avatāra. Dhyeyaṁ sadā paribhava-ghnam abhīṣṭa (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.33), in a very sublime and great way comes to praise Him and sung this śloka of Kali-yuga Avatāra. And who came as Rāmacandra, who came as Kṛṣṇa, He's here. You are to look with that temperament. Dhyeyaṁ sadā paribhava-ghnam abhīṣṭa-dohaṁ, the real fulfilment He has come to direct to you. For you, He's drawing the sweetest juice from above. You meditate on Him only. Sadā paribhava-ghnam abhīṣṭa-dohaṁ, all your troubles will be finished. Such juice is drawn from the upper world for you.

Abhīṣṭa-dohaṁ tīrthāspadaṁ, and He will be the agent of supplying unity to all the tīrthas by His touch, by His saṅkīrtana, by His drawing the highest things for our improvement and comes to draw all the holy places.

Śiva-viriñci-nutaṁ, and such high type of thing He will come to take here that even the Śiva and Brahmā, they will also be puzzled to find the nature of His noble gift and will begin to praise after Him. They will eagerly aspire to take shelter under His feet, surrender.

Bhṛtyārti-haṁ, and all that will come to serve Him, their inner wants will be removed satisfactorily, bhṛtyārti-haṁ, their pains, their inner necessity, that will be fulfilled.

Praṇata-pāla bhavābdhi-potaṁ, and who will come to take shelter under Him, submit to Him, they will be taken charge by Him and they will be protected, given protection, and every supply in their life. Bhavābdhi-potaṁ, and in this position where the mortality coming and going, coming and going, this change undesirable, none wants to live in this area. A great ship will come for them and take them within the ship and take away from this unpleasant position, bhavābdhi-potaṁ.

Vande mahā-puruṣa te caraṇāravindam, let me fall at His feet, of this great personage who will come with such high nectar

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: tyaktvā su-dustyaja-surepsita-rājya-lakṣmīm:

(tyaktvā su-dustyaja-surepsita-rājya-lakṣmīm dharmiṣṭha aṛya-vacasā yad agād araṇyam māyā-mṛgaṁ dayitayepsitam anvadhāvad vande mahā-puruṣa te caraṇāravindam)

("O Supreme Lord, You gave up the goddess of fortune and Her great opulence, which is most difficult to abandon, and is sought after even by the gods. In order to perfectly establish the principles of religion, You left for the forest to honour the brāhmaṇa's curse. To deliver the sinful souls who chase illusory pleasures, You search after them and award them Your devotional service. At the same time, You are engaged in search of Yourself, in search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa: Reality the Beautiful.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.34)

Viśvanātha Cakravartī has given that generally it seems it applies to Rāmacandra. He left His kingdom and went with Sītā Devī to the forest to discharge religious duties designed by His father. But it is also true in the case of Mahāprabhu. Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura has drawn the internal meaning and applied it in the case of Mahāprabhu. Tyaktvā su-dustyaja-surepsita-rājya-lakṣmīm, the imperial prosperity He left, su-dustyaja, which is hard to abandon. That generally we find this in the case of Rāmacandra.

But Cakravartī Ṭhākura says: surepsita-rājya-lakṣmīm, the valuable devotional company of Viṣṇupriyā, rājya-lakṣmīm, not a materially big thing, but Viṣṇu Priyā's throne in her heart for Mahāprabhu, that is more than any imperial standard. He had to leave that. Surepsita-rājya-lakṣmīm, what standard of sacrifice in service is never found amongst the big society of the gods. That they had to go up and He left that, ignored, He had to ignore that sort of serving, loving attitude of Viṣṇupriyā for the public welfare.

Dharmiṣṭha arya-vacasā yad agād araṇyam, here He has taken one curse of a brāhmaṇa who told that: "What You do, all taste about kṛṣṇa-līlā, I want to participate, but doors are closed." Mahāprabhu when He used to taste the Vraja-līlā of Kṛṣṇa, He did so behind closed doors at night, deep night. But a brāhmaṇa, he took only milk and nothing else, so he thought himself a very qualified religious standard person. "I must have entrance, I do not eat anything but only milk; why should I not be allowed?" Mahāprabhu replied: "Milk drinking is no qualification for entering into Kṛṣṇa consciousness." "Then I curse You, You will lose your family life!" "Yes." Mahāprabhu took it, arya-vacasā yad, then He accepted that and took sannyāsa accepting the curse of the brāhmaṇa became sannyāsī, arya-vacasā yad agād araṇyam.

Māyā-mṛgaṁ dayitayepsitam anvadhāvad, and He pursued, run after the, after those māyā-mṛgaṁ, that are misguided by Māyā-Devī, He pursued that crowd. And at the same time, dayitayepsitam, what was in the very inner aspiration of His sweetheart Rādhārāṇī. Here Kṛṣṇa He took to the mood of Rādhārāṇī, epsitam, desirable of Rādhārāṇī, the deep searching for Kṛṣṇa's service, loving service. He practised in the mood of Rādhārāṇī the searching, how to search after Himself, Kṛṣṇa. For these two causes He left His worldly life, apparently. First for the welfare of the public and the next twelve years only in the mood of Rādhārāṇī searching after His own inner sweetness, He played, showed to the world. This is the meaning of those two stanzas given just after mentioning Kali-yuga Avatāra then these stanzas given in Bhāgavatam.

Gaura Hari bol!

Here I stop today.

.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: not concoction, not a false tale. A portion of the iron chain was converted into Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

..... Rabindranath (?), he wrote this poem in Bengali.

yad ana hari adan agadin sanatana keve sei vrindavana karan krsna nama ? rather the brāhmaṇa approached and began such occasion, at last:

ye dani hari adani mani ye mana hani takani magi ani nata sevi ata badi mani ye vrndavana ?

Rabindranatha (?) has written a poem, from Bhakta-mala, the incident is mentioned there in that book.

It is also mentioned, once Agbar (?) was visiting Sanātana, (and he had mind ?) if they want I shall give some help to these scholarly sādhu's.
Those who do not want anything from the public, always engaged in the śāstric study and writing. Though they come from the royal family of Maharashtra, brāhmaṇa royal family of Maharashtra, but now their (health is imposed ?) poverty and begging and cultivating scripture and writing books. If any money necessary. We are told in Bhakta-mal. He came to see that āroṭi, in the evening the āroṭi was going on, and from far away Agbar, it is told, paraphernalia came to see the āroṭi. And found this guinea, the golden coins are being like rain they're falling on all sides. "What shall I give here? The opulence is there. Akbar, and his grandson, Aurangzeb, he demolished the greater portion of the temple, Govinda Mandeer, and also polluted Madana-mohana and the Deity already removed, first to Karmavana, that Indian state, Bharatapur state, Karmavana in under the management of Bharatapur state, Dijart (?). And there also some apprehension of being polluted, It was taken to Jaipur next under Mahārāja Amarsin (?), that state. The Deities were removed. And that Deity is still remaining in Jaipur, Govindaji, that original Deity, Vighraha is in Jaipur. And next installation we find in Vṛndāvana.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, Bhugarva Goswāmī's Deity?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhugarva Goswāmī and Lokanātha, they were in, known as Rādhā- Vinoda or some Devotee: Rādhā-Vinoda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rādhā-ramana, Gopal-Bhaṭṭa. Rādhā-Vinoda, Lokanātha and Bhugarva. And Govinda is Rūpa Goswāmī. Madan-mohan, Sanātana Goswāmī. And Madhu Paṇḍit was one, his Gopīnātha, Rādhā-Gopīnātha. Rādhā-Dāmodara by Jīva Goswāmī. And Śyāma-sundara by Śyāmānanda Prabhu. These are the old Deities that are installed by the old prophets. And (Raghunātha) Dāsa Goswāmī is Giridhari.

Hare Kṛṣṇa

Devotee: Is Rādhā-Vinoda removed to Jaipur also?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: What is the reason that the Deities have gone to Jaipur?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Apprehension of the attack from Aurangzeb, the grandson of Akbar. great grandson of Akbar. Akbar, Jahanges (?), Shahjahan (?), Aurangzeb. Akbar, Jahanges then Shahjahan, then Aurangzeb, fourth from Akbar. Akbar's father was Humayun, and his father was Babur who was the founder of Mughal Empire in India, that Babur. He was contemporary to Sandaram Singh (?), the grandfather of Patarb Singh (?) who fought single-handed with Akbar, that great Muhammedan king in India. For twenty-five years continuous fighting, from a cottage. It may be told like that. He had no, not a place to keep his head, sometimes from under the trees, sometimes in the caves, sometimes in some other house of his subject. In this way he fought for twenty-five years, Patarb Singh. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And Mansima (?) and others they left him and joined Akbar, and still he was indomitable fighter. Continuous fight for twenty-five years recklessly.

We are told in history that England and France they are in fighting mood for one hundred years, hundred years. And we find in Markachandi (?):

devasura maha yuddham pura madya satam pura (?)

A hundred years continuous fighting between the gods and the demons

devasura maha yuddham pura madya satam pura (?)

mayisay sura nama adi pi deva nama capa randhari (?)

The Mahiṣāśura was the leader of the demons, demonic party, and the other hand Indra Puranda (?), he was the leader of the god party. Fighting went on for one hundred years continuously.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Can you tell us something about the life of Narottama Dāsa Ṭhākura.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Narottama Ṭhākura, when Mahāprabhu went to Rāmakeli after sannyāsa, on His way to Vṛndāvana, it is told that the opposite side, there was a river nearby, just on the opposite side Mahāprabhu pronounced the word: "Narottama, Narottama, Narottama." But the party could not understand, "Why He's taking the name of Narottama here? This is the first incident.

Then there was a big Kāyastha zamindar on what is known as Keturi just on the other side of the banks of Padma River, the big branch of this Ganges, and the small branch is this? and the big branch goes by the name of Padma. And just on the other side of the Padma there was Keturi where there was a big zamindar family. Narottama was a son, a Kāyastha family, and Narottama was the son of his family, his elder brother was Kṛṣṇa Candra. Almost a big zamindar, or small king, in this way there.

He was brought up naturally inclination towards Mahāprabhu and Kṛṣṇa, Rādhā- Govinda, Vṛndāvana, all this. He did not marry. From his young age he was given to this side and gradually found his friend in Śrīnivāsa Ācārya, and afterwards Śyāmānanda. In his younger age it is told that he came to see Navadvīpa Dhāma, and the circumambulation of different parts of Navadvīpa, Narottama and Śrīnivāsa, they practically began.

Before this, Jīva Goswāmī was shown the different parts of Navadvīpa Dhāma by Nityanānda Prabhu. And the second attend we find that Īśan, who was the old servant of Mahāprabhu's house, he showed Narottama and Śrīnivāsa all the nine islands, pastimes of Mahāprabhu's place.

Then going up and given to such life exclusively. Then he met Narottama and Śyāmānanda, lived there for some time, and Narottama Ṭhākura he tried hard and got initiation from Lokanātha Goswāmī.

Lokanātha Goswāmī's original house was in Bengal, Yaso District. He went to Vṛndāvana and lived a life of a sannyāsī. And his speciality was this, that he did not like to mix with anybody. His apprehension was that to talk with a man, that means the break in the continuous memory of Kṛṣṇa, so he did not like to meet anybody. So much so, that he even store any water, a glass, a scanty water also, because if any guest comes and asks for some water he cannot deny, "that I won't give you any drinking water." So, his water pots were all empty. Ha, ha, ha. In such a strict way he used to keep up his continuous devotional life without any gap. And he did not like to accept anyone as his disciple, he was determined, won't mix with anybody. But Narottama Ṭhākura anyhow when he found that, "I must have my initiation from this noble man please." But he knew that he has almost promised that, "I won't accept any disciple, what for?"

Śrīnivāsa Ācārya, he got initiation from Gopāl Bhaṭṭa. Śyāmānanda, he got initiation, there is a story behind, from Jīva Goswāmī, he gave. And Narottama's inclination towards Lokanātha Goswāmī. But how to get that? He tried to find out where in early morning he goes to pass his stools, then he detected the place and began to cleanse that place in a fine way. So after a few days it caught the attention of Lokanātha Goswāmī. "Who is cleansing this place? I come to pass stools in this place and who knows it and who comes and is cleansing this place, purifying?" Then he detected one day and caught this Narottama. "Why you have come to do this without my permission on your own?"

Narottama fell flat, crying at his feet. "I want your blessings, your grace. Without that my life is useless. You please be kind on me. I am a wretched man and so and so, come from Bengal. You must be pleased with me in this way."

Lokanātha Goswāmī was defeated and at last he gave initiation to that single person Narottama. And Narottama, in his turn, he came and afterwards we are told that he inundated the whole of the Northern Bengal and the whole of Manipura came under his control, under his grace. He gave initiation right and left.

Devotee: Northern Bengal?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Northern India, and specially Eastern, Assam and Manipura, wholesale Manipura, including the King of Manipura, all disciples of Narottama Ṭhākura. It is similar, Gaura Kiśore Dāsa Goswāmī, he had no disciple, we are told our Guru Mahārāja is the single, but Guru Mahārāja preached and gave it to many, many, many thousands.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi, Nitāi, Nitāi.

Aksayananda Mahārāja is caught tight, eh?

Devotee: Yes, he's editing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By special engagement.

Devotee: to understand, say when the madhyama-adhikarī, or maybe even kaniṣṭha-adhikarī accepts disciples, śiṣyas, then to what degree is he responsible for the removal of the śiṣya's karma, or does he have to accept a certain portion? How is that understood?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A man who begins business with a small capital, it is better that he should have connection with a higher capitalist, then he can go on well in his business.

Nitāi. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

As long as one is not wholesale established in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, he must have some connection with superior aim, then he will be safe.

maya ye kuliya jaya saranaja jaya sadhu guru krpa vina madhuki rupai ?

We are to fight face to face with māyā. It is very difficult to control māyā. Only with help from higher agency should be our last resource, resort.

Mama māyā duratyayā mām eva ye prapadyante,

(daivī hy eṣā guṇamayī, mama māyā duratyayā mām eva ye prapadyante, māyām etāṁ taranti te)

("This "trimodal," supernatural, (alluring) deluding energy of Mine is practically insurmountable. However, those who fully surrender exclusively unto Me can certainly surpass this formidable fantasy.")

Only His connection can dread māyā, daivī hy eṣā guṇamayī, it has got its backing from the higher quarter, this māyā. So individually if you attempt to cross the māyā, to keep her down, it is impossible. You must have some higher connection and with the help of that connection māyā will withdraw when she will see that you have got backing of the higher potency, or higher state, then she will withdraw, otherwise not. Individually you cannot fight and gain victory over māyā, it is not possible.

Daivī hy eṣā guṇamayī, mama māyā duratyayā, it is crossable, almost impossible to cross this illusion, illusory circle, play. Only when you're backed by proper angle of vision, then only it is possible. Otherwise you're within this conception and wherever you go you're within the boundary of māyā, little intense or less intense, but it is māyā. But whenever you really come in touch of the plane above māyā, from there, you can fight against māyā and māyā will withdraw. Daivī hy eṣā guṇamayī, mama māyā duratyayā, individual attempt is almost to meet failure, duratyayā.

Mām eva ye prapadyante, "When you surrender to Me, māyām etāṁ taranti te, "Who will surrender to Me, and you'll be insured of My help, then you'll be able to cross māyā."

Beyond māyā, some shelter beyond māyā from where you'll fight. A little space is necessary from where he will begin and continue his fight. So positive attainment, so sādhu, śāstra, help comes from above. And our attitude to accept that help on our part is necessary, from the inner plane of our heart we want to go out of māyā. Local interest, local interest, māyā means local interest. It is very difficult to get out of local interest. Proper universal interest, what it is, we do not know at all, no conception of universal interest clear to us at present. Local, that is extended, more extended, more extended, but it is all extended, local. In that way, āroha-panthā, in the empirical method, to get out of the local conception is impossible.

Devotee: Mahārāja, it's apparent and it's very clear that some persons who accept the śiṣya, who maybe perhaps are not ready, or they might even be ready, they have to undergo some physical difficulty or suffering because of accepting those disciples. What is the cause? That is because of karma isn't it?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow you. Some of lower level is seen to accept disciple ...

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But they are ...

Devotee: Afterwards there is some physical difficulties ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Physical difficulties are not to be considered.

Devotee: Not to be considered?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Physical difficulties not to be considered. And physical success is also not to be considered of much value. The large number of śiṣya, so the Guru will be greater, ha, no position there.

Devotee: No, I mean, for example, a person accepts many, like my Guru Mahārāja he said: "I am suffering some physical difficulty because of the pāpas of my śiṣyas. The sins of my disciples are causing me this suffering." So how is that explained?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Voluntarily he has accepted the responsibility of spiritual life of so many, but he is finding that their improvement is not satisfactory, so some disturbance at his heart. "I have taken their charge but I am not able to give them desirable improvement in life, in the spiritual life." So that is good symptom, para-duḥkha duḥkhi, the Vaiṣṇava, they have not got their own trouble, but they're troubled for others. Sanātana Goswāmī, his pranam mantra, Dāsa Goswāmī writes:

vairāgya-yug bhakti-rasaṁ prayatnair, apāyayam mām anabhipsum andham kṛpāmbudhir yaḥ para-duḥkha-dukhī, sanātanam taṁ prabhum āśrayāmi

"I surrender unto Śrī Sanātana Goswāmī, the ācārya of sambandha-jñāna. He is an ocean of mercy and is always unhappy to see the sufferings of others. Although I was blind, in the darkness of ignorance, he gave me the light of transcendental knowledge. He taught me the real meaning of detachment and made me drink the highest nectarine rasa of divine love." (Ragunātha Dāsa Goswāmī's Vilāpa-kuṣumāñjali, 6)

He has not got his own misery, mental trouble, but their mental trouble is this, that they see the pain of the others and that is difficult to tolerate, para-duḥkha-dukhī, sympathetic to the misery of others. This is a qualification of the Vaiṣṇava who live in madhyama-adhikara. They have not got trouble of their own but they're troubled by the pain of others, that they cannot ignore, from madhyama-adhikara.

Devotee: So that is not karma from the śiṣya ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not, yes, karma śiṣya, and he will have to assimilated, to digest some responsibility of the bad activity, undesirable activity of the śiṣya. He has got some responsibility to manage by instruction, "You do this, you do this." When a doctor has accepted a patient and the patient is under pain the doctor feels some trouble in his mind. "I have taken the charge of this patient and I can't remove his difficulty." Something, voluntary responsibility.

Devotee: But it's not, um(speaks Bengali)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is different types, or different stages. Some begins thoroughly on behalf of the high, "I have no responsibility, as much as I can I am doing." Does not take so much responsibility. "The responsibility is above, I'm doing my duty." With this openness of mind he may treat his disciples. Rather, if He wills it will be good any moment. Free doctor and family doctor. Family doctor cannot shake off the responsibility and a doctor from outside he may say: "If you like you can engage another doctor." Not so much earnest for the patient. "I'm not perfect, I cannot make him pure immediately, it is His will, I can give my quota." From the beginning with this attitude he may approach the patient, the disciple. The question of attitude, how much responsibility is taken. Hare Kṛṣṇa. A particular case of different type.

Devotee: So according to the Guru's degree of acceptance, accordingly there will be a different type of suffering, or different degrees of suffering?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is also, how much committed, that much reaction. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, what about the attachment which develops between the Guru and the disciple? He becomes attached to the disciple in the sense he wants the disciple to be freed or liberated, he wants the disciple to advance. So there is some attachment, not physical ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That depends on the stages of realisation of the disciple. Exclusive devotion must come from a disciple towards Guru. Yathā deve tathā gurau:

yasya deve parā bhaktir, yathā deve tathā gurau tasyaite kathitā hy arthāḥ, prakāśante mahātmanaḥ

"The key to success in spiritual life is unflinching devotion to both the spiritual master and Kṛṣṇa. To those great souls who have full faith in both Kṛṣṇa and the spiritual master, the inner meaning of the scriptures is fully revealed."

(Śvetāśvatara-Upaniṣad, 6.23)

His representative. I am giving search after divinity and wherever I find the connection I must try to concentrate all my energy towards that centre. And that is the key to success, because the other party is all conscious, all conscious. According to my attention the response will come to such degree. Everywhere there is centre, nowhere circumference. In every point there may be centre. To Prahlāda, everywhere there is centre. "Is you God in this pillar?" "Yes, He's here." And when demolished He came out

End of recording, 17/18.4.83.

(unclear recording for a short time)

Devotee: One time you told how Hitler dropped wax men from the aeroplane over Greece.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not Greece, but he anyhow, England apprehended that the next plane will by in England. But Hitler had some difference amongst his own group. There was one Hess, he was a great astronomer, he told: "If you go to the west we shall have good fortune, but if you go to the side of but Russia is a great force. But if you jump to England he may jump on us. So we must, without crushing Russia we should not jump to England." That was Hitler's opinion. But his group told him: "No. Here we have got non aggression pact, we should not disturb Russia, we must go to England." But Hitler did not care to hear that. So at that time Hitler wanted a truce with England. The Hess was sent there and as if came for an inspection and fell in this way he showed that there, but he was caught. Churchill was a very strong man, he did not care to have his proposal, he was put into prison, that Hess.

Now Hitler thought: "If I am to attack Russia then the way that allied party may give supply to Russia, that must be checked. So I want the island of Crete, just on the face of Dardanelles. If I can capture the Crete island then I shall have command over the Dardanelles channel." So he came to attack Greece and he was very much satisfied with the bravery of the Greek soldiers.

At that time also that Napoleonic expression came out in the paper, Napoleon told: "There will be no walls, go on." And Hitler told: "If any obstruction comes in your way, the arms, stand on you, blow it out." Napoleon told: "There will be no walls." And Hitler told: "Blow it out, if harm stands in your way blow it out."

Anyhow he came and captured Greece but he was satisfied with the bravery of the Greek soldiers and allowed the captives to keep swords with them in honour. "The Greek soldiers are great soldiers. I allow them to keep, the captain, the sword with him." In this way.

Then from Greece he jumped to the Crete. At that time the gliders and so many men made of wax, sham, made by men, that was managed to come down from the plane in parachute. And the French and the British, Americans also came by this time, they're also taken possession of that Crete island. But before Hitler's determination they had all to be deterred from that, that I saw, I noted. That these French, British, American, and the Crete, they all combined force in possession and Hitler wanted to enter there.

So first from gliders, gliders means like aeroplane from high position it's let lose and that only through the air it will come. And so many bombs and others they will burst and from injury to the soldiers in this way. Then of that wax imitation men he began to, and they all shoot them then after that they say: "Oh, this is imitation, not human being, human soldier." Then with first only all wax and then wax and men, real soldier and wax. In this way some in the guise of wax came down. And from the navy also he tried. Anyhow an intense fight you can imagine. They're in possession and they won't allow anyone to take it, and Hitler will surely take in this way. Anyhow they had to retire without capture the Crete island. Then England told: "Oh, the arrangement you made to attack England, that is all spent here. Then we are happy." What to speak England spoke like that: "Now those things would have been used against us to capture our island, that has all been lost in Crete. We are very happy for that."

After taking this then he filled up, went to attack Russia. But his real strategy was blitzkrieg, lightning war. Before the other party comes to give some opposition he's already finished. Such lightning speed he had and that was the success everywhere. But Russia was a vast land. His blitzkrieg, that lightning war, could not be successful there. They also gave opposition, great opposition. Then never breaking Russia at that time, then changing tactics, captains and leaders. Then big reputed captains also were not successful. Some from unknown quarter one general came, by name Boche, he broke the Russian lines. And suddenly within perhaps six hours, two-hundred miles entered into the Ukrain, that Mr Boche. At that time Stalin cried: "Oh, the hated contemptible enemy has entered into the heart of our land. Wherever you are all come up to resist the contemptible enemy." In this way he told.

Then there was a great fight there and the Germans came to after Kokesa, and by this time one Mr Rommel, he, just crossing France, he was the general, he made a truce with Hitler. And Darna (?) the navy captain, he went to French territory in Africa, but some British ambassador or someone, some agent he wanted to see Darna and when he saw, talking, gave a dagger into the throat of Darna and he died. And then Americans they landed there in French Africa, there they came. And the Rommel was fighting from after crossing that French channel went to Africa and through Africa he's progressing towards east. Rommel also came here very nearby Turkey, on the other side of Africa, Egypt. That great fight between the desert. And there Germans had air-cooled, air-conditioned tanks and these soldiers they're exposed to the dry hot weather, summer season, and that desert, and they're protected in air-conditioned tanks and they're exposed in the summer. So hard fight.

But Hitler also came here after Kokesha (?) and he told: "I want Stalingrad." But Russia gave great resistance there in Stalingrad.

They're capturing the ground floor, naturally one thinks that the whole building captured, but no. Every floor, every room, they have to take possession by fighting. So their soldiers almost going to be finished in Stalingrad. In the war of Stalingrad that changed the, turning. And America came to help by this time by money, men, by food, by weapons, by dress, even by shoe I noted, America came to help Russia.

In the this side, Japan, s/he independently began war this side and the British had to go to meet with Japan. They're also very brave soldiers the Japanese. At that time the military experts declared: "That in the whole world the most bravest soldiers are the Japanese." They had to announce. Hitler also told: "If I have to learn anything to learn from Japan the suicidal squad they have got." The one navy, two big navies for the east they spared by the British, I forgot the name, one big navy Japan sent only some soldiers with some high explosives in their armpits and jumped through the chimney and that navy was lost. And there British by that policy that suicidal soldiers with in the armpit they come flying anyhow and enter into the death. They go within the chimney and they're burst and the whole big navy that is destroyed. In this way two big navies, one navy means many ships, many planes, many lifeboats, a mix of many one navy. Two navies here were destroyed and the British had to come back. And Subash Bosh Netaji (?) at that time the soldiers that were captured already to the British of the Japanese, they collected them and began war against the British there. In this way from east they had to come back, Japan.

But Japan did not attack Russia. It is my thinking that if Japan also attacked Russia at that time then Russia would have to succumb. But Hitler was finished there fighting with Russia and then the British was saved, fortunately the British were saved. Otherwise these men from Norway, Sweden was neutral, though Norway came under the fist of Hitler, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France, the whole side that came under Hitler. Then Italy, the Mussolini joined him, Italy, Greece, all came under Hitler, the whole east Europe came under Hitler. Finland only joined Hitler but fought with Russia but could not be successful there. But Hitler came after Kokesa (?)

and thought: "Rommel will come from this side, northern African side, and here they will come and meet and come to India. And the Japan will also come to meet India before, the Japan and Hitler will come and meet in India." That was their proposal and plan.

But there is an Indian proverb:

na vidyan na va kotvan, bhagan sarati sarvata, na vidyan na va kotvan,

"Fate is the ultimate thing, and neither one's valour nor learning, fate is above."

So Hitler told: "I am not defeated by anyone but I am defeated by my destiny." Napoleon told: "Hitler was defeated by his destiny." Gandhi remarked: "The bravest soldier, the unparalleled organiser," and also four adjectives at that time was given by Gandhi. "The organiser, the bravest soldier, and the greatest unique organiser." And the other two I forget, he told for Hitler. Afterwards Hitler will be, now the historians are envious, just as Hannibal, Julius Caesar, Alexander, and Napoleon, all great generals. And next I told Hitler with new type of battle, that mechanised battle, and also V2. This rocket they're showing so much valour of rocket but it was first shown by Hitler. From Germany V2 was thrown against England from the lower portion of the earth something sprung and came forth and it hit the proper place in England, V2. After that was transformed by the Russians and rocket, America also did it privately. But when French and English came to fight against Egypt at that time Russia told from background: "Now there is rocket then Dallas (?) was at that time foreign minister of America, and Eden foreign minister of England. They came to side with this Suez canal affair. Russia helped this ..... and they came to help the king, king was overthrown by

Anyhow that announcement of Russia that there is rocket, that Dallas as well as Eden they withdrew from

At that time we came to understand that a rocket has been prepared. Then Russia first sent men into the space (1961), Yuri Gagarin, he was the first man to go into the sky and when he came down one old Russian lady asked him: "Have you seen God? You went so far in the sky, heaven, have you seen God?" Hatefully he told that: "Oh, you do not know, the God is carrying our, like horse, carrying our carriage. We have engaged Him in our service." He ignored Him, not in the heaven. That was the answer of Yuri Gagarin to that and I encouraged them to utilise them in my lecture.

Hitler once told that he, this I have told in many places. That clever and industrious clever and lazy, stupid and industrious stupid and lazy. I rely on these four sections.

Clever and industrious, from this class I in the army department or any department, clever as well as industrious. And lazy and industrious I take them and put them on the head of the department, lazy and industrious. This is the peculiar thing. And stupid and lazy if I out of necessity I can give some sort of engagement. But I always keep me far away from stupid and industrious, they do much things but all to be demolished length and breadth. I always used this quotation and quote these expressions in my lecture.

The stupid and industrious you are all, you karmis you are digging your own grave, you are all stupid and industrious. And Hitler rejected that. So you consider your position, your own energy is going against you, the karmi class are stupid and industrious. You are very busy, not just about nothing, but something against you. In this way I used to read newspaper but I used them, utilised them in my lectures. So Madhava Mahārāja told once that: "Śrīdhara Mahārāja, his reading of newspaper and this Veda is one and the same, because he can utilise everything of the present world, incidents of the present world in hari-kathā. He used them anyhow quoting, he utilises them for Mahāprabhu's service. So his going through newspaper is as equal as well as going through the Veda." So I read somewhat it is true I observed and gathered and mostly I can use some way or other to talk about Mahāprabhu.

That Hitler's classification.

Then one gentleman told karmi is stupid and industrious. And stupid and lazy this is jñāni, they want the full retirement sāyujya mukti, they're stupid and lazy. And clever and industrious are the Vaiṣṇavas, they're clever and industrious, they're always busy but their activity does not go in vain, producing something good. And clever and lazy is Kṛṣṇa, clever and lazy. He's only enjoying, only His sweet will enjoying, enjoying.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Gaura Hari.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Obligation to the environment cannot be avoided. So go swiftly to Kṛṣṇa, that becomes necessary. His gift is possible there otherwise it's very hard to ignore the obligation but be true to the environment of different relations.

The approach, that comes, there is Vṛndāvana just as here, otherwise wholesale is not possible. the obligation to the environment is shown to be external, and internal aspect maybe regarded.....

manye te detroparpo sridhar maya ca kalpate ?

"That is the root of all. Generally if anyone commits sin, does wrong, but if it is for Me it is all right. All these arrangements are made only to promote everything towards Me, towards the centre."

"On the whole we must keep it in mind by hook or by crook anyone, everything must tend towards Me. Must try their best to satisfy their obligation to Me. I am the centre. What shall I say, oh Arjuna, you are My best friend, at least I won't deceive you, I won't cheat you. So I say to you the plain truth, I am all in all, do everything for Me. Worship Me, love Me, work for Me, know Me, everything, I am all in all in this world, in this universe, in this creation, in this absolute existence I am all. This is the naked truth. So I am not cheating you oh Arjuna, you are My friend. What to do?

I am all. This is the long and short, the substance of everything. So do everything for Me, that is positive otherwise it cannot but fetch negative value. All the duties, religions, spiritual truths that have been given out to the world, everything meaning only this. I am everything. Everything for Myself. I am advaya-jñāna, the Absolute. So your only necessity is to have Me, to get Me. Anyhow come to Me by hook or by crook. I'm your best friend, I am best friend of you all, that is My constitutional position, I am all in all of everyone.

I am not bankrupt that if I can bear some love to anybody the other body will be in want, will be deceived, not any apprehension like this. I am infinite, I am infinite, I can satisfy all, everyone to his fullest taste. That is My position. I am infinite not bankrupt. So I respond to your call at the same time I cannot be present to attend him, third man, no. That question does not occur here. I can give engagement to everybody to his fullest satisfaction and even maybe the infinite in number I can have corresponding phase to co-operate with them to the fullest. That is My Kṛṣṇa consciousness and in the plane of sincere love.

The type, the purity of love what you may have in My connection you cannot conceive here in this mundane world. In the mundane world which you know here in the name of love that is lust, that is very lower thing, worst thing, that is the worst thing, and its highest phase is when it is applied to Me. Prema and kāma, kāma andhatamaḥ, dense darkness is the lust which we find here, both male and female, and we say it is love but it is not love at all it is lust."

kāma-andhatamaḥ, prema-nirmala bhāskara)

("There is a gulf of difference between lust and love; lust is dense darkness, love is the brightest sun." Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.171)

"And love is really in My domain, you have not any taste of that. It is something like similar but not same. The corresponding highest phase of the lust is love divine. That is the fulfilment of the life of every unit here, love is the prema. Energy can produce knowledge and its duty ends there, karma.

If our energy can produce as its result the knowledge then it is finished. And knowledge if it can guide to the door of love divine knowledge finished. Its duty only to take to the door of the domain of love, this is all, then the life of knowledge is finished. And we are offered under the care of the loving land, no knowledge is necessary there. All taking care of everyone and specially the Lord. There is a life of that type. This was shown by Bhāgavatam and Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu.

When (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja went to take this news of tidings to the west and he attracted so much in some way or other they have come here in that capital to live. Some book distributing, some preaching, some printing, in many affairs they're engaged but the object is that, you may not forget the purpose behind. Wherever we engage ourselves the end, the purpose of our life is to try to go to that domain, that plane of life.

This is the general characteristic of this Gauḍīya siddhānta of Mahāprabhu. Gauḍīya means this Gauḍīya darśana, the ontological vision. That was evolved in Gauḍīya, Gaur means Bengal, the Dhāma of Śrī Caitanyadeva, the place of advent of Śrī Caitanyadeva that is known as Gaur, Bengal, Gaur means Bengal, in general, which was evolved there in Navadvīpa Dhāma. The culture that was given by Navadvīpa, in other words by Śrī Caitanyadeva in the line of Bhāgavatam which has its birth in Badarikāśrama and is again revised in pristine Upi. All Gaur, panca gaur, the whole ajavat (?) from Himalaya the southern portion of India is known as Gaur, five Gaur, and that is really proper Gaur here in Bengal. Bengal Vaiṣṇavism that means that was given by Śrī Caitanyadeva, the Bengal Vaiṣṇavism. That is Gauḍīya darśana, the philosophy, the ontological truth of the whole, where we are, what we are, what is our fulfilment, how to attain that fulfilment, all these principal questions of life in everyone was answered in that He supplied in the Bengal school of philosophy.

Just as Roman Catholic, Roman is the geographical reference but really it came from Arabia, Jesus was born in Arabia. But anyhow propaganda was extensively took place from Rome about Christianity. And by the catholics, catholic means very generous, catholic not narrow, very generous to give it to the whole of the world, catholic. And Protestant, there catholic, they're generous in their faith, most extensive, and Protestant they've modified the faith by their reason more or less, so narrowed down, faith was narrowed down by the reason. They're Protestant, they came to protest again, faith, free faith. Of course there might have been abuse of the faith in the name of faith many things were undesirable might have been preached in the name of faith.

So a party came as Protestant, we protest against your, what you preach in the name of faith, what you do in the name of faith. There was some moral degradation amongst the Catholics, especially with the event of confession. Confession, that process is good, but by confession they came to such a position that they had to abuse, they had to degrade their position. So the Protestant they wanted that this confession ceremony must be omitted. There was the sannyāsīns, and ladies at the time of confession their weakness they used to mention and thereby they got some chance of mixing familiarly with them. So the confession which is meant for noble purpose, 'we want to give out everything that is within all sinful thoughts to give outside and not to indulge them again, give them entrance again.' With that purpose the confession:

mat-tulyo nāsti pāpātmā, nāparādhī ca kaścana parihāre 'pi lajjā me, kiṁ bruve puruṣottama

"My Lord, I feel ashamed. How shall I offer You so many pure things like flowers? Generally, pure things are offered to You, but what about me? I have come with the most filthy thing to offer You. I feel ashamed. I have come to You, with only my shame, to beg for Your mercy. There is no parallel to my sinful, criminal life. Everything that can be conceived of as bad is found in me. It is very difficult even to speak about the characteristics of my heinous sins and crimes. Still, Your nature, existence, fame, and benevolence cannot but attract me. You can save me. You can purify me. Hoping against hope, I have come to You. And I have only one solace, that I am the real object of Your mercy. Your tendency is to purify the meanest. Those who are the most needy have some claim to Your mercy. I am the worst of the needy and the meanest of the mean. This is my only qualification, my only hope to attract your attention and appeal to Your magnanimity." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.154)

I am the meanest of the mean and You are the noblest of the noble.
Please deliver me, take me, give me admission

He put step after step, and the Vṛndāvana, the plane is feeling the ecstasy, the joy of ramana sukha, vṛndāranyaṁ sva-pada-ramanaṁ:

barhāpīḍaṁ naṭa-bara-vapuḥ karnayoḥ karnikāraṁ bibrad vāsaḥ kanaka-kapiśaṁ vaijayantīn ca mālāṁ randhrān venoradhara-sudhayā purayan gopavṛndair vṛndāranyaṁ sva-pada-ramanaṁ prāviśad gīta-kīrtiḥ

"While the gopīs were describing the sweet vibration of Kṛṣṇa's flute, they also remembered their pastimes with Him; thus their minds became enchanted, and they were unable to describe completely the beautiful vibrations. While discussing the transcendental vibration, they remembered also how Kṛṣṇa dressed, decorated with a peacock feather on His head, just like a dancing actor, and with blue flowers pushed over His ear. His garment glowed yellow-gold, and He was garlanded with a vaijayantī garland made of tulasī, kuṇḍa, mandāra, parījāta, and lotus flowers. Dressed in such an attractive way, Kṛṣṇa filled up the holes of His flute with the nectar emanating from His lips. So they remembered Him, entering the forest of Vṛndāvana, whose soil experiences the pleasure of consorhood upon being embraced by the touch of Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.21.5)

The highest form of ecstasy which we find, by the touch of the foot of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the land is feeling fulfilled in its satisfaction of heart, as if he has got so much pleasure, joy, happiness, forgets himself. So every touch is like that.

Opulence, no want, and no calculation, desirable things very ample. Infinite. Where all accommodating. We are told of that goal of our life. So first thing we must have to leave the, however it may be, the charm for this gross world, and must be ready to make journey towards that. And the second, there are so many proposals from so many religious conceptions. After this in eternal life you get this kind of heaven, this kind of heaven, that these things will be allowed you, for your good livelihood. And there is a comparison, and in that comparison we shall have to select that Kṛṣṇa conception, the Vṛndāvana conception.

That is the supreme most, that is the duty of ISKCON to prove to the world. The Supreme most destination and fulfilment of life is only to be found in Vṛndāvana. It is unparalleled. You are to understand this and make your journey towards that without caring for any loss or gain in this plane of our life. This is what ISKCON wants to say, Swāmī Mahārāja wanted to say, and Mahāprabhu wanted to say. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the last treatise of Vyāsadeva wanted to say.

The land of divine love, we are inhabitant of the land of divine love. Highest fulfilment of life we can only have there. So all of you who want to help your own self from self sincerely, necessarily you will have to come to hear us. We are trying our best to make you all understand that the Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead, that is the highest attainment of all existence, what so ever.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Are you in the service or business? Newcomer. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Hearing from me, but are you able to gather something? To get something? Much. Of course it is admirable because my lecture is generally very sweet.

Devotee: Of high type.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. You are attracted by what aspect of Kṛṣṇa Consciousness?

ISKCON. You have joined ISKCON attracted by what aspect of it's preaching? Can you say? Kṛṣṇa consciousness. But it was in Gujarat, the Vallabhi sampradāya

They also deal with Kṛṣṇa consciousness. But it is up to date, and that is in old fashion. Kṛṣṇa consciousness was known to India before ISKCON, but from ISKCON, you have got the up to date nature of preaching.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Are you satisfied with your present life? What you have understood, how to continue the life? What sort of life we live. First vegetarian, then next, that Kṛṣṇa is the only Supreme Lord, all are subordinate. Then how to attain Him.

Devotee: Chant sixteen rounds.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Taking through the sound divine and how one should take the name. The name Vaikuṇṭha, the name divine, and the name mundane. The ten offences, avoiding that. What is the nature of the divine name taking? Sevonmukhe, serving, with serving attitude, that is the very life of spiritual existence, serving. Here, we're filled up fully with the energy of exploitation, without exploitation we cannot maintain our existence here.

ahastāni sahasṭānām, apadāni catuṣpadām laghuni tatra mahatām, jīvo jīvasya jīvanam

"Those who are devoid of hands are prey for those who have hands; those devoid of legs are prey for the four-legged. The weak are the subsistence of the strong, and the general rule holds that one living being is food for another."

The handed animal they're living on the flesh of non handed, ahastāni sahasṭānām, apadāni catuṣpadām. And the four legged animals they're living on the non legged animals, and the big is devouring the small. So a man's living means lākhs (100,000) of animals he's devouring, using as his food. Either vegetable or non vegetable. So without exploitation none can live here, and exploitation means it has its reaction. To every action there is equal and opposite reaction. We are disturbing the existence of the environment to maintain this body, mind, and the reaction must come to me. I shall have to go down, and they will come to exploit me.

ābrahma-bhuvanāl lokāḥ, punar āvartino 'rjuna mām upetya tu kaunteya,
punar janma na vidyate

"O Arjuna, from the planet of Lord Brahmā downwards, the residents of all planets are naturally subjected to repeated birth and death. But, O Kaunteya, upon reaching Me, there is no rebirth." (Bhagavad-gītā, 8.16)

So going up and down, up and down. How to get out of the tendency of this exploitation. By renunciation, Śaṅkara, Buddha, they say about, recommend about renunciation, wholesale renunciation. And thereby the soul is reduced to some zero, as we are in our deep sleep. In deep sleep we have no existence, we don't feel anything of our existence. They say here is the limit of life. We can meet successfully a life of exploitation only with the life of renunciation.

But the third school, Vaiṣṇava, they say no, renunciation is no solution, real solution is in service. We are, our soul is real unit of service and the mind has come to become a member of the world of exploitation. The mind, this ego, must be dissolved, and the inner soul we shall be able to find, through help of the saints, that there is the seed of serving unit, that wherever we shall be, we shall not exploit, but we shall render services. It is possible in the plane of soul and that service as duty, considered as duty, we shall be in Vaikuṇṭha, in the Nārāyaṇa-loka hemisphere, lower half.

And the full globe, Goloka means solid circle. In the fullest conception of the Absolute existence, there the loving service. All unit, serving unit, different gradation, and their remuneration is also according to that, but all serving unit, and there spontaneous, automatic service. Everyone is depositing money in the bank but no cheque, to take money from the bank. All directed towards Kṛṣṇa but without any expectation from Him. So automatically they get the remuneration that their tendency is to serve is gradually improved. Service and the reaction, improvement of serving nature. In this way it is going on there. Our loving service, sacrifice for the environment, and the centre is Kṛṣṇa, Reality the Beautiful. satyam sivam sundaram. The truth. Then it is above mortality, sivam, but to enjoy and then, sundaram, all capturing sweetness, harmony.

In a nutshell this is so, and Śrīmad Bhāgavatam announces this truth. The last book of Vedavyāsa who has given all different types of religious conceptions in India, and Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu has given that in toto. Come and take through the sound cultivation. Vaikuṇṭha Nama, but the name must be Vaikuṇṭha, must be infinite character, otherwise only the sound has no value. A homeopathic globule, it must be judged with the potency and not the figure outside. So the Name Kṛṣṇa that must be surcharged with real spirit within, and not the sound only, which can be produced by the lips, and by a machine also. The sound, there must be present the very gist, the very life, so it is necessary to take it from Gurudeva. Otherwise we can hear from here, there, and everywhere. Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, what is the necessity of hearing it from Gurudeva? Because that sound is surcharged with some particular potency which is in the consciousness of Śrī Gurudeva, in heart of Śrī Gurudeva, and we are to cultivate that, and that will sprout and fulfil my demand of all my heart.

In this way the sound cultivation, the name, the sound, namarka, the physical aspect of the sound, and the internal gist of the sound, which is represented in the sound, this is māyā, which the ear can grasp. But our heart, the śrāddha, the soul can grasp, souls food must be there, not only ears food, some music, or some harsh words, Kṛṣṇa, not that.

It is within and that must be developed by our serving attitude, in connection with a proper saint whose soul influence may come, enter into my heart, and rouse my soul consciousness to that type, which is fit for that type.

This is underlying this nāma bhajan, nāma saṅkīrtana in Kali-yuga especially, congregational, offensive for offensive. From different forces from the environment, from the four walls are coming to influence me, but I create saṅkīrtana, that will attack the force of the environment. Congregational chanting to attack offensive for offensive. Go on with loud sound of the Lord otherwise all things may be stopped. This will bring the best benefit for us all.

These industrial things, research laboratory, all these things, these things, mundane body, the whole world will be crushed and vanish in the infinite one day. So this civilisation and it's paraphernalia, all not only useless but it is harmful, for every soul. It is not fruitful or distributing welfare for any perception. All māyā.

The whole world, the whole universe will vanish, that all the scientists also admit that. Again it may come, again it may go. And the soul is eternal factor within us, and we are there. Our proper self is there in the soul, not in the mind which also changes, the body also changes, but soul is eternal factor. And there is another eternal plane where the soul is really a member of that plane.

Anyhow, misguided, we have come here, fallen souls, fallen means, who has come to search for their specific pleasure, satisfaction. Either pleasure for his own, or a particular group, extended selfishness. Country lover, or society lover, or nation lover, that is all for extended selfishness. All these things must be left and we merge in the souls original harmony. For that the whole energy, because only in human form is it possible to do something, but if I die, next moment I may be posted somewhere else, where I may not have any connection with the Kṛṣṇa consciousness. I may be a tree, I may be a beast, I may be an insect. It is not sure that after this human life, where I shall be posted, it is uncertain. So this human life as long as I live, I must try to utilise to it's best without caring for any other interest.

pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ

"Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair." (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66)

That clarion call. "Give up everything, you are wholesale Mine, you come to Me, I shall look after you."

Bāl Gaṅgādhara Tīlak, he has written in his commentary, in this śloka, there the last: "The Lord has served nectar on a golden plate."

"Wherever you are posted it does not matter, you immediately leave your duty and join Me, I shall look after you."

Devotee: How can we surrender to Kṛṣṇa ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is possible only with the help of scripture, especially living scripture, that is living sādhu, saint, agent, who can guide me well to that. So guru means that divine agent, where we can place our confidence that he will guide us there, safely, that is guru. It is not a fashion but a necessary demand of the craving soul, craving souls demand, first demand is gurudeva, the guide who will take me there. For so many things to disturb me of different types, they will try, "Oh come to me, come to me, come to me." So many things in the world of experience. But avoiding all, to follow him, and of course by judging, not blind following, but conscious following. Dismissing everything by judging, this is bad, this is bad. And faith will develop and he will know his own, the soil of it's own nature, intuitively. Without calculation there is intuition which even defeats human calculation. So many animals and birds are there, that they can understand which the human scientific brain cannot do, that intuitive knowledge, that will help him, faith. Na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati:

pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

"O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated." (Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40)

Those that are well meaning, wants to, 'God helps those that help themselves,' who are sincere, want to help him, from that side, that is not a dead matter, all conscious, all knowing, omniscient. Help will come from that side to guide us.

Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Ahaṅkāra of different types, ego of different types, for the service of Kṛṣṇa, that is all welcome, no harm, rather that is necessary part.

One devotee of Mahāprabhu sang the poem in this way, "What should I, praying, praying, of Mahāprabhu. He made, by the least attempt, making the people singing and dancing, from iron He made them gold.

Only the simple method, process of singing and dancing, the most easy thing, through singing and dancing He converted the iron into gold. What charm. Iron became converted into gold, only through the process of singing and dancing. Dance in the name of Kṛṣṇa.

You'll be converted to Kṛṣṇa Dāsa. The disease will be cured forever. Try to dance and sing. By the simple and sweet method He converted the whole world. That goal of life, how beautiful, how reasonable it is.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Another devotee also: "What greatness. Where shall we find such a friend of the fallen? Who else is there, in finding the fallen souls He began to cry, began to weep and cry aloud, 'save the fallen souls.' So magnanimous heart. Mahāprabhu has gone. There is none who will cry whenever meeting any fallen souls. Who will be kind enough to the fallen, the needy? Who is there within, who will cry at the..... Mahāprabhu cried aloud seeing the condition of the fallen souls. "Oh you are so adorable to Kṛṣṇa and you are in such a wretched position." He could not tolerate. "With the simple process of singing and dancing He made gold out of iron." Magical.

Do you know this śloka ?

Devotee: No, we have heard you quote it many times but we don't know the meaning.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

mahāprabhu gaura prema vilas sad niskincana bhaktivinoda nama ?

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura constructed a small building in Purī and the name given bhakti kutir. Perhaps that ISKCON has taken there a tablet fixed in the wall on the front, the śloka composed by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura about his home.

gaura prabhu prema vilas ?

This is the place where Mahāprabhu showed His pastimes of Divine love. This is the land where for a long time Mahāprabhu displayed Himself here, union in separation with Kṛṣṇa, inundated this place, with that śloka.

niskincana bhaktivinoda nama

One man who was Bhaktivinoda by name, he lived in this quarter.

gopī stitu bhakti prati prakasti ?

Some person, some unknown person, where his name was Bhaktivinoda, he used to live in a room in this small building for some time.

And he tried to lose himself, always in the memory of, and taking the name, and trying to meditate and merge in the pastimes of Murari. Someone lived here by the name Bhaktivinoda, in a room in this quarter, and he tried his best to pass his days in the memory and the Name of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Sometime lived here.

gaura prabhu prema vilas bhaumu niskincana bhaktivinoda nama gopī stitu bhakti prati na kasti ?

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura tried his best for which, one day he went to the shores of the sea and began to roll there, "Oh my Lord, none will come to this response of my appeal. All in deaf ears. So I have failed in my attempt to try to get the people to take Your Name. No I find that now please order me, the rest of my life I shall pass only taking Your Holy Name. Please give me such order."

The golden sand bed, rolling, he told like this, sincerely.

Generally when the time comes to get away from this world, for the great men, they at last find such disappointment. They feel that 'what I wanted to do, I could not do, now nearly my duties finished, please take me up, recall me.'

Devotee: Did he go to Kurukṣetra after that Mahārāja, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, after Jagannātha Purī, he went to Kurukṣetra?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Last he went to Vṛndāvana, and Kurukṣetra also. And coming from Kurukṣetra we heard from Guru Mahārāja (Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura), he stressed his opinion that: "I thought that I should live in my later days in Vṛndāvana, but now I find that Kurukṣetra is the highest place. Because the degree of separation is very high there. There is Kṛṣṇa, there is the gopīs, getting, they have got, but they can't meet, and get, so separation in the highest intense degree."

Vision is there with both parties there but still they can't mix, they cannot give and take. So at that time, the asraya vigraha, the serving party, for long time they're in separation, they're eager to serve, and the object of their service is also at the front, but still they're not getting the chance to serve. The highest separation feeling is there, and when the asraya vigraha, the higher servitors, they're in that position, the greatest pangs they're feeling, at that time their service is most, do you follow?

At the time of war the contractors they can make much money. According to the necessity, dire necessity. Thy necessity is greater than mine. That Sidney, he has become immortal, because in the war-field dearth of water, no water available, mostly the wounded soldiers are complaining they're thirsty, but anyhow one glass of water came for Sidney, he was a volunteer soldier, and he was a big scholar. He wanted soldier, the wounded, one glass anyhow came to him and another soldier, side by, "I want water."

He patiently handed over the water towards him, "Thy necessity is greater than mine, your wound is greater, blood passing from you, you take." The value of water, price of water according to the degree of necessity.

So at that time Rādhārāṇī and other gopīs, They're at the highest condition of separation pangs. "There is our Lord and we can't approach Him, for long aspired service, we can't."

That the zenith of their aim of separation, but that need, we shall try to live there, thereby we shall given to again. In short time we shall gain very much by their benediction. The least service at that time will fetch greatest remuneration from our masters. If we can serve them anyhow we can, or supply any water or anything, any service. So Kurukṣetra is the place of highest vipralambha, separation. There we must, at the time of Their need, we must go to serve there.

"So Kurukṣetra I have selected, that I shall construct a cottage in Kurukṣetra near that great place and I shall pass my days there."

But Mahāprabhu's will was otherwise, when he was about to start that side. "Oh where are you going? My birthplace is unknown and you are to discover them, you are to discover the service, you are to do. So you must not go to Vṛndāvana, or Kurukṣetra. You must remain here and discover My birthplace with some devotees, you do that."

He retired, again he took the service, and Kṛṣṇa naga, Kṛṣṇa naga he took again, entered into the service and began to investigate the old documents, maps, other papers, and consult the old books, how it has been related about the place. In this way he tried to find and also he got some vision, he aspired after some vision, some mysterious vision where it was at that time. Two types, Navadvīpa side, and from Godrum, from the books he could trace, suddenly light and there the saṅkīrtana going on. Next morning he went there and tried to find location under some palm tree, in a vision he traced

End of side A of tape - start of side B - 23,24-4-83

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: atmosphere and saṅkīrtana going on, in evening and morning he went and anyhow managed to...

Devotee: Did Jagannātha Dāsa Bābājī help?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jagannātha Dāsa Bābājī he was too much old and one Behari Dāsa Bābājī he carried Jagannātha Dāsa Bābājī in a basket. He went to see the place of Mahāprabhu's advent and suddenly he went: "Oh just get me down." And he told: "Here you begin to dig, you please dig." The Kāzī (Chānd Kāzī -the Mohammedan magistrate) came and broke the mṛdaṅga and that occurred here. So we are told that that place was dug, and the pieces of that mṛdaṅga, broken parts, were found there, that was nearby Śrīvāsa anga.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Balavidhi ? is there Balav capital, his palace was there and that is in dilapidated condition

Balavidhi ? and Chānd Kāzī samādhi, these three things there cannot be challenged, but that was the, found, located there, that part.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura.

Devotee: And that Lal Bahurda Shastri, the prime minister, Swāmī Mahārāja he gave him one Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, his translation and he very much appreciated.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was a religious minded man, so called, a follower of Gandhi. He was a very strict man. One yogi he used to mix with Indira Gandhi, and taking the advantage of that he used to do much to, he should not go to try to utilise the government, different departments, because he considered himself to be a favourite of Indira and Indira she reported so he enjoyed the quarter in Houli hanuman yog ?

Perhaps I started the Gauḍīya Maṭh in Bengal, nearby there. And he resentfully did not care to pay the rent and none could approach to him to collect the rent, for that

I asked him to vacate that house but he willingly he did not. And he ordered, take all his things and throw them on the street, that was done. Then that yogi, what is his name? that yogi was forced to give something, a very strict man, Lal Bahurda.

different forms of asanas ? and so many things.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Anyhow Indira Gandhi supports to certain extent, different religious conceptions and encouraged them very much.

The communists, they're dead against any conception of religion. Death of Indian civilisation and culture. They want to convert the Indian culture into Russian atheistic conception, most deplorable life. There not even the jurisdiction of senses, physical senses, nothing beyond and what's to be, that are forcing, to push this populace opinion to anyone and everyone, injection, trying to, hopeless, the poorest conception of pluralising? (or humanising?) of ideal. Poor in culture, the poorest.

Plain living, high thinking, generally this is recommended to the simple folk. Plain living and high thinking is there, rationality is there.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi
Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Nimāi Prabhu was telling us that the communists, some of them liked Caitanya, but they only liked Caitanya because they think that He was a revolutionary also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The first revolution, that was found here in India, especially Bengal, was started by Caitanya, revolution and also civil disobedience, in the Kāzī. The government representative, he announced that: "No saṅkīrtana will be held here, this is my ruling."

But Mahāprabhu did not care for that, He organised a big saṅkīrtana party and conducted it to the quarter of Kāzī. With this civil disobedience to the government order.

That was first started by Caitanya, and revolutionary in every way. The brāhmaṇas, they're very much particular about the caste distinction, but Mahāprabhu did not care for that. Any caste may be, even outside Hindu, even Muslims, if they come prepared with sincere regard for Kṛṣṇa, they should be taken in. Whereas so called brāhmaṇas, if they do not have proper conception of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, they must be left in.

And social construction also revolutionary was inaugurated by Caitanya

Deva and in political field also, He first started this civil disobedience, without any weapon, to go against the order of the law. Of these two things, they say regarding Caitanya, He's the father of all revolution, first revolution and civil disobedience to the government order. So I
"and we don't like His Kṛṣṇa consciousness."

Devotee: They can't understand that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Can't understand that, that is a mild statement, we want to uproot it, that was His malady, madness, we can't accommodate it.

Devotee: "Anyone who wants to may remain, otherwise they may go Śrī Śeṣasayi Viṣṇu. Abhay arrived in Mathurā by train from Allahabad and approached Gosthi? by rikshaw. The countryside was full of charm for Abhay. Instead of factories and large buildings there were forests and aside from the main paved road on which he travelled there were only dirt roads and soft sandy lanes. As a Vaiṣṇava, Abhay felt sensations an ordinary man could not. Now and then he sighted a peacock in the trees.....

Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura stayed in the evening for the last time and would be leaving the parikramā party the next day. So there was the choice of going on the parikramā staying for few lectures of Śrīla Prabhupāda. (Bhaktivedānta Swāmī). So I made them enkoshi? And Keśava Mahārāja was informing that Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta is going to Mathurā tomorrow morning and he will speak hari-kathā. Please remain."

Not that time Keśava Mahārāja, but at that time he was Vinod Babu.

Devotee: Yes, but Prabhupāda, Bhaktivedānta Swāmī, he is saying this sixty years later. He's saying at that time Keśava Mahārāja, because this time, by now he's no longer Vinod Babu, now he's Keśava Mahārāja. Just like if you said, when he was three years old Śrīdhāra Mahārāja ate a mango, but when he was three years old he wasn't Śrīdhāra Mahārāja. Just like if you say when my mother was five, when your mother was five she was not a mother, but you will say when my mother was five. He is saying that Keśava Mahārāja, here at the time of parikramā he was not Keśava Mahārāja but Vinod Babu. So how is it that he is saying here that during the parikramā Keśava Mahārāja said something?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not accurate representation.

Devotee: But I'm saying that it's like if I say.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It's like they say Abhay Caran, and it's said that Prabhupāda, or Swāmī Mahārāja. In one side he's taking the previous course and another side the present.

Devotee: I was saying that if I say when my mother was five, so she is my mother, I give some respect, I'm calling her my mother, but when she was five years old.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: My mother before her marriage, I may say. It is clear my mother before her marriage if she was reading in that school.

Devotee: But at that time.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She was not mother. That must be expressive. There's the possibility of misconception.

Devotee: Yes, the possibility of misconception.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When Prabhupāda (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) was here, Keśava Mahārāja did not take sannyāsa, during his presence, Keśava Mahārāja did not take sannyāsa.

Devotee: Yes, so it is out of context.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So it is creating complex, perplexing, misunderstanding. Prabhupāda was living but the whole time Keśava Mahārāja was Vinoda Babu. After Prabhupāda's disappearance, after three or four years, after his disappearance he took sannyāsa from me and then he became Keśava Mahārāja. So it is misleading.

Devotee: Misleading representation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: At the same time he's representing his Gurudeva in his previous name. That is also less quoted. Our Guru Mahārāja in his previous life, to represent that. My mother as you say, while in the distant, my mother in her youth she did like that. My Gurudeva in his previous life did like that, he did this. Your example will come to this standard, my mother, my Gurudeva, you are to represent in that point very easily. In the place of his Gurudeva he is giving, making this in his previous life. And another at the same time he's representing Keśava Mahārāja.

Devotee: Yes. So that is contradiction.

Devotee: "He found that Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta is going to Mathurā"

Devotee: So, I have one question: when we're making a book, when we're editing one book, when we refer, at the time when we are writing one book, sometimes a reference is made to Bhaktisiddhānta

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sometimes we use present tense sometimes past tense.....

Devotee: Yes, but my question is that sometimes you will say Śrīla Prabhupāda, you refer to Bhaktisiddhānta as Śrīla Prabhupāda. But if we write Śrīla Prabhupāda in our book the American devotees they're thinking that this Śrīla Prabhupāda is Bhaktivedānta Swāmī, so this creates confusion. So we want to know how we should represent Bhaktisiddhānta?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, all the disciples of Bhaktisiddhānta Ṭhākura, they gave some opposition to this custom. Because our Guru Mahārāja he gave respect to Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, no name to bhakti, if anyone was in the name of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, he ignored him, he could not tolerate that Bhaktivinoda may be title of any other. He was so particular about his own Gurudeva. So all the descendants of Bhaktisiddhānta Ṭhākura, they wanted that Prabhupāda, this name, should be reserved for their Guru Mahārāja, as you do.

Jaya Tīrtha, Bhāvānanda, they do not take the name of Prabhupāda. Why? For special respect to their Guru, his Prabhupāda means Abhay Caran is Prabhupāda and no other Ācārya, and their disciple also won't call them by that name. Jaya Tīrtha's disciple won't say Jaya Tīrtha as Prabhupāda, so Prabhupāda is located. We must take it in our case also, and all the disciples of Prabhupāda have taken that course, that Prabhupāda is reserved for our Guru Mahārāja, our disciple won't say Prabhupāda is me, do you follow?

So that is not accepted in your case. Prabhupāda Bhaktisiddhānta and then his disciple Prabhupāda Bhaktivedānta. There is anomaly, and you can trace in yourself because you cannot allow to say the disciples of Jaya Tīrtha and Bhavananda, to their Guru as Prabhupāda. Do you understand? In your case you give the respect, but in the case of your Guru's Guru, you fail to give respect, that aspect, what is given by all other disciples of Bhaktisiddhānta Ṭhākura, follow?

Devotee: Yes, but my question was a little different, the question was that we know ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But I did not give any objection because Prabhupāda generally used in the name of everyone's Guru. Here also amongst the Goswāmī's, Abhan? Kṛṣṇa Prabhupāda, Pran Gopāl Prabhupāda, that is also used. So anyone who is Guru, he may say Prabhupada, it is general. But that is particular sentiment, as we found in our Gurudeva he could not tolerate the name of Bhaktivinoda to any, our Guru Mahārāja, because Bhaktivinoda was the title of Kedāranātha, Saccitānanda, after bābājī vesa Saccitānanda Bhaktivinoda. But Prabhupāda did not, could not, tolerate that this name Bhaktivinoda should be given to any other, Bhaktivinoda is Bhaktivinoda, he is unique, absolute.

Devotee: But the question was a little different, see, on the tapes when you say Śrīla Prabhupāda, you mean Bhaktisiddhānta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Saraswatī Ṭhākura.

Devotee: But if we publish in one book Śrīla Prabhupāda, all the ISKCON men who read the book, they will think: 'Oh, Bhaktivedānta Swāmī.' So when you say on the tape Śrīla Prabhupāda, sometimes we have to change that to say Bhaktisiddhānta Prabhupāda, or Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, or Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura. So we were wondering what would be the correct representation? Shall we always say Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, or Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī? What will be the best way to represent that, that was my question?

Devotee: You also use and give the name Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta) in brackets.

Devotee: "So at that time I think only ten or twelve men remained. Śrīdhara Mahārāja was one of them, and I thought it wise, what can I see at this special time? Mathurā tomorrow morning and he will speak hari-kathā this evening. Anyone who wants to may remain, or otherwise they may go to see Śeṣasayi Viṣṇu. So at that time I think only ten or twelve men remained. Śrīdhara Mahārāja was one of them."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: (speaks Bengali)

Devotee: "And I thought it wise, what can I see at this Śeṣasayi, let me hear what words Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī will speak, let me hear."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: But sometimes we will write Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta, but no Saraswatī Ṭhākura. Is that all right, or is that disrespectful to just say Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta with no full name?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is honourable that we should take their name with honour, but sometimes we say Kṛṣṇa, You, without Śrī Kṛṣṇa, You, not giving much respect to Kṛṣṇa, so near. Thou, not even with respect, you means honourable, but tuiy? just as we say to the friend. In this way we mix familiarly. Sometimes we address the highest Lord Himself, that is explained, a stage of faith of the devotees heart. Sometimes we find that his Lord's so near, we don't like to give any honour. Honourable way, that means to send Him far, and very near like a friend, we sometimes take Him, but that is another mood.

And you, in English.....

Devotee: What is the difference?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Thou.

Devotee: Thou is more respectful, more honourable Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Thou and Thy is more honourable than You and Your?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But we are told just the opposite. Of course about God we sometimes use thou. But thou when to a child, to a child, that ordinary man, a big man will address you or thou?

Devotee: Thou is not used in English anymore.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Previously when it was in use, what was the meaning? Respectable or lower?

Devotee: I think it was respectable.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We are told that this is non respectable, but about God also, sometimes it has been used, Thou. Here also about Kṛṣṇa, the most respectable way of taking His Name, and very familiar way of taking His Name, Kṛṣṇa, sometimes tuiy? not respectable.

(4) If it is Your will that I be born again, then may it be in the home of Your devotee. (from Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's Śaraṇāgati)

Tor, that is negligible way of address, contemptible, tor. That is used towards the lower section, tor. But a devotee is using that in very familiar way. "You are very near to me, I can address You in any way I like, You are so near. The honour cannot give You any greater estimate, what sort of honour I have to give You? What words have I got? And the simple way, ādivāsīs (indigenous people), they always use that neglected language. The corresponding sentiment, that is to be considered of value, not the words always. The meaning of the word and the sentiment through the word, that is most important. Still we have got a form, a fashion, of taking the Name of the Supreme.

Devotee: "Swāmī Mahārāja Prabhupāda wrote, my wife was a devotee of Kṛṣṇa but she had some other idea, her idea was just to worship the Deity at home and live peacefully, my idea was preaching."

Devotee: "Acyutananda? told me how in 1925 Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī had led a big procession circumambulating the holy land of Navadvīpa."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: (speaks Bengali)

bricks and rocks on the procession, but Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta has continued undaunted. 1926 he had tour of India preaching the message of Lord Caitanya. He had also installed Deities in the large temple of Śrī Caitanya Maṭh in Māyāpura, and a year ago he had begun founding his magazine Sajjana-Toṣaṇī in three languages including an English edition called the Harmonist.

After several visits and hours of discussion on activities and philosophy of Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava's, Atulānanda brought Mr De to the Allahabad āśrama. Shortly there after he arranged a house on south Malacha state near Rambad, just a short walk from Abhay's house. Now it was possible for Abhay to visit every evening after work. He would attend the Maṭh where he would play the mṛdaṅga, surprising the brāhmacārī's with his already developed mṛdaṅga playing skills. He sang bhajans with them and sometimes took the lead part in the congregational singing. He would also bring important persons from Allahabad to visit the Maṭh. For the brāhmacārī's, Abhay seemed to give new life to their āśrama, and for Abhay, new life had come to him in his reunion with the disciples of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī.

In 1930 Gaur Mohan's health took a turn for the worse. Members gathered around him, thinking that his end had come. Abhay had been in Bombay on business and it was late when he reached Allahabad and knocked on the door. Gaur Mohan told his daughter Radisa: "Open the door Abhay has come."

She replied: "No he's in Bombay."

Gaur Mohan repeated: "I tell you that he has come, you open the door."

It was about midnight, she went downstairs, opened the door and found that her brother had indeed come. Abhay went to his father: "How are you?"

"I am alright," Gaur Mohan replied, "You just take rest for the night." The next morning Abhay called the doctor.

"How your father is living we don't know," the doctor told him. "Yes practically no pulse. He has been living without food for several months."

Abhay asked his father: "What is your wish, tell me?"

"Why are you asking," his father replied, "Has the doctor told you anything?"

Abhay said: "No I am asking because I am staying in Bombay and you are here, so if you have any wish, any intention, let me know, I am here for you."

Gaur Mohan told him to give their cows to the Allahabad Gauḍīya Maṭh.

End of recording.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: like to get your forced cooperation, there's the rub, the forced cooperation. We may sometimes say: "You are all in all, then why do You allow us to move freely in this side that side? You can control that also." But no, you are a part of consciousness and consciousness means endowed with free thought, that is consciousness. But you can cooperate or not cooperate, if you cooperate all right you are in harmony, non cooperate you are in hitch you are to face your own Lord. This is the summum bonum.

Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, is Chitraketu in Jamapura, does Chitraketu have some special relationship with Paramātmā, or connection with Paramātmā where he is able to Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whom is Chitraketu?

Devotee: The secretary of Yamarāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is his name? Not Chitraketu, not perhaps. Yamarāja's secretary ke ?

Devotee: Chitragupta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Chitragupta, he's the record keeper of Yamarāja. What do you now want to say?

Devotee: Does he have some special connection with Paramātmā? His recording system is so intricate he must have some connection with Paramātmā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some sort, because he must have eligibility of recording of reading all the movements in this mundane world. By the vibration, whatever is happening he can record it, his heart automatically that real vibration he touches or it beats in his heart, 'that this is happening there.' According to that vibration, Paramātmā can control, can have independence. But this man is keeping with that like a computer he can record all vibrations of different type that are taking place in this mundane plane in this mortal world. And he's not a record keeper of Sarga, Sarga-loka, Maha, Jana, Tapa, not, but only this human where the free action has got to be recorded for his future punishment or reward, something. That type of computer, his heart.

Whenever he has got any doubt he refers to Brahmā, "I can't understand this vibration of the telegraphic movement, I can't read this, what is that there." The Brahmā will come and he will say, "this is the record, keep it." He will consult with Yamarāja and from Yamarāja if he also cannot find out it goes over to Brahmā and they will come and accept things. And mainly with the human section, neither the beasts etc, nor the gods etc, the siddha's, ṛṣi's, all these things. He's only a departmental charger of these humans that have got free action, possibility of going three worlds, lower world, higher world, and also movement towards general emancipation, mukti or kṛṣṇa-bhakti. In the background of that he's keep the record.

The Viṣṇu-dhūtas charged against him, Chitrāgupta, and even Yamarāja that, "they have not taught you this lesson that when the jurisdiction changes? They have taken the Name of Nārāyaṇa and immediately the jurisdiction has been changed. Your Chitrāgupta and Yamarāja no longer within his jurisdiction. He will have to have his charges from Vaiṣṇava whatsoever but not from your office because he has taken the Name of Nārāyaṇa nāmābhāsa has occurred here. And your officers did not teach you all these things?" This charge was brought by the Viṣṇu-dhūtas against the Yama- dhūtas. "Your guiding officers they have not instructed you in this thing? What do you say?"

Then they returned to Chitrāgupta and Yamarāja, "that we are charged, being blamed against you."

"Yes, they are right. Such case occurs very rarely so I did not find it necessary to inform you that such things occur you will leave the culprit and come away. I did not say because very rarely such occurrences are here." Yamarāja answered in this way.

So in a limited circle he's working. After the death of immediately within twenty-four hours he is to be present in the court of Chitrāgupta and recording his name he'll be left for one year, come after one year, the date will be fixed and that date his case will be taken up and final decision. "Go for these years to hell or these years to heaven or this plane." After one year, this is Preta-loka, the one year the soul he will be like on bail for one year he's left outside. After death within twenty-four hours he is to present himself and record his name, "I am dead, I have left that period of my duty and now what to do?" Then Chitrugupta will say, "Come, your date fixed after one year." Then so long as a preta he will move.

Devotee: Preta is like a bhūta, like a ghost.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Like a ghost, of different disposition but like a ghost. It is general, a special case there maybe, but general case one year is given to him and he's allowed to move. When the criminal is kept in custody, before final decision he's kept on bail and released for one year and after one year he will present himself. "And final decision we have calculated your right and wrong deed or your wrong doing is so much so you will have to go first to suffer into the hell for such years. Then you will be transferred to the heaven for your good activity and then you will come again in the Preta-loka. And if you will be asked to go again to the working field to get some birth from some karma.

Devotee: In his lecture The Bhāgavata Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he says that the hellish planets are to be considered imaginary, that the hell is imaginary. He said some place in the Bhāgavatam it says that the hell is an imaginary thing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may be formally that is not absolute. Imaginary, the mind is also imagination, just as mentally we can suffer and we can enjoy also. In dream there may be a bad dream where we can suffer and there may be a good dream we may be pleased. So when that mental system which we find ourselves in dream that will be out and the suffering and enjoying in that mental body, mental system. The soul is interred doesn't touch them. Do you follow? And that is imagination, imagination is a part of mind, our existence, it is not up in the sky, it is within us, imagination. Imagination means our mental function not this body. The hell does not exist in any part of this physical globe, it is imagination, it is in the mental world, but mental world we cannot ignore to be false, it is there.

But this concrete physical world is the outcome of that mental world, one makes karma in mental, mental feelings helps us to do any karma bad or good so it is the causal conception, and this is effect what we find floating before our physical senses that is the outcome of the mental product. The karma is in the mind within and that when ripe it comes outside. But that is more real, our mind is more real than this body. Do you follow? Understand that mind is more real than this body? It is a product of the mind, mental activity. So the whole globe what we find in the experience of our senses that is a product and the cause is in the mental world within. Do you mind? Ideal Realism, Hegel, first idea then the action. So what we see floating in the plane of our sense experience that is external, out, and inner is more real, that is within in the mind everywhere. "I have a mind to kill you," I finished that and then I am going to be hanged. The conception first in the mental and then it's translated into external activity. So that mental world is more important to all of us. What is within the mind that will come out in the next time.

So Bhūr, Bhuvah, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satya, more subtle gradual and more real. And Bhuvah that is in the surface which we feel by our senses, that is a partial conception of the truth.

Devotee: Like indriyāṇi parāṇy āhur

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

indriyāṇi parāṇy āhur, indriyebhyaḥ param manaḥ manasas tu parā buddhir, buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ

"The learned proclaim that the senses are superior to inert objects, the mind is superior to the senses, and the faculty of resolute intelligence is superior to the mind. And he who is superior to the intelligence is the soul himself."

(Bhagavad-gītā, 3.42)

The cause is going that way, the effect is this side. And that is all in the line of exploitation and when the idea of exploitation is removed we are removed from the whole globe up to Satyaloka. We are out of that, so Śivaloka, Vaikuṇṭha and Goloka, that is soul's sphere and there no exploitation but all dedication and it is the function of the soul within.

Which is above reason or judiciousness that is a spark of light as if to be compared, that ātmā, it has got its own soil where it can thrive and convert it into a dedicating unit, that soul.

"While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un- interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy." (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69)

Now we feel this concrete because we are awake here, but if this body goes we will be awake in another world which is imaginary, but that is mental sphere. So Sarga Naraka, heaven and hell, all in mental plane not located in anywhere in the sun or in the moon or anywhere. Though this is also has been told that this preta they generally live in the moon, Pretaloka. That is those who the period before having any judgement from the Chitragupta of Yamarāja, the period generally they live in the moon, in connection with the moon, rupagraha ? the planet of earth.

dhūmo rātris tathā kṛṣṇaḥ, ṣaṇ-māsā dakṣiṇāyanam tatra cāndramasam

"The mystic who passes away from this world during the smoke, the night, the fortnight of the waning moon, or the six months when the sun passes to the south reaches the moon planet but again comes back."
(Bhagavad-gītā, 8.24)

..... Triloka, Candraloka, who are again coming back who are going out of this earth circle, in Bhagavad-gītā the time and some token.....

those who die in that peculiar time and under peculiar circumstances their future movement something like this it has been told in Bhagavad-gītā. Dakṣiṇāyana and Uttarāyaṇa.

(Uttarāyaṇa means the sun's passage in his northern course for six months from 22nd March to 23rd September. Dakṣiṇāyana means the sun's passage in his southern course for six months from 24th September to 21st March).

Devotee: Generally the yogīs, karmīs also Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And sadhana (?) also. Candraloka, Pitriloka.

Devotee: So the Svargaloka, that may not be Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tatra cāndramasaṁ jyotir, yogī prāpya nivartate. Yogī means in general sense, that are making any attempt. Faith, Pitriloka.

Devotee: So the Svargaloka, that may not be so much geographical?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Svarga is of two kinds, Bhu Svarga. Just as in India America's ambassador's embassy represents India in her embassy. So also Bhu Svarga, there is seven on the Earth like in (scenery ?) or some other place. And Kṣīrodakaśāyī (Viṣṇu) He's located when so many persons, yogīs, Brahmā's, or gods, they're told they're approaching Nārāyaṇa. Just as Durvāsā, Durvāsā when he was chased by Sudarśana then he first ran to Brahmā, then to Śiva, then by their advice went to Nārāyaṇa. But he did not go to Vaikuṇṭha because Durvāsā is a yogī he's below the range. So he approached Kṣīrodakaśāyī Nārāyaṇa, Bhu Vaikuṇṭha, who is living there in Vaikuṇṭha, there Durvāsā approached Kṣīrodakaśāyī

The nature is such, it is already controlled by the principles and not any hard and fast rules in this rigid world. And when one has fully practised cent per cent not speaking any lie whatever he will say that must have to take place. In the śāstra it is mentioned (līlā siddhi ?), one fully practised in a particular type of creed or something then the corresponding thing will what is established in dream whatever they will say that must come to happen, whatever's said. He has pronounced something that must happen, that must have to come. This is in the soul controlling agency he's conscious Something like Napoleon: "There will be no walls. Go on, march, no walls."

The world is transcendental, it is not fixed like matter or material form, but form is there that is spiritual and that is flexible according to His will. The eye experience, ear experience, what we have here they're already in the original place in the spiritual. And there also the eye experience, ear experience, all the experiences are there. Similarly, not the same but similar.

Rādhārāṇī is hearing the tune of the flute and surrenders Herself to that flute there. And in some portrait She has seen the figure of Kṛṣṇa and surrenders to Him. And She has heard the Name of Kṛṣṇa. Ear experience, then this eye experience, and another? Kṛṣṇa's Name and flute both ear experience, the Name as well as the flute, and the eye experience and She surrenders Herself. So She says to Her friends: "You My dear friends I have no successful future in My life. Why? I have surrendered to three persons. From one that sweet flute sound, and I have seen the figure, there I surrendered, and also the Name I heard and surrendered to the Name holder. Then it is not possible I'll be able to accommodate three persons so the future is grave..... you give up your attempt, I am not "

So form is there. But this material eye experience, everything is there, everything is there, tam eva bhāntam anubhāti sarvaṁ:

("In the transcendental abode of the Lord there is no need of sun, moon, or stars for illumination, nor is there any need of electricity, what to speak of ignited lamps. On the other hand, it is because those planets are self-illuminating that all effulgence has become possible. Whatever there is that is dazzling is due to the reflection of the divine abode of the Lord. The Supreme Godhead is so brilliantly self-luminous that neither the sun, nor the moon, nor stars, nor lightning have any power of illumination in His transcendental abode, and what to speak of fire. It is a fact that all of them get their power of illumination from His effulgence alone. In fact, it is only because of His existence that the whole universe exists.")

What is not in the cause cannot come in the effect, what is traced in the effect that must have its original plane. But here in one style there in another. Similar not same. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: (in Kālyāṇa Kalpataru, Upadeśa 18)

kāma-preme dekho bhāi, lakṣanete bheda nāi tabhu kāma 'prema' nāhi haya

"My brother, lust and love appear as one and the same; yet, lust is never love."

This love divine is similar to the lust here but still there's a distinction, that's infinite, far away. Similar but not same. Some corresponding characteristics maintained in the form. It is there but the standpoint

This is in a word we say but the distance is great. Satisfy the centre and to satisfy an infinitesimal small unit, the difference is infinite.

One is compared with sun, another with darkness, so much but that is similar. All comprehensive, all attractive, and at the same

End of side A, start of side B, 28-4-83

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All comprehensive, all attractive, and at the same all satisfying. Harmony is satisfaction, harmony is this. Some of the British philosophers they gave the name of ānandam, ecstasy, as harmony. I don't remember his name. The Martineau he says reality is beauty, the beautiful, sac-cit-ānandam, ānandam means beautiful. Some say it is harmony, only harmony can make adjustment that can give peace, bliss means harmony. A dislocation that what is discord is suffering, is misery, and harmony is this bliss. Harmony, harmony.

Our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) in his last days used to say very often: "Religion is proper adjustment." The most comprehensive general conception of life. Proper adjustment, that is what is wanted. Everything is there only proper adjustment is necessary then all will be satisfied. Religion is proper adjustment, this is harmony, harmony. Acintya-bheda-ābheda, the one and many and harmony is health and discord is disease.

..... "all friend no enemy, on all sides. You are your worst enemy, your concocting tendency, selfish tendency is responsible for all evils in you. No complain to be made for the environment. It is under My control."

Bombshell to all complaints in the world. "Everything is under My control what I am doing about you it is all right, up to mark."

When I was a college student I heard from my professor one German scholar told that Gītā is the highest theosophical philosophy in the whole of India. Because, only because Gītā says this is peculiarity within it, that: "You cannot control the environment you can control you and thereby try to adjust. You have no right to control outside but you have some right to control yourself. So for the adjustment try within yourself." This is the very gist of the whole advice of Bhagavad-Gītā, "Control yourself to adjust with the environment, you have no control on the environment but you have some control over you. And if you want adjustment and peace then control yourself for such adjustment with the environment that you will find peace."

This is the finding of Bhagavad-Gītā that some scholar whose name I forget when I was twenty-two or so I heard this about Bhagavad-Gītā the opinion of a foreign scholar is such. To control yourself it is possible but it is impossible to control the environment, it is outside you, beyond your power. So come to adjustment, adjustment is peace, you control yourself in such a way that you can adjust with the environment. In this way. And in Bhāgavata in a living manner this has been administered.

tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam hṛd-
vāg-vapurbbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk

(Lord Brahmā says:) "One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8)

It is only a physical solution, something like mathematical solution. But Bhāgavatam, tat te 'nukampāṁ, in this śloka a friendly and loving suggestion, advice to the affectionate child. Tat te 'nukampāṁ, the final, no objection or complain can be lodged against this. Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam. Ātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam that is admitted, it is your own creation. And Manu also says when describing about the trees: bestitar karma hetunar ?

These souls are suffering from the birth of a tree but none to be abused because it is his own karma, karma hetuna, tamasa bahurupena bestitar ?

Now tree-fied, forced to come to the level of tree.

Tat te 'nukampāṁ, this is nectar, final, everything comprehensive, all comprehensive. Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, grace everywhere, kindness, grace of the Supreme Lord are one, not many, the pervading one is there controlling principle, that one within the many that is controlling and that is very friendly to you. You are living in a friends circle, all friend, all friend. Only correct yourself, cure thyself, cure thyself. Everything is all right. What is this? How hopeful but difficult but we can put faith and the work may not be difficult, may not be difficult. It is so real, really so it is true. Only if I can control me I shall get everything, very easy, only by controlling myself I can control everything? Very hopeful prospect, good prospect. Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, susamīkṣa this proper examination, if you can examine the environment, can read the environment properly in a well meaning way you will find this. Not in a challenging mood nor in a suspicious mood but submissive and friendly mood you try to read your environment you will find that all are your friends. Correct yourself, physician cure thyself.

Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam. You will be your worst enemy when the curing process will begin then you will find that you are your enemy and enemy means fault finder and your friend that you want to correct that really. When you will find that you are the only culprit then you will come to sense you days will be numbered, in a very short time you will come up from the disease, your disease will be cured.

So ātma-samika, self analysis, "I am the meanest of the mean." Deep searching, "I am the culprit because I am a traitor. My beloved Lord I have disobeyed. He has got so much love for me and I betrayed and tried go somewhere else to search my special satisfaction, special pleasure. Avoiding Him, avoiding Him I went to colonise somewhere else leaving my home, my loving home I neglected and I went somewhere else to search my comfort. I am the traitor, traitor, I could not go I am repented or something like that. From tatastha, from the marginal line, why did I start on this side, external side and not in internal side? Who is responsible for that first starting? None is responsible. I am endowed with freedom of judgement and my first action was that of treachery, suicidal, and I came to make friendship with māyā. Neither māyā nor the Lord to be blamed. The blame is there in my first choice because I was endowed with freedom and misuse of that starting has taken me in here hurled down, action reaction here, karma hetuna, the starting point." Hare Kṛṣṇa. Very mystic position to understand the starting point that requires very fine and impartial intelligence. That the responsibility is with us.

saṁyogam, svabhāvas tu pravartate

("Due to their tendency towards ignorance since immeasurable time, the living beings act, considering themselves the doers or inaugurators of action. The Supreme Lord does not generate their misconception of considering themselves doers, nor does He generate their actions or their attachment to the fruits of those actions." (Bhagavad-gītā, 5.14)

It is not interfered by the Universal Lord by force. We are independent unit, small unit but endowed with independence.

One Indian leader, former age, put a question to Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura). "This vulnerable freedom, why it was given by the Lord to us? Why the Lord gave us that sort of free will which is not perfect?"

Then our Guru Mahārāja told him: "You are freedom fighters," ha ha, he was a political freedom fighter, Syāmasundara Cakravārti, a good man. "Freedom fighters, you should know the value of freedom we may think freedom. So if that freedom is taken away from the soul, then do you think that it will be very good judgement for the Absolute? It is a very valuable thing freedom, if it is used, utilised, then it can bring immense, it can earn immense. But if it is taken away like a matter, material atom, what is there? No prospect, no life, no chance. So freedom though vulnerable, may be misused, it may be utilised also, the possibility that cannot be eliminated. And by utilising we may thrive so much that misusing what we incur wrong that may be neglected. If you can utilise it in the positive life our gain is immense, unlimited. In that consideration the possibility of our misuse is nothing, it is temporary after all. So in consideration of the prospect of the free will the gift from God our constitutional attainment is most valuable thing, freedom."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. We are our enemy.

bandhur, ātmaiva ripur ātmanaḥ

"The living being must be delivered from the dark well of material life by means of the mind detached from sense objects, and he must never in any way be flung down into the material world by the mind enchanted by sense objects - because the mind is sometimes his friend, and in another situation the very same mind is rather the enemy."(Bhagavad-gītā, 6.5)

.....

śatrutve, vartetātmaiva śatruvat

"For the soul who has conquered his mind, his mind is his friend and well-wisher. For a person unable to control it, his own mind remains constantly engaged in his disservice, like an enemy." (Bhagavad-gītā, 6.6)

So find out your own faults, self-analyses and finding faults within. I am concerned with that, I am not concerned with the faults outside, the first consideration is whether any fault is within me. All the attention must be drawn to that and then if I can do any good to others I shall be in position to consider. If it is poison within me and if I spread that poison to the environment, what benefit I can give to others?

One who does not know the truth, how will he be able to help others with all falsehood? Only spreading falsehood to the environment to others.
So:

bhārata bhūmite haila manuṣya janma yā'ra janma sārthaka kari' kara para-upakāra

("One who has taken his birth as a human being in the land of India should make his life successful and work for the benefit of all other people (by preaching nāma- saṅkīrtana). (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 9.41)

Get fulfilment for your own and then do that, give that, bestow that to the others. Know yourself and make others know. And you are ignorant whatever you'll give to others that will be all ignorance. But it not possible that all of a sudden you will be perfect and then you will begin, you must be in a process, and you must be under the guidance as long as you are not free you must be under the guidance of a higher agent, sādhu-saṅga, sādhu-saṅga nāma-kīrtana always.

So our Guru Mahārāja did not encourage this nirjjana-bhajana, when you will be in solitary place the whole of your previous mental tendencies will come forward to capture and influence you. But always try to be in such environment that their good influence comes to you, sādhu-saṅga. And to help you to utilise your good aspect within you and the bad aspect within you that will be discouraged when you are in a good association. And without food they will gradually die.

'sādhu saṅga,' 'sādhu saṅga,' - sarva śāstre kaya lava-mātra sādhu-saṅge sarva-siddhi haya

"The verdict of all revealed scriptures is that by even a moment's association with a pure devotee, one can attain all success." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.54)

What information do you get about our Jaya Tīrtha Mahārāja from Vidagdha Prabhu?

Have you got anything? Not yet? Something!

Devotee: Something. Yes, he is, he does not accept, he has come to the platform, or down to the platform, he has stepped down to the platform of not really wanting to accept Bhaktisiddhānta's Saraswatī Ṭhākura's strict non compromising mood.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow.

Devotee: The non compromising mood of Bhaktisiddhānta, he is not agreeing with that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Agreeing with that, not with him?

Devotee: Not agreeing with Bhaktisiddhānta, he does not agree with Bhaktisiddhānta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, up to Bhaktivinoda he agrees? And not after?

Devotee: No, in particular because Bhaktisiddhānta has made some comment about the taking of intoxication.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is everywhere, the Bhāgavata also has
.....

Devotee: Specifically ganja smoking.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He may take admission into that Śaiva section or that Naga section, so many others there that have found out the miracle of smoking and intoxication long, long before. The Tantric and the Śaivite and perhaps the Naga, they have different types of intoxication, they use it. But not the Bhāgavata school, they cannot be contaminated with anything, their everything the grace of the Lord, they have no recognition of anything outside, any material immaterial, nothing. Wholesale grace of the Lord, that is their prospect, their everything is in the grace of the Lord, no recognition outside that of anything.

Nothing outside, not only outside things can contribute but only one thing, the monopoly of the servants of the Lord.

rahūgaṇaitat tapasā na yāti, na cejyayā nirvvaṇāṇād grhād vā na cchandasā naiva jalāgni-sūryyair, vinā mahat-pāda-rajo 'bhiṣekam

(Śrī Jaḍabharata says:) "O King Rahūgaṇa, without one's head being adorned with the dust of the holy feet of a pure devotee, one can never attain devotion for the Supreme Lord by austerity, by Vedic worship and religiosity, by following the vow of monkhood, by following the religious duties of married life, by study and recitation of the Vedas, or by worshipping water, fire, or sun." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.12.12)

All eliminated, only one source and that is the grace of the agents of the Lord. It is available nowhere only through the agents, the sampradāya. Once Mr Gandhi he was forced to accept this process, sampradāya, association. He wanted that the poor will earn something by this charka, he introduced the charka that the money will go to the pocket of the poor. "And this food and clothing, two primary necessary things cannot be avoided and we must earn it ourselves." That was his principle, these main two requirements. So charka and this farming agriculture that must have within the hands of the masses. And the clothing goes to the capitalist then their poverty will increase. On this principle he introduced charka, khada, the charka product thread that used in cloth and that is known as khada. So he introduced khada for the poor. But the Manchester and specially the Japanese they came with imitation khada from the mill. And he was perplexed, then he told: "This half khada is more dangerous than foreign cloth." "Half truth is more dangerous than falsehood." Gandhi declared: "Half khada, something that's rough and something fine mixed they began to fill up the market." Then he had to introduce some association. "You must purchase things from particular shops, if you go to any other shop then you will be cheated. The mill owners are managing in such a way that the real khada won't be in the market and their mill produced khada that will take the place of the position of khada. The association, only through a particular, this khadi pratisthan, or some other, you go and blindly take khada from them it will come from only poor class. The money will go to the pocket of the poor."

I understood at that time. So the revealed truth coming through association, guru paramparā, is necessary. Otherwise if you go outside then some other knowledge will come, we'll be exploited, only to save the exploitation of the enemy the association is necessary, reliable association. If we go to the association of the Madhva school book no māyāvāda. Read the Rāmānuja school no māyāvāda. Or any book if you go māyāvāda has been traced there. So the necessity of the association that is paramparā is necessary, the purity of the association is necessary and association is necessary only we can get there I'm not cheated. So only through the agent of Kṛṣṇa that we can get his grace and nowhere. What to speak of the intoxication or any other things, so many other proposals of theological principles also rejected, what to speak of intoxication. This iron, water, all these things. But so many imitation theological advises also to be eliminated. And only we are warned only through the proper agent you are to get that thing.

mahīyasāṁ pāda-rajo-'bhiṣekaṁ, niṣkiñcanānāṁ na vṛṇīta yāvat (Prahāda Mahārāja states: "Unless they smear upon their bodies the dust of the lotus feet of a Vaiṣṇava completely freed from material contamination, persons very much inclined toward materialistic life cannot be attached to the lotus feet of the Lord, Who is glorified for His uncommon activities. Only by becoming Kṛṣṇa conscious and taking shelter at the lotus feet of the Lord in this way can one be freed from material contamination." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.32)

Only through Vaiṣṇava, only through Guru, only through the successor of the Lord that we can get that thing and no other way. What to speak of things, so many thoughts also eliminated, all thoughts, things eliminated. Only through the channel of the genuine agent of the Lord we can have. And the Prasāda of course that must be conditioned by that, where is, what is Prasāda ? Which is extended to us by the bona fide person. None can say that: "I am the master I am giving and by using it you will get benefit." Who is he? Who has got possession over the whole property His extension has got some value. "This is Mine, it is Mine. I am giving to you." Otherwise it will be black-marketing, anyone will come, "Oh, where have you got it? You must have to pay tax to me." Īśāvāsyam, everything belongs to Him and from Him the sanction must come to make it Prasāda that is free to me, Prasāda, His anugraha, His grace, without any reaction. If I take it none will come: "Where you got? You are a thief." stena eva sa ?

You'll be a thief. Must have the sanction from the highest authority sanction. Otherwise that Prasāda, Śiva Prasāda, Kālī Prasāda, that will be responsible for some explanation. We'll be called for explanation: "What is this Prasāda ?" That has been arranged the fish, meats, for the temporary, temporarily they're sanctioned in the gradual process they're to be taken to the highest position.

"The conditioned souls are naturally inclined to have sex, eat meat, and drink wine. There is no need for the scripture to encourage these things. The scriptures do, however, give concessions to people who are determined to do these things. The scriptures therefore grant a license to enjoy sex by allowing sexual intercourse with one's lawful wedded wife at the proper time of the month. They grant a license to eat meat to those who perform a certain type of sacrifice, and a license to drink wine to those who perform the Sautramaṇi sacrifice. The purpose of granting these licenses for sense gratification is only to restrict these activities and encourage people to give them up altogether. The real intention of the Vedic injunctions regarding sex, meat-eating, and wine-drinking is to make a person abstain from these activities." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.11)

Very easily, shortly, you will come to accept the real path. Only do this for the time being, it will help you to come to a real position. Something like a canvasser, a canvasser may be of different type. Vartma-pradarśaka-guru

Devotee: Heavy set, build, his physical body is big. And also Siddhāntī Mahārāja, what they have translated is all right I think.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:Vedānta but Bhāratī Mahārāja departed from them and Siddhāntī Mahārāja he was there and he has also published ... Upaniṣad, Vedānta, Uddhava Sandip (?) Uddhava Gītā. That is reliable.

Now I find that Brahmā-saṁhitā our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) there is a gross mistake. In place of Garbhodakaśāyī (Viṣṇu), Kṣīrodakaśāyī (Viṣṇu) has been written. Only one but the function of Garbhodakaśāyī that has been described as the function of Kṣīrodakaśāyī here

But that was published during our Guru Mahārāja's time And according to Mahārāja has also published Svarūpa Dāmodara's śloka, it is clearly mentioned about Kṣīrodakaśāyī. But in Brahmā-saṁhitā translation by Professor Sanyal the mistake is committed, differing from caritāmṛta. He had though deep knowledge in Sanskrit could not follow Jīva Goswāmī tīka, and Sanskrit original verse. The language of Brahmā-saṁhitā that is very abstruse, not very clear, oppressed, condensed, and ontological, philosophical and condensed, that type. Not very clear and simple. The first śloka is very simple and clear.

īśvaraḥ paramaḥ kṛṣṇaḥ, sac-cid-ānanda-vigrahaḥ anādir ādir govindaḥ, sarva-kāraṇa-kāraṇam ("Kṛṣṇa, who is known as Govinda, is the supreme controller. He has an eternal, blissful, spiritual body. He is the origin of all. He has no other origin, for He is the prime cause of all causes." (Brahma-saṁhitā 1.5)

Very clear this śloka. But (in between ?) very abstruse, difficult portion to us, somewhere, cleansed.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Bilcoshun (?) that is also mentioned

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bilcoshun Kṣīrodakaśāyī but he's not the cause of the brahmāṇḍa, he's only in the function of Paramātmā. He's there palana (?) whose in the creation and destruction, in the sustenance to look after that, that sustenance sattya-guṇa, that is his function. And also he takes rest in every heart.

Īśvaraḥ sarvva-bhūtānām, hṛd-deśe 'rjjuna tiṣṭhati bhrāmayan sarvva-bhūtāni, yantrārūḍhāni māyayā

("O Arjuna, I am situated in the hearts of all souls as the Supersoul, the Lord and Master of all souls. For every endeavour of the living beings in this world, the Lord (My plenary expansion, the Supersoul) awards an appropriate result. As an object mounted on a wheel is caused to revolve, the living beings are caused to revolve in the universe by the almighty power of the Lord. Incited by Him, your destiny will naturally be effected according to your endeavours.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.61)

Something like Paramātmā function. Paramātmā conception is a little hazy, non differentiated, but that is personal, similar life Paramātmā

Devotee: Lord Caitanya appeared in five features, Pañca-Tattva. And in Rāmāyana we find Lord Rāma and Lakṣmaṇa and there's some distribution of some nectar between the wives of King Daśarātha. How are we to view Lord Rāma, Lakṣmaṇa? Sometimes it's described in some books half Viṣṇu, is that possible? That the different wives of King Daśarātha Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow. What does he say?

Devotee: The question is, some nectar was given to Daśarātha's wives, one wife got half, one wife got another portion, another wife got another portion, so according to those portions Viṣṇu was going to incarnate. That's one description, I'm sure it's un bona fide. But I'm trying to understand, perhaps it's not a worthwhile question. (Soma rasa ?) No, it was given as a benediction so she could Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: so Daśarātha had to make arrangement to get son and he consulted and made arrangement with the ṛṣis and they performed a yajñā. That yajñā, who among the queens will take that yajñā Prasādam she will be able to produce child. So it was distributed to Kauśalya and Kaikeyi, two main queens. Daśarātha had many queens, two queens, Kauśalya and Kaikeyi. Half, half. Then another Sumitra, the mother of Lakṣmaṇa and Satrughna, she went to approach those two queens Kauśalya and Kaikeyi: "My sisters, I am your sister, (I request you give some?) portion to me." So both of them gave a portion of their Prasāda gave to that Sumitra. Kauśalya something and also Kaikeyi something. Then Kauśalya got Rāmacandra, Kaikeyi got Bhārata. And Sumitra got two portions, one from Kauśalya one from Kaikeyi.....

the portion that came from Kauśalya by that Lakṣmaṇa was produced. So Lakṣmaṇa was very friendly and very subservient to the son of Kauśalya that is Rāmacandra. And Satrughna he was produced by the portion given by Kaikeyi. So Satrughna was very much fond and obedient to Bhārata because of Kaikeyi's portion was of that type. This has been mentioned. Do you follow? No?

Devotee: Yes Guru Mahārāja, but are they all considered Viṣṇu?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Viṣṇu in four portions. Just as Vāsudeva, Saṅkarṣaṇa, Pradyumna, Aniruddha, These four. So also here, Rāma, Lakṣmaṇa, Bhārata, Satrugna, They're all considered as Viṣṇu-Tattva.

Devotee: We find occasionally that someone will read Kṛṣṇa Book, tenth canto of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, and they will have a hard time accepting these fantastic demons that appear in Vṛndāvana as more than stories. They'll have some difficulty because there's no trace of this kind of mysticism in the present modern age. These are fantastic descriptions, as Putanā became twelve miles long when she fell to the ground. These are fantastic descriptions of events.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Can you conceive that the boy Kṛṣṇa lifted Govardhana and put it on His finger? Can you conceive? That can be swallowed by those persons? If that can be adjusted then all these, everything can be adjusted. You see?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And the question you say that all comes from fossilism, fossil. Fossil is given, matter is given more importance over consciousness, but consciousness can create anything. That is the process we are to understand and digest that not from fossil everything is coming but from consciousness everything is coming, from spirit everything is coming. Then it will be clear to explain all these miracles. In the system of hypnotism can they be convinced about the divya-darśana, what is Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa showed He's such and such, can they digest this viśva-rūpa ? The universal form as Kṛṣṇa He showed to Arjuna, can they digest that? You? Then that is all false?

Devotee: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So many things, how to explain that from the materialistic or scientific standpoint?

Devotee: They'll say it is all poetry.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From the same basis we are to view everything and all the conceptions of the present scholars are all based on this fossilism and that must be demolished wholesale. This is not the way of thinking for a man of devotion. They consider the spiritual substance is the cause and that can create every kind of fossil or any type every time. It is like a play doll, to create this matter, material form is a play doll in the hand of the spiritual autocrat. Everything is shown according to his own sweet will, no equal position of the material world. It is all floating on consciousness.

And the magical wand is His sweet will. Whatever He will like to show you are forced to see that. It is coming from up to down. So no material stability of the material characteristic of anything whatever, we say it is all false, all māyā, concoction. It is seen from the plane of our very meagre local interest, all false. The wholesale false, all misconception. We're accustomed to think that a brick or a piece of stone is invulnerable but it is nothing, only a conception, idea, that may be.

Just as in dream we can have experience of many things very astonishing in dream, is it not? What is not possible to experience when we are awake, we are to offer it to our material senses what is not possible that is possible in dream. We can see a big mountain is being transformed into sea, an ocean may be transformed into moon, in dream

So in the soul it is more independent in view is possible, it is such. We are to give up this narrow idea drawn from the material local conception from our brain, to brush it out. His sweet will is the cause of everything. Like a magician, like a hypnotising man, the basis must be accepted like that then we can explain everything here.

How there are so many small and big incidents? How it was possible for Christ when He was crucified to come again? Some say that He was not dead. His dead body was taken to some mountain cave and after three days when people went to see Him nothing but some remnant of His dress was there and He is not there, the body could not be traced, gone away. How it is that when Peter he was in Italy, he ordered that He will be crucified he was flying away from Rome for fear of death. Then he met Christ is coming then he fell on the feet of Christ: "You Master You have come." "I'm going to be crucified a second time because My follower Peter he has betrayed Me and for fear of crucifixion he's flying away. So I'm going to be crucified for a second time." "No, no, my Master, You won't have to take the trouble of going to be crucified, I am going to be crucified." Then Peter: "What is this?" He saw Christ, and so many times they say Christ coming and going. Is it material science sanction?

All religious conception on their background must have some sort of immaterial over material supernatural experience on its back. Every religious class has some sort of miraculous conception on the back, everyone, because it is true, and what you conceive this is all false. What we experience through our senses that is false. How far can we rely on our senses? We cannot recognise whether a ghost coming or a man coming.

Bhrama, pramāda, karaṇāpāṭava, vipralipsā - these four defects always with the instruments of our knowledge. Bhrama means committing, we commit, we take a man for another man, sometimes a ghost. Pramāda - omission, undetecting many things, "no go away." Karaṇāpāṭava - there is defect in the eye, one may say: "No this man's coming," and another may say: "No, no, that man is coming," karaṇāpāṭava - the defects in the instruments with which we gather our information. And vipralipsā - the greatest prejudice, previous prejudice that always guide me to conceive things are such, must be such, our previous impression that is kept in the mind, the mental store. That comes to guide us that experience I had got outside.

The very root and nature of our existence that has been cancelled by the spiritual persons of every school. The Christian, Mohammedan, or Buddhist. Religion means depending on some super knowledge and the experience of super knowledge, religion means that. And those that depend on the sense experience they're almost all atheist. Everything coming from reading, reading eye experience, or ear experience. What is my position that my experience has some?

I am running in phantasmagoria. This body is the effect of a dream, something like dream, the mind. Mind is more independent than this body, so bodily experiences are more rigid and narrow than the mental experiences. The experience of the intelligence that is higher and more spacious. In this way experience of ātmā, ātmā can do anything, independence of the soul in all respects is extremely greater than that of this body. Just as mind's scope is greater than this body experience, so the scope of the knowledge of ātmā, that is infinitely more spacious than that of the body experience. In this way. And in Paramātmā conception more wide things are possible. In this way the progressive to Kṛṣṇa is possible, no restriction over Him. His sweet will can never be opposed by any potency in the universe. Āptakāma, whatever He wills at once it comes to Him. "Let there be light," there was light. "Let there be water," there was water. Only willing is at the root of the incident.

So Govardhana daran (?) this Putanā affairs, everything, only willing is at the back and it will immediately come to effect. That is the science of the supernatural things is like this. Just as we can will otherwise which is not found in this fossil science, what is not possible in the fossil science we can will that we can wish that. Why? So there is a scope outside, so we'll have to go that side. "Let there be water," there was water. "Let there be light," there was light. That basic conception we must have. From there we can go ahead. His sweet will, willing is possible, creation is possible by will power. Ideal realism, first the idea then it comes to be real. Everything, first idea then idea realises into so called reality in different planes of life. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes Guru Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You'll lose that basis and come with thousands of questions every time all the same and similar. First you have to take position with this universal conception of religious basis founding. You must take your position there firmly, then from there you will look around. You'll have to explain other things how it can come.

Planets and the law their existence all uncertain, unstable, all vanishes and again come. What is there position? Their firmness, their value, it is coming and going. The prime cause we are to study very attentively what is the nature of the prime cause Brahmān from which everything is coming to our sight and again disappearing into that. We must not forget that we are trying to engage ourselves to study the nature of the prime cause and more and more higher.

Always we take some mud and throw into that and begin to try and understand what is the matter, "Why that is not like the mud, mud is all and why the God is not within the mud." Where the mud does exist when the whole creation abolished? Where does this mud or the stone exist? Coming from where? Unseen quarter, un- understandable quarter, everything appears, the science also say like that, it appears and disappears.

So what is the nature of the root from when it is coming, and this coming thing is also undesirable. It is only giving pain to the soul. This is negative creation not desirable. The proper creation which is desirable in svarūpa-śākti land that is already there eternally. All religion to hear repeatedly but that does not have any trace in the heart, always in the material mud-plodding and sometimes enquiring about the ether, always in the mud and sometimes questioning about ether.

But we are to think through the soul, through soul we are to go to know the nature of the Supersoul area. This is all about that, Supersoul area. Freedom of soul is infinitely more extensive than the freedom of eye and the ear and the tongue and touch, infinitely higher and greater, the plane of soul within me. Just as the mind is more flexible and more spacious than this bodily experience. In dream we are more free than when we are awake in the world of our experience. In this way freedom is going up.

Āptakāma, whatever one wills it comes immediately only it is within the jurisdiction of a particular soul, a yogī. A yogī whatever he will will: "I want one piece of rasagulla," rasagulla is there. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A soul in its higher realised position gets such power. Whatever he desire's: "I want money," money is here. The soul can acquire such power. Then what about the Supreme Soul, everything is possible. How much we can conceive miracles? Our brain, how much miracle can it conceive? Very little, it is always captured by this limited experience, our imagination always captured by our limited experience and cannot go high. More, more, more higher, every possibility is in the hand of the Absolute God. He's Absolute, Omnipotent, Omniscient, All Powerful, All Knowledge, and All Love. All love is Kṛṣṇa, Vṛndāvana. All knowing Nārāyaṇa. And Śiva and Brahmā they're plodding in the mud. Śiva half in the mud, half the head in eternity, and Brahmā wholesale in the mud. And whenever any higher knowledge is extended through they can know to certain extent. "Oh, say that this is religion. They will be relieved if they follow like this. Brahmā you advise to your created creed, prisoners." Brahmā does like that.

Excitement, the same question coming from the same place repeatedly causing a fight. The rules of mathematics there for geometry, this theorem one proved, then so many deductions, so many sums may come. That rule according to rubbish's abstraction then this multiplication or division, the rule is there and that is given and all sums you are to work out. But every sum you will take how to divide, what is this? General rules must be understood then all the sums may be worked out thereby. We must catch the rules, the general reasonings, and particulars will be deduced from there.

So many miracles are here from every religious party, miracle. So a super-scientific adjustment must be assimilation, we must have when we enter in religious we'll have to faith on many miracles. In the beginning when we go to take admission we must have such conviction, what is the miracles? Am I to believe or no, not to believe? If to believe, why? What is the reason? I must get explanation from me, and once I believe that then I can go there. The miracle is everywhere connected with every religion conception. Then are they false or are they true? And though the oppositionists they are false. This general decision we must have before we approach any religion. This is a primary thing to understand for the beginner whether miracles we shall believe or not. That they are all false or this science is false, the decision we shall have to take there if we are sincere to our self. Otherwise all religions are false and the atheistic science they are true. The most primary question in our enquiry. Then the particular solution to a particular miracle, but the common thing that we must have in a general way. Then we are to ask why? Why this līlā, this aspect, why this miracle came, why that miracle came, what is the reason of showing that particular miracle? It is miracle to us, what is miracle I told what is miracle to the ordinary man awake then what is found in dream. If this is reality then dream is imaginary concoction. But if we learn to give more reality to the dream than our wakeful days, if I go to religion we are to do that. What is in mind that is coming out if it is not damaged otherwise when we recall.

buddhir, buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ

("The learned proclaim that the senses are superior to inert objects, the mind is superior to the senses, and the faculty of resolute intelligence is superior to the mind. And he who is superior to the intelligence is the soul himself.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.42)

That is primary, that is more fundamental, the mind is more fundamental than the effect of our experience, the sense experience world, mind has got more.....

manasas tu parā buddhir, the world of reason is more real than the world of mind and the world of sense experience. In this way, reality is going towards that. Manasas tu parā buddhir, buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ, that is ātmā, then Paramātmā, then Vaikuṇṭha, līlā, and we are to have general conception the truth (which sides?). And the transient characteristic falls and fighting amongst that is māyā, what is the position of that experience. The mean conception of the sense experience and the higher conception of the revealed truth, we must have a general idea and details we are to enquire and get satisfaction.

The party is already there that man created God not that God created man, God is man's creation. And man created by the fossil, fossil is the ultimate reality, the fossil develops into the human body and human body can temporarily create what is said as soul. And the soul that also conceiving creating God, that is another way.

And whether what system appeals to me. What party I am to join for my real benefit, sincere party, sincere joining a particular party. Not for any false purpose but to save me for my own highest interest I am joining the party. That soul, Supersoul, that is everything and this is the outcome, nasty thing. I shall go to join a religious party out and out, this sort of conception must be for that. Whom I regard more and it is for my own highest interest. Otherwise our joining a particular party that will be questionable.

The subtle is more powerful than the gross. The atomic bomb, question of the same life sent by our senses that contains so much power. Efficiency in the subtle things. We are to follow that line.

End of side A, start of side B, 30.4.83

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He is eternal, His relationship everything is done, irresistible. How the outcome world exists that is our perplexion. Ārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ (Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1), Mahāprabhu's conception, misconception, more fine, finely detected our apathy, indifference to the truth. Four covers have been given by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura for the first starting of this life. Indifference to the truth, tataṣṭhata (?), what is the position of the margin where from the jīva comes to fill up this world. If analysed four parts may be shown. Mahāprabhu in one word explained:

kr̥ṣṇa buddhi te anadhi bahit mukh ?

Anadhi, this is a peculiar beyond our calculation, our intelligence, our experience, our belief, the history of our beginning

This accepted by Śaṅkara also, anadi bahir muk. From time unknown māyā anadi Śaṅkara says but santa according to Śaṅkara Brahmā is anadi ananta, general beginning no end only one thing Brahmā. And māyā without beginning but it has got end in particular cases. So only one thing advaya, in the Brahmā is the absolute, māyā is not eternal potency. But the Vaiṣṇava's say that māyā is eternal, the potency is eternal and potency of different types, so generally māyā is eternal. But still with the conception that māyā may be ended, if māyā ends Kṛṣṇa does not incur any loss.

koṭi-kāmadhenu-patira chāgi yaiche mare ṣaḍ-aiśvarya-pati kṛṣṇera māyā kibā kare?

("If a person possessing millions of wish-fulfilling cows loses one she-goat, he does not consider the loss. Kṛṣṇa owns all six opulences in full. If the entire material energy is destroyed, what does He lose?")
(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 15.179)

If all the prison houses are abolished at one stroke it does not affect the country rule, the administrative of the country. But again some culprits may come and prison houses may be used but general dealings is possible, generally, for the release of the whole prison houses may be possible by the will of the king.

Devotee: Mahārāja, you were getting ready to mention Bhaktivinoda's four things.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Four things I forget, can't remember. Hrday palya ?

then audarsinya ? to that truth, the four things, Caitanya-siksāmṛta, by analysis he has mention four things that was the call before jīva has to participate with this cult. Four analytical points he told. One is Hrday palya ? Another is buymukha ? the isa buymukha ? Then Hrday garbanya ? Then some vulnerable freedom on the way, analyse these things, all these four are the basis of the

Mainly vulnerable freedom

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

One gentleman in yesterdays letter, in a very sincere put a question to me. "That why you find indifference with ISKCON? I can't understand. What has brought you in this position that you are at present not in consonance with ISKCON, not in harmony, what is the cause?" The enquiry is of course is of a mild tone, not challenging. What is his name?

Devotee: Satyarāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Satyarāja, from America? Wholesale disciple of (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And where is he?

Devotee: Brooklyn, New York.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: New York. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Beyond that, enter into ISKCON, all engaged in smuggling and so the credit is being demolished very sadly. Written by whom?

Devotee: From Philippines.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: mame te krtama papa mama maya kalpate ?

Everything used for His service but for his service that is bad, the discredit with the service or to... When the first batch of our preaching party went to Madras, Bana Mahārāja was leader next to myself, then another sannyāsī Sajjana(?) Mahārāja and this Mādhava Mahārāja brahmacārī at that time. Bana Mahārāja's nature was not to pay any, not to purchase the railway ticket, anyhow with least expense to go here there and he was always quarrelling with the stana walla (?) and others. I protested: "Mahārāja this won't fetch any good to us." He opposed: "You have come to show me this way, morality? We don't care for morality"

"If you quarrel with the darma walla (?) the neighbour will think the sādhu's are (mean kind of sādhu ?), they are of this type. For money, a small money they're quarrelling..... and not for morality. And you are purchasing false ticket or no ticket cent per cent moving five tickets you have got and in different rooms you have taken. And the CID claim they have their suspicion and we are newcomers to this man and this will be discredit to your party. So I'm not asking you to stop all these things for morality" to make it a policy for kṛṣṇa-bhakti, not that, but we must have the credit by which we'll be able, we'll get the regard"

After coming back from England Bana Mahārāja told: "I have accepted your policy now. No longer for the trifle things I like to quarrel with others." He has said. And another thing I had, I used to read newspapers and Bana Mahārāja didn't like that. Afterwards he told: "I have taken your realised the necessity of your, that to preach, to become up to date preacher we must be at par with this events that are happening at present in the world. Then our lecture will be living otherwise it will be a dead lecture, like dead language." So after coming back from England he told: "I have taken two things from you. That is to read the newspaper to know the present environment in favour of our preaching. And another thing not to quarrel with persons over trifle things but credit is necessary is more useful for our preaching."

So you can do anything and everything for Kṛṣṇa, whatever is done for His satisfaction that is real, all others are false. But we are to preach, capture the public we are to moderate that thing to produce credit, faith, then they will come to us and then I will be able to give the advice of in that way that should be managed

That does not mean that I shall take to commit sin

All the sins I shall go to commit, "Oh, this is the advice of the śāstra, sins can be committed if sins can be committed for Kṛṣṇa

What is favourable we must accept and what is unfavourable we must reject, this is ...

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!

ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāso, gopṛtve varaṇaṁ tathā. ātma-nikṣepa kārpaṇye, ṣaḍ-vidhā śaraṇāgatiḥ evaṁ paryyāyataś cāsminn, ekaikādhyāya-saṅgrahaḥ

("The six aspects of full surrender in devotional service are: To accept everything favourable for devotion to Lord Kṛṣṇa, to reject everything unfavourable for devotion to Lord Kṛṣṇa, to be confident that Lord Kṛṣṇa will grant His protection, to embrace Lord Kṛṣṇa's guardianship, to offer oneself unto Him in full self-surrender, to consider oneself lowly and surrender in humility." (Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 11.417)

All the six forms, Jīva Goswāmī has given the greatest importance to that form, goptr̥tve varaṇaṁ, to try to get Him as our guardian, the central form in śaraṇāgati. "I want a protector, I am helpless, it is my dire necessity, direst necessity, have to protect us What is the greatest need in me that I am in want of a guardian. I am small, very meagre so a guardian is necessary."

om tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti surayaḥ divīva cakṣur ātataṁ tad viprāso vipanyavo jāgrvāṁśāḥ, samindhate viṣṇor yat
paramaṁ padam

("The environment is not dead - an overseer is there. Just as the sun is over our heads, every action is under our guardian's eye. We should approach any duty thinking: "My guardian's eye is always vigilantly watching over me, seeing everything I am doing, and whatever is happening to me. I need not worry about this environment or circumstance.") (R̥g Veda, 1.22.20)

The theistic scholars, what is their suggestion? They're always thinking they're living under the full shade of Viṣṇu. Viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti surayaḥ divīva cakṣur ātataṁ: just like a sun above the head the holy divine feet of Kṛṣṇa is spread on my head. Like cakṣur, with His piercing eye casting His glance, searching eye, His all knowing eye, a big eye like a sun is above my head. His holy feet can see anything and everything like cakṣur, like eye, cakṣur also like sun, like eye looking on me, my guardian. You consider yourself like this and do any work, do any work but with this conception your proper angle of vision that a searching guardian's eye is over your head. Approach any work, any duty approach, but with this consciousness. The searching guardian's eye, vigilant eye over your head.

That is the primary and first important mantra in Ṛg Veda, tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti surayaḥ, those devotional scholars also may not always understand and understand Bhāgavata truth, higher. Dvīva cakṣur ātatam, ātatam means distitam (?), spread over, spread over our head, a sun like eye, we are to see my Lord's eye. With this consciousness approach any and everything then you can't do any wrong. "That guardian's searching eye over me, I can't do any wrong. (Staring and staringly fixed ?) I can't do any."

The Ṛg mantra advice comes like this and with the Hindu's, the brāhmaṇas, they always pronounce this and think of that when they go to any function. It is very easy to blame the brāhmaṇas, the Ṛg-Veda they do not talk of varṇāśrama-dharma rather they like to say as brāhmaṇa-dharma, the brāhmaṇa is (all enjoyer ?). So it is found in the newspaper that instead of saying varṇāśrama-dharma they're very fond of pronouncing brāhmaṇa-dharma. Brāhmaṇas are the principle all-in-all and they want to keep the monopoly for some purpose. Because the ahimsā, this Nanuk and the Jain, Mahā-vīra, the Buddha, they spoke of ahimsā. And these brāhmaṇa's varṇāśrama there was room for sacrifice anywhere and they can't understand that is not the ultimate principle. But those that cannot do but take animal food, they are taken in this śloka. If you can't avoid everything connect with the centre and then take it. Whatever you take, even vegetarian, vegetables they're also jīva, of less intense consciousness but still there is consciousness, there is also pain and peace feeling there in the vegetable kingdom.

So without connecting with the centre whatever you do it will bind you with reaction. To get out from any position whether you eat an animal or eat a creeper but you'll have to connect with the Supreme otherwise you'll be under the law of reaction. That is the purpose and purport and gradually to avoid that. To feed the body you must take something and to take food means to create disturbance in the environment whether it is plant or it is animal, less or more. It is more blameable when you accept an animal or even a human flesh if you want to eat that is more blameable because it is higher life which can be utilised for the enquiry of the highest Absolute, highest truth. So to kill a man is more sinful than to kill an animal or a vegetable. It is more sinful. Why? It is approaching towards higher dealing, importance. As the football when it's nearer the goal and again comes back, it is important going near the goal

So important position, to get human body is coming nearby to kill it that is incurring more loss.....otherwise in the tree also this same soul and in the human are the same soul, only the soul in human has come nearer, it can connect with sādhu he may go away to the important position, so greater sin. But everywhere we cannot but commit sin in our movement of life.

Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa-bhakti).") (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9)

More work can be done without any contract, whatever you'll do that creates some eternal things in life. But taking the breath so many small creatures are demolished. Taking water so many more things you are devouring. By your step under pressure of your sole so many. You are lighting fire and that fire for your purpose you are getting fire and in that fire so many insects are being killed. So one cannot live without causing disturbance to the environment so take some positive direction that no deed disturbance you are creating to the environment and that can force you to incur more in the total product.

So to connect with the centre, then that is to try to work in that plane that the most fundamental, universal plane, that is bhakti. Devotion is most fundamental plane vibration. So everything you have to satisfy the sweet will of the Absolute. That is the most fundamental plane of movement everywhere, that is bhakti, raga-bhakti, raga-bhakti then vidhi-bhakti modified flow. Whatever demand coming from the centre, full submission to be one with that, that is nirguṇa, no reaction can come in that sort of movement. That is all good, irresistible, causeless. No provincial interest or local interest can disturb, fully universal.

Just as you put water into the root the whole tree will be fed. Put food into the stomach the whole body will be fed. So your energy put to that place, everything will be well served. The harmony will be, work for harmony for the whole. Kṛṣṇa means that, flow of love, flow of love, the centre of flow of love. And your contribution whoever meagre must go there and it will come from there with necessary method.

And so many examples in our front who are keeping their individual position, they are contributing to that vibration of love. And Rādhārāṇī is considered to be, most contributor is Rādhārāṇī. The potency particular, the original and the nearest potential that is considered the most to that. And then still their consider to be ideal contribution to the plane of flow of love. Love can sustain everyone, that is the food of the soul, highest type of food.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Love, beauty, beauty and love of same order, same thing, beauty's love can draw us to inner the inner most function or presentation of our heart, that flow. Heart is our principle identification not this eye, or hand, or anything put attracts our senses, not that. The object of attraction of our senses, that is all external. But love which is within us, that is the highest, wholest factor, most important desirable factor in us. We are to understand all these things in the line of devotion it is the plane that teaches by the heart, bhakti.

..... that love, it is very difficult to understand, different kinds, but still it is love. Yaśodā whipping Kṛṣṇa, that is the outcome of love, we are to understand. The guardian whipping the son, chastising the son, father, outcome of love in different forms. Kṛṣṇa's play.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

In whipping of Yaśodā what higher type of affection is there in whipping

..... and His followers also to certain extent.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So outward show maybe more important the outward show, the inner things are more important to us than the show, the cover. How much love is within the heart of Yaśodā, that is to be detected. Different expressions in different hearts. The faith we should consider most and try to understand the form of our intent.

Devotee: Mahārāja, the Rādhā-Upaniṣad, is that written later?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rādhā-Upaniṣad ? I have not heard of it as yet, Rādhā-Upaniṣad. I heard about Caitanya-Upaniṣad in Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's writings. Rādhā-Upaniṣad I have not heard. Made by whom?

Devotee: That I've only heard of, I've not seen.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But it is published?

Devotee: I've not seen the edition I only heard.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rādhā-Upaniṣad. One devotee may prepare from the portions of the Upaniṣads where we can possibly trace about Rādhā, on the basis of that one devotee may compile Rādhā-Upaniṣad.

And there is Agbar-Upaniṣad we are told about Hayansi ? a Sanskrit scholar in the court of Agbar, he compiled one book Ablob ? Upaniṣad.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

rādhā-.....

Our Guru Mahārāja did not like that we shall talk about those higher things, very slightly about Rādhārāṇī, some talk but he did not like us to study Ujjvala-Nīlamaṇi and the madhūrya-rasa. That is always to be revered

Be all conscious of our position and whenever we find that it has come out of its own accord we feel ashamed because we are not fit to begin a campaign of the search of Rādhārāṇī and "We don't search then we don't have," it is not like that. Whenever I shall make myself fit that will come of its own accord. In this spirit we are to go on.

("The path of divine love is worshipping to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration." (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura)

"That I shall be finished," it is not māyā, major thing that that will be finished. Always to be kept at respectable higher position. When that will be pleased with me, like flood it will inundate my heart, irresistibly. So don't go to be very eager to finish that to get that, ha, and you will earn something, imitate the things, imitation.

Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas:

soul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him.")(Kāṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23) + (Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.3.2)

Full confidence he feels in this process that He will come to accept you. Do, go in such a way the He will come to accept you. The acceptance must come from that side so we'll go on in that way, that is the natural thing. Otherwise we'll be āroha-panthā, empirical method. "I shall know, I shall acquire, I shall get." To see the sun, the sun when it comes to show, that we cannot but see.

"In this life, within the period of this lifetime I must have to see the finish, the finishing portion," that is some atheistic view. It is there eternal and they're affectionate, considerate. Not by losing this life I shall live there, it is not like that. Wait, wait for the favour to come to you, it is all conscious, all considerate not injudicious.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

When he first went to Vṛndāvana Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) always encouraged Bhāratī Mahārāja to read Prahāda-carit in Vṛndāvana, not anything about kṛṣṇa-rasanot that. Saptama-daya (?) of Bhāgavatam, that the primary stage of devotion tried to explain that in Vṛndāvana, what is śuddha-bhakti, then raga-bhakti that is far, far above. The imitation bābājī's they're thinking that they have all got that within their fists and they're misguided. To show that, to explain about Prahāda-carit not of kṛṣṇa-līlā in Vṛndāvana. A striking thing and Prabhupāda himself between Rādhā-kuṇḍa and Syāma-kuṇḍa in Kārttika-mīna, he read that Upadeśāmṛta, Mahāprabhu's teachings, sīkṣā, all these things, not kṛṣṇa-līlā, Rādhā.

Sometimes in course of his lecture something used to come but not for fashion doing all these things. In the last few years, three or four years in Karttika-mina, ujjavrata, that Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's intense stanza about the aṣṭa-kālīya-līlā, that was read and heard without commentation. Always showing that is in the mob, law mob (?), things like that. Do other things, don't jump that side, don't courageously try to approach there with the haughtiness don't do. That was his, and I have fully accepted that

I'm not an atheist that if I can't see then I won't believe it, not like that. Things that I find below cannot but lead to the highest pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava.

Devotee:we are all students.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And my Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) also told: "I'm the monitor." We must not be afraid of the eternal existence of our guide and Guru, so we are always student. Ha, ha, ha. Always to serve under their direction, kṛṣṇa-prema janme, punar teṇho mukhya kṛṣṇa-bhakti-janma-mūla haya 'sādhū-saṅga' kṛṣṇa-prema janme, teṇho punaḥ mukhya aṅga

"By associating with the sādhus and gaining their mercy one can get Kṛṣṇa-bhakti right up to the stage of Kṛṣṇa-prema. Furthermore the practitioners very life depends on the association of the sādhus. Without sādhu-saṅga it is not possible to receive the real seeds of bhakti."
(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.83)

Sādhū saṅga, always it is necessary, the direction of the sādhus, kṛṣṇa-bhakti-janma- mūla haya 'sādhū-saṅga': the very origin of Kṛṣṇa-bhakti is in the association of the sādhus. And kṛṣṇa-prema janme, and when you have already acquired, established in kṛṣṇa-prema, teṇho punaḥ mukhya aṅga, he's the principal part of your transaction, your realisation, your service, and in every case his guidance will be necessary.

So don't try to be perfect, that is the greatest disease. That is almost Māyāvādā, that I am Brahma so ham. Dāso ham, that is healthy mantram, formula, dāso ham always. Mahāprabhu says: dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ:

nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśyo na śūdro nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gr̥ha-patir no vana-stho yatir vā kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānanda-pūrṇāmṛtābdher gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ

"I am not a priest, a king, a merchant, or a labourer (brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra); nor am I a student, a householder, a retired householder, or a mendicant (brahmacārī, gr̥hastha, vānaprastha, sannyaśī). I identify myself only as the servant of the servant of the servant of the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the gopīs, who is the personification of the fully expanded (eternally self-revealing) nectarean ocean that brims with the totality of Divine Ecstasy." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.80)

That is Mahāprabhu Himself saying like that. For whom? Only for the newcomers, and not for us? So one who thinks that he's in perfection, perfect stage, because he's appointed as ācārya, then he's in the highest position, his position is invulnerable, undisputable, unassailable, if they think like that they're gone, finished.

Devotee: Mahārāja, we're told that when our Gurudeva used to offer obeisance to Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta, Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta would say: "Dāso smi."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, to everyone, everyone, whoever he is, not only his disciples, dāso smi.

Once it so happened, I was, I did not join the Maṭh but I am coming and going, in Calcutta, that hired house. And I saw that he's sitting straight but whoever is coming and making bow, bow down, and he bends his waist and dāso smi, in this way. I thought it came in my mind that we are once bending our head, and he the saint, he's always bending his head in response to so many, so I should not bow down to him. That was my conclusion, at least I shall give some relief. So I mentally I honoured him and passed away. I put this question to another senior disciple that I did so.

"Why you did?" A little excited.

Then I explained the position that incidently he had to bend down and I thought that that must be very troublesome for him so at least I'll give him a relief. With this idea.

"Then it is all right."

I mentally offered my obeisance to him but not physically, only from this. Then he supported me.

"Of course if that is your idea you are all right."

So dāso smi dāso smi. Men are passing through his door towards the meeting, meeting is there on the, there is a seat built on the roof and he's in the door, and this is the staircase, and by his front they had to go. So anyone whose coming and offering obeisance and in return he's dāso smi in this way, always dāso smi, dāso smi, dāso smi. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

I am your servant. I am servant. I want to cleanse the temple in your heart. Hari Mandeer. The Guru, he wants to cleanse the heart of the disciple, his Guṇḍicā-mārjana. Then that Kṛṣṇa is sitting there, I must cleanse the heart, that throne. So the duty of a servant.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

talabhate duhkha vadana tasyu kam kalena sadvat manapamanaya stulam tulyam mitrayi bhakrai ?

We should not hanker for honour, respect only. Whatever comes from Him we must try to take it on our head. Gaura Hari bol! Ultimately it is passing through him.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That German disciple of our Guru Mahārāja, Harispujaya(?), he asked Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura). Prabhupāda asked him to go with a party somewhere but he very modestly put that: "We in Germany we first make a program, sometimes three months ago, sometimes a month ago, then we do accordingly. But here at least one week ago if any program including me, it can at least one week ago, if I get the information it is better for me."

But our Guru Mahārāja answered: "I get intimation only five minutes ago. How can I give you one week ago?"

So things are such. Committee program, all the machinery things should be handled with that spirit, that spirit. It is dictation coming and you are to transmit that. To deal with higher subjective element and if that is autocrat then there is no estimation about that. Our preparation for the service must be of that type and attitude. Always busy, wait, what will be the dictation from up above? We are to carry out that. This should be the general nature of a devotee.

Everyone waiting with folded palms to receive the order and try to carry out that. That is the way of living with higher subjects, always expectant attitude. A servant near the master, whatever order is coming I am to with vacant mind, the plan, program, I am doing from here, carrying out, of lower order. We must try to live in the vicinity of the autocrat master. Of course the general program is there, Hari-kīrtana.

In Vṛndāvana also we are told that those that are trying to follow the different līlā which is occurring every day in different places of Vṛndāvana, the bābājīs, not very simple bābājī. In the beginning they're to go on with a formal chart. The rasa is there and what will be our duty, if there is dearth then what to do, what will be one's function? In this way they get a training something like that, training, something like rehearsal. And we are told that our higher stage they can catch or understand where the rasa-līlā is to take its seat today, he gets the clue, and they go to attend that place. "Today the rasa-līlā will be in Vṛndāvana, today it will be in Govardhana, today that part, that part." The nitya-līlā is there and they're getting some connection, some clue, and they go there and try to participate. In this way it is a custom amongst them. Some might have seen sometimes they get some suggestion within their mind, revelation in their mind that, "Today the rasa-līlā is going to take its seat in such and such place. So let us go there and service to watch our things may happen if ordered we can see or can't see this way."

So the living pastimes. In the beginning the rehearsal and next the living thing where it is occurring, to attend that.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Subjective character, that is all important thing for us. We are going to connect with the master world, not to make program with an objective world and to go on with our program.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!

Whatever we do we must be conscious of the fact. Awaiting for the decision from the higher zone, higher level.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Whose men have come? Jaya Tīrtha Mahārāja's?

Devotee: Yes. One of them has a question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's coming from London?

Devotee: Yes. All from London.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Known to Mr. John (Edmundson)? No? Is he known? What is his question?

Devotee: I've been told that the pure devotee, his consciousness is dovetailed with the Supreme Consciousness of the Lord. And yet we see that there are different opinions amongst pure devotees. Can you explain why?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: (?)

Devotee: His question is why are there differences amongst the pure devotees?

Devotee: Of opinions once their consciousness is dovetailed with the Supreme?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may be of two types. One type, the highest type, the differentiative character of the līlā. Different group of services with apparent different interest and they're to make arrangement accordingly with them. The rasa has got its respective connection, relation with another rasa. Even it is said that the vātsalya and madhura rasa they're antagonistic, antagonistic. Yaśodā is serving vātsalya rasa and the madhura rasa servitors the gopīs their interest is opposite. Yaśodā wants that her boy may take full rest at night, His sleep may not be disturbed then His health will be broken. But the madhura rasa servitors their interest just the opposite.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So even in the perfect ideal of the rasa there may be some difference. Only one instance extreme I show but such differences we can find small or great in the vilāsa līlā. That is of one type. And another type when we do not realise all of us of same standard when there is difference in our realisation according to our calculation difference cannot but be, but be. So when we do not know the whole thing there may be difference. And in the ideal also there is some difference. That is concerning ideal. And there is the realisation according to our stage of devotion there cannot but be difference. So in sādhana and siddha difference may be there.

But generally we are to think that we are not in perfect condition so our differences will be due to our realisation, degree of realisation. Everything varied, varied, but the difference amongst the main principles that is deplorable and that will cause disturbance to the newcomers. It is a great catastrophe for the newcomers, newcomers. They have come with open faith of a very mild standard, they can't, their faith is not so high, so intense that they will be able to tolerate many things which seems to be like discord. The difficulty is with them so whenever such things to be happening, generally the madhyama-adhikārī Vaiṣṇava should try to keep the beginners outside. They should not be allowed to enter into these discussions and differences, and the quarrel and litigation, all these things. This is only reserved for madhyama-adhikārī.

bhaktim-icchātā

"O great sage! If one aspires for devotional service one should perform all one's activities, whether they are mundane or Vedic, in such a way that is favourable for the service of Śrī Hari." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.93)

(From Nārada-Pañcarātra)

Whether it is social affairs or any śāstric affairs, discussions, what is the real standpoint, what will be the real good, beneficent. According to their stage they will try to struggle, quarrel. One says: "No, this will be good." Another says: "No, that will be, this defect is there in your program." Some quarrel may come even amongst the sincere souls. But still the kaniṣṭha-adhikārīs, the beginners, must not be allowed in that circle. Kaniṣṭha-adhikārī, the stage of first training, that cannot tolerate all these things. But still it is there in madhyama-adhikārī.

To use all our faculties in connection with Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Love and laughter, we have to quarrel, sometimes we have to go to litigation, sometimes new differences in our realisations concerning understanding of the proper meaning of the particular mantram or the scriptures, particular poem of the scriptures, many differences, discussions. It is not undesirable, sometimes it is necessary.

yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, yaj juhoṣi dadāsi yat yat tapasyasi kaunteya, tat kuruṣva mad arpaṇam

"O son of Kuntī, whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you offer in sacrifice, whatever you offer in charity, and whatever austere vows you may keep - do everything as an offering unto Me." (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.27)

"Good or bad, whatever is within you that must be thrown for the object of My service."

kama kṛṣṇa kamatmana krodha bhakta deśi jali lobha sadhu sanga hari katha ?

It may be adjusted in such way. I have got anger, that anger should be tried to be utilised in favour of the service of the Lord, krodha bhakta deśi jali, who has come to attack the devotees, I may use my anger against him. In this way, in this way. To make the best of a bad bargain. So many tendencies are in my mind and when I went to, wanted transformation wholesale within my mental system I shall try to adjust them in such a way. That in connection with divine service I shall try to utilise them in that stage. The diplomacy, diplomacy knowledge I have got, that also may be utilised for the service. In this way whatever one has got he may try to utilise that as much as possible for the service of the Lord. In that way he will be able to purge out them very soon and very easily.

"O son of Kuntī, whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you offer in sacrifice, whatever you offer in charity, and whatever austere vows you may keep - do everything as an offering unto Me." (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.27)

And then:

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇam vraja ahaṁ tvām sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ

"Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair." (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66)

Next higher stage. Then when it will be very little you leave it, leave them all and become one with cetana, soul, brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā:

brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām

"The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema- bhakti) unto Me."

(Bhagavad-gītā, 18.54)

In the brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā stage, jñāna-miśra-bhakti, and sarva-dharmān parityajya, and yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, that is karma-miśra, and sarva-dharmān parityajya, means from karma-miśra to jñāna-miśra. And then real bhakti begins:

jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva jīvanti san-mukharitām
bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vāñ-manobhir ye
prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām

"Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3)

Not to keep connection independent of the connection with karma and jñāna. Only to take the help of ruciḥ, taste, taste, whatever is my condition but is I've got taste and I have got the connection of the sādhu, the taste will take me up very strongly and very safely to the right direction. Only sādhu saṅga is all important. My taste to hear from the lips of a real sādhu, sādhu, where the real God consciousness has begun, my taste for real God consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. That is the most valuable thing. Then all will go away in no time and the taste will take me upwards.

Mahāprabhu says here: "It is, it is the beginning. Otherwise from other stages we may fall back." But if you've got real taste when the real Kṛṣṇa consciousness then we are safe. Gauḍīya Maṭh: "Yes, it is, it is the beginning of the real life of a real devotee, it is here." The real God consciousness and the real taste of the disciple and he's fortunate enough to have a real relation with real God consciousness."

All other qualifications, non qualifications, all ignored. Jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva jīvanti san-mukharitām, above calculation. The faith has begun in its original form, in its real form here. Now faith has given shelter to this disciple and he's safe. Otherwise by calculation, by using our knowledge in drawing the comparison of the goodness of this world and that world, these are all very weak things. Cannot be and not reliable, but faith is real and faith has got its real characteristic. Must have a connection with a real sādhu and he will find inner taste to that.

Here Mahāprabhu sanctions: "Yes, here it begins. The life of a devotee proper begins here. He has crossed the line of danger of māyā." The calculation cannot be dependent on, relied upon, calculation can't help us to reach the proper place. But sukṛti and śraddhā, nirguṇa, independent, śraddhā.

(Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written: "Giving up everything, let us sing in praise of Śraddhā-devī - faith - whose grace can take us to Kṛṣṇa.")

Firm faith, that is most valuable thing to me. No knowledge and no energy, amount of energy, this money, men, worldly wealth, all energy. But energy and knowledge, both are futile. Only śraddhā, faith, that is our inner, our inner function. Why? Knowledge means doubt, knowledge means in the background there is doubt, suspicion, and he wants to that elimination and acceptance, this is good this is bad, this is the symptom for the badness and goodness, calculation. It is not automatic.

Knowledge, the possibility of suspicion in the background 'I will be deceived, I shall have to understand.' He's in the plane of treachery atmosphere, suspicious. And he's to calculate and find out what is true what is untrue, all these things. So he's living in the plane of suspicion, doubt, etc, knowledge means that.

But faith, he has reached such a plane where no treachery is possible, no room of any suspicion, no room. In that country any suspicion is not to be found because those that are living in the soil, they do not know what is cheating, deception. So simple dealings there. Then we have come to the real side where calculation is not necessary, not necessary. Such a safe plane we have come to. So sakala chāḍiyā bhāi, śraddhādevīra guṇa gāi, faith, when we have connection within us the faith, and also the genuine party, genuine party as my Guru I have got. This connection will be happiest for the soul.

Mahāprabhu says: "Yes, here it is. Now go further." Otherwise, eho bāhya: "This is superficial, this is superficial. Go ahead, go forward." eho bāhya, eho bāhya, eho bāhya now here it is. Go, make further progress."

Jñāna sunya bhakti, that is śraddhā, śraddhā. And śraddhā cannot be exploited. Real śraddhā will take us to a particular place. Śraddhā, there the guidance of the Supreme. None can seduce one who has got real śraddhā. Through faith you will understand the real thing. Innate attraction, my heart feels very confident here in his. And he may be an illiterate, may be a poor person devoid of all this worldly resources but heart will select his company automatically right so, a friend, a selection of friends, the heart will guide him surely to a proper... He may not know but that will seem to be very congenial to him, that company of devotees. So: na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati: that is the greatest solace for us.

pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatim tāta gacchati

"O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated." (Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40)

That ignorance cannot be in general, cannot be, it is not ignorance proper but illiteracy or something like that. That cannot stand in our way. It is some other thing. A beast can approach, a scholar can hate only. Ha, ha. It may be given of such order.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So we need not worry much. Still it is all undesirable, especially for the beginners, differences between the upper persons whom we consider to be upper rank. They're quarrelling and the lower class cannot but be disturbed. So they try to avoid as much as possible. At that time they may give their attention towards the scriptures. Less quarrelling, scriptures also quarrelling, because they recommend advises of different stages, so there is also quarrel. Everywhere progress means quarrel, elimination and acceptance, that means quarrel. One condemns another, progress means such, we can't avoid it altogether, but still the progress is there. We must not be afraid.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Progressive, progress.

Devotee: Śrīdhara Mahārāja, as disciples of Śrīla Tīrthapāda, we can see that our spiritual master is very much attached to you and he has very much affection for you. But we are also seeing that some other people, his Godbrothers, also pure devotees, ācāryas, are feeling not similar in their view point. And when you said earlier that the kaniṣṭha-adhikārī should not be allowed to hear the discussion of the upper class devotees, we are hearing these discussions without even wanting to and we are becoming confused. Could you please Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is he?

Devotee: He is Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam Prabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Devotee: He is a disciple of our Jaya Tīrtha Mahārāja. He says that my Guru Mahārāja Jaya Tīrtha Mahārāja is very much attached and affectionate to your divine grace. And we consider ourselves kaniṣṭha but we should not hear adverse things but we cannot but hear these things. And there are differences in other ācāryas and they are considered by us pure devotees. So we feel some confusion.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So you may think it will be if well meaning, you will not allow yourself to enter into that plane. But to waste your energy, but in the mean time you may utilise your energy in some other form of duties. You may attend to the books, you may not give attention to the quarrelling stage. That will be more considerate and useful to you or men of your stage. Gradually we shall come to know what is what, but now because I don't understand I am being puzzled, I don't go that side, I may utilise my energy in another place. That policy you may take.

Suppose one cannot go where the fighting is going on, killing, blood shedding, all these things, but he may utilise himself in services far from where the fighting is going on. In that way. You can utilise your energy, you can't tolerate the bloodshed, and so in a peaceful place, or suppose the supply of food and the nursing of the patients in hospital, you can utilise your energy there. And those that love fighting they will run towards the front and with such vigour fight.

side B, Śrī Gadādhara Paṇḍita, May 83.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:my heart's pūjā, the Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead, the Caitanya conception of Godhead, they're of such level, such high level, and with fine taste that has touched my heart and burned all other prospects there. Captured wholly. Do or die. Rather I shall, I must get that or I do not want to get anything, I want to die, efface my existence. But if to maintain my existence I want to live only in that sort of holy atmosphere whatever little is extended to me through any agent or agency. This should be our attitude about this.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Today is the birthday, advent day of Gadādhara Paṇḍita. This is amāvāsyā, on a new moon, dark night. Mahāprabhu came in the full moon and He drawn the whole from Gadādhara Paṇḍita, made him quite empty. He had to come in a black night. In His case it will be full moon.

Kṛṣṇa was in the middle, aśtamī. Rādhārāṇī was in the middle. But when Both combined went to capture the full moon. And Gadādhara Paṇḍita for his, only the blackest night to come down to here.

Injustice, he tolerated such injustice, his whole life was the ignored life, the whole wealth drawn from his heart. Rādhārāṇī. Everything drawn by Kṛṣṇa to enhance His līlā with audārya (generosity) combined. And the real owner, now he's treated like a bankrupt, he's bankrupt in his own wealth, that is the position. And he passed away also in amāvāsyā in the dark new moon, Gadādhara Paṇḍita.

And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura also adopted that and Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) says: gadādhara arindari payaca gaura hari ? Prabhupāda saw, marked something common in Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and Gadādhara Paṇḍita. And they passed away on the same day.

"The day of disappearance is congruent with that of Gadādhara. In this connection you got the grace of Śrī Gaurāṅga. You are favourite of him."

In this way Prabhupāda saw. And in another place:

sadagal gaura kṛṣṇa yadi ?

This Navadvīpa Dhāma, eternal pastimes are always going on. Sometimes underground, always underground, sometimes on the surface. Prabhupāda looking in this way. Always nitya-līlā underground, underground to us where we are awake, that we call the surface, over the surface. And we are absent in the deep, another stage of consciousness what is underground to us.

sadagal gaura krsna yadi ?

Now suddenly they have come over the surface. Gadādhara Paṇḍita and Svarūpa Dāmodara, both, and Svarūpa Dāmodara came as Gaura Kiśora, and Gadādhara Paṇḍita came as Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura.

rakal gaur sri gauri chai dui mayi mahi kahi muni aprakṛta apayi sa lokata rakal sayal dini bajay cata gaura devi aprakasa pata chata pata ?

This is not to be given expression to any and every place. This is concealed truth. Prabhupāda says not to express it anywhere and everywhere. This is the fact. They're always here continuing their own function for participation in the līlā of Gaurāṅga. Sometimes underground sometimes over ground. That will be difficult to recognise them. I suddenly found Svarūpa Dāmodara as Gaura Kiśora and Gadādhara Paṇḍita as Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. They most graciously gave me that sort of teaching, I could see in them the true pāṣada, the eternal companion of Gaurāṅga I found. Prabhupāda mentioned in his introduction to his Caitanya-caritāmṛta, this all conclusion summary, purport in the conclusion of the Amavasya of Caitanya-caritāmṛta it is given. Gaura Hari. The eternal nature of eternity and infinite is anything and everything. We are child of the limited soil, we are child limited aspect of the world. Many things impossible to us. We are accustomed to think that everything is impossible, only what I have got in my little experience that is possible and other things are all impossible. We are trained to think like that. But if we think about infinite it is just the opposite. Anything and everything may be possible, bad or good, that is also of infinite character. In the transcendent world the goodness also have no end and different gradation in that. In this we are to make advanced progress so that thought comes.

Pratyakṣa, parokṣa, aparokṣa, adhokṣaja, and aprakṛta, these five layers of knowledge. Pratyakṣa, where we are awake now. Parokṣa, we also consider other's sense experience to be a part of our knowledge. Aparokṣa, which is independent of all our experienced world, and where we faint, that is samādhī, we can't feel our new environment but our personal consciousness in slumber, deep slumber. Only personal consciousness without any conception of the environment. Their position. And then by the grace of the higher world when they take us in there then we wonderfully have some sort of experience of the transcendental world by their grace, by their mercy, not as a matter of right. Then that is in the highest stage, aprakṛta, very similar to this world of my limited experience but it holds the highest position of existence and sweetness in every way. Sambhanda (?) and ecstasy ignored. That has been given to us. If I have got śraddhā:

"Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair." (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66)

I am in my home, I am in such a position

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: this is all mundane, nothing, come to Me, I shall feed you amply. You won't be able to taste such sweetness that's there in unlimited way. So I can say very easily give up everything you have got. What have you got? Nothing. In your experience, the wealth you have got, janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhī (Bhagavad-gītā, 13. 9), now it is, and will pass, it will leave you, it will disappoint you next moment so nothing you have got. So give up the mania for the attraction for the environment you are in the midst of at present and come, jump and come to Me, desperately, and I shall give you shelter and you will be compensated amply."

This is the call of Bhagavad-gītā, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Mahāprabhu also: "Give up everything, take the Name of the Lord and prepare yourself to go to home. You are not created for this trifling, for this mean, dishonourable life. Your home is there. If you like you can come there. You are in the midst of the cremation ground, free yourself from the cremation ground and try to have your inner fulfilment and the worth of your existence here, in this way. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Here I close.

Devotee: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrīdhara Mahārāja has got no faith in experiment, in the empirical experiment system. That very system or that very path has been abhorrently rejected. Tana, tana, tana, neti, neti, neti. The method of searching in the empirical method, that has been rejected on principle. Why? That is then one can understand what is the meaning of the revealed truth. Infinite should come to finite, finite cannot search after infinite. With that method necessary to invite infinite to come and not to understand infinite by any intellectual or empirical or ascending method. Śrauta siddhānta, śrauta panthā has been accepted, the method that the truth can reveal.

nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām

"One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-

(Kaṭha Upaniṣad, 1.2.23) + (Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad, 2.3.2)

This principle should be understood. One who can understand this principle properly he will reject the method of experiment and make progress towards. This is inductive process. We have no faith in that, only yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas. Whomever He will come to make Him known to he will know Him, none else. In one place one can know and another cannot know. And when He wills to know how to whom he will know in that way.

mallānām aśanir nṛṇām naravaraḥ strīṇām smaro mūrttimān gopānām
svajano 'satām kṣitibhujām śāstā svapitro śīśuḥ mṛtyur bhojapater virāḍ aviduṣām tattvaṁ paraṁ yoginām vṛṣṇīnām paradevateti vidito raṅgaṁ gataḥ sāgrajāḥ

"O King, Śrī Kṛṣṇa then appeared as a thunderbolt to the wrestlers, as the supreme male to the men, as Cupid incarnate to the ladies, as a friend to the cowherdsmen; as an emperor to the wicked kings, as a child to His father and mother, as death to Kāṁsa, as the universal form of the world to the ignorant; as the Supreme Truth to the yogīs, as the Supreme Worshipful Lord to the Vṛṣṇis - and along with Baladeva He entered the arena."(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.43.17)

In this way in one place people will know Him in a variegated way as He wills them to know Him. Without, a blind man can see Him, by His will only. Dhṛtarāṣṭra wanted: "For the time being, remove my blindness."

"No, no. Your physical blindness is not necessary to be removed. I say you see Me you will be able to see Me." And that was done. Without removing blindness, Dhṛtarāṣṭra only by His order could see Him. What does it mean? Everything is the effect of His will, all subjective cause and no importance of any objective representation. Two reasons, objective representation is only valid in the case of physical senses. But the whole thing, the transcendental truth is coming from up to down. "You see Me in this way." Arjuna saw Him in that way. "Arjuna you saw Me in this way, I am so and so." Arjuna saw that. Only the subject is being controlled by the higher subject and the experience comes from that, especially that higher experience of the conscious world, the super conscious world. It can never come by any other way, what to speak of this material thing. Material thing has been used by the tantric, the Śiva section, and that is only with this idea.

emam nimam kriya yoga sadve samsiti raypaday ta eva atmabi nasaya kalpanti kalpita varay ?

In the midst of many exciting temptations, if we practice God consciousness we may pass the examination in that way. In the midst of fear, in the sasam, tantric, the tantric they go to the cremation ground and takes his seat on the chest of a dead body and they make their yajña. In the case of fear, fighting with the tendency of fear within and defeating it, I am going on practising my meditation, or something. So many tests. To do some practises with the company of a beautiful young girl. Young girls generally attracts but in spite of her attraction if I can stand going on in my japam or meditation I make some progress. This is the process that has been accepted by those. Wherever there is temptation, in the midst of that temptation as a challenge to that temptation I am going on with this. So this is another, this is also some sort of inductive process.

But the Absolute is quite free, He does not care for anything. So only His sweet will can give Him to us. How to get, attract His sweet will? That has been told that only by surrender, by surrender to Him we can attract His attention and His grace, His sympathy, so that He will come to me, He will express Himself in me out of His sweet will. His sweet will is the cause to get Him and how to attract His sweet will?

That is the problem, that has been told that only by surrender, only by humiliation, only by our prayer, acute and very piteous prayer. "I am so poor, so needy, I want Your grace." In this way my prayer to draw His attention towards us. This is bhakti and no other process can force Him to come to me, then that will be greater God. As Hegel says: "If anything can create God then he's higher God." God must have His full independence in Him. "Nothing can give Him, and everything for Him." These two criterions we should keep in mind. "Everything for Him." So until and unless one comes in that standard to accept that everything is for His līlā, I am to merge within His līlā. He won't be moved but I have to be moved in a certain way that I can be harmonised with Him. Then I can get Him, His connection. Otherwise dislocated. And nothing outside can give Him to me. His devotees means His own, the same thing. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā:

sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulkāṁ tanum

"The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti-yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, and thus, even within this world, their spiritualised bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end."(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31)

And bhakti it has been told it is eternal, it is not created, it cannot be given by anybody. But bhakti is there and those who are already in bhakti, they can by His order can extend it. This is the nature, nothing can produce bhakti, bhakti is eternal, bhakti is self-sufficient, and bhakti can give bhakti, and nothing else can give bhakti, devotion proper. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā. Ahaitukī apratihātā, bhakti has no cause (no hetu) that something will come and advertise: "I can create bhakti." No, it is causeless, it is eternal, and irresistible. When it will come in its own way, it comes in its own way and that can never be resisted by any other power in the world.

The God's function, bhakti, sevā, it is simultaneously existing and similar with God, His particular potency. Without bhakti there cannot be any God, without service, without devotion, dedication, there cannot be any God. If God exists then dedication for His purpose, to fulfil His purpose is there. Everything for Himself, that means everything has got its function towards His satisfaction.

That is bhakti, irresistible. It is independent and it is irresistible and none can give bhakti but bhakti, only bhakti can give bhakti. And the bhaktas who are already merged in bhakti, they can as the agent of bhakti. So it is independent and all free, independent and self-asserting substance. Not any relative, not created, not dependent of any other thing. We are after such absolute, absolute.

And in the scriptures also it has been dealt like that by the ācāryas previous, Vaiṣṇava ācāryas. Other gods may be attempted or may be gained by different methods, but the Absolute has got this particular process and means to attain it, śaraṇāgati, surrender to Him. Not that He will come to you but you will have to go to Him fully, surrender means that. You will accept Him fully then He will reveal Himself within you. You are to accept everything for Himself, you are also for Himself, no other alternative ambition you have got. Everything for Him, you are for Him cent per cent when you accept then you are taken in.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

And in the ācārya, especially those ācāryas that we have come under to learn from them, they're also of this opinion we find from their teachings in different places. So we can never accept a new thing which we ourselves can see with what little knowledge we have got. That nothing if I go to take help from some other thing then I minimise the Absolute to that extent. If I go to a second thing, than Him, then thereby I minimise His position, undermine His position that He's not absolute. If He's absolute then the cause of attaining Him must be within Him not outside.

And whatever He accepts, that Prasāda, we will have to take Prasāda, that mentality will help if it is helping connecting Him. And whatever, if we offer meat to Nārāyaṇa it is redundant because in the revealed scriptures He has already said that this is not the method. So also the fish, the meat, the drinking, this wine and others, so many things that will be ordinarily objectionable, that's not included in the least of the other objects that could be offered to Nārāyaṇa. It is mentioned there in the śāstra.

Only the empiricist who are from outside they're in the process of enquiry of the truth, it is in them, this intoxication, this tantric, wine drinking, this meat eating, and this girl enjoying. All these are in the empirical section and not in the devotional section. Devotional section as revealed truth has come down from the ācārya they surrender to that and gradually try to go up. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So we can never accept that, not in the ācārya, Vaiṣṇava, and the Vaiṣṇava scripture, Vaiṣṇava saints and Vaiṣṇava scripture has never allowed these things, this is all:

viddhi vīṇa vāikāntikī bārī bhakti utpada eva kevalam ?

Generally we should consider the life and the character of the higher souls, the Guru and Vaiṣṇava of the upper section in whose line at least we have accepted our goal. How their conduct, what is their practice, and what is their writings, what is their speech, advice? All these things we are to consider. At least this sort of honesty should be expected within us that we are followers of our Guru and the Guru paramparā, the recognised Vaiṣṇava. We must follow them, we must not supersede. Submissive to our Guru and Vaiṣṇava. That should be our conduct.

This will be, a sensible man will laugh at these suggestions and modifications in the line of pure devotional methods, a laughing stock. A new invention. That's the out come of previous black samskara, impulse acquired in the previous life. Otherwise it can never be explained.

purva samskara, purva samskr̥ti ? And, ravati purvati hitam jataji citato bhuyo ?

These run after the soul from previous lives, the tendency that was acquired there. Whenever that impulse will attack anybody he will try his utmost to get out of that suggestion and that mental tendency. That a demon has come to attack me in the form of a particular impulse and new suggestion crossing my previous ācārya and insulting them in other words. What they have advised to reject, to be away from, and I am trying to introduce that very nuisance into the sampradāya.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

This is tamasic. Satvic, pure mind can follow what is the line of the truth. And in rajasic there is doubt whether this is true or that is true. And tamasic, what is bad to try to understand and give vent to others that this is the truth. What is not truth, to try utmost to establish that in the throne of truth, that is tamasic. And this intoxication, other things, meat eating, all tamasic. So sheer ignorance, tama means ignorant mainly. The tamasic tendency, ignorance that has, Yamunācārya has remarked against his enemy:

tesam ajnanam eva aparādha date na tu aisa matan dosa ?

In a very affectionate tone he's making remark against the opposition party. "That their ignorance is responsible, let them live long, they have no crime, no offence. But their ignorance is responsible for this remark of this sort of understanding, ignorance we are to blame and not the man who is ignorant." Tesam ajnanam eva aparādha date na tu aisa matan dosa ? "Let them live long, my affectionate children they have not got so much fault but their ignorance is responsible for all their erroneous activity." This is Yamunācārya, the Guru of Rāmānujācārya. His expression, his remark is like that against the Śāṅkara school.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Where is Sarvabhauma?

So no possibility of any support from such campaign from here. I am the worst enemy of all such new suggestion and movement and creation and all these things. I like him, I had affection for him, for his simplicity, and for his self abnegation. But from where this curse has come in him I shudder to think of it. That is my position. I want that he may be washed, he may be purified of these filthy things as soon as possible by the grace of Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu. This is my present attitude towards him. As soon as he'll be absolved, purified from this poisonous, filthy impulse he will be saved. Let Nityānanda Prabhu save him. It can never be tenable under any circumstances in any intensity or in any type or modified or wholesale.

The simple way, our generous and higher predecessors they have traced a particular path and we must try to go that way and not to create another short cut.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, in the scriptures it is said that in Kali-yuga so many concocted processes will come.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, maybe it is likely. Kali means kala means quarrel, quarrel means clash of many opinions in many interests, Kali. So many interests, many paths will come and they quarrel with one another. That is Kali. Kali means the separationist they will have the greater field of different opinion. In Kali everyone will think himself a model, an ācārya. "What I think I know that is the best." And they will come to quarrel, so quarrel in an extensive way means everyone thinks that he's perfect, he's the absolute, and whatever he understands that must be. This is Kali. So:

kaler doṣa-nidhe rājann asti hy eko mahān guṇaḥ kīrttanād eva kṛṣṇasya mukta-saṅgaḥ param vrajet

Śukadeva Goswāmī tells Parīkṣit Mahārāja: "O King, the age of Kali, the repository of all evils, has but one glorious characteristic: in this age, those who simply chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa are liberated and reach the Supreme Lord."

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.3.51)

Take the shelter in the sound divine. Then also there are so many, "Why Kṛṣṇa, not Kali, not Jesus, not God? That is also one and the same." Everywhere they doubt understanding.

Kṛṣṇa, the attraction, the affection, the affection, the attraction, that is our solace, the Absolute attraction. That is love, love, love is above all, and love must be divine, not this lady love, or fame loving, or money loving, but God loving, conception of God, God the love, God is love. We must try to love one another and to go to the land of love divine. And to differentiate any other things from God from us, that is lust going on in the name of love here, we are to eliminate. And this money loving, so many loving, love of fame that must be eliminated and directed towards the unseen, the attractive, the centre of love.

Love means dedication. We try to understand the science of love. As much love so much dedication for the cause. That is love, the criterion of love is that, dedication, self sacrifice, yajña, sacrifice, to be habituated to give something for others taste, others pleasure, that is yajña. Love is the highest and purest and divine form of yajña, yajña means to sacrifice. Dedication, as much dedication and dedication to a partial representation cannot but be partial. The dedication to the whole centre absolute that is to be acquired, the spirit of dedication.

Bhakti means bhajana, dedication, dedication, and not temporary dedication by applying any medicine to forget ones own self. To get an injection or a pill then I am unconscious, that is not dedication. And to have a dream of this and that thing in a sleeping stage, that is also not dedication. Wholesale dedication standing, awaking, fully awake we must march towards dedication. Dedication for the country is very famous and widely accepted. One whose dedicating himself for the cause of his own county, patriotism, patriotism is found, dedication is found in patriots. But that is all partial while fighting with any camp so many killings, that is dedication. So dedication is not extended selfishness, dedication for the whole centre. All accommodating Absolute, that sort of dedication should be developed within us, it is already there

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Freedom is the highest type of slavery, slavery and freedom comes together. Rare combination, both slavery to the extreme and one can find freedom there. It is miraculous. So surrendered that they're enjoying a kind of freedom. Does not care for themselves at all. Deha-smṛti nāhi yāra, saṁsāra-kūpa kāhān:

(deha-smṛti nāhi yāra, saṁsāra-kūpa kāhān tāra, tāhā haite nā cāhe uddhāra viraha-samudra-jale, kāma-tiṁgile gile, gopī-gaṇe neha' tāra pāra)

(Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu continued: "The gopīs are fallen in the great ocean of separation, and they are being devoured by the tiṁgila fish, which represent their ambition to serve You. The gopīs are to be delivered from the mouths of these tiṁgila fish, for they are pure devotees. Since they have no material conception of life, why should they aspire for liberation? The gopīs do not want that liberation desired by the yogīs and jñānīs, for they are already liberated from the ocean of material existence.")(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.142)

How there can be, can come any bondage where they're not conscious of their own individual selves? No bondage is apprehended, no apprehension of any bondage because they're not conscious of their own individual existence. Deha-smṛti nāhi yāra, saṁsāra-kūpa kāhān tāra, tāhā haite nā cāhe uddhāra: they do not care to work out their salvation from any condition. "For Kṛṣṇa's sake anything and everything. Good bad whatever it is of equal value to us."

Svargāpavarga-narakeṣv, api tulyārtha-darśinaḥ: Whether hell or heaven of equal value to them. Svargāpavarga-naraka, nārāyaṇa-parāḥ sarve, na kutaścana. They're never to be cowed down to be afraid of anything.

nārāyaṇa-parāḥ sarve, na kutaścana svargāpavarga-narakeṣv, api tulyārtha-darśinaḥ

Whether hell or heaven or liberation of equal value to them. So much so they're mad in the service of Kṛṣṇa. Dedication is so great and intense. So slavery and freedom, this is very wonderful, slavery and freedom mixed together. The highest degree of slavery there they find freedom. So selflessness, so intense selflessness is possible and that is Vṛndāvana the land of love. Love, sacrifice to the highest degree love means, love means sacrifice to the highest degree. And none to be loser because everyone there is of that temperament so no possibility of losing anything because the whole atmosphere is of the type. All take, take, take, take everything, take. No underground blackmailing so everything is cheap, everything is cheap where aggrandisement taking things from the market put underground then there is dirth in the market, and here everything comes in the market

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

From the tree, bird, insect, all lilanukulyam yat kinca tena guna mati gato matama ?

The idea of land is such, from the highest to the lowest, from animate to so-called inanimate, all taken up no other beloved thing to the market, so opulence. Lilanukulyam (?) all helpful, all the motives to help Kṛṣṇa-līlā, the satisfaction, the enjoyment of Kṛṣṇa. That centred opulence there and no one hides the capital into the iron chest, all out in the soul's market.

So this is the peculiar thing, the slavery and freedom.

Slave consciousness is not there, by giving them, by offering them, they consider that they're fortunate, fortunate they've got chance to offer themselves for Kṛṣṇa so they're fortunate. It is a great fortune to be allowed to offer something for Kṛṣṇa and His devotees of that type. They all think that, "we are fortunate that our things are being utilised for the service of the Lord with His own." So slavery is fortune there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

I was in Madras when Gandhi was invited to parliament for a round table conference after his second movement of civil disobedience. A round table conference was held in England and Gandhi invited, he accepted invitation and went. Then some people came with argument: "Oh, you recommend slavery. How will it be made, maybe slavery kṛṣṇa- dāsa, that kṛṣṇa-dāsa that is the object of life, my life after all is of slavery, slave mentality." At that time when Gandhi went to keep the invitation in the parliament so many applications came to become his personal servitor, secretary, and the selection came with the editor of Hindu, a big high circulation paper in Madras, Hindu. And his editor got the selection to become secretary at that time. Then I told that: "So many persons, so-called genius, they are very eager to get the service of Gandhi. All the so many scholars of leading parcels of the country they're in competition 'who will be the personal secretary of Gandhi.' And secretary, that is assistant, his slave, his servant. To acquire, to get Gandhi's service that is so high to you, but the service of the Lord that is not acceptable to you, you fools, you can't understand what is God. The persons who are making competition to get the service of Gandhi, a man, and they say that to get the service of the Lord is slavery. What is this?"

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So slavery is the highest freedom, it is the opposite mix, it is like a wonderful thing. Koti-mukta-madhye 'durlabha' eka kṛṣṇa-bhakta: Such a free amongst crores of free souls there one can be found in a crore who has been accepted to serve Kṛṣṇa.

(koṭi-jñāni-madhye haya eka-jana 'mukta' koti-mukta-madhye 'durlabha' eka kṛṣṇa-bhakta)

("Out of many millions of such wise men, one may actually become liberated, and out of many millions of such liberated persons, a pure devotee of Lord Kṛṣṇa is very difficult to find.") (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.148)

So what sort of slavery is that we have to calculate. Freedom, so that freedom is something like prostitute, freedom, what does it? Freedom, a free, a small unit of consciousness always vulnerable, always possibility of committing this and that wrong, what value of that? And to get the guardianship of the Supreme Entity, how elevated idea is that? ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānām, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca - suhr̥daṁ sarvva-bhūtānām:

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānām, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca na tu mām
abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te

"-Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death."

bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasām, sarva-loka-maheśvaram suhr̥daṁ sarvva-bhūtānām, jñātvā mām śāntim ṛcchati

"I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshipping object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshipping Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."

To get a guardian in Him who is the highest authority, real guardianship is there. That is more than freedom. One is in the prison, prison-house, in jail, then he's let loose and becomes free. But to be engaged in a good service of the government that is more than freedom from the prison-house. Koti-mukta-madhye 'durlabha' eka kṛṣṇa- bhakta, (C-c, Madhya-līlā, 19.148), that is something positive, dedication is a positive thing and exploitation is negative. Our ideal is always fixed on exploitation, that by exploitation these scientific or, by exploitation we can elevate our position. This idea has entered into the very essence of our constitution, that we can elevate our condition only if we're allowed to exploit the environment. This idea has been so mingled with all our natha's that we can think that dedication is positive property, prema means dedication, love means dedication. The degree of dedication, the degree of love to be calculated. So dedication that is positive and exploitation that is negative. But we are accustomed with the present civilisation so much we cannot think that without exploitation how can we live, a big. Without loan we cannot thrive in this world, international loan, but loan to what purpose? Loan only for eating and food and clothing. Take loan to acquire a position into the land of infinite, Vaikuṇṭha. Then not only you but the loan giver they will also be benefited, so we collect funds only with this idea that collect funds as loan and we make loan for the service of the Lord. That is another thing, taking loan to improve one's condition, real condition. That is no loan, they're all benefited, the loan giver and the loan taker.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. So what is what?

kiṁ karma kim akarmeti, kavayo 'py atra mohitāḥ tat te karma
pravakṣyāmi, yaj jñātvā mokṣyase 'śubhāt

("Even very learned men are baffled in ascertaining the nature of action and inaction. Some cannot comprehend action, while others cannot comprehend inaction. Hence, I shall now teach you about such action and inaction, knowing which you will attain liberation from the evil world.")
(Bhagavad-gītā, 4.16)

The scholars fail to understand what is karma, how we are to exercise our, utilise our energy, karma means to utilise our energy. How we shall utilise our energy the scholars also cannot ascertain what way to go.

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānām, tasyām jāgati samyamī yasyām jāgrati bhūtāni,
sā niśā paśyato muneḥ

Day to one is night to another. So sūrayaḥ, muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ, Bhāgavatam (1.1.1) in the beginning. What of ordinary men, men of ordinary standard of learning and experience, the experts will faint, experts will fail to understand, to follow what I am going to deal with in this book Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. They will be bewildered, experts, the department of experts will be bewildered, will fail to understand what I am going to say in this book Bhāgavatam. Muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ.

Tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti surayaḥ divīva cakṣur ātatam: we can go so far, even those that are always engaged in studying revealed truth, engaged themselves in association of revealed truth, practising, trying to practice that for their own benefit in different way they're well versed with revealed truth.

om tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti surayaḥ divīva cakṣur

paramaṁ padam

(The environment is not dead - an overseer is there. Just as the sun is over our heads, every action is under our guardian's eye. We should approach any duty thinking: "My guardian's eye is always vigilantly watching over me, seeing everything I am doing, and whatever is happening to me. I need not worry about this environment or circumstance.") (Ṛg-Veda, 1.22.20)

Who are suray, tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padam sadā, paśyanti surayaḥ.
Suray may be taken as identified with that class who are always engaged with the connection of Viṣṇu, yaḥ idaṁ viṣṇuḥ vyāpnotīti, all pervading principal. That is who are after eternity, whose enquiry is after eternal things. Even they will be puzzled to know what I am going to give to them in this Bhāgavatam. That ordinary Vedic scholar won't be able to follow what I'm going to say here in Bhāgavatam.

Śrīdhara Swāmī says:

mokṣa viśam jēdavi nehastam prohiḡita jaitavota paramo ?

All sorts of deceptive will have been completely eliminated, so much so that the freedom from māyā, mukti, that is also neglected here. Mukti, generally people think that the revealed truth will give us salvation, liberation from the bondage of māyā. That is what we can expect from the Vedic doctrine, mukti. We shall get liberated from all sorts of difficulties whatsoever, that is the gift of the revealed scriptures. But here it says that has also been discarded strongly. The mukti has nothing, it is an empty hand. With hand with poison, poison left out hand is empty. But hand must be full with nectar.

So muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ, "Oh you scholars, you will have to faint here." As (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja told Acyutānanda: "The discourse what I had with Śrīdhara Mahārāja," Acyutānanda wanted to know: "What sort of discussion you had with Śrīdhara Mahārāja here?" Swāmī Mahārāja told: "Oh you will faint if I talk about that." So muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ, bewildered, faint. The scholars, different authorities of different schools of philosophical thought were present in the assembly of Śukadeva Goswāmī. His representation was so universal and all comprehending that even Nārada, Vyāsa, they also came to listen to that discourse, that great discourse divine.

Universal characteristic this distribution of Śukadeva had the colour of universality. That looking at all different schools of thought, there may be so many schools of thought, but his delivery was of such character that it touched the salient points of all the different schools existing present at that time and connected with Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

That was the speciality of the delivery of Śukadeva Goswāmī who is supposed to be always in connection with spirit and no connection with this mundane world. So much so that a young naked girl does not feel any necessity of covering her body. Śukadeva is passing by a tank and the local girls they are with their naked body playing in the tank. Śukadeva passing no they don't care for him. That he had no attention whatsoever to this mundane world, no charm. Internal capture, all his sense experience is fully captured by the high centre of spiritual existence to a most intense degree. So he never allowed to come down to see things of relishing here in this mundane plane but deeply engaged there with the higher centre. This look does not, the eye does not see the family man things, ear does not care to hear the family names, sweet sound, everything. The touch is not hankering for any softness of the mundane things. All drawn, intensely drawn to the centre, higher. And he, when he came to give delivery of the Kṛṣṇa līlā which apparently seems to be most crooked and most narrow and even demoralised, so narrow that to thief other things and eat, to enjoy other's wives, to speak lie for selfish purpose. All these things represented there, so narrow, so selfish, so self-centred, and that is to be distributed as the most universal. The difficult task, most difficult task. That so selfishness is to be represented the most universal, it is the greatest difficulty to make others understand this thing and he did that, gave universal characteristic to those apparently seeming selfishness.

The nectar of his delivery, his touch, the touch of his experience, spiritual experience, that worked as nectar for so many different schools. So universal it was.

charitable worldly workers (karmīs), nor the world famous, nor the performers of Aśvamedha sacrifices, nor the sages or yogīs, nor persons dedicated to chanting mantras, nor persons of virtuous behaviour- none of them can attain any auspiciousness in life.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.4.17)

"You all, all the different authorities of different departments you are conscious of the fact that ultimately you have to connect with something supramental. What is that thing? You are not independently giving delivery of your goods, you are to connect with something else of some form or other, and what is that? Try to understand, in this way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

The naturally ripe fruit of the tree of truth of revelation. The natural fruit and in ripe condition is Bhāgavatam. Just in the stage of giving taste, taste it, taste it. param drstva nivartate, taste it, all other tastes of your previous life will at once be resolved into ash. Taste this fruit Bhāgavatam. And what is the price? Laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ:

(kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa-bhāvitā matiḥ, kriyatām yadi kuto 'pi labhyate tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate)

Nothing in this world can be conceived to be the real price of this thing but only your soul, you, only the price is your own self. It will be converted into slavery, laulya, your inner attraction, ruci, your greed, your sincere want, sincere hankering for the thing, that is the only price, the sincere hankering. "Do you want it?" "Yes I want." "Take it." Sincere transaction no business like crookedness, diplomacy, simple transaction. "You want it from the core of your heart?" "Yes I want." You'll get it.

Laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate, with crores of attempts to get it from other directions is all futile, only your sincere demand, "I want this." That is what is necessary, nothing else. That transaction, plenary transaction, because concern the interest of both the parties that: "I am Yours."

tasmai diyam tato grahyam ?

"I am Yours, I belong to none." And the Lord is also saying in His line: "I am yours." Both the parties will come to this translation. He will say: "I am Yours." and "Oh, You are mine? I am yours." This sort of opening and transaction, that will take place.

("One who is subjected to birth and death attains immortality when he gives up all material activities, dedicates his life to the execution of My order, and acts according to My directions. In this way, he becomes fit to enjoy the spiritual bliss derived from exchanging loving mellows with Me." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.29.34)

"You are within My family, ātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate."

"Tato mām tattvato jñātvā, viśate tad-anantaram: He enters into Me. What is Me? In My family, He enters into Me."

(bhaktyā mām abhijānāti, yāvān yaś cāsmi tattvataḥ tato mām tattvato jñātvā, viśate tad-anantaram)

Tato mām tattvato jñātvā, viśate, one enters. Tad-anantaram, he knows ontologically who am I, and I am not indifferent thing, nirvisesa, non-differentiated, non-specified thing. Myself means a system, an organised thing. I have got My devotees, I have got My home, I have got so many things, I means that. So tato mām tattvato jñātvā, when he comes to know finally who am I. Who is a king? King means there are many things within him. So when he comes to know really that I am so and so, I have got family, he enters into that, enters into My family. Viśate tad-anantaram, he enters into Me. That does not mean that he loses his individual position, existence. But Me means, "enters into Me," means with Svarūpa-śakti, I am there with My family, with My domain, with so many things necessary for Me, that whole system. And he enters into that."

Ātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate, in Bhāgavatam that is also, "he becomes Mine, Mine does not enter into Me and loses his existence. Ātma-bhūyāya once becomes My own, he becomes My own. I accept him to be My own, ātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi.

Devotee: We see that in Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī he went to Mahāprabhu, then Svarūpa Dāmodara, and then Rūpa Goswāmī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That is seen in the life of Raghunātha Dāsa, Mahāprabhu first handed him over giving charge to Svarūpa Dāmodara. "With this advice that I give the charge of your training to this My friend Svarūpa Dāmodara and he knows even more than Me. So with confidence and with steadiness you try to follow what he advises you to do."

He was doing like that somewhat, then one day again he came to Mahāprabhu. "Why have You taken me out of my home? I can't understand fully. Please say something definite to me what I am to do in my practical life every day dealings."

Then Mahāprabhu: "I have already given Svarūpa Dāmodara as your guardian, teacher, and he will, you may ask him and he will be able to supply all your spiritual necessities. But still if you have got much glamour to hear something direct from Me, I say:

grāmya-kathā nā śunibe, grāmya-vārtā nā kahibe bhāla nā khāibe āra

(Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu told Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī: "Don't indulge in worldly talk, don't hear worldly talk. Try your best to avoid mundane matters. Don't eat delicious dishes, but take whatever ordinary food may come of its own accord; and don't dress luxuriously. Always try to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa with the attitude of giving respect to others, without expecting respect from anyone. Be humble, but never aspire after respectful dealings from others. In this way, try to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa constantly. And within, try to serve Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana. Mentally, be in Vṛndāvana rendering Service to Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa-līlā.")

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 6.236-7)

"Don't indulge yourself in hearing and talking affairs of the mundane world. Don't try to taste good sweet and other tasteful things for your food. And also don't try to get good fashionable dress for you. This is external observance about which I say to you. And internally you will try: vraje rādhā-kṛṣṇa-sevā mānase karibe, nāma sadā la'be, externally you will try to take the Holy Name of Lord Kṛṣṇa, always externally. And internally you will try to aspire after the service of the gopīs in the loving way they served Kṛṣṇa.

Amānī mānada hañā kṛṣṇa-nāma sadā la'be: when you will take the Name you will cast yourself your fate, you will cast in only concentrate yourself only in the sound aspect of the Supreme Lord

..... eternally, your attitude will be to the environment amānī mānada, you try to show respect to anybody you come across but don't get any, don't expect any honour or respect from any side to you, don't expect even that you are a sādhu, the people will give some respect of a sādhu to you, don't expect that. amānī mānada, kṛṣṇa-nāma. In this way you go on taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa. And vraje rādhā-kṛṣṇa-sevā mānase karibe, and internally you will aspire after the service of Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana as done by the gopīs. Vraje rādhā-kṛṣṇa-sevā mānase, both, service of both Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa, that is madhūrya- rasa. You will prepare yourself for the service of that and outwardly take the Name but don't expect any honour from any side but you will give honour to all so that no disturbance may not come to you in your search campaign of life. And more externally you don't try to get anything palatable, comfortable, for dress or for food or for anything else. And don't mix with this talk of the ordinary people at large. Then again after saying this, again I put you."

There is a break, He gave it to Svarūpa Dāmodara as his guardian tutor but when he revolted and again came to ask something from Mahāprabhu, dishonour to Svarūpa Dāmodara. So again with this He put his hand to the hand of Svarūpa Dāmodara. "I am giving him as your guardian. Whatever will be necessary for your good he will give, he knows more than Myself." In this way again He put his hand to Svarūpa Dāmodara's hand.

And then after in this way sixteen years he passed in Purī with the company of Svarūpa Dāmodara and Mahāprabhu and others, friends, paraphernalia of Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu when withdrew most of His servitors also disappeared, he went direct to Vṛndāvana. Previously he did not visit Vṛndāvana, heard so much so he went direct to Vṛndāvana. "But after having a look around I shall try to give up this body anyhow, no charm for this body any longer." But when he reached Vṛndāvana he met Rūpa Sanātana and found that, "Caitanyadeva is still living here, Śrī Caitanyadeva He has withdrawn from His līlā in Purī but in Rūpa Sanātana, in His order to Rūpa Sanātana they're so busily engaged in dealing with the teachings of Śrī Caitanyadeva that I find Him incarnate in them." They're full of the spirit of Śrī Caitanyadeva, fully captured by Caitanyadeva and engaged themselves in the highest service of Him, His desired service. His true representative of a preaching tendency of Śrī Caitanyadeva he found in them. And to go away from this world that aspiration left him. "No, I shall live with them as long as possible in the cultivation of what Śrī Caitanyadeva wanted us to give in His preaching."

As Kṛṣṇa is in His Name in His pastimes He is here, He is here, so he left the idea of leaving this world and with full energy

End of side A, 4.5.83. side B,

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What Śrī Caitanyadeva wanted us to give in His preaching." As Kṛṣṇa is in His Name in His pastimes He is here, He is here, so he left the idea of leaving this world and with full energy engaged themselves in the service of Rūpa Sanātana in coalition began to live. Sanātana according to the advice of Śrī Caitanyadeva, he used to take care of all the, all those that came in connection of Śrī Caitanyadeva there. So under their direction Raghunātha lived there a long time. He was connected, came in connection with Mahāprabhu after Rūpa Sanātana, after sannyāsa Mahāprabhu travelled through the main holy places of the South then came back to Navadvīpa, went to Rūpa Sanātana, then came back and not in Navadvīpa but direct to Śantipūra and there Raghunātha met Him. So after Rūpa Sanātana met, the junior, younger, after Rūpa Sanātana, so he had no disadvantage to there as their elder brother, Rūpa Sanātana, "no trouble, they're my superior." Indeed also they're perhaps also superior, senior and education also. So under their care he lived long time and dived deep into the rasa which Śrī Caitanyadeva specially inspired Rūpa Goswāmī to deal with, this madhūrya-rasa. Raghunātha got taste of that and lived there happily up to eighty or ninety years old.

And through Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Kavirāja came in his connection and was inspired by him and we have got the Caitanya-caritāmṛta from him. Raghunātha has given us many poems, very sweet poems fully surcharged with that ecstasy of that transcendental Vṛndāvana, Vilāpa-Kuṣumāñjali, Stavavalli. Rūpa Goswāmī has Stavamālā, and many, Ujjvala- Nīlamanī, Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Laghu-Bhāgavatāmṛta, all these things, the Nataka, Vidagdha-Mādhava, Lalitā-Mādhava, they come from Śrī Rūpa.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī's considered to be the ācārya of the prayojana-tattva, the end of our life, highest end of our life is personified in him, prayojana-tattva ācārya, what is the final necessity, final fulfilment of life, Rādhā-dāsyā, that we find in him. Hare Kṛṣṇa. In Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Kavirāja Goswāmī at the end of every chapter:

śrī-rūpa-raghunātha-pade yāra āśa, caitanya-caritāmṛta kahe kṛṣṇadāsa

"I, Kṛṣṇadāsa, who is writing this book, in the end of conclusion of every chapter, I aspire after the service of Rūpa and Raghunātha. I fervently pray to get the direct service of Śrī Rūpa and Raghunātha. This is my highest aspiration of life, Rūpa and Raghunātha, their service, pade yāra āśa. My ambition is this to get the service of these two great personages, pade yāra, that servant of these two great masters, I am Kṛṣṇadāsa, I am writing this, it is their writing all surcharged with their sympathy and blessings. Aspiring after and not got, not got but aspiring. Who am I? I am a servant I am aspiring for the service of Rūpa Raghunātha, how pleased they are. I am that Kṛṣṇadāsa."

Śrī-rūpa-raghunātha-pade yāra āśa, at the end of every chapter in Caitanya-caritāmṛta these two lines you will find: śrī-rūpa-raghunāthapade yāra āśa: "All my hope, my expectation is to attain the service of the holy feet of these two great persons, pārṣadas, eternal servitors of Mahāprabhu, loving servitors of Mahāprabhu. That Kṛṣṇadāsa, I'd like to say, present something for you all my friends. And with so, I have no value, negative value I have got.

purīṣera kīṭa haite muñi sei laghiṣṭha

"I am so mean, lower even than the worm in stool." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.205)

"I know fully that I am meaner than the worm in stool."

jagāi mādhai haite muñi se pāpiṣṭha, purīṣera kīṭa haite muñi se laghiṣṭha mora nāma śune yei tāra puṇya kṣaya, mora nāma laya yei tāra pāpa haya

(Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī says: "I am worse than a worm in stool. When Jagāi and Madhai came in the relativity of Mahāprabhu they were considered to be the worst sinners, but I am worse than them. My sins are so dirty no one can even dream such things. I am such a great sinner that whoever will hear about me, dirt and sin will enter him through his coming in contact with my name. Sin will enter one who once hears my name, and his good qualities will vanish.") (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.205-6)

"The world knows Jagāi Madhai as the meanest sinners but I am more mean than the muñi se, Jagāi Madhai, muñi se pāpiṣṭha. So much so, mora nāma śune yei tāra puṇya kṣaya, whoever will take my name he will commit sin, and whoever will take my name his merits, his punya, his purity will be lost, his punya, his good merit will be lost, purity will be defiled. And who will take my name, who will hear my name his punya will be finished, diminished, and who will take my name he will commit sin direct. I am such a type of debauch.

But great Nityanānda Prabhu's ocean of mercy anyhow came on my head and took me to this place. I am mentioning here about the, mentioning here about my elevated position. I am not ashamed to express that I have got this Rūpa Sanātana, the Vṛndāvana, all these, Rādhā-Govinda, Madana-Mohan, I have got, I have no shame that I say that I assert that I have got so many things. But if I do not say so I'll be ungrateful to Nityanānda Prabhu. I am nothing, I have got such position, I am such and such low, meanest of the mean. But Nityanānda Prabhu's grace has taken me here I can't deny, if I deny this then I will be ungrateful to Nityanānda Prabhu. It is His grace, He has taken from my family life to Vṛndāvana and Rūpa Sanātana, all the scriptures and the divine love, Govinda, Madana-Mohan, all these things. I have got something at least, I must have to commit that and it is only the grace of Nityanānda Prabhu.

But as my real position I am meanest of the mean than the worm of the stool, than the sinners than the Jagāi Madhāi. And who will take my name he will commit sin, who will hear about my name he will lose his purity, such is myself, this Kavirāja."

And also he says: "I show my reverence to those who will come to read this book and those that will hear also, the future listener, and who will have discussion. Who will come in connection with this book I show my honour prostrate on their feet. Who will read this book I fall flat on their feet. Because I am fully conscious that here is something which is unestimably great.

aydantari kaya mori madana mohana amadikan yeni sukera patan ?

"I am conscious I am so aged, infirm, my hand is always trembling, I can't see, can't hear, still because the Vaiṣṇavas ordered me I tried and I am writing all these things. This is not my writing oh you audience, it is Madan-Mohan, He is making me write, it is not mine, I'm an instrument, I am fortunate that I have become an instrument to this great treatise." In this way Kavirāja Goswāmī is representing himself. And he is the disciple of Dāsa Goswāmī, Raghunātha Dāsa, direct disciple.

When Jāhnavā Devī, She went to have a tour in the Vṛndāvana, there it is mentioned. Raghunātha Dāsa he is always almost perhaps he's going away from this world taking very slowly the Name of Kṛṣṇa. And Kavirāja Kṛṣṇadāsa he was seen standing by his bed. I found him in Rādhā-Govinda The Raghunātha in his last time taking the Name and Kavirāja is attending standing by his bed, mentioned in Bhakti-ratnakara. Jāhnavā Devī the beloved wife of Nityānanda Prabhu.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Today I am told is the birthday of Abhirāma Goswāmī. He was one of the ten friends of Nityānanda. In Hooghly somewhere he had his abode. Abhirāma he was Śrīdhama sakha in Vṛndāvana. Very physical strength, Baladeva had the greatest physical strength and next Śrīdhama. So Nityānanda Baladeva and Abhirāma is Śrīdhama. When once Nityānanda went on tour to his house and the followers of Nityānanda told: "He's Balarāma, Nityānanda is Balarāma." "Oh, is it? Is He Balarāma? Then I can test Him. In Vṛndāvana only Balarāma could catch me when I take to running a race, after touching I shall take, I shall begin to run and none could follow me only Balarāma, He only two and a half steps he could catch me. I want to test Him." And in this way it was arranged and touching Nityānanda Prabhu gave a good running and Nityānanda Prabhu only half jumping caught him. "Yes, You are Nityānanda, You are Baladeva, You are Baladeva, I am caught."

..... Śrīnivāsa Ācārya met him. He lived a long time and Śrīnivāsa Ācārya he went to see that still one pāṣada, one contemporary of Mahāprabhu is there, went to see him. And he went with the expectation to honour him as Guru, superior and Abhirāma also heard that the Śrīnivāsa is a good boy, very devoted nature. To test him, showing something: "Oh Śrīnivāsa, do you find what is that? It is a snake." "Oh, it is a snake." "No, no, it is only that straw made rope." Oh, yes, it is so." "No, no, no, a snake." "Yes, a snake." Whatever he sees, ignoring his own sense experience, whatever comes out from his mouth Śrīnivāsa accepts that in full confidence. Such should be the degree, the intensity, of our faith in the advises of our Guru. Only, "This is snake." "No, no, this is rope." Whatever comes from his mouth he sees that and not the thing, not fossil, but Berkley, "Coming from above," it is that we see. Not any physical representation has any value to him, so much given to the higher masters, cent-per-cent sold there, faith and confidence to the master above. That "His word is showing things outside." Now this next second that, next second this next second that, next second this next second that. Full faith there, no faith in the mundane plane. These are to be learned by us how much attention should we give to the Śruti, the Veda, to the aptavagra (?), to the sayings of our masters Gurudeva. And this mundane presentation to us, to our senses, no value.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi.

Devotee: Mahārāja, is there a story about Abhirāma Dāsa Ṭhākura and once he picked up a large branch, that story?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, such strength he showed that, solosayem

kastu duri bhasi (?)

He made a big trunk of a tree, treated it as his flute, and that trunk was so heavy that, solosaye, one saye means carried by four persons, that is one saye, saye means a friend of this type and four men put in his shoulder, here one, here one, here one, here one, and this friend is called as saye. So sixteen saye, what can be carried by sixteen such so, chasuna chosati (?) sixty-four persons carried that weight a trunk of a tree he easily held it and put it in his mouth as if he's playing with the flute.

Treated that trunk as his flute, such physical strength he had. And Nityānanda Prabhu had more strength than him.

Mādhvācārya was very strong. It is written in a "Twenty or so strong men can lift a stone, that stone was taken by his left hand and replaced somewhere." And it is written there in that stone. Mādhvācārya:

eko hasthina anitasila stapitasila (?)

It is written in the stone we are told: "With one hand he removed this stone and placed it here and that is so heavy that twenty strong men, can carry or cannot carry?" Something like that. Mādhvācārya, he's considered to be the incarnation of Hanumān - Bhīma. Kṛṣṇa and Bhīma, Vasadeva and Mādhvācārya. Kṛṣṇa Bhīma, and Rāmacandra Hanumān.

In Rāmacandra who was Hanumān, in Kṛṣṇa Avatāra he was Bhīma. And in Vasa Avatāra he was Mādhva. They say like this, he was an incarnation of Hanumān and Bhīma, very strong, impressive.

Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Abhirāma Dāsa Ṭhākura, did he compose anything?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't think so.

Devotee: Is Nityānanda-caritāmṛtam something else?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I do not know.

The fighting persons they used to put some sort of stocking made up of their skin, and the friction when they're firing the bow, the friction on the arm against that they're skin, is generally used, that is very hardy, godika.

Devotee: This godika does it have poison Mahārāja, on the mouth? Does it have poison?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Poison?

Devotee: Yes, poison, does it?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So it is classified now under the class of snake poison Devotee: It is poisonous? They are poisonous?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It's said the poison from the mouth

Devotee: He's asking: "Is there poison there?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe.

Devotee: They're very afraid though, they run away when they see people. They eat snakes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do not know.

Devotee: We have heard that they eat snakes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is mongoose.

Devotee: Mongoose's diet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mongoose, they live on the snake. Anti, snake and mongoose, horse and buffalo, ahina kulam asva mahisam (?) And then another natural enemy. asva mahisam ahina kulam and some other group, kako lokiya, crow and owl, natural enemies. Kako lokiya, kak means crow and alo means owl. Kako lokiya, asva mahisam, and ahina kulam, natural enemies.

Devotee: Peacock is also natural enemy of cobra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Peacock, yes. That is one-sided perhaps, from the peacock and not from the snake, they won't attack peacock. But here, both the parties whenever they meet they fight with each other. If owl gets crow at night, at day-time they can't see so they are prey to crow, at night if an owl finds any crow he will kill it surely. Both are enemy to both.

Devotee: How is it that the horse and water buffalo?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Horse and water buffalo if they meet generally they fight with one another. And also in the vegetable rank this green plantain and ginger, ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: Green plantain and ginger, they don't go together?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They don't harmonise, perhaps that is also said, this alaikas kalai (?) they're enemy to one another anyhow.

Devotee: If you eat the two together does it cause some difficulty in the stomach.

Devotee: Also the Vaiṣṇavas and the Māyāvādīs.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: Whenever they meet they fight.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I wrote one verse about Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura): māyāvāda-timīṅgilodara-gatān uddhṛtya jīvanimān:

(śrī-siddhānta-sarasvatīti vidito gaudīya-gurv-anvaye bhāto bhānuriva prabhāta-gagane yo gaura-saṁkīrtanaiḥ māyāvāda-timīṅgilodara-gatān uddhṛtya jīvanimān kṛṣṇa-prema-sudhābdhi-gāhana-sukhaṁ prādāt prabhum taṁ bhaje)

(Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura is well renowned within the select line of the magnificent Gauḍīya preceptors. He appears in the morning sky like the radiant sun and resounds the wonderful glories of Śrīman Mahāprabhu, delivering the poor souls helplessly devoured by the whale swallowing doctrine of impersonalism. I worship that great master who allowed the fallen souls a precious chance to dive deeply into and experience the bliss found in that ambrosial ocean of pure love for Lord Kṛṣṇa.)

Māyāvāda has been described as a timiṅgila, timiṅgila means it is supposed that there are so many who are such big animals in the ocean that can devour that whale. Timiṅgila, gila means "can swallow" those big animals that can swallow a whale.

There is a conception that such animals live in the ocean. So Māyāvāda has been described as a timiṅgila, as in Śrīmad-Bhāgavat: bhīṣma droṇa timiṅgilo uddara (?) something mentioned in the war of Kurukṣetra in Bhāgavatam, timiṅgilo, they're very furious warriors, just like a whale-eater they were exceptional brave warriors and Kṛṣṇa saved the Pāṇḍavas from those great whale-eaters, Bhīṣma, Droṇa, etc., it is mentioned bhīṣma droṇa timiṅgilo.

So I have used timiṅgilo as Māyāvādīs, they are timiṅgilo. And they come to compromise with every religious section: "I accept your creed wholesale. You accept that above that is non-differentiated, non-specified Brahman." Here the compromise made with the Śāstra, the Śaiva, the Ganapraṣṭha (?), Sodur (?), Agni-pārsādas (?). Śaṅkarācārya effected a compromise between all the sections: "Only accept that Brahman is above all. And I accept in toto all your activities."

In this way he made a compromise against Buddhism. And really what he gave Mahāprabhu says it is nothing but Buddhism what Śaṅkarācārya gave ultimately to the people because he did not accept the eternal individuality of the jīva soul. "Jīva soul is temporary. Only one non-differentiated, non-specified mass of infinite consciousness is true and all else is under illusion." That is Māyāvādā.

(Śaṅkarācārya said: "In half a verse, I am summarising the truth that has been expressed by volumes and volumes of scripture. Within only half a verse I shall give the essence of all truths: brahma satyaṁ, jagan mithyā, Brahman, spirit, is true - this world is false. And the jīva is nothing but Brahman. This is the substance of all the scriptures.")

Śloka dhenu pravakṣyāmi: Śaṅkarācārya says very proudly, with great pride: "That what the others have expressed by crores of sentences, only in a half-sentence I shall give the gist of that. What is that? Śloka dhenu, only by half śloka I shall express the whole truth what the others by crores, millions of ślokas could not really give vent to. What is that? Brahma satyaṁ, jagan mithyā jīva brahmaiva na paraḥ: Only Brahman is true and the world is false and jīva is nothing but that Brahman. Here what we find in the māyā that is perverted reflection, it has got no truth, it is perverted reflection. Just as the sun or moon any reflection in the glass or in the water, something like that. But real moon or sun that is in the sky that is true, all else is false. Brahma satyaṁ, jagan mithyā. And jīva it is neither, no other thing but a reflection of Brahman. That is the whole truth summarised here."

But the Vaiṣṇava says: "Here it is false, what you say Brahman that is a cosmic thing, a system, organised world, and everything is there in your Brahman. When you say Brahman, an unknown and unknowable, and that is known and knowable when we are cent-per-cent submissive to that. That is the real world, that is our home. And jīva is eternal, immortal, soul is immortal, individual soul, and that has got position there.

Cid-vilāsa, para-brahma is there. Brahmaṇo hi pratiṣṭhāham: it is there:

(brahmaṇo hi pratiṣṭhāham, amṛtasyāvyayasya ca śāśvatasya ca dharmasya, sukhasyaikāntikasya ca)

brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām bhaktyā mām abhijānāti, yāvān yaś cāsmi tattvataḥ tato mām tattvato jñātvā, viśate tad-anantaram

"The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema- bhakti) unto Me." - "Only through love and devotion can I be understood as I am. Thereafter, fully understanding Me, you can merge into My entourage."

"First you become realised that you are Brahman then you should come to serve Me in that plane. And when you are identified with flesh and blood the real devotion does not begin there. Real devotion, dedication begins when you can think yourself that you are a conscious unit, you are soul and not this body or mind, above this you are soul, a particle of soul. You have got entrance there in the world of big soul Paramātmā above Brahman, Para-Brahman."

The whole philosophy is there and nothing to do here. Here anyhow to get out of this entanglement. What you say Brahman then that is our home, infinite, back to God, back to home, home is there in the plane of soul, spirit. And we have come to identify with the body or the mental system, that is false, that is māyā. What we find ourselves in the dream, that is the mental system, that is also false, temporary, and this body is also temporary. But the soul living within that body or what we find in dream, there is the soul's spark, that body moving here and there according to its false karma. And we must reveal that soul which is within the body we find ourselves in our dream and that will go to live in the, and that is all light, the body is a dead thing, mind is also soul more or less. But really the conscious unit that is within the mind that is not vague, that is not imaginary, that is concrete thing. And what we think to be concrete here it is all false, all gets dissolved, disillusion and disappearance. But that is a permanent unit, permanent unit and that is not a part of ignorance, that is full knowledge, spirit, light. There we are and there we are quite safe and perfect, in perfection, we are in that point where what is at present ignored and forgotten by us, that the soul proper is our identification proper, true.

mamaivāṁśo jīva-loke, jīva-bhūtaḥ sanātanaḥ manaḥ ṣaṣṭhānīndriyāṇi,

"The soul is a part of Me, as My separate fragmental particle or potency. Although he is eternal, he acquires the mind and five perceptual senses, which are parts of material nature as creations of māyā, My deluding potency." (Bhagavad-gītā, 15.7)

And that is the part and parcel of the eternal potency of the Lord.
Mamaivāṁśo, "Nothing but My part. In other words it is part of My potency, particular potency..."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Modified when they gave delivery to their own disciples, some modification came. This is psychological truth.

Once in our psychological class, in our college, our professor told that:
"Mind has got a colour." To prove that he told one thing. The class student arrangement was in this way. Begin from this side and coming around in this side. He told something to the first boy and put it in writing there, and kept on the table. And asked the first boy, speak it to the second, second to the third, third to the fourth, in this way. After fifty persons when it came he told: "Cry aloud what you have received from that man." He told and he wrote, "So the first thing was this, and when it came through me, through fifty members, now it has become like this."
So colour, colour, colour. Modify, modify, in this way, from one guru, so many disciples are hearing, but according to their capacity, they're catching them and mixing with their own mental experience, they give delivery to their disciple. And that disciple also taking that modified thing, then again modification of his own mental colour and he's giving delivery, in this way. sa kālenēha mahatā, yogo naṣṭaḥ parantapa.

imaṁ vivasvate yogaṁ, proktavān aham avyayam vivasvān manave prāha, manur ikṣvākave' bravīt evaṁ paramparā-prāptam, imaṁ rājarṣayo viduḥ sa kāleneha mahatā, yogo naṣṭaḥ parantapa

Kṛṣṇa tells Arjuna: "First I instructed the sun-god Sūrya in this knowledge, and from Sūrya it passed to Manu, and from Manu to Ikṣvāku; so from the beginning of time, I am giving My tidings to others, transmitting the truth that I am the goal through this system of disciplic succession, generation after generation. The current is damaged by the influence of this material world." (Bhagavad-gītā, 4.1-2)

By modification, modification, modification, the real truth to the minimum standard is reached, it's natural in the plane of māyā. So He has got the necessity of coming again, and again, to re-establish the same truth. When He's saying to Arjuna: "That I first, this is not new what I speak to you, this karma yoga. First I told it to Sūrya, and from Vaivasvata, from there Manu, in this way, it came down and now disappeared, minimum, I again say to you."

"How You told to Manu?"

"But I had My previous birth, I know them all, you do not know."

In this way, it is modified. Somewhere the modification becomes slow, somewhere it may be quick, but modification goes on, and again when it comes in the hand of a greater person who descends here, then again it is purified. It is also possible some stalwart persons are sent from Vaikuṇṭha, from Goloka, to take up the thread and continue. Then they take up, impurity is also purged out, and in the more purer type, he continues the current of purer type. It is also possible by His will.

So the śikṣā guru-paramparā has been taken by Gauḍīya Maṭh, not dikṣā guru, dikṣā guru from Vipina, Jāhnavā. So many persons, mostly ladies came to Vipina Goswāmī and Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura took from Vipina gosai. From Vipina gosai and Jāhnavā Devī, so many ladies are there. But Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura especially empowered by the Lord, he purified the whole canal, what dirt accumulated in the line, that was purified and delivered in a novel way. And our Guru Mahārāja he also came down to take up that thread and pushed in that line of Bhaktivinoda. Before this we find the purity can be traced in Viśvanātha Cakravārti Ṭhākura, and before that Narottama Ṭhākura. In the middle some dirt came within the thought, so śikṣā guru-paramparā has been accepted, not dikṣā guru, formal. The spirit is more important than the form. Who can understand the real spirit, he can neglect the form.

Devotee: So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, his real connection through śikṣā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He took it from Jagannātha Bābājī Mahārāja, he took śikṣā, and veśa, from Jagannātha Dāsa Bābājī.

Devotee: He mentions in Bhāgavata-Ārka-Marīci-mālā, he mentions that Svarūpa Dāmodara came to him in a dream, and told him to complete this book.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Compile and give new explanation of the first śloka of Bhāgavatam. In dream he got Svarūpa Dāmodara's explanation of the first śloka of Bhāgavatam, in new type, new, which is not given by the previous Ācārya, including Jīva Goswāmī.

"O my Lord, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, son of Vasudeva, O all pervading Personality of Godhead, I offer my respectful obeisances unto You. I meditate upon Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa because He is the Absolute Truth and the primeval cause of all causes of the creation, sustenance and destruction of the manifested universes. He is directly and indirectly conscious of all manifestations, and He is independent because there is no other cause beyond Him. It is He only who first imparted the Vedic knowledge unto the heart of Brahmājī, the original living being. By Him even the great sages and demigods are placed into illusion, as one is bewildered by the illusory representations of water seen in fire, or land seen on water. Only because of Him do the material universes, temporarily manifested by the reactions of the three modes of nature, appear factual, although they are unreal. I therefore meditate upon Him, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Who is eternally existent in the transcendental abode, which is forever free from the illusory representations of the material world. I meditate upon Him, for He is the Absolute Truth."(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1) ārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ, means that He knows the meaning of every incident in existence and that He is above giving any explanation to others. He is not responsible to any law or to anyone else. He is Absolute and Independent. And how do we know that? He has extended knowledge of Himself through the Vedas. Brahma means Veda. So, by the line of inspiration, or revelation, Vedic knowledge was transmitted to the first living being, the creator of the world, Lord Brahmā (tene brahma hṛdā ya ādi-kavaye). The scholars of the world fail to understand the strategy and nature of that sort of knowledge. They cannot follow the vital and fundamental points of Vedic knowledge, such as the transformation of one thing into another (muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ).

(Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī's translation)

(Janmādy asya yato 'nvayād itararaś cārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ, "Friends, let us enquire into the prime cause, whose nature is such that what ever we can see, and whatever we can conceive of springs from Him. He is the ultimate cause of everything, both directly and indirectly. Only He knows the purpose for which all things are created and maintained. Only He knows where all things will go. Only He is aware of the fact - no one else.

Water may be transformed into gas, gas may be transformed into heat. By such a process, we can understand the existence of this world (tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā), for by the transformation of the Lord's energy, the world comes into being. This transformation involves the three modes of nature, tamas, rajas, and sattva. tama means hard, static matter. raja means energy, and sattva means spirit, light, knowledge. So, by transformation this world has been created. In His abode, which is illumined by the ray of His own knowledge, there is no possibility of deception or misunderstanding. (dhāmnā svena sadā nirasta-kuhakaṁ satyaṁ paraṁ dhīmahi). Here we are being deceived through misunderstanding. We have entered a plane of existence where the whole world is full of misconception, falsity, and miscalculation. We are presently living in the world of māyā. māyā means mā-yā: "What is not." I am seeing something which is really something else.") (Śrīla B. R. Śrīdhara Mahārāja's translation)

Tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā (S-B, 1.1.1). There, tejo-vāri- mṛdāṁ.

Jīva is represented as vāri, tej on the other side, the svarūpa śakti, and mṛd this world.

Jīva is taṭastha, taṭastha jīva, has been compared there with vāri.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's new type of explanation comes in this line. Vāri, between teja, this higher, and earth. The middle stage is vāri and that is tat, the margin and jīva is of that position. In this way he has explained that śloka. It is difficult to follow. A new type of explanation in that śloka.

Many scholars, even including Śaṅkara school, that Sarasvatī, that writer of Advaita Siddhī, the greatest modern book of Advaita school, Madhusudhan Sarasvatī. He also attempted to give explanation of these three introductory śloka's of Bhāgavatam.

brahma hṛdā ya ādi-kavaye muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ (S-B, 1.1.1)

A mystic śloka, a poem very mystic. When I was a child in my home, I heard this śloka from one of my cousins. He was a good scholar, I remember, it seemed to me a very mystic śloka at that time though I was a child, especially this portion, tejo-vāri- mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo. Inter-change of this earth, water, and the fire, inter change. Yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā. Satya raja tama, the three guṇa's. These three general conceptions of things, tri-sargo 'mṛṣā, three has been taken in many ways of thought, tri-sargo, all very mystic. The whole thing coming in a śloka.

As much as Mahāprabhu says to Sanātana Goswāmī, when he says: "Oh You that explained ātmā-rāma śloka sixty one ways, You are Kṛṣṇa Himself, You can explain any way You like." Then Mahaprabhu told: "Why do you praise Me, Sanātana, don't you know that every letter of Bhāgavat is Kṛṣṇa Himself, purna, infinite, every letter of Bhāgavat is infinite, representing infinite meaning, so why do you praise Me, Sanātana."

So the first śloka of Bhāgavatam is containing everything. The whole infinite is there. Mahāprabhu says that: "Every letter is infinite, because no sum total of finite things can make infinite. In infinite, every part of infinite is infinite." So Bhāgavatam, the first śloka, the basis of the whole Bhāgavatam truth is condensed infinite. And when in my childhood I heard it, it seemed something, I heard many ślokas, but few śloka created impression in me as of that mystic type. This is one of them and especially this portion, tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā. Others are more or less clear.

janmādy asya yato 'nvayād itararaś cārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ tene

This is more or less clear, but: tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā, this line seemed to me very much mystic. Dhāmnā svena sadā nirasta-kuhakaṁ satyaṁ paraṁ dhīmahi (S-B, 1.1.1), did not seem so much mystic. And some ślokaś in Bhāgavatam, seemed to me very encouraging, and condensed truth.

"The knot in the heart is pierced, all misgivings are cut to pieces and the chain of fruitive actions is terminated when I am seen as the Supreme Personality of Godhead." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.20.30)

The few ślokaś like this, were very much, taught to me, that is the whole truth is within this here, representing the central thought. Just as Rūpa Goswāmī's śloka, all giving meaning of general character. What Rūpa Goswāmī has given mostly, that is that: sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ, a very central representation, whatever you do, it may not be devotion proper. One thing must be present. What is that? sevonmukhe ataḥ, serving attitude, then only will it have recognition of devotion, otherwise not, repetition of mundane jugglery. But sevonmukhe, the serving attitude, the spirit of dedication must be there, then it will be bhakti, devotion proper. To take the Name, to arcana (Deity worship), to dance, so forms are not the reality, but the reality is the underlying attitude, whether it is dedicating to Kṛṣṇa, that is the criteria.

ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ

"Because the name of Kṛṣṇa is identical with Kṛṣṇa Himself, and on the absolute spiritual platform, Kṛṣṇa's name, form, qualities, and associates, cannot be appreciated by the material senses. However, when one engages the tongue in chanting the Holy Names of the Lord and tasting the remnants of the Lord's food, Kṛṣṇa gradually reveals Himself to the purified senses of that devotee." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234)

So the criteria: aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, (Ujjvala-nīlamanī), the original thinking, that is giving explanation to many thoughts. The basic conception, generalised, basic conception is given mostly in the teachings of Rūpa Goswāmī. The depth of his conception is very high. So Mahāprabhu told that: "He's a proper person to deal with this kṛṣṇa-līlā. So I happily, by inspiration, I give all My good will to him. And you Svarūpa Dāmodar, you also do so. Whatever profit, capital, you have got, you invest with Rūpa, and there will come in colour, to help the people who have sukṛti (pious credit) in the posterity, keep it with him. You'll be able to deal them very carefully and fully." Rūpa Goswāmī.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Here I stop. Nitāi.

Ultimately, all the different camps, they have to contribute the consequence to Lord Kṛṣṇa.

te no navinum te jagat panam ?

Without that they cannot stand by themselves. Connecting the result with Kṛṣṇa, they can have some stand in their own sphere.

yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, yaj juhoṣi dadāsi yat yat tapasyasi kaunteya, tat kuruṣva mad arpaṇam

"O son of Kuntī, whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you offer in sacrifice, whatever you offer in charity, and whatever austere vows you may keep - do everything as an offering unto Me." (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.27)

You are making penances (tapasya), what is the necessity of mine there? No, ha ha, you must pay something to the Lord of the bank.

Otherwise there will be much obstacles. The peace maintained for your tapasya, or any other purpose

So you will have to pay something to the Lord, the keeper of the administration of the whole. prema.

yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, yaj juhoṣi dadāsi yat yat tapasyasi kaunteya, tat kuruṣva mad arpaṇam

Here it is meant that: "Not a part of your acquisition, but the whole, whole, whatever you do, give the result, the consequence to Me."

For Itself, Reality is for Itself.

"I am the enjoyer of everything, and meant for Me. You are to gather such consciousness. Everything has got its respective position, but normal stage will be, that all for Me, you are to accept this, accept this, then you are alright. Gradually you will come one day to My direct service, but now, wherever you are, connect with Me."

For Itself, Reality is for Itself. "Everything for Me."

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānām, bhoktā ca prabhuḥ eva ca na tu mām

abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te

"I am the Lord and I alone am the only enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices, of every action and all movements in this world. Everything belongs to Me, unconditionally, and you must be fully conscious of this fact. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death." (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24)

To understand this is to understand much. Everything meant for Him. To realise this properly is to realise much. He is the owner. He is the enjoyer. We exist for Him only. That is devotion. Wherever we are does not matter, but my aspiration will be to satisfy Him.

Stāne sthitāḥ (rejecting the intellectual approach). Mahāprabhu comes, jñāna-sunya- bhakti (knowledge free devotion). eho bāhya āge kaha āra (this is superficial, go deeper). Understand this much, not Veda, Vedānta, so many puzzling arguments, and processes of thoughts, abstract or nothing necessary. What is necessary, minimum, that He's the owner, He's the enjoyer. Wherever you are does not matter. Jñāna-sunya- bhakti, you are for Himself, everything for Himself. You may be a Vedāntist, or you may be an ordinary sweeper. That does not matter much, but you know only that you are for Him.

Pratāparudra, he was in the function of a king, an emperor, at that time, but that was no qualification to Mahāprabhu. When Mahāprabhu saw him, that he's working as a sweeper to Jagannātha, His heart melted. "Oh, he has not got the ego that he's master of the land, but he's a sweeper to the Jagannātha." Mahāprabhu's heart melted, and He embraced him a little after that day. For Him, for Him, a sweeper or a priest, does not matter much, but for Him, the intensity of the feeling, that I am for Him, that qualifies us. Our qualification is to the degree of that feeling. For Him, for Him.

And that fullest form is found in Rādhārāṇī. It is not possible in other rasa, or in other attempts. It must require parakīya. The crossing the direction of the śāstra, law, anything. Our relation between Kṛṣṇa and me, nothing can enter between. Everything may be set aside in our connection with the Lord. No barrier, either of sinner type, or this punyam, pure type, whether pure, impure, no consideration, nothing can stand in our way. Sattyaśic, rajasic, tamasic, whatever colour it may have, nothing can stand between our intimate relationship that He's the enjoyer, and I am to be enjoyed. This intensity, intensity of that feeling, that sentiment, is found in the most comprehensive, and in the most intense way there. Twenty-four hours engagement, and deep engagement, that can satisfy Kṛṣṇa most. No parallel, unparalleled, it has been told to us, and that may attract us in any time, in our infinite age, that may be our aim. We may be grouped in this camp, in that camp, our highest aspiration.

Rādhā-kiṅkarā. The last.

Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) was very much satisfied with my poem about Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. It is written there, after the realisation of the service of Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana, highest.

śrī-gaurānumataṁ svarūpa-viditaṁ rūpāgrajenādr̥taṁ rūpādyaiḥ
pariveśitaṁ raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ śuka-

("What was sanctioned by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu by His descent was intimately known only to Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī. It was adored by Sanātana Goswāmī and served by Rūpa Goswāmī and his followers.

Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī tasted that wonderful thing fully and enhanced it with his own realisation. (He was assisted in doing so by Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī and Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī). And Jīva Goswāmī supported and protected it by quoting the scriptures from different places. The taste of that divine truth is aspired for by Brahmā, Śiva, and Uddhava, who respect it as the supreme goal of life. What is this wonderful truth? śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanā: that the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. This is most wonderful. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are our master. It is within your power to allow them to bestow their grace upon us. You are in a position to bestow the highest gift ever known to the world upon us all. It is at your disposal. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, please be kind to us and grant us your mercy.")

"Śrī-gaurānumataṁ, sanctioned by Śrī Gaurāṅga. svarūpa-viditaṁ, which is thoroughly understood by Svarūpa Dāmodara, who is none but Lalitā Sakhī. rūpāgrajenādrtaṁ, Śrī Sanātana Goswāmī has admired very much this position. rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ, and distributed by Śrī Rūpa himself with his paraphernalia. raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam, and tasted properly by Raghunātha, and also enhanced something there. jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ, and Śrī Jīva with followers, that Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa and others by the śāstric argument and reasoning, therein, tried their best to show to the world that this is the highest position. By reason and quotation of revealed truth, revealed scriptures, they tried their best to prove this, abhirakṣitaṁ. śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ, and we find mentioned in different parts of the scripture that Brahmā, Śiva, Uddhava, they're aspiring after such a position. And you Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are in a position to give such blessing to us, give us admission, you can give us admission to such thought, to such stage of our life, you can give admission, you are so great, so high."

Prabhupāda was very much pleased with this. "That Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura himself has written this through him." That was his remark. "It is not written by him, it is written by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura himself, through his pen." Very much satisfied.

Rūpānuga-bara. He has mentioned in many places that the highest amongst those followers of Śrī Rūpa, Rūpānuga-bara. One of the principal ācārya's who has properly understood and realised, and given to others, preached about the glories, about the glorious position of the servants of Śrī Rūpa, of the followers of Śrī Rūpa. This is Gauḍīya Maṭh, rūpānuga-sampradāya. And they're found in the line of śikṣa-guru, not this body succession, but the realisation we find from their character and their conduct. Their preaching and their practice, strictly, where we find it is there. Not body succession, but this realisation succession of the Śrī Rūpa distributed, idea of the service of Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa, etc. Gaura Hari, Gaura Hari. Rūpānuga.

Jīva Goswāmī was a disciple of Rūpa Goswāmī, and Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, a disciple of Advaita Ācārya's disciple Yadunandana Ācārya, was accepted by Rūpa and Sanātana as their third brother. Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī's dearmost student and servant was Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī, who was an intimate friend of Lokanātha Goswāmī who lived with Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja in Vṛndāvana. Lokanātha Goswāmī was a disciple of Gadādhara Paṇḍita, and Lokanātha Goswāmī's only disciple was Narottama Dāsa Ṭhākura who was always engaged in the service of both his Guru Lokanātha Goswāmī and Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja. Narottama's follower, Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura (who was the fourth ācārya in disciplic succession from Narottama), had no desire other than the service of Narottama Dāsa Ṭhākura's lotus feet."

From Bimala, Bimala Prasād was his previous name, he took that vow? and went to Rādhārāṇī's service. Then Vṛṣabhānu, from Vṛṣabhānu-nandinī, Rādhārāṇī, Vṛṣabhānu is the father of Rādhārāṇī. Śrī- vārṣabhānavī-barā, sadāsevya-sevā-parā, tāhāra dayita-dāsa-nāma.

(Gauḍīya-Kaṇṭhāra, Guru-Tattva; and Songs of the Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas, p 90-3)

This is the line of the stalwarts coming distributing this purest current. Holding purest current in their existence, and we are concerned with that only, nothing else, nothing else. The current that's coming from there to here, through particular channels, our all, whole attention, dedication, to that current, to be bathed, to be captured and to be transformed into the caviar (something too good to appeal to popular taste) of that current. To be absorbed in that current is our highest aim of life, the purest type.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Sarvātma-snapanam, Mahāprabhu says taking the Name, sarvātma-snapanam, wholesale bathing, bath means purification and also some sort of self-gratification. Purification, side by side, feeling of purification, bath. Sarvātma-snapanam, the wholesale, the whole existence is purified and can feel the satisfaction of purity, in that current if we can take bath, sarvātma-snapanam. Every nook and corner, every part of my body gets purified. And also so many, sarvātma, all the souls that can come there may be purified, sarvātma. Ātmā means ātmā as a whole, every part of the soul and also many souls may come. In saṅkīrtana many souls may come to be purified together, at one stroke everyone may be purified. Sarvātma-snapanam param vijayate śrī-kṛṣṇa-saṅkīrtanam (Śrī Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1). Purification and satisfaction, going together. Bath, taking bath means purification and satisfaction, so both. Generally by satisfaction we incur some reaction, that in the exploiting world we find. But here purification and satisfaction can go together simultaneously. This satisfaction, anāndam, that is not to be compared with satisfaction by enjoyment here.

Generally we are acquainted with satisfaction which comes from enjoyment, by exploitation. Then by renunciation also some satisfaction may come, by avoiding some disturbing elements. And again by inviting and welcoming something higher, we may be satisfied and purified, purified. Renunciation can give purification very weak and slight because that may not stand for long time. We cannot ignore the environment for good. It is not possible. We are a factor of the whole universe. We can't ignore them. So renunciation means when it goes to samādhī, to eternal slumber like thing, and that is also temporary, that must, cannot but be temporary because the influence of the environment will come and push him, will awake him. We can't ignore the tremendous force of the environment. We can't ignore.

āruhya kṛcchreṇa param̐ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādr̥ta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ. Cannot accept the positive connection, they're sure to fall down again, āruhya kṛcchreṇa param̐ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho. After some long time maybe, duration in that point may be a little long, but the force of the environment cannot be ignored. Once that will come and attack and disturb that sleeping man.

(Someone may say that aside from Vaiṣṇavas, who always seek shelter at the Lord's lotus feet, there are those who are not Vaiṣṇavas but who have accepted different processes for attaining salvation. What happens to them? In answer to this question, Lord Brahmā and the other demigods said:) "O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet.")

So renunciation, retirement, that cannot be eternal, for some time. And if you can enter into the positive, that is an eternal flow is there. Here is also not eternal. Māyā is limited but Vaikuṇṭha, the unlimited, that is only possible with the nature of dedication. Vaikuṇṭha. All the stuff, all the constituting parts are eternal there, and the function is also eternal, eternal, but there is vilās.

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet ato hetor ahetoś ca,
yūnor māna udañcati

Zig-zag way, not a plain and straight line. Straight dealings are generally in the Vaikuṇṭha, but it is crooked and more crooked in Goloka, because it has to harmonise with everything. What we consider here to be worst, that is also harmonised there to become the best, so harmonise, it is possible only through love.

A blind son to a mother is told to be of eye like a lotus, lotus eyed child, there is a proverb in Bengal, kanacheli padalochan. The motherly affection sees a blind boy as endowed with good eye. Love, love compensates everything for us. We are naturally born weak, defective, but if we can anyhow drag ourselves in the plane of love, then no mourning for our defects can exist there. The circumstance compensates everything.

Just as in the country, in the European country, any child born they can get sustenance from the state. Here in India, and other poor countries, a child born may die without food, but in the rich countries, civilised countries, in Europe and America, etc, anyone born, the government is there to nourish the child. Automatically he will get nourishment from the state.

So anyone, anyhow, placed in the land of love, the environment will take care of him. No negligence, no negligence. The land of love. Everyone may come to be attracted to his inferiority. "Oh you are inferior, yes I am here, I am here to nurse you, to take care of you." Every unit is madly running after their prey. Where to invest something. All opulence. And whatever the defect by their touch, the defect is automatically removed because compensation is of that type, is of eternal kind, type.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrī Caitanyadeva, they say like that, so we revere Caitanya. Caitanyadeva of their civil disobedience and social reformer. Not the wholesale giver of everyone who has lost his own, own self forever (in sahaṁyā ?). He came to give everyone back his own wealth within, his own worth within.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: souls of your type, they're subjects and everything always His object meant only for your exploitation. We are exploiters and the environment is for our exploitation. That is the foundation on which the present education is based on, but the wholesale false. The cause in the above. "Let there be water," there was water. "Let there be earth," there was earth. "Let there be light," there was light. His will, subjective realm, the cause what we experience sprung up from the Divine Will. And not that from time eternal the fossil is developing into this world of experience. Opposite, so we are diving deep into the intense ignorance ocean, to view the opposite. It is His will that is the cause. And in one place He can show like a magician something to you another thing to me. The subject, the super subject, the universal subject is of such power. Wholesale opposite.

(Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja asked a few of his research scholar disciples to crush the fossilism of Darwin, everything coming from fossil, demolish, crush it, it is not so, it is coming from above. Everything like hypnotising, in the process of hypnotising the whole experience we feel the subject can withdraw any moment anything and can show to us another way. He's free, satya-sankalpa, whatever He imagines that comes. He can force us to see something, we cannot go outside.

Can you understand that this may be possible? Then you can have some faith what is Godhead. Godhead means this, the origin of creation. That is a part, infinite qualities and activities He has got and this is a negligent part where we are living. The whole basis is there, upward, and not downward, developing from downward, no. Fossil is not sufficiently enough a perfect thing to create. From fossil intelligence coming is fools conception, the intelligence everywhere, everywhere we can trace intelligence. As much as we analyse we find, oh higher reason, higher intelligence. The scientists they're becoming dumb to find out the intelligence into the nature, they're going on discovering and discovering higher and higher law. And they're there, already they're there. These fools they could not know but it was there before their discovery, before their invention, that wonderful law was there and it is everywhere.

So it is not that they have invented they have created, are they creating? They're inventing? It is already there everywhere. The reason, the intelligence, and something more, power, everywhere and where from? And their intelligence to discover a thing, to invent a thing, where from it is coming? The brain? Only that portion of flesh? Or from somewhere it is coming? As much as they're entering they're being astonished with the so many miraculous laws and rules in the nature and they're already there before their discovery.

So consciousness, spirit, reason, all-pervading, even in the tree, stone, earth, everywhere, in the ether, air, all consciousness, all reason, wonderful thought everywhere. Infinite, infinite, now we are to connect with that principle of infinite what is almighty, omniscient, omnipotent, all-sympathy, all-love. How to have a connection, a direct connection with Him. Leaving aside the charm of His created substance we want to negotiate how we can have our connection with the creator Himself. Not only creator, this is a creation of a lower order, but higher creation, higher status world is also there infinitely higher soils are there. And whether it is possible for us to have our life in that soil what are the layers higher and higher, to enquire there how we can enter there, what is the key to entrance into that zone? The plane of exploitation, the plane of renunciation of exploitation, and the plane of dedication higher. We are told by dedication, by surrender we can have direct connection with the centre.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Physician cure thyself, ha, ha. You have come to give so many dazzling civilisation models, ha, but cure yourself wholesale. What you have come to distribute that is hoax, it is all hoax. The law abided by so many things around, that is only the sweet will of the Supreme. The law is not a rigid thing, the basis is on His sweet will of the Autocrat. So what do you know? That is nothing, no knowledge. Any moment the rules, laws, may be changed, another thing may come instead.

He's changing your experience, the key is in His hand. "Oh, Arjuna you see this. I am this and this. I am that and that." "Yes, I see You are so and so."

When Kṛṣṇa went for peace talk to the Kurusaba, the court of the Kaurava, Duryodhana - Dhṛtarāṣṭra camp, Kaurava camp, with peace talk. Then the Karna, the Duryodhana and others in the party came to bind Him down and put into prison. "And if He can be imprisoned then the whole Pāṇḍava camp will be finished automatically. He is the life and advisor of that camp. So with this idea we have got within our fist we must imprison Him." They went to tie Him but, ha, Kṛṣṇa showed Himself in such a way that these men who went to tie Him, bind Him down, they were perplexed. "What we see? He's a big thing, this side Baladeva, this side Arjuna, that side ... where to apply the rope? Can't. Perplexed. Then the Bhīṣma, Droṇa, and Nārada, Vyāsa, they're also present at that time in the assembly and they began to chant in praise of Kṛṣṇa. "Oh."

Then there was blind Dhṛtarāṣṭra. He, hearing those chanting from the voice and the new voice of Bhīṣma, Droṇa, Nārada, Vyāsa, he was charmed and prayed to Kṛṣṇa. "I can't see You I am blind but I hear that these great personages they're chanting in Your, seeing Your wonderful body. For the time being, You can do anything and everything, for the time being remove my blindness, let me see Your figure and colour Your beauty for which they are praising so much. For the time being remove my blindness and then again You will put it."

Kṛṣṇa told, replied: "No blindness to be removed. I say you see Me and you will be able to see Me. Not eye is required to see Me. Remaining blind you will see Me because I say."

So that is the nature of seeing Him, His will. Not the eye, not the ear can hear Him or see Him. He's above sense experience. Only His will: "Yes, you see Me," and Dhṛtarāṣṭra saw Him and the blindness was intact still he could see. Then what is He? And here also why a dead man can hear, ha ha, the blind can see, then, what is that thing?

Arjuna wanted to see His Viśva-rūpa. "Yes Arjuna see Me. I am so and so." Arjuna saw. "What do you see?" "I am seeing this I am seeing that I am seeing so many, in this way, wonderful I am seeing wonder of wonder I am seeing." Ha, ha.

So His sweet will at the back of everything. We are living in correlation with that absolute power. So no stability of the environment where we stay, where we stand, but all importance on the will divine. That is the cause, from there it is coming, it is maintained also by that will, and it may be withdrawn any moment by Him. So these things have got no value at all. With so much trust and enthusiasm we are to search for Him, the search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa Reality the Beautiful. The charming, the charm Himself, all charming absolute. Our innate need to find sweetness, beauty, rasa, ānandam, ecstasy, happiness, everyone. No one can say: "I don't want happiness," from the atheist to the highest type of theist all will say: "Yes, I want rasam, I want sweetness, peace, I want ecstasy, I want happiness." Everyone will say like that, the common demand in every conceiving unit is such, where there is conception they want peaceful existence, from the atheist, worst atheist.

So our direct necessity is with Him, raso vai saḥ, the ecstasy, the beauty. So begin search for that. Don't lose, waste your time for wild goose chasing. Give up everything.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja ahaṁ tvām sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ

"Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair." (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66)

Leave, give up phases of your duties you are so busily engaged in, all worthless, and begin search for that principle. Who is the Master, who is the creator, who is the Master of everything, and who is the fulfilment of everything. Search for Him direct.

Give up all your so-called obligations and duties, stop, sarva-dharmān, stop all sorts of duties, so-called duties from your relative position, misviewed from your present defective position. Don't rely on them. Direct search for the prime cause from which everything coming as miracle and who is the fulfilment of our life, not only ours, fulfilment of every atomic existence in the world. Try to march towards Him with His blessing on your head, and the agents, His agents will give you important help in that direction. Others can do nothing. Gaura Hari. Sādhū-saṅga and His Divine Name which is inseparable from His existence, the sound aspect of Him, that can help you a great deal, from the genuine. That war cry, slogan, Hare Kṛṣṇa, with that slogan march on with His genuine agents, follow them. Withdraw yourself from all possible promises so-called prospects of your life, they're nothing, no value.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: There are many inequities in the world, there's lots of unfairness, is there not?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Devotee: He says that there's much exploitation in the world, much unfairness.

How can we account

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Fair unfair both false, just like a dream. In a dream a good dream a bad dream, after all it is a dream. So you should not waste your energy to remove the unfair and to increase the fairness, fair unfair all false, wholesale false.

'dvaite bhadṛābhadrā-jñāna, saba-'manodharma' 'ei bhāla, ei manda',-ei saba 'bhrama'

"In the material world, conceptions of good and bad are all mental concoctions.

Therefore, saying, 'This is good, this is bad,' is a mistake." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.176)

This is good this is bad, the basis of the calculation is false. Your interest is not there, your real interest is not there. It is a false scent you are pursuing, your fulfilment is not in that direction at all. This fair unfair all false. Very little distinction between them, fairness and unfairness, because all cheating, cheating of different kinds but they're cheating, illusory, all illusion. A good dream, a hopeful dream, and a disastrous dream, after all that is dream, something, it is all false. The fairness also false, concoction, end the evil that is also false. So why do you allow you to waste your time in this wild goose chasing, they are all after all false. A good hoax or a bad hoax all hoax.

Devotee: But there are some people that are starving in the world and some people that their Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What to speak of starving, you are imprisoned in a cage not desirable for the soul at all. The whole world with the suns, stars, moons, oceans, mountains, all vanishing and again coming and going.

Devotee: How can we account for, I mean I believe you say there is Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And suppose you are monarch of all you survey but a monarch in the cremation ground, ha, ha, a monarch, master of the cremation ground. Only to deplore: "Oh, everything is passing away, every second everything passing away."

The Gray's Elegy:

The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power, And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave, Awaits alike the inevitable hour;

The path of glory leads but to the grave.

Elegy written in a country churchyard. (1751) (Thomas Gray, 1716-71, English poet)

Only to grave, everything leading to grave, finished.

Devotee: I keep trying to ask you how can we account for these inequities? I know that you're saying that there's no distinction

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How can?

Devotee: He wants to know why is there suffering?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The cause is the misuse of the free will of the jīva soul. Misuse of the wealth given to you.

Devotee: Given to you?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: By the Supreme Power?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, Supreme Power, as a part of His potency, particular. You have got that thing eternally existing with you and by misuse that of the freedom you have selected to come to be a king in the mortal world. Like Satan, he wanted to reign in hell rather than to serve in heaven. "It is better to reign in hell than to serve in heaven." Satan's statement. The free will, the weak vulnerable child's free will came to be a monarch of all I survey to reign in hell. The adoptability is there inherent and he could select service in heaven then his desire will be fulfilled but he has selected wrong, wrong way wanted to be monarch. He could not select slavery in the higher realm but he selected monarchy in the hell and not slavery in the heaven. The subtle difference is there. If you are to live in heaven then you are to live there as a surrendered soul, that is such a higher soil. Ultimately we see that to serve in heaven that is infinitely better than to reign in hell. Hell means the soil of affliction, affliction in variegated ways mainly classified as birth, death, infirmity, and disease. These undesirable things must be there in the hell.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: I want to know more about the organisation of this, um, are women allowed to participate in the process of praying or showing their devotion?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: He wants to understand whether women are allowed to become Kṛṣṇa conscious? What is the role of the women section, what is their position in Kṛṣṇa consciousness?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is who is woman here may not be woman there, who is man here may not be man there. This is only a dress, mental dress and accordingly this physical flesh dress, both garments, the flesh and the mind. But in the soul who will represent which type that is uncertain here in this plane. But women there they have got higher prospect, greater, brighter prospect.

Devotee: What do you mean by 'there'? Women 'there' you said.

Devotee: In the spiritual world.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the spiritual realm those that are of women type with that formation of soul's realisation that holds better position. Here in the plane of aggrandisement men hold the better position and there in the plane of submission and surrender the women form of mind is more paying. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The negative aspect. Positive is Kṛṣṇa Himself. And the potency is of negative type. We belong to potency group and not master group whose possessor of the potency, He's the Lord Himself.

Devotee: While Kṛṣṇa is a power, you call Him, you say Him, then Kṛṣṇa is manifested as a male figure?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Devotee: He wants to know whether Kṛṣṇa is represented as a male figure?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, male, that is predominating, Predominating Moeity, Predominating Half, He's the Predominator. And others to be predominated.

This proton or nutron, what is there?

Devotee: Yes, proton and nutron, and electron.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Negative and positive.

Devotee: Proton and electron, proton is positive and electron is negative, electron goes round and round the proton.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Proton in the centre?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And the electron like so many planets revolve?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then again that has been analysed and something else has been found.

Devotee: Unlimited, there are infinite sub-atomic particles.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Proton, neutron, what is neutron?

Devotee: Neutron is neither positive nor negative, in between.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Such atomic energy is existing?

Devotee: Yes, neither positive nor negative.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Neutron. Proton and electron combined, no?

Devotee: No.

Devotee: Yes, they say like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Neutron, if neutron is analysed, proton and electron? Atom analysed then proton and electron?

Devotee: Yes. Sometimes another particle is found, neutron.

Devotee: Do you believe in the equality of all people? Are all peoples of the world of the same quality?

Devotee: He wants to know if in Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism do we believe that all men are created equal?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, never, no two things are equal. In this world or in there no two things can be the same, equal. Everything has got its specific characteristic. One atom is different from another atom, one electron is different from another electron, cannot but be. We see all differentiated character.

Devotee: But what about quality? Is one better than the other?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. From the universal standpoint we are to judge. Who can earn or acquire the centre. And confidence means peace within. The corresponding, the confidence has corresponding side the highest degree of peace, ecstasy, happiness, bliss. The measurement is according to that rasam. Just as gold is the standard between different monetary papers, the pound, the ruble, the dollar, the rupee, the yen, but common standard is gold. So different type of calculation of peace but that also scientifically divided, śānta, dāśya, sakhya, vātsalya, madhurya. Classification and then degree, intensity in that. So many things are there to be read and understood. Ultimately rasam, ānandam, happiness, that is the common standard to judge the proposal of which religion is higher and lower.

Which is the common requirement. Just as food is common requirement. No dollar we can eat in the time of famine, but one who is in possession of food, s/he is well positioned. We cannot avoid food, we may not require dollar, nothing, but food we must want. A nation cannot stand without food, our indispensable necessity. So rasam, ānandam, that is the innate requirement of every soul, every living thing. And according to that the position will be judged. There are different proposals in religious conceptions, the Islam, the Christianity, the Buddhist, the Vedic doctrine, the Vaiṣṇava, the Śāṅkarite, so many.

But if we are to judge the gift from whom in a comparative study will be better. We are to judge by three things, sat-cit-ānandam. How far durable? And how far we can conceive? And what do we conceive that quality of that thing? Existence and the feeling, that is the consciousness of good and bad. And the food of consciousness, that is ecstasy, rasam, ānandam, happiness. These three things must be there and we are to compare between them. What is the proposal of Islam about the existence, about the knowledge and about the goal, ecstasy. In Christianity, in Vaiṣṇavism also when we are to compare and accept.

Compare, the adjustment is there. They're not to be cast away but there are men for whom they will be, for the present they will be very

End of side A, 5.5.83 + 23.5.83 side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: that is innate and existing everywhere.

The necessity of Gurudeva is there, that universal. Who wants not to err? To err is human but not to err that is also innate and irresistible everywhere. And therefrom the basis of the necessity of the Śrī Gurudeva who comes to give us relief from our internal trouble, Guru. In this way that develops. The Guru kataivata ? Kana Guru ? Guru Ke? Guru Ke ? That universal necessity of aim of life, prayojana.

Devotee: So this book Guru and His Grace, what should be the scope of that book according to you?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What should be?

Devotee: What should be the thrust, the scope, the Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It will go gradually, move here, the Guru. Ultimately it will come to Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa is Guru who can remove all our doubts. All our enquiries may be satisfied by whom? It is from Him. But gradually it will develop and go there. Who can clear all the doubts, we may have doubts after doubts, one doubt may go and thousands of doubts may come, but who can: bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva- saṁśayāḥ:

("The knot in the heart is pierced, all misgivings are cut to pieces and the chain of fruitive actions is terminated when I am seen as the Supreme Personality of Godhead.")(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.20.30)

Who can do away with all the suspicions in our mind, it is He, the fullest. In this way it will come. Its birth will be intellectualism and its goal is transcendental.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: I was thinking that we should begin by mentioning the descending process of knowledge, like that, that knowledge comes from up to down. And then we would maybe end by the verse by Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī:

āśābharair-amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ kathañcit kālo mayātigamitaḥ kila sāmpratam hi tvam cet kṛpam mayi vidhāsyasi naiva kiṁ me prānair vrajema ca varoru bakārināpi ?

("O Queen of my heart, for a long, long time I am waiting with great patience to have Your Mercy, which is so sweet to me that I cannot avoid it. It is heart-melting, heart- attracting, heart-crushing. It is so deeply touching me - I can't avoid Your Service Connection. Somehow I have managed to come such a long way, to endure such a long time, but I am impatient now. Be gracious; if You are not gracious upon me, I have got no hope. I will come to the end of my patience. My life will end here. So much so, that, what shall I do with this Vṛndāvana? Vṛndāvana is of no use to me! What is the utility of living my life? It is useless - it will end with no utility. I can't love even Vṛndāvana, which is associated with the līlā of Kṛṣṇa. To say nothing of Vṛndāvana, I can't relish the company of even Kṛṣṇa, without You. Without You, even Kṛṣṇa is meaningless to me. I can't tolerate, I can't relish either my own life, or this environment, or even Kṛṣṇa - if He Himself comes to grace me I can't relish that, without Your connection. So please be gracious upon me. You are all-in-all. Without You, Kṛṣṇa consciousness is not Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Your position is so great, so beautiful in Kṛṣṇa-līlā - You are the centre of all the līlā of Kṛṣṇa. Without You I can't conceive of any life worth living. I utterly surrender unto You, my Queen.") (Vilapa-kusumanjali, 102)

That was like the zenith, we may take it by your grace, we might mention that also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The birth and the destination that will come to meet together. The birth is also from the potency and after moving in the whole infinite it will come again to the potency. So infinite in finite, finite infinite, the affectionate connection of the finite with infinite helps him to live in infinite, so all the finite backed by infinite may be infinite, resourceful, is it not?

If a friend, our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) told, if a poor girl if she is married to a prince, she has nothing but by friendly affectionate relationship with a prince, now she's turned into a princess. Who has nothing only a friendly relationship she gets command over everything, so many things. Jīva's resources may engage in that way. Intrinsically jīva has nothing, a point of the point of the point. But coming in affectionate connection with the Absolute, he gets the facility of all advantages of life of the Absolute, through affection, he or she is in possession of the whole.

We cannot ascertain anyone's potency or power without consulting his relationship, friendly relationship. Israel is a small country but if Russia can jump it, conquer it within five minutes but America is there. So this angani bhava, the connection of the friends, not only estimation of a particular thing, but the estimation of the friend circle, that is all important.

There is one Indian Aesop's Fable like thing, there one paṇḍit Vaiṣṇava Sharma he's putting this śloka, that angani bhava gatya (?)

That a person and the friend, and friend of friend, without the calculation of this atmosphere, circumstance, we should not estimate the power of a particular thing. So he has given an example, titiva (?) the smallest bird, he could disturb and highly control the whole ocean. The bird went to his master, he went to his master, in this way the connection they made connection with Garuḍa, the servant bird carrier of Kṛṣṇa (Viṣṇu), Garuḍa-bhama. And Garuḍa came to back the small bird and by his threatening that samudra(?), "I shall drink you to finish." Samudra came to submit, had to come to finish, by the small bird because the friendly association.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, can you explain the meaning of dīkṣā ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Divyaṁ jñānaṁ is given in the śāstra, scripture.

divyaṁ jñānaṁ yato dadyāt, kuryāt pāpasya saṅkṣayam tasmād dīkṣeti sā proktā, deśikais tattva-kovidaiḥ

("Experienced scholars have explained the meaning of dīkṣā, or spiritual initiation, in this way: dīkṣā is the process through which divya-jñāna or transcendental knowledge is imparted by the preceptor to the disciple. As a result, all the disciple's previous bad tendencies are crushed. Through dīkṣā, all previous commitments are cleared, and one gets the light of new life in relationship with the transcendental Lord. Dīkṣā, or initiation, is a process by which we are given a noble connection with the absolute centre and at the same time, our previous commitments are all finished. It is an inner awakening of life for the soul that brings divine knowledge. That wealth is there within us, but it is suppressed. Dīkṣā means discovering one's inner wealth, and getting relief from all outward obligations." (Bhakti-Sandarbha, 868)

The scholars of the department have explained the meaning of dīkṣā in this way. Dīkṣā is a process through which the transcendental knowledge is imparted towards the disciple by the preceptor. And all his previous bad tendencies are crushed. That is known as dīkṣā in general. Previous commitments all cleared and he gets a new life, new life in relationship with the transcendental things. It's a process by which he is given a noble connection with the Absolute Centre and at the same time his previous commitments all finished. That has been called dīkṣā. It is an awakening, inner awakening of life, divyaṁ jñānaṁ. It is there, it is suppressed but that is discovered, dīkṣā means discovering of ones inner wealth, and also relief from the outward obligations. With inner awakening the outer commitment vanish.

When you reach home your other engagements for your comfort contracted all cut up. They find their full sympathetic necessary comfort there. So for your own comfort you must have connection with various things outside, but coming home all these things are felt to be unnecessary and disconnected. The home comfort. The hostel comfort, generally in a foreign land we seek comfort indeed and it is supplied in the hostel But when we reach home the hostel comforts they're discouraged, not necessary, "I have got home here, here is my home."

As minor you were taken away and you have come to visit your native place and you are in a hostel. But if you can come to know here was my father's, mother's house, if you come in that connection and go and they can recognise: "Oh, my boy, you were stolen when you were young. We can understand from your face all these things. I am your mother. I am your father. I am your sister." Then the hostel peon: "Oh, no longer, you go, I give up your, I have found my home." Something like that.

Back to God back to home with the inner awakening of the soul he finds his comfortable home. And outward links, connections, dispensed with. That is dīkṣā.

Devotee: So if śikṣā also gives divine knowledge

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is supplementary, śikṣā to help, but dīkṣā is the main thing, main formula and to work out that formula so many subsidiary things are necessary. In dīkṣā in the mantram the formula mainly there and other things are necessary to make it, to substantiate it, to help it, that thing.

They're all parts and parcels of dīkṣā. It is already in that formula, it should be this, it should be that, all the directions there. But how to substantiate that? Then to come in details so many things, śravaṇa, kīrtanaṁ, smaraṇa, vandana, all these things, thousand things may be necessary.

(śravaṇaṁ kīrtanaṁ viṣṇoḥ, smaraṇaṁ pāda-sevanam arcanam
vandanaṁ dāsyam, sakhyam ātma-nivedanam. iti puṁsārpitā viṣṇau, bhaktiś cen nava-lakṣaṇā kriyeta bhagavatya addhā tan manye 'dhītam uttamam)

("Hearing about Kṛṣṇa, chanting Kṛṣṇa's glories, remembering Kṛṣṇa, serving Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, worshipping Kṛṣṇa's transcendental form, offering prayers to Kṛṣṇa, becoming Kṛṣṇa's servant, considering Kṛṣṇa as one's best friend, and surrendering everything to Kṛṣṇa - these nine processes are accepted as pure devotional service.")

A general if he invades another country, chalk out the programme, "That this way we shall go and attack." We shall have to do this, but practically when going to do that so many things come on the way and we are to solve that and march on.

The whole plan, from foreign land to go home, the plan in this way you can go there. And to substantiate that practically so many things may be necessary in details. But mainly if you want to go home you will have to go from this to then, then to there. That is your home is there and the description of the home is there and where you are it is also there and through this process you can meet your home. This is chalked out in the plan and practically you are to do that. So many bus, you are to hire a rikshaw, then to the station, then to the plane, then to get a ticket for the plane. In this way so many things are necessary.

Divyaṁ jñāna, from the partial knowledge we are to reach to the final knowledge, and this is final. The final prospect.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

What is the consequence of your Calcutta journey?

Devotee: Printer.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Printer?

Devotee: Yes. He had one printing press many years ago, and he met Tīrtha Mahārāja Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where? Situated where?

Devotee: It was situated in Calcutta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Which side?

Devotee: Stand Road.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the name of the company?

Devotee: Minerva Printing House.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Minerva Printing House. What does he say?

Devotee: Well, he gave me one part of a translation, he gave me one book, a very old translation of Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By whom?

Devotee: This is done by Professor Sanjit Kumar Chaudri.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Wholesale or part translation?

Devotee: I have Madhya-līlā here but I think he has done the Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Madhya-līlā or Antya-līlā ?

Devotee: Madhya-līlā. This is published by Nagendra Kumar Roy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The whole of Caitanya-caritāmṛta or only the
.....

Devotee: The whole book is in three volumes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And translated by who you say? Sanjit Chaudri, Professor, Professor of Dacca?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dacca University. I met him, or rather he met us. He was married and he loved his wife very much and then his wife died. He became half mad. And then he came in connection with Mahāprabhu and appreciated Mahāprabhu, that prema, love is the highest thing. He appreciated Him in that line. And then he came to translate the Antya-līlā first, he told me, "I have translated Antya-līlā, a very nice thing, Mahāprabhu's vilās there." But we did not give any recognition to it because he's coming from that line, the wife separation, that is the cause of his coming to this side. So we did not encourage him much. At that time he only translated Antya-līlā. But I asked him, "Try to," he was a good English scholar, and I asked him, "You try to translate the whole thing." Then I did not meet him again. As far as I remember his name was Sanjit something or other. Nineteen Thirty-six, seven, eight, maybe, something like that, thirty-seven, eight.

Devotee: Sometimes when our A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī he would say something, he would meet someone one time and tell them something, they would take it as very important. So you have told this man, "You may translate the whole of Caitanya- caritāmṛta Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Śīśir Kumār Ghosh, the founder of Amṛta Bāzār Patrikā (a newspaper about Lord Caitanya Mahāprabhu), he wrote Lord Gaurāṅga. But they do not represent very correctly what life and teachings of Mahāprabhu, approximately, sentiments are given there, not on the basis of ontological conception, approximate.

In our Prabhupāda's (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) writing we find:

nija habi jabila gauranga ?

He remarked in this way about the Śīśir Ghosh's Lord Gaurāṅga. And Animunimay- carit (?) in Bengali, that is also a wonderful book, in style and in historical type also, but ontologically it is lacking.

nija habi jabila gauranga ?

The remark about them from our Guru Mahārāja in this way, "That you have concocted one Gaurāṅga in the line of your own sentimental enjoyment. You have created a Gaurāṅga of your own in a novel style." There are so many poets, they are also producing literature, very charming literature about the love, that Romeo and Juliet, etc., they're also involving many sentimental things to capture the mentality even of the scholarly thinking persons. It maybe something like that. Gaurāṅga of their imagination.

But it must have some reliable descending process not ascending. You are outcome of ascending line, imitation, imitationist. But that must come in the descending line.

Devotee: He also came across one book

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We have got our mental sentimental nath's. Generally we are in this world if our sentiments in this mundane nath's they're satisfied we are charmed. So imitationists can exploit our sincere approval. But to cross the mundane circumstance of love and then to enter the domain of the Divine Love, that is very difficult. To accept mundane love in the name of Divine Love that is very cheap. Imitation is not real.

Here was one bābājī who, Gaura Kiśora Dāsa Bābājī, was Guru Mahārāja of our Guru Mahārāja, he was there, another new bābājī came and took his quarter in his sight and began to show much vairāgya. Then Gaura Kiśora Bābājī remarked to one devotee that only imitating the pain of the childbirth one lady may not expect to give birth to a real child. That is, formally entering the birth room and there she's imitating the pain of giving a childbirth, that does not mean that a child will come from her womb. There are many things before. Not only that imitation painful sound, imitation. The finishing sound, that cannot give the birth of a child. Do you follow? No? Am I clear?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Kiśora Bābājī remarked that this gentleman he has come and he has erected a cottage in my sight and he's copying me in this vairāgyam, madhukari, and taking food, and taking the Name, all these things. This is complete imitation of an advanced saint he is making here. But he showed that only the copying the outer things, that must be śuddha-sattva, must be vairāgya connection with a genuine guru, then the process of the dīkṣā and the process of realisation, then he will, he can come to such. Only translation of the outward sentimental things of Kavirāja Goswāmī won't take him to that position, position of Kavirāja Goswāmī.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

In the drama also we may find that one may play the part of a saint very well, shedding tears, shivering, all those things of a sādhu one may act in the drama but he's not a sādhu. One may play the part of Nārada Goswāmī and chanting Hari bol! and tears running from his cheeks and so many outward signs he may show when acting the part of Devarṣi Nārada. But that does not mean he's converted into Nārada.

visarga pitila santi tad vidyasa paripica sattya bhasa vinath pisocam pata cam daya ?

Rūpa Goswāmī says, imitation may come to such perfection but still not a drop of devotion there to be traced, visarga pitila, some persons there are who are naturally very weak in temperament, very small loss and gain then tears running. So visarga pitila, they're very natural temperament is shedding tears, very soft. And tad vidyasa, and there is another who by practising a process they can take those outer signs within them. So these two sections when taking the Name of the Lord, either Kṛṣṇa or Gaurāṅga, they may shed tears enough but not a drop of pure devotion to be traced in their heart. It is possible, you must be very careful that mere outward show is not the real thing. So sevonmukhe hi, what is necessary is the serving tendency towards the centre absolute.

("Because the name of Kṛṣṇa is identical with Kṛṣṇa Himself, and on the absolute spiritual platform, Kṛṣṇa's name, form, qualities, and associates, cannot be appreciated by the material senses. However, when one engages the tongue in chanting the Holy Names of the Lord and tasting the remnants of the Lord's food, Kṛṣṇa gradually reveals Himself to the purified senses of that devotee.") (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234)

That is the most important, sevonmukhe hi, service, dedication, surrender, in the real case this is to be traced, this is the criterion; How far he has dedicated himself for the cause? He may not show many symptoms of a devotee to purchase his name but at heart his whole being surrendered.

So poetry, there are many poets who can describe things in such a way that when you will go to read that you cannot contain your tears. But that does not mean they're describing the Divine Love, this mundane love. So many things. How one is sacrificing his life for the country when he's describing in such a particular way that you cannot but shed tears. "Oh, these are martyrs for the country." There also we will shed tears but that does not mean that that is shedding tears that is getting Divine Love.

So we are to find out what is the source, the imitation, the fool's gold may be imitation but if we are assured that this gold is coming from that particular mine we can take it and without any tampering on the way, in that way the source.

Once it happened in this land Gandhi wanted to recover cherka system, that the cherka system the poor they will produce the thread and if we use that cloth then the money of the cloth will go to the pocket of those poor. But so many, Japan and Manchester, imitation khada came here, rough cloth just imitating the ordinary cloth which is produced from the thread of the, that is produced by the poor men. Then Gandhi found, perplexed: "What is this? My need is the money must go to the poor's pocket. But now the capitalists they are producing that rough cloth and that is being sold in the land. And instead of money going to the poor it is going to the capitalists." Then he found one association, the Khadi Association. "That you must purchase cloth from such shops who are connected with this association of mine. Then the money will surely go to the pocket of the poor." Association, at that time he told many: "Here is Guru-Paramparā.

Revealed truth coming uncontaminated through a particular process, paramparā, reliable succession. Then we can get the genuine thing. So association is necessary, guru-paramparā is necessary. So before we read anything we shall try to find out who is his Guru, where from the substance is coming down. Is he only the coat, the cover, or there is any real substance within the cover, where from he's coming? If we can understand the origin of his relation is coming from a genuine sādhu then we can give some attention to that. Just as Professor Sanyal, then that O.B.L. Kapoor they had connection with our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) the genuine source, so we give some value to their class.

I sometimes say I give an example about homeopathic globule. Mere globule has no medicine and no value, it is within. The same mantra the ordinary Guru may give it to the śiṣya, but what is potency through the sound going that is all important. The potency, what thinking, what good will through the word, what quality of good will, divine will is contained in that word, that is all important. To get mantra from sad- guru, genuine Guru, that means the internal good will or real conception about the Lord. In the seed of a banyan tree, a small seed, but the great big banyan tree will come from that seed. So with all import is there, the feeling within, the will with which a particular sound is given by the Guru to the disciple. But we cannot trace that in the present but in time if there's a favourable that will express himself, develop himself into a particular great thing.

So imitation we must be, when we go to purchase anything we must be careful about the imitation side otherwise we may be deceived. A simple, gentle man that he was, and his origin is that. A good man from the general calculation. But we don't think that any transcendental value, that potency is committed there, imitation. And they who are settled in the imitation sentimentalism they will get great comfort while reading the book and

Yadi gaura nā hoita, tabe ki hoita, very wonderful expression, kemone dharitām de:

(yadi gaura nā hoita, tabe ki hoita, kemone dharitām de rādhāra mahimā, prema-rasa-sīmā jagate jānāta ke madhura vṛndā vipina mādhurī praveśa cāturī sāra baraja yuvatī bhāvera bhakati śakati hoita kāra)

(Vāsudeva Datta has said: "If Mahāprabhu had not appeared then how could we sustain our lives? How could we live? What type of ecstatic rasa has He imbibed that we have been able to have a little taste? Without this our lives would be impossible. Who else could take us to the acme of realisation of the position of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She holds the highest position. She is the greatest victim to the consuming capacity of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. She stands as the greatest sacrifice before Kṛṣṇa's infinite consuming power. Rasarāj-Mahābhav - the rasa is there, and She is the drawer of that rasa from the storehouse. She has such negative capacity that She can draw out the rasa to the highest degree both in quality and quantity.")

That body we are already hearing. The future is going to influence the past. Kemone dharitām de. Already I was existent. The prospect is such I have come to say how could we if such valuation could not come to me then how could we bear a body in the past. Kemone dharitām de. That means it shows that who says this he's a pāṣada, already he has scent of the thing. "I had some peep of prospect of this nature in life fulfilment, this sort of fulfilment I had suppressed in my life. I was searching after that. Now finding this I come to conclusion that my here in this body has been successful. In other words what the inner search of my heart at last I have found what was the thing of my inner search, inner-most search, at last I have come to that. And Gaurāṅga has given that fulfilment of my inner-most demand, thirst. He is mine. Without Him none should have any conception of life."

Janmiyā se kene nāhi maila, the thing is here and if anyone cannot have it what is the worth of his life? He should better have died, he should have died. If living he cannot come in touch of that valuable thing he should have died. Janmiyā se kene nāhi maila, wherever he was born he should have died if he cannot come to his eternal prospect, fulfilment. This sort of expression coming to show about this extraordinary wonderful characteristic of the goal in Kṛṣṇa. Our goal in Kṛṣṇa is of such type, the devotees are giving description in different ways wonderfully strange. Fulfilment of life how, without that one should not live to that value. Kṛṣṇa. That the devotees.

To the present, to the market the canvasser is to take the choicest thing for canvassing. The capitalist also is astonished by his choice, and sometimes showing gratitude to him. "You have represented highly valuable things of mine to the others. So much to say I was not myself conscious that such things were in Me. You have taken from My storehouse so many tasteful things. Was it in My store? Your choice makes me more valuable. So I submit to you. So beautiful things you have found in Me I cannot but feel proud by your touch, by your connection these beautiful things have come, have been discovered in Me, I wonder."

It also may be possible, this also may be possible. So Kṛṣṇa's obligation towards Rādhā, the wholesale leader. Partial leaders there are of different groups but wholesale leader of every commodity available there in the store, that wholesale leader.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

kṛṣṇa napay par ?

Kṛṣṇa Himself cannot measure the greatness of Rādhārāṇī. So our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) asked to keep Her in reverence on your head, over your head. Don't be bold enough to approach direct.

pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range

"The path of divine love is worshipping to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."

A respectful distance above try to keep Her with Her group. Don't rush towards that thing, it is not of that type. So how valuable they are this raga-marga who worship Kṛṣṇa in this way, the way of love. The loving service, prema-sevā, it is not ordinary thing, not mechanical thing. Don't try to finish, to limit it, it is of unlimited type, don't rush to entrance, make trespass, don't commit offence. This is the prospect of your lives after lives, in this way live. Infinite has everywhere centre nowhere circumference. Don't try to put any circumference there. The centre of your prospect thing.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura

sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam dāsyāya te mama raso
'stu raso 'stu satyam

(Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, the greatest exponent of the faith of servitude to Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā-dāsyam, wrote: "I won't allow myself to become fascinated by the proposal of the higher level service as a friend, sakhya. Rather, I shall tend always to do the lower service, dāsyā, the service of the servant. I shall not consider myself to be a high-class servitor and I shall always tend to go towards the lower class of service. But He may forcibly take me to a higher service - "No, you are no longer to serve there; now you must serve in this higher category.") (Vilāpa-kusamāñjali, 16)

Let my respect be towards the friendly connection with the Supreme Master. Respect in friendly connection, but servant connection I pray to my own self try to connect with the service connection, service taste, try always towards that. Expressively invite service and learn to give respect to the friendly service. Don't venture to tread on your foot on that plane, don't, "where angels fear to tread fools rush in." Don't become a fool but try to follow the angels. Keep it always on a respectable higher level and try to connect yourself with the service.

When Pratāparudra began his service apparently mean service as a sweeper then Mahāprabhu gave him an embrace. We should not forget that, that is the very backbone of devotion. Always towards lower services and automatically from the other side the choice comes for you for higher plane. Don't you try to force in there but show your modesty, tendency to go to the lower level. And it is the duty of the higher to take you in a proper place. Dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu, my sincere attraction may be towards lower service, the service of a servant. But I must be conscious of a friendly service, I show respect to that. That should be our attitude. We must have the knowledge that that is high but I am not fit, it is high I am not fit. So many Vaiṣṇavas are higher, correct like that. I must engage myself to the lower level then automatically from the Yoga-Māyā party they're not sitting idle, whoever will be fit for a particular plane Yoga-Māyā is there. Others will forcibly take him from particular plane and put to some higher plane. They're not inanimate objects, they're all conscious. So your modesty would not be ignorantly accepted as your unfitness, no fear of that.

sadā hariḥ

Infinite meaning and prospect, the direction, general direction. "Oh, do you take the process of divine sound? Only the easy course to reach that goal by the divine sound?

Then, to come to that level you will have to accept such attitude then you will feel that there is a very fine level through which you can reach there, the finest level is there. But you are to accept such attitude real then it will be possible. Not by no necessity of removing a mountain, or to oppose a river current, big things won't be necessary. But only by cultivation of the spiritual sound you'll be able to reach the goal but you'll have to take such attitude. Then you will feel that you've come to a very particular subtle level only through sound we can go there. Our soul can be attracted, can be connected with that. But if we can pose ourselves with this, tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā, that means much. That is not an outward statement. If we go to adopt that sort of mood we shall have to cross many oceans, many oceans I shall have to cross I shall experience. But from my present position of egoistic boast when I am to go far to the lowest level of a blade of grass, countries after countries I am to go through, planes after planes.

Taror api sahiṣṇunā, to get into, to reach into that sort of attitude, so many suns and moons, earths, that will be passed in my way. Concrete things I shall have to bid adieu. So many basic thoughts of the concrete bigger things that has to bid adieu, leave, only to go, to reach to that attitude properly.

Amāninā mānadena, my connection with the subtle and higher things, that will have to ignore, amāninā mānadena. The plane of life will be changed, the activity, the plane will change where activity should be, energy should be invested. Not in this plane what we see about us, concrete.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Milton told: "Peace hath her victory not less renowned than war." In his sonnet I read: "Peace hath her victory not less renowned than war." If we search the meaning of that deeper then we may come to: tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā amāninā mānadena, the adoptability of such plane of life practically in our utilisation. The many victories to be conquered to reach to that plane, your peaceful, "peace that hath victory not less renowned than war."

Mohammed's direction, Koran in one hand, sword in another hand. If anyone does not accept, beheaded immediately. War, ha, ha. And Mahāprabhu saying just the opposite. Sunīc, don't forget giving resistance, if any resistance comes try to forbear with the best of your energy. Amāninā mānadena, don't try to encroach upon the prospect of others, physical all physical prospect. Mānadena, and don't give any opposition to them. With these such adoptabilities, this is war, peace, war in peace, peace hath her victory, this is victory in peace, peace, not physical war. If you can attain these victories then you are automatically led to a particular plane where you will find ample beyond your expectation and your conception.

Wonderful things, renowned they found all the sound representing Kṛṣṇa. Only through the Name this Kṛṣṇa is overflowing, all pervading, and it has got its wonderful flow all full of meaning not that inanimate flow in the plane as if the flow of the ether, and full of meaning. Who can catch? The scientists who can come to the level of ether s/he may find many wonderful things in that vibration must come to the plane of ether.

So only the sound aspect of the whole is so sweet, so attractive, so happy, we cannot conceive or think out it is there. Not unscientific.

Sevonmukhe hi jihvādaḥ, all the attempts must be made in that spirit. "I am for Him." That will be the main principle of our advance, "I am for Him." Sevonmukhe hi jihvādaḥ, then it will be able for us to reach that plane. "I am for Him." "Die to live." The whole process is "the peace that hath victory" but "die to live", that process always. Dissolve this ego considering that ego, to leave this ego means to embrace death, subtle death, to leave a particular ego, one layer of ego may require many births to satisfy its breadth. The cover, different covers of ego, but the wholesale ego should be dissolved, "I am for Him." "I am for Him." "Die to live." I want the property of my wonderful dream to be satisfied.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

One says: "I had much hope that I shall be a Vaiṣṇava, but when the trṇād api advice came to me, oh, that is impossible."

Devotee: (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja he also one time Lord Jetland said: "I want to be a Vaiṣṇava, I want to be brāhmaṇa. What do I have to do?" So Goswāmī Mahārāja told him: "You have to give up meat, women, intoxication and gambling." He said: "Impossible. It cannot be done."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lord Jetland previously was Lord Rommelsay (?) He was Governor of Bengal. And when the first non cooperation movement began we were in the college square just in front of the university there is a (water) tank and just on the eastern side the Boddhi (?) Society was founded at that time and Rommel came to open. I did not know, suddenly I found some students they're crying: "Shame, shame, shame." Lord Rommelsay is passing in his car after opening that ceremony, recent ceremony, he's going away by the street. And some students they were aware of the fact they began to cry: "Shame, shame, shame." Then afterwards I enquired and I heard that Rommelsay is passing and they're crying: "Shame, shame, shame."

He was a very meek, mild gentleman, Rommelsay. Then I heard that he after leaving India he went to England and he perhaps after the death of his father he was the owner of Jetland perhaps, a locality, some zamindar or something like that, Lord Jetland. Lord Rommelsay afterwards was known as Lord Jetland and he was Secretary for State for India. He gave lectures about Vaiṣṇavism, I have got, it was out in Statesman or some newspaper, the cutting I have got perhaps with me in praise of Vaiṣṇavism. "I went to Navadvīpa. I saw the Vaiṣṇavas. I had in my memory those twelve followers of Christ and this and that so many mentioning this and that." He has praised about our Guru Mahārāja, that: "He has started that Vaiṣṇava cult to preach and come here." And Bana Mahārāja met him and Goswāmī Mahārāja also met him, and he had some appreciation of the Indian Scriptures.

In another time when I was in Madras Maṭh some publication I found that Jetland says, they gave some reform government, proposed some reform government to India but Indian political leaders not going to accept that. "That the veto power is there so it is nothing. You are giving something, election, this parliament always, but the Viceroy can give veto to everything." The Indian leaders said: "This is nothing, in many things they may give veto." But Jetland was remarking at that time: "That they're suffering under māyā." Ha, he quoted this that just as in Indian philosophy the position of māyā, "so they're suffering from the influence of māyā. It is only their imagination that we shall give veto to everything. No, veto in special cases, so there is other things this right they're getting from this reform proposal in this way. The māyā, the thing it is existing and not existing, they're afraid of the existence of the veto but veto is not to be used always so they're only suffering from māyā." And this was his argument.

And also it was too that Goswāmī Mahārāja asked: "You'll have to give this and that but it is impossible." Ha, ha.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahāprabhu, He instructed Raghunātha Dās Goswāmī to always wear this verse, this śloka, ṭṛṇād api, around his neck as a necklace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

(grāmya-kathā nā śunibe, grāmya-vārtā nā kahibe bhāla nā khāibe āra
bhāla nā paribe

amānī mānada hañā kṛṣṇa-nāma sadā la'be vraje rādhā-kṛṣṇa-sevā mānase karibe)

("Don't indulge in worldly talk, don't hear worldly talk. Try your best to avoid mundane matters. Don't eat delicious dishes, but take whatever ordinary food may come of its own accord; and don't dress luxuriously. Always try to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa with the attitude of giving respect to others, without expecting respect from anyone. Be humble, but never aspire after respectful dealings from others. In this way, try to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa constantly. And within, try to serve Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana. Mentally, be in Vṛndāvana rendering Service to Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa-līlā.")(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 6.236-7)

Grāmya-vārtā nā kahibe, grāmya-kathā nā śunibe, the worldly talks you must not attend, neither you engage yourself in that. Bhāla nā khāibe āra, don't seek after the satisfaction of your tongue and belly, or don't try to get any good dress which is appreciated by the people. Amānī mānada hañā kṛṣṇa-nāma sadā la'be, give honour to all but don't seek honour from anyone. In this way you will take the Name of Kṛṣṇa always, continuously. And vraje rādhā-kṛṣṇa-sevā mānase karibe, but internally in your mind try to serve Rādhā-Govinda in Vṛndāvana. As you are in Vṛndāvana you are serving Rādhā- Govinda. That will be your mental aspiration. And externally you are to go on and live your life in this way, not good dress, nor good food, nor indulgence in the worldly topics, either saying or hearing, and always giving honour to all and don't seek honour from anyone. In this mood you go on."

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! There is one verse in Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura:

vaisnava caritur sarva darpa vitra ye ninda himsa cari bhaktivinod nasam bhaka tahi taka sada mano dari ?

"The (chert ?) collector of Vaiṣṇava is always very pure but if anyone out of motive clearly speaks ill about them then this Bhaktivinoda he don't want to talk with them and he will keep silence, no cooperation with them if anyone comes to abuse Vaiṣṇava then good non cooperation."

Then Goswāmī Mahārāja who proposed Jetland, he told:

sri dvaita das kirtaniyal dyas sada maray rati mati lati bahi ?

Bhaktivinoda only kept silent but Bhaktisiddhānta won't stand there idle, he will give some punishment to that, ha, ha. He's inspired with that sort of

Devotee: Vṛndāvana Dās Ṭhākura

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vṛndāvana Dās Ṭhākura has gone further. "Most appealingly I am presenting the characteristic and advice of Gaura and Nityānanda. You people come to understand this. I fall at your feet and I pray that with good motive you come to approach and you will find that all these truths and you will be blessed. But in spite of my so much fervent and modest appeal, if you revolt then I shall kick you and break your head by my kick." Ha, ha.

And Kavirāja Goswāmī has said: "I fall on your feet dust and do something for you so far you say otherwise," very mildly. But Vṛndāvana Dās Ṭhākura has, I had in my mind previously when I read, "This does not look well with the Vaiṣṇava's, specially with the followers of Śrī Caitanyadeva who has given trṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā. Vṛndāvana Dās Ṭhākura he being a bona fide devotee, how can he have such a cruel and proud statement?" But when I heard from Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktisiddhānta Ṭhākura, just the opposite meaning. He approached this statement from quite a different direction. One who had no other alternative but to go to eternal hell, Vṛndāvana Dās Ṭhākura has come out to do some good for him. The approach from a different quarter altogether. No hope, for them Vṛndāvana Dās Ṭhākura has come and given some hope. Why? How? He's punishing with his kicking them and for these actions of his Kṛṣṇa will be moved, Nityānanda Prabhu will be moved for them. "Oh, he's abused by My devotee." So He will come to nourish him and thereby he will get some benefit and connection. Vṛndāvana Dās Ṭhākura by such bold and cruel sayings has insulted them and Kṛṣṇa He will be not be able to stand unaffected. "Oh, Vṛndāvana Dās Ṭhākura has insulted you that he will kick you. No, no, don't mean so. I am for you." Ha, ha, ha. Kṛṣṇa will come in his favour. So Vṛndāvana Ṭhākura has done the negative side, he has done some good for that person by such bold assertion of hateful punishment to them attracted Kṛṣṇa's attention for them in their favour. "Oh, you are so much insulted by My devotee, all right, don't be affected, I shall help you." In this way he has opened some way for their future benefit. That sort of argument I heard from him.

Whenever any bona fide devotee does something wrong to a particular man, when the son beats another boy, the one who beats, his father comes to nurse him. "Oh, my son has beaten you?" Then he comes and with soft hands this theory. When a bona fide devotee has done something wrong to a particular person then the guardian of that devotee he's inclined to sympathise with him and in that way some good must come to him. So who had no other alternative Vṛndāvana Dās Ṭhākura has opened the way for them. Ha, ha, in this way. I found meaning in that way from him. Who had no other way to get out from the hell but Vṛndāvana Dās Ṭhākura has managed to provide something for them, for those persons by showing rude attitude has moved the heart of Kṛṣṇa sympathetically towards those.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, Kṛṣṇa empowers certain souls to write Vaiṣṇava literature and others to distribute Vaiṣṇava literature. In this way as you explained Śrīnivāsa Ācārya has a very exalted position because he's the greatest distributor of Vaiṣṇava literature.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Jīva Goswāmī sent all the Vaiṣṇava scriptures prepared by them in his custody. And there was Narottama Ṭhākura and Śyāmānanda Prabhu with him but Śrīnivāsa was given the main charge. And they came to Bengal and here near Bakura. They came in a bullock cart and there was one native chief, the aborigine ādivāsī (indigenous peoples) section, aborigine sect. And his name was Birhambir. He had some astrologer and there were in those days some dacoit type, whatever passing through his state he sometimes wanted to loot it, plunder. But a devotee at the same time but plundering was some of their occupation with the ādivāsī. And the astrologer told: "Highly valued things are within that casket." Then he ordered: "Take it off from the street and put it in my custody." And that was

End of recording, 9.5.83, side A. side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: sent back to Vṛndāvana, and these three tried their best to find out that casket of books but failed. The king has kept in his capital, in his palace, how can they find trace? No trace. Then Śyāmānanda and Narottama Ṭhākura they went to their respective locality. Śyāmānanda went to Midnapore to preach there, and Narottama Ṭhākura also to Northern Bengal and began preaching there.

But Śrīnivāsa Ācārya could not do so. "How can I evade this responsibility." So he became half-mad. "I was entrusted with such a high responsibility and I could not do anything. It is for my sin my crime, offence, that the books disappeared." He was wandering in the locality half-mad, disappointed here, there.

People of that locality thought, "Oh that boy does not talk with anybody, has head crack, he's wandering here and there in this way."

But that Birhambir had a Bhāgavata class every day in his temple compound. And one gentleman whose name was Vyāsa, he was reading Bhāgavatam and the chief also attended the class with many other persons. And Śrīnivāsa Ācārya, he, someday or other used to attend the class sitting indifferently half mad. People thinking him a fair looking young man whose head is cracked and a desolate person he is moving. One day unconsciously, the Vyāsa was explaining, the Guru or priest of the chief Birhambir he was explaining Bhāgavatam, one day he committed some mistake and Śrīnivāsa Ācārya unconsciously he corrected that. Then all attention fell on him. "Who is he who can catch the error of the great paṇḍit Vyāsa? Who is he?" All came to enquire.

Then when sincerely approached in that fashion he cried: "That I am so and so, I am wandering here frustrated because the books, the śāstras, the holy scriptures were in my custody, we were taking them, this that, the whole fact."

Then the chief he confessed: "Oh, I have stolen that box and it is in my custody, you come and see."

Then he came and saw, opened, "Yes, they're all intact there present." Then he began ārātrika, pūjā of the śāstra. And they informed Narottama Ṭhākura and Śyāmānanda and to Vṛndāvana, also to Jīva Goswāmī. "The books are already found, we have got it, don't be worried." In this way.

Then he had got a great hold in that locality and Birhambir again was initiated, got initiation from Śrīnivāsa Ācārya. Now also there are many disciples of Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava schools that side, Viṣṇupura in Bakhura. So Śrīnivāsa Ācārya was, had much affinity towards these holy scriptures. And this śloka comes from him, Swāmī Mahārāja sung in America, vande-rūpa-sanātanau raghu-yugau śrī-jīva-gopālakau. This was composed by Śrīnivāsa Ācārya. Vande-rūpa-sanātanau, nāna-śāstra-vicāraṇaika- nipuṇau sad-dharma-saṁsthāpakau, vande-rūpa-sanātanau raghu-yugau śrī-jīva- gopālakau. Ṣaḍ-gosvāmy-stotra. Swāmī Mahārāja sang it himself and I am told that in music section also, musical section, it was of very high value, his singing. The experts say that the sound echoing the sense in such a tone he sang that poem that has got very nearest connection with the meaning. That is the best type of sound I am told which the sound and the meaning in the tone is very nearer. Some such calculation is going on in the musical department modern. And by that test it was valued very high, his singing. Hearty, coming from the core of the heart, the meaning and the sound are very clear and helping one another. Something like that I heard. Vande-rūpa-sanātanau raghu-yugau śrī-jīva-gopālakau. Śrīnivāsa Ācārya.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

He used to live near Katwa, Yajigram, near Katwa there is a village Yajigram, there Śrīnivāsa Ācārya lived, had his household. And he preached on all sides.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, you told that Rādhā has, Rādhārāṇī, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī has the highest position because She is spreading Kṛṣṇa's glories, and Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All spreading, not only for that quality, all spreading all the potency engaged in that. But they're all subservient to Her. She's the main principle of potency which can, as the other half. One half Kṛṣṇa and another half Rādhārāṇī. Positive Negative. Predominating Moiety and Predominated Moiety. She represents all the rasa, vātsalya, sakhya, and others. Generally mādihura-rasa has got all the constituent points of all other rasa within it, it is a full complete rasa and it includes all other rasa within that so it is the full thing, mukhya-rasa, adi-rasa, all comprehensive rasa. One half Kṛṣṇa another half Rādhārāṇī and others all come forth from Rādhārāṇī in different ways. Only another that. And that Kṛṣṇa has got His facsimile this Balarāma and others one side. And Rādhārāṇī also has got another side, Her partial representatives.

Devotee: This means that in level of quality, to distribute, to spread is more important than to write Vaiṣṇava literature? According to the level of importance to spread, to distribute Vaiṣṇava literature is more important than to write?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't understand.

Devotee: He wants to know if it is more important to write literature or to distribute literature? To canvass and give literature to many or to write literature? He wants to think that canvass and give literature to many this is very good, very much more important than to write literature.

Devotee: According to your explanation that Rādhārāṇī became very dear to Kṛṣṇa because She spreads Kṛṣṇa's glories to the others and made Kṛṣṇa famous to other people.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But to write and to distribute the books, to write the books and to distribute is one and the same thing, only higher lower. And ordinary people can distribute books and to write that is found in the higher level, to take from higher level to dress them to be acceptable to this particular gross level. Both are similar but more valuable who are drawing from the subtle towards gross than one who is distributing the gross to here.

And representation must be proper. The writing, only mere writing won't do, but accurate representation must be there. There may be so much writing in that name that won't be of any value, rather of opposite value. If we twist, we disfigure, misrepresent, then that will be offence.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I am told that without, in spite of the warning some undesirability, too much addiction he has for worshipping some Śālagrāma Devotee: Many Śālagrāmas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Many Śālagrāmas.

Devotee: He was keeping Them in a fish tank, in London. So that was the problem.

He abused Śālagrāma and as a result he became a sahajiyā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To worship Śālagrāma is a dangerous thing.

Devotee: I saw this happen many times, to many devotees this happened.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And this Jaya Tīrtha?

Devotee: Many Śālagrāmas also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Within the box collected Śālagrāmas like stones. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: One boy in London who came, he had brought ten of these Śālagrāma- śīlās back with him and as a result he was Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was the first man who came with eighteen points of difference from the ISKCON. "We are so many, we have got such differences with the present ISKCON Government." And eighteen points he put to me. I sent them to Tamal Kṛṣṇa. Tamal Kṛṣṇa told: "No time now, preaching is progressing like anything, you'll be happy to know. And when I shall go to Navadvīpa Gaura Pūrṇimā ceremony, at that time I shall meet and talk with you." But he came and went on without coming here and speaking anything to matter. Then again these people came and they said: "We are ill-treated by the disciples of those Ācāryas, so-called. What to do?" I told them in a body you can give a petition about your complain to the managing board. And if that does not produce any consequence then you may mix together and go on with your own work. Relief work at that time I told, form a body and go on with relief work. Those that are neglected, disappointed, rejected, collect them, don't allow them to go away from the fold of Swāmī Mahārāja. Anyhow they have entered the fold and try to protect them.

But Pradyūmna went on and lost there, and many in this way came to me. At last this was formed, this Mahā-maṇḍal, go on working in relief work. Then Charu Swāmī and others they revolted, they were the first persons that complained against the activities. Now they can't tolerate and accuse me that I am encouraging the party against ISKCON and doing some disservice to Swāmī Mahārāja, taking advantage of his absence, something. But I am acting according to my conscience as I know.

In the meantime Jaya Tīrtha Mahārāja's example is very, very disappointing, frustrating. Purva-saṁskāra, the previous impulse of the mind has come in a new colour to attack and devour him. I am told that previously he was in that party of intoxication, and also published some books about the efficacy of that thing. He was a party leader there of the hippy. Now he was converted by Swāmī Mahārāja to this creed, now again the previous mental impulse has come out in some other form and captured him hopelessly. Hriyate hy avaśo 'pi saḥ, pūrvābhyāsenā, hriyate hy avaśo 'pi saḥ.

Devotee: Where's that from Mahārāja? From the Bhāgavatam ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gītā. (6.44), hriyate hy avaśo 'pi saḥ.

It is perhaps mention in the good sense.

tatra taṁ buddhi-saṁyogaṁ, labhate paurva-daihikam yatate ca tato bhūyaḥ, saṁsiddhau kuru-nandana

"O son of Kuru, within one of the births I have just described to you, that unsuccessful yogī revives, from the practices of his previous life, his intelligence centred in the worship of the Supersoul. Thereafter, with renewed vigour, he again endeavours for the perfection of seeing Him."
(Bhāgavad-gītā, 6.43)

pūrvābhyāsenā tenaiva, hriyate hy avaśo 'pi saḥ jijñāsur api yogasya, śabda-brahmātivartate

"Although undesirous due to some obstacle, he again becomes attached to yoga, by dint of the practice he applied in his last life. And though he may be a practitioner still striving for perfection, he surpasses the path of fruitive action mentioned in the Vedas, and achieves a far superior fruit."
(Bhāgavad-gītā, 6.44)

It is the bright side.

nehābhikrama-nāśo 'sti, pratyavāyo na vidyate svalpam apy asya dharmasya, trāyate mahato bhayāt

"Even a small beginning in this devotional service cannot go in vain, nor can any loss be suffered. The most insignificant practice of such devotional service saves one from the all-devouring fear of repeated birth and death in this world." (Bhāgavad-gītā, 2.40)

Arjuna asked if anyone before attaining his siddhi, full realisation, in the process of his realisation if he dies then whether the acquired things are lost. Then the Lord says no whatever you will acquire that will be kept again in the next birth that will come to help you, in there mentioned.

Devotee: What happens in the case of Vaiṣṇava aparādha ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then that is covered for the time being. Sometimes it may be heavy in the lower place, so heavy, vaiṣṇava-aparādha yadi uṭhe hātī mātā, upāḍe vā chiṇḍe, tāra śukhi' yāya pātā:

(yadi vaiṣṇava-aparādha uṭhe hātī mātā upāḍe vā chiṇḍe, tāra śukhi' yāya pātā, tāte mālī yatna kari' kare āvaraṇa aparādha-hastīra yaiche nā haya udgama, kintu yadi latāra saṅge uṭhe 'upaśākhā'

bhukti-mukti-vāñchā, yata asaṅkhyā tāra lekhā, 'niṣiddhācāra', 'kuṭīnātī', 'jīva-himsana'

'lābha', 'pūjā', 'pratiṣṭhādī' yata upaśākhā-gaṇa, seka-jala pāñā upaśākhā bāḍī' yāya

stabdha hañā mūla-śākhā bāḍite nā pāya)

("If a devotee commits an offence at the feet of a Vaiṣṇava while cultivating the creeper of devotional service in the material world, his offence is compared to a mad elephant that uproots the creeper and breaks it. In this way the leaves of the creeper are dried up. The gardener must defend the creeper by fencing it all around so that the powerful elephant of offences may not enter. Sometimes unwanted creepers, such as the creepers of desires for material enjoyment and liberation from the material world, grow along with the creeper of devotional service. The varieties of such unwanted creepers are unlimited. Some unnecessary creepers growing with the bhakti creeper are creepers of behaviour unacceptable for those trying to attain devotional perfection, diplomatic behaviour, animal killing, mundane profiteering, mundane adoration, and mundane importance. All these are unwanted creepers. If one does not distinguish between the bhakti-latā creeper and the other creepers, the sprinkling of water is misused because the other creepers are nourished while the bhakti-latā creeper is curtailed.")(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.156-160)

The whole thing may be uprooted, and the creeper may die, finished, then again he will have to take initiation, finished. It comes by the grace of Vaiṣṇava and by serious offences that may be uprooted wholesale, finished, withdrawn, vaiṣṇava-aparādha.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Upāḍe vā chinḍe, tāra śukhi' yāya pātā, tāte mālī yatna kari' kare āvaraṇa. In other offences there is some relief recommended, but here the wholesale gone. So we are advised to give a barrier so that the elephant cannot enter, that has been compared with a mad elephant, vaiṣṇava-aparādha, hātī mātā, a mad elephant, vaiṣṇava-aparādha it may uproot the whole thing. Tāte mālī yatna kari' kare āvaraṇa, you must have good fencing so that vaiṣṇava-aparādha may not enter.

Who has come to save me, ha, if I give a good beating to that gentleman then what is it? He has come to relieve me, to save me, to welcome me, to take me to the Lord. And ill-fated I'm quarrelling and fighting with him, with my own interest. Suicide, to commit vaiṣṇava-aparādha means to commit suicide, more than that, to kill the guardian, well-wisher. I am a child and he's my well-wisher, guardian, and I go to insult him, to beat him that is more valuable than my own soul. My soul, what is there? If not with devotion a Satan can enter and play with my soul. What value my soul has got? It may be a doll in the hands of a Satan. But my saviour is coming to save me from that hand of Satan for eternity and if my free will goes to fight against him that is more than suicide. My soul has not got much value but his grace has got more value. He can make me king, more than a king's position he has come to give.

Rāma. Rāma. Rāma.

Devotee: But vaiṣṇava-aparādha depends on the angle of vision that one can see, for example for my position now, my Godbrothers and Hṛdayānanda Mahārāja, he thinks now that I am making vaiṣṇava-aparādha by renouncing him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is a relative position. Temporary and final. Absolute consideration and relative, the Absolute consideration will hold greater value.

..... they have obligation to our mother, father, but when the call of the Absolute will come we are to give up that obligation, general obligation, to obtain the call of the Absolute. And so in the case of the Absolute call there is also gradation of the Vaiṣṇava, their difference in their decision. In that case if by my previous fate or fortune I have accepted one of lower rank of Vaiṣṇava and I find a clash with Vaiṣṇava of the higher conception and if I feel in the inner-most part of my heart that wherever I committed my faith previously, and what I have come across now there is far difference then with our sincere conscience we may leave the first and accept the second. It is possible, so many records.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura took initiation from one Vipina Goswāmī. In his Caitanya- caritāmṛta and other bhasyam his name mentioned we find. As long as he lived he gave some respect to that gentleman. But our Guru Mahārāja when he heard that he was going to disregard (Raghunātha) Dāsa Goswāmī Prabhu. "That he was of a śūdra family, born of a śūdra, I am born of a brāhmaṇa family, so I can bless him."

When this expression came to the ear of our Guru Mahārāja then he abused him and asked Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura: "What is this? Your formal Gurudeva he is saying like this." Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura a little, expressed some sorrow that has been his position.

Then there happened another thing. There was one previous Bhāratī Mahārāja, a big body, and very capturing lecture and discussion, Bhāratī Mahārāja. He took initiation first from that Vipina Goswāmī. He had some difference from the party of Prabhupāda (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) in his home, so he thought that if I take initiation from Vipina Goswāmī, Vipina Goswāmī of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, then I can oppose them successfully by my credit. He took initiation from Vipina Goswāmī, the Guru of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. But Prabhupāda's group did not care for that. "That he's a sahajiyā, you have taken sahajiyā guru." Did not care. Then they found he has got no place, then he left that Vipina Goswāmī and again took initiation from our Guru Mahārāja Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī. And he became a sannyāsī and preached. So there is gradation, realisation, faith

Devotee: Bhakti Vivek Bhāratī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhakti Vivek Bhāratī, he first took initiation from Vipina Goswāmī who was the Guru of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. But then he had to leave that and again come to our Guru Mahārāja to take initiation. The formal and Absolute consideration and in Absolute consideration there may be different from that type formal. How intense the devotion? Only formal initiation external practice is not the whole thing. What sort of how intense realisation? The potency, there is potency in the homeopathic globule. Sometimes lower potency is not working, higher potency should be applied to expect the desired result. The lower potency will come to assert that "I am your Guru. You have first come to me and got some sort of result but not permanent, something." It will be something like that.

After the departure of our Guru Mahārāja he opened a separate Maṭh and Siddhāntī joined him with this condition: "That as long as Bhāratī Mahārāja will live as senior sannyāsī," Siddhāntī was a brāhmacārī, afterwards he took sannyāsa, and the condition was, "Who will survive he will get hold of the whole Maṭh." Bhāratī Mahārāja disappeared and Siddhāntī's controlling his Maṭh wholesale. A Maṭh in Purī, Calcutta, and here (Navadvīpa). And one purchased a house in Vṛndāvana, started a Maṭh but could not maintain, he gave it up to Tīrtha Mahārāja, Bhakti Vilasa Tīrtha who was controlling Mayapūra and research in Calcutta.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: To the hogs, I was thinking that, I was reading your conversations in your preaching and I ask you if you feel that in your desire that you're preaching can be to the mass or you want that your books be spread to the high class of people? Because I don't know if the mass they can really appreciate.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who can appreciate, understand, that will be proper dealings.

na buddhi-bhedaṁ janayed, ajñānāṁ karma-saṅgināṁ yojayet sarva-karmāṇi, vidvān yuktaḥ samācaran

("The scholarly proponents of the path of knowledge must not confuse ignorant, attached men by deviating them with the advice: "Leave aside action, and cultivate knowledge." Rather, controlling their own minds, the learned should perform all the various duties without desiring the results, and in this way, subsequently engage the common section in action.")
(Bhagavad-gītā, 3.26)

According to the appreciation that may be distributed, that may be better, that will be utilised, energy not wasted but utilised to the fullest extent. Na buddhi-bhedaṁ janayed, ajñānāṁ karma: they cannot understand. Just as what you told: "To cast pearls before the swine." What is that?

Devotee: Cast pearls to the swine.

Devotee: Because also Caitanya Mahāprabhu He never distinguished that this is a fit candidate or not fit candidate, He gave to everyone.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga punarapi ei ṭhāñi pābe mora saṅga

("Instruct whoever you meet in the science of Kṛṣṇa. Teach them the instructions of Kṛṣṇa in Bhagavad-gītā, and the teachings about Kṛṣṇa in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. In this way, on My order, become a guru and liberate everyone in the land. If you follow this instruction, the waves of materialism within this world will not affect you. Indeed, if you follow My order, you will soon attain My association.")

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9)

That is the, do it, distribute it according to the capacity. He divided generally into two groups. Among the friendly circle, the higher realised circle, talk about the rasa- kaṭha, internal rasa of Vṛndāvana, and this vairanga sangita nama-sankirtana ?

Hari-Nāma to one and all. That was His direction.

Go on chanting the Name even to the street to anyone and everyone take the Name, that Vaikuṇṭha-Nāma, that spiritual Name, for all. But about the internal life pastimes of Kṛṣṇa, Rādhā, Vṛndāvana, all these things you are to judge the capacity with whom you are dealing.

antaraṅgi sangi rasa saran ?

Devotee: Mahārāja, some people are not prepared to accept that chanting of the Name so we are to give them some jñāna, why the chanting of the Name is so important Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That should be explained, what is the position of the Name. Name, we are to explain but they're not, the Name is not acceptable then what is acceptable? The idol? Ear experience is the most primary, and then eye experience, everything can be used, utilised for spiritual realisation. Ear experience, that is through sound, that is the most wide and cheap. And the eye experience, that is in the form of the Deity.

All must be, transformation, transformation is necessary, new assimilation is necessary according to the highest point of understanding and highest point of our interest. Adjustment must be readjusted. At present we also stay in this world in a particular form of adjustment but transformation is necessary. We are all separationist, devotee of separate interest, but that must be transformed into Absolute interest, universal interest, that is necessary. Do anything and everything for the Absolute from the standpoint of Absolute interest and give up all sorts of local interest. Either yourself or extended selfishness of your clan, or your country, that is all extended selfishness. And no number of finite can make infinite. So your interest and your countries interest, your clan's interest, your human interest, combination of all these interests produce infinite? No, no number of finite can produce infinite, that is something else so you are to get it from that side from the centre. What sort of interest is there with the centre?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: can help them successfully, they're given recognition for permanent service and taken away from there. In all classes, in the friendly section, in the filial section, every, not only in mādhyura-rasa but in all rasa, śānta-rasa, everywhere. That is the consideration.

Devotee: So Mahārāja, that means, you were explaining vastu-siddhi in mādhyura- rasa, so there's also vastu-siddhi in these other rasas ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, of course, every rasa, every rasa, every type of service.

Devotee: Can you give an example sakhya-rasa perhaps? Is there an example of that in the Bhāgavatam ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is not so clearly mentioned in Bhāgavatam. All these things are finely analysed in the Goswāmī śāstras. Just as Baladeva having His own rasa-līlā, but the Goswāmī he interprets in some other way. The rasa-līlā is only for Kṛṣṇa and Baladeva is making rasa-līlā in His heart He is satisfying Kṛṣṇa with that līlā, He's not the recipient, Baladeva. This is the fine finding of the Goswāmī. Baladeva is doing everything to satisfy His Lord in friendly type, in a guardian type though He is.

So this mādhyura-līlā, this rasa-līlā, as should be in the case of a Guru. Guru is accepting many respects from the disciple but internally he's adjusting them with his own Guru-paramparā or Kṛṣṇa, receiving on their behalf. If he fails there then he will have to come down. The manager draws the rents from the subjects, but he must send everything to the king. In the midway if he eats something then he will be liable and dismissed from his position.

So Baladeva is naturally representing Guru in all, so many rasas. His every nerve is trying its best to send everything to Kṛṣṇa conception. The whole life is designed and destined for Kṛṣṇa's satisfaction, then He's Baladeva. He's facsimile of Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Himself but of that type and who does everything for Kṛṣṇa, in all other rasa.

And in mādhyura-rasa Rādhārāṇī holds the highest position. Direct satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa with Her own group. And Baladeva's case is all sakha, yat kinca tina guna mukhi katam kam ?

What to speak of Baladeva, even the worms, insects, the creepers, the trees, all meant, designed to invoke the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa in different ways, that is Vṛndāvana. That special group with their whole heart, automatic, inspired whole heart, their business, their nature will be to contribute to the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa from different positions. That is Vṛndāvana.

yat kinca tina guna mukhi katama kam gosthay samastam vitat sadvananda mayam mukunda dvaitam lila nakulam param sad nistham kirtam yat maya vandatay ?

"I show my respect from here to all, the whole thing, every atom of Vṛndāvana. Even the sands in the banks of the Yamunā, śānta-rasa, so many devotees, there also that process, that vastu-siddhi, svarūpa-siddhi. What to speak of the friendly circles, everywhere that new recruitment in different rasas, in different positions of services, in this way."

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, when Kṛṣṇa departed to Mathurā, the gopīs were very depressed. But it's said that

End of side A, 10.5.83. side B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: what is supposed, told to be the universal interest. You are to read with A.B.C, begin, what is, and known as absolute interest. And as much as we are relieved from the mania of this local interest and we are devoted to the Absolute the gradation is there of the Vaiṣṇava. How much dedicated he is, the intensity of dedication.

It is mentioned in Hari-Bhakti-Vilāsa that if a brāhmaṇa-ācārya is available another man must not, though he's qualified, must not approach to make disciples in his presence. He will take him to that. If a first class seed is available then lower class of seed must not be thrown into the land, that will be loss to the owner. The field will be captured by the lower class of seed. So every fair person he will take any man to the Guru of highest type. When highest type quality of seed is available it will be his offence if he takes, makes him his own disciple for some personal interest. So in Hari- Bhakti-Vilāsa it is mentioned if a brāhmaṇa Guru is available then the, generally a kṣatriya may initiate kṣatriya, śūdra may initiate śūdra, according to his own capacity. Something is better than nothing. So a vaiṣya may make disciples of the vaiṣya class and not a kṣatriya or brāhmaṇa, in this way it is classified.

But among the Vaiṣṇava no classification according to varṇāśrama but the gradation in the faith of Vaiṣṇavism. So when higher type of ācārya is available a lower must not go to occupy the field, capture with his lower type of seed. That will be offensive. What is Vaiṣṇava aparādha one must try to know in this way. Only: "I have captured first," that is like forcible position. The conscience, he must appeal to his conscience whether he's capturing the field for what purpose, what interest he has got? For the interest of the Absolute or for his own interest?

Some custom is there that everyone will marry and he will produce the child in his wife, a general custom. But that is in a relative position, everyone keep his own, that is one thing. But before commitment everyone will try to connect his girl with a desirable husband, otherwise he will be doing some wrong, the guardian will do some wrong to the girl, that is. And in special case also there is, although it is very rarely accepted:

pancha varvatcha sarvnardhinam apati ranyo viddhi yatay ?

Here the very rigid custom in the marriage, but still the Para-saṅghita says, nastay, if husband is lost, mutay, dead, prabhudyatay, or taken sannyāsa. Krivi, or found newwed gender, krivichay padatay or fallen from the proper caste to become Islam or become śūdra or so. In these cases a woman may accept another husband, better. Very rarely provided.

We are concerned with God conception, this human body, human life is very short, after death where I shall go I do not know. In such case as my conscience says: "Please accept your shelter there that will be better." Then I shall have to do that to save me, to save my interest. That will be the principle for everyone. Some obligation we may have with the formal. Supposing there is a big cyclone, I have taken shelter in a particular room. But if I think that by that cyclone that will also be demolished there is another which is stronger then from there I shall, my conscience, I won't be obliged: "That so long I was given shelter here then I should not betray this shelter." We don't think like that. If a stronger shelter we find there are many taking shelter there I must run to that. With clear conscience not insults, not with object of disregarding and insult. Only to save me, sincere attempt, na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati:

("O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40)

And not insulting that previous shelter who had protected me so long, in this way progress means this, progress means this. Chance may come like that.

Śyāmānanda Prabhu, he was disciple to another gentleman who was a pāṛṣada devotee of vātsalya-rasa. Anyhow, in Vṛndāvana he got some chance and utilising that he was converted into mādhyama-rasa by the interference of the upper plane. Then he took initiation from Jīva Goswāmī, again, such rare case is there.

Devotee: That was first Hṛday Caitanya ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: First Hṛday Caitanya, from sakhya-rasa.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, even if the higher seed enthralls the lower seed to accept disciples we must see that this is the renunciation and this is the Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If any error is committed in the opposite direction from higher to lower then he will have to mourn the result.

Devotee: In a sense that even if a higher seed agreed that one lower seed accept disciples we must see that it's an example of renunciation and of detachment?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow. What does he say?

Devotee: He's saying that in the presence of a superior Vaiṣṇava, if a Vaiṣṇava of lower degree begins to initiate

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then that Vaiṣṇava he commits offence

Devotee: But with the permission of the higher Vaiṣṇava.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. Some modification, a compromise.

Devotee: But this permission must be seen as humility and renunciation in the higher seed?

Devotee: He's saying that on the part of the superior Vaiṣṇava then that is allowing the other lower Vaiṣṇava to initiate that

Devotee: Then that is an example of nirapeksha

Devotee: It's an example of renunciation and humility

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This practical, suppose (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja has ordered them to initiate, these present ācārya. In his group whom he found some say that, 'he did not give any permission to the particular gentlemen to initiate, they're all self made ācārya.' There is also a, this Yaśodānāndana and so many others they're of that opinion. Anyhow, I do not know that particularly. I think generally he must have some succession so this man or that man he might have given some hint for that to do according to their capacity. But that does not mean that they're all absolute ācārya. Then from the beginning there cannot be any change in the quality of the ācārya. Kṛṣṇa first gave to Brahmā, and Brahmā to others, and they to others, pāramparyeṇa, that is being lost.

It may be that they lose their power, it is possible. By Vaiṣṇava aparādhā, by many others that position may not be continued, sometimes.

Devotee: Our Prabhupāda (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Mahārāja) was very open with his older disciples as far as showing them that you were his śikṣā-guru. The very first guru-pūjā was performed here in your temple to show his oldest disciples, he was very open to show that you were his śikṣā-guru Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Yes, he consulted with me in many points when he was writing Bhagavad-gītā, translating, he was. Four rooms I took on lease from his house. He rented two houses, one for his own and another for his laboratory, and the ground floor his laboratory and the first floor four rooms we used for our own branch Maṭh there, Calcutta. At that time very close and he used to come, he was translating and he used to come to consult with me about the meanings of Bhagavad-gītā. And thereby he might have thought that he has got something, some help from me. And many times consulted with me and must have found that he's getting some light from me. So he announced that: "Śrīdhara Mahārāja is my śikṣā-guru." Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, about your personal case, that you are the higher seed present and you give authorisation to other sannyāsīs to initiate also in your presence. How I can see this? As your humility and detachment to accept new disciples? How can I see this?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Devotee: How should we understand that you are present and you have the higher seed to offer. But at the same time you are allowing sannyāsīs who have a lower seed to initiate.

Devotee: Have I to see this a your humility or your real desire?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That I am doing, following the general custom, and something is better than nothing, with this policy. They can get some news afterwards they will enquire and come and do according to the necessity. But some sort of light however vague still more light, vague light, still it is light. And in comparison with darkness it must be something, something, Name of Mahāprabhu and this and that. Let it go. Then the Lord is there and He will manage everything if there is any gap, any error in the process, if we are sincere no responsibility, He will manage. If we do not have any motive, black motive of exploitation, we are sincere of doing His service, if any amendment is necessary He's there and will be met. With this spirit, something.

Devotee: Mahārāja, doesn't your śikṣā, your as a śikṣā-guru the dīkṣā may be given by a lower seed but your śikṣā, doesn't it nourish that seed to a higher plane also? Or is there some Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What?

Devotee: He's saying say if one of the sannyāsīs gives dīkṣā but because they're allowing their disciples to take śikṣā from you, that their seed is being nourished by your śikṣā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And if they do not allow then there will be some difficulty, if they do not allow, they'll come with something wrong, do not allow. And also there may be motive underlying that they're not fit to approach such high thought so only they will go and disturb. With this motive if he checks his ambition that won't be bad. But if knowing that I am not able to satisfy his enquiry he wants higher direction and by policy that his prestige may not go down so to check him from connecting with the higher source, then that will be offence.

Sincerity is the standard of measurement. And the case is with the Infinite. None can say that I have got within my fist the Infinite Whole, whole Kṛṣṇa within my fist. I told that to Kīrtanānanda: "You're all considered to be students and not professors." He told that: "I'm not your student, I am student of A.C. Bhaktivedānta." In this way he told and what I replied I don't remember. But we are all in one school of Bhaktisiddhānta, the standard to be measured there.

Devotee: For example Guru Mahārāja, I will be preaching in Brazil and the people to whom I'll be preaching will approach me to seek for a Guru and I'm trying to be your disciple and I'll try to approach them to you. I will ask you if you can accept these people as disciples and another person can give the initiation but they can be your disciples. Because I trust completely in you but I don't know if the other person can Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To make disciples means to take responsibility, at least to certain extent. But I don't consider myself to be such that I am able to take responsibility of so many. It is not a pleasure, the pleasure act, to take responsibility. So I am unable, I am unfit to take responsibility of so many. So I have already spoken to those that are affectionate to me that I can't, like to have connection with many. Only very special case if you find then you may take to me. Otherwise you manage, you do as much you know you help them.

But always know that you are dealing with Infinite not anything that has got limit. So as much as you can. The sky is there, the birds are flying as much as the bird can. He cannot finish the sky. So we are also doing like that, as much as we have got capacity we shall do that type of duty to others, help others. Save yourself and save others as much as you can afford.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, what about my case that I have to appoint one other person that I'm not sure that these people can bring them back to home, back to Godhead.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Your sincere conscience you will use in everything according to your knowledge. Don't be a hypocrite in your dealings and then you'll be helped by the Almighty and Omniscient Lord. He knows, He sees everything. If you want His help then you must be sincere in your dealings. Don't go to make trade of anything. Try to maintain the purity of your heart and dealings. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: You once mentioned that persons who we could not digest you would digest them

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Persons?

Devotee: Persons who we were unable to digest you would digest those persons.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He won't take food of that type or that quantity which he cannot digest. Cut your coat according to your cloth. Rūpa Goswāmī has asked not to accept many disciples or even to read many śāstra. Bahu-grantha kalābhyāsa, and bahu-śiṣya, and mahā-ramba, but specially gifted person may take up such.

When Prabhupāda (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) our Guru Mahārāja used to explain all those sixty-four types of devotion I tried to follow him specially on those points, mahā-ramba. Then I attended his lecture, in one or two sentences he cleared and I was satisfied. He told: "It depends upon the capacity, individual capacity of the person. A man can manage a kingdom and still he may find his leisure. Another man cannot manage his family of five persons or two persons and he thinks that he is so busy, he perplexed. So it is according to the capacity of the person, the mahā- ramba, that should be judged. What is mahā-ramba to one that is not mahā-ramba to another, a small thing.

Devotee: Mahārāja, it's said that in disciplic succession, paramparā, the mango is handed down from ācārya to disciple so on and comes intact. The fruit is handed down intact from Guru to Guru.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Guru-paramparā. We are instructed from the relative standpoint that it is the full thing. But in Absolute consideration we have to detect that, "No, it is sometimes in diminishing stage.

Devotee: Does that mean that in due course of time the ācāryas appointed Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Again, new ācāryas have to come to reconstruct, to rejuvenate the thing it is necessary. Sometimes He comes and another fresh deputation comes in the line to make it fresh and given life, enlivening is necessary, sa kāleneha mahatā, yogo naṣṭaḥ parantapa:

(evam paramparā-prāptam, imaṁ rājarṣayo viduḥ sa kāleneha mahatā, yogo naṣṭaḥ parantapa)

("O conqueror of the enemy, in this way, the saintly kings such as Nimi, Janaka, and others, learned this path of knowledge through the divine succession. Presently, after the passage of a long period of time, this teaching has been almost completely lost.")

(Bhagavad-gītā, 4.2)

The gradation is the nature of this soil.

Devotee: So like that mango that comes down, if the ācārya is like śuka, like parrot, that when he takes and gives the mango, touches the mango it becomes sweeter.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah, in that position. But that sweet mango may also be rotten, in this plane. When Śukadeva delivered his Bhāgavata-kathā there was a commotion and everyone got some fresh impression. But then gradually again Bhāgavata went away from the scholars. "Oh, that is only stories, there's no philosophy under it." Came to such position to many scholars.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Mahārāja, I once heard there are six kinds of Gurus. And one is the cat type of Guru, the cat type of Guru means that it takes the kitten by the scruff of its neck and delivers him, so the responsibility is taken by the Guru. Then there is the monkey type of Guru wherein the responsibility is on the baby monkey that he just clings to the mother, he has to cling to the mother Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Rāmānuja sampradāya there is a division with these two, śaraṇāgati of two kinds, monkey type and cat type.

Devotee: And then there's the fish type of Guru, where it just lays the eggs and then it goes away, and it's the responsibility of the eggs to just grow by themselves until they reach maturity, spiritual maturity. And there are three others which I can't remember

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe classified in Devotee: Six types of, and there's a hen type of Guru in which he just keeps all his chickens under his wing and mothers them so much he doesn't allow them to go anywhere.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There may be gradation of infinite type. According to their capacity and dealings the śiṣya and Guru, Guru also may be, professors may be of many types and disciples also may be of many types. So general classification of three types, two types, four types, infinite number type may be.

But we have heard of classification the Guru who is taking from here to there, who has come from there, or he's here in Vaikuṇṭha taking many from here. And one he has given one leg on Vaikuṇṭha and another leg here and taking, recruiting. And one, one leg here and another leg there taking up. And another, two legs here but having a sight of that position trying to take many along with him. Madhyama-adhikāra, uttama-adhikāra. One who can see the higher soil and taking along with him many approaching that plane. Another has come down from there to recruit. And another he's here and one leg he has there and taking, recruiting from here to there. And from different standpoints everything may be judged from different ways and it will be infinite in number because everyone has got some difference from everyone. No two things are one and the same.

Devotee: But spiritual variegatedness is the cause of pleasure whereas material variegatedness is only the cause of distress.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course, and in the pleasure also gradation. Different type of rasa, intensity of different type of rasa, there is difference. Śānta, dāsyā, sakhyā, vātsalya, mādhyura. And that is in Vaikuṇṭha, in Ayodhyā, in Dwārakā, Mathurā, Vṛndāvana. Gradation is infinite in number. Up to liberation, liberation or two kinds, one like Buddhist liberation and Śāṅkara liberation. Then this yogī liberation, then siddha, then Vaikuṇṭha, after liberation one can go to Vaikuṇṭha, or Ayodhyā, Dwārakā, so many. Differentiation is made everywhere always, it is eternal.

And it has been told by Dāsa Goswāmī if you are very much attracted towards rulings, rules and regulations, you will be thrown down to Paravyoma from Vṛndāvana. Not much appreciation of rules and regulations, law and rules there. Automatic, actuated by the motive or inspiration. If we're very much particular about the rules and regulations you'll be thrown down in Paravyoma. It is all clear.

The Vaikuṇṭha which is so high place, the environment of Nārāyaṇa is so pure but that is also considered that it's so low that you will be thrown down to Vaikuṇṭha from Goloka. Rūpānuga-vicāra, so many things are there, infinite.

Devotee: Mahārāja, what is, in the Hari-Nāma-Cintāmani we find Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura describes an overlapping stage between vaidhi-bhakti and rāgānuga as nairantaryya. What is Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: vaidhi-bhakti vicaras tu rajavi bhavan avardi ?

We must stick to vaidhi-bhakti as long as I do not feel the awakenment of the anurāga within me and when I get that awakenment of natural attraction for the cause then my care for the rules and regulations will be automatically diminished.

vaidhi-bhakti vicaras tu rajavi bhavan avardi ?

In Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu this is. So long we are to go under the rules and regulations of the scripture when we do not find any genuine love and attraction for the cause. With the help of rules and regulations we shall try to awaken that natural innate attraction for the Lord. If we can trace within me that it is there, the anurāga, the natural attraction is drawing me towards, then I may not care for those śāstric orders.

Suppose I am a patient using diet and medicine, but is I find that diet is giving me real strength I may dismiss the medicine and take the help of the diet. That will take me to the point and no medicine necessary, stop medicines. Something like that. In the beginning both diet and medicine necessary but afterwards proper diet may do medicine may be cancelled.

Devotee: Nairantaryya ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nairantaryya is very lower. After nairantaryya, niṣṭhā, then ruci, then bhāva-bhakti. In bhāva-bhakti we can neglect, may not care much for the rules and regulations. bhavavi bhavan avardi ?

vaidhi-bhakti vicaras tu rajavi bhavan avardi ?

Raga is clear in bhāva-bhakti, then ruci, āsakti, then bhāva. This niṣṭhā, ruci, āsakti, bhāva.

..... siddhi, we are not out of danger, only in vastu-siddhi we are out of danger. It has been mentioned. In svarūpa-siddhi we are also in connection with this mundane world however small maybe its force but still connection. Svarūpa-siddhi, this body is there and I have got full realisation. But until this connection is gone forever and we are absorbed wholesale in that position we are told that we are not out of danger. Wholesale acceptance, probational stage, a probationer, suppose he has acquired the capacity of a full grown clerk or officer, but until and unless he gets grant that his service is permanent, he's not safe.

When there is Kṛṣṇa līlā is going on somewhere, anywhere, sometimes in this globe, sometimes in another, in this way. Like the sun, it is passing through different brahmāṇḍas. When svarūpa-siddhi, then he's allowed to have a birth in that brahmāṇḍa where the līlā is going on. And to get a birth in the gopī-garbha-janma ?

He has to pass through that process and then in that prapañca-līlā he's allowed to participate, direct participation with Kṛṣṇa līlā and the gopīs. In the prapañca, then once he gets chance to participate in the prapañca-līlā then he's accepted. He's detached from any mundane touch and his acceptance there is final. He has got recognition of the permanent service, otherwise a probationer.

Devotee: So in the prapañca-līlā that is also svarūpa-siddhi ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is in prapañca-līlā ?

Devotee: When the prapañca-līlā is going on after he has taken birth, garbha has already taken place, that is svarūpa at that point?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is svarūpa.

Devotee: That is svarūpa still?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, he is in his svarūpa-siddhi. And with the finish of the prapañca-līlā he's withdrawn with the stuff.

Devotee: And the vastu comes in?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Consideration of stage of intensity. It is physically shown to us in that type, with that analogy. A slight touch of the mundane conception is not to be neglected, slight touch of mundane means māyā, a slight touch of māyā, illusion, that could not be considered to be the fullest acceptance. Bhauma Vṛndāvana, nitya-līlā.

Devotee: So that means that the sādhana-siddha gopīs in Vṛndāvana, they were in svarūpa-siddhi, they were taking their place in svarūpa-siddhi ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not all. Devotee: Not all of them? Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: described his connection with Rūpa Goswāmī, very beautiful verses. And very methodic presentation is also there, very good scholar he was.

Devotee: I heard also at that time when he was taking the tol of Mahāprabhu or maybe when he was seven years old he composed some verse right on the spot.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!
Aksayananda Mahārāja come?

Devotee: Yes Guru Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only to leave Calcutta, leave Navadvīpa, up to the paice belongs to Nārāyaṇa, He's the Master of Lakṣmī Devī. Whatever you get you devote it to the service of Nārāyaṇa. It's not for you, don't use money for you. Money is Lakṣmī Devī, she's meant to serve Nārāyaṇa alone, reveal that. You are to deal with money in such a way. Nothing, not a farthing belongs to you, at your disposal, narrow, then you are gone, you are finished. And all the sense pleasure, so-called, all belongs to Kṛṣṇa.

Kṛṣṇa is the enjoyer of all sensual pleasures that come from the women section, not anyone else, kāminī kāma. Pratiṣṭhā, the fame, name, credit, all should go to Gurudeva, to Baladeva, to Nityānanda. They, Nityānanda, Baladeva, Rādhārāṇī, They spread the nobility, the greatness of the Lord to the world.

śukadeva kṛṣṇa kare sukastaran bhakta ganesu kade hladini caran ?

The potency hlādinī, that is at the root of distribution of all sorts of ecstasy to the world imbibed from raso kṛṣṇa akhila rasāmṛta sindhu. The depot of all rasa is Kṛṣṇa and hlādinī sucking it and spreading it to the world. The whole credit, whole good name, fame, is under Her command, and the command of Nityānanda and Baladeva. That is revealed in different forms. His all name and fame is His, He's making us known with that great source of the whole thing is due to Him to deal it in different forms. And kāminī, that is the women pleasure, that is reserved for Kṛṣṇa. And the energy, the Lakṣmī, that is generally for Nārāyaṇa, the Master of the majesty of all energy, Lakṣmī. And we are mere servants to be under guidance. That is what is, indifference, that is what is the position of the potency. That is the platform where the servants will move in that plane. Nothing ours, everything belongs to the high, we also according to His direction to deal with such things. Never thinking that this is, I am master of anything here, not even an atom. I am not, I am servant, I am due servant of all. This all belongs to Kṛṣṇa and I'm to look after the welfare of everything, everything, whatever I find, because they're all property of Kṛṣṇa. My duty is to look after that. This is the service of Kṛṣṇa-dāsa. Divine service means this, such free position, that is sajamata (?), freedom. The conception of freedom proper is there.

Gaura Hari bol!

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Nārāyaṇa, that means I'm Nārāyaṇa. I have got so much money under my care. I'm a master of money. Gaura Hari bol! These are all dangerous situations. We are to work out freedom from that sort of ignorant idea about the paraphernalia. Free, we must try to be free of these fascinations of the environment. They're proposing this māyā, māyā, this misunderstanding, giving proposal always: "You are my master, you are my master, you are Lord Śiva. I am your mistress. I'm eager to serve you, remain with me, you're my master." The last snare of māyā: "You are Śiva and I am your consort." When the jīva gets emancipation from the misunderstanding world then she comes, Māyā Devī comes with folded palms. "Why do you leave me? I shall serve you, I'm eager for that. You remain here with me and I shall serve you." The last of request māyā. "Don't leave me. I am (exceptional ?), don't leave me, I shall make you master of my land and maybe enjoy." "No, no, my glorious position is there that I am a servant. And I'm not to be tricked away to become a master of anything else. I'm so mean, so low, so small, so meagre." In this way he'll avoid the last request of māyā. In Brhad-Bhāgavatam we find this.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

What is good deed, what is bad deed, the scholars also fail to understand what is good what is bad. Apparently good things are given

Such is the knowledge we can get only from the upper agents of the Lord.

"I was blind in the darkness of ignorance but my Spiritual Master applied the ointment of proper spiritual knowledge and thus opened my eyes. Unto him I offer my respectful obeisances."

The proper estimation of the environment, giving up our own selves. Who are you? Where are you? What is your fulfilment of life and how we can achieve that? These are the salient points of enquiry in our life.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! When did Aksayananda come? Last night?

Devotee: Last night about nine o'clock.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nine o'clock. He alone?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You don't know (where the quota?)

Devotee: He didn't inform me. We spoke only briefly.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, I have one question. I was trying to understand this verse.

pañca-tattvātmakam kṛṣṇam bhakta-rūpa-svarūpakam bhaktāvatāram
bhaktākyam namāmi bhakta-śaktikam

("I offer my obeisances unto the Supreme Lord, Kṛṣṇa, who is nondifferent from His features as a devotee, devotional incarnation, devotional manifestation, pure devotee, and devotional energy.") (Śrī Pañca-tattva Praṇāma)

But I found it a little difficult to understand, who is the bhakta-rūpa ? And bhakta- svarūpa ? And bhaktāvatāra ? I couldn't really understand it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhaktāvatāra is Advaita Prabhu. He came here in advance and prayed that Mahāprabhu should come here. He's the cause of attracting Mahāprabhu here in this plane, bhaktāvatāra. Avatāra, that is descent, Avatāra means coming down, āvatāram, from high place to come down, that is āvatāram. Avatāra means who comes from the high level to the lower level. And bhaktāvatāra, the cause of the descent of the whole section, whole party in advance came Advaita Prabhu. And he began to pray for the ..... one is Śrīvāsā, another is He Himself come in the disguise of bhakta. And bhakta-śakti is Gadādhara Paṇḍita.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi.

Five-fold expression of Kṛṣṇa, different. One bhakta, bhakta-rūpam, Śrīvāsā. And tattvātmakam kṛṣṇam, Mahāprabhu Himself. Bhakta-svarūpam, the second representation is Nityānanda Prabhu. And Bhaktāvatāra, who is the cause of the descent of the whole group, the pioneer bhakta, devotee, is Advaita Prabhu. And bhakta-śakti, the potency who helps to supply the real satisfaction, the real attendance of the needs of the Lord, bhakta-śakti, he is Gadādhara Paṇḍita.

kayavyoha (?), this extending Himself in these fivefold forms He came down here in this lower plane of prapañca (the phenomenal world) from the higher divine position. From divine to mundane, His descent is like this.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

pañca-tattvātmakam kṛṣṇam bhakta-rūpa-svarūpakam bhaktāvatāram
bhaktākyam namāmi bhakta-śaktikam

We show our obeisances to all the whole group who have come together in different forms to distribute the highest nectar to the ordinary public at large here. The most gracious group of the divine plane.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Also we have one question from the last book. In the section on the Bṛhad-Bhāgavatāmṛtam when you speak about Uddhava, I think you said that Uddhava he has some connection with sakhya and also with vātsalya, but we wanted to make sure that that was correct. Is that correct?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sakhya, vātsalya, as well as mādhyura.

Devotee: As well as mādhyura ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some connection, some confidence Kṛṣṇa had in Uddhava, He sent as a messenger towards Vṛndāvana to connect not only with the devotees of vātsalya- rasa Nanda Yaśodā, but also to the gopīs that served in mādhyura-rasa. Uddhava connected with them also and carried the news of Kṛṣṇa, His words towards them and took their contribution towards Kṛṣṇa. In Vṛndāvana the Subala etc connected with mādhyura-rasa. And here in Dvārakā Uddhava enjoyed the confidence of having connection with the mādhyura-rasa as it is possible from that level. But he was appointed messenger to Vṛndāvana, even to give his news to the gopīs of mādhyura- rasa as much as possible. And he was astounded to find the degree of dedication of the gopīs towards the service of Kṛṣṇa. Uddhava. he's the witness. He stands the test how high the gopīs of Vṛndāvana, what sort of intense dedication they had, Uddhava is the witness.

He says that: "I want, I aspire after a birth of the creeper in Vṛndāvana so that naturally the feet dust of these divine damsels may fall on and touch my head."

This statement of Uddhava is showing the high level of the divine love of the gopīs, what sort of high.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, when Sītā Devī was captured by Rāvaṇa and Lord Rāma was in the forest and in His līlā He was feeling some separation from Sītā Devī. But we're not tracing out that sort of mādhyura-rasa in Rāma līlā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mādhyura-rasa is limited to Sītā Devī only and not to be aspired after anyone in Rāma līlā. Only reserved for Sītā Devī. And that is also of some lower degree than we can have in Vṛndāvana. The rasa in Dwārakā is superior to that of Ayodhyā, and in Vṛndāvana that is superior to Dwārakā. In this way the development goes. This risk, the sacrifice, is of more intense and higher degree going up.

Sītā Devī's affection is general, especially She has no partner. But in Dwārakā we find many, distributed amongst many. It is difficult to maintain affection towards the husband when there are many wives. Only when they're very intense it's possible to maintain the dignity of service. And in Vṛndāvana it is more risky, at the risk of the society and even religious principles ignoring everything they're only conscious of the service of Kṛṣṇa, the Absolute, and nothing else. With all risk, not the sense of duty but free enjoyment of Kṛṣṇa and they've thrown themselves into fire of any risk for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. Without any prospect, all risk no gain. With this idea they threw themselves into the satisfaction of the sweet will of Kṛṣṇa, not knowing anything else. They've given up all sorts of prospects, either in this world or worlds afterwards, that is moral, spiritual, everything.

So risk, because it is for the Absolute Truth they are the best gainer. It is dirt in anywhere else, then they're gone forever. Only because it is so much risk only for the Absolute Truth they are the best gainer. So risk and without expectation of any sort of gain all eliminated, all prospects eliminated ever conceived. And that is beauty because in the case of the Absolute. So unconditional suicidal squadron, like suicidal squad do anything, up to anything. The sacrifice for the country of the suicidal squadron is considered to be the highest. They're like that. All risk no gain, but because it is with the Absolute Truth they are the highest gainer.

āsā maho caraṇa-renu-juṣām aham syām vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauṣadhīnām

(Uddhava says: "The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to renounce, and they have sacrificed even their religious principles to take shelter of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, which are sought after by even the Vedas. O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61)

The scriptures also searching from far away such things. It is so rare, so valuable, the holy books also they're searching this point from far, far away. They have not yet crossed the threshold of the area proper. From far away they say: "Oh, this side, go this side.

(Guru Mahārāja is interrupted here by an attack of coughing)

..... cursing me. What do you think? It is sweet and I am being punished.

"There is no other sinner than myself in the whole world of Yours. And not single offender like me my Lord." Parihāre 'pi lajjā me, "I am ashamed to take them before You and to get it forgiven. Even to point out them before You that I am so heinous, such an offender I feel ashamed myself to recollect my own bad deeds. I myself feel shamed."

(mat-tulyo nāsti pāpātmā, nāparādhī ca kaścana parihāre 'pi lajjā me, kiṁ bruve puruṣottama)

("There is no parallel to my sinful, criminal life. Everything that can be conceived of as bad is found in me. O Supreme Lord, I am even ashamed to come before You to petition, 'please forgive my offences.' What more can I say than this?")

(Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.154)

Parihāre 'pi lajjā me, "I shall take them to You and pray for there forgiveness but I myself feel ashamed. Such a class of sinner I am. Kiṁ bruve puruṣottama, what more I shall say to You my Lord. I am such a sinner."

This is the nature of the high disciple, the high devotees. They think themselves so unfit, so unfit for service. What is the way, what is our destination, progress towards this side, negative side, to the furthest length of the negative side. Our place is there. Smallest of the smallest, the meanest of the meanest, ah Govinda, meanest of the meanest.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi
Gaura Hari bol!

Where should we cast our glance, our look? So, what to do? What to do? Our goal is this. How to reach to that goal sincerely. Self abnegation to the extreme. This is the measurement. Meanest of the mean, to realise that, to realise our proper position there, the meanest of the mean. Is it possible at all? It is imaginary quantity. So what purification we may aspire after? Self abnegation, analyse, analyse, then throw off, analyse then throw off all egoistic, all assertive. "I am something, I am someone, I have something to be proud of." These are to be eliminated, eliminated, eliminated, to the finish. It is not easy thing. To become big it is easy because it is all false, black marketing. "I am a big man, from this position, from this standpoint, from such standpoint I am something." It is very easy. But, "I am nothing," to accept this creed in its true colour, true nature, it is very difficult. "That I am none, I am none."

Then the necessity, the reality of necessity will occur in me for help. Otherwise, "I can help so many. Why should I be a beggar?" It's very difficult.

vaisnava haite bara muna jilasan trnad api sloke ti puri galovad ?

There is a public saying: "I had a great aspiration to become a Vaiṣṇava, but when I came across the śloka relating the qualification of a Vaiṣṇava, trṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā, (Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3), then I was disappointed. It is not possible to be humbler than a blade of grass, to be more tolerant than a tree. Amāninā mānadena, give honour to everyone but don't desire, aspire after honour. In this attitude you take the Name of the Lord, Kṛṣṇa, then you desire will be fulfilled. You are to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa with such attitude. You are more humbler than a blade of grass, and more tolerant than a tree. When the tree is being cut down, the tree is giving shadow to the cutter. If you don't give any water into the root it won't beg for water to anyone, "You give some water, I am in drought, I am dying, thirsty," won't say. And when cut down still he's giving shadow, such forbearance, the tree.

Taror api sahiṣṇunā, and amāninā mānadena, don't want any respect, any position from anyone, but at the same time you are to give honour to everyone, his due. That means you are exclusively pointed towards your aim and eliminated everything from your aspiration. You are extremely towards the object of your person. In this way you will take the Name of Kṛṣṇa and you will find His help at once, in no time.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

The qualification of the taker of Name Divine, the standard has been recommended as this way.

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

So where is Kṛṣṇa? Come to the level, come to the plane, and you will see everywhere. But your eyes and your senses are all attracted by charms of different planes. You have no time to look towards Kṛṣṇa.

Everywhere there is perception of Kṛṣṇa but your sight is caught, attracted by so many floating charms that they're catching your attention, your sight, your feeling, and you can't see Kṛṣṇa, can't see Kṛṣṇa. Prejudice, your own prejudice for the outside world has covered your eyes drawing all your attention towards them. You can't see Kṛṣṇa, the real well-wisher, the real guardian, the real friend, the real lover, you can't see. You are so busy with your transactions with the outer aspired things, you have no time at all to look towards Him. And ignoring, the best friend you are ignoring. For false transaction you are wholesale caught, whole attention drawn by false transaction with the environment. And the transaction continued by a false ego of you, the false man, you are absent there.

Our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) used to use this word minor. Soul is minor and the manager he's working on behalf of the soul. Soul is proprietor but proprietor is minor and the manager's working on behalf of the proprietor they're looting things according to their own interest. That is the position of a man in bondage, fallen soul. His true self is not represented in his, transaction in his name going on, but in whose transaction he's absent, his interest is suppressed, absent. The managers, the mind, the intelligence, they're surcharged with other interests and they're going on in whole transaction from here. But in the name of the proprietor he's minor, nothing to do.

End of recording, side A, 14/15.5.83. side B, 15/16.5.83.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: hopeless position.

atha saili hari tava nama ucha cari bara duhkhi dakhi badvar ?

When calculating all these things we reach to the highest position of disappointment then sometimes somehow or other from the core of the heart: "O Lord I am helpless, save me. I am helpless, I am overpowered. In my home I in the midst of so many enemies, at the hand of my enemies, no freedom. I am totally under the control of so many enemies in the form of friends within me. Such hopeless position I hold my Lord. You come without aggression otherwise no hope. Even I may not be allowed to make connection with You."

kamadinam kohita kata ya padita ?

"From time immorial I am serving all these masters but they're not satisfied with my service. They have made me their eternal slave, no possibility of getting, of giving any relief to me. Now I find this helpless position my Lord. If You only come of Your own accord and assert Yourself in any way then they will fly away. Otherwise no, no chance I have got."

sampatam labda buddhi tam maya tasya ?

"Only little attention of some engagement if You extend to me then these will fly in fear of You. Otherwise I have no hope."

This sort of pathetic prayer from the core of the heart towards the Saviour, that is what is necessary for us.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Govinda. Govinda. Govinda.
Govinda. Govinda he. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

No more. Here I stop. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Same question always.

Devotee: Well I hope not. This is a question I've asked once or twice but I'm asking it for the full explanation. We're encouraging everyone to chant Hare Kṛṣṇa mantra, yet we're seeing now there's one quote in Pādma-Purāṇa that's saying without proper initiation the mantra received is without effect. So is it that those without proper connection they're not getting any benefit from chanting the mantra ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Only solid progress is not possible, proper progress. It may be something like punya, acquired merit, like good work activity, and suddenly, abruptly, it may become or may not nāmābhāsa, and that giving mukti. Up to nāmābhāsa, up to mukti, it may be or may not be. That meaning, as nāmakara. Just as the seed without the potency within it, imitation is like that, without the seed. The medicine is there apparently, but the potency of the medicine is absent. It will be like that. At most it may produce what is nāmābhāsa. One thing, the proper, Name proper, Name means it is not material, it is not under the jurisdiction of the concocted area, misunderstood area. It must not have root there in the false imitation, the root must not be there.

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The root, Name proper must have to become, to have its connection with the Infinite proper, one thing. And the next thing, it must be treated properly, that is sevonmukhe, serving attitude.

(ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ)

Not exploiting mood nor indifferent mood. Serving attitude must be there and the seed must be proper seed, bona fide, two things necessary everywhere. Sādhū-saṅga that is also bona fide. We are to differentiate it from the sham, from the apparent, that is from māyic conception which is not so. That is the treachery, the hypocrisy, we are to avoid imitation side which is not proper and is going in the name of proper. That is dangerous, we are to avoid that. We are to come in connection with the truth, with the reality, and to deal also really and not any fashionably any imitation way. Our dealing will be sincere, true, and we must come in touch with the truth then the truthful result we may expect. Truth is independent, it is not subservient to anything else. We shall have to come in connection with the truth anyhow. How to get that connection that is difficult thing and that is by sukṛti and sādhu-saṅga. So we are to understand the very basic principle of the thing, the fundamental. Then if we can understand them all other questions will be solved, we can deduce from that. If we have a general rule in our hand the particular cases may be dealt according to that. A general fundamental law we must come to be acquainted with what is what. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, bhakti can produce bhakti never māyā can produce bhakti.

smarantaḥ smārayantaś ca, mitho 'ghaughā-haram harim bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulkām tanum)

("One should learn how to associate with the devotees of the Lord by gathering with them to chant the glories of the Lord. This process is most purifying. As devotees thus develop their loving friendship with one another, their rati, or transcendental happiness, and their satisfaction gradually increases. And by thus encouraging one another they are able to give up material sense gratification, which is the cause of all suffering. - The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti-yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, which can only be obtained from those who have it for bhakti alone can cause bhakti. Thus, even within this world, their spiritual bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end.")(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.30-1)

Reality can give reality and not any misrepresentation of reality can give reality, deliver reality in any way. We are to understand that, it is very simple and fundamental thing. Others will be deduced from that conception.

Who are in the midst of misconception and misconception of any nature cannot give us relief from misconception. Some positive thing must have to come for our rescue.

So you do not understand the basic principle so similar and same questions come.

Devotee: I think I understand what you're saying now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Always similar questions come.

Assimilation is necessary, to hear and to assimilate that, to hear properly and hear with assimilation. Only in the philosophy it has been, the mere sensation, repetition of sensation is not experience. Experience is not repetition of sensation, combination of sensation. But some assimilation, then principle on the background and it receives in a particular way and puts in a particular way, then it becomes experience. Only sensation, repetition of sensation, cannot be said as experience. Experience means something, some other principle handles those sensations in such a way, and it adjusts those sensations in such a way that they become experience, knowledge. A cluster of sensations is not experience.

So lending the ear is not hearing, the inner man must be there to attend it and to assimilate and to group it, adjust it in proper place he will keep them. And at the time that will get from that particular position. All what we hear jumbled together without any discrimination, that is no knowledge, that cannot improve our condition. Here Hegel says, not Kant, Hegel, not this Locke and Hume. The mere sensation is nothing. The recipient must be inside and he will accept them properly and adjust them in their proper way then it will become knowledge, our experience. So inner man must be there to attain. So hearing, seeing, everywhere, it is the inner man who receives the sensations and adjust them in such a way that he can use them properly in future, and that is knowledge.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi

In Bhagavad-gītā we find assimilation unique. So many things of different types are adjusted in such a way it is unique thing Bhagavad-gītā. Karma, vikarma, jñāna, yoga, many things, devotion, many things properly adjusted. Not any other book we find where everything has been adjusted in such a way, with the exception of Bhāgavatam.

Devotee: Mahārāja, does that refer to the three types of rati, sadaranyaia rati (?), is that more or less the same thing?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Special, yes, sadaranyaia (?) general, common, and the specific, specified. General attraction towards Lord then attraction will take form of a particular rasa, śānta, dāsya, sakhya, vātsalya, mādhyura. And there are also subdivisions sadaranyaia (?), viśeṣa, viśiṣṭa, developed condition. Sadaranyaia, general and then particularised, to a particular rasa, again in that rasa so many groups divided into many departments. And to be specialised in one department, specialist.

Devotee: It is samañjasā ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Samañjasā, harmonised, many in one, organised. All accommodating, all adjusting. Our Guru Mahārāja told us 'Religion is proper adjustment,' and adjustment to the extreme. General adjustment then particularised and it goes to the extreme. Divided into different departments, like government.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.

Devotee: Mahārāja, someone may ask, in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam we find that the gopīs of Vṛndāvana at one point when they were very, very eager to have darśana of Kṛṣṇa they were unable because their husbands kept them within their houses. At that time some of them left their bodies. So someone may ask, they are eternal associates of Kṛṣṇa, how is it possible that they left behind the supposed, seemingly bodies?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is a show, that aspect, that real aspect of the gopīs the relationship with Kṛṣṇa, and the other aspect a show. Kastasya kantirava (?)

Just as here we represent a thing which is not here in a picture. In a picture I may show the Himalaya here but it is not real Himalaya. So in the case of the gopīs that husband life, that life is like a picture, kastasya kantirava (?), it has been written by Dāsa Goswāmī. Just as a wooden doll, kastasya, kasta means wood. Kantirava, a particular type of bird which can cry aloud, kantirava. Something like show, it is arranged by Yoga-Māyā. That sort of theatrical stage is built to enhance the attraction towards Kṛṣṇa. It is to the extreme, attraction to the extreme for the gopīs it is already extreme. Again to enhance that this policy has been adopted by Yoga-Māyā. That there is outer demand on them, some designed outer demand, they won't allow them to be united with Kṛṣṇa, some concocted demand. The wholesale family is like that, this parakīya-bhāva. Local demand something and attraction for the universal life, the real attraction. And the local is futile just putting some demand on them but can't do anything ultimately, their futile. But it has been arranged to enhance their quality of love.

Devotee: It mentions that when they're Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just as a boy may be offered, "Do you like the lap of your mother or this doll?" A doll is given to the boy, "Take this doll," but you won't go to the lap of your mother, what do you want?" He wants to dismiss the doll and go to particular temptation on the opposite side to enhance. No a real clever boy, "No, I don't want the doll, I want the food, I want mother's lap, affection not doll." So some test is given on the, to judge the quality and increase the affinity even dismissing these demands of moral, religious and social status, at risk unknowingly flowing towards Kṛṣṇa.

Spontaneously and unknowingly, unconscious flow towards Kṛṣṇa to prove that these tests are put before them.

There was an instance, that German Kaiser, his mother was a British lady, royal family of Britain. The Kaiser who was the cause of the first great war (against) Germany, he went to his maternal house and there with his cousin, some boys fighting and some strike came on Kaiser's nose and blood oozing, falling down. And Kaiser is supposed to have said: "Let the British blood fly away from my body." He was so German in his ego: "Let the British blood fly all away." So let our subtle, all, including even this body, which has come from such society, let it go I am a German.

I am Kṛṣṇa's,, I can't leave Kṛṣṇa at any cost, whatever belongs to you, you think, you keep it, I shall go. That sort of spirit, selection, unity and oneness. That has been shown to us in different types, different types of Kṛṣṇa attraction. Kṛṣṇa attracts the whole universe, everything, all the atoms are attracted by Him. But there is differentiation, distinction. All atoms are not equally attracted. The attraction on the whole is sweet, but there is differentiation in the sweetness, the degree. All not of the same type, gradation is there, and it goes up to such a mark that it denies the very existence of them, so much attraction feels within, he knows his own existence, his own ego. Such is possible, such attraction is possible. The very gist is being attracted, the form eliminated. Just as when one is swimming and feels danger, one gives away the dress and with naked body one wants to swim, something like that. The māyāvādī's come here, wants to intrude into:

nosoramano naham ramani dumu capasala kinjani ?

Unconscious of their physical existence, they feel attracted towards Kṛṣṇa, the māyāvādī comes: "Oh there you see? All forms of jñāna, and they're one in substance." But when it again comes out, in different motives, it is going, entering and coming out, entering and coming out, the līlā continues.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi.

And that is in the highest stage, highest intensity in Rādhārāṇī, She surpasses all in that sort of attraction and feeling, and in the highest stage of unity becomes Mahāprabhu. And that hint is given in the last śloka of Rāya Rāmānanda.

pahilehi raga nayana-bhange bhela anudina badhala, avadhi na gela na

("Alas, before We met there was an initial attachment between Us brought about by an exchange of glances. In this way attachment evolved. That attachment has gradually begun to grow, and there is no limit to it. Now, that attachment has become a natural sequence between Ourselves. It is not that it is due to Kṛṣṇa, the enjoyer, nor is it due to me, for I am the enjoyed. It is not like that. This attachment was made possible by mutual meeting. This mutual exchange of attraction is known as manobhāva, or Cupid. Kṛṣṇa's mind and My mind have merged together. Now, during this time of separation, it is very difficult to explain these loving affairs. My dear friend, Kṛṣṇa might have forgotten all these things. However, you can understand and bring this message to Him, but during Our first meeting there was no messenger between Us, nor did I request anyone to see Him. Indeed, Cupid's five arrows were Our via media. Now, during this separation, that attraction has increased to another ecstatic state. My dear friend, please act as a messenger on My behalf because if one is in love with a beautiful person, this is the consequence.")

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Mādhya-līlā, 8.194)

That was composed by Rāmānanda himself and in the last stage that was delivered when enquired by Mahāprabhu. "Any further development in the līlā ?"

Then Rāmānanda told: "I have got one thing in my mind, but I don't know whether You will relish it or not, I have composed one poem to that effect, You hear it."

When he was delivering that poem of his own, Mahāprabhu put His hand on his face, "No further." Hitting him. Combined, both combined, forgets everything, madly seeking after Himself, in the mood of the potency, and Mahāprabhu was caught red handed there. He opposed, "No, not to give vent to this idea now."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol!

Not to be spoken yet it is spoken. Devotees feel like that here.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

rasarāja mahābhāva dui eka rūpa dekhi rāmananda heoila ānanda

Rāmānanda could not stand, fainted, fell unconscious on the ground. Mahāprabhu touched him by His magical hand and again brought him to consciousness. Rāmānanda found the sannyāsī is sitting there indifferent. The then sannyāsī: "Am I to go know, take leave of you?" Mechanically, "Yes, You may take leave." Mahāprabhu went, Rāmānanda struck dumb sat there long time.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, maybe about three or four years ago I asked you about my Guru Mahārāja's (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Mahārāja) identity according to your particular vichā (?), what you thought his particular identity maybe in the spiritual world, you gave a general analysis. So I also wanted to ask you, I don't know if you will answer, but I also wanted to ask you the same thing about Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇadāsa Mahārāja he openly had discourse with me. "I know everything I hear but my particular attraction towards saḥkya-rasa, I like it most." He told plainly, plainly. I have heard all these things of different stages, different qualities, but by my special liking is saḥkya-rasa." He told.

But our (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja whatever I found from his, that letter, the letter I found on the, when he was going towards America for propaganda he has given his own internal aspiration. That: "Help me to finish my duty here as ordered by Gurudeva Rādhārāṇī Who is very favourite to You, to help me in discharge of my duties given to me by Him Who is Your most favourite. And after that we shall have our natural pastimes in Vṛndāvana in such and such way." As he has expressed from there I traced that he's there in his natural service he relishes that sort of service. That is my finding from that letter. Before this I did not have any clue in any talk with him. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Of course I have not gone through the portion where he has translated the mādhyura-rasa affairs in Bhāgavatam but still this was sufficient for me to guess, to understand his innate aspiration in that line.

As from common as it was told, sadarāniya (?) general attraction then assimilation in different departments. General recruitment and then examination by the specialists and particular departments are given to particular persons. He will shine in that after general recruitment, general test then special test.

Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, this Arūpmisra, did he mention anything about his house in Calcutta?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: lākhs, maybe, I have no idea. But less than two lākhs.

Current comes down from that side to embrace then he can only, he's seen to do that. That is superior quality, cannot be caught by the lower quality. The acceptance from that side and unavoidable for this gross side, blessed. Hare Kṛṣṇa. If possible it may but may not be in our life. There are many if they attended for this they might have been successful. It is my opinion. But they did not care at all for that. This Kuñja Bābu he founded the Maṭh there, in the beginning, Māyāpura Tīrtha Mahārāja. But he did not care to get, acquire that land. He went to south Calcutta, constructed one research, Caitanya Research Institute there, for preaching purpose. That was educated quarter and he selected that locality

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: not only on this śloka (?) the whole responsibility is in, none to blame. In this attitude we are to wait, we should not believe us.

Bhāgavatam, Gītā, the gist of Their, the very substance of Their teachings is like this. "Don't blame the environment." That means you do not know but that is suicidal. They're not responsible for your trouble, your trouble has come from within. Generally we want to blame the others, either this party will be good, that party will be bad, or this good that bad. It is not. The adjustment is coming from within me, the taste is coming and so change of atmosphere. So, pray to our inner Lord, caitya-guru, to guide me properly. Different things for different sections here.

(The scholarly proponents of the path of knowledge must not confuse ignorant, attached men by deviating them with the advice, "Leave aside action, and cultivate knowledge." Rather, controlling their own minds, the learned should perform all the various duties without desiring the results, and in this way, subsequently engage the common section in action.)
(Bhagavad-gītā, 3.26)

According to the capacity, the environment will change to him. His inner awakening, his circumstance will come and connect with him. So none to blame, the whole blame on one's own realisation, searching, searching. Not only that, in spite of that, that committing errors, we shall try to see, to read the environment that that is all sympathetic, the environment is always sympathetic to my inner goodness. They're necessary for me, for my real progress they're particularly necessary. So no error or any apathy on the outside which is controlled by Kṛṣṇa. Never finding fault with the circumstance, that is bar to progress, real progress. I am in the midst of sympathy and benevolence, generosity, but what is bad, the poison, is within me.

tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtāṁ vipākam hṛd-
vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk

(Lord Brahmā says:) "One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8)

Whatever comes to me from outside, that is nothing but, 'nukampāṁ, dāya, grace of the Lord. It is difficult but still this is the key to success in one's life. Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, not only to read that circumstance is not mischievous, not to be blamed, but it is full of sympathy and grace, the positive help. When we'll be able to adjust in this way, then the good day will dawn in me. It is difficult but it is the truth, the truth is such. No vindictive tendency outside.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, how can I understand that all problem is within and I don't have to blame the environment? When I was in ISKCON I saw the environment so heavy to stay. The three D's are there, diplomacy, despotism, dollars.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Alright, then you are to stay and presently forbear all these things for some time, then you will read that it will be too much for you, then you leave that. And if you find any better you go there, sincerely. But someone is coming here and there, here and there, that is what I forbid. When I remain in a place I must abide by the rules of that place with sincerity, ordinary sincerity requires this. Fair dealings.

Devotee: It seems like these two things are always coming in clash, sva dharme nidhanaṁ śreyah (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.35), and sarva-dharmān parityajya (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66). On the one hand one has to abide by the rules and regulations of

(śreyān sva-dharmo viguṇaḥ, para-dharmāt svanuṣṭhitāt sva dharme nidhanaṁ śreyah, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ)

("It is better to carry out one's own duties a little imperfectly rather than faultlessly perform another's duties. Know that even death is auspicious in the discharge of one's duties appropriate to his natural position in the ordained socio-religious system, because to pursue another's path is perilous.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.35)

(sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ)

("Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So one should take some time and finish his judgement.

No insincerity within should receive any encouragement. As long as I stay in a particular place I should try to obey the law of that place.

Have you met Vidagdha Prabhu? You have got two letters?

Devotee: Yes, I have.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is there in charge? You, at present?

Devotee: Yes. I'm not going, there's some ... I'll explain later, but it's, some confusion.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Badrīnārāyaṇa Prabhu, go and ask them (downstairs) to talk silent. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, although actually devotional service is on the absolute platform, so whatever service one performs, one cannot say one is better or one is worse. Like one many may cook for Kṛṣṇa and another may go out and preach, so both is absolute. But is it not in general understood that the preacher, or is more desirable to preach than to do other service?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everything in its own place. Maybe superior or inferior according to his own internal earnestness. Generally this is so. A direct order, direct demand, that will be above all decision. You may say, "Leave cooking and go preaching," or "Leave preaching and go for cooking." The activity is not the criterion, but His affectionate order, how much I can be adherent, faithful to him, to what extent, what degree, what intensity, that will be the criterion. Whatever is demanded the valuation will be according to His satisfaction, His order, and not by physical apparent activity.

Devotee: Mahārāja, also ādhidaivika aklesha, ādibhautika aklesha, also is coming from outside. How I can understand that the problem is within?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow.

Devotee: The threefold miseries, like ādhibhautika aklesha, ādhidaivika aklesha is coming from outside, but how can I understand

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What?

Devotee: Ādhidaivika, ādhibhautika, ādhiyātmika, threefold miseries of material nature are coming from without side. How to understand this is friendly environment?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Then, what should we think, that we are out, we have transcended, we are living in the transcendental world so these three kinds of misery won't touch me? Should I think like that? Ha, ha.

Devotee: Ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you think, that you're above that? The worldly play, your action, the consequence of your previous eternal action all finished, so soon?

Devotion will run on the negative side. As much as you'll progress it will think, "I am nowhere, I'm the worst of in creation." The progress lays in the negative side with that conception, "I am not fit, I'm the most unfit." And not insincerely but sincerely. As much as the grace, the helplessness, "I have surrendered myself to the supreme will, I can't assert myself, I am helpless." As much as I am surrendering I am at His sweet will so I must feel I am nowhere, the ego will be finished. "I am at His will, I have no position, anything may come. I am like an animal, chained animal to Him. He can do anything with me." I should not have any chalked out program for me, "I must get this and that, so much prospect waiting for me." No. Whatever will be required of me to do I shall do that. The progress in the negative side. "I have nothing, no future, no prospect, no past, no future, no present. Whatever will be demanded, direct order, I am only obeying that." The harmony requires the adjustment with the Autocracy. "I'm nothing, niṣkiñcana."

Not only that, any order, in the military department, any order may come any time, "Go and sacrifice your life, go to fight in the front." The General's order may come any moment. Fully surrendered. So be ready for sacrifice, give up all prospect of life. That is what is the real position of everything, every atom in the world, all under His sweet will. If there is a coward in the soldier, in the army, he'll be afraid if order comes first to me to fight in the front, "Oh." But if a brave man, sacrificed soul, "Oh, I want to give the fight first. I want to be a martyr, I am eager to be martyr for the country."

Martyr, what is the meaning of the martyr? Who invites death for the country?

Devotees: Self-sacrifice. Someone who dies gloriously. He dies a very glorious death.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Glorious death, he invites, to be a martyr? The brave, proper soldier he will aspire after that. "I want to be first martyr." And not that the soldiers give their life and, "After attaining victory I shall be a king, or hold a high office in the free country."

Devotee: When the environment is tempting us to cross the principles of devotion, then how is it our friend? If the environment is trying to take us away

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally we should pray upward, "That please make arrangement properly. The environment is not suiting to me." That also, secondary position, but primary position "That I must, I'm required to work in such circumstance." The man of higher level will accept his environment in such a way. If I leave it, if I make any arrangement to avoid it, it will be kept for me in future, to pass this examination again. Why to leave it for future? Finish it this time. If he's connected with real guide, "I'm working under His order." And when no such guide, the whole thing dependent on one's own conscience, at that time he will try to catch the order of the inner Guru, caitya-guru, reason, conscience. "This is harming me, my cause, so I must leave the place." But when working under mahanta-guru he will think that, "I must work on His order. Whatever the opposite type of environment is coming, that is necessary for me."

I must meet them successfully then I shall get a lift. I'm intimate to the guide, their circumstance are such and such."

If I think it is not helpful for me, "Please direct what I shall do." I may refer, if weak. But a strong man he'll meet under the guidance of his master he will meet any circumstance and pass through. I have obeyed as a servant, my own ego, so long, and I am here. Now if I have accepted any higher guidance I must work under him if I have got faith that he's the agent of the transcendental world. If I have aspiration to go in the transcendental world I must obey him.

Devotee: Mahārāja, is it possible for the environment to do injustice to a soul?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Because God consciousness is everywhere, His decision, His power everywhere. Only unfavourable things come to us to purify us. I do something wrong first then the unfavourable environment comes to meet me, to punish me, to purify me. Starting from my own self, I am responsible. Even one has become a tree, a soul has gone to the species of tree.

Manu-saṁhita says. What to speak of this position, that position, in the human species.

tamosa bhahu vena vestitar karma mantasya ?

Manu says after, when describing the different creation, comes to the trees. "They're also similar souls of our type, but now they have come to the position of a tree." Tamosa bhahu vena vestitar, covered by different kinds of ignorance. Karma hetunar, their own karma is the root of that."

So, our own karma is leading to different, helpless positions, but the environment is always trying to purify by punishing and encouraging me in different ways. Because, after all, they're controlled, all forces controlled by the Supreme Authority and He's not vindictive. Affectionate handling interfering with every misguided soul. Though outwardly a heinous punishment is dealt, but there also the good will of God. A man is hanged for his evil action, but hanging also coming from an affectionate hand. This body is nothing, ha, all our importance concentrated on this body, but body coming and going, coming and going. Suppose after finishing this body I shall get a higher chance, then to be attracted in this body is that good? So our body concentration, that 'this body is all important,' this is false notion. To save the soul the body may be spared, just as to save the man the garment may be spared if caught by fire or heavy in the water, by giving up the dress save the man. So, giving up the body save the soul.

Devotee: Mahārāja, in one place you have said that many souls who say this śivo 'ham mantra, they can become actually Śiva, so there'll be many Śivas. So, this is a new concept for me because only once before Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śivo 'ham, 'there are many Śivas,' it is also mentioned in the śāstra, śivo 'ham, śivo 'ham. So many Śivas means free souls, but their position also is not very high. Śiva means only free, free from the present trouble. But as long as he's not in the association of the higher sphere he's not safe. Just as a boy, an infant if free, infant is tied, then after some complaint he's untied and he's free. But his freedom is not very reliable, that kind of freedom, that kind of freedom is not safe, he can commit again something wrong and come down, Śiva.

Devotee: Is this the same as Brahman platform or is it higher than Brahman?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śiva has got two phases, his covering, that devotee Śiva and the independent Śiva, and Śiva entangled in this. Śiva means free soul, soul when free from material attraction, that is Śiva. But that is a marginal position, Śiva means marginal position not goodness guaranteed there. Śiva can again mix with Satī, or Parvatī, Umā.

Devotee: Who is this Deity Śiva that is worshipped?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śiva means soul, soul in a particular stage is known as Śiva.

Devotee: But this Śaṅkara Deity, Śiva Śaṅkara, is he different from Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He should be considered as the tika, as the ideal of all small Śiva. The whole Śiva embodied, Śaṅkara, embodied. Their cause represented wholesale, that is Śaṅkara. More or less neither Svarūpa-śakti nor Māyā-śakti, the marginal position is held up by so-called Śiva. Neither catching the inner current nor influenced by the outer current, the marginal position.

Devotee: In the Brahma-saṁhita (5.45) it says:

yaḥ śambhutām api tathā samupaiti kāryād govindam ādi puruṣam tam
aham bhajāmi

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the meaning?

Devotee: It gives a comparison that Viṣṇu, He may be something like milk, but Śiva, he's like curd, like milk transformed. Can you explain that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

kṣīram yathā dadhi vikāra-viśeṣa-yogāt sañjāyate na hi tataḥ pṛthag asti hetoḥ

yaḥ śambhutām api tathā samupaiti kāryād govindam ādi puruṣam tam
aham bhajāmi

(Milk changes into yoghurt when it is mixed with a yoghurt culture; but actually yoghurt is constitutionally nothing but milk. Similarly, Govinda, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, assumes the form of Lord Śiva for the special purpose of material transactions. I offer my obeisances at the lotus feet of Govinda, the primeval Lord.) (Brahma-saṁhitā, 5.45)

Just as the milk coming in connection of something becomes curd, but that curd cannot be reconverted into milk. So the position of the Śiva, who is a part of Viṣṇu, which has come in connection with this outer prakṛti, that is called Śiva as a whole. The consciousness that has been in some connection with the outer current, prakṛti, he comes in contact with the exploitation tendency somewhat. And that cannot return again to the dedication. The part of consciousness as a whole who has come in contact with the tendency of exploitation cannot return to the tendency of dedication, that portion is known as Śiva, the middle portion, marginal portion.

Exploitation is prakṛti, going away, outward current. And incurring current and outcurring current, outcurring current exploitation, incurring towards centre, and the marginal position is called Śiva. There is the consciousness neither this nor that, something this something that, middle position. That is known as the position of the Śiva. A portion of the consciousness as a whole which is neither this nor this, has connection of this and connection of this, this also, that portion, that is marginal line, that is Śiva. The soul, neither devotee, nor entangled in exploitation, but they have got some touch of both the planes, that portion is known as Śiva.

And so many particles as a general Śiva, one, and so many particles are gathering around him, that is also so many Śiva, (baho ?) Śiva, one and many. Whole considered as one is Śiva, and also so many Śiva jīva souls they're getting liberation, they come to no-man's land, the buffer state. And until and unless visa into the country, passport got, no visa. We are that stage.

Devotee: So the guṇa-avatāra Śiva, is that svāmśa or vibhinnāmśa ?
Guṇa-avatāra

Śiva in the material world, he's not svāmśa

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Neither svāmśa, he's vibhinnāmśa.

Devotee: He's vibhinnāmśa ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vibhinnāmśa. But that is taṭastha śakti, taṭastha śakti. That is not Svāmśa, Matsya, Kūrma, Varāha, all incarnation of Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa, They're Svāmśa. And which is not direct representing Him, direct representation, that is rather delegation of a particular potency, not Himself. Vibhinnāmśa jīva - tāñra śaktite gaṇana:

(svāmśa-vibhinnāmśa-rūpe haiñā vistāra ananta vaikunṭha-brahmāṇḍe kareṇa vihāra svāmśa-vistāra - catur - vyūha, avatāra-gaṇa vibhinnāmśa jīva - tāñra śaktite gaṇana)

("Kṛṣṇa expands Himself in many forms. Some of them are personal expansions, and some are separate expansions. Thus He performs pastimes in both the spiritual and material worlds. The spiritual worlds are the Vaikunṭha planets, and the material universes are brahmāṇḍas, gigantic globes governed by Lord Brahmā. Expansions of His personal self - like the quadruple manifestations of Saṅkarṣaṇa, Pradyumna, Aniruddha and Vāsudeva - descend as incarnations from Vaikunṭha to this material world. The separated expansions (vibhinnāmś) are living entities. Although they are expansions of Kṛṣṇa, they are counted among His different potencies."

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.8-9)

Which is vibhinnāmśa that should be considered within potency stage and not Himself. Svāmśa, there is Matsya, Kūrma, Varāha, all the incarnations of Viṣṇu, different places, They're all Svāmśa. Svāmśa means delegated function more or less, same thing, delegated function, that is Svāmśa. And vibhinnāmśa, that cannot be considered of the same rank with Him because He's always nirguṇa, above māyā, above any degradation. Even if He comes in māyā, māyā cannot overpower Him.

He's always with His own potency, prakṛtiṁ svām adhiṣṭhāya, sambhavāmy ātma-māyayā:

(ajo 'pi sann avyayātmā, bhūtānām īśvaro 'pi san) prakṛtiṁ svām adhiṣṭhāya, sambhavāmy ātma-māyayā

("Although My eternal form is transcendental to birth and death, and I am the controller of all beings, I appear within the world in My original form, by My own sweet will, extending My internal potency of yoga-māyā.")
(Bhagavad-gīta, 4.6)

Not touched by this potency of exploitation. He's always circulated by the tendency of dedication, nirguṇa. And His devotees are also like that. But Śiva conception of devotee is in the middle stage, neither śuddha-bhakti nor mixed with the, but some lower touch of devotion and higher touch of exploitation, in this way.

Devotee: So that verse, it says: svadharma-niṣṭhaḥ śata-janmabhiḥ pumān, does that mean

(svadharma-niṣṭhaḥ śata-janmabhiḥ pumān viriñcatām eti tataḥ param hi mām avyākṛtaṁ bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavaṁ padaṁ yathāhaṁ vibudhāḥ kalātyaye)

("A person who executes his occupational duty properly for one hundred births becomes qualified to occupy the post of Brahmā, and if he becomes more qualified, he can approach Lord Śiva. A person who is directly surrendered to Lord Kṛṣṇa or Viṣṇu in unalloyed devotional service is immediately promoted to the spiritual planets. Lord Śiva and other demigods attain these planets after the destruction of this material world.")(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.24.29)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Viriñcatām eti tataḥ param hi mām avyākṛtaṁ. Not purely differentiated, non-differentiable, avyākṛtaṁ means. Vyākṛti means form, avyākṛti without any form, without any particular form, any particular group, that is un- understandable position between the two opposite currents.

Devotee: But this verse explains that svadharma-niṣṭhaḥ śata-janmabhiḥ pumān, that after śata-janma, after a hundred births of perfect practice in the varṇāśrama, someone may become Brahmā. But the jīva can also become Śiva?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, jīva can be Śiva, and can never be Viṣṇu or Nārāyaṇa.

Devotee: Brahmajyoti is different from Śiva?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Brahmajyoti if analysed, ākāra, and found any personality, that is jīva, Śiva.

Devotee: That portion of brahmajyoti that is in contact with material energy, that is Śiva? Has got slight contact with Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not only contact with exploitation but some contact of the dedication, service. The buffer state, the marginal, the taṭastha, this you are to, between the opposite tendency, opposite potency. The imaginary meeting line, taṭastha, you are to put Śiva conception there. Neither this nor this but somewhat of this somewhat of that.

Devotee: At the same time we find that Lord Śiva, he also has kailash.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I told somewhere that Śiva is the leader of the opposition party.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some connection with the government but he represents the cause of the world of exploitation. Comes to fight with Viṣṇu. His stand means that separation is possible from the government. The existing government is there, disobeying them, also a personality can stand. And sometimes he's pleading the cause of the fallen and encouraging the demons and even goes to fight for them.

Devotee: Like in the Christian conception they have Satan. The Christian's, like in Paradise Lost they have Satan.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Satan is always disobedient, he's always different to God, but Śīva is not always different. Sometimes he poses that he is

End of side A, start of side B, 19.5.83.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: if you scrutinise position from very subtle standpoint, then it will be so many defects there. In general he's considered a great devotee, even above Brahmā, na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir:

(na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir na śaṅkaraḥ na ca saṅkarṣaṇo na śrīr naivātmā ca yathā bhavān)

("Neither Brahmā nor Śīva are as dear to Me as you; My elder brother Saṅkarṣaṇa is not as dear to Me as you, nor even Lakṣmī Devī. Even My own Self is not as dear to Me as you.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15)

The first devotee is Brahmā, then higher, Śambhu, Śīva, then Saṅkarṣaṇa, then Lakṣmī. In this way the gradation of devotion is going higher.

Devotee: His position is mixed with Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And conditional devotion, Śīva is a type of conditional devotion in the lower sense, mixed with knowledge and yoga, yoga and jñāna. Brahmā mixed with karma-miśra-bhakti, devotion mixed with karma. With the exploiting tendency and a certain portion is devotion, that is Brahmā. And the renunciation and a certain portion of devotion, dedication, that is Śīva.

Śīva says that: "If you want to know śuddha-bhakti, really pure devotion, go to Prahlāda."

Prahlāda says: "Yes, I may hold something but that is very weak. If you want to see the real type of śuddha-bhakti go to Hanumān. He's fully surcharged with temperament of service to Viṣṇu."

Hanumān says: "Yes, I somewhat, but that is not considerable, but I appreciate the position of the Pāṇḍavas, how Kṛṣṇa has taken equal position very intimate mixing. But I have not such, master and servant, but they as friend, free mixing."

Then Pāṇḍavas, to Yadavas, Yadavas to Uddhava, Uddhava to the gopīs, in this way we are to follow how purity runs in this way.

Why? What is the criterion of devotion proper that runs in this way? Surrender, surrender for the cause, according to the intensity and quality of the surrender for Autocrat Beauty. We think beauty is an object of our experience but beauty is the ultimate cause, the real substance, the representation of the ultimate cause, Absolute is beauty. Beauty is master, beauty is enjoyer, not to be enjoyed as we think beauty means to be enjoyed by us, but it is not that sort of beauty. In the name of enjoyment we are entrapped there in service.

Jīva Goswāmī says the meaning of Bhagavān is bhajanīya guṇa viśiṣṭha: "Who has got superior qualities to attract us and engage us in His service." That is Bhagavān. Beauty attracts us and charms us, engages us in His service. Beauty is enjoyer not enjoyed. The general misconception is there, the beauty means to be enjoyed by us, but no, it is the enjoyer and enjoyer of the highest position, beauty. Such beauty in Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa and others paraphernalia which attracts and makes us servant, wholesale. No individual freedom remains with us. Such attraction, attraction of such a degree, all our individuality merges to work in His satisfaction. No longer we can retain our selfish interest. Such beauty.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, in the Bṛhat-Bhāgavatamṛta, Śrīla Sanātana Goswāmī, one doubt came when I was reading. This knowledge of Sanātana Goswāmī when he wrote, his knowledge came from the higher plane or he was living that plane?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When he was writing he said that someone is utilising me as instrumental. All activities like that, all services like that, when any necessity of any particular service is wanted from any agent then it comes in that way, through inspiration, and he does, inspired. All activities are their inspiration, by inspiration, hṛdā, tene brahma hṛdā ya ādi-kavaye, from heart to heart.

(janmādy asya yato 'nvayād itararaś cārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ tene brahma hṛdā ya ādi-kavaye muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā dhāmnā svena sadā nirasta-kuhakaṁ satyaṁ param dhīmahi)

("O my Lord, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, son of Vasudeva, O all pervading Personality of Godhead, I offer my respectful obeisances unto You. I meditate upon Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa because He is the Absolute Truth and the primeval cause of all causes of the creation, sustenance and destruction of the manifested universes. He is directly and indirectly conscious of all manifestations, and He is independent because there is no other cause beyond Him. It is He only who first imparted the Vedic knowledge unto the heart of Brahmājī, the original living being. By Him even the great sages and demigods are placed into illusion, as one is bewildered by the illusory representations of water seen in fire, or land seen on water. Only because of Him do the material universes, temporarily manifested by the reactions of the three modes of nature, appear factual, although they are unreal. I therefore meditate upon Him, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Who is eternally existent in the transcendental abode, which is forever free from the illusory representations of the material world. I meditate upon Him, for He is the Absolute Truth.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1)

The inspiration comes and engages the whole, the Yoga-Māyā, the Svarūpa-śakti, all work by inspiration. And this beauty that beauty, from this beauty to another beauty, all by inspiration. And that particular inspiration came to Sanātana to do that duty and then he has got other duties also. In mādhyura-rasa that Vilāsa Mañjarī, his general duty is there. But when Kṛṣṇa wanted to do some particular service, inspired him in that way and also sent materials for everything to help the discharge of his duty.

A district magistrate, DM, he has got a general function but he may be deputed to some other place, "Do this work. And there is revolt, go and suppress them." Some special duty, and again he comes back and then he does his ordinary duty as a DM and must be a district magistrate, something like that.

Gaurasundara.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, some people, I have heard it said that Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura was in śanta-rasa. Is that correct?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. He showed his development, even from Māyāvādā towards śuddha-bhakti and his attraction for Kṛṣṇa and he has described his vilāsa with the gopīs also. So not śanta-rasa. Rather, he may be recond in sākhyā-rasa, having connection with mādhyura-rasa.

Because he described that Kṛṣṇa caught him by the hand. To catch by hand, that is the emblem of sākhyā-rasa symptom. First to have the feet touch, that is dāsya. And sākhyā, touching by the hand. And the kissing in the vātsalya-rasa. And embracing in the mādhyura-rasa. These are the signs of different rasa we are told. So Bilvamaṅgala says: "You have caught me by the hand and slipped away. But can You go from my heart? Then I shall give You some credit if You can go away from my heart." He's playing with Him in this way. Not with dāsya but with sākhyā. This sort of play. In the first śloka he has written: līlā-svayamvara-rasam labhate jaya-śrī:

yatpāda kalpataru-pallava-sekhareṣu līlā-svayamvara-rasam labhate jaya-śrī)

(May Cintāmaṇi be glorified (who acted as my Guru or preceptor fulfilling my object simultaneously with the formulation thereof). May also my Guru Somagiri (who instructed me in vairāgya i.e., cessation of all worldly attachments and viveka i.e., spiritual consciousness after I had secured Cintāmaṇi's grace) be glorified. And may also be glorified my (Chaitanya) Guru (Inward Preceptor Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself, Who has taught me devotional principles and methods) Whose head is decorated with peacock-feathers and at the Nails of Whose Feet granting all desires like kalpataru (i.e., tree granting all things prayed for) Śrī Rādhā, the glorified seat of all beauties or one from whom Lakṣmī emanates, receives the most pleasing ambrosia of Her spontaneous sportive dalliance.) (Śrī-Kṛṣṇa-Karnāmṛtam, 1)

The first śloka where he shows his obeisances towards Kṛṣṇa, līlā-svayamvara-rasam labhate jaya-śrī, jaya-śrī means Rādhārāṇī.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, I heard that in the spiritual world there is no deplorable sex life that we find in this world. But I was reading purport of (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja for Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, there he said that like in the heavenly planets sometimes sex life happens in the spiritual world but there is no pregnancy.

Devotees: (brief silence) Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Suppose a poisonous field, if the whole field without poison similar to this, what do you think? Whatever is to be blamed as nasty, that is exploiting tendency, otherwise everything is valued. No aggrandisement but the sacrifice makes it pure. The demon is the exploiting tendency, not any practical This is the main thing to understand how purity's there, aprakṛta, everything like prakṛta, like this mundane world, it is a show, but it is quite different. We are to understand the real principle, the nature of the real principle of dedication. Action is not filthy, filthy is in the mental tendency. The poison is there. We are to understand that part. If the spirit of dedication is proper, anything is done, that is nirguṇa, even murder, hatvāpi sa imāṁ lokān na hanti na nibadhyate:

(yasya nāhaṅkṛto bhāvo, buddhir yasya na lipyate hatvāpi sa imāṁ lokān na hanti na nibadhyate)

(He who is free from egotism (arising from aversion to the Absolute), and whose intelligence is not implicated (in worldly activities) - even if he kills every living being in the whole world, he does not kill at all, and neither does he suffer a murderer's consequence.) (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.17)

Why? Dictated from the higher agency of peace-making, supreme authority. Just as there is gangrene, you can cut out a portion. So, in the nirguṇa wave, the eternal wave, that is wholesome and healthy and every form is surcharged with that spirit. That is all healthy. The demon is in the tendency, but everything is good. Just as in the murder is also, maybe nirguṇa, that nirguṇa means without any local motive, or provincial motive, personal selfish motive. But the waves that are coming as ahaitukī, causeless, and apratihātā, un-oppositional group, causeless and cannot be opposed, one word I used several times. Ahaitukī, that is causeless, and apratihātā, irresistible. That wave that is the cent per cent healthy wave and in accordance with that everything is good. And whatever comes to clash with that, that is bad, and of filthy type. In the prostitution is bad but in married life the same thing is not so bad. What is the matter? What is underlying there?

If we can produce this thing to the higher level, Kṛṣṇa enjoying cannot be bad. Why? Kṛṣṇa enjoying that is not bad. So, in Kṛṣṇa consciousness what is meant as the form shown by Yoga-Māyā, that is wholesale pure. Nanda Yaśodā and so many vātsalya-rasa they are uniting and son coming, but that is all pure because cent-per- cent their object of every action to please Kṛṣṇa, to help His līlā cent-per-cent. That is pure.

yat kinca tina guṇa ki guṇa mukam ?

What to speak of human, but the animals, the insects, all in Vṛndāvana, all aim towards Kṛṣṇa's satisfaction. They're also being united and their children are coming. It is shown like that, though eternal, but it is shown like that like a drama. But everything is pure. Only to be aggressive, that is bad. The līlā is like that, it is cent- per-cent purity, the way, for His satisfaction what is required.

So, it is difficult, that is Māyāvādī, their objection is this, "How all these things can be represented of higher value in the other side? Cannot be maintained. They must be filthy. So nirviśeṣa, that is the purest conception of the truth. But if you say that this vilāsa, it is there, that cannot but be filthy." That is their contention.

So Vivekānanda, Rāmānuja, has gone so far, and Mahāprabhu, Bhāgavatam says: "For Kṛṣṇa, anything and everything is the purest conception. Complete surrender to the Absolute Reality. No question of law, no custom, no scripture, and no social demand can come to oppose it. Such unbridled flow of the sweet satisfaction of the Absolute, that is the highest conception of truth."

Devotee: Mahārāja, in Goloka Vṛndāvana

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Gītā it is mentioned: prajānaś cāsmi kandarpaḥ:

āyudhānām ahaṁ vajraṁ, dhenūnām asmi kāmadhuk prajānaś cāsmi kandarpaḥ, sarpāṇām asmi vāsukiḥ

("Of weapons I am the thunderbolt, and of cows I am the heavenly desire-fulfilling cow. Of cupids I am he who ensures progeny, and among the single-headed venomous snakes I am Vāsuki, the king of all snakes.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 10.28)

"I am present in that union where it is indifferently, they unite only aspiring for a child."

In Bhāgavatam also it is clear:

bhajana na ratrai ?

"Not with the spirit of enjoyment but for child." That is pure, duty, it is general, but it is not possible in general mind so we are afraid of, but it is possible. Just as Vedavyāsa was requested by his mother to get a child from (Vicitravirya and Chitrānjala ?)..... their widow. And Satyawati requested her son Vedavyāsa: "I want to get a child to keep up the lineage of our dynasty, so you are to come and to give a child to these two widow queens." Vedavyāsa did, but he was not contaminated with any bad motive or bad action. It is possible, indifferently, only to attend as duty, not attracted by any lust or any filthy tendency of the mind.

So, in the highest conception of kṛṣṇa-līlā, anything and everything is possible, the stealing, lying, all these things may be there, pure of purest of the highest type. That is the conception. Your surrender, the beginning is surrender in the primary stage, then you are marching, the surrendered march. The filthy stage, that is eliminated long before. Not only indifferently but surrendered state for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa.

So united with men, women, and to feel that that will be of most equal thing. So we are to rise, to understand what is surrender, what is purity, what is sacrifice, all these things, practically and not theoretically. This must all be kept in mind, why things are impure, why things are not to be blamed. The form is not to be blamed but the attitude, the approach is to be blamed, the ego is to be blamed. It will not be difficult in our position but it is so, we are to follow that line. How these things remain purest things can be purest. What is in the reflection, a tree is reflected in a tank, what is the lowest is the highest, the highest top of the tree seems to be in the reflection the lowest.

Pāṇḍavas are going, and Hidambha, a ādivāsī, aborigine girl, Hidambha, she saw Bhīma and she prayed first to Yudhiṣṭhira, and referred by him to Kuntī. "I want a son from your second child." And Kuntī Devī ordered Bhīma: "Go and give a son to this aborigine girl." Bhīma went there to obey the mother's order. Not charmed by the appearance, the beauty of that ādivāsī girl. Simply to obey the order he had to go. So, the approach of a thing we must try to understand.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

So service, what is dedication, we are to know that. Long before this nasty thing has eliminated here, before we enter the land of dedication, this should not be carried there, then no dedication. Renunciation, this filthy thing is renunciation, and renunciation, all these nasty things eliminated. Then we are to make progress further. After renunciation, after full abnegation, the self-denial of the present stage fully renounced. Then we can enter and there in the first stage under so many laws, and then, crossing them, automatic freedom, and freedom of what? Of dedication. So, koti- mukta-madhye 'durlabha' eka kṛṣṇa-bhakta:

("Out of many millions of such wise men, one may actually become liberated, and out of many millions of such liberated persons, a pure devotee of Lord Kṛṣṇa is very difficult to find.") (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.148)

"Amongst crores of muktava, free souls, who are free from the contamination of māyā, one may be available as a devotee." So we are to understand, follow, what is what, otherwise the sahajiyā system.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

sarva vedanta parava ?

vedanta avacarana ? that is the stage of salvation.

sarva vedanta vit catca visnu bhakta vasisyata ?

Among crores of these Vedantic, that is the mukti-vadi, the salvationists, crores of salvationists, rarely one may be found as viṣṇu-bhakta, and viṣṇu-bhakta śāstra bhūmicard ? And viṣṇu-bhakta under laws and rules, but there, no law no rule, all trained in such a way that's so satisfactory that no law is necessary there. Such can enter the Vṛndāvana, the Goloka, the soil of that place.

Gaura Hari bol!

So how great they are, how holy and great they are. It is difficult to conceive the feet-dust of (agents?).

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Mahārāja, I have one question about Goloka Dhāma. Is it similar to our world here of three dimensions and time or is it something inconceivable which is just portrayed to us like this so that we may understand it?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is everything, we may think. One rasa night, there Brahmā-ratri has entered by His will, so infinite playing at the sweet will. Then what form you can take them within? The play of the Infinite by the sweet will of the Master of Infinite, how can you conceive it?

It was told in Purāṇa that when Nārada is passing through some village one general devotee asked him: "Oh, Prabhu, master, Nārada, you are coming from Vaikuṇṭha?" "Yes." "What is He doing?" "He's passing an elephant through the hole of the needle." Is it possible? Ha, ha, ha.

Hypnotising has come from whom? From what source? And Arjuna's divya- darśana-līlā depends on the will of your nature here? Ha, ha.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Our brain, our mind, how much can grasp about the nature and possibility of the infinite? So we are requested not to lose our energy in the way of enquiry there. That will be a waste of your energy, jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā:

(jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva jīvanti san-mukharitām
bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vāñ-manobhir ye

prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām)

(Lord Brahmā said to the Supreme Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa): ("Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes (kathā), which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3)

Take the line of faith, your faith also won't be able to catch much, but without faith you can't make a single step of progress. How maybe the capacity of your faith? Your faith can run to what extent? Very little, so still, faith can have some connection with that. And your intellect and other, this eye, this body instruments for knowledge, and mental instruments and intellect is nothing there.

You have gathered experience from a very small part of the Infinite, your storehouse is drawn from the nature which is the smallest part of the Infinite, and you want to measure them only with this experience? That is your everything? All your experience, your knowledge, only related with a smallest portion of the Infinite and you want that thing, like Nārāyaṇa, this elephant into the hole of the needle, you want to do that. So give up the interference of your nasty experience of the smallest part of the existence.

And faith, somewhat, may work in that place. You go to the moon, the other planets, sun, the electricity or something other all unfit to work there. Only by the help of ether can they connect, the furthest thing can be connected with the help of ether, and the air, earth, fire, all found useless.

So also if you want to connect with Him you may have your faith, find out that and try to utilise in this case, others all fail. So your eye experience, ear experience, your touch experience, they won't do any good. And your mental store is also drawn from these senses, that is also untenable. Only faith in you, that can try somewhat, and that if helped by the faith from other source may help you take there. But to say is easy but to understand and follow that is difficult. Faith, śraddha, if I know one everything is known. Will your reason allow? By knowing one you will know everything. By getting one you will get everything. This is faith.

idam prāptam bhavati

("Enquire into that upon knowing which, nothing further remains to be known. Try to achieve that upon gaining which, nothing further remains to be gained.") (Upaniṣads)

Will your reason allow this? Even faith won't be able to understand this, how it is possible by knowing one we know everything. But this is the fundamental requirement of faith. If you have got such faith within you underground then you can move to this position. And also some analogy is given from your own experience, yathā taror mula niṣecanena, tṛpyanti tat-skandha bhujopasākhāḥ prānopahārāc ca yathendriyānām, tathaiva sarvārhaṇam acyutejyā

("Just as if you pour water onto the root of a tree, the whole tree is fed, and just as when you supply food to the stomach, the whole body is fed, so if you can gain knowledge of the prime cause, Brahman, then you can know anything and everything.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.31.14)

The central thing is such, if you put food into the stomach, the whole body is fed. If you put water into the root, the whole tree is fed. So central truth may be possible, possibly exist and try to tackle in that way. Tackling a centre the whole thing may be tackled, central point, marmasthan ?

Just as this acupuncture in China, by pointing the needle in a particular place they can control the body. And here also, using some medicine or some injection, the whole body may be fainted. By injecting a medicine in a particular part the effect in the whole body is possible.

So tackling a point we can control the whole. So there may be such things possible that by knowing the centre we can know everything. To know the centre means "Let there be water," there was water. "Let there be fire," there was fire. The one point who can do anything and everything.

83.5.24-25.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: this is our goal. With that sort of prayer we are to pass this day, and observing fasting, and after the advent in the evening offering pūjā and bhoga to Him, then we shall take some anukalpa, that is our arrangement. But though if anybody's sick or too old, they may take according to the nature of the occasion, and some sweet liquid or a little milk to keep up the body. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Otherwise fasting, and after offering pūjā and bhoga raga to Nṛsimhadeva, then in the evening we are to take some anukalpa. And tomorrow we are to do some festival, small, in His Name.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Here is Nṛsimha Mūrti, Vighraha. In the South, the Nṛsimha Temple is found, and more in number. Nṛsimha Jiyada near Waltiar (?)

Then again Maṅgālagiri, near Jiyada (?) Andhradesh is fond of worshipping Nṛsimhadeva. Then another Nṛsimhadeva in Hovilam (?)

Now it is a forest. Once we went there, within the forest, near Aranga (?) in Andhradesh. These three temples all within the boundary of Andhra. This Waltiar (?) as well as Vijayawada (?) and Hovilam (?)

Not far from Waranga, the nearest city, Waranga, Andhra. Three Temples of Nṛsimhadeva there.

Mahāprabhu visited them it is mentioned in Caitanya-caritāmṛtam. Our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) also visited those places and constructed the Pāda-pīṭha Temple of Mahāprabhu in two places, Maṅgālagiri and Nṛsimha-caran (?)

And we were the pioneer party, Bana Mahārāja, myself, Mādhava Mahārāja who was then brahmacārī Hāyagrīva, and two others, we went on establishing and installing Pāda-pīṭha of Mahāprabhu.

About twelve-hundred steps in Nṛsimha-caran (?) Six-hundred steps to Maṅgālagiri. And Hovilam (?) also, within the forest, no rock, but unapproachable. The tigers and other animals are in that forest. Only at daytime one priest comes and offers something and then fly away. That was the position there we saw. Now we do not know. That was in the 1933-34, like this.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

ito nṛsimhaḥ parato nṛsimho yato yato yāmi tato nṛsimhaḥ bahir nṛsimho hṛdaye nṛsimho nṛsimham ādim śaraṇam prapadye

("Nṛsimha is here, Nṛsimha is there - Nṛsimha is wherever I go. Nṛsimha is outside, Nṛsimha is within my heart. I am surrendered unto that primeval Lord Nṛsimha.")

With this śloka Mahāprabhu climbed up the hill. When we find it is necessary to secure the help of Nṛsimhadeva for my benefit then we are to absorb wholesale in Him to remove the difficulty. Here is Nṛsimha, there is Nṛsimha, within Nṛsimha, outside Nṛsimha. Nṛsimha is all in all. With this spirit we are to approach.

śrī nṛsimha jai nṛsimha jai jai nṛsimha prahlāda eśa jaya pādma upa pādma mengam ?

You are full of all resources. Let victory be with You. Then everything will be peaceful. Jai jai nṛsimha, let victory after victory may come to Your will spontaneous, and that will be beneficial for us fallen souls. Prahlāda eśa, You are exclusively sought by Prahlāda Mahārāja. His connection we can't sever from You. Jaya pādma upa pādma, at the same time we must not forget that You are the object of divine service of Śrī Lakṣmī Devī herself. And You have come to take such a half-jungle figure to save Your devotee. But really You are in such a position that Lakṣmī Devī always serves You with whole heart. Your position is such. But to save Your devotee You have come in the figure of a half-jungle, half-human figure, You have come. But we won't forget that Your position is such.

Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

bardhi sa yasya badaney laksmi yasya baksati yasyasti rdhaya samvitan nrsimha mahproha ?

Bardhi saran saraswati, the goddess of learning, she is residing in Your face. Laksmi yasya baksati, and Lakṣmī Devī, the goddess of resources, she is always at Your heart. Yasyasti rdhaya samvit, and within Your heart the seeds of real knowledge, real consciousness, the consciousness of the Absolute, is there. Samvit means knowledge, consciousness. Consciousness, higher consciousness of Your heart, that is consciousness of the Absolute, even Kṛṣṇa consciousness also there. I bow down to You repeatedly.

In this way, so many hidden in praise of Nṛsiṃhadeva we find.

ugra panugra evayam savatra nayam kesari kesari basa kutanam pandisam upa vitrama ?

Ugra panugra evayam, apparently Your figure seems to be fearful, dreadful, but really You are very affectionate to the devotees, savatra nayam, anugra. Kesari basa kutanam, just as the lioness, they're fearful to others but to their own cubs, own children, very affectionate. That is Your position.

namas te narasiṃhāya prahlādāhlāda-dāyine hiraṇyakaśīpor vakṣaḥ-śilā-ṭaṅka-nakhālaye

(I offer my obeisances to Lord Narasimha, who gives joy to Prahlāda Mahārāja and whose nails are like chisels on the stonelike chest of the demon Hiraṇyakaśipu.)

I show my obeisances to the Lord, half-human, half-lion. And whose very appearance and necessity to please the devotee like Prahlāda. And for that purpose to save the devotees He does not hesitate if necessary to tear off the body of the enemies of the devotees. Hiraṇyakaśipuor vakṣaḥ-śilā-ṭaṅka-nakhālaye, the enemy of devotion was Hiraṇyakaśipu and his chest was just like stones, stoney-chested man. But You tore it to pieces, śilā-ṭaṅka-nakhālaye.

In this way so many hymns, songs, in praise of His grace, we find.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

We are devotees, we, or rather, we want to be devotees, so our great need for the grace of Nṛsimhadeva, that the obstacles may be removed and we can go on smoothly in our way towards the desired Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! So I beg your leave.

Devotee: Is there any significance that Mahāprabhu visited many places in the South of India but He did not tour the holy places extensively in the North India?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One of the reasons may be that South India was free from the Mohammedan attack, and they mostly, the scholars of different schools have their origin in that place. The Rāmānuja, the Madhvācārya, Viṣṇuswāmī, all these three, this culture is very big scholars of Vaiṣṇavas. The scholars, the followers also come from that part, Rūpa, Sanātana, Jīva, from Kanada, and Gopāl Bhaṭṭa, then Prabodhānanda Saraswatī they came from Tamil Nad, Śrīraṅgam.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, did Lord Nṛsimhadeva have some connection here in Navadvīpa, at Nṛsimha Polī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Because in Navadvīpa, different representations of theism they're absorbed in Navadvīpa Dhāma. Just as in a capital, so many, Delhi, then Bengal, Madras, Bihar, all have their representations there in the capital. Provincial authority must have some representation in the central. So Navadvīpa is the highest conception of theism, so here, naturally, the representation of all other theistic conceptions should be represented in some form or other. Devī Simantini (?)

is there, Jagannātha is there, Nṛsimhadeva is there, so many, in this way, the Śiva is there, Devī, so many persons. They should represent themselves to pay honour to the highest conception of theism. They think it necessary They must have some representation. It shows how it is adjusted in the full-fledged theism, different conceptions of theism. They are posted in some parts with the full, viśiṣṭādvaita, not exclusive all but including, all inclusive. And they're also of eternal type but only the difference in degree of intensity of theism.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura could conceive when he was putting up in Godruma, he marked that every day early in the morning one flow of wind goes through his front towards Yoga-Pīṭha, birthplace of Mahāprabhu, early every morning. What's the matter? Then he began to search most earnestly and to detect in a prayerful motive, mood, he wanted to survey what's the matter. Then one day he found that in the birthplace of Mahāprabhu, when the ārātrika in the morning, maṅgala-ārati, Nṛsiṁhadeva goes there every day to attend from that Nṛsiṁha Poli, Nṛsiṁhadeva Himself He every day attends that maṅgala-ārati of Mahāprabhu.

All personal representation, all conscious personal personality, the degree, the degree, the intensity in the degree of conscious personality, more attraction.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, is there some story that Prahlāda Mahārāja in his former life cleansed the Temple of Nṛsiṁhadeva?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It is mentioned from Purāṇa, there it is shown. Jīva Goswāmī he found out that. Api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāk, (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30) Kiṁ punar brāhmaṇāḥ puṇyā, (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.33)

(api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāḥ sādhuḥ eva sa mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ)

("If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all nondevotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life. ")
(Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30)

kiṁ punar brāhmaṇāḥ puṇyā, bhaktā rājarṣayas tathā anityam asukhaṁ lokaṁ, imaṁ prāpya bhajasva mām

("So who can doubt that the pure devotee brāhmaṇas and kṣatriyas will achieve that supreme goal? Therefore, surely engage in My devotional service, since you have attained this temporary and miserable human body after wandering throughout many births.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.33)

mām hi pārtha vyapāśritya, ye 'pi syuḥ pāpa-yonayaḥ striyo vaiśyās tathā śūdrās, te 'pi yānti parām gatim

("O son of Pṛthā, low-born persons of degraded lineage, women, merchants, or labourers - they also attain the supreme destination by taking full refuge in Me.")

(Bhagavad-gītā, 9.32)

Kṛṣṇa says: Mām hi pārtha vyapāśritya, "I am such that if anyone comes in My connection with some evil motive then also he may catch the connection and come up. Mām hi pārtha vyapāśritya, apāśritya, to come in connection in a mean way, vyapāśritya, particularly mean, very nasty way. If in a very nasty way also, anyone comes to My connection he gets the chance to go higher and higher."

And an instance has been given from Prahlāda-cariter by Jīva Goswāmī. It is found in some Purāṇa, that when, before his birth, Prahlāda, how he came to this side. He was a man suppose in the South of mean nature and he made arrangement with a lady for union in some dilapidated temple of Nṛsimha, and for that purpose he brushed some, cleansed some portion in the compound. And that day was the day of advent of Nṛsimhadeva. Any good day and Prahlāda cleansed a portion of the part which was very dirty, and perhaps there he was united with the woman or so. But because he cleansed that place in a particular day that was recorded. And through that he got connection with Nṛsimhadeva's service. He took that and gradually improved and came to read that fate. Līlā in this way.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, there's one temple in South India that's called Mantralay (?) It is the samādhi of one saint called Ragavendra Swāmī. They say in their books that Ragavendra Swāmī is an incarnation of Prahlāda Mahārāja. And for eight-hundred years he will be giving dārśana to people.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who? Ragavendra Swāmī?

Devotee: Yes. He was, in his live body he was entombed in cellar of that temple, in the basement of this temple, about four-hundred years back.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Living?

Devotee: Living. And he says for eight-hundred years he will be giving dārśana and helping people who come to that temple.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the temple? What is the Deity there?

Devotee: Mantralay. I don't think there is any Deity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only the tomb?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where it is?

Devotee: It is about a hundred and fifty miles from Hyderabad.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Towards Mangalas?

Devotee: From Hyderabad.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hyderabad, which side?

Devotee: It's midway between Bombay and Madras.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And the line?

Devotee: I think it's Rāmānuja line.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ragavendra?

Devotee: Yes. Actually, this temple became very famous about a hundred and fifty years back when one Englishman who I think was a collector of the area. He came to demolish this temple because he wanted to use it for some other purpose. And when he came there some man named Thompson, then Ragavendra Swāmī gave him dārśana and immediately he fell flat before Ragavendra Swāmī and he instead of, he donated many acres of land to this temple. And it was recorded in the British Gazette.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may be, not impossible, that he was a yogī, and the last line of Prahlāda.

Devotee: But there's one thing which doesn't seem right in what they say. They say that Ragavendra Swāmī had got so much pious activity that it prevented him from going back to Vaikuṇṭha so he's distributing his pious activity to all the people for eight-hundred years so that he can go back to Godhead.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Vaikuṇṭha means Godhead, to go to Godhead is to go to Vaikuṇṭha. But anyhow he chose to stay here for eight-hundred years, it is not impossible with a yogī. If he likes he can live. But why he lived in that fashion? Ordinarily on the surface he could live so many years and help the people, but this is also a particular desire by which he wanted to, wanted him to be led. It is not impossible, maybe. But that is not our concern, our concern is 'what for?' The quality of the things he adopted. There are many other yogīs also, they may live a long, long time, but that is not the necessity for us. The quality in the conception of the theism. Even Lakṣmī Devī, she can't have the mādhyura-rasa service which is available in Vṛndāvana. That sort of thing we want to be connected with.

The Rāmānuja section, they're more concerned with Lakṣmī-Nārāyaṇa, two and a half rasa, not confidential service available in Vaikuṇṭha. Confidential service is only available when we get Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. And that stage of theism is known as Goloka

(a short length of unclear recording)

..... the nearest position of service which is possible only through love divine, very closest connection, of equal position. So much so, when Jayadeva was writing his famous book Gītā-Govinda, in Rādhā-Govinda līlā, he came in such stage of mind. Rādhārāṇī, She is, abhimāna, that She had some reaction in Her sentiment against Kṛṣṇa. That Kṛṣṇa is not giving His due, lovingness, or something, to Her, honour for Her love. She had some reaction, reactionary mood. And Kṛṣṇa trying His best to satisfy Her, so much so, that Kṛṣṇa wants to touch the feet of Rādhārāṇī. But Jayadeva, he can't allow himself to write this: "What is this? These thoughts coming to me, this seems to be too much. How I can, the Supreme God, how I can write that He has come to hold, to touch the feet of Rādhārāṇī?"

rādhe, rādhe, dehi pada-pallavam udāram

("Kṛṣṇa wants the feet-dust of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī.") (Gītā-Govinda, 10.7)

Dehi pada-pallavam udāram, this flow is coming to him, this level, but he can't write it down in black and white. "How I can? The Personality He will in such a lower level that He will bend by touching the feet He'll be propitiated with me, my beloved?" He can't, so he stopped there, went to take his bath leaving there the writing.

In the meantime, Kṛṣṇa came in the figure of Jayadeva and Jayadeva's wife Padma (?), she was there, she was also a very perfect type of devotee. Padma saw a little earlier perhaps her husband has come. Then he took Prasādam, also Padma ate early. Then also he went to the room and he took that book, that paper he was writing, and Padma saw something he did there, and then disappeared. After here and there Padma could not detect, she thought that he is here.

But real Jayadeva came at the time. At that time Padma she's taking the remains after that Jayadeva Kṛṣṇa has taken away, then real Jayadeva came and found that Padma was taking Prasāda. "What is this Padma? You are taking Prasādam ?"

Padma also saw Jayadeva and was astonished: "What is this my lord? You are coming far away now?"

"You are taking Prasādam, I have not taken yet."

"No, no. You came and took Prasādam, and then I am taking the remains. Not only that you also wrote something in the book."

"What I have written? Let me see." He went and enquired that what he faltered to write, could not write. "How can I say that the highest conception of God, 'I want your holy feet to My head?'" He saw it written there:

dehi pada-pallavam udāram, mama sirasi mandana, dehi pada-pallavam udāram

"Please give Your, which is ornamental to My head, give that holy feet to Me."

It is written there. "Padma, you are fortunate, you have seen Kṛṣṇa Himself came in my imitation or something. I am coming now and who came and who took Prasādam from you, your hand, He Himself has taken. So you are fortunate. Jayadeva also began to take.

"What do you do? I have already taken."

"No, no, this has been taken by Himself and you are fortunate, let me also have the share."

So, such closer relationship, closest relationship is possible to get by the way of fault (?). Possible has been shown, but we don't think that we will be in any day we shall have progress to that that audacity may not come to touch our mind, then it will be a great offence. But the Lord to His beloved devotee shows such humiliation, it is recorded. It is possible, such anurāga, the love divine is such a powerful thing. Śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā:

(kleśa-ghnī śubhadā mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt sudurllabhā sāndrānandaviśeṣātmā, śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā) ("Uttamā-bhakti, the purest devotion, is the vanquisher of all sin and ignorance, and the bestower of all auspiciousness; liberation is belittled in the presence of such devotion, which is very rarely attained, the embodiment of the deepest ecstasy, and the attractor of Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself.") (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrvva, 1.17)

So many effects we can get through devotion and the highest is that we can draw, we catch Kṛṣṇa, attract Him to be submissive to the devotees in any way and every way. This is the force of the anurāga. The way to approach to the Lord through the affection, through love divine. Love means sacrifice for Him. Everything for Himself. Through the science we are to understand that and the degree of sacrifice will be infinitely higher and the response also will come from that direction like that.

End of side A, 24th & 25th May, 1983. side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: even a great scholar when he's going to teach a child he must have to come into the lower position of a child and to educate him, or her. So the whole religious representation they have got such consideration, that these persons they must be allowed to eat anything and everything and to do something and we must be satisfied. When that course is finished then they will have a birth in a proper soil and then get higher chance of religious realisation. In the organic whole some sort of connection one must have with the other and everything is all right.

From Islam, Christianity, everything has got its place, either direct or indirect, some will help us direct and some from indirect. Everything has got its purpose and the principal is the Absolute which can harmonise everything. Even stealing and lying, that has also got position. Position means respectable position in the Absolute system. And in Kṛṣṇa-līlā only that sort of peculiar harmony is seen.

He's lying and devotees are also lying, then stealing, ha ha, they're conscious they're stealing. Everything belongs to Him so really no stealing if we do it on His behalf. He's the Absolute Master of everything so if I use anything for His cause, no stealing. He has got Absolute Right over everything, that is rather, but still, stealing has got a peculiar process due to it, that is in Vṛndāvana only, parakīyā. It does not belong to me.

Just as a family head, everything belongs to him, still, he may say, the guardian may say to his child: "Give me your pen my boy," or the play ball, "give your play ball to me." It belongs to him but in the absolute sense everything belongs to the guardian of the family.

That is the only way to harmonious life, harmony, synthesis. In our body, if a finger or any smallest part, if they work for their own selfish ends there will be a clash in the interest of the whole. If the finger says: "I shall work for me and I shall work for the palm only," greater selfishness, greater extended selfishness, then there will be clash. But when every atom of the body will say: "We shall work for the welfare of the whole body," then only will the body be healthy and wholesome. Otherwise if any selfish attempt, provincialism, or localism, these are all diseases. It will hamper the cause of the whole. So faithfully we must work for the whole, nothing less. Then there will be diseased part. Just as if you pour water into the root, the whole tree is fed. If you put food into the stomach, the whole body is fed. So whatever energy you have can command the whole for the centre, Acyuta.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

This is the key to success in life. Nothing less than that. Not that I shall be master, subduing the whole environment. "I'm monarch of all I survey." Fascism or democracy or anything, but it will go against, "only human body will live and other bodies will be kept without their food," this is not. It is a very deplorable life that you live in the plane of exploitation, without exploitation we cannot live for a moment. Only with the breath, then with steps, so many small insects with the water, we are causing death, that is pain to so many living bodies. The trees, everything, they have also got feelings. Causing disturbance, creating pain, our existence means to create pain and the reaction must come for us, action reaction.

So cent-per-cent surrendered life, and not for country nor for society nor for humanity, but for the Absolute. For the conception of the highest Absolute has been found in Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. The beauty, the harmony, the ecstasy, the sweetness, the charm. Charm attracts, that attraction is service, that is surrender. Everything surrenders to the beauty, he's to charm, submit, unconscious of his own. We must sacrifice unto that function. Be worshipper of the beauty, serve the beauty.

Satyam-śivam-sundaram, its good that harmony is beauty, harmony means samañjasā, harmony means samañjasā, adjustment, proper adjustment, proper adjustment is beauty. No complaint, everyone's demand met there, unconscious of his own self, charmed by the beauty, the purest of the pure. Forgetful, self-forgetfulness in beauty we find so forgetfulness.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Self-sacrifice and self-forgetfulness, that is said to be of higher conception. Self- forgetfulness is considered as higher to self-sacrifice, subtle difference.

Devotee: What is the difference?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In sacrifice one is conscious of himself and s/he's doing, s/he's giving something consciously. "I am giving something for some cause." But self- forgetfulness in the plenary movement, s/he's giving something, s/he's moving, but s/he's been wholly captured by the interest of the whole, gopī stage. Deha-smṛti nāhi yāra, saṁsāra-kūpa kāhāṇ tāra, tāhā haite nā cāhe uddhāra:

deha-smṛti nāhi yāra, saṁsāra-kūpa kāhāṇ tāra, tāhā haite nā cāhe uddhāra viraha-samudra-jale, kāma-timiṅgile gile, gopī-gaṇe neha' tāra pāra

(Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu continued: "The gopīs are fallen in the great ocean of separation, and they are being devoured by the timiṅgila fish, which represent their ambition to serve You. The gopīs are to be delivered from the mouths of these timiṅgila fish, for they are pure devotees. Since they have no material conception of life, why should they aspire for liberation? The gopīs do not want that liberation desired by the yogīs and jñānīs, for they are already liberated from the ocean of material existence.")(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.142)

"We do not care for us, no separate interest. If Kṛṣṇa is satisfied we do not care for our condition. We are not conscious of our own existence."
Deha-smṛti nāhi yāra, who has got no conception of his own body. Then, saṁsāra-kūpa kāhāṇ tāra, the debt of this material world, the hell, all these things, are nothing for him, he's not conscious of his own body

(a short length of unclear recording)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's our revered Lord, we shall give feet dust to Him? No, no, no, it is not possible. You give your feet dust."

Then Nārada came back disappointed. "What? Nārada, have you got?

"No, none would give it."

"No one, approaching to remove My difficulty? So much affection for Me they all show. You go to Vṛndāvana Nārada, you can with your yogīc, mystic powers, you can go immediately."

Nārada came, all the gopīs connected: "Oh, you are coming from Dvārakā? How Kṛṣṇa is doing?"

"Now He's suffering temporarily from a very bad headache and only the feet dust of the devotees can cure Him."

"So there is so many devotees, you all are there and you can't give it?"
"No, no, none ventured to give feet dust so I am sent here."

"So, feet dust you have come to collect here, is that so?" "Yes."

"You all come, we don't know who is the devotee but still you come and give your feet dust and mine, what else, you take it."

Nārada was struck dumb. "All other pure devotees they deny, and you are coming so earnestly to offer your feet dust."

"We do not care for us, eternal hell, we don't care for that. Let Him get satisfaction even for a moment. At the cost of our whole life's future His instant pleasure has got more value."

Such degree of sacrifice, self-forgetfulness for the cause, for the centre, so much conscious of the benefit or pleasure of the centre, self-forgetfulness. They do not care for their society, nor for scripture, nor for any religious conception. Kṛṣṇa is all-in-all. So much wholesale attraction. Suicidal squad, suicidal squad.

Gaurasundara. Gaurasundara. Gaurasundara.

High talks, but how much we are prepared for this.

Mahāprabhu began to take the name of "Gopī, gopī, gopī," in a time of His trance. And some paṇḍit scholars that hold some social position said: "You, Nimāi Paṇḍit, You are a big paṇḍit, and now you a devotee but that does not matter, but why do You take the name of Gopī, gopī, gopī ? Take the Name of Kṛṣṇa. That will fetch something for You, we are told in the scripture. But You are taking gopī, gopī, what effect You will get? You are mad."

Then Mahāprabhu, ha, ha, there was a stick and with that stick He chased them. "Oh, Nimāi Paṇḍit has become stark mad. We went to speak something good to Him and He came with a stick to kill us. We are not sons of ordinary men, we have got our position, our family dignity. We will save Him." They began to make conspiracy that, "Nimāi Paṇḍit should be given a good beating, a good lesson He must be taught."

Then Mahāprabhu suddenly cried out:

korila pippalikhandā kapha nibārite ulatīyā āro kapha baḍila dehete

("Oh, I came to make a drastic treatment of the cold, but I see that what I came to give, that has an opposite reaction. The highest type of medicine I administered, but I find that the patient is such, that this is increasing his disease. Then what to do? I came to work out relief for the people, and the people they are standing against Me, the well-wisher, the relief giver. Then, what may be the remedy for them?")

"I took the greatest measure to deliver these wretched souls, but I see that more sin is being collected, I'm rather creating more sins in the public. They're abusing Me and they're making conspiracy to punish Me. What for I came and such is going to be effective. So I shall have to take the role of a sannyāsī. I am one of them, a gr̥hastha, a householder, but if I become a sannyāsī, a preacher, then they may have some respect for Me. They'll say: "We are all householder's, He has become sannyāsī, He should be revered." Then from that reverence they will get some benefit, otherwise they will have to go to hell, thinking that I am their : "Oh, He's my maternal brother, or paternal brother." In this way they're thinking so I have to take some steps in such a way that they will have to come to revere Me. I'm to take the role of a sannyāsī."

And He told to Nityānanda and very few disciples, the warning to take sannyāsa on the last day of this Pauṣa month (December-January) and He went to Katwa and took sannyāsa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, I have one question. He took sannyāsa from Keśava Bharatī. Is it because there were no advanced Vaiṣṇavas at that time?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not that, immediately what a sannyāsī veśa (external garb), at that time the Śaṅkara school was holding a respectable position of the theists. So He took sannyāsa, and also He gave mantram to Keśava Bharatī: "That this mantram I have got in My dream so I can see what this will do."

Keśava Bharatī told: "Yes, this is the truth."

So He first gave to Keśava Bharatī and Keśava Bharatī he gave Him that. And in the form no so much formality he gave in the form of sannyāsa, a preacher only, the role of a preacher not in mantram especially. Just as Kṛṣṇa accepted Sāndīpani Muni as a Guru. For Him it was a fashion, formal thing only, not real help to be got from the Guru, rather the Guru was converted into disciple after this function.

Only He wanted to enter the group of the preachers. The Śaṅkara sannyāsīs, they felt the prestige of the sannyāsa school enter and with that advantage began to take, took sannyāsa.

When He went to Benares that was the headquarters of the sannyāsīs of the Śaṅkara school. And when He met first the leader of the sannyāsī group, Prakāśānanda Sarasvatī, he addressed Him: "You are sannyāsī of our group but why don't You meet us? We are here, You come and step, sit along with us."

"No, I am the worst type of sannyāsī. I have no courage to take my seat along with you, you are so respectable sannyāsīs."

Attack from the negative side. He was invited in some party and He went and took His seat in a very lower place, the place where they're washing their feet. He took His seat nearby, and taking the Name and they're discussing about so 'ham, and He's modestly taking the Name in the place.

Then after casting his eyes to the appearance of Śrī Caitanyadeva, Prakāśānanda, who was boasting so much before, he was captivated: "Oh, such a figure, beautiful, stern, and no trace of any egoism there. Very, very simple, candid, won't go about that He has come to conquer, nothing of the type. So simple that it's desirable for us, for everyone to acquire such temperament." So Prakāśānanda was disarmed. "In this figure, there cannot be any cheating tendency. It is plain, simple, grand and divine." So he himself came, the leader of the Śaṅkara school, from the high position and went there. "Why You take Your seat here? You belong to our group, Śaṅkara group, sannyāsī Keśava Bharatī's group disciples belong to our group."

"No, I am a mean fellow. I can't venture to take my position as you are so big."

"No, no, no, that cannot be, You must come. Then I ask one question of You. Before I heard that the great paṇḍit Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya was converted by You, and You dance and chant and take Prasādam of high preparation. This does not behove a sannyāsī to take, so I thought You are a magician, You can capture anybody and everybody like hypnotising. But now after looking at Your body I cannot but think that You have no bad motive anywhere for Your dealings, plain, simple. Then I ask one question to You: Why don't You, as a follower of Śaṅkara school sannyāsī, then why don't You discuss about Vedānta?"

"I'm not up in that higher type of scholar. Guru asked Me, You have not got such scholarship to understand what is the purport of Vedānta, You go on taking the Name."

"All right, You may take the Name, that is not bad, but why do You dance and in a mad way show so many symptoms, all these things?"

"I do not do it Myself. It is written in the scripture. When these sort of feelings came in Me I went to My Guru and asked: "What is this? I'm taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa, I cannot contain Myself, so many feelings come and make Me dance and cry and move this way that way in a mad way." I asked My Gurudeva and he told: "You are most fortunate man in this world. It is mentioned in the scripture that real devotion will produce such symptoms in one's mind and body. So You are fortunate and I also consider myself fortunate that I have got the disciplic connection with You." He told Me this: "Go on taking the Name."

"Then the Vedānta consideration that is not necessary?"

"No, it is not necessary, the Name can do anything and everything."

In this way the discussion began and Prakāśānanda could not put his point against His argument, then he was down, anyhow that day finished.

Another day, Mahāprabhu was engaged in kīrtaṇa in the Bhindu-Madhava Temple and one of the disciples of Prakāśānanda told: "Oh, Śrī Caitanyadeva is chanting and dancing in the next temple, if you like to see, let us go there." They all came and saw that wonderful dancing and chanting the Name in His trance, they're all charmed. And from then they gave up abusing Śrī Caitanya's extraordinary Personality. Only from that connection the leader of the group came to see Him. But in that unassuming feature, no assertive nature to be traced there in that simple and noble figure, nothing crooked or any trace of any policy. He's plain and simple as truth is embodied and found. He was converted.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Some say he was converted and took the name of Prabhodhānanda and lived in Vṛndāvana, some are of that opinion. But our line, Guru Mahārāja, did not. That Sisir Ghosh, Founder of Amṛta Bazaar, he's of that opinion, but our Guru Mahārāja discarded that. That Prabhodhānanda was Tuṅgavidyā incarnation, one of the eight sakhīs of Rādhārāṇī, he cannot be a māyāvādī.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

He was always a scholar of moderate type and was a (prakash smarta ?) something atheist type. His tutor, he was tutor of his (family life, mangala (?))

When after returning from Goyā, Mahāprabhu was interpreting and teaching the grammar, giving interpretation of Kṛṣṇa-Nāma, Kṛṣṇa-Nāma, all related to Kṛṣṇa, explaining grammar of Sanskrit. Then the students, they thought that for which we have come to learn as grammar from Him, it is not going to satisfy coaching we got from Him, Nimāi Paṇḍit, that's never to be had anywhere. We can't abandon Him immediately, can't leave Him. But how to improve the style of teaching?" So they went to see His early teacher, Gangadāsa Paṇḍita. "Nimāi Paṇḍit, we are very much pleased by reading under His care, but now after coming from Gayā He's explaining everything in Kṛṣṇa-Nāma. Though that is very valuable but for which we have come to learn, no effect of that. So if you please may influence Him."

Gangadāsa told: "Oh, you ask Him to see me."

And the students told Nimāi Paṇḍit that: "Gangadāsa Paṇḍita, Your previous teacher, he wants to see You."

And Nimāi Paṇḍit went to him, paid His respect.

And Gangadāsa asked: "How are You." All these things. "I'm very happy You went to Gayā and You have offered piṇḍam to Your predecessors, very good." All these things. But why don't You teach Your students in the previous way, they all appreciate Your teachings. But now after coming from Gayā You are taking a novel style of teaching. So don't do so, I say properly teach them. You have become a devotee I hear from the people, but whether Your father's forefathers, were they not devotees? You have become devotee of newest type, so don't go astray, remain calm and follow Your predecessors and teach well the boys so I do not have to hear in future any complain against You. Your students they won't go to any other school, they are very fond of You, so teach them well I say."

Mahāprabhu told: "By the dint of your foot dust, who can give challenge to Me, to the teachings?" All these things. "You remain satisfied, I shall teach them well."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Today is the day of Advent of Nṛsimhadeva. He's supposed to, He's eternally in Vaikuṇṭha. Only He came down here on a particular day to relieve His devotee to save from trouble, and hence we all are after Him if any obstacles or hindrances in the path of devotion.

"My Lord, You saved Prahlāda, so we also file petition to You to do away with all the obstacles that may come in our way when we try with our small capacity to approach towards the Supreme. Naturally there may be many difficulties on the path and You are gracious enough to remove the great difficulty in the case of Prahlāda Mahārāja. So we also expect hope that You will also remove all the thorns that may be fallen in our path towards the object of our aspiration.

Kṛṣṇa, without grace in my past history I must have done many things which will come against me and the illusory energy in general that also won't allow me without clearing the debts that I incurred in so many previous lives under her control. So You are the only saviour if You come to our help then easily all these things may be managed and we may pass over to our desired end. So be specially gracious on us.

So Nṛsiṃhadeva to do away with the difficulties that may come in the way of our progress. And He generally helps the devotees in that way. So particularly with this idea that my little capital that may bring some success by Your grace. I am nothing. So many difficulties sure to stand in my way to check my progress Everywhere that cannot be, because He does not show Himself to me, so I shall say that He is not, He does not exist, that is suicidal. I cannot see many things, I cannot hear many types of sounds. Our jurisdiction of our senses, the jurisdiction of the knowledge of our senses is very, very, limited. Many things are not within our experience, so those things must not be left. God exists eternally everywhere. Still we can't feel Him.

pasyami yoga maysharam maya dada midam satvam jagat ud bhakta?

And I shall go to Yaśodāmāyī and complain against You and You must remember His whip. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Deep vision in the extreme causal stage, surveying the extreme causal stage of every incident, deeply founded, not surveying the surface, not satisfied with reading the surface, but the depth like a politician. Politician does not look at the surface, but at the depth. What is the cause of this dissatisfaction, of this movement, must be deeper something. So the deepest inspection of the environment should be like that, that everything coming, flowing from Him and He is friendly. Ha ha. Nothing to complain against the ultimate cause, then, I am to adjust for peaceful life. I do not find peace in my life, and the cause is within me, not outside. That is the direction.

One German scholar told, the Bhagavad-gītā has hammered here, incidentally, Bhagavad-gītā is hammering on this point. Don't care for the result, consequence, concentrate wholesale yourself on your duty, how to discharge your duty, your quota, wholesale concentration there and never on the result, consequence, never allow yourself to be in relativity with the consequence. The whole attention, cent per cent, must be engaged in discharging your duty, your quota. That will be the basis of final, peaceful, adjustment. You will be able to find peace everywhere if you adjust yourself in this way.

Oil your own machine and don't go to oil machines that are outside. Oil your own machine. Leave the rest to the all, to the whole, represented by the whole, who represents the whole.

karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana

mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi

"I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties." (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47)

At the same time don't leave your duty, what you feel to be your duty, you must do that, otherwise you will be paralysed like the Śāṅkarites or Buddhists. Your dynamic characteristic must be maintained at any cost. You're infinitesimal small part, and you do your same small duty. Concentrate wholesale there, don't allow yourself to be paralysed. Do your duty. 'When I have got no right in the fruit, in the result, consequence, then why shall I do,' don't be misguided by this insane tendency. Be active, fully, but whole energy must be in your duty there, fully awake to your duty. Don't allow yourself to go to sleep, dullness, apathy. There you will find the relativity of the perfect world standing firmly in your centre.

Lord Brahmā says: "One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8)

This is the advice of Bhāgavatam and Gītā, Gītā the basis, and Bhāgavatam the result. The positive side, it is goodness, around, only you are self-deceptor, you are deceiver of yourself, the wrong is in your vision. The environment is all right. You are the culprit yourself and the whole universe, they should be engaged to perfect your own self, to undisease your own self, to cure yourself, that is what is necessary. Sitting at home you will find everything else come to you, sitting at home? Rather you will wander back to God, back to home. To go from present ego, we say that conception means to go to God's land, where everything is good. It is all for the best, that maxim, it is all for the best.

Best, beloved best. "He plays best who loved best." In Coleridge's "Ancient Mariner", it is in "Ancient Mariner", this topic, one of three, "By thy graveyard and with glittering eye", in this way begins, Coleridge, "Ancient Mariner", the moral in the last. "He playeth best who loveth best, because the dear God who creates all, is beloved to all."

Or something like that.

Devotee: "He playeth best who loveth best, all creatures great and small."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "For the real God who creates all, He hears and loveth all." Something like that. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Farewell, farewell, but this I tell To thee, thou wedding guest!

He prayeth well, who loveth well Both man and bird and beast.

He prayeth best, who loveth best All things both great and small; For the dear God who loveth us, He made and loveth all. (Samuel Taylor Coleridge - 1772-1834)

Ha ha ha. So you are reminded that is your reward. You are reminded about Gaura Kīśora Dāsa Bābāj Mahārāja. "Well Kṛṣṇa I shall lodge a complaint to Yaśodāmayī against You, You are at the back of all this mischief. What wrong I have done? You are setting all these towards me, why? I shall have, I shall intimate to Yaśodāmayī, then You will have to feel the consequence of Your act." How it is harmonised, everything as this, only Yaśodāmayī has been taken in, and everything harmonised. "You are naughty, it is well known, and Yaśodāmayī knows the best and how to treat You, because so many complaints always used to come to Her, and She knows how to deal with You, You naughty boy."

vraje prasiddham nava-nīta-cauram, gopāṅganānām ca dukūla-cauram sarvasya cauram ke, caurāgragāṇyam puruṣam namāmi

There is a śloka, eight ślokas, or such: vraje prasiddham: "You are the thief of the fast water " One says. caurāgraganyaṁ puruṣaṁ: "The thief of thieves You are, and I bow down to You. How? What sort of thief? vraje prasiddham nava-nīta-cauraṁ: While You were living in Vṛndavana, You were notorious for a butter stealer. The gopī's they prepared butter from the milk and Your habit was to steal that butter from every house almost. You are famous, notorious for that. vraje prasiddham nava-nīta-cauraṁ, gopāṅganānāṁ ca dukūla-cauraṁ: Is it not You that stole the dress of the gopī's while they were taking their bath in the Yamunā River, and keeping their dress on the shore, and You took all those dresses and went up the tree. There You are famous for that, even so shamefully You can take the dresses of the gopī's. sarvasya cauraṁ: And those that are saints, You steal everything from their heart. The sādhus, they come to worship You, and You steal the heart from their body. caurāgraganyaṁ puruṣaṁ namāmi. So You are a notorious thief, and I show my respect to You."

Devotee: Where's that śloka from, that śloka about Kṛṣṇa the thief, where's that to be found?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't remember.

.....

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, I have a question about Gaura Kiśora Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja. Sometimes in tracing the śikṣa-paramparā, people may see that Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura, he had a very deep relationship with Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and they may try to minimise the position of Śrīla Gaura Kiśora Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, so I was just curious to know, what would be his special contribution to our sampradāya ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His contribution is Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī.

Devotees: (loud group laughter).

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When Bon Mahārāja came back from England then he also accused Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura: "That what you know, all that won't be acceptable, or not a contribution proper to the western civilised person. These things won't be appreciated there, so this is no knowledge proper." In this way, he accused our Guru Mahārāja. "There are so many defects in you." In this way.

Then Guru Mahārāja disarmed, attacked by the disciple in such a way he felt helpless, and he uttered at that time: "That what do you say, this is not the real path in which you have come? My gurudeva Gaura Kīśora Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, externally he has no knowledge, even he could not sign his own name. But we saw that in the nail of his feet, all knowledge is present, bhayanakhaṇḍa ? Only in the nail of his toe we found all knowledge, and what do you say this against you own gurudeva."

And there was Professor Sanyal, (Professor Nisikanta Sanyal, M.A., Bhaktishastri, Senior Professor of History Ravenshaw College, Cuttack), he caught him almost by the throat: "You fool, you do not know anything, why have you come in this way. Why do you think that you are a great wise man, you know everything? That is all false. So long what did you hear here? The knowledge of the experience, that has got no value, that is only temporary." In this way Sanyal came and attacked Bon Mahārāja and disarmed him.

But Guru Mahārāja he was from the direct attack to what you will do him, he told like that: "That my Guru Mahārāja from the external consideration, he did not know even how to sign his own name. But we found that in the nail of his toe the whole knowledge is there."

So by knowledge one may, eliminating all these things, one may keep a diamond, eliminating so many things, a diamond, which may have the value of so many things. So the highest knowledge, that the property, knowledge, everything, is jñāna-sunya-bhakti, prema, love.

śreyān dravyamayād yajñāj, jñāna-yajñaḥ parantapa sarvaṁ karmākhilam pārtha, jñāne parisamāpyate

"O Arjuna, subduer of the enemy, the sacrifice of knowledge is far superior to the sacrifice of various articles of material possessions, because all action ultimately culminates in transcendental knowledge."
(Bhagavad-gītā, 4.33)

bahūnāṁ janmanām ante, jñānavān mām prapadyate vāsudevaḥ sarvaṁ
iti, sa mahātmā sudurlabhaḥ

"After many, many births and deaths, one who is actually in knowledge surrenders unto Me, knowing Me to be the cause of all causes and all that is. Such a great soul is very rare."(Bhagavad-gītā, 7.19)

.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Can you feel?

Devotee: Knowledge is undesirable?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, undesireable, jñāna-sunya-bhakti, knowledge is unnecessary.

Devotee: Generally we think that knowledge will be helpful to us.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But for finite it is impossible to know the Infinite, the infinite type of nature. And specially the Infinite is not static, it is dynamic, it can change its nature at every moment. Your past estimation, that may not stand in the future. Do you follow? In that case, soul, knowledge:

jñāne prayāsam udapāśya namanta eva jīvanti san-mukharitām
bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vāñ-manobhir ye
prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām

Lord Brahmā said to the Supreme Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa: "Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes (kathā), which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3)

Bhāgavat comes to say that: "Give up your attempt in investigation about the Infinite. Give up that. It won't bear any fruit ultimately. Try to establish friendly connection with the Absolute. He's all free, and He is always free, He can change His position at any moment. He cannot come within your knowledge. What you see, that sometimes He is this, next moment He may say 'oh He is not that.' It is possible, so don't go because that attempt will be futile. It will be a waste of energy, to know about such things. You cannot be the subject of this. He's Super-subjective. As a subject you cannot reach that stage that you will be able to make the Super-subject as your object. But it is the higher knowledge, that can't come, won't come to be the object of your knowledge, it is impossible, so don't go wild goose chasing, waste of energy. jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva. Try to connect relation of friendship, that is the wholesome utilisation of everything. Negotiate only through love and affection, that is safe way, position, and knowledge, that will frustrate you, it will play treachery with you.

Because He is not, He is svarāṭ, cārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ. Self sufficient autocrat. What estimation will you have about an autocrat? He can do anything, He is not under law. Your knowledge means to bring Him under law, but He's above law, He's the creator of law, so your knowledge will be futile. It won't pay. Only cent per cent of your energy, devote to establish a relationship of affection towards Him. That will be helpful really.

So Bhāgavat has discouraged knowledge, and exploited the waves of energy, only don't depend on energy, that may be, if without reason, that may be missing, energy may be missing, and it produces a result that will harm you, so your half knowledge will harm you. But autocrat, no knowledge is possible. He's above law. Your knowledge will require you try to bring Him under law but He's above law, svarāṭ, So it won't be of any good to you. Give up, only try to connect in the way of affection, that can only help you in your improvement in the end of your life. Prepare for that, sevā, that is the only proper function, proper relation between you and Him only, the Autocrat can be controlled only through love. One who is free, He can be controlled only through love, so die to live.

Gaura Hari bol.

End of side A, start of side B. (29.5.83)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That gentleman, the disciple of Rasika Mahārāja is here?

Will you stay here today and take Prasādam here?

Devotee: I am suffering very much from dysentery, I'm very weak.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So your diet should be very particular, some curd you may take. Are you taking soft rice?

Devotee: In the Brahma-Vaivarta-Purāṇa, Gaṇeśa Khaṇḍa, I read the Paraśurāma Mahārāja history. So I read that Lord Śiva gave to him kavach, a Kṛṣṇa kavach. So at the last time when I came to England, there was a devotee, Indian devotee who told me, that in this age of Kali-yuga the only kavach who is really potent is Nṛsimha kavach. So I want to ask Guru Mahārāja about, is this true about these kavach, it is supposed to give to anyone who is Kṛṣṇa kavach ?

Devotee: He read in Brahma-Vaivarta-Purāṇa, Gaṇeśa Khaṇḍa, that one kavach was given by Lord Śiva to Paraśurāma, Kṛṣṇa kavach. And he's also heard that in the Kali-yuga, only the Nṛsimha kavach is possible to accept, so particularly can he accept this? Is it correct or not? Is it necessary or practical?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This kavach affair that is something external. The mantram and the Nāma, that is all useful, and all-powerful, and the kavach has to help externally in that affair, but of some minor important thing. The Nāma, the Lord's Name, and the Lord whose Name it is, one and the same, and that is enough. Here to help. We can accept, but not very important thing, Kṛṣṇa kavach, or Nṛsimha kavach, we may accept to help our bhajana, but not at the cost of the faith in the Name Divine. Nāma-bhajana, that is the best of all, and even this mantram, to help Nāma-bhajana.

krṣṇa-mantra haite habe saṁsāra mocana krṣṇa-nāma haite pābe
krṣṇera caraṇa

"Simply by chanting the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa one can obtain freedom from material existence. Indeed, simply by chanting the Hare Kṛṣṇa mantra one will be able to see the lotus feet of the Lord."

"In the Anubhāṣya, Śrīla Bhaktisiddhanta Saraswatī Goswāmī says that the actual effect that will be visible as soon as one achieves transcendental knowledge is that he will immediately become free from the clutches of māyā and fully engage in the service of the Lord." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 7.73 + beginning of purport)

So the Name, Nāma-bhajana, is the highest thing, and with whole concentration we shall stick to that. And to see other things, look for other things to help this, that may be allowed to certain extent, but not much attention should be given to those external... protection, dress, something like that. That is not much harm if you take Kṛṣṇa kavach, or Nṛsimha kavach. They will come to help my Nāma-bhajana life, in this way. But that generally means that external difficulty may not come to me, to protect me from this external difficulty. But the extreme devotees of Kṛṣṇa, they won't be afraid of external difficulties, rather they may invite them, like Queen Kuntī Devī. "External dangers may come and attack me, I don't care for them, I shall go on."

But this kavach means to be protected from the superficial difficulty, generally it is meant for that. There is some, karmuna ? but that is to help the good, so it may be acceptable, but still in the highest form of bhajana, everything is depending on His will, whether I am being in danger, or in happiness, I shall go on with my Nāma-bhajana, uncaring, without any care for the external condition that may come to me according to my previous karma. I may be in the hell, or I may be in the heaven, or anywhere. I won't waste my energy to any other direction but I will go on with my Nāma-bhajana. They may come with their extreme power to disturb me, like Prahlāda Mahārāja and many others, but I don't care. I won't pray to Kṛṣṇa for favourable circumstances. I shall utilise my energy best towards that and I shall want from Him that Your sweet will may be victorious. You can make or mar.

mārobi rākhobi yo icchā tohārā, nitya-dāsa prati tuwā adhikārā

"Slay me or protect me as You wish, for You are the master of Your eternal servant." (The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 13)

"If it is necessary for Your sweet enjoyment to kill me, You can do that, I am a slave, You have got every right over me, doing everything and anything." With this idea we are to approach towards Him of the highest quality, the quality of our bhajana should be in that. "I'm not seeking any other comfort in our way of bhajana." From any, from Him also from Kṛṣṇa: "You create a protection, I am going towards You, please manage for my protection." Won't, the purest type of bhajana. "You may do whatever You like. I want Your Name, Your service, Your sweet will may be satisfied by me, I want that, self forgetfulness in the service of Kṛṣṇa. Total self forgetfulness only in the whole concentration, how I can satisfy

You. And what troubles will come over me on the way, I must not deviate my attention from that main point, to all these outer necessities.

Then the quality will be less, and intensity will also be less, if we are very eager to maintain our safety when we are passing through the way, uncared for, as much as possible. I want Your satisfaction, and one must be self forgetful in that attempt, as much as possible, but according to the capacity, adhikāra, they may have some protection on the way, that is, may be tolerated, may be tolerated, not the highest danger, the protection on the way. I'm going to You, please protect me on the way, manage to protect me, it is Your sweet will I want."

Devotee: Yagubhandu, disciple of Śrī Raśikānanda Bon Mahārāja.

Devotee: Nitāi Gaura Haribol Mahārāja.

Devotee: Bengali you don't speak, no? No. He has come from Scotland, but from which place have you just come?

Devotee: Jagannātha Purī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, Jagannātha Purī, his original home is in Scotland. Now you come from Calcutta, you are living there in Bon Mahārāja's centre in Calcutta? Who else is there? Raśikānanda Mahārāja is there?

Devotee: Raśikānanda Mahārāja is now in Vṛndāvana. A recent sannyāsī, he took sannyāsa only two months ago. Brajānanda Mahārāja is there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And where is Keśavānanda Mahārāja?

Devotee: Kesavananda Mahārāja he is north of Delhi somewhere, I don't know exactly where he is.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And you have said the answer of the previous question. I want to say that Mahāprabhu lived in Purī eighteen years, continuously, and the first six years, the devotees from different parts visit Him from Bengal, went to visit Him during Ratha-yatra. Then Advaita Ācārya gave a letter, a note to Mahāprabhu.

bāulake kahiha - loka ha - ila bāula, bāulake kahiha - hāṭe nā vikāya cāula bāulake kahiha - kāye nāhika āula, bāulake kahiha - ihā kahiyāche bāula

"Tell our Prabhu, who acts as madmen do, that everyone has lost their sanity, And rice once high in price has no value.

In love of God, half-crazed humanity neglects this world and all they once held dear; tell Him a madman brings this to His ear." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 19. 20-1)

(Just before Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu began to manifest His final pastimes of divine ecstasy, Advaita Ācārya Prabhu wrote these mystic lines of poetry, which He sent to Mahāprabhu, through Jagadānanda Paṇḍita. When Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu read that mystic poem, His mood became serious. Svarūpa Dāmodara was there: "What is written here?" he said. Mahāprabhu replied: "I do not know what is the real meaning, but Advaita Ācārya is a great 'worshipper,' and a certain class of 'worshippers' are accustomed to think: 'We shall invite the Deity, and for some time we shall try to keep Him here for worship. Then, when we are finished with our worship, finally we shall bid Him adieu.' Perhaps Advaita thinks, 'Now it is time for the Deity to go.' I don't know what is the real meaning, but perhaps this is his purpose."

Svarūpa Dāmodara took the poem, read it, and became very thoughtful: "Oh, Advaita Prabhu is saying that the requirements for Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu's appearance have been fulfilled, and now, He is no longer needed to preach the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa as the incarnation of this age. The avatāra's duty is finished, and so He may go.")

And after that the Bengal party, generally, did not go to visit Purī and Mahāprabhu. Twelve years, twelve years they could not attend Rathayatra ceremony as they did before. That does not mean they left Mahāprabhu. Physically did not go, but still, twelve years, Mahāprabhu, He came with Svarūpa Dāmodara and Rāmānanda Rāya. But the general public of the appreciators of Mahāprabhu, they could not visit Him in general. That does not mean that Mahāprabhu's position was lowered. His position would be judged from another standpoint because in the, we don't think that He lost the charm of the public appreciation. So external things must not come to judge the internal value.

And what is his present enquiry?

Devotee: I'm interested in astrology. So in my studies I make some charts for the devotees, so I see the charts like a photograph of the karma of these persons. So what's the use of astrology in devotional service in a person, in a devotee? Does it have some use, or not?

Devotee: What is the use of astrology for devotees? He has been studying astrology because his gurudeva requested him to study Hindu astrology, but he wants to know what is the use of this astrology for devotees?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just as general education, and the other things are necessary for money, and this learning, and this credit, and other physical strengths may be utilised for the purpose of preaching. So it is subsidiary, not all important thing. Generally mass is attracted by the astrological statement, and in that way, to capture them, and to gradually convert them.

Just as Tamal Kṛṣṇa told that: "In China, I shall go and open a hostel, and then men will come, and I shall be alert to capture them, to say."

So that is not śuddha-bhakti (pure devotion), ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ (favourable), what is thought to be. For just as Haridāsa Nāmācārya, he used to give sweets to the boys, and then ask them to take the Name of the Lord, distributed sweets and you say Kṛṣṇa, something like that. The astrology, to create some confidence in them, that this man is super class, so I must, may be disciple to him, and then gradually to take him towards the real path. ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, It may be ānukūl, favourable step.

What to speak of all these things, even knowledge, learning and vairāgya means abnegation, indifference, what is vairāgya ? Renunciation nature, that is also not a part of real devotion, Vairāgya means abnegation, I don't want anything. No taste for all the worlds things. Only suppose taking Prasādam once, no dress, nothing of the kind, this vairāgya, vairāg, the indifference to everything in this world. And knowledge, jñāna, vairāgya, which is the real property of the yogī and the jñāni school, that is not a part and parcel of devotion, what to speak of other things. jñāna vairajyadhi.

na jñānaṁ na ca vairāgyaṁ, prāyaḥ śreyo bhaved iha - (S-B, 11.20.31) vāsudeve bhagavati bhakti-yogaḥ prayojitaḥ, janayaty āśu vairāgyaṁ jñānañ ca - (S-B, 1.2.7)

tasmān mad-bhakti-yuktasya, yogino vai mad-ātmanaḥ na jñānaṁ na ca vairāgyaṁ, prāyaḥ śreyo bhaved iha

"The practice of dry gnosticism and stoic abnegation (jñāna and vairāgya) are unnecessary, and generally cannot be beneficial, for the faithful devotee who dedicates his heart and all his activities to the service of My lotus feet." (Even if jñāna and vairāgya are superficial employed in a preliminary stage, they are nonetheless not to be considered integral parts of pure devotion, which stands independently in her divine super-excellence). (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.20.31)

vāsudeve bhagavati bhakti-yogaḥ prayojitaḥ janayaty āśu vairāgyaṁ jñānañ ca yad ahaitukam

"If somehow with the help of the scriptures and His agents, the devotees or saints, we can develop our devotion, bhakti, then, the proper knowledge and proper apathy towards worldly substances will follow us." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.7)

Real jñāna, vairāgya, will come as a consequence of bhakti, as a result of devotion, the proper abnegation, and proper knowledge will come. Otherwise ordinary knowledge, and ordinary apathy towards the worldly things, they can't create devotion proper, in empirical method. By trying self-abnegation, or by learning these worldly things, gradually I shall attain bhakti, no, but bhakti, bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā.

sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulakāṁ tanum

"The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti-yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, and thus, even within this world, their spiritual bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end."(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31)

Bhakti is the cause of bhakti. Devotion is its own cause, so when I get the devotion proper, the real bhakti, the real vairāgya, self-abnegation and knowledge will come in its retinue naturally. That will be normal. Otherwise ordinary self-abnegation and renunciation spirit, or knowledge of the worldly matters can never produce what is devotion proper.

So this knowledge of astrology, or any science, like Einstein, and all these mathematics, they may capture ordinary people to him and then to initiate to what is pure devotion to Him. There like bait, ladhu, distributing sweetmeats, and to attract, and then say what is Lord Kṛṣṇa, the sweetest thing is Kṛṣṇa. ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, in that way.

Astronomy may say you try to acquire the knowledge of hypnotism, whoever will come, hypnotise him, and then you give mantram. But that is all artificial. But to capture the mind, to defeat the mental pride of the other party, to crush their vanity, and then to help them to come forward with surrender, with such attraction, then the true thing will be distributed to them. In this way it may be utilised.

Devotee: I am now after three years in sannyāsa āśrama so now I want to ask and I am begging your Divine Grace for some instruction, practical advice for the sannyāsa āśrama.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Keep association of the higher Vaiṣṇava and go on with your duty, always keep in association with the higher Vaiṣṇava, Vaiṣṇava of the higher plane, that is all you take to keep you to supply vitality. Whatever you do, preach, or whatever you do, but all important thing is to keep the vitality within you, and that can come from the different dynamo of the Vaiṣṇava and their association, to keep your life intact and then go on with work. And the vitality diminishes, then everything will go. This spiritual vitality and dynamo, and the supplier is the Vaiṣṇava and when Vaiṣṇava is absent, then the scripture, Gītā Bhāgavatam, all these things, and Gurudeva's writings, Swāmī Mahārāja all these, as available in your language.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Niti Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: Raman Mahārāja seems to be very satisfied with your Divine Grace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right, I consider myself fortunate I can render some service to him.

Devotee: We all consider ourselves fortunate to be at your feet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: I cannot express my satisfaction.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So he is a genuine person. No limit, you are connected with unlimited.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, I'm asking if you would want to send any message of blessings to my Godbrothers in Caracas?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Combined, in a combination? You may ask Virāha Prakāśa Mahārāja that who have got real faith maintained to Pralan? Mahārāja please help them towards that, and let first Pralan Mahārāja come and meet us. We want to know his real position, and then we may approach in that way. Ask Virāha Prakāśa Mahārāja to bring scope to those persons that are maintaining faith in him, in Bon Mahārāja. What do you think? Pralan Mahārāja may come and we understand his position, present, and then we are to take necessary steps how it will be possible. What do you say?

Devotee: I have a contact with a man who is very expert at martial arts, so he wants to be a kṣatriya. But he is in touch with Virāha Prakāśa Mahārāja before, but now he wants to take initiation from Pramana? Swāmī. He is the President of an organisation of kṣatriyas. So I wanted to know what's the conception in the movement about these things?

Devotee: He's asking, Guru Mahārāja. Some influential man, he wants to be a kṣatriya, he likes this kṣatriya dharma, so how would he introduce him to Kṛṣṇa consciousness? He also wants to be a devotee, but not to be a brāhmāṇa, but to be a kṣatriya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṣatriya, that means that they will maintain hunting campaign?

Devotee: Not hunting, but self-defence, martial arts.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To use weapons?

Devotee: Weapons and by hand. He is attracted to mystic power, and he has got mystic power, according to Raman Mahārāja, who is genuine.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As you were asked to learn jyotiṣa, the astronomy, so it may be, it is also again of very lower order, to utilise physical strength to fulfil our purpose, it is of lower order. Mahāprabhu did not accept.

Here also Swāmī Mahārāja when his Maṭh was attacked, Swāmī Mahārāja was inside, he sent kīrtana party outside. "Go and offer yourself to be prey of those goondās (rogues) who came and entered the compound and created some disturbance." He asked his men to "Go out and challenge with kīrtana, disarmed. Go with kīrtana party and offer yourself to be prey of the goondās on you." Then it was subsided thereby.

So thereby showing that Mahāprabhu's weapon is that of passive resistance, not physical attack, offensive for offensive. To show passive attitude to conquer the offensive thing, that will be better, that is the policy of Mahāprabhu.

But when that is not possible in lower stage, one can take that physical help too for self- protection. And sometimes if we see that a Deity, or a Vaiṣṇava is going to be attacked and demolished, then we are justified to do any measure against them. Even the stick, or the gun, or anything, if we find that the Deity, or the Vaiṣṇava or guru, is going to be prey to the rowdies, at that time, whatever possible, we can assert in that way, in that way. But not generally for ourselves, for our protection, rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāsaḥ, He will protect me. But in the case of Vaiṣṇava, guru, or Deity, we can assert as far as possible with all our resources, and will be ready to give our own life, of course according to ones own realisation it will come.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Our Hamsadhūta Mahārāja he is kṣatriya type, he's using weapons, is it not? Fighting his Godbrothers in his own clan using weapons.

Devotee: I don't think he uses them, but he has kept some.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: For scaring and threatening them maybe, but threatening also in that way, they will keep away. If sincerity of purpose is there then extreme cases it may be accepted.

Devotee: In the newspaper, one reporter said, what kind of

End of recording.

83 May (1982?)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: the conception about whom is given in Bhāgavatam, Caitanya-caritāmṛtam. He's an autocrat but He has got the heart which is full of infinite love. We are out in search of such a master. We should not think that the path is covered by the flowers, but it may be spread with thorns also. It is necessary to test our sincerity that how much is our hankering for that Lord.

brahmadi deva yadi dhana nahi pai ?

There is a Bengali verse. Even the god like Brahmā the creator cannot bring Him in his meditation.

brahmadi deva yadi dhana nahi pai ? In another:

hari virinci vancita deham ?

The Brahmā and the Śiva, they have got aspiration after Him but no guarantee that they have got it. We have come out for such an ideal. So you must be prepared for anything, any demand what may be necessary as the price for that. Only if we may take, we may not get Him, but still we must, we want to remain on the path of searching Him. There is an English proverb, "Virtue is its own reward." Virtue is its own reward, "that I am virtuous, yes, that is my reward. I don't want anything else by living a virtuous life." So, that we are in the path of search of the highest truth of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that is our reward. We don't want any other reward or success. What can be attained that can be stale, so it can never be attained in such a way that the future will be something stale.

āśliṣya vā pāda-ratām pinaṣṭu mām, adarśanān marma-hatām karotu vā yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampāṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ

("Kṛṣṇa may embrace me in love or trample me under His feet. He may break my heart by hiding Himself from me. Let that debauchee do whatever He likes, but He will always be the only Lord of my life.")
(Śikṣāṣṭakam, v 8)

viracaya mayi daṇḍaṁ dīnabandho dayāṁ vā gatiḥ iha na bhavattah kācid anyā mamāsti nipatatu śata-koṭīr nirbharaṁ vā navāmbhas tad api kila payodaḥ stūyate cātakena

("O friend of the needy, whether You chastise me or reward me, in the whole wide world I have no other shelter but You. Whether the thunderbolt strikes or torrents of fresh waters shower down, the Cātaka bird (who drinks only the falling rainwater) perpetually goes on singing the glories of the rain cloud.") (Śrīla Rūpa Goswāmī)

We are given advice and understanding in such a way that for the highest destination we have got a conception of given by the Kṛṣṇa consciousness, we must be prepared for anything else, any opposition, any opposition. We shall rather invite, like Queen Kuntī Devī, "Please put me in danger, constant danger, that is my friend to remind me about You. I have thought it best, so give me danger." So that should be our attitude in the quest of Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa. And not that already acquired things at our disposal, the committees, the houses, the money, the power, 'and there is Kṛṣṇa, the monopoly of Kṛṣṇa is there in the power-mongering and showing of so much grandeur in the material world.' It is not there. It is in faith, deep, deep faith, deep faith, the ideal. We are to consult the scriptures, we are to consult the great honest men, the mahājānas, śāstra. And hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto, and our sincere heart, we can't ignore that, we must have its deep, deeper approval, the deeper approval of our heart that what we are doing we are doing well, we are doing rightly. This sort of underground consciousness we must have when we go to search about Kṛṣṇa.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

na dhanam na janam na sundarim, kavitam va jagad-isa kamaye mama janmani janmaniśvare, bhavatād bhaktir ahaitukī tvayi

("O Lord, I have no desires to accumulate wealth, followers, beautiful women, or salvation. My only prayer is for Your causeless devotional service, birth after birth.")

(Śikṣāṣṭakam, v 4)

The causeless attraction of Kṛṣṇa, not dependant of any other things or relations. The causeless, independent of all acquisitions of this mundane world. It is independent, it is independent, it does not depend on anything else. It is absolute, absolute, everything has got stand on it, but it is absolute. Exclusive attraction for Him otherwise He won't care to have any connection with us. He cannot tolerate any partner, Kṛṣṇa can't tolerate any partner, because He's the Absolute. We heard from our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) that there are so many qualifications, the characteristic in Him, in Nārāyaṇa:

vaisadya rasa madyasya vijasa yasa sasyiya jnana vairagya ascaiva vairagya ? Nārāyaṇa or Kṛṣṇa, He has got vairagya, His indifference to the world. Our Guru

Mahārāja remarked in this way, that His vairagya, His indifference to this world is so much that we can't find Him though searching. Everything belongs to Him but His abnegation, His indifference to this world is so much that He could not be found out in any part of this world which is in His possession. He has got such a type of vairagya, indifference. So indifferent to everything but only He cannot be indifferent to His beloved. In consideration with the other parts of the world He's everywhere, He's nowhere. Everything is in Him, nothing is in Him. But in the case of His devotees: mayi te teṣu cāpy aham:

(samo 'haṁ sarva-bhūteṣu, na me dveṣyo 'sti na priyaḥ ye bhajanti tu māṁ bhaktyā, mayi te teṣu cāpy aham)

("I am equally disposed to all souls, therefore no one is My enemy or My friend. Yet, for those who render devotional service unto Me with love, as they are bound by affection for Me, I am similarly bound by the tie of affection for them.")

(Bhagavad-gītā, 9.29)

"I am always there, they're always in Me." In Bhagavad-gītā we find that. In Svarūpa-śākti we cannot withdraw from His Svarūpa-śākti. Of course, to show His pastimes in different ways, that is another thing. But we cannot be completely indifferent towards it, to the Svarūpa-śākti, mayi te teṣu cāpy aham.

So, one who has got a slight drop of kṛṣṇa-bhakti, naturally he will be apathetic to anything else, anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna. Ādi means yoga and śaithilya. Anyābhilāṣa, fleeting desires, baseless, temporary, fleeting desires, that is anyābhilāṣa. Karma, organised way, organised active life in which morality and also utilitarianism can be seen, and some sort of conception, mostly imaginary, of Godhead, karma. Jñāna, to eliminate from the present environment of attraction and complete withdrawal from this world of exploitation and to take shelter only under deep and infinite slumber, something like that, samādhi, brahmā-samādhi or prkṛti-samādhi. Either in Virāja, the highest, the crudest conception of this worldly energy, and Brahmāloka, the outermost conception of the real world of Vaikuṇṭha.

Karma, jñāna, yoga, yoga means, jñāna and yoga slight difference between them. The yogīs engaged in search of the innermost substance, what is within, anuraniyam, the smallest of the small. All-pervading, which is living in the innermost position of an atom or electron. And Brahmā who is all-accommodating, all-comprehensive. Two sides, two aspects of the existence, all-comprehensive and all-permeating, jñānī and yogī. Jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam:

(anyābhilāṣitā-sūnyam, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam bhaktir uttamā)

+ (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167)

Not any contamination of all these filthy ideas of life, ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu. Ādi means śaithilya, slothfulness, indifference to the attempt which is necessary for the service of Kṛṣṇa, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam. Then also another thing to be considered, ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam, not prātikūlyena. In Bhāgavatam there is a śloka: karma desa vaiyat caita dayo nibaya ?

In this way. It does not mean to touch the very inner meaning but externally it is giving some description. That anyone if comes in His connection direct or indirect, he's relieved of this worldly life. So, the Kaṁsa is always afraid of Kṛṣṇa, anyhow it brought him in the relativity of Kṛṣṇa, not in a loving attitude but in an animistic feeling, he's always afraid. The Śiśupāla, always has jealousy about Kṛṣṇa, but he cannot give out the thought of Kṛṣṇa, always thinking of Kṛṣṇa but jealous. So desa vai, this indirect connection with Kṛṣṇa also takes one to Kṛṣṇa. But the real adjustment is here in this way. Rūpa Goswāmī Prabhu has given in Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu:

yad ari nama nija nama tu prapam ekam eva utitam tat brahma krsno ekyat kedanarkha krpamor yusohar ?

What is mentioned in the scriptures in different places, that anyone coming in connection with Kṛṣṇa, direct or indirect, they can attain Him. Then what is the analytical meaning here? That when the sun and the sun ray, the sun ray is included within the sun. So also when Brahmā, the mere consciousness is connected with Kṛṣṇa then it may be applicable that those who are in the cultivation of indirect way, they will come to Brahmāloka, sāyujya-mukti, up to Brahmāloka. Brahmāloka is in the broadest sense included in Kṛṣṇa. So desa and vai, all these indirect cultivation, they come to up to this Brahmāloka.

Yad ari nama means what talked about the enemies of Kṛṣṇa, ari nama, and nija nama, those who are His own loving, affectionate servitors. Prapam ekam eva utitam, generally it apparently seems that their attainment is one and the same, but Rūpa Goswāmī is giving a caution to us. Ekam eva utitam, approximately speaking it seems like that but really it is not so, because in the case of the indirect cultivation the Brahmāloka has been identified with Him. And those that are having a favourable cultivation about Kṛṣṇa, for them the Svarūpa-śākti, and according to their capacity and nature there is a great differentiation from Vaikuṇṭha to Goloka and in different rasa.

So approximately it has been described in the śāstra that it is one and the same. In any way one may make connection with Kṛṣṇa and he will get Him, but Him means a great difference between the two aspects of Him. One is Brahmāloka, just in the beginning of His land, and another is His own home where He plays with His friends. A great gulf, the distance we are to understand when we are to adjust the things in this way.

Yad ari nama, means about the enemies. Nija nama, and about His own. Prapam, their prospect. Ekam eva, only one and the same. Utitam, catitam, is described in the scripture. Tat, that statement. Brahma krsno ekyat, it has been taken that Kṛṣṇa and Brahmā is one and the same. The Kṛṣṇa and the lustre of His country, of His domain, is one and the same. With this basis of consideration this has been stated in the śāstra.

We are to be wakeful to this fact. Kṛṣṇa brahmayo ekyat, how? Kēdanarkha kṛpamor yusohar, just we may think that the sun and his ray, we may sometimes include the whole extensive ray section also within sun. But a pencil of ray is where and the real sun is where? A great difference. It is also like that. Kēdana, kēdana means ray and arkha means sun, sun and its ray. We can include the ray within the sun sometimes and we can eliminate the ray and we can consider only about the sun. So this we should understand the statements of the śāstra in different places when they say like this the underlying assimilation in such a way. We must be wakeful to that.

So ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam, it is our necessity, the favourable cultivation about Him, which pleases Him. This has got also this enemy like dealings also necessary in His līlā but we won't like it, we should not like it, we should not select it for our own. We shall try to go within more and more, nearer, nearer approach there. And it is the ānukūlya and prātikūlya, it can be traced to the highest point, last point.

And so our aspiration is for a rūpānuga. The Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, as Mahāprabhu has recommended for us, they're rūpānuga, rāgānuga, rūpānuga. First thing they're rāgānuga, not ayīyanuga (?), not the path of law and rules, regulations, but they select more the path of heart, connection of heart to heart, that is rāgānuga. And in rāgānuga also there are different types, within that rāgānuga is rūpānuga. Rāgānuga, the way of loving service and free from all rules, regulations that is formality, not much formality but so much sincerity, that is rāgānuga. And rūpānuga, that is a particular group in the mādhyura-rasa. Mādhyura-rasa, the central line of the mādhyura-rasa side. The highest service, the wholesale twenty-four hour service and the central thread comes to begin for us rūpānuga. So Mahāprabhu's sampradāya is generally known as rūpānuga-sampradāya. Both love and mādhyura-rasa combined in the central line, the line of Rādhārāṇī, rūpānuga. The beginning is there.

So Narottama Ṭhākura, a great Guru in our line of divinity, his aspiration he's describing himself. "When the day will come when my Guru Śrī Lokanātha Goswāmī, he will take me by my hand and put me in the charge of Śrī Rūpa? His Guru will carry him to Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī for rūpānuga line, he will hand over me. When will that day dawn to show my fortune that I am replaced by my present Guru, Lokanātha Goswāmī, to the hand of Rūpa Goswāmī?" That is the aspiration we are told expressed there.

But we don't think this is anomaly, we don't think that is crossing the law of service to Guru. Here, should we think that Narottama Ṭhākura has committed any spiritual wrong when he says like that? It is out of nature it is necessary, it is necessary according to the detection of inner acquaintancy, inner nature, the complete analysis of the inner nature demands this sort of ostentatious transfer, we find it. And there should not be any anomaly.

The form and substance going together always, the form to help the substance, ideal. Ideal is all in all and the form conceived to help the ideal and not to oppose it. This sort of aspect of the truth we must realise, it will help us a great deal in the whole of our life. What is the relation between the ideal and the form? Form is created to help the ideal, ideal realisation, the form is coming to here. Sva dharme nidhanaṁ śreyāḥ, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ: none have pleaded so strongly on behalf of form, the Lord Himself is pleading with strongest term.

śreyān sva-dharmo viguṇaḥ, para-dharmāt svanuṣṭhitāt sva dharme nidhanaṁ śreyāḥ, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ

("It is better to carry out one's own duties a little imperfectly rather than faultlessly perform another's duties. Know that even death is auspicious in the discharge of one's duties appropriate to his natural position in the ordained socio-religious system, because to pursue another's path is perilous.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.35)

"Don't go to accept other's duty, rather die standing on the sphere of your duty." The strongest term He has asked us to take our position firmly in form, and at the same time.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja ahaṁ tvām sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ

Why so much recommendation to stand on the form? Because I may not go down, to keep up in my present position, to maintain my own position. The general will consolidate his own position, but what for? Only he will take chance that he will go forward but not backward, he may not be pushed backward so he must strengthen his position, the general. But that is not the end of his object, his object is to go forward, he must not forget that, he's to go forward to attack his enemy and finish him. That should be his object. But he's asked by the medical science, "That you must consider that your position first that the enemies may not push you back." So, so much importance should be given to the form that it may not, my carelessness to eat may not push me back. But that does not mean that I won't go forward, "I have finished everything, my life is finished." No finish in our life, it is a dynamic, the truth is a dynamic one not a static finished in Brahmāloka or Virāja. That is another thing, complete withdrawal. But when we accept the life of service divine it is eternal, we can't deny. Always to go forward, go forward.

So we must be alert for progress, always for progress in our life. Though we come to a standard, every day's program there also must be novelty, not a stereotyped thing but novelty always in every days program. So form should be there but not at the sacrifice of the ideal which we can see by the grace of the infinite Lord.

Now the whole thing is concerning this, the trouble we find. Let God save us from this difficulty, this is a general difficulty which may come at every moment of every time in everyone's life. So a broad thing we are to understand clearly.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!

Sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja, progress means to give up the present and to advance for the future prospect, that is progress.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

At the same time we may not degrade us and take it as progress. In the name of progress we may not degrade us. We shall be careful about that also. So the śāstra and the sādhu, the consideration and careful and selfless sincere consideration, that will come to our relief, na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid:

(pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati)

to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40)

We are our own enemy and enemy is not outside that can damage us so much if we do not take part in that. So Kṛṣṇa is there and if we are sincere He will surely come to our help, we'll be saved, it is His test. What we select? We select Him or we select some other things given by Him. Ha, ha. So many charming things sent by Him to test us whether we are eager for Him or we're eager for things that may be given by Him. So we should always try to help us in the selection of His service and not by things given by Him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Any questions? I don't hear the voice of Kalangana any more, where is she? She is giving ārcanam perhaps? Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura, sometimes in his writing refers to the analytic process and the synthetic process. Could you explain the difference between these two process'?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Give you some instance? Generally his lecture is synthetical. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura more analytical, but our Guru Mahārāja was more synthetical. Synthetical means always tending towards the centre. Whatever part he begins but tries to connect with the centre and then to deal with it in any way. And analytical, to begin from there and to go to the parts, and parts of the parts, in this way. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura analysed mostly, though of course the synthesis is there, connection with Kṛṣṇa. But our Guru Mahārāja Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, giving always a general characteristic, ontological aspect, ontological meaning, very busy always to take anything with the intellectual, the ontological satisfaction basis of everything. As is required by the present scientific civilisation.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: I think your speaking is more towards the synthetic also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mine?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, it was told like that, that mine is also synthetical. Rāmānuja is synthetical, Madhvācārya is analytical.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: If someone in the path of devotion becomes too much concerned with the external consideration and loses sight of the question of internal earnestness or hankering for the real thing, then in what way can he be delivered from that kind of misconception?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It will take time and also it depends on the stage of devotion. His awakenment in the inner world will help him to dissolve the earnestness with the external side. As much as his awakenment will be in internal world his objects of worship will also be of the same level and it will be subtler and subtler. Bhāva-bhakti, generally it is said that brahmacārī's and gr̥hasthas in that stage, they're in ārcana-adhikara, with things yajña-māyā yajña. They will, whatever they will do they will do with the help of these material articles. Sannyāsīns are supposed to do mental worship, not that, independent of material things, because they are sannyāsī's external physical things may not be available to them and they're promoted to such a stage that only with the help of mental ideas they will go on in their worship. This is the middle class of devotee.

And the highest class of devotee they're above ārcanaṁ. They're seeing that everyone is worshipping Him and only he's the exception, he can't. That is their vision. Everyone is in connection with God, but he's trying but he can't get the real connection. That is his temperament, of the uttama-adhikarī, "That I am deceived, I fail, I am unfortunate." But at the same time he finds the connection of Kṛṣṇa with the whole of his environment. That is a peculiar type of devotion of Kṛṣṇa consciousness in the uttama-adhikarī.

We can guess, conjecture, because the object of our attainment is infinite, as much as we can approach to have a conception of infinite, so much so, we cannot but find ourselves very, very meagre in the comparison of that.

Just as Newton told: "You say I have finished the world of knowledge, but I say that I am more learned than you, because, I know that it cannot be finished. But I am only collecting some pebbles on the shore of the infinite ocean of knowledge. So I am more learned than you."

So, as much as one has some connection, some conception of the infinite, so much so, he feels himself that he's smallest of the small. And when we do not care about the very nature of infinite we may say: "Oh, I can finish it in no time."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Difference there may be, and also clash may be, but that should be of a proper type. The fighting of the dogs should not be the ideal of the fighting of the man, or even the lion.

End of side A, May 1983, start of side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: more political fight. That shows the standard of our faith in the Supreme. The justice is there, the Almighty justice is everywhere. With this consciousness we are to handle with anything and everything. Just as suppose in the presence of the father or guardian, if the children they want to quarrel but their quarrel will be of a particular type when they're thinking that they're in the front of their guardian. The father is there, the mother is there, and the children are quarrelling for some, "He has snatched my thing, I am given less," and this may be quarrel. But under guardian's eye. So our fight should be that we are under guardian's eye, Kṛṣṇa is there, Guru is there. We have seen almost of same order of affection we get from them when we have got proportionate affection from the same source. And just before them how should we behave? Ruthless, merciless, and heinous, that such mood and such sort of freedom is rudeness. This shows that how much God consciousness, Guru consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness is within us. Or we think we are masters, we are masters, we are seeing the matter, the object, we are more related with the objective world than the subjective. That by capturing the physical aspect of things we have done everything, what is this?

Rather, the ideal side, that is more important than the physical acquisition which was necessary to help propagate the ideal. The ideal is all valuable, not those materials that were gathered to help preach the ideal. Am I clear?

Devotee: Yes. Cent-per-cent. Hari bol!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Who are more interested with materials than with spiritual, so the spiritual dissatisfaction will come there as a reaction in general. To make too much with the material aspect, it can't satisfy the seekers after truth, quench their thirst. Ultimately none of you have come for material grandeur, you have come to surrender to the beauty of the ideal. The higher type of ideal, that has drawn you all surely, not the external grandeur. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And there that is normal. And we may be blessed with that sort of tendency in our heart.

Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Mahāprabhu showed that He's afraid of with Pratāparudra, the material grandeur, power. But when Pratāparudra was found to serve Jagannātha in the form of a meanest servant. "Oh, though he sits on the throne, but to Jagannātha he considers himself to be a sweeper." Pratāparudra, though a king externally, but internally he thinks that he's a sweeper of Jagannātha. Then Mahāprabhu's heart melted. He also showed that we should try to look at things in this way, through his laghima, ego, how it is modest, how it is humble. That should be the standard of judging our friend.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Let us be blessed with that standard, that eye. We may not be conquered by others' ideal. Let God save them also from that sort of endeavour and adventure. They're thinking they're progressing with much adventure.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Adventure, adventure, to explore the spiritual world, the world of humility and humbleness. There is much jewel, and what jewel we can find in the external surface? We want to be saved from that sort of charm of the external grandeur.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

There is a story in Sanātana's life, which is found in Bhakta-mala, and also Rabindranatha Ṭhākura has written a poem in that connection. In the (verge of Badavan ?) District, there was a village, Mankore, and there was a rich brāhmaṇa family, and who had many lineage of worship and festival of many religious types. But suddenly they became poor, and the brāhmaṇa he says that: "I am the best of this lineage, I'm so poor that I cannot perform so many festivals that used to be performed here every year." So, he was a devotee of Mahādeva, Śiva, he began to pray very fervently to his lord of heart, Śiva, "That please help me that I can keep out the glory, the name and fame of my ancestors."

Then in dream he got some suggestion, "Go to Vṛndāvana, there is Sanātana Goswāmī, meet him and your aim will be satisfied." Then in those days, no train, no bus, only by walking the thousand miles the brāhmaṇa went to meet Sanātana in Vṛndāvana. Then anyhow, on the banks of Yamunā, he found Sanātana in a hut and taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa. He met him and told his own things.

Then after giving hearing to him, Sanātana told: "Brāhmaṇa, it was true that previously when I was Prime Minister to Bengal, I gave many things to many brāhmaṇas, satisfied them. But now you find me I am a beggar."

"Yes, I see your condition. But how can I think that my lord, Śiva, he has frustrated me, cheated me, I can't think like that."

"But what can I do? You see me."

"Yes, I see your position." Then, disappointed, the brāhmaṇa is coming away.

Then Sanātana Goswāmī suddenly, something came in his mind. "O brāhmaṇa, come, come. Śiva has not disappointed you. You see there is some rubbish gathered together. I think that one very bright stone was found one day and I put it there. That may be the touchstone and if it is so then Śiva has given you dream rightly." The brāhmaṇa removing the rubbishes found a bright stone. "It may be the touchstone. You take it and all your difficulty will be removed."

The brāhmaṇa took it. "How fortunate I am. Śiva, my lord has guided me to a proper place and I have got it." And now going he was always thinking that, "It maybe ordinary glass also, but I must find some iron." And when searching he found a small iron nail and took it and touched and it converted into gold. "Oh, how fortunate I am, I have got a touchstone, I'm so fortunate in the world, I've got the touchstone." He's going, but fortunately the reaction came in his mind. "This is really touchstone but why that man Sanātana Goswāmī, he so neglectfully put them in the rubbish? How is it possible? It can't be thought out that this thing should be so much neglectfully dealt, why?" Then the next, second thought came to him, in the heart of that fortunate brāhmaṇa, "That he must have something more greater, higher, then he could neglect this thing." The second thought came in his mind, "He's in possession of something higher, substance." And then the third stage he came to think that, "I have found such a saint and if I go back only with this then I am deceiving myself. It is a proof that he's a saint of the highest order that he could neglect this touchstone in such a way, hatefully. I have found such a sādhu, such a saint, and if I leave him then I commit a great mistake in my life. It will be difficult to find such a saint in the world." So he came back, retraced, and when came in the front of the cottage of Sanātana, then it came to its zenith. He threw away that touchstone into the river and fell on the feet of Sanātana. And it is mentioned:

yada hani hari hadhani mani yena mano mani ?

"You have got, you are in possession of such a wealth that you did not care a touchstone to be a valuable thing. I want that valuable thing from you. I don't like to be deceived by this touchstone, valuable thing." He threw it to the water and fell at his feet.

So external things, the charm of the external precious things can be conquered in this way. Gaura Hari bol! The grandeur can attract the self-deceivers.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Kṛṣṇa is such, He does not tolerate any second of him competition, so no alternative. Kṛṣṇa is the only wealth, all others in our paraphernalia should be very, very insignificant. We should be satisfied with that, satisfied with that. Only the whole adoration He should command from our heart. And there should not be anything around us which may attract us, disturb our concentration towards Him. Only with the exception of His devotees doing those that will help me towards right direction, towards the direction of Kṛṣṇa.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi
Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

What was the capital of (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja
.....

Devotee: Forty rupees.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What was the capital of Nityānanda Prabhu?

ata bhuli nityananda bhumi gauri yai sanat padva jana dulai lotai ?

His property was that of a negative character. He appealed and began to cry and request, and then began to roll on the door. "Please accept Gaurahari My Lord, accept My Lord Gaurahari, you will be saved, you'll be saved beyond your conception, you'll be saved. Take Me." In this way His appeal and He is crying and He's rolling on the door.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

That their main nature should be of that propaganda, "It is my business, my earnestness, my necessity to satisfy my inner tendency, inner hankering I should do it." Not by suppressing and oppressing others.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Deserve and have, deserve, try to promote the line of deservation. Deserve, and then He's eager to embrace you, deserve and have. Having is only a consequent result. Deserve, try to deserve.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Mahārāja, Mahāprabhu tells:

sarvatra prasar hoibe mora nama ?

Mora nama is Caitanya Mahāprabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Both. Ha, ha. We can take both sides, ha, ha. Who will preach and whom He will preach, ha, ha, ha. His name means the Name which He's out to preach, and also consequently His name who'll be preaching, whose preaching the Name. We shall accept both of them, won't allow anyone to go away, ha, ha, ha.

Mahāprabhu's meaning is of course clear, He wants that the Name I am preaching.

But we shall catch Him also there.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. And He will be reluctantly refused.
Ha, ha, ha.

Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura saw with his divine eye that things are advancing in such a way that it cannot be but that this plain thing should be understood by the general mentality. And there is the threatening of the atom war, ha, ha, that is a contribution positive to this, ha, ha, ha, threatening, do or die, ha, ha, ha. The physical civilisation and this is spiritual civilisation. Come hither or be the victim of the atom bomb. Don't identify you with this physical body that is in danger in wholesale, ha, ha, ha. But try to get out of this physical existence some noble and higher divine existence of you. There is time yet, in the meantime you free yourself from the malidentification that you die by the atom bomb. You won't die if you enter into Kṛṣṇa consciousness, no death.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi
Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Not only no death but also a life of nectar eternally. So, it is nearby, very close to you. Rather you have come, run a long way to this material world to die. But your Kṛṣṇa consciousness nectaral ocean is very near to you, as near as you are, ha, ha, ha. Your real self is there. Why do you care for all these things.

tvam tu rājan mariṣyeti, paśu-buddhim imām jahi na jātaḥ prāg abhūto
'dya, deha-vat tvam na naṅkṣyasi

("O King, give up the animalistic mentality of thinking: "I am going to die."
Unlike the body, you have not taken birth. There was not a time in the past when you did not exist, and you are not about to be destroyed.")
(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.5.2)

At the conclusion of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the warning is given to Parīkṣit Mahārāja, and to all of us. That this animal consciousness you butcher, murder, kill, this animal consciousness of yourself that you die. Why do you allow yourself to come down and identify yourself with this material world which dies? You are above death, you yourself is already above death, what you are really, that is above death. That does not die when the matter is being transformed into this and that. Tvam tu rājan mariṣyeti, this idea you kill. Paśu-buddhi, this is animal consciousness, your false identification of your self with this body. That is the cause, you disconnect yourself with the material body.

Just as in your dream you may see that your beheaded body is lying there, but a beheaded man may not have any existence. But in dream you can see that your dead body is there. So also, what you are seeing, that is like that. You are independent as a seer of this world. The world is being destroyed but we may be an on-looker. "Oh, the world is being destroyed." From aloof you are looking, you are not included there, you can make you separate from this malidentification. It is time, you do it, immediately begin. That you are an on-looker, you are subject and not object. The objective world may vanish, even the world, the solar system may vanish, but you are not a member of that mortal world. You are a seer, always a subject, and your prospect is on the other side, on the higher side, super-subjective side. Don't mingle and tangle yourself in this material world. You have come to mix with this material, you are taṭastha, but on the other side there is a land of prospect for you. It is infinitely spread there, begin your activity there, your prospect there, cultivation in that land. That will produce gems, gold, for you. So that is the scientific basis. And this cannot be ignored in a rational mind.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

And Gaurāṅga and Nityānanda came with what sort of high prospect for us? The loving lap of our Lord and His friends and His loving servitors. So much love we cannot conceive even in this mundane world in such quantity and quality it is waiting for us to embrace. Go back to God, back to home, back to Godhead. The conception of Godhead is such and such.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mother Kulangana ke bole ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where is mother Kulangana?

Devotee: I would like to say that since I came to this movement I was praying to Lord Kṛṣṇa to sleep on a tree

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: I was very much attracted by the six Goswāmīs. But now since I am here in Navadvīpa I am praying to Kṛṣṇa to allow me to stay in this blue house

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: and take all this wonderful Prasādam that Kṛṣṇa provides every day, is my answer to your question.

Devotee: When I came I was praying to Kṛṣṇa, like Goswāmīs, I want to sleep under the tree. But now I came to Navadvīpa I want to stay in this blue house

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: And take your Prasādam.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: I think if I can do that I will be great devotee.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She comes almost every day in the evening with some Prasādam ...

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: and I take it.

Devotees: Hari bol! Hare Kṛṣṇa. Jai!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!
Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: She comes from a highly placed family in Poland.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: In Poland her family is very highly placed. But she's taken refuge rather in the real land of freedom, your holy feet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Navadvīpa. Nadia.

Devotee: navadvīpa hanagrama dwīpa hana nayi jahiya yahirana

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The saviour, not only saviour, but giver of the highest nectarine life. Ambition, the gate, the door to enter. Specially the aparādha-bhañjan-pāṭ, the special portion of Navadvīpa where all the offences were forgiven by the Lord without any reservation, unreserved.

("When He returned to His birthplace, Nadia, after five long years of sannyāsa, millions of people rushed to see Him, feeling a most wonderful and irresistible love attraction. Deeply moved with eyes full of eagerness, they beheld their Lord who attracted their innermost heart of hearts. Excited by His ecstatic presence there arose a continuous tumultuous uproar that spread in all directions and pierced the sky. To please their beloved Gaurāṅga, the people's voices repeatedly resounded the Holy Names of Kṛṣṇa. I sing with joy the unending glories of my golden Lord Gaurasundara, the beautiful divine abode of pure love.") (Prema-Dhāma-Deva-Stotram, 34)

When I was composing this poem on this chair, there, I tried to think of that picture when Mahāprabhu came here. And suddenly I felt that He's here Devotees: Hari bol! Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. Hari bol!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I could not check my tears. Somewhat presence of Him I felt in my heart at that time. But I saw, nyāsa-pañca-varṣa-pūrṇa-janma-bhūmi-darśanaṁ, as the usage amongst the sannyāsīns, that sometimes after sannyāsa they're to give a visit to his home. Something following like that, He came to Navadvīpa after five years, nyāsa- pañca-varṣa-pūrṇa-janma-bhūmi-darśanaṁ. And, koṭi-koṭi-loka-lubdha-mugdha-drṣṭi- karṣanam, and millions of eyes, attention, millions of eyes were attracted by Him. All lubdha, very greedy, and mugdha, means not very, mugdha means something enchanting. Lubdha, earnestness and charmed heart. They came to see Him by millions, koṭi-koṭi- loka-lubdha-mugdha-drṣṭi-karṣanam, attracted such attention that with their earnest and charmed, enchanted look, they came to have His darśana. And koṭi-kaṇṭha-kṛṣṇa-nāma- ghoṣa-bheditāmvaraṁ, and whoever came towards Him began to chant: "Hari, Hari bol!"

Devotee: Gaura Prema anandi, Hari, Hari bol!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That loud that chorus, congregational Name. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, Kulangana

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does she say?

Devotee: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: She offers her obeisances to you.

Devotee: (Mother Kulangana continues speaking, but not near enough to the microphone to record clearly)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She has a call for the worship of Rasarāja ? She's taking leave?

Devotee: so you no very well in which kind of family I was born
.....

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: my family was most poor, and you know this very well.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: She's making some protestation of humility.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that she's going on?

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does she say? She complains?

Devotee: She is protesting that actually she comes from a very low family. She does not understand why I say that she comes from a high family. She comes from the lowest family.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Opposing you?

Devotee: Yes. But still she offers her obeisances first before she makes her protest.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We find from the lips of Sanātana Goswāmī, that, "I have come from a very low family Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally people say that, "I am low, I am humble, I am bad, I am evil, everything. But my family is also low, that none can say very easily." We found in Sanātana Goswāmī that he's saying that, "I am low-born, not any other. I am low, I am humble, I am mean. But my family, I am low-born, family is mean," so much humility it is very difficult to find, it is found in you.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotees: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hari bol! Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From your connection with whatever family, your connection has made that great.

Devotees: Hari bol! Jai.

It is written in the scripture that when one Vaiṣṇava is born in a particular connection he can purify your past connection also. Because the connection has contributed something to help her or him. So as a reaction they get that benefit from the Lord so they are purified thereby.

83.6.5

Assimilation of what we have heard from the śruti, from the revealed scriptures, that is necessary, proper assimilation. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And to differentiate from things here, that we find in our perverted conception of life and experience.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vedāśraya nāstikya-vāda bauddhake adhika. Mahāprabhu's pronouncement about Śaṅkara, that he has given delivery of truths from the Buddhistic school in the name of Vedic thought. The most dangerous. The colour of Vedic thought, he has given delivery of the Buddhistic thoughts. vedāśraya nāstikya-vāda. Half true is more dangerous than falsehood.

veda nā māniyā bauddha haya' ta nāstika vedāśraya nāstikya-vāda bauddhake adhika

"The Buddhists do not recognise the authority of the Vedas; therefore they are considered agnostics. However, those who have taken shelter of the Vedic scriptures yet preach agnosticism in accordance with the Māyāvāda philosophy are certainly more dangerous than the Buddhists." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 6.168)

Veda nā māniyā bauddha haya' ta nāstika. Although (Buddhist) they're simple, they do not have any recognition of the revealed scriptures, they think that's all. They're on the other side, it is plain and clear, and this man has entered within our camp, and began to preach the doctrine of Buddha. It is most dangerous. So we'll always be very alert of this apparent religious man who is an atheist in the garb of a devotee, so-called, we must be very much cautious about him.

So: māvāda-tiṅgilodara-gatān uddhṛtya. The whole Hindu section, so-called Hindu section mostly swallowed by Śaṅkara. They do not know how they have been swallowed.

śrī-siddhānta-sarasvatī vidito gauḍīya-gurv-anvaye bhāto bhānuriva

"Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura is well renowned within the select line of the magnificent Gauḍīya preceptors. He appears in the morning sky like the radiant sun and resounds the wonderful glories of Śrīman Mahāprabhu, delivering the poor souls helplessly devoured by the whale-swallowing doctrine of impersonalism. I worship the great master who allowed the fallen souls a precious chance to dive deeply into and experience the bliss found in that ambrosial ocean of pure love for Lord Kṛṣṇa."

Only this is Brahman, that is nothing, non see-able, non-traceable, non-differentiation, and the specification, nothing, and to accept that, no harm about our creed, in this way they all accept it. It's said that anyhow he took to the scripture. If we see the good side, anyhow he (Śaṅkara) drew the attention of the religious people of that time to the scripture, from the atheistic school, totalistic school. And now you read your scripture, and then find what you can manage to find. So much he must have done.

paraka varda beduyum barvanum ushars ?

Ha ha, enemy is according to the plane, enemy. In one's own plane, a man's enemy is a man, not a tiger, nor a serpent. Man's greater enemy is man, greatest enemy must be a man. Others cannot make any harm so much.

Rādhārāṇī's enemy is Candrāvalī, ha ha. The competition with which, in Yoga-Māyā, that department, where the competition is going on to produce the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, all accommodating. Kṛṣṇa, akhila rasāmṛta mūrti, all possible types of ecstasy is harmonised. Nothing neglected there. Everything for Himself. So many of variegated nature but for Himself. Then justification of the existence is there. So many, let it be. Innumerable, does not matter, but one end, all must be connected to one end, for Himself, to satisfy Kṛṣṇa. kṛṣṇindria tattvam, kṛṣṇa-priti, kṛṣṇa-prema. Must be connected to one end. Many, polarity and unity, unity, that to satisfy His purpose, and diverse may not have any number, variegated.

Rādhārāṇī Herself says, that is Her special beauty: "That they do not know. I have no objection. The others will come to serve Kṛṣṇa. I look only in the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. My concentration is always there. But, their service does not come to such a standard as to give satisfaction to Him properly, I show My objection." Rādhārāṇī's statement in this way justified. "They rush forward to satisfy Kṛṣṇa, but they do not know how to satisfy Him. They come and begin their service to satisfy Him, but they cannot do so. There is My objection, otherwise I can allow. My eye is always fixed just like a hand of a clock, the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa."

saynavi gihicanoo de kṛṣṇa seva nahi jani jihe canay ?

In this way, Caritāmṛta says, gives the statement of Rādhārāṇī, She does not think Herself to be one of many, in the competition. So that is Her special beauty. Her degree of intensity of the endeavour to satisfy Kṛṣṇa, that is above all, all accommodating, so that is. Others, that is a part of Her. She represents the whole, and His own parts develops to help Her in indirect way. Some in direct way, Lalitā, Viśākhā, and some in indirect way, in another camp, but that necessity is also there.

Just as the opposition party is necessary in the democratic parliament, something like that, the opposition party, vetivek ? everywhere there is, anoi and vetivek ? everywhere. In anoi ? In direct there is also a place for indirect, the development in such way.

Hegel's version is synthetic. Thesis, antithesis, synthesis, the development always goes in this way. Thesis, antithesis, synthesis, so antithesis will always be there, but it will promote, help the thesis to come in synthesis, something like that. So antithesis has got it's position also. anoi ?

amnayah betikhi karvan yat sat sarvatsa sarvadar ?

In the first śloka of Bhāgavatam: 'nvayād itararāś cārteṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ. He's only fully aware of the purpose of His activities, cārteṣv abhijñāḥ. What is the purpose of this world, it is known only to Him fully, cārteṣv abhijñāḥ. To what purpose, what is being done, He knows fully well, not any other part of the world, cārteṣv abhijñāḥ, and svarāṭ. He's not to give any explanation to any other entity, svarāṭ, autocrat, svarāṭ means autocrat. Not for any explanation to another party, svarāṭ. Whatever He will do that is all right, that is Autocrat Absolute, svarāṭ means absolute. Everything for Him, He's for none. And elaborately thinking, analytically, He's for us. We are for Him in some way and He's for us some way.

aham bhakta-parārdhīno, hy asvatantra iva dvija sādhubhir grastahṛdayo, bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ

The Lord tells Durvāsā: "I am the slave of My devotees; I have no freedom apart from their will. Because they are completely pure and devoted to Me, My heart is controlled by them, and I reside always in their hearts. I am dependent not only on My devotees, but even on the servants of My devotees. Even the servants of My devotees are dear to Me."

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63)

"I do not know anyone but My devotee."

sarda godi diamujum sādhunām ?

"They're My heart, I am their heart." diamujam ?

"All the saints are My sweetheart, and I am also similarly heart to them.

sarda godi diamujum sādhunām ? "They do not know anything but Me."

naham te bomala gabe ?

"I also do not care to know anything but them."

So visa versa, He's for the devotee, devotees are for Him. That is, the substance and the potency. Potency cannot stand, cannot exist independent of the substance, and substance also cannot remain without the potency. As Śaṅkara told that Brahma is only there, no potency. But the Vaiṣṇava Ācārya's are of the opinion that substance is Brahma no doubt, cetana, but that has got potency. Prṛti Puruṣa, not Puruṣa alone, Puruṣa-bhakta. The enjoyer, enjoyed, the positive, negative, the served and the servitor. Both combined, one whole.

The subject, object, according to Hegel: "No subject can exist without object." Subject means thinking, thinker, there must be something to be thought, otherwise subject cannot exist. So object also cannot exist without the subject. There must be some thinker, then recognition of a particular thing. That is the peculiar thing where the atheists are crushed. The object cannot exist without the subject. That is a great point of argument of the theistic school here.

That a fossil was there. Fossil means black or white, hard or soft, something, and that is the stage of subject. Without thinker, no fossil can exist. There must be some sort of assertion about the fossil, and where it will exist in the subject. So without subject, no object can stand, and without object, no subject can stand. Prṛti Puruṣa. That Hegel's argument. Subject, object, both co-existent.

When Bon Mahārāja came preaching from the West, then I had a talk with him in Bombay Maṭh. I went to welcome him from the ship. He came, Swāmī Mahārāja was there, he was conducting business there in Bombay, and Swāmī Mahārāja was present. In a round table, we all took our seat, and Bon Mahārāja told: "They ask so many questions that cannot be answered."

But I had some knowledge about Western philosophy. I read in B.A. class that Hegel's theory, and others, so I challenged him. "What points cannot be answered?"

Then gradually the talk begins. Sulshy? was there. He was watching very keenly. Swāmī Mahārāja was there. Then in this point I defeated Bon Mahārāja with Hegel's philosophy. No object can exist without subject. There must be someone to give the statement, what is in the fossil, in the object. No object can stand independently. The law of thought cannot allow. Then Swāmī Mahārāja he told: "Here the West is defeated by the East." Something like that.

That question, that no object can exist without subject. It is difficult to understand, follow, but if one can understand, then he can refute the whole atheistic school. That no object. In the primary stage of creation there was fossil, and no consciousness, it is very easy to say, but what is the fossil? If you have to assert something, that it was so and so, and that so and so means conception about that, and where does it exist, conception in the subjective area. So any existence presupposes the existence of consciousness. So consciousness is the most original. And I also add here, by introspection, consciousness can have object in his own creed. Ātmā can think of him, so it is concrete, independent of fossil, pure consciousness can exist independently, it can, introspection, in thinking of its own, about its own. Ātmā-jñāna, spirit thinking about spirit, independent of material existence. So consciousness is independent, can be independent, but never matter.

Nitāi.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, as Rādhārāṇī She sends Her different associates to canvass on Her behalf, Her group, does Candrāvalī also send Her associates to canvass on Her behalf?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, and there is clash between the followers of Rādhārāṇī and Candrāvalī. Lalitā, Viśakhā, and there, the Śaibyā and Padar?, followers of Candrāvalī.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written:

swānanda-sukhada-bāsī

(I am a resident of Svānanda-sukhada-kuñja)

sakhī-sthali nāhi heri nayane, dekhile śaibyāke paṛaye mane

"I never look at the place where Candrāvalī and her friends stay. Whenever I see such a place it reminds me of Candrāvalī's gopī friend, Śaibyā."

(Śaraṇāgati, The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 33)

Sakhī Sthali is a part of Vṛndāvana where the camp of Candrāvalī generally exists, sakhī- sthali nāhi heri nayane. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: "As the attendant of Rādhārāṇī's camp I don't like to see that Sakhī Sthali area. Why? dekheli padar ke mane ? Padar, she's servitor in that camp of Candrāvalī, and the lower servitors, servitors of lower rank, they're concerned with the lower rank, of the other camp." So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: "If Sakhī Sthali comes in my memory then the Padar, whose attitude is always to seduce Kṛṣṇa from this camp, to take that camp, so I can't tolerate that."

rādhikā-kuñja āṇdhāra kori', loite cāhe se rādhāra hari

"Candrāvalī wants to take away Rādhā's Lord Hari, thus covering the grove of Rādhikā with the darkness of gloom." (Śaraṇāgati, The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 33)

"Because Her interest is always to take Kṛṣṇa from Rādhārāṇī's camp to Candrāvalī's camp, if Kṛṣṇa goes there, then the whole camp of ours becomes dark." āṇdhāra kori'

Once Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) ordered one person to sing this song, and the song was sung in Chaitanya Maṭh. And I marked it was sung twice, but when this rādhikā-kuñja āṇdhāra kori', Prabhupāda receives a shock. He's sitting in this way, in the chair, and the song is there, and when in the song this thought came, rādhikā-kuñja āṇdhāra kori', he finds a shock, I marked. And in the second singing of the song, when again this point came, rādhikā-kuñja āṇdhāra kori', he received shock, can't tolerate, the āṇdhāra kori', the darkness in the camp of Rādhārāṇī. It is intolerable for their attainment. I found it. But still it is, for the, to develop the different methods of service, different layers of service, it is necessary.

Just as fasting is necessary for relishing the food. biraha milane ?

Without hunger we cannot relish the food. Something like that, biraha, and this competition, this is necessary to enhance. Just as parakīya. Just as to eat the food by stealing, in Kṛṣṇa. This is all to enhance the satisfaction. It is necessary. This is all designed only to make intense. When it comes to the higher standard, again there is necessity to intensify, then these plots are necessary. This parakīya, this stealing, this lying, this taking away this camp, that camp, for the vilās it is necessary, otherwise it is stale and one and without vilās.

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet ato hetor ahetoś ca,
yūnor māna udañcati

Rūpa Goswāmī says: "Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."
(Ujjvala-nīlamanī)

Just as the natural gatiḥ, progress of the snake is by crooked way, aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, so love proper, it goes by crooked way, svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet, not straight going, love, because it has to accommodate everything in it. All sorts of things possible in existence, is accommodated there in love. Love means sacrifice. Sacrifice is such a degree of height that it can embrace everything, everything.

In a singing camp, many instruments are being played, and many songs are being sung, so a number of variety will be a credit in the harmony there, sangat ? Different types of instruments are being played, but there must be a harmony there, and the highest harmony depends on the number of different instruments of playing, harmony, credit is there. Hundreds of instruments are playing the music, but there is one tune, that is the credit.

So sacrifice, dedication, will be in its highest degree of such nature that it can tolerate. Its toleration has no end, and there by toleration, the harmony is there. Any type of opposition it can tolerate, any time. All accommodating, accommodation, one, single, another it is divided, another it is divided, toleration is necessary in the both. In this way, the highest conception of dedication means the accommodation of the infinite number within it. Still it is sweet, it adds to the sweetness.

Kṛṣṇa, when He is offered food with affection from Yaśodā, but that does not satisfy Him. He must have to steal. He must have to waste something. He will distribute to the monkey, to others, then He will be happy, not by... and Yaśodā will think: "With so much labour, and pain, and attention, I am preparing food for My boy, and He's wasting all these things, can't tolerate." But Kṛṣṇa's satisfaction increases by that. More chance of service is given to Yaśodā.

Apparently, when a mother's child is little naughty, apparently, the mother may be seen to be disturbed. But if the boy is not brisky, mother's heart is not satisfied. Very brisky, doing something wrong, breaking something, then all the points of the nook and corner of the heart, that has got some action, and that gives satisfaction to the mother's heart. And like a dead child, the child is there, like a dead body, that does not excite any hind parts in the heart of the mother. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Are there actually ācāryas representing Candrāvalī, living. Is there different disciplic successions, like we have our ācāryas in our line?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is this Vallavācārī party which is mostly found in Gujarat. They are more sympathetic to Candrāvalī.

Devotee: They worship the Yamunā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yamunā also, Yamunā virāja. And they are more in favour of Candrāvalī than that of Rādhārāṇī.

Devotee: What is the connection with the Yamunā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yamunā is rather more neutral. Both the parties. They say that when after rasa, Kṛṣṇa withdrew, and then They could meet only on the banks of the Yamunā. By her grace, Yamunā could again supply them Kṛṣṇa. Nowhere, in this way. But Yamunā is more or less little neutral, and passive. She has to accommodate all. All the parties to accommodate when they come on her bank, or on the water. Even Baladeva's party. Balarama has got His rasa, and Balarama's party was also to be accommodated by Yamunā, and She had to do it reluctantly. First she withdrew, but she was forced to participate in the camp of Balarāma. But the Goswāmīns, they have shown the harmony. That Balarāma externally, He's enjoying the rasa, but internally, in His heart, He's making Kṛṣṇa to enjoy. In this way, the purity, and the harmony, has been kept.

Apparently Balarāma is seen to enjoy with a particular group, but really His existence is dedicated wholesale to Kṛṣṇa, so that is only instrumental, a channel, through which the rasa is passing to Kṛṣṇa. That has been shown, and explained by the Goswāmīns. Apparently, it was seen that Balarāma was very rash and haughty when Yamunā did not like to participate, co-operate with His rasa. But she was frightened by Balarāma, and force applied, then Yamunā had no other alternative but to join the rasa of Balarāma. Yamunā's position is not like a leader of a particular party.

Devotee: The followers of Vallabācārya, they also worship Nathaji, Śrī Nathaji.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrī Nathji, Śrī Natharam, means that Madhavendra Purī's Gopāl.

Devotee: How did they get that Deity?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When Vallabācārya died, his son Bitralacāri? Vallabācāri, in his last days, he kept some connection, intimate connection with Rūpa and Sanātana, though he was of senior type, in age. Then after, when Vallabācāri died, he had a few sons, and one was, the eldest perhaps was Bilpitavacaryi? and Pitvallacaryi? was very much addicted to Rūpa and Sanātana. And when Vallabācāri went away, then Rūpa and Sanātana, they made arrangement to engage him in the service of that Gopāl. Gopāl or who, name of Madhavendra Purī's Deity, Gopāl? Especially gave him the engagement to worship that Gopāl of Madhavendra Purī. And from that time, it, the possession of the service was with the Vallava party, Bitralacāri?

And when there was some attack of the Mohammedans, then everyone was busy to remove their Deities, first to Bharatpur? state, Carmovan? and from there to Jaipur, and at that time Bitralacāri, he removed Gopāl to Nathadara? Nathadara? There near Udarapur or so. And from that time, generation after generation, they're appointed worshipper of that Deity. But it was first with the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, and it was given by Rūpa and Sanātana to Bitralacāri?, the son of Vallabācāri, and from that time they were the hereditary worshippers of that Deity. From Mathurā it was removed to western side of Jotipura or Govardhana. First removal from Mathurā to Jotipura, and from there to that Udaypur state. Nathadara, and there still being worshipped, that Gopāl.

Devotee: But Vallabācārya, he's a disciple of Gadādhara Paṇḍita.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Well he took, he was worshipper in vātsalya-rasa, but when he came in contact with Mahāprabhu's party, he could recognise that madhurya-rasa is the highest, so he proposed Gadādhara Paṇḍita that: "I have not got madhurya-rasa dīkṣa, you please give it to me."

Gadādhara Paṇḍita referred to Mahāprabhu. "I am not independent. You must propose to Him, and by His order I may give mantram to you."

And Vallabācārya did so, and getting permission from Mahāprabhu, he took initiation of madhurya-rasa. Kīśora Kṛṣṇa worship, service of Kīśora Kṛṣṇa, from Gadādhara Paṇḍita. But nowadays, there the party of Vallabācārya, they do not admit this. "No we are independent. We are worshippers of vātsalya-rasa. We think this is the highest." In this way their movement is in that line, and when they come to madhurya-rasa, they give preference to Yamunā. In that way. Anti party of Rādhārāṇī's camp.

But this Nimbarka school, they prefer Rādhā Govinda, though in sakhīya, not parakīya. As married husband and wife, in the Nimbārka school it is seen. Rādhā Govinda. But Vallabhācārya's, they're worshippers generally of Gopāl. Gopāl means boy Kṛṣṇa, who is served in the vātsalya-rasa, Nanda Yaśodā. That is the acme of their realisation, but they do not deny that afterwards He had some sweet connection, as a consort with the small gopīs, and there they go to Yamunā and this Candrāvalī, they do not like Rādhārāṇī. This is their position, the Vallaba school.

Devotee: So Vallabācārya he was actually a follower of Gadādhara Paṇḍita, but this connection with Candrāvalī that came later.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That sort of deviation is found in many places in the succession. Just as there was one Harivamsa, he was a disciple of Gopāl Bhaṭṭa, but he practically deviated. And he was, it is thought, supported by Gopāl Bhaṭṭa's previous guru, who was a great devotee, and written many books, Prabhodānanda Sarasvatī. "Rādhārasa Sudharnadhi." "Caitanya Satav." "Navadvīpa Dhāma Satav." "Vṛndāvana Sataka." Many books of high style writing is there.

He supported Harivamsa to certain extent, who was disciple of Gopāl Bhaṭṭa. There is a line from Harivamsa, Harivamsa was not accepted, in toto, by Gopāl Bhaṭṭa, who was the Guru of Harivamsa. Another branch, as if coming down from Harivamsa, they are known as Harivamsi. But their real guru, Harivamsa guru, is Gopāl Bhaṭṭa. That is not found there wholesale.

The "Rādhāramāṇa Veda," that represents Gopāl Bhaṭṭa, properly, but the Harivamsa school is another branch, as if. Theoretically they have recognition of Gopāl Bhaṭṭa, but practically some deviation, more addicted to the rasa which are. And this there, the Gopāl Bhaṭṭa, direct connection, they're very careful to deal with this rasa, high type. Just as our Guru Mahārāja, he's very cautious about dealing with these higher rasa. rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge. That should be kept always over our head.

pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge, mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range

"The path of divine love is worshipping to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration." (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura)

We are talking something about Him very hazy and giving much respect.

(Śrīla A.C Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja did not deal perhaps, almost anything. A general rasa, a general service of Kṛṣṇa he preached, in the West. Though he knew and admitted: "That my Guru is Rādhārāṇī. Rādhārāṇī my Gurudeva, has ordered me to preach to the West. And if Kṛṣṇa, my friend, You are to help me, because Rādhārāṇī will be satisfied, my Gurudeva, and Your business is also like that, so You must come to help me, I am going to carry out the order of Rādhārāṇī."

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

In Bhāgavatam the explanation is there, prakṛti-vaicitryād, and, pāraṁparyeṇa, the deviation from the main line. What is the cause? First religion was one, now ...

End of side A of tape , start of side B evaṁ prakṛti-vaicitryād bhidyante matayo nṛṇāṁ pāraṁparyeṇa keṣāñcit pāṣaṇḍa-matayo 'pare

"Thus, due to the great variety of desires and natures among human beings, there are many different theistic philosophies of life, which are handed down through tradition, custom and disciplic succession. There are other teachers who directly support atheistic viewpoints." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.8)

Modified when they gave delivery to their own disciples, some modification came. This is psychological truth.

Once in our psychological class, in our college, our professor told that: "Mind has got a colour." To prove that he told one thing. The class student arrangement was in this way. Begin from this side and coming around in this side. He told something to the first boy and put it in writing there, and kept on the table. And asked the first boy, speak it to the second, second to the third, third to the fourth, in this way. After fifty persons when it came he told: "Cry aloud what you have received from that man." He told and he wrote, "So the first thing was this, and when it came through me, through fifty members, now it has become like this." So colour, colour, colour. Modify, modify, in this way, from one guru, so many disciples are hearing, but according to their capacity, they're catching them and mixing with their own mental experience, they give delivery to their disciple. And that disciple also taking that modified thing, then again modification of his own mental colour and he's giving delivery, in this way. sa kāleneha mahatā, yogo naṣṭaḥ parantapa.

imaṁ vivasvate yogam, proktavān aham avyayam vivasvān manave prāha, manur ikṣvākave' bravīt evaṁ paramparā-prāptam, imaṁ rājarṣayo viduḥ sa kāleneha mahatā, yogo naṣṭaḥ parantapa

Kṛṣṇa tells Arjuna: "First I instructed the sun-god Sūrya in this knowledge, and from Sūrya it passed to Manu, and from Manu to Ikṣvāku; so from the beginning of time, I am giving My tidings to others, transmitting the truth that I am the goal through this system of disciplic succession, generation after generation. The current is damaged by the influence of this material world." (Bhagavad-gītā, 4.1-2)

By modification, modification, modification, the real truth to the minimum standard is reached, it's natural in the plane of māyā. So He has got the necessity of coming again, and again, to re-establish the same truth. When He's saying to Arjuna: "That I first, this is not new what I speak to you, this karma yoga. First I told it to Sūrya, and from Vaivasvata, from there Manu, in this way, it came down and now disappeared, minimum, I again say to you."

"How You told to Manu?"

"But I had My previous birth, I know them all, you do not know."

In this way, it is modified. Somewhere the modification becomes slow, somewhere it may be quick, but modification goes on, and again when it comes in the hand of a greater person who descends here, then again it is purified. It is also possible some stalwart persons are sent from Vaikunṭha, from Goloka, to take up the thread and continue. Then they take up, impurity is also purged out, and in the more purer type, he continues the current of purer type. It is also possible by His will.

So the śikṣā guru-paramparā has been taken by Gauḍīya Maṭh, not dikṣā guru, dikṣā guru from Vipina, Jāhnavā. So many persons, mostly ladies came to Vipina Goswāmī and Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura took from Vipina gosai. From Vipina gosai and Jāhnavā Devī, so many ladies are there. But Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura especially empowered by the Lord, he purified the whole canal, what dirt accumulated in the line, that was purified and delivered in a novel way. And our Guru Mahārāja he also came down to take up that thread and pushed in that line of Bhaktivinoda. Before this we find the purity can be traced in Viśvanātha Cakravārti Ṭhākura, and before that Narottama Ṭhākura. In the middle some dirt came within the thought, so śikṣā guru-paramparā has been accepted, not dikṣā guru, formal. The spirit is more important than the form. Who can understand the real spirit, he can neglect the form.

Devotee: So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, his real connection through śikṣā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He took it from Jagannātha Bābājī Mahārāja, he took śikṣā, and veśa, from Jagannātha Dāsa Bābājī.

Devotee: He mentions in Bhāgavata-Ārka-Marīci-mālā, he mentions that Svarūpa Dāmodara came to him in a dream, and told him to complete this book.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Compile and give new explanation of the first śloka of Bhāgavatam. In dream he got Svarūpa Dāmodara's explanation of the first śloka of Bhāgavatam, in new type, new, which is not given by the previous Ācārya, including Jīva Goswāmī.

"O my Lord, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, son of Vasudeva, O all pervading Personality of Godhead, I offer my respectful obeisances unto You. I meditate upon Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa because He is the Absolute Truth and the primeval cause of all causes of the creation, sustenance and destruction of the manifested universes. He is directly and indirectly conscious of all manifestations, and He is independent because there is no other cause beyond Him. It is He only who first imparted the Vedic knowledge unto the heart of Brahmājī, the original living being. By Him even the great sages and demigods are placed into illusion, as one is bewildered by the illusory representations of water seen in fire, or land seen on water. Only because of Him do the material universes, temporarily manifested by the reactions of the three modes of nature, appear factual, although they are unreal. I therefore meditate upon Him, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Who is eternally existent in the transcendental abode, which is forever free from the illusory representations of the material world. I meditate upon Him, for He is the Absolute Truth."(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1) (Śrīla Bhaktivedānta Swāmī's translation) ārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ, means that He knows the meaning of every incident in existence and that He is above giving any explanation to others. He is not responsible to any law or to anyone else. He is Absolute and Independent. And how do we know that? He has extended knowledge of Himself through the Vedas. Brahma means Veda. So, by the line of inspiration, or revelation, Vedic knowledge was transmitted to the first living being, the creator of the world, Lord Brahmā (tene brahma hṛdā ya ādi-kavaye). The scholars of the world fail to understand the strategy and nature of that sort of knowledge. They cannot follow the vital and fundamental points of Vedic knowledge, such as the transformation of one thing into another (muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ).

(Janmādy asya yato 'nvayād itararāś cārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāt, "Friends, let us enquire into the prime cause, whose nature is such that what ever we can see, and whatever we can conceive of springs from Him. He is the ultimate cause of everything, both directly and indirectly. Only He knows the purpose for which all things are created and maintained. Only He knows where all things will go. Only He is aware of the fact - no one else.

Water may be transformed into gas, gas may be transformed into heat. By such a process, we can understand the existence of this world (tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā), for by the transformation of the Lord's energy, the world comes into being. This transformation involves the three modes of nature, tamas, rajas, and sattva. tama means hard, static matter. raja means energy, and sattva means spirit, light, knowledge. So, by transformation this world has been created. In His abode, which is illumined by the ray of His own knowledge, there is no possibility of deception or misunderstanding. (dhāmnā svena sadā nirasta-kuhakaṁ satyaṁ param dhīmahi). Here we are being deceived through misunderstanding. We have entered a plane of existence where the whole world is full of misconception, falsity, and miscalculation. We are presently living in the world of māyā. māyā means mā-yā: "What is not." I am seeing something which is really something else.")

Tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā (S-B, 1.1.1). There, tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ. Jīva is represented as vāri, tej on the other side, the svarūpa śakti, and mṛd this world. Jīva is taṭastha, taṭastha jīva, has been compared there with vāri.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's new type of explanation comes in this line. Vāri, between teja, this higher, and earth. The middle stage is vāri and that is tat, the margin and jīva is of that position. In this way he has explained that śloka. It is difficult to follow. A new type of explanation in that śloka.

Many scholars, even including Śaṅkara school, that Sarasvatī, that writer of Advaita Siddhī, the greatest modern book of Advaita school, Madhusudhan Sarasvatī. He also attempted to give explanation of these three introductory śloka's of Bhāgavatam.

brahma hṛdā ya ādi-kavaye muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ (S-B, 1.1.1)

A mystic śloka, a poem very mystic. When I was a child in my home, I heard this śloka from one of my cousins. He was a good scholar, I remember, it seemed to me a very mystic śloka at that time though I was a child, especially this portion, tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo. Inter-change of this earth, water, and the fire, inter change. Yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā. Satya raja tama, the three guṇa's. These three general conceptions of things, tri-sargo 'mṛṣā, three has been taken in many ways of thought, tri-sargo, all very mystic. The whole thing coming in a śloka.

As much as Mahāprabhu says to Sanātana Goswāmī, when he says: "Oh You that explained ātmā-rāma śloka sixty one ways, You are Kṛṣṇa Himself, You can explain any way You like." Then Mahāprabhu told: "Why do you praise Me, Sanātana, don't you know that every letter of Bhāgavat is Kṛṣṇa Himself, purna, infinite, every letter of Bhāgavat is infinite, representing infinite meaning, so why do you praise Me, Sanātana."

So the first śloka of Bhāgavatam is containing everything. The whole infinite is there. Mahāprabhu says that: "Every letter is infinite, because no sum total of finite things can make infinite. In infinite, every part of infinite is infinite." So Bhāgavatam, the first śloka, the basis of the whole Bhāgavatam truth is condensed infinite. And when in my childhood I heard it, it seemed something, I heard many ślokas, but few śloka created impression in me as of that mystic type. This is one of them and especially this portion, tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā. Others are more or less clear.

janmādy asya yato 'nvayād itararāś cārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ tene brahma hṛdā ya ādi-kavaye muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ

This is more or less clear, but: tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mrṣā, this line seemed to me very much mystic. Dhāmnā svena sadā nirasta-kuhakaṁ satyaṁ paraṁ dhīmahi (S-B, 1.1.1), did not seem so much mystic. And some ślokaś in Bhāgavatam, seemed to me very encouraging, and condensed truth.

yathā nabhasi meghaugho, reṇur vā pārthivo 'nile evaṁ draṣṭari dr̥syatvam, āropitam abuddhibhiḥ

"The unintelligent equate the sky with the clouds, the air with the dust particles floating in it, and think that the sky is cloudy or that the air is dirty. Similarly, they also implant material bodily conceptions on the spiritual self." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.3.31) bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ kṣīyante cāśya

karmāṇi, mayi dr̥ṣṭe 'khilātmani

"The knot in the heart is pierced, all misgivings are cut to pieces and the chain of fruitive actions is terminated when I am seen as the Supreme Personality of Godhead."(S-B,11.20.30)

The few ślokaś like this, were very much, taught to me, that is the whole truth is within this here, representing the central thought. Just as Rūpa Goswāmī's śloka, all giving meaning of general character. What Rūpa Goswāmī has given mostly, that is that: sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ, a very central representation, whatever you do, it may not be devotion proper. One thing must be present. What is that? sevonmukhe ataḥ, serving attitude, then only will it have recognition of devotion, otherwise not, repetition of mundane jugglery. But sevonmukhe, the serving attitude, the spirit of dedication must be there, then it will be bhakti, devotion proper. To take the Name, to arcana (Deity worship), to dance, so forms are not the reality, but the reality is the underlying attitude, whether it is dedicating to Kṛṣṇa, that is the criteria.

"Because the name of Kṛṣṇa is identical with Kṛṣṇa Himself, and on the absolute spiritual platform, Kṛṣṇa's name, form, qualities, and associates, cannot be appreciated by the material senses. However, when one engages the tongue in chanting the Holy Names of the Lord and tasting the remnants of the Lord's food, Kṛṣṇa gradually reveals Himself to the purified senses of that devotee." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234)

So the criteria: aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, (Ujjvala-nīlamanī), the original thinking, that is giving explanation to many thoughts. The basic conception, generalised, basic conception is given mostly in the teachings of Rūpa Goswāmī. The depth of his conception is very high. So Mahāprabhu told that: "He's a proper person to deal with this kṛṣṇa-līlā. So I happily, by inspiration, I give all My good will to him. And you Svarūpa Dāmodar, you also do so. Whatever profit, capital, you have got, you invest with Rūpa, and there will come in colour, to help the people who have sukṛti (pious credit) in the posterity, keep it with him. You'll be able to deal them very carefully and fully." Rūpa Goswāmī.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Here I stop. Nitāi.

Ultimately, all the different camps, they have to contribute the consequence to Lord Kṛṣṇa.

Without that they cannot stand by themselves. Connecting the result with Kṛṣṇa, they can have some stand in their own sphere.

yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, yaj juhoṣi dadāsi yat yat tapasyasi kaunteya, tat kuruṣva mad arpaṇam

"O son of Kuntī, whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you offer in sacrifice, whatever you offer in charity, and whatever austere vows you may keep - do everything as an offering unto Me." (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.27)

You are making penances (tapasya), what is the necessity of mine there? No, ha ha, you must pay something to the Lord of the bank.

anyatha vijnava udar siddhi sudurlabha ?

Otherwise there will be much obstacles. The peace maintained for your tapasya, or any other purpose

So you will have to pay something to the Lord, the keeper of the administration of the whole. prema.

yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, yaj juhoṣi dadāsi yat yat tapasyasi kaunteya, tat kuruṣva mad arpaṇam

Here it is meant that: "Not a part of your acquisition, but the whole, whole, whatever you do, give the result, the consequence to Me."

For Itself, Reality is for Itself.

"I am the enjoyer of everything, and meant for Me. You are to gather such consciousness. Everything has got its respective position, but normal stage will be, that all for Me, you are to accept this, accept this, then you are alright. Gradually you will come one day to My direct service, but now, wherever you are, connect with Me."

For Itself, Reality is for Itself. "Everything for Me."

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānām, bhoktā ca prabhuḥ eva ca na tu mām abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te

"I am the Lord and I alone am the only enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices, of every action and all movements in this world. Everything belongs to Me, unconditionally, and you must be fully conscious of this fact. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death." (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24)

To understand this is to understand much. Everything meant for Him. To realise this properly is to realise much. He is the owner. He is the enjoyer. We exist for Him only. That is devotion. Wherever we are does not matter, but my aspiration will be to satisfy Him.

Stāne sthitāḥ (rejecting the intellectual approach). Mahāprabhu comes, jñāna-sunya- bhakti (knowledge free devotion). eho bāhya āge kaha āra (this is superficial, go deeper). Understand this much, not Veda, Vedānta, so many puzzling arguments, and processes of thoughts, abstract or nothing necessary. What is necessary, minimum, that He's the owner, He's the enjoyer. Wherever you are does not matter. Jñāna-sunya-bhakti, you are for Himself, everything for Himself. You may be a Vedāntist, or you may be an ordinary sweeper. That does not matter much, but you know only that you are for Him.

Pratāparudra, he was in the function of a king, an emperor, at that time, but that was no qualification to Mahāprabhu. When Mahāprabhu saw him, that he's working as a sweeper to Jagannātha, His heart melted. "Oh, he has not got the ego that he's master of the land, but he's a sweeper to the Jagannātha." Mahāprabhu's heart melted, and He embraced him a little after that day. For Him, for Him, a sweeper or a priest, does not matter much, but for Him, the intensity of the feeling, that I am for Him, that qualifies us. Our qualification is to the degree of that feeling. For Him, for Him.

And that fullest form is found in Rādhārāṇī. It is not possible in other rasa, or in other attempts. It must require parakīya. The crossing the direction of the śāstra, law, anything. Our relation between Kṛṣṇa and me, nothing can enter between. Everything may be set aside in our connection with the Lord. No barrier, either of sinner type, or this punyam, pure type, whether pure, impure, no consideration, nothing can stand in our way. Sattyasic, rajasic, tamasic, whatever colour it may have, nothing can stand between our intimate relationship that He's the enjoyer, and I am to be enjoyed. This intensity, intensity of that feeling, that sentiment, is found in the most comprehensive, and in the most intense way there. Twenty-four hours engagement, and deep engagement, that can satisfy Kṛṣṇa most. No parallel, unparalleled, it has been told to us, and that may attract us in any time, in our infinite age, that may be our aim. We may be grouped in this camp, in that camp, our highest aspiration.

Rādhā queen kuja ? The last.

"What was sanctioned by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu by His descent was intimately known only to Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī. It was adored by Sanātana Goswāmī and served by Rūpa Goswāmī and his followers. Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī tasted that wonderful thing fully and enhanced it with his own realisation. (He was assisted in doing so by Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī and Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī). And Jīva Goswāmī supported and protected it by quoting the scriptures from different places. The taste of that divine truth is aspired for by Brahmā, Śiva, and Uddhava, who respect it as the supreme goal of life. What is this wonderful truth? śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanā: that the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. This is most wonderful. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are our master. It is within your power to allow them to bestow their grace upon us. You are in a position to bestow the highest gift ever known to the world upon us all. It is at your disposal. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, please be kind to us and grant us your mercy."

(This poem in glorification of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, is one of ten, collectively known as Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam) Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) was very much satisfied with my poem about Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. It is written there, after the realisation of the service of Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana, highest.

"Śrī-gaurānumataṁ, sanctioned by Śrī Gaurāṅga. svarūpa-viditaṁ, which is thoroughly understood by Svarūpa Dāmodara, who is none but Lalitā Sakhī. rūpāgrajenādrtaṁ, Śrī Sanātana Goswāmī has admired very much this position. rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ, and distributed by Śrī Rūpa himself with his paraphernalia. raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam, and tasted properly by Raghunātha, and also enhanced something there. jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ, and Śrī Jīva with followers, that Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa and others by the śāstric argument and reasoning, therein, tried their best to show to the world that this is the highest position. By reason and quotation of revealed truth, revealed scriptures, they tried their best to prove this, abhirakṣitaṁ. śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ, and we find mentioned in different parts of the scripture that Brahmā, Śiva, Uddhava, they're aspiring after such a position. And you Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are in a position to give such blessing to us, give us admission, you can give us admission to such thought, to such stage of our life, you can give admission, you are so great, so high."

Prabhupāda was very much pleased with this. "That Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura himself has written this through him." That was his remark. "It is not written by him, it is written by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura himself, through his pen." Very much satisfied.

Rūpānuga-bara. He has mentioned in many places that the highest amongst those followers of Śrī Rūpa, Rūpānuga-bara. One of the principal ācārya's who has properly understood and realised, and given to others, preached about the glories, about the glorious position of the servants of Śrī Rūpa, of the followers of Śrī Rūpa. This is Gauḍīya Maṭh, rūpānuga-sampradāya. And they're found in the line of śikṣa-guru, not this body succession, but the realisation we find from their character and their conduct. Their preaching and their practice, strictly, where we find it is there. Not body succession, but this realisation succession of the Śrī Rūpa distributed, idea of the service of Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa, etc. Gaura Hari, Gaura Hari. Rūpānuga.

Jīva Goswāmī was a disciple of Rūpa Goswāmī, and Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, a disciple of Advaita Ācārya's disciple Yadunandana Ācārya, was accepted by Rūpa and Sanātana as their third brother. Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī's dearmost student and servant was Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī, who was an intimate friend of Lokanātha Goswāmī who lived with Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja in Vṛndāvana. Lokanātha Goswāmī was a disciple of Gadādhara Paṇḍita, and Lokanātha Goswāmī's only disciple was Narottama Dāsa Ṭhākura who was always engaged in the service of both his Guru Lokanātha Goswāmī and Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja. Narottama's follower, Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura (who was the fourth ācārya in disciplic succession from Narottama), had no desire other than the service of Narottama Dāsa Ṭhākura's lotus feet."

It is coming through this line.

I have no real interest in any devotional service to them, and I am a poor and lowly tridaṇḍī sannyāsī by the name of Śrī Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī."

From Bimala, Bimala Prasād was his previous name, he took that vow? and went to Rādhārāṇī's service. Then Vṛṣabhānu, from Vṛṣabhānu-nandinī, Rādhārāṇī, Vṛṣabhānu is the father of Rādhārāṇī. Vārṣabhānavī means the daughter of the king of Vṛṣabhānu. Śrī- vārṣabhānavī-barā, always holding high position, barā. Sadāsevya-sevā-parā, constant servitor of that, the daughter of the king of Vṛṣabhānu. Dayita-dāsa-nāma, his name is Dayita-dāsa. Dayita-dāsa. He's known to the people as Dayita-dāsa. Śrī-vārṣabhānavī-barā, sadāsevya-sevā-parā, tāhāra dayita-dāsa-nāma.

(Gauḍīya-Kaṇṭhāra, Guru-Tattva; and Songs of the Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas, p 90-3)

This is the line of the stalwarts coming distributing this purest current. Holding purest current in their existence, and we are concerned with that only, nothing else, nothing else. The current that's coming from there to here, through particular channels, our all, whole attention, dedication, to that current, to be bathed, to be captured and to be transformed into the caviar (something too good to appeal to popular taste) of that current. To be absorbed in that current is our highest aim of life, the purest type.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Sarvātma-snapanam, Mahāprabhu says taking the Name, sarvātma-snapanam, wholesale bathing, bath means purification and also some sort of self-gratification. Purification, side by side, feeling of purification, bath. Sarvātma-snapanam, the wholesale, the whole existence is purified and can feel the satisfaction of purity, in that current if we can take bath, sarvātma-snapanam. Every nook and corner, every part of my body gets purified. And also so many, sarvātma, all the souls that can come there may be purified, sarvātma. Ātmā means ātmā as a whole, every part of the soul and also many souls may come. In saṅkīrtana many souls may come to be purified together, at one stroke everyone may be purified. Sarvātma-snapanam param vijayate śrī-kṛṣṇa-saṅkīrtanam (Śrī Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1). Purification and satisfaction, going together. Bath, taking bath means purification and satisfaction, so both. Generally by satisfaction we incur some reaction, that in the exploiting world we find. But here purification and satisfaction can go together simultaneously. This satisfaction, anādam, that is not to be compared with satisfaction by enjoyment here.

Generally we are acquainted with satisfaction which comes from enjoyment, by exploitation. Then by renunciation also some satisfaction may come, by avoiding some disturbing elements. And again by inviting and welcoming something higher, we may be satisfied and purified, purified. Renunciation can give purification very weak and slight because that may not stand for long time. We cannot ignore the environment for good. It is not possible. We are a factor of the whole universe. We can't ignore them. So renunciation means when it goes to samādhi, to eternal slumber like thing, and that is also temporary, that must, cannot but be temporary because the influence of the environment will come and push him, will awake him. We can't ignore the tremendous force of the environment. We can't ignore.

āruhya kṛcchreṇa param padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādr̥ta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ. Cannot accept the positive connection, they're sure to fall down again, āruhya kṛcchreṇa param padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho. After some long time maybe, duration in that point may be a little long, but the force of the environment cannot be ignored. Once that will come and attack and disturb that sleeping man.

yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ

(Someone may say that aside from Vaiṣṇavas, who always seek shelter at the Lord's lotus feet, there are those who are not Vaiṣṇavas but who have accepted different processes for attaining salvation. What happens to them? In answer to this question, Lord Brahmā and the other demigods said:) "O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32)

So renunciation, retirement, that cannot be eternal, for some time. And if you can enter into the positive, that is an eternal flow is there. Here is also not eternal. Māyā is limited but Vaikuṇṭha, the unlimited, that is only possible with the nature of dedication. Vaikuṇṭha. All the stuff, all the constituting parts are eternal there, and the function is also eternal, eternal, but there is vilās.

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet ato hetor ahetoś ca,
yūnor māna udañcati

Rūpa Goswāmī says: "Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."
(Ujjvala-nīlamanī)

Zig-zag way, not a plain and straight line. Straight dealings are generally in the Vaikuṇṭha, but it is crooked and more crooked in Goloka, because it has to harmonise with everything. What we consider here to be worst, that is also harmonised there to become the best, so harmonise, it is possible only through love.

A blind son to a mother is told to be of eye like a lotus, lotus eyed child, there is a proverb in Bengal, kanacheli padalochan. The motherly affection sees a blind boy as endowed with good eye. Love, love compensates everything for us. We are naturally born weak, defective, but if we can anyhow drag ourselves in the plane of love, then no mourning for our defects can exist there. The circumstance compensates everything.

Just as in the country, in the European country, any child born they can get sustenance from the state. Here in India, and other poor countries, a child born may die without food, but in the rich countries, civilised countries, in Europe and America, etc, anyone born, the government is there to nourish the child. Automatically he will get nourishment from the state.

So anyone, anyhow, placed in the land of love, the environment will take care of him. No negligence, no negligence. The land of love. Everyone may come to be attracted to his inferiority. "Oh you are inferior, yes I am here, I am here to nurse you, to take care of you." Every unit is madly running after their prey. Where to invest something. All opulence. And whatever the defect by their touch, the defect is automatically removed because compensation is of that type, is of eternal kind, type. So by their touch, by their care, by their help, straightly he comes to the highest end of life, it is possible with their grace, kṛpā, dayal, grace. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

One who has got such idea, they have got the authority and the courage to blame even the Śaṅkara and Buddhist schools. They recommend about only salvation, emancipation from the diseased. "You do not know how positive helping land is there hopeful for us. You do not know, you simply only withdrew from this negative side of painfulness. You say: 'Oh we have done.' You are ignorant of the positive help that comes automatically for everyone, so you say so." So the Vaiṣṇava's, the mātāvādī's are the worst enemies to them. "What do you preach as the goal of the soul that is not the goal, goal is here, goal not only in Vaikuṇṭha, but it is in Goloka, in the land of Kṛṣṇa, that is the goal proper of all, saro pesha bara goloka dristic ?

In our inner conception, existence, we are a member of that land of imaginary purification and resources, resourcefulness."

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Mahāprabhu came to inform all these things and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam:

nigama-kalpa-taror galitaṁ phalaṁ, śuka-mukhād amṛta-drava-saṁyutam pibata bhāgavataṁ rasam ālayaṁ, muhur aho rasikā bhuvi bhāvukāḥ

"O expert and thoughtful men, relish Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the mature fruit of the desire tree of Vedic literatures. It emanated from the lips of Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī. Therefore this fruit has become even more tasteful, although its nectarean juice was already relishable for all, including liberated souls." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.3)

The natural fruit, and that is ripe, in ripe fruit of the Veda tree. Just fully prepared for us, not raw materials from which we can get our sustenance but ready made.

End of recording.

83.6.21-24

Devotee: this is referring to Rādhārāṇī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is within that verse?

Devotee: Ārcanacanch (?), Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And that you have finished?

Devotee: Yes, I have finished. It is being typed now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now it is a new thing? What is this?

Devotee: Yes. This is a verse which I cannot understand. Is the Guru in the form of a gopī or Rādhārāṇī?

tvam gopika vrsaravets tanaya anti kesi seva adi karani guroh nija pada padme dasyam pradaya kuru mam braja kanaya sri radha anghri sevana rase sukinim sukabjay ?

There's a Bengali translation here

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sukabjay means

(Guru Mahārāja and the devotee(s) speak Bengali) Bengali translation?

Devotee:

hey seva adikari ananda ambuddhi gurudeva apni vrisabana nandaniya nikatay avatiti gopika ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Devotee:

ama ke apna nija pada padme dasya pradam koriya braja kanaya sri radha pada padma seva rase suki korana ?

So the question is that gopika, what is gopika ? Is it referring to Rādhārāṇī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: To Rādhārāṇī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sakhī, gopika, gopika manjari, gopika Lalita, only They are gopika, tvam gopika, any of Them. It is not fixed, according to the inner tendency of the disciple, s/he will be grouped in a particular camp of service. And there, who will be the leader of him, Guru is meant there, my guide, my principal guide in my service. When I have attained the highest position I shall be in the mādhyama-rasa and they're all helping the service of Rādhārāṇī, and there are also different departments in which I am posted, the head of that department is my Guru. "You are gopika, you are Rādhārāṇī's servitor, and you make me happy by giving facility for my service towards Rādhārāṇī." That is the purport.

"You are always nearby Vṛsabhānu, ujar (?), Rādhārāṇī. You are always under Her direct service. And You please give me the facility that I can render the service and maybe accepted in the group for Rādhārāṇī."

Devotee: The sevā adi karani guru, that refers to the expertise of the Guru ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sevā adi karani, tvam gopika vrsaravets tanaya anti kesi ? "You are always adjacent to Her, O my Gurudeva, you are always adjacent to Vṛsabhānu's daughter Rādhārāṇī." Then?

Devotee: sevā adi karani guroh nija pada padme

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "You are entrusted with responsible service for Her. There you may be allowed to partake there in your service. You are engaged in the service of Rādhārāṇī and you engage me also in that service where by which you are giving supply to the service of Rādhārāṇī. You engage me there."

Tvam gopika vrsaravets tanaya anti kesu, You are always nearby the great lady leaders of Rādhārāṇī, anti kesu, you always have engagement in the service. And please give me to partake in that service. And which is so sweet and rasabjay, and the lotus if it rasabday then the ocean of ecstasy, and rasabjay that is very beautiful, ecstatic lotus of divine feet. Which is very sweet feet like lotus of Rādhārāṇī. You are sporting service there and please give me chance to be accepted there."

That is the prayer, tvam gopika vrsaravets tanaya anti kesu

Devotee: That's clear. There was, yesterday you were Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The difficulty is that the position of Guru varies. According to one's innate nature of service, the immediate leader, he says as Guru. So Guru is generally rūpānugā, we must serve under the direction of Rūpa Mañjarī. Rūpa Mañjarī is the leader of the junior school of the gopīs, she is the leader of the junior section.

Devotee: Junior section?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The senior section sometimes they cannot enter where Rādhā- Kṛṣṇa are alone there. The senior section they keep aloof and the junior section can enter there to render confidential service at that time. So junior section, in one way, they hold the highest benefit, so rūpānugā, rūpānugā sampradāya. And Rūpa also, they're also under Lalitā, but Lalitā's a little senior so sometimes senior friends they can't go to the camp where Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are the only two there. So the junior section can approach, just them. So the most confidential circle, the leader of the most confidential junior circle is Śrī Rūpa, so rūpānugā means Rūpa Guru. Our Gurudeva is one and the same with Rūpa Mañjarī in mādhyama-rasa.

Also it may be in the sakhya-rasa, Śrīdama, Subala, (in the immediate that is group?) Guru conception will go and there vanish in Subala, or Śrīdama, or Baladeva, in sakhya-rasa. Dāsya-rasa also, in vātsalya-rasa also.

In this way the leaders are in a particular position and according to my inner capacity he will be identified and fixed there. And I shall have to do my service under his direction. That is my Gurudeva. They're all Guru, everything is Guru there, but the special leading officers just over me will be mainly my Gurudeva. Otherwise all Guru, on all sides they're our Guru, they're all helping me to Kṛṣṇa's group. Who is he who can help me to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa's service, he's Guru, his work. Guru's function is to help Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa's service. Everything, even a tree, a sand dust, that also all reminding me there, but the main Guru will be the leader where I am posted and the permanent guiding officer, they're main Guru stands.

And our Guru Mahārāja told: "If we can cast a glance a little higher then we can see that Guru is Rādhārāṇī, one and the same."

"I don't care to know about others, but I know if I can have a deeper vision of my Gurudeva, I can see her identified as Rādhārāṇī."

More spacious, more developed, is almost focused in (..... ?) Rādhārāṇī perfectly focused in the heart of my Gurudeva fully."

That is relative, all relative position.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: Getting ready to discuss it and then we close the conversation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. What is that point? Why you're searching for that point? That is mentioned about Prakṛta-sahajīya-sata-dusani, but really I meant that Caitanya- Upaniṣad. What is that point?

Devotee: I was just wondering in the English how to express this upakaran ?

So here is the Sanskrit, this is Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's Sanskrit commentary. Caranāmṛtam is the name, Caitanya-caranāmṛtam is the name of his tika. So here he says:

etena mantrena jivasya bada darsa tyaga cinmoya vrndavana lila upa carana tva prapti tad anantaram rasadi parama

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: After this it is clear?

Devotee: No, the problem is how to express lila upa carana tva prapti in English.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lila upa carana tva prapti.

Devotee: He's not actually in līlā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lila upa carana, that is the age, the colour, the dress. "I am such and such. I am in that position to serve. I am required in that particular office to serve in a particular department. And the necessary dress, the age, and other figurative ornamentation of one's own self in soul, that is lila upa carana, to get that.

Devotee: Just like in siddha-praṇālī the ekadāsa

Devotee: Utilised in līlā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To be befitting the līlā, the dress, one's own conception of the self befitting the līlā. All these I am, gets all these things, necessary.

Devotee: Now there's another way, but another thing here is simple, but it says:

jīva eva sat karasa caranam

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the paraphernalia?

Devotee: It is referring to the jīva, jagad, and also māyā.

Devotee:

yat kincita sambutom te saram tat karja misyate tat karanam param jiva sadak saram iti rtam jiva eva sat ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jiva eva sat, it is eternally existing. Then karasya karanam, the kara, what is always changing, kara means changing aspect of the world. The jīva is there within. Yayedam dhāryate jagat, taṭastha śakti, māyā śakti,

Devotee: So the cetana of the jīva is maintaining the dhāryate jagat ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Pravisya, jaram-pravisya (?), this mortal representation is making possible the jīva entering into that.

mama yonir mahad-brahma, tasmin garbhaṁ dadhāmy aham sambhavaḥ sarva-bhūtānāṁ, tato bhavati bhārata

("O Bhārata, material nature, known as pradhāna, is the womb into which I cast the seed (in the form of the individual soul which is born of the marginal potency). From that place, all beings headed by Lord Brahmā are generated.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 14.3) apareyam itas tv anyāṁ, prakṛtiṁ viddhi me parāṁ jīva-bhūtāṁ mahābāho, yayedam dhāryate jagat

("O mighty hero, Arjuna, this worldly nature known as external, is inferior. But distinct from this nature, you should know My marginal potency, comprised of the individual souls, to be superior. This world is accepted by this superior conscious potency as an object of exploitation for sense enjoyment, by the agency of each individual's fruit-hunting actions and reactions. The divine world emanates from My internal potency and the mundane world from My external potency. The potency of the living beings is known as marginal, on account of their medial adaptability - they may choose to reside either in the mundane plane or the divine.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 7.5)

So para-śakti, inferior māyā-śakti, that para-śakti enters into māyā-śakti and makes this mortal world possible to move. The jīva is sat, the jīva himself is sat, which means eternal, and this para is changing, mortal, and jīva enters into it and makes this mortal world possible. Jīva eva sat karasya karanam, within this kṣara, it is within and making it possible. Otherwise it is all dark, unknown and unknowable. Only jīva, a spark is there, so this changing world is possible to be known and recorded, researched, anything, because one drop of consciousness is within. Otherwise it is all dark, unknown and unknowable. If jīva soul is taken away from this kṣara it is all matter, no trace. Only a spark is carrying all these changing aspects of the world, kṣara. Kṣara means sat, akṣara is jīva and akṣara's touch in the kṣara making this world possible to move.

akṣaram brahmā paramam ?

para devito ham akṣara devito stama ?

"I am beyond this kṣara and akṣara, both."

Akṣara is jīva-tattva and kṣara is prakṛti, prākṛta world.

Devotee: Just one word which I also cannot find in the dictionary, āvartayati.

Devotee: nityam āvartayati.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Always revolving.

Devotee: Punar punar karana.

Devotee: Repeating.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, punar punar, up and down

ābrahma-bhuvanāl lokāḥ, punar āvartino 'rjuna mām upetya tu kaunteya,
punar janma na vidyate

("O Arjuna, from the planet of Lord Brahmā downwards, the residents of all planets are naturally subjected to repeated birth and death. But, O Kaunteya, upon reaching Me, there is no rebirth.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 8.16)

Going up, down, up, down, in this way, āvartino, revolving.

Devotee: Ah, āvartino, I see, ok, it was mainly that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

.....

Devotee: from one Bengali gentleman. He told me that there's only one place in the world where there is no bhumi-kampha (?), earthquake, and he said that is in Kashi. Is that true?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No.

Devotee: No, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In that great Bihar bhumi-kampha, perhaps in the 1933 or so, a great earthquake centring in Bihar, and including Benares. At that time some of our Godbrothers were removing the Deity from one hired house to another, at that time a great earthquake came. One of my Godbrothers he described that: "We all fled. Mahāprabhu was kept on a stool, a small table, there Mahāprabhu was kept. And at that time suddenly in the afternoon a great earthquake came and we all fled from the house and went to the street." And he told that: "I thought that the small table Mahāprabhu was kept standing on must be moved and broken to pieces." He told, "But I wondered when I came back that Mahāprabhu was wonderfully standing there." A great earthquake in Benares.

Devotee: 1933.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In 1933. And there is a song of course, bhumi-kampha-abay ? "When the day of great doom will come near." At that time all those things will happen, there in that song, bhumi-kampha-abay kashi kashi tirtha dhami. Then the brāhmaṇas will be like śūdra, then so many opposite characteristics will be seen and bhumi-kampha will attack kashi dhama. And a great, what is impossible, that will come to happen and the last day will draw in.

Devotee: Earthquake is most inauspicious sign.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All the opposites have been collected there.

Devotee: He had related one story about one gayaśura, he had mentioned some story about gayaśura in relation Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, that is some other thing altogether when he is describing the last stage of Kali. When the Kali-kala will come to its full bloom then all these impossible things will come to happen. There is a song like that. All the undesirables will come to happen. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Then the Kalki Avatāra will come and finish the reactionaries.

Devotee: This is another thing I can't understand. In this Kalki-Purāṇa by Śrīla Vyāsadeva, it gives the historical reference to when the Kalki-Purāṇa was spoken. So it was spoken after the third seating, between Śukadeva and Parīkṣit Mahārāja. Right after that period, then Mārkaṇḍeya Ṛṣi comes in and then Śukadeva Goswāmī relates Kalki-Purāṇa in his presence. So does that mean that what is in this Kalki-Purāṇa is going to happen or is it a description from a previous kalpa, yuga, how to take it?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, both may be possible, and the previous scripture with some new addition Śukadeva may say to him. One who can see the future, with that addition and the past modified, he may deliver to Mārkaṇḍeya.

Devotee: So these things may be taken that they are going to happen or in a general way it's taken?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally it happens like that with little modification. Every day you get up from your bed, you go to the latrine, then you come and take some breakfast, and then the newspaper, or something, this general habit. But there will be change also, not exactly copied every day, but general thing and with some new addition. So kalpa, Brahmā's day means one kalpa-ved, almost similar things are going to happen but with little change. Already the copy of the previous day, the routine, the previous day's routine generally repeated but with little change every day. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: People in the Western world will not know what to think about the Kalki- Purāṇa. It will be a very good preaching tool.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. Distraction. They know the condition of the world after the atomic war. What is Kalki, ha, ha, ha, they will think that they're prey to that inevitable history. They may try their best not to throw atom but some force will come and utilise them or make them instruments to help that general force and they can't help withdraw it. So some other force is there, ha, ha, that will create, use them, utilise them as an instrument and create the destruction of Kalki, general destruction. The path when it's full thing is seen that is mutual exploitation, intense exploitation amongst them, that mutual intense exploitation will come to such a degree that it will burst, it will combine and burst, and then some reaction will come again. As the resultant of exploitation, the individual or provincial or national, whatever it may be, the resultant of the tendency of exploitation of one another, that will come to meet and create a disaster which is inevitable. We will be helpless instrument there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Cinamasta, there is one līlā, she is beheaded and with her hand she is has held the head and the blood oozing, coming, and in her face she is drinking.

Devotee: Kali?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, Cinamasta, one of the līlā of the Devī.

Devotee: Durga?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Durga, Cinamasta, she is drinking her own blood. How? The beheaded head is in her hand and the blood oozing and it is falling at her face, in her mouth, and she is drinking.

But this civilisation is suicidal, the knowledge, the Einstein, the Newton, they have given so much invention and that is being utilised to devour this whole creation. Suicidal civilisation, reactionary, so connect you with the Infinite Good. All activity, all movement must be guided by the central interest, not any provincial or local interest, then clash is inevitable, clash is inevitable if you try to look with any provincial benefit, welfare. Nothing less than the Absolute Centre should be the point of our guidance. So Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, nothing less than the Centre where no consideration of provincialism, all universal. Put food to the stomach, the whole body will be fed, that theory. Put water to the root, the whole tree will be fed.

Yasmin tuṣṭe jagat tuṣṭam priṇite priṇito jagat, By satisfying Kṛṣṇa, the whole universe becomes satisfied, for one who is dear to Kṛṣṇa is dear to the whole universe.

yajñārthāt karmaṇo 'nyatra, loko 'yaṁ karma-bandhanaḥ tad-artham
karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara

"Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death.

Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa-bhakti)." (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9)

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca na tu mām
abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te

("-Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24)

You will be saved if you devote your energy for My purpose."

You are saved, otherwise the provincialism, small or big group, and clash is inevitable, unavoidable. So you may worship other gods, demigods, that is also provincial interest, individual interest, group interest. So eliminate all sorts of group interest and only connect with the universal point. And that is beautiful and that is autocrat, there is beauty and there is autocracy. You must remember that. Whole sustenance and sacrifice also must be great autocracy. Sacrifice to an autocrat, that is not very easy, but the solace, the consolation is beautiful, is very easy also. If we are attracted by His beauty everything is possible. No difficulty to surrender to an autocrat if my interest is best represented there. The charm, the love, beauty, harmony, that is safe. This is Kṛṣṇa consciousness, sarva-dharmān, justification of this clarion call.

"Give up all duties and come to Me, I shall protect you." The meaning of this clarion call, "Give up all sorts of respective duties, local duties, and come to the absolute point. You will be saved." Sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja, "The whole one side, myself alone one side, give up all, come to Me alone, I am the key to this whole, to the existence of the whole thing. And what is Myself? Beauty."

Everyone wants beauty, rasam, ānandam, ecstasy. None will say that I don't want, you may profess, hypocritically you may pronounce, but that is not heart, heart can never say that I don't want ānandam, sukham, beauty, love, harmony. But that thing that everyone wants, what is the relief, the shelter of everything, that is autocrat, that does not hold any lower position to anything else, cannot, that is Absolute. But everyone wants He is absolute from the inner heart, not from the surface. Rasi vai sah, and also it's not power but beauty, love, not control.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṣara, kṣarati ākṣara mayi putastha kṣarati yesas mayi ?

Devotee: Unchangeable change and changeable change.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. As relative.

Devotee: Where everything is dynamic, wherever something is dynamic it is changing always.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All the planets are moving and sun is fixed, but sun is also moving, all relative position. Sun is fixed, that is ākṣara, and they are kṣara, they are all moving, changing.

Devotee: Kṣara is gross material conception of consciousness, is it?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṣara is that which is connected with exploitation, moving to exploit, movement of exploitation, that is kṣara. And those souls that are under the influence of exploitation, they are called the kṣara group. And those that are above the exploitation, holding their position fixed, not to be removed by the exploiting tendency, they are standing still ākṣara, sightseer. And those participating in the exploiting energy, they who have become slave to the exploiting energy, they're all kṣara, kṣaraḥ sarvāṇi bhūtāni:

(dvāv imau puruṣau loke, kṣaraś cākṣara eva ca kṣaraḥ sarvāṇi bhūtāni, kūṭa-stho 'kṣara ucyate uttamaḥ puruṣas tv anyah, paramātmety udāhṛtaḥ yo loka-trayam āviśya, bibharti avyaya īśvaraḥ)

("In this world, there are two kinds of souls: the fallible and the infallible. All beings from Lord Brahmā down to the lowest stationary life-forms are known a fallible (as they have deviated from their intrinsic nature). But the personalities who are eternally situated in their divine nature are known as infallible (personal associates of the Lord).

But totally distinct from both these types of souls, there is a Supreme Person who is known as Paramātmā, the Supersoul. He is the Supreme Lord. Entering into the three worlds in His eternal form, He maintains all beings in the universe.")

(Bhagavad-gītā, 15.16-17)

Everything whatever you find in the material world, all kṣara, all changing, moving, what is moving. And ākṣara standing still, stand still, śakṣī, only seeing what is going on, śakṣī-svarūpa. But sometimes they also get movement either this side or that side with the principal of dedication they again enter into Vaikuṇṭha and movement, then they're not ākṣara.

Devotee: This is our view that consciousness or spirit is the cause of matter. We say like this, consciousness or spirit is the cause of matter.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By consciousness this misconsciousness is matter, matter created from misuse of consciousness proper.

83.6.24-27

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: more divine existence there, līlā mādhyā. So now and then few and far between it is found that these self-satisfied ātmārāma's they're captured by some higher agencies, their balance disturbed. Mahāprabhu told the Bhāgavatam to Vasudeva and: "By this you can guess that there is superior existence."

yat prayenam nayo rajena vitra viddi sedita nirgunasta ramante snana gunana cathani hari ?

They find pleasure when they talk about the pastimes of the superior entity. Though they have no want, they do not admit that they have got any want in life. But still some positive existence of the higher society they admit, here now and then we find mentioned in the scriptures. And so following that thread they're to find out that there (it's warned?) and if we do, scientific way, if a scientific search is possible above that (reward?), the first deed surrender. And the degree of surrender you'll be allowed to find within you that world coming down. This is devotional area, pure devotional area is such. Not only you will be passive, not aggressive, passive, and most inviting nature, heart, creates hunger. Expected helpless expectation.

His sweet will may come or may not come, may come or may not come. You're to wait for years and years. Sometimes a thief will come, sometimes again withdrawn, but other thieves will all take care. No other things of this mundane world will be able to produce any small point of satisfaction. Waiting for that peculiar type of ecstasy.

Otherwise life is useless, tasteless, tasteless without any fulfilment. That slight touch will convince us that the fulfilment of your life is very, very high standard. At that time the lives of the devotees' can help you a great deal, as it is given in Ambrosia, Śrī Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam. The realisation of the great personages, that will encourage you in that. "Oh, here I found how happy they have become coming in connection with that great substance or existence." These are the witness, evidence, in śāstra and sādhu, they'll be our beacon light. In the uncertain future of us, the beacon light to give us hope. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Light houses, so sādhu at every stage, at every day's stage our capital will be those light houses. In the infinite ocean light houses will be our guide, beacon light. That will be all solace to us, sādhu śāstra, and their light how happy, happier than us.

So the path of faith, path of faith, and hope, and the negative value will, that what we've already got that is nothing, that will push us. What you have got this has got no value, but what prospect we hear about us, that is very hopeful, very hopeful. What we have realised already this is not sufficient for us. "I'm not satisfied with my present position. But ātmārāma, one who is satisfied with his own, the prospect of his own position as soul, jīva soul." There is a layer where they find satisfaction of their own present realisation. But very few of them get a lift and to go above and they then find those beacon lights uncertain area, how to go. But it is very easy when they're in a group, sādhu-saṅga group, by the help of one another they can march in an unknown area, saṅga-bhadra (?), sādhu-saṅga, it becomes very easy. Of similar nature with a particular group they are marching towards the unknown, under the guidance of the śāstra sādhu.

Devotee: Mahārāja, we like to feel that we're part of your group. Maybe some lifetime

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: But you know how to read the map.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I am swimming in the ocean with the beacon light of Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) and so many others. It is infinite. None can say that "I have made some tangible progress." Ha, ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. It is infinite.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

"I want to be a property, I am master's property." We are to consider like that. Property of my master and not master of myself. That should be our position. There will be someone who will take care of me as his property. That will be our good fortune that some higher agent will think of me as his property and take care wholesale.

Devotee: So that is why we came here Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: The medicine which you are dealing is very potent.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Practically if we really want to come in connection with śuddha- bhakti, what is the pure devotion, how far faith should go? That is "die to live," that Hegelian expression is very helpful, "die to live." Sudhira Goswāmī Mahārāja, he wanted to give the name of the book Die to Live. I told: "No, The Search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa, kṛṣṇānusandhāna. Brahma-jijñāsā, in Veda we find Vedānta, brahma-jijñāsā, a general hazy of the whole structure, athāto brahma-jijñāsā, in Vedānta. And that was, when giving life came to the hand of Mahāprabhu, kṛṣṇānusandhāna, search for Kṛṣṇa. What is brahma-jijñāsā in the plane of knowledge, brahma-jijñāsā, "now I like to make enquiry about the Absolute." He's a subject, he wants to enquire about the Absolute and the Absolute is personified in Mahāprabhu, Kṛṣṇa, and he is mad, "I'm searching for Kṛṣṇa, where is Kṛṣṇa?" When life is given to brahma-jijñāsā then the brahma- jijñāsā became kṛṣṇānusandhāna. "He's personal, He's loving, He's beautiful. I'm mad to find Him, that Absolute. And that brahma is endowed with love, then no longer enquiry but I am mad to find out Him, my other half, I can't stand, I can't tolerate my half position. I want my fulfilment with the other half, coming in connection with the other half, madly enquiring. The brahma-jijñāsā is an abstract thing, like it seems to be a luxury, to a Vaiṣṇava the Vedānta enquiry will be like a type of luxury. But when living, that jijñāsā endowed with life it will come madly searching, "Where is that beauty? What is that love, sweetness, my friend? I want to meet Him." That came in Mahāprabhu and when it came in the hand of Mahāprabhu that enquiry after the Absolute came Vedānta that got life as kṛṣṇānusandhāna, search for Kṛṣṇa, as a general attitude, search for Kṛṣṇa.

And how that is possible? So I wanted to add into the title in the lower portion, through dedication. And what is the characteristic of dedication? Die to live. And love means die to live, that is love divine. Every second you are dying and through that new death you are attaining, just as a diver in the sea whose searching for the jewels within the ocean. In every dive he comes out with some new jewellery. So die to live, accept something like death and come out with new jewel in your hand.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Die to live, search for Kṛṣṇa. And also I added that first in the beginning, all risk no gain, but when we make some progress then we find, all success and no risk. Ha, ha. What I thought to be a risk that was māyā, unnecessary, ha, ha, that's a diseased condition. I thought that this is my home, a mortal world, this is a good province I thought. But when I can get out of this mortal area and find an eternal identification of myself, "Oh, this is a world of disease, a warning, to come in living body that is a diseased condition of the soul." So no risk all gain when we attain higher position. And at the present we shall be all risk no gain, there is no hope, fixed and sure, certain hope until I can come to that position. And that is independent of me, higher existence. Only by their sweet will I can be taken in, I have nothing to do, only my fortune, but still, that sort of realm existing.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, the Prakṛta-rasa-sata-dusani, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hundreds of defects in the imitationist school.

Devotee: Imitationist, should it be Vaiṣṇava imitationist?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Imitationist of the true Vaiṣṇavism.

Devotee: For the Western countries it has to be presented in a way they can relate to it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Be careful about the śuddha-vaiṣṇava, so-called, so-called imitationist Vaiṣṇava. Hundreds of warnings against the physical charm of śuddha- vaiṣṇava.

Devotee: Physical charm?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Physical and mental also, material charm of the śuddha-vaiṣṇava. What is this called? Beckoned, they're inviting, "come to us, we're Vaiṣṇava," but be careful, hundreds of

Devotee: One hundred warnings

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Warnings.

Devotee: Not faults, warnings.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Warnings, against the call of śuddha-vaiṣṇava imitationist. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: I have read many times

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have read?

Devotee: Many times about Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura's love for the printing press.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh yes. He gave the name of br̥hat-mṛdaṅga, the greater mṛdaṅga means that playing the musical instrument, mṛdaṅga, br̥hat-mṛdaṅga, it is very big mṛdaṅga whose sound will go far, far away. That name was given to press by him. And we are told that you are getting the chance of utilising yourself in that br̥hat-mṛdaṅga and you have got some ability to do that. Our Aranya Mahārāja has intimated that you may help the press affairs nicely when you will come here with a good mind to do that and he's able also to do that.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Every day that would be taken into Calcutta for distribution, by train or how did that work?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nadīyā Prakash ?

Devotee: Nadīyā Prakash, yes, how was that distributed in Calcutta?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By canvassers in Navadvīpa, then Calcutta, so many subscribers when the preaching party moved from different parts of the country they also collected subscribers in this way. And also in the Calcutta market, in the Navadvīpa area station, big station also they're like hawker, the brāhmacārīs came to spread like hawkers. Red clad brāhmacārīs they're hawkers, "Nadīyā Prakash, eka paisa, Nadīyā Prakash, take, one paisa," distributed.

And so many persons used to come to ridicule those boys. "You have no parents to take care of you? You are let loose for this unnecessary activity? What are you doing? You are devouring, swallowing your own future, you boys go, go home. With red clad come to canvas newspaper, what is Nadīyā Prakash ? You are faced with such adverse position and pushing Nadīyā Prakash. As you are doing something in a more civilised way, canvassing books and you want something, donation. And specially in the enemy camp, this Navadvīpa Dhāma was the enemy camp, the bābājī and the goswāmī, it is particularly meant for them. You bābājī's not against, writings are against bābājī and goswāmī and smarta paṇḍit, so Navadvīpa is a good place to circulate. Ha, ha, ha.

Prabhupāda's attitude was, as I saw, totalitarian war against māyā. What he used to say, "What backing, what support the māyā has got? It has got nothing to produce against Kṛṣṇa consciousness. It is all blissful, all hopeful, all satisfying. What māyā has got instead to give that is very small, scanty, and hateful things, māyā is coming to offer. Why that māyā cannot be disparate wholesale? With the help of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, why the people will be deceived with the charm of material civilisation? Demolish it with Kṛṣṇa consciousness. All must be full of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, how happy it is, what this māyā has got in her sight to speak against Kṛṣṇa consciousness? Demolish it. Attack this, the higher agents of māyā, the civilisation, the generals of present civilisation, approach them, fight and finish them.

Asit achat, asit asat, achit miranganat ?

Why do we allow ourselves to be engaged to be troubled in the jaws of death? It is a plane thing. Yudhiṣṭhira Mahārāja told: "This is the most wonderful thing in the world, the only wonderful thing." The Dharma will ask him that: "What is the most wonderful thing you find in the world?" And according to him, the most wonderful thing is: "Every day we meet with death, dying, persons dying, still we try to engage our energy to construct things here. Our prospect still we try to find here. This cannot give us real impression to our mind that we will have to go and not to return. I shall have to go from this position, not to return, but still I am maintaining, trying to maintain to consolidate this position. All my energy I am devoting to consolidate my position knowing surely that I must leave it for eternity. So foolish I am that this is the most astonishing thing, impressed to me, my impression, the most astonishing thing in the world is this m $\ddot{a}$ y $\acute{a}$. I shall leave my position eternally, still I consolidate my whole energy I engage there and do not do anything for my future, most astonishing. Such an astonishing thing I don't find in the world any longer."

ahany ahan $\bar{i}$ bh $\ddot{u}$ t $\bar{a}$ ni, gacchant $\bar{i}$ ha yam $\bar{a}$ layam $\acute{s}$ e $\acute{s}$ $\bar{a}$ ḥ sth $\bar{a}$ varam icchanti, kim $\bar{a}$ $\acute{s}$ caryam atah param

"Hundreds and thousands of living entities meet death at every moment, but a foolish living entity thinks they themselves are deathless and does not prepare for death. This is the most wonderful thing in the world."

(Mah $\bar{a}$ bh $\bar{a}$ rata, Vana-parva, 313.116)

What is impossible he knows surely, $\acute{s}$ e $\acute{s}$ $\bar{a}$ ḥ sth $\bar{a}$ varam icchanti, "I shall live, I shall live." With this mentality he's engaging the whole of his energy to consolidate his present position. This is m $\ddot{a}$ y $\acute{a}$, most wonderful.

And Kṛṣṇa says in G $\bar{i}$ t $\bar{a}$:

āścaryavat paśyati kaścīd enam, āścaryavad vadati tathaiva cānyaḥ
āścaryavac cainam anyaḥ śṛṇoti, śrutvāpy enam veda na caiva kaścīd

"Some see the soul as astonishing, some describe him as astonishing, and some hear of him as astonishing, while others, even after hearing about him, cannot understand him at all." (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.29)

When one comes to realise his own position as a soul in the spiritual plane he is dumbfounded, "Oh, I am so safe from mortality. I have got so much higher aspiration of life." When he thinks of his own position he becomes wonder to us. When he goes to speak to others about his own position we feel the strangeness of the character of that thing. And who can hear, can get the chance of listening to that thing, he's also being enchanted. If such a position is possible for us and we are child of that soil, wonderful soil. In Gītā we find we are the wonderful child of the wonderful soil. And that is the beginning, and then more and more wonder after wonder culminating in Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa consciousness in the feet of the gopīs.

Gaura Hari. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Ha, ha. Vyāsadeva, there is a saying in Sanskrit śloka, the smartas generally talk about that śloka. I heard in my home also and when I went to preach in the Chitagrama (?) a group of Sanskrit paṇḍits they also came with this śloka. The śloka I don't remember but the substance is, after writing all the scripture, in the last śloka Vedavyāsa told that: "O You unknown and unknowable, I have taken You down through my descriptions to different shapes and forms. Please forgive me for that."

So with this śloka they want to say that the form worshipper, the Vaiṣṇavas, they're of lower position, but the highest position is that maybe impersonal conception, unknown and unknowable. Vedavyāsa has asked for forgiveness from the high to bring Him down in the so many formalities of this world, so the unknown and unknowable impersonal position

I told him, so this is already in many places it is told.

apāṇi-pādo javano grahitā, paśyaty acakṣuḥ sa śṛṇoty akarṇaḥ sa veti vedyam na ca tasyāsti vettā, tam āhur agryam puruṣam mahāntam

"The Lord has no hands or legs, yet He walks and touches. The Lord has no eyes or ears, yet He sees and hears." (Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad, 3.19)

It is like a similar thing, no mundane but all spiritual, shape, quality, all these things not mundane.

prakata na siddhi kori aprakṛta staha ?

But transcendental specification, differentiation is there. But we suddenly in general we take them to be mundane, pasyati acakṣu (?) He can see but He has not eye. What does it means? That He has not this mundane eye. So mundane feet, mundane hand, that has been denied. But He's full with spiritual qualifications of every possible sensation, inception, knowledge, conclusion, everything there. It is only to mean that and that is everywhere. Everything comes from Him, everything maintained in Him, and again everything enters into Him. What does it mean?

Mahāprabhu told to Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya: "Coming from Him that apāram pañcamī (?), and maintained in Him, this is satyami adhikara (?), again entering, it is dipīya (?), so the special characteristic of Him is written here. No speciality, no differentiated character has been discarded or denied, but mundane character has been taken off, the screen taken off.

Vasudev Ghosh said: "If Gaurāṅga did not come here in this plane then who could convince, could give us to know that everything is there for which we feel necessity in His world for the wholesale represented there. And everything, every part of it is wholesome and perfect."

ta eva vāntam anuvārga sarvaṁ

("The existence, real existence, of the truth is this, and the existence is wholesome. Not only nothing - not even injurious - but it is wholesome existence. Everything is good. All is great movement; waves of grace of the Lord.")

(Muṇḍaka Upaniṣads, 2.2.10-2) + (Katha Upaniṣad, 2.2.25 - part 5, mantra 15)

Even the stealing, lying, that has got the fine character, to steal, everything has got divine character and that is the highest quarter harmonising everything. All details taken there, it is only a reflection here, but originally everything which satisfies our hankering is there, well represented. Only Gaurāṅga came with this idea here that nothing is to be lost, everything is kept, where from you get here, all the details, everything there, and it is a perverted reflection. Only difference is that this is bad and that is good, everything is good, everything has its good representation in the highest idea. Nothing to be left, wholesale we can retain. All the satisfaction of all our inner hankering is possible there to the fullest extent, inconceivably to the fullest extent. Whatever hankering you have within you, everything to be satisfied and in a very wonderful, beautiful way. This wholesale hope Gaurāṅga has taken to us.

natiya gaya koila suna (?)

And the method? "Only chant and dance and from iron you will turn into the gold. Ha, ha. No other method like tapasya, any painful penances, nothing of the kind. Only sing and dance and the iron will be converted into gold. Come with Me." Ha, ha.

The goal is beauty and the means also beauty, beautiful. Gaura Hari bol!

"Only you must come with your own self, not a second imitative self, ego, you must come out sincerely with your own self, sincerely, be sincere. What is necessary, you yourself have to come, no representation, no double. Ha, ha. No cheating. Only this is required, you must come yourself and join in My song and dancing party and I will take you to that beautiful realm and you will have everything there satisfied, every nook and corner of your heart is represented there with fulfilment."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: all serving mood. Enjoyment means assertion, assert, aggression, enjoyment, so where there's a mood of enjoyment, aggression, there cannot be that sort of humility. Humility can't allow us to enjoy. All serving spirit, whatever it may be. Fine points to understand and to practice accordingly. Taror api sahiṣṇunā, though aggrieved, still to our extreme patience we are to tolerate very, very difficult things, ha, ha, ha, for a living person. But thereby we can repay very soon all the debts we have incurred here in this plane. Debt incurring every moment, every moment causing molestation to the environment for the maintenance of this physical affairs, so how to get out?

yajñārthāt karmaṇo 'nyatra, loko 'yaṁ karma-bandhanaḥ tad-artham

("Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa-bhakti).") (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9)

Whatever you do, do for the centre, try to connect with the centre. And another, what you have done already, for that:

(tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ

Gaura Hari bol! All divine, the highest order of divinity. If we are trained in that way we can have a place in the higher sphere, in the higher gentleman's country. Ha, ha. No aggressive spirit, no entrance, no admission there, all give never take. We are in the midst of the competition of aggression, we are now child of that soil, no aggression no life. Ha, ha. But our highest ideal is given for our best prospect, that non aggression and to be open to all sorts of aggression. Are you ready? Ha, ha, ha. Are you ready, then you'll be led to the gentleman's country. Ha, ha. Here all goonda, all rowdy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: but when, if we can reach there we shall find without such no life is possible. Now, without electricity, civilisation is impossible. So when we reach the standard we will find utility of how much we gain there. A healthy life is there, the 'die to live,' life after death. Life after death does not mean that after this body another life, but the death of the so-called death finished. When death will die then the life will begin. Die to live.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Metinjaya (?) is the name of Mahādeva who has conquered death, death has died and he's feeling no death in the plane of Metinjaya (?), Mahādeva. As independent of this material energy.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

na meda candam na yodinam tad vinam yodinam mandi (?)

That day is fruitless, non producing, non productive, in which we do not talk, we do not cultivate about the Supreme Being, my Lord. No consultation about our Lord, we forget our own Lord, who is pure and end of all in our life, our Lord, the Lord of lords. When we forget Him, that day is non-productive.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

avismṛtiḥ kṛṣṇa-padāravindayoḥ, kṣiṇoty abhadrāṇi ca śaṁ tanoti sattvasya śuddhiṁ paramātmā-bhaktiṁ, jñānaṁ ca vijñāna-virāgyayuktam

("For one who remembers the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, all inauspiciousness soon disappears, and one's good fortune expands. In other words, one becomes free from all material contamination, one attains liberation from repeated birth and death, and one's real spiritual life begins. As one's heart becomes gradually purified, one's devotion for the Lord within the heart awakens, and one realises the Paramātmā. Thus one gradually develops knowledge (jñāna), realisation (vijñāna), and renunciation (vairāgya)." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.12.55)

Avismṛtiḥ kṛṣṇa-padāravindayoḥ, not to forget, unforgetfulness about the lotus feet of divine Kṛṣṇa. Kṣiṇoty abhadrāṇi, that continuance of that memory, continuous memory of Kṛṣṇa, that will diminish and destroy, abhadrāṇi, the ungentle, the undesirable things, dirty things in you, dirty things, all are dirt. Without Kṛṣṇa consciousness, without the consciousness of the divinity, these mundane things are all dirt. The dirt should be removed, the dirt should be destroyed by the continuance of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Avismṛtiḥ kṛṣṇa-padāravindayoḥ, kṣiṇoty abhadrāṇi ca śaṁ tanoti, and it extends within us, develops within us some maṅgalām, welfare, it produces from within the real welfare within us, the goodness within us and the dirt's are brushed out, śaṁ tanoti.

Sattvasya śuddhiṁ paramātmā-bhaktiṁ, your very existence is purified, the alloy is eliminated from your ego. You means your ego, your self conception, conception about yourself, that is full of alloy. The alloy will be destroyed by the continued God consciousness, Paramātmā. And gradually you'll find the God within you, Paramātmā. You are jīvātmā, who are you proper, and who is Paramātmā backing you, supporting you from above. You'll be able to understand, feel within.

Jñānaṁ ca vijñāna-virāgya-yuktam, and you'll find a peculiar type of knowledge, of God conception, which will show to you vijñāna, both the Lord and His potency, vijñāna, śaktiśa, different potencies and the owner of the potency. And virāgya, virāgya two-fold, the attraction, non-attraction to the dirty mundane world, and proper attraction towards the truth, that you'll feel within you, such development. Go on continuing God consciousness and that will take you to the desired position. Back to home, how sweet your home, you'll be able to go on continuing God consciousness. Anyhow try to maintain God consciousness and that will un-alloy. The alloy will be destroyed and your purified self will come out from the fire and you will find everything.

It is not any blind thing, but the faith will not be blind only, but vijñāna-virāgya- yukta, jñāna vijñāna, the knowledge of the thing and the knowledge of different parts, potencies also of the thing. You'll be able, details, you'll be able to be clear in your heart. It is not a domain, faith means only blind emotion, don't think it to be so, not a domain of blind emotion. But there is proper knowledge, understanding, the land of proper understanding with the main thing with the central truth and also so many potencies also which is controlled by the Lord. Such position you'll be able to acquire. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Jñāna vijñāna virāgya-yukta.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

So dive deep into God consciousness. It is the key to the highest success of life. And that is so sweet that is like home, not a foreign land that you'll take so much risk to go to some unknown place and how there will be dealt, ha, ha, with, no such apprehension, such suspicious questions. As much as you'll be able to make progress that side you will find so sweetness, so home life comfort and confidence, you'll get there.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Now the weather is a little fair, ha, ha, ha, ha, for you to go back.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Gadādhara Prabhu gone, young man, not old like us, he's afraid of the weather. Ha, ha, ha, ha. So he's come back this evening, ha, ha, ha. Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: He's also very enthusiastic.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very enthusiastic, very forbearing, a diligent man, does not care even for the uneasiness, the fever. The body is not well but still he goes on working, even with fever he goes on working I'm told, does not care for fever or temperature.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahānanda as well, he's doing very nicely.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahānanda, he has got a very good friend and attendant in him, very encouraging, and he's very satisfied also in that position of his duty. Energetically he's going on. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ha, ha. And aggressive type, Dayadhara, he caught a lawyer there and he wont allow him any time. "Don't you see so many crimes are standing in a line and you have come to talk with me. How is it possible for me to spare any time to talk about this idle talk about religion?" He wont spare, anyhow he made him to hear something, and that Search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa, after reading a few pages then he gave order to his secretary: "Oh, give fifty dollars payment to this gentleman."

Devotee: "Write him a cheque." He read the part about Kṛṣṇa stealing, he was a criminal lawyer, and he read the part about Kṛṣṇa stealing butter.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Stealing butter, then why did he not concoct a case against Him?

Ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: Ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "You have come to introduce the stealing of God? Then all will be thieves here."

Devotee: Teaching adharmā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "Your God also is a thief and you have come to preach that God also is a thief so go on thieving?"

Devotee: The opposite thing was created, the opposite reaction created.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One gentleman told: "Because God is a thief, so we have got some hope." One gentleman, when I was a college student I went to hear the lecture of Kulana Goswāmī (?) or someone, he told, explained: "That because Kṛṣṇa is a thief, so we have got some hope. We have given such a big fencing on all sides of us that no good things can enter. But because the thief, we lock and we have got boundary walls and so many opposition things that no thief can enter, still, thief will come out of his own interest. So we have also tried our best to construct boundary lines all sides so that no God consciousness can enter, but as a thief He will enter, and that is our solace. If that one day as a thief He will enter into our heart, then we can have some hope. Otherwise consciously we won't invite Him to come into my heart. Only the thief God is our solace that one day He may stealthily enter into my heart and capture. Let God be thief."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. And that is also above justice, when stealthily goodness comes. There was one Mohammedan charitable person here in Hooghly, his name was Harji Mohamed Maharshi (?). He was a bachelor and he was the owner of a big property, a rich man. He used to help all that came to him for any begging purpose, but there were some families who were suffering from poverty but can't approach anyone for their help. He noted their names and at night while passing some monies were thrown stealthily, we have heard of that Mohammedan gentleman. In Hooghly there is a big Mosque commemorated in his name, that Harji Mohamed Maharshi (?). Stealthily he made charity. So if money comes stealthily it is not undesirable. If Kṛṣṇa comes stealthily in our heart, how is it? So above justice in the plane of mercy, all these dealings above the plane of justice, and in the land of mercy and affection and love, these things possible. The good enters stealthily to the undesirable party and makes him good.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Ṛṣabhadeva is leaving our company. "But how cruel you are," we may say, ha, ha, "you are very cruel." Then what will be your answer? "No, no, I am coming back."

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: But if you gave me a little something to do then the connection would be there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Aksayānanda Mahārāja is there, ha, ha. I am an old man and he's still young to look after the interest of Kṛṣṇa more than myself.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: matter has come to exploit us. What is the gain, what is the loss? Action and consciousness. (Śrīla A.C Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja gave an example: "One who has got eye but he's crippled, and another goes but he's blind, both combined." Matter has got no feeling but the man has got feeling, man is the party, matter, machine, is non-party.

kārya-kāraṇa-kartṛtve, hetuḥ prakṛtir ucyate puruṣaḥ sukha-duḥkhānām, bhoktṛtve hetur ucyate

"Material nature has been delineated as responsible for the cause as the domineering force of the senses, and the effect as the material body; and the (conditioned) soul himself is known to be responsible for his accrued happiness and unhappiness." (Bhagavad-gītā, 13.21)

Who will be important, the feeler or the felt? The criterion of happiness is confined in the feeler. Whether happiness is necessary, happiness is possible only in the subjective existence. When avoiding this material engagement he may feel more happiness. Ātmārāma, he may be self-satisfied, now entangled into that non-joy substance, non-happy substance, but seems to become self-established, ātmārāma, who is established in his own self not outside. He feels more enjoyment than the world-handling machines, the matter. Ātmārāma, even they, of the standard, even they find more happiness when comes in contact with Super Ātmā. In this way, the existence of the higher appeal is going to be established.

ātmārāmāś ca munayo, nirgranthā apy urukrame kurvanty ahaitukīm
bhaktim, ittham-bhūta guṇo hariḥ

Those that are self-sufficient, they also are attracted by some higher kind of ecstasy. So it is the proof positive that higher ecstasy is existing, though very finer, though finer, still it has got existence, because the self-sufficient people they also find joy when coming in contact with that abstract thing. So that is a proof, a man who does not care for anything, almost independent of material assistance. Like Śukadeva, he does not want anything, not even a cloth, a dress. Only now and then a glass of milk if it comes easily. He does not care for anything in this mundane, quite independent life. Ātmā, engaged in himself, not engaged in any material objective consciousness. He is attracted by some higher abstract things, so there must be something above, adhokṣaja. That which when that comes to contact with us we can feel, otherwise when withdrawn we are nowhere.

Like flying saucer, a few days back there was some rumour that a thing by the name of flying saucer is coming to contact with us. But the men in the world, they tried to find it, chased, but it disappeared. Have you heard the name of flying saucer?

Adhokṣaja is something like that. Can come down to contact but when we chase, no have. What is the proof? For a big engineers or a pilot, they have also seen that something is coming down and when chasing disappears. So more efficient machinery world is existing on the other side. Experts of aeroplane drivers (pilots), they are also admitting. So ātmārāmā:

prayenum nayo rajan nivitra visesadata nigunasta ramanti snana manu kathane hari ?

How to prove that higher existence is there? We cannot enter at our will to have experience of that plane. Then what is the proof that such plane is existing at all? Some experts of this world of the highest class, they find something that's disturbing their self-satisfaction to the fullest extent, disturbing and attracting towards something else.

Just as to prove that there is rebirth, transmigration, some sort of persons we may find that they say: "In my previous birth I was there. I can find out my things that are left in the almera (iron box?)." He's taken to that place, "Yes, this was my room and I put these things here." So those that want to prove scientifically that there is rebirth, they're collecting such examples to prove that the rebirth is there. Some, they can remember their past life and they can give proof, that: "Yes, I was here in my past life." There are some such examples and that is the basis to prove that birth after birth, transmigration.

So also in this way, the ātmārāmā, they stand proof that there is higher plane that attracts us who have superseded the charm of this mundane plane, but it's not mundane. Śukadeva Goswāmī says: "You all know I am well-established in the non-material world, no charm for any form of material world in me. But this type of līlā, personal ecstasy of some order, attracted my heart. So you don't think that this is mundane. No mundane thing can have any attraction for me, but this is transcendental. I stand as evidence to the fact that there is transcendental world of higher stuff, higher dignity, higher quality. Because I stand as evidence, you know nothing of any mundane character can affect me and disturb my balance, my equilibrium in the all-spiritual consciousness. That sort of peculiar may not be disturbed by this worldly attraction, but some supernatural attraction is coming to disturb my equilibrium and attracting towards that."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. ātmārāmāś ca munayo, nirgranthā apy urukrame kurvanty ahaitukīm bhaktim, ittham-bhūta guṇo hariḥ. This is for the ascending method but those that are in the descending method they themselves are becoming small witnesses, sukṛti, śraddhā, they feel it maybe of less degree of intensity. But they feel there is something and my heart of my heart is hankering for that thing. "All the charm of this world finished for me forever, can't attract. If I want to live then I shall live for that at any risk, at any risk, whatever little taste I have got for that thing. I can't stand, can't do without that, I must have to attain that stage otherwise I do not like any sort of existence. I have got a little peeping of that beauty, that is my life, my life is there. If I want to live at all I must have to get that, otherwise this is all tasteless. I have finished all other standards of life, no charm, all tasteless. I want that thing that is the fulfilment of my life worth living. Life is worth living because it has got that ultimate connection with that fulfilment, otherwise no life worth living."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. How to attain? Only with the association of those that are eager for that. Birds of the same feather flock together. If you want that thing there are others also of similar nature, go and mix with them and jointly try to have that by mutual help. There are the experts also, the beginners, the advanced, by mutual help go in a procession, saṅkīrtana. And not in private life but make it public, give it this quest, give the shape of a public shape that is the practical shape. The quest of that supreme thing, be bold enough to give it a public shape of your searching, that is saṅkīrtana procession. You should not be a coward to keep it within you, that it is so subtle you won't be able to prove to others, so in a corner you will go on only, not that. Your adherence should be so sincere and so forceful that you must come out of the house on the street.

The God's searching, the search for Kṛṣṇa must have a shape of reality, not less important, not less true than the spirit with which we are seeking this material improvement. Our sincerity must have some courage to take it to the road, saṅkīrtana. I'm doing anything like a thief in the dark, what I want, what I believe, my faith, let others see and come to challenge. I am ready, I shall try my best to prove that what I am doing that is all right, not only all right, but that is the thing which everyone should take to save himself. Others, they're entangling with mortality, mixing with mortality.

These defects are sure in the material achievement so to get out of that, the death and the birth and the infirmity and the disease, I want to have such a campaign, a bright and bold campaign. The search for reality, and reality is beautiful, reality is beautiful, reality is love, reality is charm, reality is harmony. I feel it within myself sincerely and my life is only for that. I am also a factor of this world so my necessity may not be dismissed as unreal. As you are, I am also so, so I am attracted and this may not be imaginary. I try to prove that you are running after phantasmagoria, mania, and not myself.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. At every step, even dream, taking food, in every phase of our life we shall try that search, direct or indirect way, the search. Soldiers sometimes they're laughing and merry making position, but sometimes they will be seen furious fighting. So merry making, eating, all will be searching, march, march. March from nescience to science, what is knowledge and what is above knowledge. Fighting is not the final, after fighting there is a peaceful life also. So the searching if we think like fighting, elimination and advance, acceptance, then after that, after war there is a life of peace. We are fighting for the peace.

So sādhana, the struggle, life of struggle to attain the truth, that is a life of fight. But the mark is for the peace after this war, greater, higher peace, peace of higher quality without anxiety that is existing at present. War comes only for that. The lakṣa (?) the aim, the aim is towards the peace and peace of higher quality. Otherwise fighting has no meaning. So struggle, sādhana, bhakti, struggle, fighting with māyā, the present possessor, the force that has taken possession of us at present. So fight our fight and knock them out and to find some higher peace. So the sādhanaka, the student, is fighting with nescience to get science. So always, every life is a life of struggle, struggle to find higher things, and that becomes clear in sādhana.

vidyavatam bhagavati pariksa ?

It is said, how far you know, the test is in Bhāgavatam. Whether your consciousness comes up to the level of the thought which is given in Bhāgavatam, can you come to think of theism to this degree as it is inaugurated in Bhāgavatam ? Vidyan, generally vidyan means learned, but it means not mundane learning, veda-vidbhiḥ, in Manu- saṁhitā (2.1):

(vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ hr̥dayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata)

Vidvadbhiḥ, who are the learned? Who has got some knowledge in the revealed truth, revealed scriptures. And not in the mundane world, they're not considered to be learned. Because this is all vulnerable, now it is true, next moment it is false. The law of nature, that is changing, and also it is all false in this sense that all are representations of local interest, provincialism, local interest. Every representation, every invention, they come to put forward some local interest not universal interest. So from the universal plane there is some attempt to extend the standpoint of universal experience to this provincial. Central law, they have extended to the provincial rulers, "This is central law, you must have to abide by this. Your provincial order won't be applicable to another province or to the centre." So central knowledge is really knowledge that will stand true in every province, every locality. It is of universal character, īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ:

(īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, yat kiñca jagatyāṁ jagat tena tyaktena bhuñjīthā, mā gṛdhaḥ kasya svid dhanam)

So that is, from time to time some central experience is extended to this local experienced area. So vidyan, who is vidyan ? Veda-vid, who has got some knowledge about that revealed truth which the self considers from the central standpoint. That is a general characteristic, that is truth. And your selfishness will say, "this is my interest," another will say, "no, this is my opposite interest there." So that is not truth. The central decision and estimation and grant that is the be-all and end-all, and your experience of that plane of knowledge has got some acceptance, recognition. Otherwise all your provincial demands have got no room here.

So vidyan, vidyavatam bhagavati, even those, as I am told that our Sudhir Goswāmī, he has in The Search For Śrī Kṛṣṇa, in the beginning he has quoted Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's Bhāgavata speech (from an English lecture delivered in 1869, at Dinajpur, West Bengal). There, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is showing the development in the conception of the theism, gradually growing, coming out.

The Bhāgavatam is the fruit, Vedānta has been considered as the flower, and the Veda has been considered as the tree

End of side A, 6/7.7.83 + start of side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: sprout, in this way. But all about revealed truth. So, vidyavatam bhagavati pariksa ?

Those that say they're proficient in Vedic knowledge, their test is in Bhāgavata. How far, how deeper you can have knowledge about the theistic world, the Bhāgavata is the test. What is the position and what is the capacity, what is the utility and what is the superiority of the central conception truth. That means it is not Brahman, brahmeti paramātmēti, bhagavān iti śabdyate.

(vadanti tat tattva-vidas, tattvaṁ yaj jñānam advayam brahmeti paramātmēti, bhagavān iti śabdyate)

("Learned transcendentalists who know the Absolute Truth call this nondual substance Brahman, Paramātmā or Bhagavān.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.11)

Brahman, who is the all-accommodating aspect of the environment, Paramātmā, all- permeating, whatever you'll say, He's within, He's everywhere, He's within, that aspect. And another, revolutionary aspect is Bhagavān. The first interpretation of the word Bhagavān is given as aiśvaryasya samagrasya, "Who is the source of all power, controller of all potencies." Bhagavān.

(aiśvaryasya samagrasya, vīryasya yaśasaḥ śriyaḥ jñāna-vairāgyayoś caiva, ṣaṇṇām bhaga itīṅana)

(Bhagavān, the Supreme Lord, is thus defined as "He who is inseparably replete with the six inconceivable qualities of wealth, power, fame, beauty, knowledge and renunciation.") (Viṣṇu Purāṇa, 6.5.47)

But Bhāgavata has taken the centre from power to love, for love is above the power, more deeper plane. Power is external, love is more central and more higher. So Bhagavān means bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha, the substance, whenever we come in connection with Him we like to surrender towards Him, to merge our interest in Him. Bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha, "that I am searching, the Lord of my heart I have got here, I don't want anything, I must jump," bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha. The Bhagavān is such that to excite eagerness, anxiety, and to jump into His way, that is Bhagavān. The all- attractor, loving attraction we shall feel about the substance. Bhagavān means Bhāgavata, bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha, He has got such qualifications, such qualities, He will attract me wholesale to jump up under His service.

So, vidyavatam bhagavati pariksa ? The Bhāgavata is the test that how far you are advanced in your theistic life. Can you do this wholesale surrender? Can you think of by surrendering, can you think of by dying you'll live a proper life? External death, as you are at present, the dissolution of the whole and a new you'll gain. Can you be bold enough? There is such characteristic of the highest substance. Not master of power, or not all-comprehensive, everything putting in his belly, or all-permeating like so many smallest things, microscopic things, not like that. All-permeating, pervading, or all- accommodating, not that these are the highest qualities of the supreme substance.

But controller of all power, Nārāyaṇa, that is something, Who controls everything, that is something. But Who attracts us unconditionally towards Him, we want to fall at His feet. So beauty, love, that is given, that sort of conception is given by the Bhāgavata. So what knowledge you have got of revealed scripture, the test is Bhāgavatam. Have you got any clue of such anywhere in revealed scripture? No. Bhāgavatam has given the highest thing and Mahāprabhu came with that.

This is the central world of the highest plane of the universe we are living in. We have got so much prospect of life, so much, and we are engaged in what type? A human, I can go down again to an insect, a beast, a tree, I am wandering in this vicious circle. This is my position, I am in the top, next moment I am action reaction, action reaction, I am master and the reaction will come and demand to pay off my debt, then take down by my ear. In this way we are moving, sometimes higher, next moment lower, then again higher and lower.

ābrahma-bhuvanāl lokāḥ, punar āvartino 'rjuna mām upetya tu kaunteya,
punar janma na vidyate

("O Arjuna, from the planet of Lord Brahmā downwards, the residents of all planets are naturally subjected to repeated birth and death. But, O Kaunteya, upon reaching Me, there is no rebirth.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 8.16)

And our prospect is such, how to come out of this vicious circle and to attain the fulfilment of our life? Only those who are our friends that are carrying such a wealth, such information, such news to the public, they're the best friend. All other seeming friends they should be dismissed if we're sincere. This will be our form of life, elimination and acceptance, acceptance. Ignore all the formality, the spirit must make us mad to advance further and further.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Mahārāja, I wanted to ask you about the position of Gadādhara Paṇḍita's spiritual master.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gadādhara Paṇḍita's spiritual master, Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi?

Devotee: Yes. What is his position in Caitanya-līlā ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gadādhara Paṇḍita has been considered to be Rādhārāṇī's incarnation, and Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi is considered to be Vṛṣabhānu Mahārāja, the father of Rādhārāṇī, there in Kṛṣṇa-līlā, Vṛṣabhānu Rāja, Puṇḍarīka.

Devotee: He has some uncommon pastimes, Premānanda (Puṇḍarīka) Vidyānidhi.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, he's paramahansa. Different devotees have come to show different types of bhajan. Bhajan in the common thing is 'they're all devoted,' but different types of models, all are not one and the same. But the aim towards Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that is to be dealt, from all positions if one is directed totally to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, s/he's all right.

Suppose there is a patient, there is so many patients of common disease. Then the doctor may not advise everyone to take the same diet, similar but not the same. According to the taste and the capacity of the stomach, someone is given something, another patient, a TB patient, but according to the condition of the stomach some will get some sort of diet, and another will get another diet, in this way.

So, all going towards Kṛṣṇa consciousness, but physical arrangement may be a little different. And these uncommon persons of uncommon external characteristics, these small things should not have any consideration with them. He's (Puṇḍarīka) taking tobacco and richly dressed he's there, and that is an example to us.

Mukunda told Gadādhara Paṇḍita: "Do you like to go to visit a sādhu? I know him, a good sādhu has come."

"Yes, yes, take me to where the sādhu is." Gadādhara Paṇḍita in his young age was very eager to see sādhus was took there and Gadādhara Paṇḍita saw that he's smoking. "What sort of sādhu has Mukunda taken me to see?" And also the hair was very well brushed, and the ornamental dress was also very rich, and he is sitting also on a very soft, valuable bedding. "What sort of sādhu has Mukunda taken me to see?" He had some hesitation in his mind, doubt.

Then Mukunda knew this, could feel this, and he chanted one śloka of Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam, (3.2.23):

aho bakī yaṁ stana-kāla-kūṭaṁ, jighāṁsayāpāyayad apy asādhvī lebhe
gatiṁ dhātry-ucitāṁ tato 'nyaṁ, kaṁ vā dayāluṁ śaraṇaṁ vrajema

This śloka meaning that, "Whom should I worship except Kṛṣṇa? Because His magnanimity is so much that one lady came to kill Him by poison and instead that poisoned lady was given a motherly post in His own domain. So, so much magnanimous personality amongst those to be worshipped whom I shall get?"

Then it created some movement in the heart of Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi and gradually things came to show otherwise. He threw off that valuable smoking pipe and began to tear his valuable clothing, and the bedding also. Then he began to catch his well- decorated hair and began to roll and showing different features. Kaṁ vā dayāluṁ śaraṇaṁ vrajema - aho bakī yaṁ, in the mouth and lips such sounds now and then and he's in his present state.

Then Gadādhara Paṇḍita said: "Oh, only the small sentiment about the magnanimity of Kṛṣṇa can produce so much revolution in the heart, so he must be a great devotee." Then Gadādhara Paṇḍita began to understand his dignity. But always the man may not be known by his dress, "this is fashion," does not care, everything is one and the same. But he's not a slave to that good dressing or good hair, polished hair, or anything else, formally.

Just as it has been told about Rājaṛṣi Janaka, one hand on the soft breast of a lady, and another hand into the fire, both enjoying and suffering. No disturbance in his consciousness. The softness and the burning sensation, both together tolerating. So if a man who can enjoy the fire burning flame, if he puts his hand into the soft part of the lady, it is nothing to him, nothing to him.

So something as the inner man is otherwise, it is only external thing, posture. It cannot affect him at all, cannot touch him, cannot disturb him from his aim, from his engagement, nothing, something like that.

When Rāmacandra was going to be installed tomorrow on the throne, all rejoicing. Rāmacandra, He's also thinking that He's going to get a great responsibility of discharging duty, serious mood, not very pleasing mood. Rāmacandra was thinking, "A great burden is coming on My shoulders, on My head. I shall have the responsibility to look after the welfare of so many subjects." He's in a serious mood. Then when He heard that instead of being enthroned He's to go to the forest as His stepmother has forced His father to enthrone Bharata, her son, and to banish Rāmacandra to the forest, Rāmacandra was of the same temperament. He's going to discharge the duty. To be enthroned, that also is duty and here also to obey His father's will, that is also duty. He's going to discharge the duty to the forest in the same temperament, no disturbance in the balance of His mind. When He's going to be enthroned and when He's going to be banished the temperament is all the same, He's going to discharge duty that was coming to Him. He's not one whose slave to any event, He's above, everything is considered as duty.

To go to the hell: svargāpavarga-narakeṣv, api tulyārtha-darśinaḥ.

When Śiva was once sitting with his wife Parvatī on his thigh, making her seat there, He's taking rest. Then his class-mate, one Chitraketu, he came and put some remark that: "You Śaṅkara, what you are doing of course I don't question your dignity, but to the public it is not a good lesson. You should consider this."

Then Parvatī she was enraged. "You don't know the greatness of Mahādeva, you are ridiculing, making remark on his practice. So your views are not pure, you must go to the demonic birth."

"Yes, I accept your curse." And he went away.

Then Mahādeva told to Parvatī in an excited tone: "Do you know who are they? He has not done anything wrong. He's my friend, and what I am doing publicly should not be done and that is why his remark is not very insulting to me, He's my friend. In a friendly way he gave such like remark. But you could not tolerate, you cast and cursed him but what was his attitude? He could also cast the same curse to you as he has that power but he did not do that, he only accepted and went away. So who are they? Do you know them?"

nārāyaṇa-parāḥ sarve, na kutaścana bibhyati svargāpavarga-narakeṣv, api tulyārtha-darśinaḥ

("Devotees solely engaged in the devotional service of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Nārāyaṇa, never fear any condition of life. For them the heavenly planets, liberation and the hellish planets are all the same, for such devotees are interested only in the service of the Lord.")
(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.17.28)

They are a class of devotees of Nārāyaṇa. They do not care for anything good or bad. Both heaven and hell are equal to them. Nārāyaṇa-parāḥ na kutaścana, they're not afraid of any condition of life, prepared for every eventuality. Na kutaścana bibhyati svargāpavarga-narakeṣv, svargā means heaven, āpavarga means salvation, and naraka means hell, all are of equal importance to them. If they go to the hell, the other sufferers in the hell, they will be benefited, but hellish things won't be able to touch them.

They're always surrounded by, a healthy man when he goes to serve an infectious patient, if his health is good, those infections cannot enter into his health. But if his health is weak the infection will enter. So they're of such type that wherever the unfavourable circumstances there, but they're guarded by the bhakti-rasa, their under dress is of purest material, nothing can pierce and harm them. Svargāpavarga- narakeṣv, api tulyārtha-darśinaḥ, of equal effect they can see. They're wandering in the world of Kṛṣṇa, wherever they go, "It's Kṛṣṇa's doing, Kṛṣṇa's will, it has come from Kṛṣṇa's will. I am serving His purpose, serving His purpose." This idea, no local interest are they suffering from but always there in general.

When, after the Kurukṣetra war was finished, then one boy ṛṣi, Uttanka, when he found Kṛṣṇa he told: "Oh, Kṛṣṇa, I shall curse You."

"Why?"

"Because You are the cause of all these miseries that are the outcome of that great battle of Kurukṣetra. So many widows, so many orphans, so many crippled persons, they're all crying for pain and misery, and You are at the bottom of the object."

Kṛṣṇa told: "Oh, you ṛṣi kumara, the boy ṛṣi, whatever you have accumulated by your penance, your power, that will be finished when you'll come to engage it to utilise it against Me. But no effect will come to be produced on Me, I am in nirguṇa, nirguṇa, guṇa tita, satya, raja, tama, three guṇas, angle of vision, three angles of vision, and universal angle of vision, and My position is there."

That is ahaitukī apratihatā, causeless and irresistible flow of the most fundamental world. Just as by electric flow vibration, so I am in the plane, where the plane is moving and which is irresistible and causeless, no object, automatic, healthy movement, infinite character. I am there, all My activity from that plane, so whatever waves from other planes that may come to clash with it, they'll be finished, and the plane in which I am moving that is irresistible, that is continuing forever. It is eternal, no beginning, no end, and harmonious flow. And I am there. So nothing can affect My position. Whatever you have acquired with your relative power, that will be finished if you throw it against the irresistible flow on which I am moving."

So nirguṇa, svargāpavarga-narakeṣv, api, so our, not external things but the internal position should be judged, that is all-important, in Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi and everywhere. There are gr̥hastha devotees also, sannyāsīns are there, so that they may not cast a glance to the ladies, they will consider that this is very filthy thing. But there are gr̥hastha devotees and they're producing children also, still, they may be cent-per-cent pure, no enjoying mood there, not only enjoying mood absent but serving mood is there. They're united in serving mood and child comes but no enjoying mood.

Exploitation is bad, serving is good, and whatever may be the outer-colour of things if approached with the spirit of service, that is ahaitukī apratihātā, that vibration from the most fundamental plane, is actuating over whatever external activity, that is cent- per-cent pure. Thieving, lying, everything may be pure if coming from the most fundamental plane, that vibration, motive, power, pushed from that plane. It is all right, nirguṇa-līlā, that is līlā, not only selflessness but fullest self-surrendering unto the centre and actuated from that power only can effect. They're fully established in līlā that is nirguṇa.

So not by the form but by the real position, spirit, things should be judged. And whatever we're thinking by local experience, local interest, has got no value, little, that has got value but local value, temporary value, a part of locality and a part of time. That is all limited value. So that is to be applied to the ordinary persons but not to be applied on those things that seem to be similar, the thieving, stealing and lying, similar, fighting, similar things, undesirable things, but if it comes from that will it is all enjoying and irresistible. That is nirguṇa, gunatita, that is the different symptoms of disease, good and bad, and that is quite cent-per-cent healthy movement, healthy movement, cent-per-cent healthy movement when it is dictated by the centre.

Otherwise all will be local and temporary interest that will come in clash and they will finish. In this way we have to think. Not the form but the real nature, real position, that is all. Whether it is from God consciousness, the origin is to serve the will of the God, or it is for a selfish purpose. I show sometimes an example that a policeman if for his selfish purpose he takes bribes he will be punished, but is for the interest of the state he kills a man he may be rewarded. So we are to see things like that, from universal interest of Kṛṣṇa, and so many representatives who are so many parts of the universe and negligent parts important.

So Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi and men of such type, we should not judge, we should be very, infinite within quality, and in the upper that is negligible, no consideration there. Just as the dress cannot be the test for a man. A prostitute may be wearing a holy dress, and a dacoit may have a saffron dress of a church man, and a good man may have some other dress, of a thief or dacoit. But the real inner things that should be considered, not the coating, not the cover, the cover should not be made much of but the inner substance is all important. We are to see that.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

83.7.25 – Autobiography part two Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And that must be done through proper agent, and the standard of giving, that will be understood. How to give? What is known to be the gift? To give, that is a very hard thing. What to give? The whole capital we are conscious of is collected from black-marketing, all black-marketing here. Things belong to one and we are thinking "this belongs to me, that belongs to you, that to a third," in this way the wholesale is black-marketing.

īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, yat kiñca jagatyāṁ jagat tena tyaktena
bhuñjīthā, mā gṛdhaḥ kasya svid dhanam

These are treacherous transactions in this world. This body does not belong to me, it does not obey my direction, and I think "this is myself and these are all belonging to me, I'm belonging to India, or America, this, that," wholesale black, false transaction, a hoax. We are to understand this first that all are hoax transactions and we are to save ourselves from that. They're all false going in the name of truth. We are to pray from this false transaction cent-per-cent. This mania, "this belongs to that, this belongs to ABCD, all belonging, all master, all lords," ha, ha, this great mania we are to be saved from that, this great mania.

Then, it belongs to whom? Who is the real owner? Who is the real lord? And He's the Lord of mine also, and how to approach Him? Where is He? The Lord of truth, where is He? So, that sort of serious transaction, enquiry and transaction should be made openly, in reality not in imagination.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

First to get out of the hoax that this belongs to ABCD, and then to search for the owner and what is my relation with that owner. Then we'll be given to understand that He's, our Lord is very good natured, very sweet, and fulfilling, our fulfilment is in Him. He's so sweet, the centre is so near, so friendly, so sweet, we'll be able to know gradually. And that means, in other words, that we'll live in the transcendental world. We have found that there is a world and my inner soul is a member of that happy world. Then again to search, where I am adjusted there, my inner soul is adjusted in that eternal pastimes, where to find out, to be properly located, and then I'll be in the fullest attainment of life, in this way.

..... infinite sky, mahā-sunyam, ha ha, where to take stand? The ground removed from under the feet where we are. We're standing on and over the solid earth but that is taken away, where I am, where are we? Like an atom in the universe with no support. Here in human body, then after death maybe transferred somewhere to an unknown quarter, from there again to an unknown quarter. In the time of eternity we are moving in this way. Not conscious of our own self, our future, our past, yet we boast much of our scholarship and knowledge and civilisation and science. But what is the position of a man, what was his future, what was his past, and what will be his future? All unknown, uncertain, so what position we have got, ha, ha. No substantial position, this is where we are at present.

Just as a dust by a storm is in a combination, so many dusts, sands, by a storm removed, to what direction? Then in this way, no rule, no regulation, by chance, we are prey of chance, our existence is at the sweet will of the chance of the forces of nature. No stable position of our own, and we are making boast, "We are so and so, we can crush with atom bomb the whole world." What does it harm for the universal interest? Nothing, if the whole world is effaced like a point, the whole world that the atom bomb can swallow is a negligent point in the infinite. Who knows, who cares for that, who cares for that? A mosquito we may kill with the fingers, so one world in consideration of the infinite.

What is the value of this big world for us? Bigger, bigger, bigger, sound also, so high-class sound our ear cannot accept, and very small-class sound our ear cannot accept. The more intense light our eye cannot catch, and very meagre light also the eye cannot catch. Only the limited between the infinite high light and infinite lesser light, only a particular middle portion comes to our sight. And that also to our ear, everything, in the middle and something negligible is given to us wherever we be different. Greater light, then more intense light also we can't see in the darkness, and less light of course, darkness. So sound also, most intensified sound we can't catch, our ear cannot catch, to certain extent it can catch. So where are we, no stand.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

So this is the world of so-called reality, the vāstava, satya. The communists are very fond of this physical existence, they are knowing nothing but this is such

..... they're not causing any harm to me at present. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

The inner guardian, inner man is very close to us. This is to show that externally you are so helpless in your position, but don't go that side to find out, to search for your support or your friend. Find inside, find inside, the stable friend is there, firm achievement is possible. And he sees with his affectionate eye looking over you.

Tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ, go that side, enquire your support from the inner side.

(om tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya divīva cakṣur ātataṁ tad viprāso vipanyavo jāgrvāṁśāḥ, samindhate viṣṇor yat
paramaṁ padaṁ)

Tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti, a big eye of a guardian is watching you there, Paramātmā. Very close, very close to you. Try to go that side, turn your inner eyes that side and you will find some stable position. "Oh, there is the support, is it? I was searching for some support in the flickering material aspect of life. That searching for what, mental and physical body, they're also false. And the foundation I was searching for their support, that also false. But the reality is this side, both of the mind as well as the environment. A diabolical change, revolutionary change will come in ones thinking. Oh, everything, all assurance, everything optimistic."

Āścaryavat paśyati One who comes to have such recognition in the beginning he's astounded, āścaryavat paśyati kaścīd. And when he wants to say to others, he's also astonished. And those that hear from him they're also stupified. Is it that our foundation to stand is inside? Our hope of satisfaction is inside not outside, not in the world sought through our senses but within. The world where we are standing really with our own real personality that is inside, in this way.

āścaryavat paśyati kaścīd enam, āścaryavad vadati tathaiva cānyaḥ
āścaryavac cainam anyaḥ śṛṇoti, śrutvāpy enam veda na caiva kaścīd

("Some see the soul as astonishing, some describe him as astonishing, and some hear of him as astonishing, while others, even after hearing about him, cannot understand him at all.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.29)

And none can finish it after a hard struggle of knowing, cannot be finished, unfinishable. Go on, go on, the charm progresses like anything with no end, navanavayam, every second it comes with new appearance and new prospect, every moment new prospect with new appearance it comes to us. It cannot be stale, none can make him stale, "Oh I know it already, it is finished," not that. Every second with new promise and progress and prospect it appears to you. So one is astonished. That is the character of infinite. That is within, that wealth, and leaving that searching outside, what for? In the mortal world, in the world of gross dead bodies, corpse, in the morgue you have come to find solace in the morgue full of dead bodies. Dive deep into reality, the wealth is within and it is very cheap at the same time. Everyone may find if their eyes are turned inside. Ample, infinite, there's no possibility of there being a food crisis or any crisis of want. It is immense, infinite, ample, and vitality giving, soul feeding.

And Mahāprabhu told that the sweetest of the sweet, sweetest of the sweet, the Lord. That higher embrace we can have. It is so sweet we can't over-estimate, we can't even touch a speck of it. He's Lord, but so friendly and so sweet that un-estimably we may be gainer.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Turn your eyes towards Him. Nityānanda Prabhu was begging from door to door. "Oh, accept, cast your glance towards Gaurāṅga Who has come to your door, and with what wealth He has come to give you try to mind it and give a little attention and you'll be rich in an unknown quality."

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

.....

..... whatever he says we are doing, "Go deliver lectures, or explain from Bhāgavatam, or do some collection for the Deities, we are doing that. But still, these offences are coming, we do not know, he's responsible."

Then Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) told: "But if a student complains against his teacher, "Oh, he's asking me to do so many sums, to get by heart so many articles, and this grammar, and I am doing all these things. Still I fail the test, so the teacher is responsible for that." It is something like that.

We are ordering you to engage yourselves in the service of the Lord and it is written in the scriptures and we also follow it. By doing this you will get out of the present undesirable engagement and you'll make progress in the devotion of the Lord. For that purpose I have ordered, not to fulfil any separate interest of mine. Just as the teacher asks the student: "Do this, read this, and do this, all these, work these sums and get by heart," All meant only to learn. In the way of learning all these practices are necessary, so I have also asked you to engage yourself in so many forms of services and by these practices you'll be able to cross the māyā and to attain the land of divinity. So, we do our best but there is the free will and the impulse of the previous action of the jīva.

na kartṛtvaṁ na karmāni, lokasya sṛjati prabhuḥ na karma-phala-saṁyogam, svabhāvas tu pravartate

("Due to their tendency towards ignorance since immeasurable time, the living beings act, considering themselves the doers or inaugurators of action. The Supreme Lord does not generate their misconception of considering themselves doers, nor does He generate their actions or their attachment to the fruits of those actions.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 5.14)

Even the Lord says that "I am independent of their activities, their action, and their consequence, independent. I'm aloof, I'm not responsible for their action and for the consequence of their action. They're left independent. Svabhāvas tu pravartate, the arrangement I have made for the free will, do independently, the free will cannot be taken away, then it will be mud, it will be stone. No longer will it be a soul, a soul means endowed with free will. If the free will is taken off the soul cannot exist, it is something like fossil. So free will must be there and with free will you should come to serve Me."

Free service, that is necessary, not forced labour, devotion is not forced labour, but devotion is free service, freedom is there of the jīva soul, then he'll be happy. Otherwise devoid of freedom if he forced them to get like fossil he won't feel any satisfaction in him. So free cooperation, free service, there is devotion, otherwise no devotion, that's forced labour, so forced labour is not devotion, no service, no dedication.

So be the nature of things He can't interfere and He does not interfere,

God even, what to speak of His devotees. But their good will, their good aspiration, that is enough, that is something, and with the help of that we can make fair progress. But our willing cooperation must be there, otherwise it can never be devotion. Freedom cannot be snatched away from the soul, free service, free cooperation, that is indispensable.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Mahārāja, we see many wealthy persons who have the idea that by giving some pranami that they'll receive unlimited benefits. So is that Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, that is utilised for the service of the Lord, and as a reaction of that their energy is utilised in the service of the Lord they get something in return as reaction. And thereby from the lowest level they acquire sukṛti and when sukṛti is sufficiently developed then it becomes śraddhā and they come gradually to this side.

Devotee: What if, could that also be like puṇya-karma, could that also be there?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That depends upon to whom he's offering the pranami. If the pranami's offered to a person whose engaged in worldly good things then it will be puṇya. But the energy which he supplies to a person whose in nirguṇa, who has no business but to serve Nārāyaṇa, Kṛṣṇa, then in return he gets some sukṛti, the unit of devotion.

Devotee: What is the difference between puṇya and sukṛti ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Puṇya means sattvic, good within this misconceived world up to Sattya-loka. In this exploiting area there is also according to the intensity, good and bad, good and bad. Most cruel exploitation and reasonable exploitation and very meagre exploitation, but sattva-guṇa, that is also exploitation. In the plane of exploitation the most heinous and intense, the dacoits and then there is something given and something taken. And those who are engaged to avoid the exploitation and intensity of exploitation is reaching to a very lower degree, that is sattva-guṇa, which means Maha, Jana, Tapa, Sattya-loka, but still it is within the area of exploitation. That is puṇyam. A man of such spirit, a man who devotes for the good cause in this world, worshipping for the other deities, they're in sattva-guṇa.

pujanga santi sat satra madray sri rajastra jaga naga navritistra yadhoga santi tamata ?

Three classes of personalities here. The sattva-guṇa they're more renunciation and less exploitation, generally that is known as sattva-guṇa people. When connected with the nirguṇa plane, that is Hari, Nārāyaṇa, for His satisfaction. Not to accept some mundane service from Nārāyaṇa, not such attempt, but to satisfy Nārāyaṇa, that is devotion.

sā cārpitaiva satī yadi kriyeta, na tu kṛtā satī paścād arpyeta

"Devotional services must be first offered to the Lord, then performed; not performed and offered afterwards." (Śrīla Śrīdhara Swāmī)

Then it will be bhakti, devotion. Whatever I shall receive by this action, the result will go to my Lord and not to me. If with this spirit any activity is practised then it is devotion, otherwise when the recipient will be anyone but Nārāyaṇa then it may be sattya-guṇa, and raja-guṇa, tama-guṇa.

So puṇya means, generally it is known as merit, demerit, in this way, but within the jurisdiction of this illusory conception, illusion, misconception, not proper conception of the truth, misconception of the truth, that puṇyam. Though sometimes we find in the śāstra the puṇya has been used in the sense of sukṛti, very rarely.

mahā-prasāde govinde nāma-brahmaṇi vaiṣṇave svalpa-puṇya-vatām
rājan viśvāso naiva jāyate

(Mahābhārata)

Here the puṇya has been used as sukṛti because it's concerned with Govinda not with any worldly purpose, the connection. Just as Viṣṇu, He has got His special acquaintance, but sometimes the word Viṣṇu has been used to mean Kṛṣṇa also.

vikrīḍitaṁ vraja-vadhūbhir idaṁ ca viṣṇoḥ śraddhānvito 'nuśṛṇuyād atha

"One who hears with firm faith the supramundane amorous affairs of Lord Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs, as described by a pure devotee of the Lord, soon becomes freed from mundane lust and achieves divine love of Kṛṣṇa."
(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.39)

Here Viṣṇu means Kṛṣṇa, vraja-vadhūbhir, pastimes with the gopīs, that is only confined to Kṛṣṇa. But the word Viṣṇu has been used for the ordinary persons to facilitate their understanding, that Kṛṣṇa is not a human being though His ways are more or less the same as a human, He's aprakṛta, crossing this Vaikuṇṭha adhokṣaja realm. To make us understand the word Viṣṇu has been used, the commentators have written in this way. But generally the Viṣṇu means Kṣīrodakaśāyī Viṣṇu, or Nārāyaṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, who was that śloka composed by? svalpa-puṇya-vatām rājan Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is mentioned in some Purāṇa.

mahā-prasāde govinde nāma-brahmaṇi vaiṣṇave svalpa-puṇya-vatām

("O King, for those who have amassed very few pious activities, their faith in mahā- prasāda, in Śrī Govinda, in the Holy Name and in the Vaiṣṇavas is never born.")

(Mahābhārata)

Padma-Purāṇa, Viṣṇu-Purāṇa, some Purāṇa. In Gauḍīya-Kaṇṭhahara you may find it.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, conditioned souls, they don't have spontaneous attraction towards bhakti, towards Kṛṣṇa, it's bad if this attraction can be imposed, can be forced is best?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The expert may give that sort of pressure if he finds that particular case may have some benefit. The pressure he may enforce to some duty that will remain on the expert who will handle it that is we give some pressure, apply some force, then he may go from here to there. That will depend upon the particular case.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, also the student

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because a Vaiṣṇava, he's cent-per-cent Vaiṣṇava, any activity from him cannot but produce goodness, whatever apparently it may be. Hanumān is killing so many demons, the demons killed in his hands will get some higher chance. Because it is in connection with Hanumān and so it was necessary for the service of the satisfaction of the Lord it is guaranteed there. Do you follow? It depends upon the person who will give pressure or apply force to a particular person.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, this freedom can be given openly because sometimes a kaniṣṭha cannot appreciate, cannot act properly, he cannot utilise properly this freedom, but the student must be given?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Make it more clear.

Devotee: You are referring to the freedom, the spontaneous service. The kaniṣṭha- adhikārī's cannot appreciate and utilise properly this freedom, but freedom must be there? Even if it is not properly utilised?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Freedom of the soul and the present freedom of the mind, freedom of the soul is necessary and to awaken that pressure may be given in the mental freedom. "Don't do this, do that." In this way the egoistic freedom, freedom of the ego, that may be engaged to accord the freedom of the soul, freedom. And in that process he'll ask: "Don't do what your mind dictates you to do. What I say, do that. Use you present ego in the action of putting aside your own impulse, your own tendency. And what I say, try to accept that. Utilise your present ego in this and then by this process when your soul will be awakened he will be able to understand my good purpose, at present you can't. You go on obeying what I say. Try to utilise your ego to do this. But one day in this process you'll find that your soul is awakened and he will appreciate that."

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, sometimes you have said that the last verse in the Bhāgavatam seems to advocate kaivalya. Can you explain that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kaivalya cat prayojana, that is the complete autonomy, kaivalya means that. Everything is in harmony with the Supreme Good. He will come to such a plane where he'll be able to see everything having connection with Him.

Suppose there is prison house and there is some punishment and it pains your heart to see the punishment. Suppose the mother is beating the child, it may be painful for your heart to see this. But when you can see the whole thing, the mother, to correct him, this punishment is a good thing, this is not bad. The government is punishing the prisoners and it is for the welfare of those that are being punished, so it is not a cruel action.

If you connect it with the centre then you'll come to see that everything is beneficial, is good. Do you follow? In consideration of the interest of the whole he will not be disturbed very much seeing the punishment, the mother is rebuking the child, he's not excited, if out of her affection she's punishing the boy aiming at his future good, so he may not feel disturbed.

Something like this, everything he'll see and he'll see the real purpose is known to one: ārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1): it is fulfilling His desire, His pleasure, and thereby it is successful. The justification of any and every event he will find in connection with the satisfaction of the Centre. He will learn to adjust everything in this way connecting with the satisfaction of the Supreme Will. Kaivalya cat prayojana, it is necessary to satisfy Him so it is all right. He's not guided for any selfish interest however small or big, great, no selfish interest, no local interest, no guidance from any local or provincial interest. But always he looks at anything and everything from the Absolute standpoint, Absolute interest: ārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ: everything meant for Him. "Reality is for Itself." So the standard of good or bad should be measured by value from the standpoint of the satisfaction of the Centre.

End of side A, start of side B, 25.7.83

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kaivalya cat prayojana, fully absorbed in the interest of the Absolute independent of any other local interest. Do you follow? Is it clear?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, for the time being.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: We have very bad memories.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gradually.

amita vigraha tama krama sojana ?

By gradual process, not all of a sudden.

Devotee: After attaining what level can a devotee be sure that he will not fall down?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is vastu-siddhi, not even svarūpa-siddhi, and fully out of the relativity, the connection with this world, and fully absorbed there.

Devotee: That is niṣṭhā, niṣṭhā is not guaranteed

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, no, no, niṣṭhā, nothing.

Devotee: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is prema and then svarūpa-siddhi, there also the danger lies, up to form. And so we are told vastu-siddhi, no relativity with this mundane world, fully absorbed there. Then if they come down it does not matter.

The peculiarity of the transcendental is this that when he come in contact with the mundane world of illusion, concoction, he does not mix with this. And so he's cent- per-cent devotee like. They are seen to mix with this, but they're independent, this cannot touch him, him and his own persons. Always independent, māyā can never touch him, wholesale personal

Devotee: Can you give some examples of devotees who fell from svarūpa-siddhi ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Svarūpa-siddhi it is told that when one is wholly in theoretical conception, his wholesale truth he has accepted, but mere acceptance in the principals is not all. The whole practice must follow that understanding, mere understanding is not safe. But the whole practice will follow that understanding completely, then it will be fruitful.

No connection with māyā however small it may be. Fully entered that domain. And then again if he comes this force cannot touch him. Otherwise if any slight remaining in the realisation, wholesale realisation if little remaining, with that portion may again draw him here. Mama māyā duratyayā:

(daivī hy eṣā guṇamayī, mama māyā duratyayā mām eva ye prapadyante, māyām etāṁ taranti te)

("This "trimodal," supernatural, (alluring) deluding energy of Mine is practically insurmountable. However, those who fully surrender exclusively unto Me can certainly surpass this formidable fantasy.")
(Bhagavad-gītā, 7.14)

He says that: "Don't minimise the power of this illusory energy. It has got My backing, mama māyā, the māyā stands on My support, so it is not less powerful than you. It has got its own position in My understanding. So you cannot push him out. Only when you are cent-per-cent purified, the māyā exists to take you by dealing punishment. And when you are wholly above that, then māyā, it is not necessary for her to interfere with you. Otherwise with the least connection of misconception of Me, mistrust in Me is within you, the māyā won't leave you."

Do you follow?

Devotee: But Kṛṣṇa says: na me bhaktaḥ praṇaśyati:

(ksipraṁ bhavati dharmātmā, śaśvac chāntiṁ nigacchati kaunteya pratijānīhi, na me bhaktaḥ praṇaśyati)

("That most degraded person very swiftly becomes adorned with virtuous practices and attains to eternal tranquillity. O son of Kuntī, declare it - proclaim it - My devotee is never vanquished!") (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.31)

He says: "Once becoming a devotee then there can be no disruptions."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Na me bhaktaḥ praṇaśyati: that does not mean that what defects are in him will be neglected. A wholesale cure is necessary, but that struggle will continue.

"If he acquires something of real devotion in him, then the struggle will be there and ultimately he will have to come to Me and māyā will leave him." But the struggle may continue. "He will be relieved when he has come in My connection sincerely, his future is insured. But still, until and unless the last connection of māyā he can conquer, he can leave, there is chance that he will have to come back again and struggle to finish that world.

There is a proverb that: "The remnant of the loan, and fire, and war, should not be neglected." From the least point, least spark, a conflagration can come, from least animosity by the designing person a great war may come, and from the very least portion of the loan it may come to be a big thing. So the neglected portion should not be avoided. The perfect solution is necessary. A little connection, through that hole, the enemy can come, enter.

The possibility will be best that as much progress we shall be able to make the possibility of fall will be lessened, accordingly. But it won't be eliminated fully, the rogue, the disease, a small portion of a disease may not be neglected, fully cured. If a little is neglected, from that again it may come very big. So wholesale cure is necessary.

Only gaining victory about three fourths we may not be satisfied that the war has been finished. From the small portion again it comes to a bigger stage. It is struggle.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, is it possible to live without self-interest?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is self-interest at present that is not real self-interest, it is erroneous self-interest. So in our realisation of the truth we shall be able to understand what I thought was my self-interest that was not really my self-interest. In this way he will make progress and the transformation will come in the consideration of self-interest.

Transformation, that: "I thought my self-interest was there but it is not so." In this way the progress will be going on, and at last when you get Kṛṣṇa consciousness: "Oh, this is my self-interest, my svarūpa, my interest is here and not there. That was akṣara, misconception, māyā, misconceived self-interest. And here, true self-interest."

Devotee: Mahārāja, the Hari-nāma-cintāmaṇi, it seems that it's distributed on a very wide scale, a very wide scale distribution of that literature. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is speaking of something very, very high, that siddha-praṇālī in later chapters of Hari-nāma-cintāmaṇi. It seems like a very dangerous thing to give the people in general, or is that directed towards sahajiyās ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With sufficient caution, that is to be given to the public with sufficient caution.

Devotee: Also, the Madras Gauḍīya Maṭh, they've translated Kṛṣṇa-Karnāmṛtam, so is that to be read?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) also published Kṛṣṇa-Karnāmṛtam, it is there, in Bhāgavatam also, the rasa-līlā is there. But that is a general thing, and in a particular case it should be applied, and the application should be careful, in particular cases, but it is there, in Bhāgavatam also it is there, in Caitanya-caritāmṛtam also it is there. But persons who want their own benefit will go on carefully. Kṛṣṇa is there, in the temple, Rādhārāṇī is placed by the side of Kṛṣṇa, we are worshipping, mantram is also there, there with respect and reverence we are to deal with that. Śraddhānvito, 'nuśṛṇuyād, dhīraḥ, these three conditions are given there.

vikrīḍitaṁ vraja-vadhūbhir idam ca viṣṇoḥ śraddhānvito 'nuśṛṇuyād atha varṇayed yaḥ bhaktiṁ parām bhagavati pratilabhya kāmam hr̥d-rogam āśv apahinoty acireṇa dhīraḥ

"One who hears with firm faith the supramundane amorous affairs of Lord Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs, as described by a pure devotee of the Lord, soon becomes freed from mundane lust and achieves divine love of Kṛṣṇa."
(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.39)

Śraddhā, with necessary regard, not with the object of exploitation or renunciation, bhukti-mukti-siddhi:

(bhukti-mukti-siddhi-kāmī 'subuddhi' yadi haya gāḍha-bhakti-yoge tabe kṛṣṇere bhajaya)

("Due to bad association, the living entity desires material happiness, liberation, or merging into the impersonal aspect of the Lord, or they engage in mystic yoga for material power. If such a person actually becomes intelligent, they take to Kṛṣṇa consciousness by engaging themselves in intense devotional service to Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa.")

(Caitanya-caritāmṛtam, Madhya-līlā, 22.35)

Not with that purpose, but śraddhā, kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva:

('śraddhā' - sabde - viśvāsa kahe sudṛḍha niścaya kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya)

("By rendering transcendental loving service to Kṛṣṇa, all subsidiary activities are automatically performed. Śraddhā means viśvāsa, faith, sudṛḍha, very firm and strong, unflinching faith. Faith in sādhu-śāstra-guru, faith in Kṛṣṇa. This is faith. If someone develops Kṛṣṇa bhakti, all their activities are finished, kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya. Nothing is left out if you have faith.")

(Caitanya-caritāmṛtam, Madhya-līlā, 22.62)

If I do for Him everything is done. This must be in the background. Such persons will come otherwise, it is mentioned that without being Śiva, attaining the status of Śiva, anyone who takes poison is sure to die. So vikṛīḍitaṁ vraja-vadhūbhir idaṁ ca viṣṇoḥ śraddhānvito, what is śraddhā, a bona fide person will come to negotiate this.

Nuśṛṇuyād, and s/he must listen to it from a proper person, proper guide, proper teacher. Otherwise the misconception will encroach and capture, nuśṛṇuyād, with the proper training, in the line of proper training they will get, they will hear it from a bona fide person and he will say what are the practical difficulties in the way, and with his guidance one can approach.

Atha varṇayed yaḥ, bhaktim parām bhagavati pratilabhya kāmam, hr̥d-rogam āśv apahinoty acireṇa dhīraḥ, and the candidate must have the qualification of a dhīraḥ, dhīraḥ means who is master of his own senses, not a slave of the senses. They will have any admission here in the higher stand. With these cautions this Kṛṣṇa-līlā has been given to the world, and those that are of such qualification, they will approach and they will find their fulfilment.

Devotee: Mahārāja, there is kāma, krodha, and lobha, (lust, anger and greed), three of the major defects while we're trying to force on them which is the anārtha (?) to go, which is the most difficult thing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

It is not the same with all persons, it depends upon the peculiar nature of the person, and according to that, and according to the disease the medicine and diet should be given. Generally, the kāma should be taken as the worst by degree, because it is there with Kṛṣṇa. It has been classified in another way also - kanak, kāmīnī, pratiṣṭhā - (wealth, women, prestige), our attraction for the women, and attraction for the money, and our attraction for our good name and fame.

Our Guru Mahārāja in his poetry used to say: kāmīnira kāma, nahe tava dhāma, tāhāra mālīka kevala yādava: "The pleasure that we like to enjoy from the company of the women, this pleasure is only reserved for Kṛṣṇa, not for anyone else."

(tomāra kanaka, bhogera janaka, kanakera dvāre sevaka mādhaba; kāmīnira kāma, nahe tava dhāma, tāhāra mālīka kevala yādava.
pratiṣṭhāsātaru, jaḍamāyā-maru, nā pela rāvāna yujhiyā rāghava; vaiṣṇavi pratiṣṭhā, tā 'te kara nisthā tāhā nā bhajile albhībe raurava

"Your gold is the progenitor of enjoyment - serve Mādhava with gold. The desire in your heart for beautiful women is not for you - their only proprietor is Yādava. The tree of desire for fame is the desert of the illusory energy. Rāvaṇa did not get it by struggling against Rāghava. Be dedicated to the fame of a Vaiṣṇava. If you do not worship that, you will go to hell (raurava)."

(Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura's Nirjana Anārtha)

After going through this poem one gentleman came to ask our Śrīla Guru Mahārāja: "What is the meaning of this line, kāmīnira kāma, nahe tava dhāma, tāhāra mālīka kevala yādava ?"

"It is not within your jurisdiction, it is all meant, on principal it is all meant, wholesale for Kṛṣṇa, reserved. To enjoy women, that is reserved for Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. Every woman should be enjoyed by Him only, none else. Wholesale for Him."

Then, kanak, kanak means energy, money, it is meant for Nārāyaṇa, Lakṣmī.

lakṣmī pati nārāyaṇa - kāmīni pati kṛṣṇa - lakṣmī pati nārāyaṇa - the whole thing belongs to Nārāyaṇa.

And the pratiṣṭhā, the name, fame, all this name give to Paradeva, to Rādhārāṇī, Gurudeva. The whole credit is for him because he makes the Supreme Authority Absolute, to make possible for the ordinary public to know. It is only through him that such knowledge is coming to the world. So the canvasser of the highest truth, he deserves the whole credit, it is through him only the credit, the name, the good will of the world, comes through Guru. Guru means Baladeva and Rādhārāṇī.

So all the name, the regard for these three (kanak, kāmīnī, pratiṣṭhā - wealth, women, prestige), and we are servants, we are not enjoyer, we are not proprietor, we are all servants. We are to conceive this. Svarūpa-śakti means, that world divine means this, wholesale empty, empty, negative. All positive conception of possession of a person that must be eliminated, that is a foreign thing, that is māyā, that is concoction. You are rather, negative, and if you can reduce yourself to some negative conception you will get your highest realisation. Don't try to make yourself positive, aggressor, not aggrandising, not aggressive, not predominating but predominated. You are to reduce yourself into that sort of nature. There you'll thrive. And if you go to be aggressor, to be positive, then you'll lose. It is not natural, it is unnatural, and you'll have to suffer, it is a disease to you. Do you follow?

All for the time being. This is the difficulty.

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati yasmin prāpte sarvam
idam prāptam bhavati

("By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained.")

You must place yourself in a position where from you may look at everything and give that, "this is this, this is this." There is a position, svarūpa, and from that if you can place yourself in that position, then from there whatever you'll look at and give estimation, that will be sambandha-jñāna, what is what. And the root of that is to have the conception of the self from there we can deduce something.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, many people are reading your book The Search For Śrī Kṛṣṇa and they're finding the chapter on Christianity a little difficult because you've said there that if the Holy Ghost holds the highest position in Christianity, then Christianity goes to brahmavāda nirviśeṣa Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The vague conception of the reality.

Devotee: But many people are thinking, many devotees in the West

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is going to Śaṅkara's conception?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ghost means what? What is the conception of the Holy Ghost?

Devotee: Very vague.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Father, Son, Son as Guru, Father as creator, and the substantial substance at their back is something unknown and unknowable. That is brahmavāda. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes, I follow.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then you can argue with him, then?

Devotee: But they think that Jesus Christ is a pure devotee.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, maybe, Vaiṣṇavas there may be of different orders. Who says Śaṅkara is also a Vaiṣṇava: "bhaja govindam, bhaja govindam." But saying that the ultimate conception is Holy Ghost, that is from a spiritual unknown substance. If the Holy Ghost holds the highest position then it will lead you towards nirviśeṣa, non- specified.

Devotee: Jesus said in the Bible that: "I shall sit at the right-hand side of my Father." So he understood that his Father is a person.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, ultimate reality as the Father means creator, as Brahmā, right- hand side of Brahmā, the creator. The highest principle as creator, Father means creator. What do you say? What is the conception of Father? Father means creator of the whole world, whole creation, he's the original substance from whom everything has come, the creator.

Devotee: One devotee was telling me that Jesus Christ was an impersonalist, a māyāvāda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If Jesus Christ teaches that the Holy Ghost, the non-differentiated spiritual principle, is the ultimate cause from where the Father and Son is coming, then he's a māvādī. But if he says that Father, power, is the eternal type in spiritual body, then we cannot say that he's a māvādī. "Holy Ghost is above all," if they say like that then they are māvāda. Otherwise they say that there's a section in the Christianity who have considered Jesus Christ as bridegroom. We say that the ultimate reality is consorhood, sonhood, consorhood not fatherhood, not only fatherhood but consorhood, that sonhood and consorhood that is also there represented eternally, in eternal līlā. And the Holy Ghost conception is in a lower position, it is a marginal position. Then that may be transcendental, Holy Ghost in the lower position, then fatherhood, and sonhood that will be higher, then something.

Devotee: That's the way I've always known it, Father, Son and Holy Ghost

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Father and Son they meet in Holy Ghost?

Devotee: No, no, the Father's superior to the Son and Holy Ghost.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If Guru is superior and above Holy Ghost then it will be something of the transcendental truth. But if Holy Ghost is given as above then it will be impersonal, "impersonal conception of the truth is the higher," it will come under that consideration.

Our good will to your party and Jaya Tīrtha Mahārāja, our good will and prayer to the Lord for him.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, Viraha Prakāśa Mahārāja has one question about the Bible. Jesus Christ said: "In my Father's home there are many abodes." But I cannot explain this at all if it's personal or impersonal

.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, no, "In Father's home there may be many quarters," it is all right. But whether that's this side, the Holy Ghost, or the other side, crossing Holy Ghost on the transcendental side, or in the immanent side, that is the question. With this side it may be Sattya-loka, Maha, Jana, etc., crossing the Holy Ghost position it goes further on the other side, then it will have some spiritual attributes, transcendental truth.

Devotee: So if Jesus says that the Father holds the highest position, above the Holy Ghost, then that may be something like Vasudeva Nārāyaṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then also there's a subtle difference, the fatherhood, vātsalya-rasa, but mādhyura-rasa should be considered to be the highest, if we compare.

Devotee: Yes, but that may be something like the Vasudeva conception.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not Vasudeva, mādhyura-rasa consideration, that vātsalya-rasa consideration, Vasudeva, Vāsudeva, and also Nandanandana, there is, but not with the gopī, nor even with Rukminī, that is absent there. The service in the mādhyura-rasa is of the order of the highest quality because that holds and harmonises within it all other rasas, vātsalya, the fatherhood, the friendship, the servanthood, all within that consorhood.

Devotee: But my point is that if Jesus says that the Father is the highest, but he doesn't include any devotees, he has no paramparā

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not only "Father is the highest," Father conception may be on this side, but crossing that Holy Ghost, Father on the higher, commitment must come in that way.

Devotee: Like Vāsudeva Nārāyaṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Holy Ghost conception is lower and the Father conception is above that, then it will transcend the mundane conception and will go to Vaikuṇṭha. That in the infinite also crossing the area of consideration of finite and entering the infinite plane, there is also Father. That confidential we'll have to become.

Devotee: But just crossing the Holy Ghost, then:

sattvam viśuddham vasudeva śabditam yad ūyate tatra pumān apāvṛtaḥ sattve ca tasmin bhagavān vāsudevo hy adhokṣajo me namasā vidhīyate

"I am always engaged in offering obeisances to Lord Vāsudeva in pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is always pure consciousness, in which the Supreme Personality of Godhead, known as Vāsudeva, is revealed without and covering." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.3.23)

That on the other side before Nārāyaṇa there is Vāsudeva conception, Kṛṣṇa without any devotees

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vāsudeva means not Vāsudeva's son, but here Vāsudeva means Vāsudeva Who is living everywhere and who is living within all and all within Him, in that sense Vāsudeva. Above Brahman conception this Puruṣottama conception:

brahmaṇo hi pratiṣṭhāham, amṛtasyāvyayasya ca śāśvatasya ca dharmasya, sukhasyaikāntikasya ca

(Kṛṣṇa says: "I am the basis and original mainstay of the undivided divine vitality of the impersonal Brahman, which is immortal, imperishable and eternal, and is the constitutional position of inexhaustible nectar and the sweetness of the ambrosia of profound love divine.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 14.27)

bahūnāṁ janmanāṁ ante, jñānavān mām prapadyate vāsudevaḥ sarvaṁ
iti, sa mahātmā sudurlabhaḥ

("After many, many births and deaths, one who is actually in knowledge surrenders unto Me, knowing Me to be the cause of all causes and all that is. Such a great soul is very rare.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 7.19)

The Transcendental Personality is everything when all the renunciationists knowledge comes to such conceptions that He's person, person conception is above impersonalism, that is cid-vilāsa, that is something. And when any conception of anything is below the impersonal conception that is māyā. So Brahmā is also the father, he's the creator, he's the father of the whole world. Then above that, that Brahman.

Devotee: But if the Christians say that the Father is just above the Holy Ghost then that may be vāsudevaḥ sarvam iti.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vāsudeva, and may be come to that stage, Father. But Vāsudeva is not all, that full conception, full-fledged theism will be to give full engagement of our inner tendencies. The corresponding faith of you according to the need within us, our heart, of all rasa, all forms of ecstatic enjoyment must be in Him. The creation is not a very important function but the engagement, the corresponding engagement with the natural thirst with every atom who will supply. That He's the highest principle who can engage, who can adjust everything in Him with all His demands.

Raso rakhila rasamrta murtih, all sorts of innate hankering must be satisfied in the Centre, that Centre should be the perfect and highest. Who will be able to give all sorts of subtle demands within our nature, the corresponding relationship, in every way, all variegated way. Rakhila rasamrta murtih, all aspirations are accommodated there, harmonised there. That should be the prime cause. For Itself, Reality is for Itself, everything for Him, not as some utility in Him. All-accommodating centre, all-pervading, all-comprehensive, all-accommodating, all-fulfilling. This should be the qualification of the ultimate absolute.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, Viraha Prakaśa Mahārāja has a question. According to Christianity's vision which God reveals in the Bible, He can be Brahmā with large bird, can be Brahmā the creator of this universe

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Father, God, means not Holy Ghost but Father. God the Father is giving the Bible and not the Holy Ghost. Is it not?

Devotee: Yes. So he wants to know, could that be Brahmā the creator? Brahmā, he's giving the Vedas Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the position of the Holy Ghost in the Bible? That is to be understood. Holy Ghost means unknown and unknowable. The prime cause cannot be so, it must have some connection with us, fulfilment with everything innate. It cannot be only in the hypnotiser. All the inner engagements we must have with Him, that will be the highest centre who will harmonise anything and everything in Him. And the highest demand of rasa, fulfilment, ecstasy, happiness, happiness is controlling the whole world. Every atom is searching after happiness, so all sorts of happiness must be in that centre. That is the inner-most demand of every existence, rasa.

So Rūpa Goswāmī has given the definition of Kṛṣṇa in a scientific way, who is Kṛṣṇa. Rakhila rasamṛta murtiḥ, all possible different conceptions of pleasure, or happiness, or ānandam, or whatever it is, who can harmonise them, give food to them, He's great. Kṛṣṇa is not a personal conception standing in a particular posture and with a flute, that has got some relation there. But the scientific position of Kṛṣṇa is expressed in this way, that all sorts of all, everything is in search of happiness, and who can supply, who can satisfy the hankerings of all souls, the corresponding phase, He's Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "What further shall I talk to you Arjuna." After showing Viśvarūpa to Arjuna, Kṛṣṇa says to Arjuna: "You are astounded to see My so bigger figure, but what you have seen, that is the smallest part of Me. Only I am such that by one negligent part I can accommodate the whole of the world you can conceive of. The conception of your infinite is in My negligent part." He is such, so great, He's so great. "What more should I say for your knowledge. Only simply know that whatever you can conceive, how much you can conceive, that only forms a negligent part of Me."

So what we have conceived about Swāmī Mahārāja's (Śrīla A. C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī's) teachings, we should not limit there, we should not limit there. Then we'll defeat ourselves, defeats its own object, it is suicidal. As far as I have understood my gurudeva, that will be all? It is ludicrous. So no end of knowledge about Him, we should not limit. That is māyā, whenever we are under the influence of māyā, then so far no further, so far no further. That should not be given indulgence. Infinite, He's Infinite, every part of the Infinite is Infinite. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So in that way we shall try to understand, even Brahmā cannot understand, even Śiva cannot understand, they cannot finish Him. What is this? It is quite reasonable that Infinite is Infinite..... Hare Kṛṣṇa.

A picture of Jesus is there in that book and the reference to Jesus is also mentioned?

Devotee: We must cross the threshold given by Jesus Christ. He has declared die to live. One gentleman has said: "Christians will say He has full knowledge." Then you replied: "So is He stagnant there, finally fixed, is that Jesus' position, does the Bishop say that his position is final? Does he have progressive life or is Jesus alone barred from making further progress? Is He a member of the dynamic world or the stagnant world?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One thing is missed about Jesus, I remarked, that from His remark we can understand there is plane of mercy over justice. While dying He told, crucified, He told: "Oh God they do not know what they do so forgive them." That means land of mercy, appealing to the plane of mercy over justice, that also we can have from Him, from His teachings there's a plane of mercy over the plane of justice. "Oh Lord if You take the way of justice, those that are crucifying Me they have no hope, but I appeal to Your department of mercy, so that they may not be harmed." A magnanimous statement from Jesus we adhere.

But fatherhood: "Give me our bread. We are here and we want Your help to continue our mundane life." And also along, lives life when surrendered, no definite description about their daily movements, how they're adjusted with God consciousness, in what sort of service, that is all omitted.

But that is clear in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Akhila-rasāmṛta-sindhu. That has been adjusted in śānta, dāsya, sakya, vātsalya, mādhyura, all this developed and very scrutinizingly, and very subtly it has been represented, our connection with God. But in Christianity it is very vague, vague in the life of a man in God's plane, nothing distinct has been traced or given out.

Twenty four hour engagement with this service of God, this is almost impossible. In Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism it is furnished there, the twenty-four hour service engagement with God is almost impossible but that is possible. We can live with Him as family man. Mayātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai:

martyo yadā tyakta-samasta-karmā, niveditātmā vicikīrṣito me tadāmṛtatvaṁ pratipadyamāno, mayātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai

"One who is subjected to birth and death attains immortality when he gives up all material activities, dedicates his life to the execution of My order, and acts according to My directions. In this way, he becomes fit to enjoy the spiritual bliss derived from exchanging loving mellows with Me." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.29.34)

Viśate tad-anantaram: tato māṁ tattvato jñātvā, viśate tad-anantaram:
bhaktyā māṁ abhijānāti, yāvān yaś cāsmi tattvataḥ tato māṁ tattvato jñātvā, viśate tad-anantaram

"By the potency of that supreme devotion, he is able to completely know My nature of Almighty Lordship and majesty. Thereafter, acquiring the perception of his divine relationship with Me, he enters into a group of My intimate personal associates, whose nature is nondifferent from Mine." (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.55)

"That is he enters into My family life, enters into Me, that is My family life."

Ātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate. "In the consideration that they're My own, they're My own, members of My own family. In this zone they can enter."

That entrance from the Buddhist or Śaṅkara school past away this limit, no trace. Rāmānuja says that the bird enters into the hill, forest, and it's not seen from this side but he's there with his family enjoying. So also, viśate tad-anantaram: There, there is life, there is life and the best part of our life is to be traced there in relationship with personal God. Ramakrishna mission people say that a doll of salt went to measure the ocean and dissolved, became one with the ocean.

But we shall see, yes, but every atom is different from another atom, even in an atom so many electrons are moving, like planets. So in every stage there is differentiation and specification. It may be of different planes, consideration of different plane, but one and many, and the movement and the relation amongst them that can never be eliminated. Vilās, pastimes, when the movements, they are seen with a living eye they are pastimes. When life can be traced, feeling sentiment can be traced in the atoms, electrons, all these things, the approach from the plane of life, then that is all play, all vilās, all pastimes. Only physical aspect, physical movement, but endowed with life, then they're all pastimes.

The enjoyment of the mother, child, husband, wife, to a mosquito, insect, or a tiger, they cannot think that they're living a sweet life, they can't understand, the internal sweet sentiments, they cannot understand, but there is. So if we can enter into that plane we may be able to find that every movement means pastimes, with the object of searching after happiness, searching, happy life, not physical dead life, vilās.

In Vṛndāvana, the sands of the Yamunā, the creepers, the trees, all living entities, all living entities, only posing of an inanimate, but all animate, and all in the mood of enjoyment, and doing particular service. So in śānta-rasa, what seems to be only the passive existence, but there is also active enjoyment. So from the view of Vṛndāvana, the angle of vision of kṛṣṇa-līlā in Vṛndāvana, everything dancing, singing, chanting, making pastimes, full of joy.

All the movement may be intelligent, and all the movement may be attaining fulfilment of life. Sat, cit, ānanda, these aspects may be traced anywhere and everywhere. Sat, only existence, cit means consciousness, and ānanda trying for fulfilment, enjoyment. Three stages, three aspects of life we can find everywhere and anywhere. There also. Goloka means full fledged vision, Goloka - solid circle, full fledged, in full fledged angle of vision, we may find all rejoicing, that is Vṛndāvana, the most fundamental plane of vision. All dancing, all enjoying, all engaged in the mad service of Kṛṣṇa. This is the highest stage of our realisation, for everyone, every atom is rendering service to Kṛṣṇa, that is in the vision of the highest devotee.

sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ bhūtāni bhagavatī ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ

"A person advanced in devotional service sees within everything the soul of souls, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Consequently they always see Kṛṣṇa everywhere and in everything. One who is situated on the topmost platform of devotional service is known as an uttama-bhāgavata." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.45)

Not detached, not detached.

yo mām paśyati sarvatra, sarvaṁ ca mayi paśyati tasyāhaṁ na praṇaśyāmi, sa ca me na praṇaśyati

"For one who sees Me in everything and everything in Me, I do not remain unseen and he also is not unnoticed by Me: he never sways in his thought of Me." (Bhagavad-gītā, 6.30)

Everything has got recognition, to the smallest atom, electron, they have got recognition in the cognition, in the central cognitions office, in Kṛṣṇa. Nothing forgot, everything, all points have got their proper recognition in the central office, in the heart of Kṛṣṇa, not neglected, nothing is neglected. Proper adjustment, and all contributing to the beautiful movement, samañjasā. Samañjasā, harmony, the most extensive harmony, every part is harmonised, nothing is discordant. Only deeper vision can expose that, deeper vision, so we can see the harmony. Even the māyā is harmonised, the (battery?) it has got its position, not undesirable, but the things are, the prison houses are also desirable, undesirable and at the same time desirable, prison houses. Undesirable, hospitals are undesirable, still it is desirable because there is disease, to cure that. So māyā has got its position, to purify, to purify. He's playing, the child when playing and going to cross the boundary of, and a little harm and there is the bandage and other arrangements, the child's playing, on the whole.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

The lying, thieving, that is also most undesirable thing, that is also being harmonised. Stealing is harmonised, lying is harmonised, good effect, desirable. In sport, in merry, sometimes we lie, to excite sentiment, pleasing sentiment in the heart of persons sometimes, adjusted. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Sympathetic outlook, the degree of sympathetic outlook can harmonise everything. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Jagāi, Mādāi, attacked Nityānanda Prabhu and bloodshed took place, but that is also harmonised, in this way:

patita-pāvana mani sakhi dui bai ?

So if Nityānanda Prabhu is to have, if we are to have Nityānanda Prabhu, we must have Jāgai, Mādāi, at His side, in a playing mood. Jāgai, Mādāi, without Jāgai, Mādāi, no magnanimous position of Nityānanda Prabhu can be conceived.

Without that gentleman, Judas, then no Christ can be conceived perfectly. Judas is necessary. And it is my thinking that when Christ was with the cross on His shoulder, passing through the mob, Judas was there in the mob. Christ going, head bending, but suddenly He saw Judas. With such glance, such a look, Judas became mad and fled from the place and the bribe money he threw away, became mad. I think the Christ's eye on the Judas was of negative character. "Judas, I am utilising you, for My greatness, I am utilising. I am indebted to you forever, my līlā, my pastimes, if it has got any value, I am to pay to you for that. You are playing the most important part in these pastimes of mine. I am ever indebted to you Judas. I have set you, you are set in such a way to make the background." Otherwise, Jesus is no Jesus.

So, everything may be harmonised in the angle of vision at the highest adjustment.

pasardita ? More extended vision. Gaura Haribol.

moray rakay maray dukay sakay dujatay ?

Self-forgetfulness, that is also in Christianity, self-forgetfulness. Self-forgetfulness, but for what? That is the question. The gopīs in Vṛndāvana, they're perfectly self-forgetful for their own interest. Cent per cent devoted, not only present but future also.

Once when we were working in the Madras Maṭh, we incurred some loan to construct the temple, to expedite the construction of the temple we incurred some loan. Anyhow we reported to Guru Mahārāja and we thought that Guru Mahārāja will be dissatisfied, why we have committed loan.

But instead of that his appreciation came: "Oh, you have risked your future also in the service of Kṛṣṇa, in that way. Not only is the present being utilised in the service of Kṛṣṇa but your future also, you have given to Kṛṣṇa for service. By making loan you must have to work in the future to clear this debt. So future also engaged in the service. I am very happy to hear you have taken so much risk. For future, risk of future, forgetfulness of the future interest, not only to take the risk of the present, but of the future, eternal future dedicated to my Lord."

Nitya-līlā, eternal pastimes. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Competition is necessary, that is vetidek ?

When we like to see that the, below the party parliamentary, opposition. We can have such a spacious look that the opposition is also helping. Then, there is māyā also helping, we can see through that, helping Kṛṣṇa.

amnayah biddhi abhyad yasya sarvatra sarvada amnayah ditarata ?

Direct and indirect. According to Hegels, thesis, anti-thesis, and greater thesis is synthesis. Again that is thesis, again anti-thesis, again a greater synthesis. We are to look to the world in this way. Thesis, anti-thesis, synthesis, again synthesis is recorded as synthesis, again anti-thesis of that, again a higher synthesis.

Then some oppositionists come to say that it is all progressive, it is in want, your infinite, your absolute, in want. Your only progressive. He told that every second whatever He wants, it is realised, so it is not in want. That is His answer, whatever He plans, at once it comes to fulfilment. So we can't say that it is perfect, it is imperfect, progressing, but it is in this progressive way.

Anyhow they bring everything under some law, but here, the Vedic, the Purāṇic conception of the Absolute, is līlā, līlā-moya, sweet will, it's sweet will. And Mahāprabhu comes to support that. Acintya-bhed-ābheda. Adhoksaja. The harmony is beyond our conception and thinking, you must take it in the beginning, in your hand. It is never finished within your conception, it can never, acintya, unthinkable, unthinkable. This objective you will always keep in your hand, acintya. Not within your brain, puppy brain. Our Guru Mahārāja used to like this expression, our puppy brain. Adhoksaja, transcendental, supramental, but we should take the line, going this way, as far as possible no limit.

Only one drop, Mahāprabhu says to Sanātana: "It is limitless, no breadth, no length, no limit."

And then in the next place He says:

"That one drop can inundate this whole world of our conception. A part of Infinite is Infinite."

agvinda jagat duvai ?

"One drop is more than sufficient for us to inundate the whole world, it is such. Happiness, happiness, joy, joy. Water, water, everywhere, not a drop to drink.

In Coleridge's Ancient Mariner, in the sea, all water but salt, salt water we can't drink, so water, water, not a drop to drink. That is our position, only appreciation, understanding.

By knowledge through Him, then everything is all right. Adhoksaja.
Everything is reserved in His hand, the key is with Him. Adhoksaja.

adhaḥkṛtaṁ atikrāntaṁ akṣajam, indriyajam jñānam yena

"That Tattva, Supreme Reality, is always existing, keeping our sensual knowledge and experiences forever subordinate."

Everything, is not to be exposed to the fullest extent to our mundane senses, They've reserved the right, reserved the right, only partial representation. Our local interest, our selfish interest, local interest, provincial interest, we cannot get relief of that, so we can't come to understand the universal interest. Prejudice, full of prejudices of different interests, like so much dust covering our eyes. We can't read properly, what is what, because these complex interests they're covering our eyes, we can't get out of that.

brom pramāda coronavata vipra-lipsā (imperfect senses, the propensity for cheating, certainty of committing mistakes, and certainty of being illusioned). These four defects, brom, means commission, commit mistakes. Pramāda, omission, we omit many things. coronavata, defects in the instruments through which we gather our knowledge, coronavata. And vipra-lipsā, and the internal prejudice, to misguide our judgement, it is always present in the fallen soul, so they can't understand what is what properly.

But those whose eyes are covered with prejudices, with the dust of different interests, they can't trace the truth, they cannot see the truth, outside, can't see Kṛṣṇa, His hand, His presence outside.

kamanasay bahowtattva ?

How will they be able to read properly the environment. So we are living within our own cell, living in the cell, to break the cell, to become free. That is not all, then we are to imbibe, the proper vision from the higher plane. We are created in a particular stage, but sometimes to see things, microscope, telescope, is necessary, when far away, telescope. Through the Vaiṣṇava we can see, through the scripture we can see, direct we cannot see. So many things are there, and microscope is necessary. We are created in a particular plane with particular materials, with particular prospects and possibilities, parts. So parts cannot understand the whole, it is only possible when the whole wants to make Himself known to the part and that also to a particular extent, he can get Name. yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyaḥ

nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām

"One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Supersoul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him."

(Kāṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23) + (Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.3.2)

If the Infinite cannot make Himself known to the finite, He is not Infinite, in that way. Infinite's power is unlimited, infinite, so it can do everything and anything. He can show without eye, Kṛṣṇa did it in the assembly of the Kuru's. Dhṛtarāṣṭra told: "Oh You have, You are showing such a figure, beautiful and grand figure, that the muni's and others, Bhīṣma, Droṇa, members of the court, they're appreciating Your darśana and chanting in praise of that. But I am blind, I can't see You, for the time being, You give me sight so that I can see You."

To our astonishment Kṛṣṇa told: "No, no, blindness need not be removed, I say you'll be able to see Me, now you'll see."

Without eye Dhṛtarāṣṭra could see the figure Kṛṣṇa. The eye experience Dhṛtarāṣṭra had, without his eye. How is it possible? Dhṛtarāṣṭra prayed, temporarily at least: "You remove my blindness and bless me that for the time being I can have darśana of You".

But Kṛṣṇa told that: "No blindness is necessary to be removed, I say you see Me and you'll be able to see Me."

And Dhṛtarāṣṭra did that. Though blind, he could see, because Kṛṣṇa told. So such is His will power, His will, His ways are such, above law. Whatever He pleases to do it is done immediately. Without eye man can see, without ear man can hear. Such is His position. These incidents are to teach us in that way, what is His position. A blind man He can show, so what is His sight, it is not limited within eye experience, in the physical plane, it is something else.

"Arjuna you see Me, in this way, Viśvarūpa." And he saw. His order. His will. So we are to be acquainted with such power and such substance. We are to develop our thinking in that level. We are already accustomed with the ways of this material law, but transcending the law of this material substance there are other, higher laws. Divya-darśana. This eye physical, not sufficient, so guru comes to give us proper eye, proper eye. Get higher eye, to read the environment, to read you and to read the environment. This eye is not sufficient, this eye is limiting you, in a very limited circle, but get another eye, the eye of the Veda.

From the limited to the unlimited, for your own interest.

One thing is common everywhere, that we are in search after happiness. From the worst atheist, to the highest devotee, all will be common here, that we are searching for bliss. Blissfulness, beauty, charm, sweetness, love, affection, they're of the same plane, and we can't deny that we are not searching for that. The field may be different, one is giving his life for the country, he's also....that joy. Another, a dagger, putting on another's body, that is also for joy, but quality of joy, the difference in the quality. A dacoit also, joy hunter, and a patron, and a humanitarian, philanthropist, also joy hunters, and the devotees also, the salvationists, they are also.

But the quality in the conception of the joy, or the happiness, that is to be taken into account as most important. What sort of ānandam, joy or happiness we want? This joy brings reaction, committing dacoiting then punishment will come very soon as a reaction. And what sort of joy does not bring reaction in its retinue, but in every increasing line it will move, that is what is wanted, and the quality also will improve in the time eternal. That is necessary for us. Father, mother, country, all these transient, temporary cognition and then dissolution, but in the midst of everything, we are all seeking after happiness.

ṛte 'rtham yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani tad vidyād ātmano māyām, yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ

"O Brahmā, whatever appears to be of any value, if it is without relation to Me, has no reality. Know it as My illusory energy, that reflection which appears to be in darkness."

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.34)

(The ontological base of the whole Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is contained within these four śloka. (S-B, 2.9.33-36)

The conception of māyā, ṛte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta, It is misreading, what is real purpose, to miss it, to omit it, and see it otherwise. Māyā means misreading, not to be able to read things properly outside, misreading, and that is affected only by our prejudiced interest, local interest, local. mīyeta anuyar ? There is another meaning of māyā, of course meaning is the same thing, mīyeta, measured meaning, limited meaning, limited meaning, limited reading, reading from the limited standpoint, that is māyā. Mā - yā, what is not, not proper, are limited, two fold meaning of māyā, 'rthaṁ ṛte, the proper meaning is neglected, or it is omitted, proper reading of things, improper reading, māyā.

Rte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani. And from the standpoint of the whole of consciousness it cannot stand. Na pratīyeta cātmani, tad vidyād ātmano māyāṁ, yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ. Just as light and darkness, the difference is like light and darkness. Ignorance and knowledge, knowledge is effective, ignorance is misleading, loss of energy, waste of energy, that is the consequence.

But here there is another, higher level. Mahāprabhu asked to take to that for us, His recommendation: "Ignorance and knowledge, eliminate both and try to surrender to the affectionate heart of your affectionate superiors, surrender to your guardianship. Jñāna- sunya-bhakti, don't take the responsibility and risk for calculation and reading of the environment on your shoulder, but surrender to the sweet will of the highest dictator. Law is for us, law is not for Him, He's above law, so take shelter of the law creator. Then you are fearless, you will be at liberty, the highest liberty you will be able to enjoy, if you can rise up to that level. Jñāna-sunya-bhakti. Sincere and perfect dependence on the dictator who is above law, He's above law. Jñāna-sunya-bhakti. Just as a child in the mother's lap, intuitive affection, that is the highest position for us. Jñāna-sunya-bhakti.

Don't bother yourself with good and bad, only one line. Stick to that, surrender. His sweet will. That is another plane, though unseen from this side, the scholars, muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ, (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1). Not only ordinary men, but great scholars are benumbed, they can't follow, understand. Scholars means depending on knowledge, they cannot eliminate knowledge. The scholars say: "We can't understand what you say, jñāna- sunya-bhakti, is the highest place, we can't follow this, how is it possible?"

But it is possible, it is possible to give up hope on our defective self calculation, that is vulnerable. So throw yourself on the decision to the Supreme invulnerable substance, at His disposal. That is the highest attainment of the individual, to live in the land of mercy, affection, love, and that is beauty, that is charm. The land of sacrificed soul, wholesale sacrificed soul, they live there in that land. Self forgetful, self forgetful, living there, a plane of surrender and that is the highest plane of our life, that was announced by Mahāprabhu, jñāna-sunya-bhakti.

It is very difficult to understand how we can live, the jñāna, the light, without light how can we move, it is impossible, but it is told that that is the highest position you can ever aspire after, jñāna-sunya-bhakti. Automatic, automatic, just like a computer calculation. Everything is being done as a machine, mechanically. But that is living and affectionate, not machine, this material thing, dead thing. A vitality grows there in its highest form. Vitality. It is not an abode of dead persons where all faculties are dead. They rather find their full play, fullest play, all the parts, the eye, the ear, everything, encouraged by the sweetness, the ānandam is rather taking the lead in the movements there.

All do not see with the eye, pasu pūsyati gandana ? As I told before, ganda vedi, rupa vedi, rasa vedi ?

There are so many classes, in the animal creation. They see things only by scent. Who has come before him, he knows by the scent and not by the eye. sabda vedi, by the voice one can know who has come and not by the eye. ganda vedi, sparsa vedi, by the touch only they can understand who has come before them. The fishes are called sparsa vedi, one fish coming, approaching another fish, only the wave, he's coming, there's a peculiar wave he understands such a fish is coming to me, it is possible, sparsa vedi.

ganda vedi, by the scent only can understand these ants, etc, that who is coming, ant coming, or the mosquito coming, or the cat coming, or amongst the ant who is coming, only by the peculiar measurement of the scent. As we can discriminate with our eye, the human body coming, either this man or woman by the eye we can trace, so by scent one can understand, by sound one can understand, without eye.

So also here, the understanding by sweetness, by ānandam, differentiation in ānandam, they are moving there, no eye to guide, intuition something. The search for Kṛṣṇa, the searching attitude, that is the guide. There are classifications, everything is there, automatic, ānandam, inspiration, anuraga, affinity, that can guide. Everything is there, the eye, ear, everything is there, but still the guiding principle is affinity, affinity towards the centre and according to the degree so many infinite classifications. But the main thing is our attraction towards the centre, Kṛṣṇa beautiful. Search for the beauty, that is the main thing and there are differentiated characters in that, but the main thing, the main current of the life there is the search for Kṛṣṇa.

kāhāṇ mora prāna nātha muralī-vadana kāhāṇ karoṇ kāhāṇ pāṇ vrajendra-nandana

Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: "Where is my beloved Kṛṣṇa? I can't tolerate His separation. Where is the Lord of My life, who is playing His flute? What shall I do now? Where should I go to find the son of Mahārāja Nanda?"

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.15)

How I can run to the place where I can find the centre of the current, where is the centre of the current? So sweet current coming to us, where is the centre? In this way. And who are nearest the centre? And who can command the sent current? So many things are there in the general vision.

This may not be idolatry, we may think in figurative way this is represented, we may think: "Oh this is idolatrous, in mental idolatries, physical idolaters, and mental idolatry, they're suffering from, the Hindu's are suffering from mental idolatry." Do away with the idolatry conception. Things may be generally represented in this way, scientific way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Mahāprabhu wanted to... pay and he will have, don't try to secure things very cheap, don't try to purchase in the cheap market, be ready to pay for the thing. Surrender, nothing less than surrender, that can purchase a ticket for you in that, for that plane. Wholesale, wholesale, if you can give wholesale, you will get also wholesale.

ye yathā māṁ prapadyante, tāṁs tathaiva bhajāmy aham mama vartmānuvartante, manuṣyāḥ pārtha sarvaśaḥ

Śrī Kṛṣṇa says: "As a person takes refuge in Me and surrenders unto Me, I respond and reward accordingly. Being the ultimate goal of all philosophies and doctrines, I am the objective to be attained by all. Certainly, O Pārtha, everyone follows My various paths in all respects."
(Bhagavad-gītā, 4.11)

"If you are miser, I am also miser in dealing to you, if he's as much generous I am also so. Wholesale giving, I can also give wholesale. So much so Yaśodā can whip Me and I have no other alternative but to rub My eyes full of tears. 'I don't do this once more My mother, don't beat Me, don't whip Me in this way, even I can go so far, so far.'"

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

śrutim apare smṛtim itare, bhāratam anye bhajantu bhava-bhītāḥ aham
iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde paraṁ brahma

"Those who fear material existence worship Veda, some worship Smṛti, and others worship the Mahābhārata. But I choose to worship Mahārāja Nanda, because in his courtyard the Supreme Cosmic Truth, Param Brahma is playing."

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.96) + (Padyāvalī, 126)

Raghupati Upādhyāya in His talk with Mahāprabhu told:

"Let the others who are very much afraid of their worldly life run towards Veda, run towards Smṛti, and other scriptures. But I don't like all these things bothering. Simply I want, I see that what... aham iha nandaṁ vande. All my concern is with Mahārāja Nanda, where I find in concrete truth that the Parambrahma is crawling on the compound of his house. I see the concrete thing. I won't run after phantasmagoria, what the Śruti will say, what the Smṛti will say, so many. mani marti vasista jagra vagra Smṛiti, ?

Veda also Sama, Yajur, Atharva, so many interpretations. I don't like that, I get the fruit here, the result, the consequence, I find here. That the Parambrahma whom you say, all Parambrahma, He's crawling in the compound of Mahārāja Nanda. So I shall negotiate with Nanda Mahārāja how I may be counted amongst one of his own people. This is my direct finding."

And that satisfied Mahāprabhu very much, that Raghupati Upādhyāya's statement.

The Śrutis, they're also in the rasa-līlā, they're also trying to have that defective attempt forgiven. "We could not exactly express You my Lord, that You are such and such. You are rasa-līlā. Our expression rather went to express indifferent, that Brahma, the Brahma, Paramātmā, all this impersonal thing, generally we dealt with. But You are person and You are such a wonderful personality. You can describe these ordinary human things in such a great way. We did not know all these things and we could not express You, in this type, so forgive us." They beg to be forgiven, excused by Kṛṣṇa. "That we could not, we say, we boast that we give Kṛṣṇa, we give the Absolute to the people. But we ourselves did not get any such compression of Yourself, highest, so sweet. So sweetly we could not represent You, so we must be forgiven for our audacity, our position, our authentic announcement, that we can show the path to You, we are criminals, in this way."

iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde paraṁ brahma

"Those who fear material existence worship Veda, some worship Smṛti, and others worship the Mahābhārata. But I choose to worship Mahārāja Nanda, because in his courtyard the Supreme Cosmic Truth, Param Brahma is playing."

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.96) + (Padyāvalī, 126)

Parīkṣit Mahārāja, he is also in that great assembly of the scholars of different departments, he also says:

nandaḥ kim akarod brahman, śreya evaṁ mahodayam yaśodā ca mahābhāgā, papau yasyāḥ stanāṁ hariḥ

Parīkṣit Mahārāja, on the basis of the theistic atmosphere created by Śukadeva Goswāmī, Parīkṣit Mahārāja is asking:

"This is wonderful, what you say. This Nanda, what did he do in his previous life? What sort of penance's, or reading, or anything, religious practices, what did Nanda do that he has got the Parambrahma in such a way, in a players way he has got that Parambrahma? And yaśodā mahābhāgā, and the great fortunate lady Yaśodā, who is suckling that Parambrahma. It is inconceivably wonderful. What did they do? Please come direct with that recommendation. We want to follow that. We want to follow that leaving aside all those stereotype things that ever come to the world, for God consciousness, or God realisation. Leaving everything aside, we want to follow that path, what Yaśodā did, what Nanda did, in their past lives, that they have acquired such a great inconceivable position, we want to know that." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.8.46)

So Mahāprabhu came to give us such direction, where to go, what to gain, what to obtain.

āścaryavat paśyati kaścīd enam, āścaryavad vadati tathaiva cānyaḥ
āścaryavac cainam anyaḥ śṛṇoti, śrutvāpy enam veda na caiva kaścit

"Some see the soul as astonishing, some describe him as astonishing, and some hear of him as astonishing, while others, even after hearing about him, cannot understand him at all." (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.29)

Even in Gītā we find, that only soul consciousness is wonder of wonder. We are all practised with material consciousness, material valuation, we are making much, we know we are accustomed to make material valuation, always calculating. But if we can have the conception of our own soul, the particle, the dust of the great conscious substance, we'll be astounded. āścaryavad vadati, who will hear, who will say, who will know, everyone will be astounded.

"Oh the soul is such a thing, such valuable, such wonderful, independent of all mortal, the atom bomb cannot do anything to the soul. These great achievements of the so called civilised genius, they cannot approach this plane of soul, it is living in that plane."

So how much disarmed we are with fear. No fear, no apprehension which we are suffering, always like a remittent fever, always containing fever. The mortality, the threatening of mortality is always attacking on us, consciously or unconsciously.

But when we reach the plane of soul: "Oh, what wonderful thing, beyond these atom bombs and all these threatening of the mortal world. It is above, wonderful things."

That is only a part, as a dust of that conscious world, and then the conscious world, siddhaloka, and then the, andamāyaloka, where it is. Still it is with us, we hanker only for that.

na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ, durāśayā ye bahir-artha-māninaḥ andhā yathāndhair upanīyamānās, te 'pīśa-tantryām uru-dāmnī baddhāḥ

Prahlāda Mahārāja says: "Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.31)

Prahlāda Mahārāja says we are attracted by the outer coating of things and ignoring the very spirit which is within, that is our fate.

prāyeṇa munayo rājan, nivṛttā vidhi-śedhataḥ nairguṇya-sthā ramante

"O King Parīkṣit, mainly the topmost transcendentalists, who are above the regulative principles and restrictions, take pleasure in describing the glories of the Lord."

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.7)

.....

ātmārāmāś ca munayo, nirgranthā apy urukrame kurvanty ahaitukīm

"Those sages who, being merged in the bliss of the spirit soul, are totally free from the binding knot of mental images - they too engage in the unmotivated service of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the performer of marvellous deeds. This is but one of the qualities of the Supreme Lord Hari, who charms the entire world." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.7.10)

.....

What to speak of us, we are full of material aspirations. Those that are famous for their spiritual aspirations and whose life is given for that, it is necessary also to preach in that camp, that He's above that, above knowledge. The love is above knowledge, prema is above jñāna, and Kṛṣṇa is king of that loving plane, the plane of love and beauty and it is above your consciousness. Very rarely we find that some of the leaders of the jñāni school, they're aspiring after that beauty. So beauty is not confined in this eye experience of the material world. So how wonderful that will be. Aham iha nandaṁ vande, (Caitanya- caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.96) + (Padyāvalī, 126), the soul is such, then the Supersoul Paramātmā, then that Bramhā Nārāyaṇa, Vāsudeva Nārāyaṇa, Rāmacandra, Dwārakeśa, Mathureśa, Vṛndāvana.

vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī tatrāpi rāsotsavād vṛndāraṇyam udāra-

Rūpa Goswāmī says: "The holy place known as Mathurā is spiritually superior to Vaikuṇṭha, the transcendental world, because the Lord appeared there. Superior to Mathurā-purī is the transcendental forest of Vṛndāvana because of Kṛṣṇa's rāsa-līlā pastimes. And superior to the forest of Vṛndāvana is Govardhana Hill, for it was raised by the divine hand of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and was the site of His various loving pastimes. And, above all, the super-excellent Śrī Rādhā-kunḍa stands supreme, for it is over-flooded with the ambrosial nectarean prema of the Lord of Gokula, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Where, then, is that intelligent person who is unwilling to serve this divine Rādhā-kunḍa, which is situated at the foot of Govardhana Hill?" (Upadeśamṛta, 9)

"There are those in the world who regulate their tendency for exploitation in accordance with the scriptural rules and thereby seek gradual elevation to the spiritual domain. However, superior to them are those wise men who, having given up the tendency to lord over others, attempt to dive deep into the realm of consciousness. But far superior to them are the pure devotees who are free from any mundane ambitions and are liberated from knowledge, not by knowledge, having achieved divine love. They have gained entrance into the land of dedication and are engaged there spontaneously in the Lord's loving service. Among all devotees, however, the gopīs are the highest, for they have forsaken everyone, including their families, and everything, including the strictures of the Vedas, and have taken complete shelter at the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, accepting Him as their only protection. But among all the gopīs, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī reigns supreme. For Kṛṣṇa left the company of millions of gopīs during the rasa dance to search for Her alone. She is so dear to Śrī Kṛṣṇa that the pond in which She bathes is His very favourite place. Who but a madman would not aspire to render service, under the shelter of superior devotees, in that most exalted of all holy places." (Upadeśamṛta, 10)

The gradation in the transcendental world is being shown to us in this way, with this aspiration. Let our fortune to direct to move on and on, towards Kṛṣṇa consciousness, from deeper, to deeper, to the deepest.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Nitāi. Here we close today.

* * * * *

Devotee: (reads a lengthy passage of either Sanskrit) I'm sorry. My reading is probably very bad.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not bad but not very clear to our ears. What is the chapter?

Devotee: Ninth chapter. (Eleventh Canto)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ninth chapter. So it is by whom? Kavi, Havir, Antarīkṣa, Prabuddha, Pippalāyana, Āvirhotra, Drumila, Camasa and Karabhājana. (The nava-yogendras, the nine Yogendras, the sons of Ṛṣabhadeva - the plenary portion of Vāsudeva). Who is it?

Only one point, or many. Only this point that many guru's are necessary, because there are different conceptions of the advaya jñāna. So to understand fully the particle part, the expert of that portion is to be consulted. Main purport is this, but if such a guru is available who can represent all of the whole, advaya jñāna, then one may suffice. Otherwise the partial realisation, the guru of partial realisation, they can give out the knowledge of a particular part. That is the underlying principle. For both relative and absolute, the same question, and absolute is the final.

Generally:

ācāryam mām vijānīyān, nāvamanyeta karhicit na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ

"One should know the Ācārya as Myself and never disrespect him in any way. One should not envy him, thinking him an ordinary man, for he is the representative of all the demigods." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27) + (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.46)

Whenever we shall accept any guru, we shall try to see the fullness in Him. But with the progress of the knowledge it may seem that some points are being lacking, in that case, śīkṣa guru is to be adopted.

Devotee: Guru Maharaja, it is spoken by avadhūta-brāhmaṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Avadhūta, inciting by whom? Camasa, Karabhājana, or Antarīkṣa? Who is the speaker? Who is giving reference of the avadhūta-brāhmaṇa ? Nava-yogendra, one of the nava-yogendras, is a speaker here, who is he? Hare Kṛṣṇa.

(Vaistudeva ? - voice Uddhava?) It is there.

Devotee: Yes. My mistake. I'm sorry.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vaistudeva? It is there, so, ha ha, a drastic position, ha ha ha.

Unquestionable.

Devotee: That changes the whole situation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Unquestionable.

Devotee: (reads another verse and apologises again)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One in many. ācāryaṁ mām vijānīyān, one in many. He's guru, because

He can make Himself known, no other. So wherever there is true transaction, there is He Himself present, that is oneness in guru. And also the variegatedness is there, according to ones adhikāra, ones position. The same thing, lokaybavaya ?

One may not understand the whole truth, only by instalments he should be given, through different births. On the whole guru is one, and guru is He, and it is His will. In one figure also He may deliver the whole truth, but generally by partial instalments, according to the position of the audience, He will extend things, lokabavayaseva ?

nitya sajantu nahi tattya codana?

There are scriptures that say: "Oh marry, then leave your wife and go to the forest, and then you leave everything and always try to meditate on Him, even leaving post."

There are so many, according to the capacity of the student the professor will impart advice to him, instruction to him. A gradation is there. Gradation is there.

"If I do not do any work then others will think that idleness is the goal of our life, so I have to work."

One who has got adhikāra, qualification, he's to be advised and hear by something . .

Then again everything as in Bhagavad-gītā, He's dealing with different departments but winding up in the last towards devotion, in this way.

tapasvibhyo 'dhiko yogī, jñānibhyo 'pi mato 'dhikaḥ karmibhyaś cādhiko
yogī, tasmād yogī bhavārjuna

"The yogī who is a worshipper of the Supersoul is superior to persons engrossed in severe austerities such as the cāndrāyaṇa, superior to the worshippers of Brahman, and superior to the fruitive workers. Know this certainly to be My conclusion. Therefore, O Arjuna, be a yogī."
(Bhagavad-gītā, 6.46)

But:

yoginām api sarveṣāṃ, mad-gatenāntarātmanā śraddhāvān bhajate yo
mām, sa me yuktatamo mataḥ

"Among all types of yogīs, the most elevated of all is the devotee who has full faith in the authoritative pure devotional scriptures, and who adores Me with all their heart by hearing and singing My divine glories, rendering all services unto Me. Certainly this is My opinion." (Bhagavad-gītā, 6.47)

End of recording.

83.7.25 - Autobiography Two tapes

Devotee: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Guru Mahārāja. In America and other places, many of the devotees are very anxious to know about your earlier activities.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Earlier activities?

Devotee: Yes, for instance, what year you first met Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Prabhupāda, and we don't know much about...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Without?

Devotee: We do not have much information on your previous activity and were rather anxious to know about those things.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then let them take notes on points, sometimes take notes on points.

Devotee: It may be noted by tape recorder. Because we have found that your history is so happy that just to hear that history, many devotees are finding great encouragement.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I was born in 1895, 10th October, Saturday, at midnight. Tithi Navamī, (ninth lunar day). Rāmacandra. And utsava of kṛṣṇa-pakṣa, dark moon fortnight, of Kṛṣṇa and the birth, that is the day, Mahāprabhu sandivaya ? midnight. I recall my, I was second child of my mother, first a daughter, Diadavri ? so Rāma-kavach was given to her for the protection of the next child, that is meself.

Devotee: Rāma-kavach ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rāma-kavach, my mother took Rāma-kavach and then I was born. And because the first child was lost, so when I was, I am already born and my mother is confined within the maternity area, just in the front, two batches, English language, given perhaps B. A. standard, one of my two cousins, English knowing, they used to... that any ghost or something like that may not come in the shape of the cat or in any way, so they used to protect the first half of the night. Two English students, in gr̥hastha life, and the second half, these two Sanskrit students, one cousin and another uncle, they used to live there, just in front of that temporary shed, last portion of the night, to protect from any unseen attack.

Devotee: Keep night watch.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Night watch. I remember when I was a boy placed on the shoulders of my father, they were going on saṅkīrtana, little far away. I asked him to take me there, and crying, "take me there." Anyhow, he to console me, he took for some time and then came back.

Then I had a very good memory, especially in Sanskrit. I was taught a śloka, in praise of

Śiva, pranamami śivam śiva kalpa taru, and I could chant that from my memory, though I don't remember that, I could do so that.

When I was one year, eight months, my grandfather died, but I can't remember him. First memory that I can collect, there was an earthquake. I was born 1302, in this Mohammedan era, and 1304, in the month of Vaiśākha (April-May), there was one earthquake. I was a child then, one year and perhaps eight months or so, I remember that. One year eight months old boy, I remember that earthquake, that shaking of the earth and so many cows gathered, and this and that. First memory I've got.

Then at three my next brother was born, when I was three. I remember the scene, the birth of my second brother, 1898, August perhaps he was born, I remember that. Then when I was given to, perhaps I am at least fifth year, just writing, that also I remember. Then I was given to my maternal uncles house for - many things before that I can remember - and when I was in the maternal uncles house, for three years, for early education in a primary school, I got some help from, Rāmayana, Mahābhārata, talk from one of my aunts, and that helped me a great deal. Then already I had some affinity for ontology, some sort of intuition, intuitive knowledge, partiality towards ancient mythological śīkṣa, instruction on Sanskr̥ti means culture, orthodox section. From the very childhood my tendency was with the orthodox section, very Veda, Upaniṣad, all that, faith in God, all these things.

When I was a student at the school, some nine years, I began high school, I was admitted. There in debating club I always sided with the ancient śāstric culture, even against the teachers, that took up the course of the Renaissance Reformation. I was always on the side the previous culture, I fought with them and don't think that they could defeat me.

Then I got my sacred thread from that family, when I was fourteen years, fourteen years. I feel more or less that my memory was sharp, what I saw or I heard in my early days I could remember them. I am told that I had general tendency that if anyone comes asks me anything, "no." Whatever should be asked me, "no." But once, one scholar when he will go, scholar in our house, our member, family, he went to appear in the examination, he came to ask me whether he would pass or not, I pronounced "yes" and he got scholarship. Then I passed matriculation, 1915, from the local high school, I could write in Sanskrit verse before that something.

Then, I liked sacrifice in life, sacrifice, magnanimous side, I had affinity for Rāmacandra, for moral pastimes, but not so much Kṛṣṇa because of His Vṛndāvana-līlā. I could not accommodate, why should God be a liar, and this girl hunter, I could not accommodate. Though I saw Rādhā-Govinda Mūrti, that seemed to me very, very, charming, some mystic background I found, but on the surface I had more liking for Rāmcandra than Kṛṣṇa. My attraction to Kṛṣṇa first came through Bhagavad-gītā and then through Mahāprabhu. I liked because that magnanimous type.

Rāmacandra ogardya udardya udar udarv ?

Self giving type of ideal, that captured me more. So I liked Rādhārānī very much, I liked Mahāprabhu very much, not so much to Kṛṣṇa, my attraction, but my attraction to Kṛṣṇa comes through Mahāprabhu and through Rādhārānī , from this side.

When I was nine, ten or so, there was one temple where Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa Mūrti is established, installed, in Jagadānanda Pur, near Kāṭwā. My father every year in Kārttika mīna? month? (October-November) he used to read Bhāgavatam there. Sometimes I visited with him that temple and found some mystic atmosphere there, very mystic it seemed to me.

Then, after passing matriculation I went to Baharampur for college study and there with the company of one of my cousins, maternal uncles' child, son, I came in connection with the east Bengal people about whom we heard they have got much boldness and sacrificing nature. I took my seat in the same hostel as them. Then anyhow I passed matriculation second division, but I.A. I passed intermediate first division in Udubi? When we were reading in the local school, we had to do some family works also, including this cleaning work, etc, and many others. And there from the hostel I got first division and again I was admitted in that same college Baharampur, Krishnanātha College.

And when I was a student of fourth year, after fourth year the examination of B.A. fourth year, I came in connection of younger boy who has just come, passing matriculation and admitted into college. In the college I found that there are some section of students that are habituated to some meditation and pūjā, etc, very few. And there were other class, other group, that do not care for worshipping but they like the service of a patient and do some good to the others, public good. But I had internal nature for both. So I found that that boy, I am fourth year student and he is first year student, four years, three years gap. But that boy given to both sides. But very intensely taking the name of the Lord, very loudly, sometimes like a man and also doing, sandhyā (worship), vandana (offering prayers), etc. And also when there is any patient he forgets everything and engages himself in the service of the patient, even does not care to go to the college. Both sides, the service as well as this worship, arcana and this social service combined.

Before this when I was in school, I got a book where it is mentioned that if we can go on with the japam of Gāyatrī, 432 times, we can achieve very good spiritual improvement. I practised for some time in that and at that time I tried my best to understand the revealed truth. Not consulting any dictionary or grammar, but my tendency - I heard that Gāyatrī, this is conscious, spiritual, it is not a dead word, so if I go on with japam, Gāyatrī Herself will express its meaning, its purpose. With that attitude I used and I used to get some light that is coming from the words itself, I had some knowledge about that, for some time.

Then when in college I came in connection with that boy, his name was Suresh Bhaṭṭāchāryya. He comes from Faridpur, where from that founder of Bhārat-Sevā āśrama, Praṇavānanda comes from his village and Madhusūdan Mahārāja also comes from the same village, Bājepratāp-pur in the district of Faridpur. Brahmin family.

Then I tried to associate with him and one day when we two were going on a morning walk, and also to purify our teeth with some branch of the tree, together going, he told that his father, he mentioned about his father, in the expression that: "That gentleman."

I took exception to that: "Why do you express this word, your father, you say 'that gentleman', what is this?"

Then he told: "Yes I have committed wrong. I should not have said in this way before you. But really it is like that. That gentleman, he was a gentleman. In this life I have come to him and he protect me for some time and next birth I shall go to some other place, in this way all of us are moving, moving, hither thither, coming from some gentleman and there to another gentleman." In this way he told.

I gave opposition but that point hit me very hard. I began to think. "Yes it is true that we are in the midst of father, mother, brother, or 'that gentleman.' What real connection I have got with them or they have got with me. Thinking and thinking from this point, the whole world became to me as a vacant and a furious atmosphere. No shelter to take anywhere, a position, chaotic position and I have no position of stability. Where from I am coming? Where to go? How long you're to stay? This is all a point in the infinite, uncertain point, I am in the whole of infinite." Thus a great shock came over me this way and that was the great turn in my life.

The worldly achievement has no value, this reading of the class, I'm fourth year student, I'm to appear after a few months in the examination final. My friends they're alarmed seeing my position. "What, you're neglecting your studies, how will you be able to pass? Your father sent you money, you're not so rich a man." In this way they tried to help me as their best. I can't concentrate in the book, this study. They told: "If you can't do so we shall read and you try to hear."

At that time I got Niya-Nimāi-Carit ? Mahāprabhu's Life and Teachings. That is written by the editor, the founder of Amṛta Bāzār Patrikā and I devoured the whole thing like nectar. I got some position, it is not that I am nowhere. It is there, the position, the support, the basis, the foundation, the sustenance, the hope and shelter, I have got here. In this way I began to read, then read. My very nature was whatever I read, I read very scrutinisingly, it may be slow but my reading is more or less very accurate and representing the true aspect. I could hear also very clearly, not reading also, by hear, hearing, very acute hearing was my nature also, what ever I heard I could grasp the plain purport and keep it in me. And here also by reading, slow reading, and I found there my life, my future, hope, everything, and was converted.

In my family, in my mother's family, some recognition of Caitanya Deva, but my paternal family they're orthodox smārtta, they hate the followers of Caitanya Deva. 'Caitanya Deva has created a chaotic society. If one cannot keep his own stand in the social position, the pests, it is they who have gathered to follow Caitanya Deva. Those who have lost their social position, they become Vaiṣṇava and they say that we are followers of Caitanya.' They hate there in the fathers family. But this time, after this, I was fully converted into a follower of Caitanya. Such feeling also came, not only intellectual but in heart and mind also, wholesale conversion.

Then my father died. He was disappointed and dejected. I was the eldest son, he had some hope in me for family matters, but when he saw that I had such a change in me, almost heart broken he died, it may be said, he was. Then the burden of the family also came in my mind, but I am such. And the chance also came to me to live a life of abnegation. For one year, the sun, won't use any umbrella, any shoe, I made some extreme addition, only cloth and a sheet, nothing else, for a year, and half-mad I used to do agricultural work, this cow service.

Here anyhow I passed the B.A. year and the class friends they told that I at that time had the, Baharampur section from where I appeared, wholesale massacre. Very few could pass but anyhow I passed and then some of them told: "Oh by worshipping, by the method of worshipping and satisfying God he has passed. He did not read at all, he passed only by worshipping God." They told like that.

Anyhow when my father died, with full knowledge, almost full knowledge, he passed away. He told several things to me and one was that you will have to marry. At that time I never spoke any lie, whatever may be the effect I straightly speak what is truth. So I can't commit myself before him, but the pressure came. "Whether you marry or not, don't disturb me in this time, you say that you will do, whether you do or not do." Anyhow the expression came: "I shall try to obey your prayer, keep your request." In this way, modified way I told, then anyhow I had to marry, in the married life stayed for six years.

In the meantime I went to read again in the law class, but Gandhi movement of non co- operation came, I joined the movement, non co-operation movement, because there was the, some sort of statement, "Within one year I shall give svarāj, independence, to you."

I wanted to become a sannyāsī, but they want, the countrymen want one year, so this surely I must sacrifice for them. I left the law college and came and worked for some time as a secretary of the movement here, posted in Kālnā, secretary. In this way, and sometimes in the village, for several years, two three years I, then it was stopped for the time being. I found I was wanted for the service in Calcutta, and by the help of the government office superintendent I got some service there, and I was putting up in Calcutta and attending the office, though my attraction is always towards Mahāprabhu.

In the meantime I wandered here and there, finding sādhu, where to take initiation but I can't select to my taste, to my satisfaction, here and there. Then in 1926, something, perhaps in August, 26th of August, I was returning from the office and found a placard in the Chittaranjan Avenue. "Gauḍīya Maṭh Mahotsav (grand festival) for one month." And it is nearby, Pareśnātha Temple. I found a placard, read, red colour. I thought 'Gauḍīya Maṭh, that must be Mahāprabhu's followers, go, let us go and find what is there.'

The founder of Bhārat-Sevā-Āśrama, Praṇavānanda, I knew him when I was with Suresh Bhaṭṭācāryya, when I was law student, he tried his best to take me in his mission but I flatly refused that. "My head is sold to Mahāprabhu, Gaurāṅga, so I can't go anywhere else."

He told: "I also have great reverence for Mahāprabhu, Caitanyadeva, but I think the first stage must be Buddhistic abnegation, vairāgya, indifference. Second, Śaṅkāra's Vedānta, the jñāna, vairāgya, jñāna. And the last, highest, will be Caitanya's prema otherwise people will misunderstand that prema into lust."

"But yes, what you say is alright, that Śrī Caitanyadev's prema-dharmma that is the highest above the Buddhistic and Śāṅkāra's conception of the theistic. But Caitanyadeva has not told that go to the Buddhists practice vairāgya, and then go to the Śāṅkāra and have some knowledge of Vedānta, and then come to Me. He has told wherever you are get a sādhu and take the Name, He has told." Then he was silent, could not speak anything.

I told him: "If you got any supernatural power, I will be grateful if you can say where my gurudeva, spiritual guide, where he is, if you can say." But he took the name of some gentleman, Haranāth. I went to search him but could not find him there. From this I found that placard and went to Gaudiya Maṭh.

And there I found only one gentleman, he's on the outside hall and the others are gone on procession of saṅkīrtana, Nagar saṅkīrtana. Then I had a talk with that gentleman, little. I had some knowledge, some reading about Caitanyadeva and other Scriptures, but I found that these people represent a man, represent the Maṭh, they have got more deeper and sound knowledge than myself.

Then the party came back from Nagar saṅkīrtana and I found Guru Mahārāja on the front with his daṇḍa. As soon as he reached the front of the Maṭh some disciples came and took daṇḍa from him and flat and gradually was taken there. First sight I found Guru Mahārāja. That attitude, not caring for anybody else, that sort of attitude, he does not care for anyone, self-sufficient. That sort of impression I got from his first sight. Very strict, self-sufficient and don't care about anybody.

Then I began coming and going and gradually I came to this understanding, that I wanted such a companion, to live with him, but unfortunately I could not find it.

Then the next thought came, if now I come here what is, where is the opposition, obstacle. I cast my glance to the home, father gone mother living, three younger brothers, they won't be much affected but my wife will be affected in the extreme. I don't know how but a sudden thought came in my mind, if she dies then I am free, this thought came. I was attracted by their mission, so many members, all gentlemanly like, all educated and wholly given to the service of Mahāprabhu, that attracted me most. And that very day I came to my quarter and found that my wife is ill, and I came home that very night and after three days she passed away. Then mother was praying, she was trying to marry me again, but she could not. So within, after six months she also disappeared, when going to, Haridwār, Kumbha Melā, she died there, and one of my brothers, Satyen, he was attending her and others, pilgrims, sisters, etc.

Then I was free, I was coming and going. Then one day it so occurred, I was thinking that I must cast my fate here, so I thought it necessary to know as much as possible about the mission, and to know about the mission means to know the leader of the mission. So I tried my best to go up where Guru Mahārāja used to stay, to go to him, in front of his room and to sit there and to hear, because I was thinking I shall join here.

One day Kīrtanānanda, one brahmacārī, he stopped me when I was making an attempt to go upstairs: "Where do you go?"

"Going to Guru Mahārāja." "Why?"

"I like it very much."

"No never. You must stay here in the waiting room and when you find anyone you will ask, inform him, whom you want to meet and he will see him and when you will come again and say yes he is calling for you, you will go, otherwise you must stay here. Never cross this threshold." Little harshly.

Then I thought such a, what should be the considering nature of the sādhu's, out and in, the difference, why should be any. So I did not come here again, but the very moment the position of Śukadeva appeared in my mind. Vyāsadeva sent Śukadeva to Rajaṛṣi Janak, I read in Mahābhārata, to finish his education, sādhana. Śukadeva came, he was detained for seven days in the outer gate, then the intimation went to Janak: "Allow him to pass the gate." The next gate he was again detained. In this way there were seven boundaries of the capital and of seven gates, in every gate seven days detention. So seven into seven, forty nine days, he was detained and then he could meet Janak.

This thought came in my mind and then the next thought, conclusion came. 'If there is anything bad, then if they take me and put in the throne and began to worship, I should not come here, and if it is their real good, then if they beat me with broomstick I must not go.' That conclusion came in my mind and I began to come and go.

Then one day when Guru Mahārāja was, after taking his food, he was generally, did not take any food at night but afternoon, after taking his afternoon food he's walking on the roof. I just approached and took my stand in one corner. And one man was attending him. Guru Mahārāja asked: "This man has got something to say to us." ye kona bhakta bai? This word, bhakta bai, he has got some, bhakta bai, something to say.

This attending person asked: "Have you got something to say?" "No I have nothing to say."

Went back to Guru Mahārāja, "He says that he has got nothing to say." Then the next he says: "He has got something to ask?"

He again came to me: "Guru Mahārāja says have you got something to ask?" "No I have nothing to ask."

Then Guru Mahārāja put: "He has got some object in mind, some purpose in coming here?" He again came.

"Yes, without purpose no incident can happen, when I have come here I have got some purpose."

"What purpose?"

"To gain grace of you all." That was my answer. "Your satisfaction, your grace, I want nothing else."

End of side A side B

That perhaps touched Guru Mahārāja, he approached me, then he enquired: "Then what is your name, what do you do, where is your home?" In this way, and he told: "Yes you are fortunate you are born in Gaura Maṇḍala, it is in Gaura Maṇḍala area, yes it is in Gaura Maṇḍala, you are fortunate."

One booklet they had with them, the attending person came and told: "Guru Mahārāja is offering this booklet to you."

I told: "I have already got this."

"But that doesn't matter, he with his good will is giving this to you, it is something else, you take it." Then I took it on my head and took it. That was the first talk with Guru Mahārāja. Then ...

Devotee: What year would that be?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That was twenty six, August, all these things happened. Then that very next year, in English, next year twenty seven, Mahāprabhu's birth ceremony in Māyāpura, I was invited. At that time I am coming and going there and hearing, in this way. Then after I was invited to Māyāpura to attend the ceremony. I came and at that time my mother was inviting me towards Gumo village where she was staying with my second brother, she wants to see me before going to Haridwār, and the Gauḍīya Maṭh people also asking me to go to Māyāpura. I was in the dilemma, what to do? My mother's call and maybe last call, she may not live, her health was not good, and this is called.

And I thought my life I want to take this side so this call must be given preference. I avoided the call of my mother, to see her, and I came to see Gauḍīya Maṭh. And there, though all these contradictions, the śāstra I find from their talk, in general, they do not care for anybody, any opinion. But when anything quoted from scripture, patiently they give hearing, this is their nature. Similarly they reject all, don't care for anyone's point but care only for scriptural truth and then come again to consider and then valuation, all these things. In this way they abhorrently reject so many stalwarts of the society, then society. This Aurobindo, this Gandhi, this Ramakrishna, the goswāmī's, all reject so much, that is their nature. But Mahāprabhu, Bhāgavat, Gītā, all in all. And I also had attraction, taste for them, so identified with them.

But still some sort of objection. One that Guru Mahārāja comes from, Kāyastha Gotra (family), that is śūdra, and I come from a brāhmaṇa paṇḍit school with great honour in the society, any brāhmaṇa guru that should have been suitable, in this way, some sort of.

Then when I went to Māyāpura there also I shortly say, I saw many things, touching, and I, when Prabhupāda saw me there in the birthday of Mahāprabhu he's giving lecture to so many gentlemen who had come from Kṛṣṇanaga, educated persons. In another place Tīrtha Mahārāja, old Tīrtha Mahārāja is giving lecture. In another place Parvat Mahārāja he is collecting funds from the people and money orders and he is writing all things, so many places, so many things, there is transcendental happy atmosphere I felt there.

Then when that is finished, celebration is finished, Guru Mahārāja is sitting on the veranda of his room, in a canvas chair, and many persons are coming and showing praṇāma, properly giving obeisances and they're going off to their home. At that time he was talking, having some discourse. I was always very eager to hear him. At that time he's saying that: atmarama kevanca nakadhanya ? "Don't cheat me you people."

I was alert. "What, where is the question of cheating him, why cheating, they're rejoicing, all invited came and now they're going off, what is the point of cheating?"

Then next: "You gave understanding that you will engage yourself in the service of Kṛṣṇa and so I have entered into some relationship with you. And now as a fashion you come to attend the ceremony and going home and engaging yourself in the worldly affairs. But your assurance to me that you will all serve Kṛṣṇa, I'm being disappointed. Then the next you may say, 'oh I have got some, but no cheating, got some important business, after finishing this as early as possible I am coming and joining you.' No, no. If we say that there is fire and only extinguishing the fire I am coming, only a small risk, that is also not necessary. If the fire burns the whole world you do not lose anything, rather if you are spared from them, if you can disconnect with them what will burn, you will be happy. All your positive engagements, your inner hankering, they have got corresponding phase in Kṛṣṇa, in the holy feet of Kṛṣṇa, all your necessary hankering will be satisfied there and nowhere else." And forcibly he's saying.

At that time I was so much intense, necessity for kṛṣṇa-bhajan, I won't hear anywhere in this living world so I must throw my head here. I surrendered here. There I took decision that I must be a disciple here. With this idea I went on, I told. Then my mother died there, then I went, mother had some apprehension that he will become a sannyāsī, my eldest son he won't do my, śrāddha ceremony (last rites), who will do my śrāddha, in this day? I finished her śrāddha, went home finished her śrāddha and after finishing that came and in the month of April, last part of April I joined the Maṭh.

Bhāratī Mahārāja told: "Oh you have got greater chance."

"I told, only two younger brothers, they will finish their reading and they will take to their vocation and then I shall come away."

"No, no, wife gone, Kṛṣṇa has removed wife and Kṛṣṇa has removed your mother, He has done enough for you. Again if you neglect to avail yourself of this chance then perhaps some other obstacle will come and this life will spoil, no hope."

I asked: "What do you say come immediately?" I took that advice and joined the mission. I was living together with my two brothers in a men's hostel and they came with me there and they went back crying.

I remained in the Maṭh in Calcutta for some time, then I was taken in preaching. I was requested to do some service in the press there but that I had no liking for the press work, proof reading, etc. I had much liking for preaching, to go on kīrtana and preaching. So, next I was sent on a preaching tour, first stopping in Dumurkondā Maṭh and from there to Benares. From there to Vṛndāvana, there for sometimes this naga-kīrtana. Then I was taken to Delhi, there collection, from door to door, something.

Then Kurukṣetra Maṭh was established and I was made Maṭh command there and left alone. And that Delhi town and Kurukṣetra, that is a solitary place at that time. When there is a solar eclipse, a great rush is there, lākhs (one lākh is 100,000) of people throng there, otherwise that is a solitary place. There I first (handled? joined?), from Delhi, Kurukṣetra and collecting near abouts I passed about two, three years there.

Then Delhi Maṭh was founded and I was in charge there. Then I visited Simla and other places for preaching. Then again when I came back here, every year we have to come back in Calcutta Maṭh celebration for one month, in August.

Then I was taken by Bon Mahārāja, Hayagrīva Prabhu (later Bhakti Dayita Mādhava Mahārāja), in a party towards Madras side, installing those footprints of Mahāprabhu. Then coming back the Bagh Bazaar Maṭh was opened and from the hired Maṭh from Ulṭā Ḍāṅgā, Deities were removed in a chariot to Bagh Bazaar Maṭh, and one month's celebration there.

After that Prabhupāda went on establishing, installing, those Pāda-pīṭha (footprints of Mahāprabhu) up to Maṅalgiri, near Bejoydā, Kobhur, all this. Then went to Madras and then he declared open Madras Gauḍīya Maṭh and put up there. We rented a house, Bon Mahārāja was the leader, he was senior sannyāsī.

I was given sannyāsa in the meantime, recommended by Bon Mahārāja: "He can preach well, he is rather a good preacher than a canvasser." I was kept as B.A. degree was with me, Rāmendrasundar Bhaṭṭāchāryya B.A. My duty was to approach the people and introduce the sannyāsīns and the work of a canvasser, more or less. But Bon Mahārāja told that: "He's not a good canvasser but he's a good he's a good preacher. He can speak hari- kathā very well."

Then I was given sannyāsa, 1930, October, perhaps, I was given sannyāsa and then Prabhupāda went on the Madras side after installing footprints of Mahāprabhu one by one, then opened Maṭh in Madras and there we are left and began preaching for two years or so.

Then there's Vṛndāvana bon parikramā, the whole Vṛndāvana parikramā and we joined there. And then Bon Mahārāja went to England and I was in charge of Madras Maṭh and the Temple was constructed almost in my time. Then I was called to, when Bon Mahārāja's party went to England for preaching, Bombay Maṭh was opened and I was again taken there and for some time I lived there, Bombay side. And then afterwards I was taken from there and general party with Prabhupāda, almost staying with Prabhupāda and preaching here and there in different places in Bengal. In this way. 1936, December. 1937, in the morning, 5.30am, 1st January, Prabhupāda left.

Before this Prabhupāda wanted me to go for preaching to London, but I told that: "I am not fit, I can't follow their intonation and I have not a tendency to mix with them closely. So you will pay for it but I won't be able to show any satisfactory work. So if you order I must go, but what am I, I just appeal to you." Then he sent A. B. Goswāmī Mahārāja (later Bhakti Sāraṅga Goswāmī Mahārāja) instead of me.

And when Prabhupāda was sick I attended his sick bed, and anyhow just one day before his departure he called for me and he asked me to chant Śrī Rūpa-Maṇjarī-Pada. And at that time I was not accustomed to singing at the front but from the back. I was hesitating. Kuñja Bābu, (later Bhakti Vilās Tirtha Mahārāja) asked Purī Mahārāja: "You go on singing." Then he began singing.

Prabhupāda, he felt dissatisfaction. "I don't like to hear the tone, the sweet sound." Then he stopped and I had to chant Śrī Rūpa-Maṇjarī-Pada. And the others told that:

"Prabhupāda has given you admission to Śrī Rūpa-Maṇjarī, this rasa, rasa-sevā section, you are given admission thereby."

Before this, about one year back, I composed a Sanskrit poem about Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and he (Bhaktisiddhānta Prabhupāda) was very happy to find this śloka. When reading first I showed it to him, he remarked: "Very happy style."

Then next I heard he told Śrauti Mahārāja: "That with this poem, it's so fine it's not written by him, it's written by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura himself, through him, it's so very nice."

Then once he told to another gentleman, that is Aprākṛta Prabhu, Bhakti Charan Goswāmī: "That I am satisfied that after me, what I came to say, that will stay, that will remain, I find in this śloka, the siddhānta."

"What was sanctioned by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu by His descent was intimately known only to Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī. It was adored by Sanātana Goswāmī and served by Rūpa Goswāmī and his followers. Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī tasted that wonderful thing fully and enhanced it with his own realisation (assisted in doing so by Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī and Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī). And Jīva Goswāmī supported and protected it by quoting the scriptures from different places. The taste of that divine truth is aspired for by Brahmā, Śiva, and Uddhava, who respect it from a distance as the supreme goal of life. What is this wonderful truth? śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanā: that the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. This is most wonderful. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are our master. It is within your power to allow them to bestow their grace upon us. You are in a position to bestow the highest gift ever known to the world upon us all. It is at your disposal. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, please be kind to us and grant us your mercy."

This poem is one of ten, collectively known as Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, in glorification of Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura.

Devotee: The name of that gentleman, that devotee?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Goswāmī Mahārāja, founder of Gauḍīya Saṅga and Śrauti Mahārāja. Then before this also I wrote some article in the spiritual newspaper Nadiyā Prakāsh, and he remarked to Śramaṇ Mahārāja who was the editor of Nadiyā Prakāsh. He remarked to Śramaṇ Mahārāja: "If you can gather this type of article and can publish in your paper then the standard of your paper will be raised. Such articles are desirable to be published." Anyhow he appreciated my understanding, my realisation, and there are many instances.

Devotee: He told Śāstra-Nipuṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There was another, similar in Madras. In "Gauḍīya", the Gauḍīya Maṭh's leading weekly paper, there was published one wrong siddhānta. Sundarānanda was the editor, perhaps with the advice of Vasudeva Prabhu because he was used to always consulting Vasudeva Prabhu. He wrote, he mistook the birthday of Viṣṇu-Prīya Devī and the birthday of our Guru Mahārāja. Both pañchamī (fifth lunar day). Prabhupāda is Kṛṣṇa pañchamī and Viṣṇu-Prīya Devī is sukra pañchamī, one is dark moon and one is bright moon. Viṣṇu-Prīya Devī is in the bright moon and Prabhupāda dark moon, pañchamī. But he arranged just the opposite, he took Prabhupāda as in the bright moon, fifth, and Viṣṇu-Prīya Devī in the dark, fifth. But what I read I read carefully, I caught it here, what is this anomaly? The basis is wrong and he's philosophising, why Kṛṣṇa śakti has come in the bright moon and why Gaura śakti He has come in the black moon? I found just the opposite, I showed it to Bon Mahārāja. "What is this? He's committed diabolically wrong."

And then Bon Mahārāja suddenly took the pen and wrote letter. "What is this, we thought Sundarānanda Prabhu has got some touch with the reality. So what he says, what he writes, that has come in connection with the real sentiment. But how this sort of error can be possible from him? He has got no śrauta connection, all concoction?"

So he found that yes it is such and then they tried to correct that in another issue. He showed that has been erroneous and it should be this and that, that printers mistake, but that cannot really be substantiated.

Another thing was published there when Prabhupāda was there, he published, "Rāya Rāmananda," "Relative Worlds." These books, and "Brahma-Samhitā." But it was mentioned when Mahāprabhu is going to Vṛndāvana, Rūpa and Sanātana met them on the way. But I knew it clearly that when Mahāprabhu coming back He met Rūpa and Sanātana in Allahabad (a.k.a Prayaga) and Benares. I read it, "What is this?" I asked Vasudeva Prabhu: "This is in the name of Prabhupāda, and you don't look after it, just the opposite. When Mahāprabhu coming back they met and not that when going towards."

Then he says: "Oh I can find out hundreds of mistakes and you are a very great man. I have found one and you cannot find hundreds of mistakes in your own work." In this way. I did not take it to Prabhupāda's notice but this must have come to his notice that Śrīdhara Mahārāja detected all these things. So when on the Vyāsa-pūjā occasion Prabhupāda had one written address and there he mentioned, before my name: "Śāstra Nipuṇa Śrīdhara Mahārāja - he has very deep knowledge in the Scriptures."

That was his remark.

Devotee: Finding the place of Rāmānanda Rāya?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When I was called from UP (Uttar Pradesh) to join the Madras party, before that my name was Rāmendrasundara Bhaṭṭāchāryya. But he converted my name into Rāmānanda Dāsa Adhikarī. Called my name and sent meself in the batch to find out the place of Rāmānanda and to install the Pāda-pīṭha (footprints of Mahāprabhu) there. Rāmānanda Dāsa. He changed my name from Rāmendrasundar to Rāmānanda Dāsa and sent me to work in the batch.

And Bon Mahārāja is of the opinion that I delivered a lecture in Rājmaḥendry at that time. Bon Mahārāja told, I heard from Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī, that that was the best preaching he had ever heard. That Rājmaḥendry short lecture he gave about Rāmānanda Rāya at Kobhur, that śīkṣa, teachings of Mahāprabhu. That was a very precious speech in this lecture I heard. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: He gave you the name Rāmananda before you went to find?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Before our batch went to find out the place, to discover and install the Pāda Feet there. And that Mandir is still there today, Pāda Feet Mandir and there is another Mandir built where Deities are installed. After Prabhupāda, by Tīrtha Mahārāja's party. But during, no, during our time the Deities were installed by Prabhupāda but only that Pāda-pīṭha Mandir. That separate Mandir was established afterwards. We got, myself and Hayagrīva Prabhu both, and Mādhava Mahārāja in white clad, and I sannyāsi. We worked together at that time.

And from there I collected funds from the Rājā of Jeipur (Orissa) for the Madras Temple. And there is also a history. Their new I.C.S. (Indian Civil Service) was Mr. O Pulla Reddy, new I.C.S. He has been appointed Dewān (government official) of Jeipur. And that is ādivāsī (indigenous people) area, so special sort of rule for the British introduced there. The Dewān is more powerful than the king.

The king he gave us, we came from front, in Madras with some recommendation of officiating Chief Justice, Mr. Rameshan, letter of recommendation to Rājā of Jeipur. And then the Rājā promised to pay the cost of the Madras Temple.

But the new I.C.S. said: "No, no, it is impossible." Rājā always requesting, "Approach the Dewān he will pay the money to you, not meself, so you go to consult higher, I am only giving my sign, but the money will be paid by him, so meet him."

I heard that he is a half atheistic man, new I.C.S, so I hesitated to approach him. "No you are king, you are master so you will pay, that is better." In this way.

But he pressed me very much: "No you will have to go and meet the Dewān." Then when I met the Dewān there just the opposite.

"Oh I'm the last man to pay you this amount for the, ten thousand at that time, to build the temple at Madras. If you would have built here then I could consider the case, that they will have some recreation in the temple. But these poor men half fed, half clad, if any money we can get excess, I must give it some order for their health. That must be used for that course and not to bring this luxury to construct a temple, and that is also in Madras town, go there and collect funds and construct temple there." In this way.

Then I thought that a hopeless case so drastic medicine must be applied so I came out with this śloka of Bhāgavatam:

vikrīḍitaṁ vraja-vadhūbhir idaṁ ca viṣṇoḥ śraddhānvito 'nuśṛṇuyād atha varṇayed yaḥ bhaktiṁ parāṁ bhagavati pratilabhya kāmaṁ hṛd-rogaṁ
āśv apahinoty acireṇa dhīraḥ

"One who hears with firm faith the supramundane amorous affairs of Lord Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs, as described by a pure devotee of the Lord, soon becomes freed from mundane lust and achieves divine love of Kṛṣṇa."
(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.39)

I told that: "You want to help the ādivāsīs, I also want to help them, but your help is in a particular way and my help for them is in another way. It has been told in the Scriptures that to hanker for things, that is heart disease, by Śukadeva Goswāmī. It is mentioned in Bhāgavatam, kāmaṁ hṛd-rogaṁ, "I want this, I want that, I want thousands, I want crores, millions, that is heart disease and not real. When I was a hog I devoured a hillock of stools but hunger is not finished. When I was an elephant I finished a whole forest but hunger not finished." So hunger can never be finished in this way.

"There are so many who have amassed millions, still they say: "No this is very small, I want more, more." So this is heart disease. Śukadeva Goswāmī in Bhāgavatam has given medicine to this. Vikrīḍitaṁ. "When you can accommodate the Absolute, to have His full play, unrestricted, and use His ownership with everything, every atom, if you can accommodate with such conception of the environment of the Absolute Truth, then you can get out of this disease, heart disease. There's no other way."

That man was impressed. Tears fell from his eyes. "Swāmījī, I believe in God."

"Your eyes are giving evidence to that."

"I shall pay your money but not just now, you go to Madras, I shall pay the money." And the Madras Temple was constructed by that in this way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa.

My preaching has no false canvass, straight dealing, dealing with the truth, plain truth. That was the nature of my preaching. Not any indirect way flattering by sweet words to rob him, not like that, straight dealing, representation. "Why I have come here?" That was my guide, nature. What fascination brought me here? I tried my best to represent that fascination to them. "This is the cause for preaching - you must appreciate such cause, such faith. I have got appreciation in this line, and I don't think that I did it wrong." Every movement I think I am justified to accept this principle and to march to this line.

After the disappearance of Guru Mahārāja there was trustee and he told to make a governing body. On the tenth day after his departure it was constructed. But it came to the majority of Vasudeva Prabhu. Two trustees that side, one trustee Vasudeva Prabhu, and two trustee on the Kuṅga Bābu 's side, and the governing body majority Vasudeva Prabhu's side. And to make Vasudeva Prabhu Ācārya my contribution perhaps had important position.

I told: "I do not know sannyāsi or gr̥hastha, we are attracted not by this external grandeur of Gauḍīya Maṭh but the teachings. The siddhānta has attracted us and whom we shall have, we will be able to submit something to hear new siddhānta. He must be Ācārya. Whether he's brahmacārī, or he's not a good beautiful figure, or any other thing, the siddhānta."

According to them, Vasudeva Prabhu and professor Navasundananda? they all supported him and I also gave some support to Vāsudeva Prabhu. If anything to hear, listen, but that from Vasudeva Prabhu, so he should be. But several old sannyāsīns that are already very eager to get independence, they and both the trustees, they become one side. Their five vote on their side and eight others.

Bon Mahārāja was excluded from the governing body first because Prabhupāda, during his departure time did not like to get intimation to him. He was passing his days something like a debauch, with some difference of opinion with Prabhupāda about western preaching. He wrote, in his first year: "My first year in England, my second year in England." No mention of Prabhupāda, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, anything, he is all sufficient. In this way. Anyhow, some other reason also, he was living separately from the mission in Delhi.

But after when after the demise of Prabhupāda, when he came he cried so much and he became unconscious. And he told: "Oh I was, is it sentimental difference Prabhupāda has rejected, did not give any intimation, his last departure." He showed so many, so much hankering. So he was also included. Former governing body, ten, twelve, already twelve, then Bon Mahārāja added it was thirteen. But Bon Mahārāja went that side, five vote that side, and eight this side, Vasudeva Prabhu. Then also three-fourths majority or more this side, so they were ousted, they hired a house and lived there. Gradually the whole thing went from this side. But unfortunately to us we found some defect in character.

Then I thought I tried my best to purify the Mission, according to my good will, conscience. But it is not to be so. So I must leave the Mission and go on, go out silently. Don't try to fight again to purify the Mission according to my principle. That was my mentality. But Madan Mahārāja, Vinod Bābu and others, that Keśava Mahārāja, Madan Mahārāja, Goswāmī Mahārāja, so many others, they went: "No, we must, we can't tolerate such a false man will be in the place of our Guru Mahārāja." They can't tolerate that. The Ācārya of Gauḍīya Maṭh, that is the next position of Guru Mahārāja, that will be overthrown by such a characterless man. We can't tolerate. But I was indifferent and they are fighting. I was mixing something. Then there was a court case and Vinod Bābu and others they are put to jail and the case went on. I can't leave them like a coward at that time. After year perhaps the case was finished, they were released and I went to Vṛndāvana leaving the association of the Maṭh. I don't fight.

They tried their best to keep me with them but I told it is not possible for me to remain in their association, all these quarrelling elements. There from Govardhana I stayed in Vṛndāvana a month and finish the, Ūrjjā vrata there. I took Govardhana Śilā and came here and hired a house, two rupees per month and there began my life. When coming from Vṛndāvana I met my previous brother, that, Maṇi Bābu. He was there in the service of the railway. I asked him for few months to pay ten rupees per month to me, he agreed and he gave two or three months money and with that I came here. Then gradually others came, they tried their best to find out where I am and at last they found me and began to come and go and whenever they come they give something to me in this way.

Śakhī Charan Rāy secured this plot (where Śrī Chaitanya Sāraswat Maṭh stands) by his own money he purchased. And here I began my 'heart-service' in that cottage. In 1942 on Rathayātrā day I entered the cottage here with Govardhana Śilā. Before that I lived for some time with Keśava Mahārāja, in that rented house and sometimes in Midnapore Maṭh with Yāyāvar Mahārāja, Mādhava Mahārāja, Harigrīva Prabhu. In this way. But they are separated.

Only one Devakī Nandan Prabhu was here, then gradually there came this Kavirāj, this Narsin? Kavirāj with few, we are gentlemen and also and then this Govinda Mahārāja, the boy Gaurendu brahmacārī, and others came.

Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī asked me: "Please give attention to this Gaurendu brahmacārī, he's very intelligent and qualified."

I tried to give little more attention to Gaurendu brahmacārī and Nṛsiṁgānanda and others could not tolerate that. I wanted to help him by Sanskrit education etc. They could not tolerate, they gave a proposal that you must prepare a deed. By this time, 1943, this building has been constructed. They demanded a document. Three trustees, two Godbrothers and myself. I told that then according to which law it will be managed. They said with the majority of the trustees. 'That means that you two when combined then you can do anything and everything with me you like.'

"Of course."

But why did you come to join. I avoided Mādhava Mahārāja, Keśava Mahārāja and so many others. I came to live alone. That does not mean that you will both guide me. I can't accept this." Then they began to revolt and disturb, then there was a compromise.

Goswāmī Mahārāja and Mādhava Mahārāja came and three thousand rupees, perhaps five thousand rupees, in the bank and also and some seven thousand or something to be paid to them and I live here, with absolute proprietorship. Goswāmī Mahārāja came to my help, he gave some loan, four thousand. And Yāyāvar Mahārāja and others collected some funds from different parts, then seven thousand was given up, then from that time I am here. In this way.

And I do not go for preaching very often, always sitting here, and very rarely I go out in the previous style and Mādhav Mahārāja was always accusing me, "You are deceiving the educated section of the people. Sitting here idle you are deceiving the people. You have quality, capacity, to preach Mahāprabhu's instruction to the educated section specially, but you don't do so, you are deceiving them." His charge was always with me whenever he comes. Almost every year he after finishing Gaura-Pūrṇimā celebration he used to visit me, he always charged me. And also every year for his Calcutta Maṭh celebration I used to go there and deliver lecture there, in Mādhav Mahārāja's Maṭh. In this way the days have passed.

I came to meet (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja in Allahabad first when I was white clad, when after that I came here (Bengal) and went to Madras. Just before 1930 perhaps, I met him in Allahabad. He was at that time an agent of Kārttik Bose, the Bengal Chemical Laboratories. He was taken to Maṭh. At that time Prabhupāda was not there.

1933 or so.....

End of recording of autobiography tape 1, side B.

autobiography tape two, side A - 25.7.83.

He was taken to Maṭh. At that time Prabhupāda was not there. 1933 or so, after Vraja- Maṇḍal-Parikramā Prabhupāda came back to Allahabad, to open, for laying the foundation stone. At that time he came in connection with Prabhupāda and going, and coming, took initiation. At that time he was also a businessman, with his family. He was in Bombay and we met several times there. Always he used to come to the Maṭh.

And at that time he told that when Bon Mahārāja came back, for the first time from England, with (sulls? and a baron?), two German gentlemen. Then he left his duṇḍa and his śikhā, and English dress, he came here. We asked him: "Why you are in such way, where is the śikhā, where is the duṇḍa ?"

Bon Mahārāja replied: "But all these things can't stand there. That is another type of land. We can't, these sort of things as a fashion, formality, won't be accepted there."

In this way some discussion, talk, began with Bon Mahārāja. And I had some knowledge of English philosophy also. When I was a student of B.A. class I studied philosophy. Then I was talking, he went to materialism, and I came to spiritualism, then this fossil, this Darwin theory, he went to fossil theory and I went just the opposite. Then I told: "Whatever you will have to assert, presupposes consciousness. Fossil means a thing which is hard, which is black, which is this and that, that means feeling. Without feeling no assertion can be made, whatever you will have to assert, that is only a feeling about a particular thing, so consciousness is there. You can't deny the glass and give recognition to the reflection."

In this way, when I put, Bon Mahārāja could not answer and Swāmī

Mahārāja he cried aloud: "Here Europe is defeated by Asia."

Run around and showed the balance. Madusūdan Mahārāja was there and Swāmī Mahārāja, this Madhusūdan Mahārāja, he was present there.

So, then another time when Bon Mahārāja was in European dress, was going to, Tipura? Here with collar and so many things he is going. I said: "What is this? You are going to meet an Indian king and you are a sannyāsī, you are taking this dress and collar, all these things?"

Bon Mahārāja replied: "You don't know the present etiquette. Without this collar none should approach any gentleman."

I told then: "You know the meaning of the collar but you don't know the meaning of the śikhā and the daṇḍam ? The collar, this formality you know very well, but what is desired by the Vaiṣṇava's societies recognised symbol has got no value? But these ultra civilised persons, their fashions you pay to the cent per cent, what is this?" In this way he was captured, could not answer. In this way. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And more or less converted him. Only Mahāprabhu has taken me out from this so-called conservative section, Mahāprabhu could take me. When I was in Gandhi movement, I also cooked for myself. I did not take any food touched by anyone.

Just like Bāl Gaṅgādhara Tilak. He was also in jail for six years continuously but he cooked for himself, and he was a great scholar. He had taken the age of the Veda, six thousand years. Already so many European scholars gave that Veda is only four. Ṛg-Veda is the first book in the whole world and that is four thousand years back. But Tilak showed that it is at least six thousand years back. He gave subjective evidence from some Upaniṣads. That where: "In the month of Phālguna (February-March), the chariot of the sun was advancing and the leg of the horses broken and it was stopped."

Some such mantram is found in Upaniṣads. And he gave meaning, that at this Phālguna, Phālguna means that it was April or so. The underlying meaning is that now the smallest day has come to January, not December, tenth portion. The smallest day and the biggest night, that is December 25th or 26th. But this was, at that time when this mantram was written, in the month of April, some such date, this mantra was behind the sun. Reached there and broke the leg of the horse. Leg of the horse broken means this. That Uttarāyaṇa and Dakṣiṇāyaṇa (summer and winter solstice), from at that time and now in hundred years, one day advancing. So from that date it has come to 25th December. So, so many hundred years ago this mantram was written. In this way he was successful to have this accepted by Western scholars: "Yes so the date of this mantram must be six thousand years back." So his fame was extensive amongst the western scholars, this Tilak, Bāl Gaṅgādhara Tilak. And he was a patriot before Gandhi.

It was written in Bāl Gaṅgādhara Tilak's commentary of Bhagavad-gītā, (18.66):

sarva-dharmān parityajya, in this śloka: "The Lord has served nectar in a golden plate."

I liked that very much. The golden plate, He has served nectar. sarva-dharmān parityajya: "Wherever you are, whenever you want to come to Me sincerely, I am here to welcome you, to accept you, sarva-dharmān parityajya. In any position, in any obligation of duty, any sort, whenever you leave and come to Me I am very eager to accept." This is a great hope, this statement of the greatest hope to us. We may be, according to our karma, we may be in any corner of this universe, engaged in any sort of duty, but the call is there. If, "Whenever you are ready to leave your present atmosphere and jump towards Me, I am ready to accept you." The greatest hope ever given to us in a golden plate, the nectar, this is Bhagavad-gītā. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Then Swāmī Mahārāja, when I was here, Swāmī Mahārāja left Bombay and he opened his centre of business in Calcutta. And the next house where he was, this ground floor, this laboratory and the first floor, four rooms, we took lease from him, sub lease from him, and we used to stay there. At that time he used to come to me for discussion on Bhagavad-gītā. And at that time Back to Godhead was issued first, from 1944 or so, and we had very intimate relationship with him at that time. He used to come here to live here, very close connection with him at that time. Perhaps in the first issue of Back to Godhead, one of my articles is there, Guru and His Grace, perhaps. And another issue also, Vyāsadeva is a Great Dictator of the Scriptural World, another article was there perhaps, we had connection. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Afterwards what happened, my relationship with Swāmī Mahārāja you are already acquainted with that. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Much I have talked today, I take leave.

Kuñja Bābu was tired and he found that he has no chance of getting any possession of the Maṭh through litigation. He sent Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī to me: "None can approach Vāsudeva Prabhu, they're very much afraid of his personality. Only Śrīdhara Mahārāja can do. Though he's his greatest enemy, still he has got some affection for him, it is true."

That Vāsudeva Prabhu once called for me and he asked me that: "Prabhupāda has done many things which cannot be supported according to the Scriptures, and he cited that your name is Śrīdhara Mahārāja. Where this name is mentioned?"

I told him that Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhara. You have all printed this, and that from Ananta- Samhitā, this quotation, and 108 names of sannyāsīs."

"Oh that is all false, concoction, no Ananta-Samhitā in the Scripture. We have concocted this name and Sachin Paṇḍita has given this Sanskrit characteristic."

"That does not matter."

"So it is all false, so we can't follow strictly the principle of Prabhupāda."

Then I gave him this answer. "The Veda, Upaniṣad, they are also seen, first revelation came in the Ṛṣi. But if we consider that Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the full fledged theism, and that is the primary conception of theism, and full fledged theism is given in Bhāgavatam, and Mahāprabhu. And those persons, to preach that full fledged theism, found inspiration within their heart, anything to add, that is a greater śāstra, authenticity to me than those Veda, Upaniṣad." I asserted before him.

Then he told, remarked: "If of course what you say may be true, when that man who feels any suggestion, inspiration, to create new things to help this movement of the full fledged theism, the svarūpa-siddha, if he's svarūpa-siddha, then what you say it is true."

That means he thinks that Prabhupāda is not svarūpa-siddha. I thought that this is the hard thing. I became silent. He also became silent. But anyhow at that time my talk with him I found that he may have some compromise with Kuṅga Bābu. I wrote it to Mādhava Mahārāja that I had a talk with Vāsudeva Prabhu. He called for me, a different talk and I found as I felt that a compromise may be effected very soon. After two years that proposal came to me: "You approach Vāsudeva and try to make some compromise otherwise by way of litigation we won't be able, in our lifetime, to reach the position."

Then I approached Bagh Bazaar Maṭh, I asked them that: "If any compromise is possible I have come to take up that."

They told: "No, we are not bold enough to approach him."

With Swāmī Mahārāja, I was living there and, Calcutta, information they gave. Then I met him. Then he told: "I don't care for any future consequence, you know."

"Yes I know that."

I told him that: "You are in the chariot, well equipped. That Kuṅga Bābu on the earth, standing, no weapon, fighting with you, but the law is on his side. Still he comes to compromise. I think you should do that. They also rendered important service at the time of Prabhupāda, as you did. Think that they should not be deceived from their future service of the mission. Kuṅga Bābu is almost co-founder with Prabhupāda."

"All these talks, I don't care for them."

"In the court, the case will come very soon to be tried, and the filthy things will come against you, your character, you mind that."

"I don't care for that."

"And that also I know that you don't care for anything. But there is another party that has got their society, high society, and they will be very much blasphemed felt. Who will be able to tolerate that, the blaspheme of the other party who has got their good society in Bengal."

Then he was curbed. "Yes, then you try. I am your friend not enemy, still I am your friend, then you try for compromise."

Then I tried, and in the middle Kuñga Bābu told: "You please take him to me and then everything will be finished."

I knew but, "No it is not so easy, still if you like I can take him to you in, Sambits? quarter." Vāsudeva Prabhu and Kuñga Bābu all met together. Negotiation fell totally, then broken down. But I again ran to Vāsudeva Prabhu's Maṭh when he's going away: "I am here and I must affect compromise, you don't go from here, I beg you to stay." Then again I connected both the parties at the Bagh Bazaar Math. That was that both the parties demand that Bagh Bazaar Math. Kuñga Bābu himself tried his best to construct that temple, for temple, so he had his affinity there. And Vāsudeva Prabhu's party they thought that Māyāpura and other things under control of direct will. If this compromise fails and in future again if face is introduced, then they won't be able to keep possession of Māyāpura which is under direct will, control of direct will of Prabhupāda.

But Bagh Bazaar Maṭh has a separate document. The constructor, Devidhi? he gave a, prepared a separate deed. "The successor of Prabhupāda, he will occupy this temple." So legally Bagh Bazaar party thought that it will be safe to keep possession the Bagh Bazaar Temple, and uncertain position will be Māyāpura. So they and this party also, they say that it is a big centre, preaching centre of the whole world, the important position, how can we leave this? So both.

Then I put some proposal. "In other places outside Bengal, as we've divided this side, that side, that is kept intact, but in Bengal, Bagh Bazaar versus all Bengal." I gave this formula to them. "Only Bagh Bazaar Maṭh one side and all other Maṭhs including Dakha, Māyāpura, whole thing one side. Now you say who will take which thing?"

Then they consulted and Bagh Bazaar Maṭh did not leave Bagh Bazaar for that legal cause, and Kuṅga Bābu reluctantly took this Māyāpura. I asked him, "The Bagh Bazaar Maṭh may again be created in Calcutta, but Māyāpura, birthplace of Mahāprabhu, that never be created a second, so this is the good portion."

Kuṅga Bābu he gave hope to us, that, "We shall form a governing body and we shall go on preaching together." But after the case the compromise is finished. Kuṅga Bābu showed another aspect. He did not come into compromise with us, that all will be taken in the governing body. He asserted himself and Mādhava Mahārāja was with him.

I told Mādhava Mahārāja: "That now no disciples, no men with him, so he has kept you. Whenever he will be a little stronger he will flush you away." But that was done after four or five years, and he was also cast off, and he was buried there.

Sambit told: "We're told that you gave hope that you will after. Oh we've got possession, you will be told that form a governing body amongst us."

"No after we achieved the service we shall form. I am with the sannyāsīns of Prabhupāda. I have no affinity towards my Kuṅga Bābu's son, my nephew, you all know his relation with me, I don't know whether you know or not, some bad relationship with this daṇḍa and samvit ? a private blaspheme. So I am always with the sannyāsīns of Prabhupāda. All these hoax." Lastly he told: "Oh if you have to do a great thing then hoax is necessary. Without hoaxing, without cheating words, no great thing can be done."

In this way he avoided this. I started another litigation but that is in the court going on, espoused by Mādhava Mahārāja, Goswāmī Mahārāja. A 92 case, that is in high court, going on forever, moving slowly. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And now the chance, Kuṅga Bābu gone and there is the, Nanda, Samvit? His personal staff of previous life, and the disciples on other side and the fighting going on in Māyāpura.

We are giving support to the disciples side, who had accepted us also, in their so called registered document, and the other side Samvit of course, he gone away and Kuṅga Bābu's son Nanda and his preachers, they also divided in two camps. Anyhow continuing the possession of Māyāpura. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Vāsudeva wanted to show Ananta Saṁhitā was not bona fide?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: I see, what was his...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "That is an imagined book", that he told to me. But I do not know it for certain, but he told like that. But still I stood, I took my stand in that fact.

Devotee: What Prabhupāda has given is divine.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whatever Prabhupāda or Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has given, Atharva- Veda, that is not to be, Caitanya-Upaniṣad, that may not be found anywhere. They tell also, Brahmā-Saṁhitā is not to be found, it is taken by Caitanya Deva, it is written by Caitanya Deva. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written that we do not find any book from Caitanya Deva. If Brahmā-Saṁhitā comes from Him then we are very much proud and very much satisfied that He has left us this one book. But Jīva Goswāmī has shown, written, that there was really Brahmā-Saṁhitā with a hundred chapters, and this one chapter out of that.

Devotee: Prema-vivarta, written by Bhaktivinoda somebody told, not Jagadananda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I told: "If we can think out that the teachings of Śrī Caitanya Deva is the highest full fledged theism, as told by Prabhupāda several times, and Bhāgavat is the highest development, and anything gives corroboration of that, that has got that value. That is true, that cannot but be true. Whenever it is felt any new additional alteration that is genuine, bona fide. That is revealed truth. Revealed truth means thousands and thousands years back it was revealed in some Ṛṣi or so, and that cannot be, revelation cannot come at present, I don't think like that. Anytime the revelation may come. And to support these highest form of theism, whatever revelation.

I also told that this Jaiva Dharma, it may be seen to be fictitious, but I think in any kalpa (day of Brahmā) or other, these things must have been actually found in the creation. When it has come in the clear consciousness of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura it is not transitory. It is floating and sometimes appearing, sometimes disappearing, it is all eternal truth, in this way.

In Purī also, about the, grahan? Vāsudeva Prabhu in a very hateful way, laughingly he told: "Oh the Rahu is capturing the moon." All these things. "The shadow is covering the sun and moon, and the eclipse is coming, and the Bhāgavat has said that Rahu is devoured."

What do you say, what has been used in Bhāgavat, that has got some value. That is all consciousness and you belittle all these things. Whatever used by Śukadeva Goswāmī to support his highest theistic principle, that has got some relative value to support that. So not to belittle, not to laugh away, not to ridicule, whatever is there. That is to help that great structure of theistic building in Bhāgavatam. Whatever has been drawn in to help that great structure of knowledge that has got some value and high value.

Prabhupāda supported me: "What he has told, it is right. Vāsudeva is belittling." Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So the Berkeley theory thinks to clash, the fossilism. The first consciousness. Whatever you scientists are proud of finding out some wonderful things. But do you create that? It is already there. One or two wonderful things of the law of nature you are discovering and you are dancing, you're so big, so great, like a demon. But the whole world is already full with wonders. And on the whole that the embodiment of all those wonders, is that a fossil? And you are producing wonderful invention, discovery, it is there already.

And what Hegel said: "Reality is for Itself and by Itself." It is all personal, all personal. It is not for you. Cārtheṣu abhijñāḥ, (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1) only He knows the meaning of all the incidents that take place, He is the only knower, abhijñāḥ svarāṭ, and also He can change His policy and law, He's svarāṭ. The ultimate, the conception of the ultimate reality of absolute is in this way. For Itself, He knows the purpose of every movement, even the movement of a straw. We cannot read it, He can read it fully, why this movement, this hand is moving this way. Only full knowledge is with Him only, to satisfy Him. All partial local conceptions of different interest, that is all falsified when compared with the absolute conception of the Absolute good. Cārtheṣu abhijñāḥ, the real purpose, real reading of every circumstance is reserved in His hand, in His will. We are all partial conceivers, local, we are prey to local interest. We can't get out of that prejudice. It is not possible that we can shake off all the prejudices of local interest and to dive deep and find what is the absolute interest, the current, undercurrent, the absolute interest. He's pervading everywhere. And we're to shake off everything. All prejudices, relative position, we are to jump. By śaraṇāgati (surrender), we can only know when He wants to make known where the laws work, we can know that law, and that much He will give up to us. That is the point. Gaura Hari.

Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyaḥ (Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23), What He wants to reveal to us, what as much, we can, we must be satisfied with that much of knowledge extended by Him. He alone is the knower of the whole thing and everything meant for His satisfaction. None else, party or persons, to enjoy here, all to serve, to fulfil, all parts to fulfil the purpose of the whole absolute system, that is the most reasoned thing.

Devotee: Mādhavendra Purī mādhyura-rasa, Mādhavendra Purī and Īśvara Purī but previously didn't appear.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Mādhva etc., In Mādhvācārya before it is not expressed, in the middle it came out, by the will of God.

Devotee: Another example of the free will.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That some away from the previous scripture, as Prabhupāda did from, by Ananta-Saṁitā, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura etc. So their justification is for Mādhavendra Purī's acceptance. But in the middle also, and that brahmā-vimohana (the illusion of Brahmā) question? Brahmā is the Ādi-Guru, but Bhāgavat says that he was also bewildered by kṛṣṇa-līlā and we have to accept that. Then development may take place in afterwards in eternal circle, moving, circle of time. Where is beginning? Where is end? It is very difficult to assert it. The Kali-Yuga may be the beginning, Satya-Yuga may be taken for the beginning. The winter or summer, what is the beginning? All development is co-existent. Anywhere we may take as beginning. The Kali-Yuga may be the beginning, Satya-Yuga may be beginning, where is the beginning? Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Vāsudeva Prabhu was relevant, scholarly, really, he challenged previously that:

"I challenge māyā. Let her take me away from the holy feet of Prabhupāda, I challenge her. Let her take me away from the holy feet of Prabhupāda."

In this way he used to say. But I could not relish at least that challenge, because māyā's power is infinite.

Mama māyā duratyayā, (Bhagavad-gītā, 7.14): "Backed by Me." Daivī hy eṣā guṇamayī.

Still he did that. But I think when he began the ruthless oppression against us, we're innocent people, and he began to oppress us in a ruthless way, and Prabhupāda withdrew from him. And when he withdrew, then he had no other alternative but to go against Prabhupāda. He became some sahujiyā, his previous family culture, sahujiyāism. He came from sahujiyā family, and because of his offensive, repression towards us who are innocent followers of Prabhupāda, he had Prabhupāda withdraw from him. That is my finding.

I have thought that he was really qualified. Prabhupāda has also told many times that: "In which way I shall go, one man can say, that is Vāsudeva." When he was speaking Hari-kathā, Vāsudeva Prabhu used to supply the śloka that will be necessary in the next moment. Which way to go with that thought. He could supply the śloka. Afterwards I also could do, but in the beginning we saw that he used to supply the śloka, appropriate quotation from the scripture, and put before Prabhupāda, and he was taking them and explaining and going further, we saw. Prabhupāda told: "Which way I shall go, one man can say that." That was remarked.

And also during his departure he told: "The Vāsudeva may help professor and Sundarānanda to preach what is rūpānuga Vaiṣṇavism." The last word it is mentioned, "The Vāsudeva to help Sundarānanda and professor Lawal? to preach the real thing of Rūpānuga."

So rūpānuga, what is rūpānuga-bhajan, he had some idea, Vāsudeva Prabhu. But anyhow my finding is this, that Prabhupāda could not tolerate his oppressive nature towards us. We were innocent party, the second party. We had no greed for the property, as Kuñga Bābu had. But we had no greed for it, out of principle, for principle of the Maṭh. But we were ruthlessly repressed, and for that Prabhupāda withdrew from him, and he had no other alternative but to go against him. He took sannyāsa, when we came out. He took sannyāsa, could not keep it. Then he took Bābājī base sahujiyā, he could not keep it. Then he married one lady and in that stage had a child, then in that state he left the world. He could not stand in any principle, particularly for the life after.

Anyhow I think that he will have to come back again to Prabhupāda's feet. When the suffering for this offence will vanish, then again he will have to come under the feet of Prabhupāda. That is my conviction. For the time being, he has been given that punishment, he's suffering from the punishment. He'll have to come back, because I can't think that Prabhupāda's pāṣada are not eternal. Those I have found as pāṣada of Prabhupāda, I try to find them eternal pāṣada, eternal līlā, so I can't kill anything, reject any part. I'm not, I can't feel any encouragement to reject any part of Prabhupāda's līlā as mundane. When he came with his party to do this preaching līlā it was all intact. That is my general understanding.

End of autobiography recording.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: a fair-looking, tall gentleman. He has got a history in the first great war when he was in the French line and a air-soldier, pilot, and when he found that death is sure, the plane is falling within the jurisdiction of the German area, he prayed. He met me here and also in Vṛndāvana. "If there be any God let Him save me." But then he fainted. Afterwards when he woke up he saw himself in a French hospital. And there could not say anything but told that: "Anyhow the plane somehow or other fell in the French area." Then he remembered his past prayer and straight away came out of hospital and went to the British church men. "I want to see God is there by any. Please advise, guide me." But, afterwards, as he told, they advised: "You want to see God direct. It is not possible here. We have got no such suggestion in our Bible. But you go to India and there may be some yogī that can contact you direct with God." So he came here.

Anyhow he took initiation from that lady devotee who was the wife of the then Vice Principal of Lucknow. And then in red cloth he wandered through India. Came to Navadvīpa also and met so many. And he established an āśrama in Almora and began to preach also. But in a young age you must have heard his name.

Sen (?) also. Another was Dr Madangopala Sadhana, he was our Godbrother, Superintendent Engineer. And she also comes from Ravali (?) side.

Another, Tikumsen (?)

Another you might have heard of if not seen was Dr Panalal, who was advisor to the Governor of U.P. (Uttar Pradesh), Bihar. They come from Agra.

There was one professor by the name of Sujakakarma (?), a professor of mathematics in the Agra college. That gentleman was a good mathematician and detected some mistake in the calculation of a German mathematician, so he got a high name. And he was a devotee of Śrī Gaurāṅga. And influenced by his character many persons in U.P. we found were devotees of Śrī Caitanyadeva.

This family, this Panalal, three brothers, Asripilal (?), a big advocate in Agra. Second Panalal, I.C.S. (Indian Civil Service), and the last was the advisor to the Governor, we saw in the paper.

And the third brother was Kundanlal, he was the Assistant Editor of the Manchester Guardian in India for twenty years. And when he was a student in the first great war he visited Germany. He married one British lady who was the daughter of Calvert Read the logician. We have read his logic, Calvert Read. Calvert Read's daughter, I forgot her name, she was the Principal of some Art College in England and this Kundanlal married her and had a daughter. Then he came away and he also took Hari- Nāma from our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura). We caught him in Bisnor (?) while preaching. Then Kundanlal was sometimes editor of a paper named National Call, in Patna, he was the editor of a daily paper named National Call, from Patna.

And there is another professor in Agra College, our Godbrother, Oudh Bihari Lal Kapoor, he's also a Dr and he has written a book about Śrī Caitanyadeva's Life and Teachings, (The Philosophy and Religion of Śrī Chaitanya), based on Śrī Caitanya- caritāmṛta, and there he got doctorship. Oudh Bihari Kapoor, he comes from Allahabad but he was for a long time a professor in Agra College. He's still living.

When we were preaching in that side, in Naimiṣāranya our Guru Mahārāja had a maṭh, he established a maṭh there, named Bhāgavat Maṭh perhaps, in Naimiṣāranya. And visited several times and preached around, long time ago, forty years back.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! We are told that you have some questions.

Devotee: Śrīdhara Mahārāja, in the western world we find that six out of ten marriages end up in divorce within a few years. If ten marriages are performed in the western world, and especially in England, only six are successful, the other four end up in divorce with a year.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're separated.

Devotee: And the result is that there are so many delinquent children on the increase in the western world. The marriage is no more, it hasn't got the same bond it used to. I was wondering if you have got any message which be published and could be distributed in the western world as to how these people could be stopped from divorcing so that they could remain together. Because we feel that they're very much on the material platform, sense gratification, and once they get tired of their partner they want to leave their partner straight away, because they have got no God consciousness left in them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Bhāgavatam it is mentioned how the society is going on and how it should go.

dharmasya hy āpavargyasya nātho 'rthāyopakalpate nāthasya dharmaikāntasya kāmo lābhāya hi smṛtaḥ

("All dharmas (religions, duties, occupational positions, social functions), are certainly meant for liberation. They should never be performed for material gain. Furthermore, according to the sages, one who is engaged in the ultimate occupational service should never use material gain to cultivate sense gratification.")

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.9)

kāmasya nendriya-prītir, lābho jīveta yāvatā jīvasya tattva-jijñāsā nārtho

yaś ceha karmabhiḥ

("Life's desires should never be directed toward sense gratification. One should desire only a healthy life, or self-preservation, since a human being is meant for enquiry about the Absolute Truth. Nothing else should be the goal of one's works.")

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.10)

The arrangement for the system of our life, how it should be and how it is going on at present. Dharma, artha, kāma, generally three-fold ends, dharma, artha, kāma, mokṣa, we may take these four also, the four-fold ends of life. Kāma means sense pleasure. Then artha means to collect energy that can be converted into sense pleasure. Dharma means duty. And mukti means to get liberation from the present undesirable life. Four-fold ends of life, someone must follow any of these. The worst class, the lowest class are following sense pleasure.

Dharmasya hy āpavargyasya, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says that dharma, that duty must be set in such a way that it will take to liberation. Nātho 'rthāyopakalpate, but at present duty is set in such a way that to earn maximum money, nātho 'rthāyopakalpate, that money is not the end or aim of our duty. And nāthasya dharmāikāntasya kāmo lābhāya hi smṛtaḥ, and the money should be utilised to help the duty and not to purchase sense pleasure. And sense pleasure, sense connection with the material world, that is not for sense pleasure but it should be guided in such a way that we can keep our health well. We shall have material connection so much so that we shall have a good body and good mind.

So Bhāgavatam says we at present fix our duty to earn maximum money and with that money we enjoy ourselves and we distribute that to others. We think that we are doing best duty. But it should not be so. Only we shall take the help from the material world so much as to keep our body fit, and with the fitness of the body we shall earn money. And money should be utilised to help discharge our duty, and duty should be so placed that it will take me to liberation. This should be, varnāśrama is also meant for such. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says:

dharmāḥ svanuṣṭhithaḥ puṁsāṁ, viṣvaksena-kathāsu yaḥ notpādayed
yadi ratim, śrama eva hi kevalam

("The occupational activities a man performs according to his own position are only so much useless labour if they do not provoke attraction for the message of the Personality of Godhead.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.8)

The duties directed in varnāśrama, the brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra, and brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, sannyāsa, if this system helps us to go to attain Kṛṣṇa bhakti then it is all right. But if it fails to take us to that goal then it is asura- varnāśrama, a failure in varnāśrama.

dharmāḥ svanuṣṭhithaḥ puṁsāṁ, viṣvaksena-kathāsu yaḥ notpādayed
yadi ratim, śrama eva hi kevalam

I have perfectly performed my duties but it did not produce any attachment, any devotion to Viṣṇu, then this is all failure, it is in vain. So in Bhagavad-gītā also we find by our past karma wherever we are floated, come:

yataḥ pravṛttir bhūtānāṁ, yena sarvam idaṁ tatam svakarmaṇā tam abhyarcya, siddhim vindati mānavaḥ

("A man achieves perfection by the performance of the appropriate duties prescribed for him according to his qualification. By the execution of his duties, he worships the Supreme Lord from whom the generation and impetus of all beings arises, and who permeates and pervades this entire universe (exercising His Supreme qualification of Lordship over one and all). (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.46)

Yataḥ pravṛttir bhūtānām, yena sarvam idaṁ tatam, the all-pervading power that has taken me, carried me to my present position, if from that position by our own energy, our karma, we try to satisfy Him, then we are going up. The energy, the power which has given me this position and which is all around me always, sarvam idaṁ tatam, svakarmanā tam abhyarcya, by my own duty, my own activity, I must revere, I must show my respect to that power which is all around. Siddhiṁ vindati, then if I can begin my life in this way, showing my gratitude to the power that has given me such elevated position and with that power that is given to me, utilise it for His service, then I'll get promotion, siddhiṁ vindati, I shall go to my goal.

Also in Bhagavad-gītā:

yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, yaj juhoṣi dadāsi yat yat tapasyasi kaunteya, tat kuruṣva mad arpanam

("O son of Kuntī, whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you offer in sacrifice, whatever you offer in charity, and whatever austere vows you may keep - do everything as an offering unto Me.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.27)

"Whatever you come across, you meet, try to devote it to My satisfaction and you will make progress gradually."

In this way, this is possible only when we can find some fine gain in our life. Our hope, our prospect, in the higher world, if we can come across that, then only is it possible to control us from this self gratification stage of our life, to save us.

So preaching is necessary from all sides, whether you'll be a Christian, or a Mohammedan, or a Hindu, everyone must be common here, or a Buddhist, that to submit to sensualism can never be any higher standard of life. Self control is necessary, but what for, that self control? To work out our salvation from the defective area in which we are living at present.

Bhagavad-gītā (13.9) says: janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi-duḥkha-doṣānudarśanam, there's the intelligence or reason of three kinds classified, sattvic, rajasic, tamasic. Sattvic intelligence, that higher reasoning will read the environment in such a way. Where there is birth there is death, there is disease, and there is infirmity, there cannot be happiness. If we have got such keen eye to read the environment and it is possible only when we get that higher reasoning. That this is not a good place to live, we must seek higher sphere to have our life. This sattvic intelligence can help us.

Another thing which is the basis of Vaiṣṇavism Bhāgavata-dharma. What I told, this is varnāśrama, by good karma we are gradually coming to such adaptability. But Bhāgavata-dharma is another peculiar type, that is based on our taste, not by intelligence or calculation or karma, nothing. That is sukṛti, ruci. Wherever I may be, I may not be a brāhmaṇa but I may be a candala, but if I can collect a little bit of my taste for the līlā of Kṛṣṇa, Viṣṇu, or Nārāyaṇa, and with the help of that if we come in the association of the sādhus and develop my taste towards Him, whoever I may be or whatever position I may be in I can have a direct promotion towards the Lord. Anyone, he may be a mlecha, or he may be a candala, anyone he may be, but taste, ruci, taste, śraddhā, and with sādhu-saṅga direct he may go to Vaikuṇṭha. Whereas the qualified brāhmaṇa he may have to go down towards, if he cannot have any taste towards Nārāyaṇa or Viṣṇu.

So Mahāprabhu, if you have gone through Caitanya-caritāmṛta, when He asked Rāya Rāmānanda: sādhu-sādhana-tattva: "What is our destination and how to attain that? Please explain this." Rāmānanda first came out with varnāśrama conception.

varṇāśramācāravatā puruṣeṇa paraḥ pumān viṣṇur ārādhyate panthā nānyat tat-toṣa-kāraṇam

("The only way to please the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Lord Viṣṇu, is to worship Him by properly executing one's prescribed duties in the social system of varṇa and āśrama.") (Viṣṇu Purāṇa, 3.8.9)

"By faithfully practising the duties that are given to us in varnāśrama-dharma, a brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra, by discharging their own respective duties they can go forward."

Mahāprabhu told, Śrī Caitanyadeva: "This is also superficial. Go deeper, deeper."

Then Rāmānanda came out: "kṛṣṇe karmārpaṇa-sarva-sādhya-sāra: ("To offer the results of one's activities to Kṛṣṇa is the essence of all perfection." Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.51-313) If whatever duty we do, if we have direct connection, varnāśrama has got a relation with Nārāyaṇa in an indirect way, but if one is directly conscious to offer his karma to Nārāyaṇa then his life is more successful. Yat karoṣi, whatever you do you do it for Him.

(yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, yaj juhoṣi dadāsi yat yat tapasyasi kaunteya, tat kuruṣva mad arpaṇam)

("O son of Kuntī, whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you offer in sacrifice, whatever you offer in charity, and whatever austere vows you may keep - do everything as an offering unto Me.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.27)

It is also a custom in our country that whatever Deity we worship, either Durgā or Śiva:

krta tat karma phalam sri krsnaya samarpitam stu ?

At the end of the function we take some water in the hand and we offer all the consequences to Kṛṣṇa. For Him, the result of the pūjā, śrāddha, whatever it may be it should be offered to Kṛṣṇa, to the Centre. We must consciously do that direct, that is, Rāmānanda told: yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi.

Mahāprabhu told: eho bāhya āge kaha āra: "This is superficial; go deeper." Then Rāmānanda told:

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ

("Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66)

Karma-tyaga, we completely disassociate with the duties that are thought to be proper to you in your present position. Give up all duties and prepare to come to God. Exclusively all-eliminating, come forward towards God, sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja. In Bhāgavatam also:

ājñajaiva guṇān doṣān, mayādiṣṭān api svakān dharmmān samtyajya yaḥ sarvvān, myām bhajet sa ca sattamaḥ

("In the scriptures of religion, I, the Supreme Lord, have instructed men of all statuses of life in their duties. Duly comprehending the purificatory virtue of executing those prescribed duties as well as the vice of neglecting them, one who abandons all allegiance to such dutifulness in order to engage in My devotional service is the best of honest men (sādhu).") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.11.32)

"The duties that are ordered by Me in the śāstra for different stages, if one, there is in a constitutional method of progress, but give them up and take the way, the path of revelation, give up everything and come to Me and I shall protect you."

The Bāl Gaṅgādhara Tilak in his Bhagavad-gītā edition, under this śloka (Bhagavad- gītā, 18.66) he put a very good emotional meaning. He has told that: "In the last śloka the Lord has distributed nectar in a golden plate." He has written in this way.

Wherever you may be according to your karma it does not matter at all, but from there give up everything and jump towards Kṛṣṇa. "You are all my Lord. I want You." And cut off all connection, karma-tyaga. Wonderful it is that Mahāprabhu told: eho bāhya āge kaha āra: "This is superficial. You are jumping, you are accepting revolutionary path but you have not yet got anything. Taking risk to get the desired result but this cannot be accepted because you took risk and you jumped towards Kṛṣṇa it is all, you have no certainty that you'll get Him." eho bāhya āge kaha āra: This is also superficial, go deeper, hitting to the proper meaning."

Then Rāmānanda told: jñāna-miśra-bhakti:

brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām

("The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema- bhakti) unto Me.")
(Bhagavad-gītā, 18.54)

"Brahma-bhūtaḥ, one who has attained in such a position that he can conceive that he's not a part of this mundane world but he's conscious he's part of the conscious world, ātmā, cetana, a particle of consciousness, he can understand. And brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, his heart is satisfied. Na śocati, not to mourn because no affinity to mortal things, not to mourn, na kāṅkṣati. And he's fully aware of the transient unsubstantiality of the thing so he does not want anything mundane. Mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām, then he can acquire My pure devotion."

Eho bāhya: "This is also external. Yes, he's in a position and he's aspiring after the truth but he has not got the truth as yet. Not a sure position, even fall from that position is possible, this jñāna-miśra-bhakti."

Then Rāmānanda told: jñāna-sunya-bhakti-sadhyasa (?)

jñāna-sunya-bhakti, the uncalculative devotion, affinity towards the Lord, that should be our position from where we shall go further. Jñāna-sunya-bhakti-sadhyasa, no calculation of loss and gain. But he does not know why he has got some taste for the service of Kṛṣṇa, of Nārāyaṇa. He does not, he can't understand. Not based on loss and gain, jñāna-sunya, no calculation there but automatic tendency towards the service of Kṛṣṇa.

It is very tasteful to him. Wherever he may be, he may be a candala, or a mlecha, or a brāhmaṇa, or boddha, or anyone he may be, but if he can trace within his heart that he has got some causeless attraction towards the Supreme Authority."

Then Mahāprabhu told: "Yes, you are there. Here it may be admitted. Now go further."

So far this is external, this is dismissed. But here, jñāna-sunya-bhakti when he told that only based on internal taste and not by any calculation by yukti, 'this is good this is bad.' All this when he's the judge and making judgement what is right and wrong, all this cancelled. But a spark of spontaneous attraction towards the centre, Kṛṣṇa, if it is found anywhere, brahmāṇḍa brhamite, (kona bhāgyavān jīva guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja - "Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151). He's wandering through this infinite world according to his karma but in any place in any time coming in contact with a real agent, a real sādhu, if one has acquired a very small quantity of ruci, taste, attraction, that is reliable. These calculatable things are not reliable, nor the imposed duty in the varnāśrama are reliable. But the heart's sincere tendency, that is the seed of raga, love, prema, that is what we can rely on and depend upon. Eho bāhya āge kaha āra: Then the example,

jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva jīvanti san-mukharitām
bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vāñ-manobhir ye
prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām

(Lord Brahmā said to the Supreme Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa):

("Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes (kathā), which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3)

This was given from Bhāgavatam, the poem was quoted, this jñāne prayāsam udapāśya. I am vulnerable so my calculation of my good or about the environment all vulnerable. So I should not rely on my judgement. My judgement is fallible, so independent of my judgement if I have acquired some unnatural, not unnatural but quite natural thing, if I can gather the attraction the favour from that side, bhakti which is nirguṇa. Nirguṇa means, guṇa means sattya, raja, tama, this is the constituent parts of māyā. Māyā means misunderstanding. Misunderstanding also divided into three sections, tama - deep ignorant misunderstanding, and the raja means middle, and sattya means misunderstanding there but not much but within misunderstanding, within māyā. Māyā means local interest, to see things or to read the environment by local interest, not from the standpoint of universal interest.

The Hegelian theory says that: "The Reality must be For Itself, by Itself and For Itself." By Itself, He's His own cause. If someone is the cause of that then He cannot be Reality. The prime cause must be reality so reality must be of self existent, satta-siddha, Svayam- Bhūva. And another thing is that Reality must be for Itself. He exists for His own satisfaction, not to satisfy another thing. Then if His existence would be to satisfy for another thing, that would hold the primary position and this would have secondary position, if existence is to satisfy some other thing so that would be primary. So to become reality that must have within Him that 'For Himself, everything for Himself.' So everything for Him.

aham̐ hi sarva-yajñānām̐, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca na tu mām̐
abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te

("-Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24)

"Everything meant for Me. You are also meant for Me."

To come to such understanding is to have pure devotion. He's the only party, Absolute One, advaya jñāna, and we are His potencies of different types. We are meant for His līlā, He's making līlā, and we are contributing there. This is the universal vision of the whole and you must have to come to that harmony. Without doing that when you think of your separate interest, however extended, 'I am personal interest, family interest, a little extended, village interest, society interest, then country interest,' all extended selfishness in the infinite. However great a part may be that is a mere point in infinite. It has got no position. So nothing less than the whole is what is necessary. So we are a part of His līlā, everything meant to satisfy Him, not to satisfy me. My satisfaction is a part of His satisfaction. His satisfaction is there and it must be a contributing point there. I am His part and my satisfaction must be a part of His satisfaction. In this way, then there will be harmony, no clash, otherwise there will be clash. Extended selfishness from one country to another country fight. One society and another society fight. One sex and another sex fight, clash, different angle of vision. Separate interest. But all must merge in the Centre. Aham̐ hi sarva-yajñānām̐. Whatever we do:

Īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, yat kiñca jagatyāṁ jagat tena tyaktena
bhuñjīthā, mā gṛdhaḥ kasya svid dhanam

("Everything animate or inanimate that is within the universe is controlled and owned by the Lord. One should therefore accept only those things necessary for himself, which are set aside as his quota, and one should not accept other things, knowing well to whom they belong.") (Śrī Īsopaniṣad, 1)

Everything belongs to Him. With this view you try to move on, go on, then you will get the harmonised life. Then jñāne prayāsam, what brain, a puppy brain I have got? Our Guru Mahārāja used to say: "Puppy brain. What is my puppy brain? How can it understand and how can it find out its own welfare?" So it comes from revealed line. Vidvadbhiḥ, in Manu-saṁhitā we find what is the definition of dharma, Manu says:

vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ
hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata

("We can feel within our heart whether we are gainers or losers. That tasting machine is within us. As we progress in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, our karma, our connection with this material world, will evaporate in no time, and spacious knowledge will come to satisfy us. At that time, we shall feel the object of our life everywhere (mayi drṣṭe 'khilātmani. - Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.20.30) (Manu-saṁhitā, 2.1)

Manu says: "What is dharma, what is duty? I just tell you all listen to what is this. Vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ, the interpretation is given veda-vidbhiḥ. Vidvadbhiḥ, who is vidyān who is learned. And who is vedavit, who is well-versed in the revealed truth. No value of this empirical acquired knowledge, this is all false. No standpoint they have got of their own. All selfish and crooked and very meagre. And from the infinite standpoint that has been extended here in this mundane, the knowledge, vedajñāna, and you are to study that revealed truth, revealed scripture."

When in Bhāgavatam we find that Uddhava says to Kṛṣṇa: "Why in the name of religion so many forms we find here? None is able to clear this position. Only You can do. So I put this question to You my Master. Please solve."

Then Kṛṣṇa told:

kālena naṣṭā pralaye, vāṇīyaṁ veda-saṁjñitā mayādaḥ brahmaṇe proktā, dharmo yasyāṁ mad-ātmakaḥ

("By the influence of time, the transcendental sound of Vedic knowledge was lost at the time of annihilation. Therefore, when the subsequent creation took place, I spoke the Vedic knowledge to Brahmā because I Myself am the religious principles enunciated in the Vedas.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.3)

"After the wholesale dissolution when the creation began, I told about religion to Brahmā. Mayādaḥ brahmaṇe proktā, first it came from Me to Brahmā the creator. And then from Brahmā it came to this world. Dharmo yasyāṁ mad-ātmakaḥ, and what is religion? I told that is the subject of religion is Myself." Kṛṣṇa told. Mayādaḥ brahmaṇe proktā, what is religion? And I told that it is with Me. I am all in all. To know Me, to have Me, that is religion. This is religion - I am the Truth, I am the consciousness, judgement, and I am the fulfilment, sat-cit-ānanda. And dharma is connecting with Me only. And this I first delivered to Brahmā and from Brahmā so many others, Manu, Sutra, so many in disciplic order. Then why this variegated nature?"

Prakṛti-vaicitryād - pāramparyeṇa:

evaṁ prakṛti-vaicitryād bhidyante matayo nṛṇām pāramparyeṇa keṣāñcit
pāṣaṇḍa-matayo 'pare

("Thus, due to the great variety of desires and natures among human beings, there are many different theistic philosophies of life, which are handed down through tradition, custom and disciplic succession. There are other teachers who directly support atheistic viewpoints.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.8)

"From Brahmā his first group, so many they heard from Brahmā, but according to their own capacity they could understand, they could follow Brahmā. Not of the same standard. That was modified by their own internal prejudice, so prakṛti-vaicitryād. Brahmā told and so many hearing but according to their own capacity they could understand. When in their turn they gave, delivered it to their own disciples, there was some distinction. Then from disciplic order, from disciple to disciple, so many changes in medium, modification. In the beginning it was one when it came from Me and Brahmā but afterwards it was modified by the prejudices of those that came to learn that thing. So prakṛti-vaicitryād in the first group and afterwards pāramparyeṇa. From one to two, three numbers, in this way as many medium it is coming it is being modified. So in this world we now find a jungle. And some pāṣaṇḍa-matayo 'pare, some competitive opinions have sprung out from this mundane world also, so now it is a jungle. Some lay stress in the talk, some in jobs, some in dhyana, some in pilgrimage, some one gives stress in another thing. In this way this variegated nature in the field. But really it was one and I was the End of side A, start of side B, 7.8.83. (see also CD 8.8.83 b)

(vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ
hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata) (Manu-Saṁhitā, 2.1)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: they're not apathetic, neither sympathetic nor apathetic. They're all concerned with their Lord. Nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ sadbhir: Those sādhus neither hate nor adore the mundane world. Such sādhus whatever they will cultivate that is dharma. Hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto (Manu-saṁhita, 2.1): And the third condition is that the inner-most heart will approve, "Yes." Heart's inner-most satisfaction must be there. Then: yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata, "I am talking about that dharma that will lead to your internal fullest satisfaction and which is extended here from the world which is infallible. In this way.

So Mahāprabhu told that when one comes, neither jñāna in bhakti, the definition of bhakti Rūpa Goswāmī has given (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 1.10), and also in Nārada-Purāṇa:

sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanam bhaktir ucyate

("Pure devotion is engaging all the senses in service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa who is the Master of the senses. In such service, one is totally free from all relative conceptions of material self interest (upādhis), with senses purely engaged in the service of Kṛṣṇa.")

Bhakti, devotion, what is proper devotion, what is sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, upādhi means that provincialism or localism, which is free from all local, crooked, narrow conceptions from any quarter. Tat paratvena, the only positive qualification will be that it's connected and faithful to the central, harmonised by the central necessity and not any partial. The purity of our duty will depend on how much it is for the centre. Tat paratvena nirmalam hr̥ṣīkena hr̥ṣīkeśa-sevanam, if we can contact in that plane then even all our senses may be utilised for the worship of that real master of our senses. We are not master, we hold relative position. But absolute position, ownership, is with only one, with only Him. We are all dependent. This conception will really give us relief. Rūpa Goswāmī says:

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam bhaktir uttamā

("Pure devotional service (śuddha-bhakti), is the favourable cultivation of Kṛṣṇa consciousness free from all traces of ulterior motives, such as karma (self-promoting fruitive activities), jñāna (mental achievement, and so on). Such service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa, the way He desires, is called pure devotional service.")

(Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.9 (or 11?) + (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.21.11, purport)

+ (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.167)

("One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service.")

(Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11 + Pūrva-vibhāga, 1.9)

What is bhakti, what is devotion proper? Anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, which will be free from fleeting desires, ordinary, not any organised duty but whatever is coming within my heart I am doing that. Whimsical, temporary, fleeting, pleasure seeking, anyābhilāṣitā. Then karma, the energy is organised by the experts to take us to a desired end, karma.

Jaimini Ṛṣi comes to advise: "Go on with good karma. Of course it is transient, you will get heaven, after death your mental system will enjoy, that will give pleasure. But kaisnu (?) it will be finished but it does not matter. Again you do good karma, so go on doing good karma though it is changing, it goes to end, it kills itself, it does not matter, go on with production." This is Jaimini's karma.

Good karma means to, as I told is to distribute sense pleasure to others, sense necessity to others. What I eat if I give it to others I do some good karma. As a reaction I get that in my after-life. Whatever good things I do here I get it in my after- life. To every action there's equal and opposite reaction I can get. But it is all transient, all of limited satisfaction so it is not desirable. But jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam and jñāna gives us, jñāna advises us to reject the present environment wholesale. We cannot thrive here. As Śaṅkarācārya says:

java jananam parva mananam parva janani yatari saranam iti samsardisa purutara dosa katami amana avatara santosa (?)

dino jamino sisila vasan tevo nevata kala kryati gatchat aya tava vidam uchatyat asta puraja satya samudya brahma puran caro dina caro udha atham naham nayam pasad vimuktan caret (?)

This mundane connection is painful. If we go with a sober mind to calculate then janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi, (Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9), this cannot be avoided in our mundane life. So, the Buddhist school, the Śaṅkara school, they work for salvation, liberation. As long as we are in the relativity of this mundane mortal things, no peace of mind is possible, higher peace of mind. Whenever we shall be separated from our son, our wife, our house, our other favourite things, I shall have to feel some pain, or country also I shall. So the ideal peace of mind can only be had in some stage of mind like deep slumber, samādhi, complete withdrawal of the soul from this mortal world. This of two classes, the Buddhist school, the Śāṅkara school. Buddhist school says, the Cārvāka school is also there, Epicurean. They say that with the dissolution of this physical body nothing remains. The gross atheists they say like that.

vasi votasya dehasya punya ragam anam kṛta (?)

"The body is finished it is burned into ashes, then nothing remains, so no religion, nothing necessary, that is."

But the Buddhist school they say that: "No there is the mental system that's there and what we call soul is in the mental system. So after death, the transmigration, the rebirth, birth and rebirth, and with the dissolution of the mental system everything is finished, nothing remains.

But Śāṅkara says: "With the dissolution of the mental body then something is there like a mass of consciousness, like brahma which is non-differentiated, non-specified, that is there. And just as in a glass or in water anything is reflected so all these souls that are unreal reflection of that non-differentiated mass of consciousness to every place. Wherever that subtle body, mental system, only a reflection comes, it is not real. So jīvātmā is not real, jīvātmā is only a reflection. When the fire reflection is destroyed, no reflection, no jīvātmā. This is Śāṅkara's philosophy that brahma is already there.

śloka dhenu pravakṣyāmi yad aktam yānti kotibhiḥ brahma satyaṁ, jagan mithyā jīva brahmaiva na paraḥ

("In half a verse, I am summarising the truth that has been expressed by volumes and volumes of scripture. Within only half a verse I shall give the essence of all truths: brahma satyaṁ, jagan mithyā, Brahman, spirit, is true - this world is false. And the jīva is nothing but Brahman. This is the substance of all the scriptures.")

Śaṅkarācārya says: "What by the crores (one crore is ten million) of books, others have given statement, only by half a śloka I shall give the gist of the whole. Yad aktam yānti kotibhiḥ, by crores of books what have been told here so far, only with the half line of a śloka, poetry, I shall give the gist here. What is that? Jīva brahmaiva na paraḥ. Śloka dhenu pravakṣyāmi yad aktam yānti kotibhiḥ brahma satyaṁ, non-differentiated mass of consciousness, that is brahma. Aksaraṁ brahma paramaṁ, in Bhagavad-gītā: "Aksaraṁ, what is the unchangeable portion of the consciousness, that is only existent, all others are non-existent. Anyhow it has come from miscalculation, misconception." That is Śaṅkara. So no recognition of any individual soul.

(The Supreme Lord said: "Certainly Brahman is the indestructible, unchangeable Absolute Truth, and the pure spirit soul is the genuine personality of the living being. The word "karma" denotes abnegation for the sake of a demigod, which produces the bodies of humans and other species, created by the agency of gross and subtle material elements; this abnegation refers to the performance of charity, sacrifice, austerity, and all duties rendered for the propitiation of that god.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 8.3).

But we find Rāmānuja, Madhvācārya, Nimbārka, Viṣṇuswāmī, these Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas they have refuted Śaṅkara. Mahāprabhu also accused Śaṅkara: "That in the shape of a Vaidic Ācārya you have really given delivery of the Buddhistic thought. This is more injurious to the society. Buddhists are atheists and do not care for any Vedic knowledge. But you have accepted Veda but you have interpreted the Vedic mantra in such a way that you have given that Buddhistic thought that the jīva soul is non-existent. But we find clearly:

nityo nityānāṁ cetanaś-cetanānāṁ, eko bahūnāṁ yo vidadhāti kāmān tam ātmasthaṁ ye 'nupaśyanti dhīrās teṣāṁ śāntiḥ śāśvatī netareṣāṁ

("Of the innumerable, eternal, conscious beings, there is one eternal Supreme Being. That Supreme Lord is the maintainer of the innumerable living beings in terms of their different situations, according to individual work and reaction of work. That Supreme Lord is also, by His expansion as Paramātmā, present within the heart of every living being. Only those saintly persons who can see, within and without, that same Supreme Lord, can actually attain to perfect and eternal peace.")

(Kaṭha Upaniṣad, 2.2.13)

"In Bhagavad-gītā: ajo nityaḥ śāśvato 'yaṁ sanātana: jīva is eternal we find and you do not accept the reality, the eternal existence of the jīva soul."

(na jāyate mriyate vā kadācin, nāyaṁ bhūtvā bhavitā vā na bhūyaḥ ajo nityaḥ śāśvato 'yaṁ purāṇo, na hanyate hanyamāne śarīre)

("The soul is never born and never dies, nor does he repeatedly come into being and undergo expansion, because he is unborn and eternal. He is inexhaustible, ever-youthful yet ancient. Although the body is subject to birth and death, the soul is never destroyed.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.20)

"Just as the sun and the pencil ray, just as the earth and so many dusts, so, so many conscious dusts as a part of the ray of the sun the jīva is." So Rāmānuja and they rejected Śaṅkara's interpretation, not only that, but abused it like anything: "This is māyāvāda."

Śaṅkara's says: "No Īśvara is māyā, Īśvara is within māyā and above māyā only nirviśesa brahma, non-differentiated mass of consciousness, that is above māyā. And all this God conception and so many other holy things all māyā."

So the Vaiṣṇavas say that Śaṅkara preached māyāvāda, 'everything māyā.' It does not matter, all māyā, you may worship Ganesa, you may worship sun, you may worship Śiva, you may worship Durga, Kali, or Viṣṇu, whatever, all within māyā, misconception, it is āroha, and finally there is only brahma. All these specifications, differentiations, all false. This is only produced by māyā." This is Śaṅkara.

But Rāmānuja says, this is kevala-advaita. Viśiṣṭhādvaita, "The brahma is differentiated and specified. You say that when the sun is reflected in the glass and the glass is then broken to pieces then no reflection."

Rāmānuja says: "No, this is a part of brahma and it is anyhow caught in this misconception and it can go back to its own conception of the area."

So viśiṣṭhādvaita-vāda, not non-differentiated but it is specified and differentiated one whole, viśiṣṭhādvaita, not non-differentiated advaita. Advaita-advaya, one whole, that is admitted everywhere this is one but how one? It is just as sagata, sajātīya, and vijātīya-veda, three kinds of distinction is there. Just as in a tree it has got vijātīya-veda, the tree and stone, this is vijātīya-veda. And the tree and another tree is sajātīya-veda. And the tree has got its own trunk, its branches, its leaves, its root, that is sagata-veda. So the advaya-jñāna has got all these distinction in its own body, or own form. So viśiṣṭhādvaita-vāda, He and His potency is there. The potency, māyā, you say is, Śaṅkara says: "Māyā is potency but it gets finished." But we have got that: Māyā is nitya, the Vaiṣṇava Ācārya says: "He and his potency is all eternal."

In Candi also we find:

nityaiva sadyacum murti taya sadvam idam tattam tatapi sat patri bhahoda striya (?)

The māyā is nitya, it is told everywhere, and jīva is nitya, Bhagavān is nitya, and with all these as a system, in Bhagavad-gītā we find:

aksaraṁ paramaṁ brahma, svabhāvo 'dhyātmam ucyate bhūta-bhāvodbhava-karo, visargaḥ karma-saṁjñitaḥ

(The Supreme Lord said: "Certainly Brahman is the indestructible, unchangeable Absolute Truth, and the pure spirit soul is the genuine personality of the living being. The word "karma" denotes abnegation for the sake of a demigod, which produces the bodies of humans and other species, created by the agency of gross and subtle material elements; this abnegation refers to the performance of charity, sacrifice, austerity, and all duties rendered for the propitiation of that god.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 8.3)

What is this analysed in Bhagavad-gītā ?

ksara adhito ham dovodho sargo loke smin karaks ksakra eva (?)

Two kinds of creation found here in this world, akṣara and kṣara, kṣara sarvani bhutani, that which is undergoing changes is represented as kṣara. And that which is constant that is akṣara. So aksaram paramam brahma, then:

yasmāt kṣaram atīto 'ham, akṣarād api cottamaḥ ato 'smi loke vede ca, prathitaḥ puruṣottamaḥ

("Because I am transcendental to the fallible souls and also superior to My infallible eternal associates, My glories are sung in the world and in the scriptures as Puruṣottama, the Supreme Person.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 15.18)

"I am existing, transcending both kṣara and akṣara. The changing portion and the stagnant, or eternal portion, two kinds of portion is My potency and I am above that.

yasmāt kṣaram atīto 'ham, akṣarād api cottamaḥ ato 'smi loke vede ca, prathitaḥ puruṣottamaḥ

"I am told as Puruṣottama."

Above akṣara the Personality of Godhead is there. We can also from the reasonable position see that I am a particle of brahma, I am person, and the ocean of consciousness, that is impersonal? How can it be? Being a part, a particle, I am individual, I have got my individuality, and the great brahma has got no personality, no individuality. When we can see that:

sattvam viśuddham vasudeva śabditam yad īyate tatra pumān apāvṛtaḥ
sattve ca tasmin bhagavān vāsudevo hy adhokṣajo me namasā vidhīyate

("I am always engaged in offering obeisances to Lord Vāsudeva in pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is always pure consciousness, in which the Supreme Personality of Godhead, known as Vāsudeva, is revealed without and covering.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.3.23)

Mahādeva says: "When Parvatī told: "Why did you not give obeisance to my father? He's my father, he's in a respectable position to you. You are his son-in-law so you should have bowed down to him." When that yajña was declared only Śiva eliminated, all others invited and the yajña is going to take place and all are going to join the invitation but Śiva and Satī They're excluded. At that time Satī is saying to Śiva, Mahādeva, that: "This is the result that you did not show honour to your father-in-law. And why did you not do so? You should have shown some honour."

Then Śiva told: sattvam viśuddham vasudeva śabditam: "Devī, do you know that viśuddha-sattva is known as Vāsudeva? Vāsudeva, the father of Kṛṣṇa. What is that really in the ontological estimation that that tattva which is Vāsudeva, sattvam viśuddham. Tama, raja, sattva, then viśuddha-sattva, the sattva is extended to more finer and efficient position. That is viśuddha-sattva and that is known as Vāsudeva. And yad īyate tatra pumān apāvṛtaḥ, just after crossing we can see the Personality above that plane of Vāsudeva. Yad īyate tatra pumān, pumān means puruṣa, enjoyer, puruṣa means puruṣete, who lives within as the enjoyer and owner of everything.

Yad īyate tatra pumān apāvṛtaḥ sattve ca tasmin bhagavān vāsudevo hy adhokṣajo, I am, my head is always bent there constantly engaged. So to take my head from that place and again to put it in some other place it is not possible for me, my Satī. So I did not. I am always, I have sold my head there, my head is always connected with that higher substance most charming and attracting. I can't draw my head from there again to put it somewhere. So I did not do so with any mischievous motive to dishonour him."

So that is aksaraṁ paramaṁ brahma, svabhāvo, then above that: "I am a particle of brahma, I am person, and that ocean of knowledge that is impersonal? They say it is not. If we can look unto that more deeply we can say: "Oh, that is person, that is not brahma that is para-brahma, that is Vāsudeva."

.....

Brahmaṇo hi pratiṣṭhāham, in another place in Bhagavad-gītā:

(brahmaṇo hi pratiṣṭhāham, amṛtasyāvyayasya ca śāśvatasya ca dharmasya, sukhasyaikāntikasya ca)

(Kṛṣṇa says: "I am the basis and original mainstay of the undivided divine vitality of the impersonal Brahman, which is immortal, imperishable and eternal, and is the constitutional position of inexhaustible nectar and the sweetness of the ambrosia of profound love divine.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 14.27)

"I am the support of the so-called brahma, brahmaṇo hi pratiṣṭhāham, I am the support, I am the cause, I am the foundation where that brahma exists, pratiṣṭhāham, amṛtasyāvyayasya ca śāśvatasya ca dharmasya, sukhasyaikāntikasya ca. I am the back and support of all these higher things."

Rāmanūja and other Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas they come to say that what Śaṅkara gave as a conception that is hazy and not a clear and complete conception. It is brahma parabrahma, His personal character. He's personal, He's for Himself, as Hegel says. Everything meant for Him. We are to serve. Now we are in the world of exploitation we cannot exist for a minute without exploitation. And Bhāgavatam says:

ahastāni sahaṣṭānāṃ, apadāni catuṣpadām laghuni tatra mahatāṃ, jīvo jīvasya jīvanam

("Those who are devoid of hands are prey for those who have hands; those devoid of legs are prey for the four-legged. The weak are the subsistence of the strong, and the general rule holds that one living being is food for another.")

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.13.47)

Those that have got hands they eat those who have got no hands. Those that have got legs they eat those who have got no hands and legs. And the stronger eats the weaker. Jīvo jīvasya jīvanam, one jīva he lives only by eating another jīva, whether it is vegetable or it is animal. But without consuming and causing harm to other jīvas no jīva can maintain his life. And there is reaction, equal and opposite reaction.

karma dosa badita ke (?)

So one section says that karma means to live in this field and to do, karma means to create harm, disturbance in the environment. And we are to feel the consequence. So exploitation by exploiting:

ābrahma-bhuvanāl lokāḥ, punar āvartino 'rjuna mām upetya tu kaunteya,
punar janma na vidyate

("O Arjuna, from the planet of Lord Brahmā downwards, the residents of all planets are naturally subjected to repeated birth and death. But, O Kaunteya, upon reaching Me, there is no rebirth.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 8.16)

By exploitation we make loan and to clear off the loan we shall have to go down. And from whom we took loan they try to exact from me and then I get light and come up. And when coming up and again exploiting the lower, in this way, coming up and down.

ābrahma-bhuvanāl lokāḥ, punar āvartino 'rjuna mām upetya tu kaunteya,
punar janma na vidyate

We are to get out of this vicious circle. So karma dosa, karma is elevationist, elevation at the cost of others in the environment and the reaction takes him down again. In this way coming.

tasyaiva hetoḥ prayateta kovido, na labhyate yad bhramatām upary adhaḥ tal labhyate duḥkhavad anyataḥ sukhaṁ, kālena sarvatra gabhīra-
raṁhasā

("Persons who are actually intelligent and philosophically inclined should endeavour only for that purposeful end which is not obtainable even by wandering from the topmost planet (Brahmaloka) down to the lowest planet (Pātāla). As far as happiness derived from sense enjoyment is concerned, it can be obtained automatically in course of time, just as in course of time we obtain miseries even though we do not desire them." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.5.18)

Upary adhaḥ bhramatām, karma this way. And then jñāna can take us on the verge of it. Karma, exploitation, then complete retirement from exploitation, that is to retire into the stage of consciousness like slumber, deep slumber, dreamless sleep, that is samādhi. If we wake we come into the relativity of the mundane world and we acquire something wrong. So eternal slumber, that is mukti, that is abscissa, complete retirement from the land of exploitation.

Then we are told in a scientific way that we can march upwards. How? This is exploitation and the other higher plane is that of dedication, devotion. Here we are master, we want to gather everything for our enjoyment. But there, after complete withdrawal, if we can enter into that land we are a servant, a dedicating unit. Everything there is fair and higher and full in themselves. And by serving in that land we can thrive. The passport from here is mukti and then to acquire a visa into that land, and the visa will be issued only to those looking to the interest of that land. If you're presently contributing something for the interest of that land they will issue visa otherwise not. So you are to get a visa from that plane and there you will serve for the interest of that plane. That is Vaikuṇṭha. Jīva can go and enter into that land only if he's ready to give service. And we are told that our innate tendency, ātmā, is that of dedication. And the exploiting is our over encasement, upadhi. And the internal essence in soul is the function of the centre carrying current. It will help itself by helping the cause of the centre. That is devotion, that is Vaikuṇṭha and in Vaikuṇṭha there is some calculation: "Yes, I will be benefited if I can render such service to the Supreme." Calculating, and when he again goes higher in the area of Goloka Vṛndāvana it is spontaneous and automatic. It is a labour of love, the dedication actuated by the motive of love, not by calculation of any individual benefit of loss or gain. Service, but service of the higher order which is automatic and spontaneous and always contributing love.

'dāsa' kari' vetana more deha prema-dhana

Whatever service we do we get something in remuneration. What is that? That is more tendency to serve. We give money to the bank but we don't cut any cheque, that is the interest is again added to the capital. In this way the prema means the capital is being increased and going up and up to serve. And the Reality the Beautiful, the Lord of Love is in the highest quarter, Goloka.

So the knowledge has been divided into five sections: pratyakṣa, parokṣa, aparokṣa, adhokṣaja, and aprakṛta. Pratyakṣa means that which we can gather by our own senses, whatever knowledge we can gather by our own experience. Parokṣa means that which we put into the stock of our knowledge but drawn from the experience of others. There was a war but I have not seen it with my own eyes but through other sources I believe that. And that is also a source of knowledge and I accept it, parokṣa, which is got by other's sense experience. Then, aparokṣa knowledge has been accepted especially by the jñānī, the sukumam usatsam (?)

When one was in dreamless sleep he wakes and says that: "I have slept very happily, very happily I have slept." So some feeling was there in the dreamless, sound sleep, some conception was there so that when I come back I say that very happily I had a sleep. So some, none that I can express here, but some of happiness is there in a deep slumber one gets from some tiredness, uneasiness. But that is also a sort of knowledge there.

Then Rāmanūja and other Vaiṣṇava leaders say that the next stage of knowledge is adhokṣaja. Adhokṣaja means adakṛtam indriya jñanam, transcendental knowledge. What is that?

indriyāṇi parāṇy āhur, indriyebhyaḥ param manaḥ manasas tu parā buddhir, buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ

("The learned proclaim that the senses are superior to inert objects, the mind is superior to the senses, and the faculty of resolute intelligence is superior to the mind. And he who is superior to the intelligence is the soul himself.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.42)

Of all the existing worlds our senses are most important. If I loose the senses, the eye, the ear, the touch sense, then no world is for me. Only with the help of the senses can I understand and have worldly connection. So the senses are more important than the world around. Indriyebhyaḥ param manaḥ, the mental sphere is more finer and more important within you. Because, sometimes as unmindful you say: "Oh he came before me but I was unmindful, I did not give attention. Someone called me but I could not hear, I was unmindful."

So the senses are the doors, the receiver, the recipient is the mind. What is mind? Kāmana vasana, "I want this I do not want that." This faculty is called the mind within us, saṅkalpa-vikalpa (acceptance and rejection), vikalpa-katmakam-mana. "I want this, I want this, I don't want that, I don't want that." This is the mind, manasas tu parā buddhir, again if we try to trace more finer important things, that is buddhi, reason, faculty of justice, judgement, that is more finer and important. Without that the mind will say: "I want this." "No, don't want that, don't eat that, rather accept this." The faculty of judgement, that is higher within us.

Manasas tu parā buddhir, buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ, then eliminating this world of your experience, then your mind, your intelligence, reason, you try to find above that. What is that? That is a spark. Just as the light is from there, the reason can show: "Oh, this is black this is white." The judgement is possible when the light comes, in the darkness no judgement is possible. No possibility of any selection of the mind, no experience through the senses is possible but that light is all in all. And that is ātmā and this is covered. In Bhāgavatam it is said that just as in a moonlit night there is cloud. The cloud has covered the moon but the cloud is seen by the light of the moon. So by the light of the ātmā the mental system we can feel, but the mental system has covered that ātmā, ātmā is there.

And if we can show up again on the other side there is Paramātmā. We are the subject and this is the world of our experience, we can know them. But the super-subject, adhokṣaja, adakrtam indriya jnanam yena, transcendental substance, Paramātmā. Paramātmā can connect with us but we cannot connect with Paramātmā at our sweet will. Do you follow? Paramātmā and the Vaikuṇṭha and others. We, as a subject, we cannot know them. But They're subject and I am Their object. If They care to come to my level to feel me then I can feel some sort of experience: "Oh, something has come down in my mental area. It is very wonderful. It is super-knowledge I have every experienced. What is this? This is very, very wonderful subtle thing coming down in my own consciousness.

Consciousness is the finest thing ever found in this world. But super-consciousness is more fine and that can come down to my soul, but my soul at it's sweet will cannot enter that, it is very finer. So that is transcendental, it is supra-mental according to Aurobindo, supra-mental, and transcendental according to Hegel. Adhokṣaja according to Bhāgavatam. Adhaktam, whatever experience we have got that is down and making down he's existing up, very, very fine. There we can go only for their interest.

vaikuṇṭhara pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya

("The earth, water, fire, air and ether of Vaikuṇṭha are all spiritual. Material elements are not found there.") (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.53)

In that plane the earth, the water, everything is but a perverted reflection, everything is there but that is all made of consciousness, of spiritual substance, not these mundane things. So ātmā, our soul, jīva soul, jīvātmā can enter there and that area is an all conscious area, there everything is conscious, made of spirit, Vaikuṇṭha. Then Goloka is the highest position there. So Kṛṣṇa is saying in Bhāgavatam about the gradation among the devotees.

na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir na śaṅkaraḥ na ca saṅkarṣaṇo na śrīr naivātmā ca yathā bhavān

own Self is not as dear to Me as you.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15)

When He's speaking to Uddhava: "Na tathā me priyatama: My most favourite is not Brahmā, not even Saṅkarṣaṇa, na ca saṅkarṣaṇo, not even My brother Baladeva is My most favourite; nor Śrī, My own potency, Lakṣmī Devī is not so favourite; naivātmā, even not Myself is so favourite to Me as you My devotee Uddhava. You are more favourite than My own life. What to speak of My devotees are so favourite to Me. And your class of devotees, not Brahmā, Saṅkarṣaṇa Baladeva, Lakṣmī Devī, Myself, more than you."

And that Uddhava when coming from Vṛndāvana he says, sent by Kṛṣṇa: "Go and visit Vṛndāvana, and by My talk you will pacify them. For My separation they're suffering too much. You go and speak to them about Me and pacify them." Uddhava went to Nanda, Yaśodā, and gopīs, he meet, and when he's coming back then he's saying:

āsā maho caraṇa-renu-juṣām aham syām vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauṣadhīnām yā dustyajam svajanam ārya-patham ca hitvā bhejur mukunda-padavīm śrutibhir vimṛgyām

("The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to renounce, and they have sacrificed even their religious principles to take shelter of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, which are sought after by even the Vedas. O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head.")

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61, Uddhava)

Āsā maho, what divine love I could trace in these gopīs. How elevated they are, how wholesale given to the service of Kṛṣṇa is their life. Aham syām, I am being astonished to think about them. And I aspire that is I can have a birth of a creeper or a shrub here in Vṛndāvana I may have their feet dust over me. Such a great divine love I could find here that is nowhere to be traced."

That Uddhava who Kṛṣṇa Himself is saying about, remarking: "That you Uddhava you are My best devotee, even more dearer than Me." And that Uddhava he's saying in admiration and wonder about the gopīs where are they.

Mahāprabhu told according to Bhāgavata and other Purāṇas that this is our end, this is our end, the Vṛndāvana, to become dust of the feet of the gopīs. Like Uddhava we must aspire after this domain of love, divinity, above the domain of consciousness, the jñāna, the reason. Just as justice, we can't think generally that anything can be above justice. Justice must be the ultimate decision. What is beyond justice that must be wrong. But there is mercy, mercy can remain over justice. The land of affection, the land of love, that is over justice. So justice is up to Vaikuṇṭha. In justice law comes to give decision where there are many. And when there is autocracy His will is everything, then where is the room for justice? His will is everything. He's autocrat and He's the loving agent, source of all love and affection.

In the lap of a mother when the child grows up, any question of justice can enter there? Automatic affection comes to help the boy

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: and samaj (?) and so-called higher dictatory scriptures. In the revealed scriptures giving so many laws and ways and regulations, they are also not sufficient. And so many friends where we live, they have also got some position. But no: "I am one and another side, all, good, bad, all one side. Dharma, religion, that good conception, good or bad one side, I am one side." Absolute and absolute good is autocrat. Not under law, whimsical, and we are to prepare to live with a whimsical goodness. And that is to be the highest attainment of any soul, as told in Bhāgavatam, and by Mahāprabhu, in Vraja līlā.

So Hegel will come: "Die to live." To die a wholesale death and not keeping something aside. We'll have to die a wholesale death, only to have His grace. It is His, He's pleased, making merry, playing.

Aesop's fables: "What is play to you boys is death to us." In Aesop's fables, have you read? The boys are throwing pebbles to some frogs. Some frogs are enjoying and some boys also enjoying and throwing pebbles to the frogs and they're dying, hitting the head and dying. Then one of them told: "What is play to you boy, is death to us."

What is play to Kṛṣṇa, we shall consider it to be death to us, and die to live. There the whole conception of this mundane self-centred life, self-interest life, will be nowhere, finished totally, total finish of all upādhis. Upādhi means relative conceptions of interest.

sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam hr̥ṣīkena hr̥ṣīkeśasevanam bhaktir ucyate

("Pure devotion is engaging all the senses in service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa who is the Master of the senses. In such service, one is totally free from all relative conceptions of material self interest (upādhis), with senses purely engaged in the service of Kṛṣṇa."

(Nārada Pañcarātra)

Rūpa Gosvāmī is quoting this śloka from an ancient Purāṇa, and he's giving us:

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyam, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-
śīlanam bhaktir uttamā

(Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11)

What is the definition of devotion? Anyābhilāṣa, fleeting desires, then organised attempt for self-elevation, karma. Jñāna, is to depend on our own ability and knowledge and consciousness, conscience, for our own best benefit or destination or goal. To put one's own self to be the subject to judge his own fate, that is jñāna. Karma, jñāna, ādi, ādi means our yoga and our other things, anāvṛtam, these are all over-coatings. In the soul proper these elements are not found. There is kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa', slave.

(jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa' kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa')

("The constitutional nature of the jīva soul is that of an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa; the jīva soul is a manifestation of divinity which is one with Kṛṣṇa and different from Him. The jīva souls are the marginal potency of the Lord.")

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108)

Mahāprabhu told: jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa', slavery of Kṛṣṇa, that is the innate nature of the jīva soul. So slavery means that you must put yourself to the standard of slavery, nothing less. The play of His sweet will.

Once we are told that the British Government they had to appease the Shah of Afghanistan because of the Tsar, he may come any moment through Afghanistan to India. And also, the neighbour, he wanted to satisfy the Persian Tsar, the King of Persia. Once they invited the Persian King to England and tried to please him in various ways to get his sympathy for them, so he may not be converted towards the Tsar's side, Russia. So they managed to show him many things and he was taken to the place where men with capital punishment were beheaded. The Tsar was taken to that place, (the Tower of London) guillotine or something, and then shown that this is the place where so many big men, even one king was beheaded, Charles the first or something, in the time of Cromwell. The revolt came from the subjects side and Charles the first or someone was put to the guillotine. When that was shown to the King of Persia then the Persian King he asked: "Oh, give someone there and behead him, let me enjoy how it was done."

Then they were all astonished. "What does he say? For his pleasure we shall have to murder a man? What does he say? No, the British law won't allow that, that a man ..."

"Oh, you do not know how to keep the position of a king? I am a Persian King and for my satisfaction you cannot sacrifice a human life? This is dishonourable. Anyhow, if it is not possible for you, I'm giving one, take one of my attendants and show me how it is done."

Then they, with humility, they put to him: "That the law of our country can't allow this. You may do it in your own country but here your men also cannot be murdered, killed, in such a way to please some man."

"Oh, you do not know what a king is."

So slave means such, slave means such. A little sweet will can kill his life, the slave.

Śrīdhara Swāmī has explained in Bhāgavatam:

śravaṇaṁ kīrtanaṁ viṣṇoḥ, smaraṇaṁ pāda-sevanam arcanam
vandanaṁ dāsyam, sakhyam ātma-nivedanam. iti puṁsārpitā viṣṇau, bhaktiś cen nava-lakṣaṇā kriyeta bhagavatya addhā tan manye 'dhītam uttamam

"Hearing about Kṛṣṇa, chanting Kṛṣṇa's glories, remembering Kṛṣṇa, serving Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, worshipping Kṛṣṇa's transcendental form, offering prayers to Kṛṣṇa, becoming Kṛṣṇa's servant, considering Kṛṣṇa as one's best friend, and surrendering everything to Kṛṣṇa - these nine processes are accepted as pure devotional service."

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.23-24)

What are the forms of sādhana of kṛṣṇa-bhakti ? How to attain? What are the means, what are the forms and means to attain and get back our innate love towards Kṛṣṇa? To hear about Him, to talk about Him, to contemplate about Him. In this way, to praise Him, all these, so many, śravaṇaṁ kīrtanaṁ. But they will be devotional function only with one condition, otherwise they may be karma, they may be jñāna, yoga, anything else, vikarma. But one condition must be there to all these different forms of devotional activity. What is that condition?

The result you will derive from the function, this hearing, or talking, or thinking, or anything, one condition must be there, ādau apita pasyat kriyeta, what benefit I shall derive from here, from this function, that will come to me? No. It will go to my Lord. I am not a party, He's the party, I am His property. I am His property. I am not holder of any property or wealth or anything, no possessor. I have no position of a possessor, I am a possession. He's the possessor and I am in His possession. Property, all property. He's the only possessor.

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānām, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca na tu mām
abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te

("Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death.")

(Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24)

The only enjoyer of every action is Me, Myself, none else. You must be conscious fully of this fact, stern reality." Devotion is not a cheap thing, śuddha-bhakti, above mukti, liberation. The positive side is such where He is the master, only one master. "I am monarch of all I survey" in His land and we are to collect, to have visa in that land. Getting passport from our land where everyone is concerned with democracy, and is supposed to have possession, democracy. Everyone is a proprietor more or less, that is democracy. So taking passport from this land, "that I am a proprietor" you are to take visa in the land where we are property and there is only one proprietor. That is the law there, only one law, His sweet will above law.

So Absolute's connection with His parts is such, Absolute means such. We may pronounce the word absolute, it is very easy, but if we are to understand, to enter into the meaning, then it will be such. So to get visa to the real, especially in Goloka. In Vaikuṇṭha some consideration, they're entering some sort of laxation should be given. But in Goloka, ha ha, that is very tight in that place, otherwise very free. Those that are tried: "Yes, they're wholly sacrificed souls has come, confidence, they're free." But only with that play, that heart, when such truth is realised fully and surrendered then they're free. Anything they may do but their heart must be in that plane and their stand must be there and then enjoy the freedom."

So much so that Yaśodā is whipping Kṛṣṇa, Yaśodā is whipping Kṛṣṇa but if we enquired at the bottom, where Yaśodā is taking her stand, then there the plane will be that. Crores of times Yaśodā can embrace death to remove a point of sweat from the brow of the son, so much affection. She's ready to die crores of times rather than to find a sweat of labour on the forehead of her son. That is at the background. Then He has given so much independence as to whip Him, such a play, such a play.

So if we can have some idea of the infinite broadness and width of the thing, then what value the incidents here have got? The Himalayas may be very big to our standard but from the standard of the infinite if one rises very, very high, the Himalayas can't be seen, we can't see the Himalayas, so small. All relative.

We must not allow ourselves to be coward down. We must have to go to walk on. We may fail any time, anywhere, it does not matter. It is my master's will. Still, I have no other alternative but to try for His mercy, for His grace. This is my natural position. No freedom that in any condition I can leave Him, no possibility, even constitutionally no possibility of leaving Him. If I think sometimes in ignorance that is a mania for the time being. But in fact it is impossible to disassociate with Him. That is further disturbance covered with ignorance. When ignorant we may think many things that have no value. Just as a play, the defeat that so many parties are playing and one party must win and another party must be defeated, but as we are told that in a player's mood we must accept this victory or failure, player's mood. The play of Kṛṣṇa, He's playing His līlā. When we are thinking that great loss, gain, all these things, then we are not seeing the līlā, we are aside that, not in the flow of līlā. Then not His līlā then some other reason, some other objects, all these things within relative interest. And then there we find this is loss, this is gain, this is this, this is that. But only one līlā, nirguṇa, then everything is all right, everything is perfect in every inch of movement is fully perfect.

Once we are told after the Kurukṣetra war, one brāhmaṇa boy, Utaṅka, when he came across Kṛṣṇa he told: "Oh Kṛṣṇa, I shall curse You!" "Why brāhmaṇa, you want to curse Me?" "Because You are the cause of all the disasters of Kurukṣetra. So many widows and orphans are crying and showing so much distress. The bounds of their sorrow knows no end, and You are the cause." Then Kṛṣṇa answered: "You brāhmaṇa, you have collected some power by your penances in sattva-guṇa, but that will all be finished when you curse Me but it won't produce any result in Me because I am situated in the nirguṇa plane." The nirguṇa is such, ahaituky apratihatā:

("The supreme occupation (dharma) for all humanity is that by which men can attain to loving devotional service unto the transcendental Lord. Such devotional service must be unmotivated and uninterrupted to completely satisfy the self.")

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.6)

So causeless and which cannot be checked, irresistible. The wave of the most fundamental plane, that is bhakti, devotion. That is all following the sweet will of the centre, nirguṇa. That is causeless and that can never be opposed, that flow. Ahaituky apratihātā. You try to come to take your stand in that level, that is nirguṇa, that is bhakti, ahaituky, causeless. Eternally that flow is going on, and apratihātā, that can never be checked by anyone, irresistible. This is the flow and I am taking my stand there, and anyone taking his stand in consonance in harmony with that flow he will be similar, can never be checked, can never be given any successful opposition. This is bhakti.

Sa vai puṁsāṁ paro dharmo, Bhāgavatam announces that, that that will ease our, that our great, or the highest function, that function will be the highest for us, paro dharmo, duty, duty must have its origin from that plane. The flow we must catch, we must read and catch and utilise that flow, dance in that flow. Sa vai puṁsāṁ paro dharmo, everyone's highest duty will be that, yato bhaktir adhokṣaje, full submission to the unseen power, undetectable power, causal power, adhokṣaje.

Ahaituky apratihātā, which has no cause, no rhyme no reason, automatic, eternal, and apratihātā, which can never be opposed by any forces here, apratihātā.

Yayātmā suprasīdati, and there you will find your soul's greatest satisfaction, your soul's real satisfaction you will get, you will feel only then when you can work in touch with that harmony, that most fundamental harmonious wave, if you can mix with, then you can feel the highest ecstatic feeling in your own heart, self. This is bhakti proper.

So coming to such great idea of life, this small loss and gain, victory and defeat, we should not allow to disturb our march towards the truth. Karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana, "You give full concentration only to discharge your duty and never to the result."

(karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana

mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi)

("I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47)

"The result is with Me, all responsibility is with Me. You are My soldiers and what I shall ask you are to do that. You may die and the victory may come afterwards, but you soldiers, many of you have to be finished but the country as a whole will gain by sacrificing so many lives, important."

So higher calculation is like that, ahaituky apratihātā yayātmā suprasīdati, and karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana. Only the general says: "March, go forward, onward." Yes, you are to go, mā phaleṣu, whether I shall gain in the long run or not I have no right to calculate.

karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana

mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi

Two things you must be very careful about. What are they? One, "That because the result won't come to me, the fruit won't come to me, then why should I work? akarmaṇi." And at the same time, "No, I must get some share in the fruit." Those two things you are to avoid, "I must demand some fruit of my action." No, nothing. And at the same time, "Then I shall not do anything, non-cooperation." No, neither non-cooperation, nor selfish assertion. Such is devotion, such karma, such duty, you go on discharging. This is Bhagavad-gītā.

And one German scholar, I do not know his name, he told: "The Gītā is the highest religious book because Gītā says you can't change the environment, you have no hand there. If you want peace you are to regulate yourself according to the environment. The whole thing, the whole gist of Bhagavad-gītā advice is here. You try to adjust you, adjust with the environment because you are not master of the environment but you may be master of your own. So all your energy should be devoted to regulate you and not the outside. This is the gist of the advice of Bhagavad-gītā and this is the key to success. And this is clearly, repeatedly said in Bhagavad-gītā only. So this is the best religious book in the whole world ever come." One German scholar said, when I was reading in the college I heard from some professor.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana, and we must do smilingly. "Because I do not get any share or consequence in the fruit so I can't work happily." No.

vidya patam bhagavate pariksa ?

What scholarship, what knowledge you have acquired, the test will be here in the ideal of Bhāgavatam. The test will come. What sort of scholarship, new truth, you have researched, you are acquainted with what sort of truth? Your test is in Bhāgavatam.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: We hear from you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Nitāi. Nitāi. My lecture is always vague, not very clear.

Devotee: Very clear, too clear. Dynamic. So clear that it makes me speechless.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Something impossible. Once you said, you gave the example in the carnival they're advertising to climb up the bamboo pole, you gave that example, can't go up.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bamboo, and it is smeared with oil and oily substance, and if anyone is catching they can't go up, but wherever they catch they're going down. Ha, ha.

Devotee: So what to do?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura), that's his example. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! It is such. Only force from up can take me up. But this is what is inductive, the fate of inductive knowledge is such. With some sukṛti and previous action you catch something but when you exercise your knowledge you'll have to go down, slip down. Ha, ha, ha. Only śrauta, the guardians, can help us, wholesale dependence on the guardians, on the Vaiṣṇava, so, so many guardians are necessary.

tad dāsa-dāsa-dāsānām dāsatvaṁ dehi me prabho

The service of Your servant of the servant of the servant, please allow me that. So many guardians they will come, "Oh, he's slipping down, take him up." So many guardians will come. That is only, they're dependent on their grace, nothing in me. Dainyaṁ (humility), ātma-nivedanam (complete dedication to the service of Kṛṣṇa), gopīṛtve varaṇam (embracing Kṛṣṇa's guardianship),

("O Kṛṣṇa, please protect me! My dear Lord, kindly accept me as Your own." Such a prayer, as well as the prayer to obtain Śrī Kṛṣṇa as one's lord and master, is the supreme solace to the hearts of the pure devotees, and is known by them as goptr̥tve varaṇaṁ - embracing the Lord's guardianship. Because it expresses one and the same ideal as unconditional surrender, goptr̥tve varaṇaṁ is accepted as the chief of the six limbs of surrender.") (Śrī-Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam)

(ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāso, goptr̥tve varaṇaṁ tathā. ātma-nikṣepa kārpaṇye, ṣaḍ-vidhā śaraṇāgatih evaṁ paryyāyataś cāsminn, ekaikādhyāya-saṅgrahaḥ)

(These six chapters have been compiled, each consecutively dealing with the six limbs of surrender, which are as follows: 1 - To accept everything favourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 2 - To reject everything unfavourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 3 - To be confident that Kṛṣṇa will grant His protection. 4 - To embrace Kṛṣṇa's guardianship. 5 - To offer oneself unto Him. 6 - To consider oneself lowly and bereft."

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.100 - quoted from Vaiṣṇava Tantra)

("Hearing about Kṛṣṇa, chanting Kṛṣṇa's glories, remembering Kṛṣṇa, serving Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, worshipping Kṛṣṇa's transcendental form, offering prayers to Kṛṣṇa, becoming Kṛṣṇa's servant, considering Kṛṣṇa as one's best friend, and surrendering everything to Kṛṣṇa - these nine processes are accepted as pure devotional service.")(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.23-24)

.....

("One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa.") (Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3)

Negativity, increase your negativity.

ye yatha patita haya, tava dayā tata tāya, tâte āmi supātra dayāra

("Your grace is given in accordance with the necessity of those who really deserve it. In that consideration, I have some claim. I am fallen of the fallen, the most fallen, so I have some claim to Your grace.") (Gītāmālā, Yāmuna-bhāvāvali, 19)

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is putting his demand in some indirect way, that: "Your promise is that whoever is the most fallen, You will come to his relief. So I am the most fallen. I think I am the most fallen, I realise, so I have got some claim. Please be gracious."

But this is not tactics but sincere feeling, that: "I feel that I am the most fallen. And I have heard that You are Lord of the fallen, deliverer of the fallen. So my Lord, may I not expect that You will come forward for my relief?" The sincere appeal. So find out that: "I am the most helpless, no worth, most insignificant position." Then the positive side will come to help me. "That is wholesale on the other side and nothing from my side. All disqualification in me, all good qualities in the Vaiṣṇava, my guardian." To increase, to march towards the negative, to find out the negative side of our existence. And only there in that way we can expect to have the grace of the positive world. So increase the hunger.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Nirguṇa, guṇa titha, nirguṇa, guṇa means local, provincial, relative demands, provincial demands, from the imperial funds or power. And nirguṇa holds everything within. And that is good, reality, and "For Itself," "Reality is for Itself." The past and present, "For Itself" is future, and "By Itself" that is past, all come in the present tense, no past, no future. Reality is for Itself and the cause is within, and For Itself the future is within, kāla-deśa-pātra - (time, place and circumstance), all one. Līlā, eternal līlā, pastimes, and you are a part of that, you can't have anything separate. Separate ego is also arranged there, but under Yogamāyā, under the influence of that layer, that plane, not on the external plane.

Guru Mahārāja Bhāgavata is Rāmāyana or so. When Rāmacandra is informed that he is going to be installed king by Raja Dasaratha, His father, His temperament was of what stage, and when he heard that no, instead of that He'll have to go to the forest for fourteen years banishment, His heart is equal. He did not rejoice hearing that He'll have to be king, a duty, He's going to discharge His duty. And when it was changed, "No, duty says You'll have to go to the forest," the balance of the heart is as it was. "So, this duty, all right." Not affected by the mundane joy or grief, equipoised. Going to accept as duty, "This is duty, this is duty." Only:

(karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana

mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi)

("I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47)

Not disturbed. "That instead of capturing the throne I shall have to go to the forest, banished." Not changed in the heart. "All right." Karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana. They come to show, to establish examples for us.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

So many advocates came up: "No, no." Like Lakṣmaṇa, "No, no, father is old, he has lost his senses, so we should not obey his order. You order me I shall remove the obstacles and I shall put You on the throne." Another side says that: "Dasaratha, he did not utter, of course he was under obligation. Previously he told: "That whatever you'll want I must give." But such a demand he could not accept and could not clearly say, "Yes, I'm giving. Yes, what I promised you I'm giving to you that word, fulfilling that word. That what you want Bhārata will be king and Rāmacandra will have to go to the forest." But he could not speak it out because his heart was so depressed hearing such demand he could not utter a single word. So some say that: "Oh, your father has not really pronounced the words so why should You go." There was some.

But Rāmacandra said: "No, no, if my father left some capital, as an heir I would have it. And if he left some loan then as heir I must have to take the loan. So my father could not speak it out through the mouth but he was under obligation and as his son I must have to clear that obligation. He has gone away and that is his debt to my stepmother, I must clear My father's debt so I must go."

Then with Bhārata (Rāma's brother) and Vaśiṣṭha (Rāma's guru) they again went to the forest to take Him back and Vaśiṣṭha and others, the religious lawyers, they pleaded when Bhārata told that: "You may engage me as Your representative. It is mentioned in the śāstra that one can give his representative for a particular, so I want to be a representative of You and live in the forest and all these things, and You please go." And Vaśiṣṭha and other śāstric scholars sanctioned it.

But Rāmacandra told: "Why do you? You are so many affectionate to Me that you are being prejudiced. When one is not able then the question of representative comes, and when one can do, take the responsibility and discharge his duty himself, then no necessity of any representative. I am quite fit to do My duty so why should I give any representative for this purpose. No." In this way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Too much vilification, too much depression, very, very shameful condition. I am put here by the divine will. "Oh, it is of course by the divine will. Divine will at its back so I must feel encouraged." Whatever's on the surface but divine will at the back and that is all good, so I must relish which is ostentatiously very

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There was one story, about a hundred years back when British rule was here, there the centre, the pasi (?), the British had a strong centre in Rajsayi (?) ...

End of side A, 28.8.83b. side B, 28.8.83c + 30.8.83a

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: your punishment. No, it is My reward. Others may think, say that it is punishment, but it is possible that punishment one may get as a reward and may be very happy. What is the instance?

Sanātana Goswāmī told, Jagadānanda, Mahāprabhu told, praised Sanātana and blamed Jagadānanda. Then Sanātana Goswāmī told: "Oh, it is my misfortune You are giving, supplying me so much bitterness in the form of, in the coating, in the dress of praising. But Jagadānanda's fortune is higher. You are putting blame on him, You are punishing him, saying ill words to him. And that means that You think him to be Your own, and I am at a respectable distance. It is his good fortune and my bad fortune, my bad fate that You are praising me. You are keeping me at a respectable distance but You are punishing, using punishing words to Jagadānanda, that is, You are in his favour. He's Your own, You are treating him in such a very affectionate way."

So, it is difficult, but still it is the truth, very difficult but truth is here.

(Śikṣāṣṭakam, 8)

With inner satisfaction we are required to do. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

agast karin aham niyamaya jivitam tavi joge (?) Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.
Gaura Hari bol!

To err is human, to forgive is divine. Forgiveness on that part, err on our side. We may err, we may commit mistakes, it is not very rare, every possibility of committing some mistakes. But divinity is there. His character is always to forgive and to extend grace to us from the deeper plane.

Sometimes if the dress of the boy is taken away he may feel disturbed, dissatisfied. Again if new dress is supplied instead of that, a better dress, then he'll be ecstatic with joy. He does not know what is what.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Equally, adverse circumstances, our test is there.

kedo dukha me hari bhaja, suhkha me hari bhaje duhkha kasa se hari (?)

Concentration on the surface without caring about the consequence, not come for any reward. But: "Your satisfaction, not any external reward, I have come for Your holy feet." That should be our vow, our vow will be that and one will be fortunate if has such principles in life. "Come to satisfy You, not for any reward, either in name, fame, money, men, or anything else. My connection with You, that is of eternity, not a voluntary connection, that I can keep it or I can disconnect it, no. Eternal connection and the basis of such understanding that You are all and I am Your slave. Whatever You will order I shall do without caring for any good or bad concerning me." This is śuddha-bhakti. Sometimes there must come some test how far we are making progress really may come and we are to stand erect. "Oh, my Lord, yes, I am here, I am here. I am not washed away by the external wave."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

So we may stop here today.

Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda ki jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: devotion proper, devoid of knowledge, calculation, does not care, jñāna-śūnya-bhakti. And Mahāprabhu asked us to take shelter in that plane. Our guardians will take care of us wholesale. To live under guardianship, that is the best position of so many tiny souls as we are.

The responsibility of your own charge, give it to the highest guardian. That is the most peaceful life, according to jñāna-śūnya-bhakti. Surrender to such extremity, to such extent, as forgetfulness in the grace of the Almighty, to live there. Automatic section of the world.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

The highest goal of entities like us is that. Don't take any responsibility. There are different forms also, eho bāhya āge kaha āra, ("This is superficial; go further.") Dāsya, sakhya, vātsalya, mādihura, sakīya, parakīya, gradation. But the plane is altogether this jñāna-śūnya, self-forgetfulness, the plane of self-forgetfulness. Not only sacrifice, the Christian missionaries also say like that. That sacrifice is seen in the life of Socrates, sacrifice. But Christ's recommendation is the plane of self-forgetfulness, it is higher than that, self-forgetfulness is higher than self-sacrifice. Self-sacrifice is the beginning and in the higher stage self-forgetfulness. But that does not mean that there's no sentient activity, ha, ha. In that plane also fully conscious of their interest. One party, another party, competition, everything is there, but the background is such, the background is such, and it is difficult to understand the background.

Ta eva vantam anuvārga sarvam, Whatever we find here, everything is there. But this is of opposite type and the original is the ideal type Ta eva vantam anuvārga sarvam, tasya vāsa. Keen competition is also there, in the plane where competition is self-forgetfulness, the peculiarity is that.

(na tatra sūryo bhāti candra-tārakaṃ, nema vidyuto bhānti kūto 'yam agniḥ tam eva bhāntam anubhāti sarvaṃ, tasya bhāsā sarvaṃ idaṃ vibhāti

("In the transcendental abode of the Lord there is no need of sun, moon, or stars for illumination, nor is there any need of electricity, what to speak of ignited lamps. On the other hand, it is because those planets are self-illuminating that all effulgence has become possible. Whatever there is that is dazzling is due to the reflection of the divine abode of the Lord. The Supreme Godhead is so brilliantly self-luminous that neither the sun, nor the moon, nor stars, nor lightning have any power of illumination in His transcendental abode, and what to speak of fire. It is a fact that all of them get their power of illumination from His effulgence alone. In fact, it is only because of His existence that the whole universe exists.")

(Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad, 2.2.10-2) + (Katha Upaniṣad, 2.2.25 - part 5, mantra 15)

Centre consciousness, and here, this plurality, this selfishness of the plurality. That is the difference.

kamanda dhana prema nimol vasa kara, dakhi bai kami premi bhede hi nai tabhu kama prema nahi hai kamanda tama prema nimola vasa kara (?)

(kāma-preme dekho bhāi, lakṣanete bheda nāi tabhu kāma 'prema' nāhi haya)

("My brother, lust and love appear as one and the same; yet, lust is never love.") (Kalyāṇa Kalpataru, U, 18)

Similar but not the same, but opposite rather. That is to be understood but it is difficult. Aprākṛta, prākṛta bat, just like this extreme mundane but it is not so, don't mistake, difficult, it's difficult. Everything is like this mundane world, but faithful to the centre to the highest degree. Everything is done there for the satisfaction of the centre, and here, satisfaction of so many meagre parts. Local interest and universal interest, that is the distinction. So much, to put food into the stomach, and to put food into the ear, or the eye, or anywhere else, this is sheer foolishness to put food into the eye, or ear, for their nourishment. But to put food into the stomach is the highest intelligence. Something like that.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

prano pada acyet indriyanam tad eva sadvasama tasmin jnata sadvam

To know the centre. So our Guru Mahārāja has said: "Religion is proper adjustment. Adjustment with the whole, with the centre particularly." Adjustment, proper adjustment and the keen competition is also not eliminated in the adjustment. Adjustment does not mean there harmonious static condition, but it is dynamic to the fullest extent. Harmony is not a static thing, harmony can be dynamic.

Just as a machine when working it is in harmony, rather, the harmony has got its test when the machine is working, the harmony. And when static it is undetectable whether it is harmonious or not. But when in a dynamic condition the harmony has got its test. What is harmony? Movement, but no, collision. Without collision free movement of every part, that is harmony.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: if not manipulated by intelligence, guided by intelligence, energy has got no meaning. Guidance is necessary. So also, guidance or intelligence has no meaning if it does not connect with fulfilment or satisfaction or happiness or sweetness, prema, love. Everything is meaningless if that aspect is eliminated from life. Fulfilment is in love, in beauty, in sweetness, in charm, sat-cit-ānandam, fulfilment. And guidance next, then energy, third, karma, jñāna, bhakti. Without bhakti in the conclusion everything is useless, no purpose served. Bhakti is fulfilment, devotion, and devotion means acceptance of higher entities.

Bhagavān means: bhajanīya-sarva-sad-guṇa-viśiṣṭha: Jīva Goswāmī gives this explanation, meaning of the word Bhagavān. Another plane of life is opened when we come in His connection our heart wants to worship Him, to serve Him. Such qualification is there, they want to surrender, sacrifice, give himself for the satisfaction of that thing. He's Bhagavān. The third plane of life is opened when we come in connection with the conception of Bhagavān. bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha. He has got such quality that automatically our aspiration will be to surrender and to serve Him. A new plane of life. We want that everything will serve me, that is the general tendency here. But if we come in connection with the conception of Bhagavān, then at once the whole thing will be opposite.

"I must serve Him." From the core of the heart such wave will come that "He wants service, He should be served by all means." That plane comes in the eye. Bhagavān, bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha. Not self-aggrandisement or survival of the fittest tendency of elimination, elevation, all disappears, and even the complete retirement, that also eliminated. "I shall enjoy a retired life, mukti, renunciation, retired life of peace." Peace means retirement from the life of labour. But no, again in some tendency awakens: "I must serve. I want a life to serve. I have come in connection with such beautiful, and connection with such noble conception, heavenly conception of heart. Heart, such a heart I have noticed there, I cannot give my heart to that." Bhagavān, and Svayam Bhagavān, what to speak of Him? Madly, everyone is mad to serve, to render his service. That is the stage of Svayam Bhagavān.

And Uddhava was astonished to find. "We have some experience of surrendering and serving the Master. But such mad tendency to serve the Master as I find in Vṛndāvana and among the gopīs, we can never imagine in our life. So Svayam Bhagavān, they have come in connection with Svayam Bhagavān."

Bhagavān as it is, independent of the spectators. Svayam Bhagavān means Bhagavān. (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja told, wrote: Gītā As It Is. Not modified by the different interpreters or onlookers of different meanings, but As It Is. So Bhagavān As He Is, free from the relative conceptions of so many. He's such. And who comes in connection with that they become mad to serve. Self-forgetfulness is complete, merged, that is a class of merging. This mukti-karmi, the salvationist, they say of this physical merging but real living merging is there, life retained still merging.

Mayātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai:

(martyo yadā tyakta-samasta-karmā, niveditātmā vicikīrṣito me tadāmṛtatvaṁ pratipadyamāno, mayātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai)

("One who is subjected to birth and death attains immortality when he gives up all material activities, dedicates his life to the execution of My order, and acts according to My directions. In this way, he becomes fit to enjoy the spiritual bliss derived from exchanging loving mellows with Me.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.29.34)

Viśate tad-anantaram:

("By the potency of that supreme devotion, he is able to completely know

My nature of Almighty Lordship and majesty. Thereafter, acquiring the perception of his divine relationship with Me, he enters into a group of My intimate personal associates, whose nature is nondifferent from Mine.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.55)

That is not this physical, material merging, but merging in the dynamic characteristic of the Lord. Not static merging. They also merge, and: mayātmā-bhūyāya ca kalpate: enters into the family life of the Lord, that is that sort of merging, in a dynamic system, to merge in a dynamic system, not in a static substance.

"If Mahāprabhu had not appeared then how could we sustain our lives? How could we live? What type of ecstatic rasa has He imbibed that we have been able to have a little taste? Without this our lives would be impossible. Who else could take us to the acme of realisation of the position of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She holds the highest position. She is the greatest victim to the consuming capacity of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. She stands as the greatest sacrifice before Kṛṣṇa's infinite consuming power. Rasarāj- Mahābhav - the rasa is there, and She is the drawer of that rasa from the storehouse. She has such negative capacity that She can draw out the rasa to the highest degree both in quality and quantity."

If Gaurāṅga did not come with all this astonishing findings then how could we live, Vāsudeva Datta says. "How could we live? The very vitality of our life He has taken out to us, the inner most vitality, that we are so great, so loving, so noble. If He did not come then who would have known about our own nobility, that so much noble self is within us, so much dignified self is within us, we are so big, so great."

Our Guru Mahārāja, in Dacca University, he gave the heading of the lecture: "Gauḍīya Maṭha stands for the dignity of the human race, not slavery." You fool, you think it's slavery, Gauḍīya Maṭha preaches slavery. Not slavery as you understand but the dignity of the human race. That human soul, any soul, how higher he can get his chance and he can rise, get up. So much prospect, so much prospect a jīva has got. The adoration of the Almighty, of Svayam Bhagavān. As you give, so you have. So much giving and so much having is also there. The Svayam Bhagavān, the God As He Is, is not bankrupt, that He's only gathering loans from different parties, not so.

Uddhava was astounded. Vāsudeva Datta says: "Śrī Gaurāṅga has taken for us such a proud and wealthy and noble self, our position, our ideal position of what is this. Then how could we live if I could not come to know my so much dignified position? Without knowing that, that is a life of death, life in death. Without proper knowledge of one's own self, own wealth, own noble self, that is a sort of life in death. He has given us our life. Otherwise we could not have lived without knowing that I am so noble, I am so noble. He has come with these tidings to us, Gaurāṅga. Now we think without that we could not live. I have got such a fortune, greatness, wonderful degree of fortune we have got. And Gaurāṅga is saying that. You Vasudeva, you people, you devotees, you do not know how great you are. With these tidings He has come to our door."

And Nityanānda Prabhu rolled from one door to another: "Accept Gaurāṅga. What is going by your side, by the road of your gate, you do not know. Don't eliminate My friend, don't eliminate. Try to have and your joy, your fortune, will know no bounds. Don't avoid Gaurāṅga."

Nityanānda carried this news from door to door. "Don't avoid Gaurāṅga. You know not what treasure He has taken for you My friend, accept Him, accept Him, take Him in, give yourself to Him. And what fortune you'll derive you cannot estimate. Accept Him, accept Him." This was the duty of Nityanānda, door to door. He has got inner appreciation for the breeze, by two sides of the Ganges Nityanānda along the sides of the Ganges so many villages and inhabitants He appealed with utmost earnestness. "Accept Gaurāṅga, accept Gaurāṅga."

"Accept Gaurāṅga and you'll become heart of My heart." Hare Kṛṣṇa.

līlā, 3.541)

The most magnanimous expression came out here in Kuliyā when He dissolved so many vaiṣṇava-aparādhī, so many persons that committed offences against the Vaiṣṇava, here in Kuliyā and Govardhana, aparādha-bhañjan-pāṭ, our greatest crime was pardoned here, forgiven here. So I have selected this position. All the serious, grave offences will be forgiven. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Govardhana, Girirāja Govardhana, a very favourite, selected abode of our Guru Mahārāja. The Rādhā-kuṇḍa is the highest but there our guru-varga, our senior and superior guides will be there and we shall be a little far off. We cannot encroach that highest position. From there we shall come and serve them and go back. That is Govardhana.

nija nakotoni varsan dehi govardhana stan (?)

In his last days he liked very much to hear this poem of (Raghunātha) Dāsa Goswāmī and Rūpa Goswāmī, nija nakotoni varsan dehi govardhana stan. And that is the meaning, Rādhā-kuṇḍa is the highest, but:

pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range

"The path of divine love is worshipping to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."

Giving respect to the highest position, to the superiors, we shall come down a little so our pride will be a little checked in normal position. There not in the verge, in the highest position, but a little less, trying to climb.

Vaiṣṇava dāsa not Vaiṣṇava. That is the position very advantageous and intelligent position to be taken, that "I am not Vaiṣṇava, I am Vaiṣṇava dāsa." The promising, kiśora, not full youth but only climbing, going to the youth, kiśora. That is the best position, only progressing, not fully attained, but only going to get the full attainment, that position is good.

.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja, he mentioned in his diary or somewhere else that once circumambulation of Vraja-maṇḍala in Koshi (?) or somewhere, Prabhupāda (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) told that: "Today in the evening I shall take a class." But many of the sannyāsīns went away to see the Sesashayi (?) and few remained to hear him.

Devotee: temple in Vṛndāvana, it's in the Līlāmṛta by Satsvarūpa Goswāmī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I heard from someone that Swāmī Mahārāja mentioned that he stayed, I also stayed to hear Prabhupāda rather than to go to some other place and have darśana of Sesashayi. To avoid that darśana Prabhupāda he himself told that: "This evening I shall take the class." But some remained and some went. Because the next day we'll have to start off in some other direction and that darśana will be avoided.

And there, that's also an important place where Lakṣmī Devī is serving Nārāyaṇa. And the gopīs, when they went to see they felt the highest degree of separation there.

yat te sujata saranam buhasta neshu, priyo dadhi mahi kat kadesu tena tabi mata citad batati na kincit, kutpalavi bham bhauma tibitbhava tayasamunu?

There we heard from Prabhupāda a new meaning of Govardhana. Govardhana, he told that just as the breeding of the cow section does not care for any social rules, so also the devotees of Kṛṣṇa, they do not care for any social rules but go on extending their group. Neither brāhmaṇa, vaiśya, śūdra, kṣatriya, or vaiśya, candala, mallecha, they do not care, without caring for the social rule they go on increasing their own nationality, ha, ha, ha, their own group, own section, kṛṣṇa-bhakta, Kṛṣṇa conception. Without caring for any stage of environment they can try to continue to extend the thought of devotion to anywhere and everywhere without caring for the yogyatā, or the capacity of the disciples, without caring. But there is one Lakṣmī dar śloka:

ākṛṣṭhiḥ kṛta-cetasāṁ sumanasā-muccāṭanaṁ cāmhasām ācaṇḍāla mamū kaloka sulabho vaśyaś ca muktiśriyaḥ

no dīkṣāṁ na ca sat-kriyāṁ na ca puraścaryāṁ manāgīkṣate mantro
'yaṁ rasanā-sprṅg eva phalati śrī kṛṣṇa nāmātmakaḥ

"The Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa is an attractive feature for many saintly, liberal people. It is the annihilator of all sinful reactions and is so powerful that save for the dumb who cannot chant it, it is readily available to everyone, including the lowest type of man, the caṇḍāla. The Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa is the controller of the opulence of liberation, and it is identical with Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Simply by touching the Holy Name with one's tongue, immediate effects are produced. Chanting the Holy Name does not depend on initiation, pious activities, or the puraścaryā regulative principles generally observed before initiation. The Holy Name does not wait for all these activities. It is self-sufficient."

(Padyāvalī, 29, Rūpa Goswāmī)

("One need not undergo all the purificatory processes, or follow the six ritualistic ceremonies mentioned in the Vedas for pious life; one need not even take initiation into the gāyatrī-mantra. If one simply chants the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa without offence, everything will be successful.") (Jīva Goswāmī)

The mantra, form of the Name of Śrī Kṛṣṇa is so powerful it does not care for any capacity of the soil. Anywhere it may be thrown down and it will spread out, this so powerful seed.

Ākrṣṭhiḥ kṛta-cetasāṁ sumanasā-muccāṭanam cāmhasām, only those that have got some sort of previous sukṛti, they are attracted and captured by this Kṛṣṇa conception, the mantra of Kṛṣṇa conception where within the mantra where the subject matter is Kṛṣṇa. That only can attract a particular group.

As Acyutānanda told to a local headmaster, after the headmaster said: "We are so near yet we can't understand Mahāprabhu, but you have come, you are attracted from far away under the banner of Mahāprabhu. What is the cause?"

The answer came:

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya
bhakti-latā-bīja

("Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service.") (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151)

It is not a question of locality but in the whole of the brahmāṇḍa (the gigantic material universe) that peculiar qualification may be seen, kṛta-ceta, who has got some sukṛti, some sādhu-saṅga in any form or other. Only they're attracted, from all sections, only a selected few are attracted, kṛta-cetasāṁ sumanasā-muccāṭanaṁ cāmhasām. And very easily it can drive away the sinful tendencies, very easily it brushes away, kṛta-cetasāṁ sumanasā-muccāṭanaṁ cāmhasām means pāpa, or sin.

Ācaṇḍāla mamū kaloka sulabho vaśyaś ca muktiśriyaḥ, and it is open to all except those who can't speak, those who are not dumb only, they can have this chance of getting the Name

.....

Devotee: Thank you for giving me some service.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If you think that there will be any good there you will do that.

Devotee: Ha, ha, ha. You'll start a revolution Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is good, you may be benefited thereby, by helping the good we help ourselves. If there is anything good and if we help the good cause, then we ourselves are helped, reaction. If you think like that you may do, ha, ha, you'll find many ways to do that. Serving the good we serve ourselves.

Devotee: Ha, ha. Thank you. It is sweet. Your words are the highest good.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha. What highest good we know? How high in the infinite world? We are told we are extended some sort of knowledge to that, but how much we can ...

(Śrīla Rūpa Goswāmī's Padyāvalī, 29)

That Mahā-mantra which is consisted of the Name of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, it is such, it is such. So extensive in its magnanimity it does not care for any formal approach. Anyhow, if it comes in connection, we will get the benefit. As autocrat and boundless mercy, the nature of Kṛṣṇa mantra is such, is such. In any place, in any time, the transaction may go on. Not this. kali-kāle ? Where all have failed but Kṛṣṇa mantra has got it's, gloriously, it is such, no adverse circumstance can produce any obstacle to this, this is such. But only condition that sukṛti, sādhu-saṅga, only one thing that to have the real thing, we are to have proper connection. It must be kṛṣṇa-nāma and not any imitation, as we find amongst the sahajiyā section, imitation. Kṛṣṇa-nāma proper, that is so powerful.

So it is also said, nāmākṣara bahiraya batu nāma kabu naya (Jagadānanda Paṇḍita's Prema- vivarta), the physical sound may appear imitation but no effecting at the same time. nāmākṣara, because that is not Kṛṣṇa, not Kṛṣṇa. There is anyābhilāṣa karma jñāna in the layer, upādhi, on the cover and not in the spirit within. The thing it must be. Just as the greatest poison, cyanide acid, that can show its force, power, but if it is not a smallest portion of cyanide acid, that can show its force, power, but if its not the cyanide acid but some similar thing, then of course no result.

It must be kṛṣṇa-nāma, Kṛṣṇa. That sort of inner vibration must have to come. Kṛṣṇa, with the elimination of so many things.

Kṛṣṇa . . . gaura nami gaura nami mukhay boli de nahi choli ?

Not to canvass that I belong to Gaurāṅga, only canvassing, external bogus canvassing won't do. A very little quantity but it must be the same thing, then it will miraculously work. We are only to care for there. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol . Nitāi Gaura.

Devotee: So the real meaning of dumb, mukha, means no sādhu-saṅga, not only the tongues ability.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not physical. The mentally dumb.

Devotee: Mahārāja, what do you mean exactly by bogus external canvassing?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is just as imitation trade may be a particular thing. The Henry Ford car has got a good name in the market, I am also to capture that good name. Similar car I am also producing and trying to give floatation to the market and to become rich. That is the competition of imitation things. Easily with less cost the imitation thing is produced and that comes in the market to compete with the genuine thing, something like that. gaura nami gaura nami ?

That is not hypocrisy, that is treachery. To come with the thing in the market, that: "Oh this sunlight soap, take sunlight soap from me with less cost, this is sunlight soap, I am producing with less cost, you take all these things." In this way, try to capture the market, the foolish people, with imitation thing.

Devotee: But myself I am great part imitation and small part real devotion so how to balance between becoming real devotee and performing service?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In association with real devotee the real part will develop and this will go away. Everyone in the beginning gets the small thing, but our adherence to that and our negligence to the other part, that will help us. It is not just in your case, it is everywhere. When one begins such life the smallest part in him only have, but the tendency, but the inner man must take side of that smallest part and help him to get good association and other undesirable things will die out gradually.

āḍau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā tato' nārtha-nivṛttiḥ syāt tato niṣṭhā rucis tataḥ athāsaktis tato bhāvas tataḥ premābhyudañcati sādhakānām ayam

"In the beginning there must be faith. Then one becomes interested in associating with pure devotees. Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhana-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15-16)

Anartha nivṛttiḥ, ādau sādhu-saṅga bhajana kriyā, then anartha-nivṛttiḥ. Development of a particular side, feeling the higher part and the lower parts fasting they will die, without food. We shall have to connect with the sādhu-saṅga, there the lower part will be well fed and they will grow and without food these things will die out. Anartha nivṛttiḥ, bhajana kriyā, anartha nivṛttiḥ is the result of particular activity. Śravaṇa kīrtana, etc, sādhu-saṅga, with the association of the pure devotee, the cultivation will go on and the other things will gradually vanish.

Karmady yasyamunti nasyanti sadbai may nisyanti ?

Our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) once told to one Kundanlal. He was twenty years assistant on Manchester Guardian, in England. And a spy student in Germany in the first great war. A gentleman in Agra town. When he came to Guru Mahārāja to take Harināma. "Only we must allow kṛṣṇa-nāma to land in our heart and He will capture gradually the whole of the heart, others will have to walk out." That prospect. The kṛṣṇa-nāma means with the idea of purity and dignity, everything, not only the sound but with the prospect contained within the sound. When the real Name of Kṛṣṇa will land in the heart of a man, gradually the whole heart will be captured, conquered. Because none will be able to stand in competition with Him, they will have to retire, to close their doors of business, when Kṛṣṇa enters any heart. Such prospect, such facility, none can promise or give, the highest. So Kṛṣṇa is such, anyhow only landing and entering into the heart.

praviṣṭaḥ karṇa-randhreṇa, svānām bhāva-saroruham dhunoti śamalam
kṛṣṇaḥ, salilasya yathā śarat

"When Kṛṣṇa enters the heart through the ear, He captures the lotus of the heart and then gradually makes all the dirt in the heart disappear. Just as when the autumn season comes, all the water everywhere becomes pure, so also, when Kṛṣṇa enters our hearts, all the impurities within will gradually vanish, and only Kṛṣṇa will remain forever." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.8.5)

Everything will be driven out, brushed aside. The prospect, the quality and quantity of the prospect is such, automatically, everyone, all the businessmen will have to go away. None can stand in competition with Him, Svayaṁ Bhagavān, He's Svayaṁ Bhagavān, the source of all goodness, of all maṅgala, goodness, auspiciousness, everything, everything good, the source. He is the proprietor, all others they're . . . one is producer of and another purchases from Him like broker, all other gods like brokers, take from Kṛṣṇa and they come in the market and they distribute the things. When Kṛṣṇa Himself, the producer, Himself comes in the market, everyone will have to go away. Svayaṁ Bhagavān.

Mayaiva vihitān in Gītā (7.22), kāmāḥ tair (7.20), sometimes they go to so many gods, they're My agents, mayaiva vihitān hi tāt, I supply those gods to continue their business. But antava tu phalaṁ teṣāṁ (7.23), their store is limited, it is finished, but My store is Infinite. But they also do My business, takes from Me different things and go on with their business. I help, I am at their backing. So more price, less gain. Direct customer of Me, then their position is otherwise. "There are no things in the store, store is limited, come sometimes after." No such thing, always filled up. Yad gatvā na nivartante (Bhagavad-gītā, 15.6) opulence, always opulence.

Devotee: Our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Mahārāja) told, if anyone comes to the Mandira you must give prasāda. You cannot say that there is a shortage because Rādhārāṇī is in charge of the Temple.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. I heard when I came in the beginning, one Bolan (?) Mahārāja, he was Vaiṣṇava Carana, he told that during Mahāprabhu's janmatsava so many boys and girls amongst the pilgrims of the local boys and girls are coming for prasādam. I am distributing this prasādam, this, some sweetmeat preparation, some halava, prasādam distributing. Coming, one boy and girl and sometimes men also coming, twice, thrice, they're coming and asking. Then I could recognise: "Oh I have given you twice, don't come, don't come." And they're going away.

Then Kuñja Bābu was there, our Tīrtha Mahārāja, there as general secretary. He noticed the attitude of the distributor, he himself told, that distributor told it to me self direct, Kuñja Bābu asked: "Are you distributing prasādam or halava? What do you distribute? Mahāprabhu is there, it is infinite, so go on giving, twice, thrice, four times, or as much times as you come you go on distributing."

At Mahāprabhu's marriage ceremony, some came once, twice, thrice, in this way. Then when it reached the ear of Mahāprabhu He told: "Thrice, everyone should be given thrice." He gave declaration: "Not only once, thrice." In this way. Infinite.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Another type in Kṛṣṇa nature.

kṛṣṇa bole armāi, agai magai visai su, amṛta jali visnagi, sei bara mukha,

Śrī Kṛṣṇa says: "As a person takes refuge in Me and surrenders unto Me, I respond and reward accordingly. Being the ultimate goal of all philosophies and doctrines, I am the objective to be attained by all. Certainly, O Pārtha, everyone follows My various paths in all respects." (Bhagavad-gītā, 4.11)

"Whomever will approach Me, with whatever attitude or aspiration, I respond accordingly, that is the general nature of Me."

Then also He says: muktiṁ dadaci nata bhakti yogam ? "Some people approach Me for bhakti, apparently. But I give them salvation, emancipation, and disperse them, go, I am giving mukti, why you want bhakti ?"

That is also His dealing. And also He says: "One who comes to Me and he wants for this mundane prosperity, then I help him in such a way, why do you want this thing? Give up the idea of this mortal aspiration and accept My devotion."

Three types of nature He has expressed about Him. And that is according to the quality of the sukṛti of the man who is approaching. Only formally: "I want your devotion," but at heart, aspiration for some other things, that is not compatible with the devotees.

"If something in his mind otherwise and he formally asks Me for bhakti, no, no, why do you take bhakti ? Take mukti, go on."

Such a camp as ordered to Śaṅkara, lokarn madvi mukarn kuru ?

Not only his personal case but that sort of tendency is in general also, arrangement by Him. lokarn madvi mukarn kuru. The segregation like the segregation of the serious patients from the ordinary type to save the ordinary type. In hospital, all TB, in a TB section, the mild patients are there, newly attacked, and the serious case is also there, hopeless, the hopeless and other case divided into two, that this will be. As injustice, if a serious case, a hopeless case is at the side by a new attacked case. So segregation is necessary, separation among the same is necessary.

So at heart, those that are not real devotees, they may be avoided to save this, the komala śraddhā, the soft type of devotee. If they get favourable condition, they will pass away to the highest position. But these people will disturb them. For this, that sort of arrangement. lokarn madvi mukarn kuru ?

"You, Śaṅkara, Mahādeva, you go and preach māyāvāda. That I am God.

Who is God? I am God. That sort of gospel you go and preach." So that serious case is taken away from another section. They will go on with that and the others will be saved, the komala śraddhā, the beginners of the bhakti devotional school, they will be saved.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

We can trace partiality in the Supreme Authority, captured by the merit of the devotee, such things are there. A selection, gradation is always there. The ordinary mania that all is equal, all have equal chance, all is equal, that sort of mania has no place here. Selection, hierarchy is there, everywhere and we must accept it as axiomatic truth.

Mahāprabhu is so much captured with the capacity of Rūpa Goswāmī, He taught him and also Himself inspired by inspiration. He gave him everything about rasa-tattva. So much so, and again further He's recommending Svarūpa Dāmodara: "Really he's very meritorious to deal with the higher rasa."

So Svarūpa Dāmodara told plainly Rāmānanda Rāya: "Oh, it is your presence, your grace, we find there. Where He will get all these things, He says all these things, it is your grace we find."

Mahāprabhu flatly admitted: "Yes, what you have told it is all right. He is such a fit person to deal with this rasa that I have given him My whole capital, and you also give him." Mahāprabhu is madly recommending Svarūpa Dāmodara. yajñā patra ei bhakti paru taite ? "Svarūpa Dāmodara, you also give all your hidden treasure to this devotee. He's really a man to deal with these things properly."

Wonderful. Though we have not gone through the higher teachings of Rūpa Goswāmī, this Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi and others. So we are told and from far away whatever we see how he has dealt with in details the madhurya-rasa, subtle stages of different characteristics, wonderful. The inner harem of the Lord, how it has been dealt there, it is simply wonderful.

Mahāprabhu confessing: "The whole of My heart, I have disclosed to him and you also help him."

Such recommendation, partiality to the proper person is there.

All equal, this is a bogus and non-productive idea of the half stupid. Never all equal. The gradation is there, everywhere. It is only a slogan of the māyāvādīs, all equal, Brahman. Acintya-bhedabheda, bhedabheda, some points equal, some points different, always this is continuing, bhedabheda, and that is also beyond your conception. The bhedabheda, how much common and how much different, this is beyond your calculation. That is in the hand of that Autocrat, not under law, but sweet will there. So it is acintya, that not within law, that you will go and demarcate according to law, not that. It is in the free hand of the Supreme Lord, Autocrat. Bhedabheda. Līlā. Līlā means above law, that is līlā, which is above law, yet sweet, yet it is sweet. And it has got some harmony, līlā, though above law but still harmony is there, consistency.

Vyudha syamanyam tasmin noti tam ?

Always harmonising discordant element. That is His peculiar nature, and discordant elements get harmonised there. In Vedānta: Vyudha syamanyam tasmin nocit yam ?

It is not wonderful, it is not strange, but it is familiar to Him, always we find that both opposite is meeting together in a greater harmony and then again the opposite meeting together, as a branch of branching.

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari.... Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

We all for Himself, that is the crux. No individual prospect, all the prospects of all the individuals merged in Him. To seek for His pleasure, that is our highest object and aim of life in a nutshell.

(Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24)

We are fighting with each other. I am enjoyer, he is enjoyer, he is enjoyer of seventy- five degrees, he is of ten degrees, he's other degree, we are all enjoyers. No, all zero, cipher, only one enjoyer and all to be enjoyed. Come to this spirit and you will be peaceful. The realisation of this, not only negative side but positive side. Degree of self abnegation and searching after His satisfaction, that degree and hierarchy. Ultimately He is for Himself, we're all for Him, that is the creed.

Everything for Him so no individual prospect ostentatiously. But in the inner world there is according to the degree of self-sacrifice and Kṛṣṇa searching, the degree of searching. The valuation will be there. So we have not room to complain that I'm sustaining loss or gain, individually, everything, so no individual prospect and there, die to live. As much as we can forget our own special interest, we live so much. That is the principle and as much as we can accept, then we can make progress in that way.

He must have the knowledge of the thing, the criterion, the key, the knowledge, that must be acquainted with, then he can say, this is the truth, this should be. Every department in the treatment, medical department, new medicines are being created, old medicines are being waved goodbye. Wherever there is any change if there is any sort of improvement, that means to leave the old and to welcome the new. So in the eternal truth also there is gradation. "While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his uninterrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy." (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69)

He's awake in another world, where we faint, and He fainted in this world. No existence in the world of exploitation. Hare Kṛṣṇa. It is possible, such a life is possible and that is the boon and we can live there eternally happily. The prospect of the whole creation is there. So long creation must vanish in death.

The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power, And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave, Awaits alike the inevitable hour; The path of glory leads but to the grave.

(Thomas Gray, 1716-71, English poet) (Elegy written in a country churchyard, 1751).

Everything, ultimately, going to the grave. But there is a world where grave is unknown, nitya-līlā, pastimes going on eternally. And a particle of that soil is within me, I can trace it out now. It is not theoretical, not an abstract thing. Only Bhagavad-gītā says: "Try to climb a few steps and you will find."

"The learned proclaim that the senses are superior to inert objects, the mind is superior to the senses, and the faculty of resolute intelligence is superior to the mind. And he who is superior to the intelligence is the soul himself." (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.42)

Upaniṣads says: buddhay ratma maham para ?

We are to understand what element practically our intelligence is. To catch it direct. It is from the background it is dictating, our reason is dictating from the background, but we cannot come to understand it face to face. What is what element in me is there which is acting as reason. It is possible that we can feel that, we can come in direct contact with that, and then with the help of that reason, we are to go further up, to find our ātmā. Who am I? Neither this body, nor the mind, nor the intelligence, nor conscience, that works from background. We are to cross that and in then the highest layer we shall find who we are. Then we'll have a great background and confident background, that yes, God is spiritual, spirituality, He's existing, when we shall find ātmā, ātmā sat katka ? Come direct, face to face with ātmā. buddhay param buddhas ? ātmā can know ātmā. Light can show anything, but when we go to analyse the light itself, light showing many things to us, but what is that light when we go to analyse that it's substantial characteristic

End of side A, 30,31-8-83 side B, 1-9-83 + 7-9-83

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whether it is service or not we do not find Him, but His representative, a sādhu, guru. His sanction we shall try to have, whether it is service, or something else. The guru or Vaiṣṇava, they are to examine and give their opinion of how many per cent serving elements is there in my actions and how many per cent it is anyābhilāsa karma jñāna, etc. They will test, examine and give report that such per cent are Kṛṣṇa conscious and such persons are this and that, all these things. It is not a hazy thing, it has got scientific position, that they can measure, the scientists of that world.

About that, got some regard and faith then also tulasī ved ? can begin.

Without śraddhā everything may be aparādha, offence against Kṛṣṇa, śraddhā, by education. First you are to create some faith and then such transaction. Otherwise if they'll be ill-treated, the prasāda, the tulasī, that will be offence. Not to belittle with these things. Without faith these transcendental dealings will not be there. So they must be educated, must have training, how to deal with these things respectably. That sort of śraddhā or faith should be created, and according to the degree of faith, distribution of tulasī. In the case of prasāda it is more liberal and the case of tulasī ved distribution, that should be more considerate and kept within strict high boundary.

Devotee: Sometimes the devotees, they will put some glass beads mixed with tulasī neck beads and give them to everyone in the street.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is like tradery.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kavirāja Goswāmī Prabhu as he made this wonderful that: "I am writing, I'm so old that my hand is trembling, eye cannot see, memory is failing, still I go on writing this book. It is very, very, strange. Someone is doing work through me, utilising me."

Sanātana Goswāmī Prabhu also says: "What a mean and insignificant fellow I am, and I am giving the description of so many queens of Kṛṣṇa, Satyabhāmā, Rukmiṇī, Jambhuvati. Where they are in the most confidential circle of Kṛṣṇa, in the harem of Kṛṣṇa, those ladies, and I am giving description about them. What audacity I have got. But my readers, it is not mine. Someone is forcing me to write all these things. It is coming from some other quarter. I am only the instrument. Otherwise what audacity I may have that I shall know and write about the character of the distinctive characteristic of those ladies in the harem of Kṛṣṇa. It is possible? But someone is forcing me to go on with the pen in a particular way."

That is the thing. Who can give himself at the disposal of that transcendental thought or knowledge. They have to be instrument of it and the transcendental truth will come down to explain Itself through a particular person, agent. The revealed truth comes in that way, scriptures come in that way. Of course there is degree, there is possibility of comparative study, but all of them are coming down, controlling the agent. They come through them. That is revealed truth, it means that. They're mere instruments and truth likes to come down from higher to lower through them. That is scripture, that is revealed truth. And there is also gradation of different type, different section, different plane. And there also comparative studies is possible. That is also made by the same truth through some agency, how the gradation is there. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. To have faith in this, that requires fortune, bhāgya.

"Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151)

Ordinary people they cannot put faith in these tales. "Oh they're all stories, tales. What value has it got. Only abstract thinking. Mere hallucination, but what is the difference between hallucination and your transcendental statement? They're one and the same. These are all hallucinations." But:

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānām, tasyām jāgarti saṁyamī yasyām jāgrati bhūtāni,
sā niśā paśyato muneḥ

"While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un-interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy." (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69)

Ordinary persons find night, and there are some who can see, and that degree of light. And the general person when they find day, that is night to some people. So some consciousness, they have got recognition of such revealed truth that this is reality and what you say to be real, that is transient, always changing, dying, evaporating, and ultimately you also admit that this will all vanish. The whole solar system, the concrete solar system of your thinking, that will go nowhere one day. I also know, you also admit that. So there is time and we have got opportunity to find out some other soil, where to go, and take our permanent residence. We are in search for that.

Just as being afraid of the war of atom bomb, underground rooms are being prepared. So if such fighting begins, then we must enter into underground, with arrangements of some oxygen and food. So when the whole world will vanish, then, from before, we are searching for some soil. And we are known, we are given some assurance that this is a permanent and very happy soil. And we can trace within you also a portion of that. Ātmā. We can eliminate the world, then the senses, then the mind, then the wisdom, and above wisdom, there is some light. Spark, spark of knowledge, divine spark, and we are told that you are that spark, and you're a spark, the source of spark is there above your head. That is the land, that is the soil for which you are meant to live. Yad

"My supreme holy abode is that place which the surrendered souls reach, never to return again to this deathly plane. Upon going there, one never returns to this material world. Neither sun, nor moon, nor fire - nothing can illuminate that all-illuminating supreme abode." (Bhagavad-gītā, 15.6)

"A very sweet soil to live on, live in," Kṛṣṇa says. None will come to push you down from there, Na nivartante, or here within this circle of material, going up, down, accordingly, action reaction, going up and down, up and down, dying, dying, dying. Janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhī, (Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9). This is concrete, real intelligence can detect all the defects of this life, so life has got higher prospects, try for that. This is nothing, what is there? What is there?

nidrayā hriyate naktam, vyavāyena ca vā vayah

"At night we see two things; either sleep or playing with women. And the day-time is spent either in search of money or by serving the relatives." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.3)

Āhāra-nidrā-bhaya-maitunam, (Eating, sleeping, defending and mating).

To relish the food, to sleep, enjoy the sleep. Bhaya, and then apprehension always from all sides, that some injury and harm may come to me in any form. And maitunaṁ, to be united with a lady, and a lady with a gentleman. So these are such pleasure is to be found all transient, that is always in the animal circle, even in the tree circle it is to be found, all these things. But in human species you can search for your own home, sweet home. So try that. Find out your way and means how to reach your sweet home. That is permanent, sat, then, cit, that is full of consciousness, knowledge, ānandam and that has got its fulfilment, fulfilment, ānandam. Don't want anything else but that fulfilment.

You will find that all the necessities you find in yourself, feel in yourself, has got its satisfaction there. The wholesale satisfaction of your inner demand is to be found only in the land of Kṛṣṇa, nowhere else. The subtle most demand in your heart, everything, in details, will have its full satisfaction there. Kṛṣṇa is such, without Him you are negative, your nature is a negative one, hankering, hankering, hankering.

* * * * *

That is the call of suicide. Nothing in spirituality there. Only to join a particular association, that does not mean that one is relieved from all his previous tendencies of mind. Some previous bad tendencies was there, he could not have sufficient tolerance, forbearance, could not put sufficient faith in the dealings of the Lord, that whatever comes according to his previous karma, that should be tolerated and we must go on putting our faith and prayer towards the Supreme.

tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam hṛd-

Lord Brahmā says: "One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed. Such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8)

Whatever adverse circumstances we fall in, we must not back out, but you go on praying: "My Lord, the result of my previous karma is causing suffering, but You please protect me, protect me." While continuing that troublesome mental stage, he (or she) won't lose his balance of mind, not lose his patience, he must go on praying: "Lord, this trouble, even the leprosy, even any serious pain due to anything else, that is due to my previous karma and that I must suffer. I don't like that will be taken up by anyone, to distribute that to any other agency what I incurred, good or bad, I must suffer that. I won't transfer it to anybody, nor I like that the Lord will come and purify them. Why? Why He will come to purify, I shall have to suffer what I already incurred, what has come as a misdeeds of my past lives. I shall serve, satisfy Lord, I won't go to smear Him with these bad things. 'Here, You take all my sins. All the sins I give to You.'"

This is not well for a pure devotee, he does not like that. That: "Oh Lord, remove my sins." No. "All the sins that I have committed, I shall suffer, only I want Your sweet connection, I may not forget You and I can satisfy You, I can serve You, and not that You will serve me."

Nāma bhuli pāpa buddhi ?

I shall take the Name and the Name will purify me and I will go on committing sin, and take the Name, and the Name will purify my sins. That is offence. We won't ask God to take our sin, to purify our sin. I shall suffer that. But I want the connection, and gradually these limited things will disappear. Mundane things are limited, they will have to disappear. And I with pristine glory, I shall enjoy the atmosphere of the purest devotee, śuddha bhakti, is such, they want only to serve, no selfish idea, nothing of the kind, only to satisfy Him.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, there are friends of this person.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Day before yesterday near to that land, is it?

Devotee: Right on the other side of the bridge nearby.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Heinous dacoiting, one man killed on the spot, ladies are also disturbed, snatching the earrings, etc, in this way we heard.

How the administration, the collective result of our karma, none to blame, this is the direction of Bhāgavatam, none to blame. A bad workman quarrels with his stools. As I eat, according to this, following my system, stools come, no crime of stool. It is a necessary product of the food. So karma is like stools. As we do, so we earn the environment and the reaction. As we act, reaction similarly comes to us, individually and sometimes collectively. All like stools, all the results, all the environments, we earn such environments, so none to be blamed.

But everywhere the grace of the Lord is to be traced. In the iron age also, in the worst period of our life, but the Lord is there waiting, waiting to help me. Only we must look after His grace and with sincerity, all sincerity, He's everywhere waiting.

"My boy look at Me, don't make much of this environment external. Dive deep. I am very near to you. You have cast aside your focus, your consciousness cast aside, outside. Make it internal and you will find I am here. Make it above, you are looking down to secure your servants and comforts looking down, but look up, for higher existence than you, you will find Me in that plane."

Look up, don't look down for enquiry of servants. As you become a master and you are in search for servants, servants. Serving things you are hunting after, but just the opposite take, course of the opposite. Become servant and search for your Master, your Lord. Then you will be taken, uplifted, taken up, and higher soil. If you like higher soil to live in you will have to serve and you will make master-ship, then you will have to come down in the lower, where you can be a master. It is scientific thing, no exaggeration, no imagination. we are always want to serve or want to enjoy, you can enjoy only those that are of lower position, so mean association is inevitable to you. Prepare for higher service, then you will be able to come in contact with the souls, higher positioned souls.

Sacrifice, sacrifice, by sacrifice you go up and by enjoying spirit you'll have to go down. So understand what is service, what is exploitation, what is enjoyment, and what is service. Service is pure and there, there is also joy, ecstasy, that is of pure type in the service.

Just as in earning money by labour, that is good, better that, securing money by stealing and dacoiting, committing dacoiting, that is bad. Rather to labour and to earn and to live on that, it is a little better. So when we accept the creed of slavery to the highest, then that is the best, it is, berodarlankar ?

How to become a slave, to attain the best position. Mockery, to become a slave, to attain the highest position, what do you say? It is impossible. But slave to whom? Slave to whom? The Absolute Good. To have connection with Him.

And to, as Milton says, or someone: "It is better to reign in hell than to serve in heaven." But just the opposite: "Better to serve in heaven than to reign in hell." That is our thing, to serve in heaven, heaven, higher heaven, to serve automatically. If to have a higher connection, we must approach Him as a small person. And we can boast: "I am a lord," and that must, cannot but be a lower area. It is easy to understand.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, what's the difference between being told by a pure Vaiṣṇava to "chant Hare Kṛṣṇa" and receiving Harināma from the pure Vaiṣṇava?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is written in Rupa Goswami, how we shall:

kr̥ṣṇeti yasya giri taṁ manasādriyeta dīkṣāsti cet praṇatibhiś ca bhajantam īśam śuśrūṣayā bhajana-vijñam ananyam anya- nindādiśūnya-hṛdam īpsita-saṅga-labdhyā

"One should mentally honour the devotee who chants the Holy Name of Lord Kṛṣṇa, one should offer humble obeisances to the devotee who has undergone spiritual initiation (dīkṣā) and is engaged in worshipping the Deity, and one should associate with and faithfully serve that pure devotee who is advanced in undeviated devotional service and whose heart is completely devoid of the propensity to criticise others."

(Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, text 5)

Wherever we shall hear in the Name of Kṛṣṇa, we shall adore him in mind. Dīkṣāsti cet, But if he's connected with a noble guru, have connection, then we shall bow down to him, praṇatibhiś ca. Bhajantam īśam śuśrūṣayā, If we have any devotee who is without break, continuous in his service, then we shall try to serve him. Continuous serving mood, if we find any devotee towards his Lord, we shall go to serve him. Śuśrūṣayā bhajana-vijñam ananyam anya, and if we can find by our rare fortune any person who is always deeply engaged in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, then we shall try in any way to get some favour from him.

Mahāprabhu says: "Wherever you hear the Name of Kṛṣṇa once, you may think that he is within our group, friend. And when you find taking the Name of the Lord always, outside he may engage himself in several different types of services, but internally taking the Name, then that is the middle Vaiṣṇava and try to serve him. And whenever by fortune you can find any devotee, coming in contact with him you will feel kṛṣṇa-nāma, tendency of kṛṣṇa-nāma within you....yaray dekeddi mukhay ?

Whenever you come across to see such type of devotee, that you will feel within yourself to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa, he's the highest type of devotee, in nāma-bhajana.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, I think you mentioned there are some things can be done to remove some of the reaction for this boy taking his life. Within the next year, something can be done. This boy took his life so he has to face the reaction for that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We can lose, or to satisfy Kṛṣṇa and His devotees, praying for him, we can do, we can pray, we can offer something for the satisfaction of the Deity. Whether we have done anything wrong in us, for which that person was pressed to commit such things. Whether I am a party, or I have got little contribution for such drastic event. We shall try to pray to the Lord, "Please be gracious to that child who came to this holy association but his fate dragged him away from such holy life, from the possibility of such holy association for whole life. Let his soul may be helped." We may do our duty in this way. Goodwill for him. Prayer to the Lord.

And we also, that we must be careful that such things may awake in anyone of us, so we must not be proud, we'll learn to be humble and patient and forbearing and conscious of past deeds, it may not carry us to any other place. So we shall try to satisfy the Vaiṣṇava and Kṛṣṇa and try to learn modesty, humility, that such rush of self-dissatisfaction may not arise. Some disappointment led him to commit such wrong things, disappointment. So good association, that with every, under any circumstances, we may be faithful to the Lord, to the creed, to live, to guru, to Vaiṣṇava. Such spacious, generous, conception of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, all accommodating characteristic of Kṛṣṇa consciousness we must try to understand, follow, come what may.

sadā hariḥ

"One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa." (Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3)

Taror api sahiṣṇunā, I must not give any opposition to anyone, but still any trouble comes from the environment towards me, like a tree I shall have to forbear, like a tree. The branches are cut up, no water poured into the root, tree won't say anything, go on in this way. Taror api sahiṣṇunā, amāninā, because the goal is very highest, long way it may be. Different planes we are to cross and reach there. So patience is necessary, forbearance necessary. As valuable the achievement, the requirement should also be of that type, that magnitude.

It is not a sweet-ball, Kṛṣṇa consciousness is not a sweet-ball, that I shall put into the mouth, send it to the stomach. We must be serious in our thought, what we have come for. If we can consider that is the highest destination, then we should be ready to pay for that, pay for that. Why should we be so much impatient if anything else comes to hinder me, to oppose me, I shall very mildly and with humility I shall take to disperse all these difficulties on the way, on the way. 'I shall want to get rose, but without thorn.' Oh, it should give warning to us, we must be careful. Kṛṣṇa is showing such instances before me, to teach me, that I may not be impatient. Patiently, carefully, consciously, and with the association of the higher persons only can we march on, so try to make progress.

Kṣurasya dhārā niśitā duratyayā, Upaniṣad says: "Just like a blade of a razor, the razors fine edge, kṣurasya dhārā niśitā duratyayā, that is very difficult to pass over that." It is like that Upaniṣad says. Very sharp, very sharp, and we are to pass over. So many subtle things are there, we must be very careful, if we be a little careless then it will cut and blood will ooze.

uttiṣṭhataḥ jāgrataḥ prapya varāṇ nibodhataḥ kṣurasya dhārā niśitā duratyayā durgam pathas tat kavayo vadanti

"Awake, arise: Having obtained the human form of life, you must not sleep in the darkness of ignorance. Awaken knowledge of your real self by associating with great souls and obtaining their mercy. This material creation is as sharp as a razor's edge, for it is the cause of many miseries. It is impossible to cross over without transcendental knowledge. Therefore one must take shelter of the great learned transcendentalists who forever sing the praises of that Supreme Person who is the destroyer of birth and death." (Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.3.14)

So be all conscious, all alert, all alert in our way. If we go that side offence will come to the Vaiṣṇava, to Dhāma, to Deity, all these things, all careful as if I'm passing over the blade of the razor. With so much care, that only inclination this side, that side will punish me, destroy my object. Be all alert, very, very, careful, very subtle, very soft thing. Tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā. No room of any complain from outside, we shall create, our behaviour will be such. Only when we shall find that any assault towards Guru, Vaiṣṇava, we may loose balance, even we shall offer just to, so that they may not be insulted, our patience may be, that will satisfy the Lord.

"Just to save the prestige of My servant, he's sacrificing himself. He'll be rewarded, highly."

And for his own case, there should not be any complain, in this such way he'll try to move. For his personal account he won't spare a pais (a former Indian coin worth one sixty-fourth of a rupee), spare a pence, but for the service of the Lord he will give anything and everything, any amount, for the Guru, Vaiṣṇava, for Their satisfaction any amount.

End of recording.

83.9.9-13

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: comparatively given better than Janmāṣṭamī, it comes like that. If you understand this, the background should also be taken into account.

And I heard in Rādhā-kuṇḍa one day, I have told, repeated it to you. There is a state in Bharat Pur, the general manager of the state he came with his family and making circumambulation at Rādhā-kuṇḍa and Śyāma-kuṇḍa. Then, one of the early disciples of Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura), Paramānanda Prabhu, he reported that incident, that: "Prabhu, they also revere Rādhārāṇī. That Dewan, the Prime Minister, the manager, with his family he's circumambulating Rādhā-kuṇḍa and by the measurement of his own body while lying down, and then one mark, again from there lying down. In this way the whole Rādhā-kuṇḍa circumambulation." He told: "They also revere Rādhārāṇī very much."

Then our Guru Mahārāja he told, came out from his heart: "Yes, revolutionary thing. They like Kṛṣṇa, they revere Kṛṣṇa, and because Rādhārāṇī is favourite to Him, so they also revere Rādhārāṇī. But our understanding is something else. Our main necessity is that we revere mainly Rādhārāṇī, and because Rādhārāṇī, She wants, She loves Kṛṣṇa, so we want Kṛṣṇa, secondary."

See how things are there, revolutionary. Our primary necessity, inevitable necessity is with Rādhārāṇī. We are a part of potency and the whole potency represented in its most original and highest form is Rādhārāṇī. The source, we are part of the negative side, and the whole negative potency represented by Her. Predominated Moeity, Predominating Moeity and Predominated Moeity. The Predominated Half She represents, dedicating half is represented by Her and we are a part of that. Our direct concern is with Her and with Her business mainly with the other Half. And through Her our necessity is going there, connecting there. So we are śakta, śuddha-śakta, not vidha (?) śakta. We are worshippers of potency, not of the substance, not potencies

..... but not vidha (?) śakta, not in the enjoying aspect of this world, but in the serving aspect, not in the world of exploitation but in the place of dedication. That is the difference. But we are more believers in the nearest guide, nearest master, and She is Rādhārāṇī.

"So the day of Her appearance is the best day in our counting in the year." That came from our Guru Mahārāja, from the heart, from his inner heart this whole thing. "The best day." With pride he announced: "It is the best day." I felt.

And Her first hand attendant is Lalitā. Today is the appearance of Lalitā Devī who espouses the cause of Rādhārāṇī very forcefully, not a second one. Sometimes so much that Rādhārāṇī Herself She feels some disturbance. "Why she is making too much of Me in the market?" She says, rather: "Causing disturbance in the heart of My beloved Kṛṣṇa, she should not so much create." But Lalitā Devī is blindly following that policy that Rādhārāṇī's prestige should be kept, dignity should be kept, above all. That is her temperament, she does not stray beyond that, only always finding to inform. So here also Rādhārāṇī's best interest reflected in Lalitā Devī. And why, how, how to endure the unique, what is the unique of this style of love? Rūpa Goswāmī has given a hint.

rādhā-mukunda-pada-sambhava-gharmmabindu- nirmmañcanopakaraṇe
kṛta-deha-lakṣyām

(Rūpa Goswāmī says when Lalitā Devī finds a drop of perspiration at the feet of Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Govinda, she furiously engages herself to remove it. "How has it come there? We are circumambulating Them to see that not the least pain can enter this domain to trouble Them. But how without our notice has this perspiration appeared? Perspiration, perspiration!" So she is furiously chastising herself, and wants to immediately take birth one lakh (100,000) times - with that force she comes to remove that drop of perspiration from the lotus feet of either of the Divine Couple. If the least difficulty is seen in the serving area, the Lord's Associates can't tolerate it in any way, and such eagerness, self- abuse and earnestness is found in them.) (Lalitāṣṭakam, 1)

The unique of the measurement of the dedication in Vṛndāvana has been ascertained in this way. In one second how many times she can accept death? Die to live, die to live. In that line the unique is being introduced. In one second for the cause, how many times one can offer himself to death? How many deaths in a second one is ready to welcome? That is the unique.

Mahāprabhu also told Sanātana Goswāmī, sanātana, deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa yadi pāiye koṭi-deha kṣaṇeke tabe chāḍite pāiye, deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa nā paī, pāiye bhajane kṛṣṇa-prāptyera upāya kona nāhi 'bhakti' vine

("My dear Sanātana," He said: "If I could attain Kṛṣṇa by committing suicide, I would certainly give up millions of bodies without a moments hesitation."

"You should know that one cannot attain Kṛṣṇa simply by giving up the body. Kṛṣṇa is attainable by devotional service. There is no other means to attain Him.")

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.55-56)

"I one moment I am ready to die crores of times." Die to live. "Crores time death I want to welcome if I get Kṛṣṇa by that." Still, aims to become plundered, still only with this we can have any idea of measurement. Die to live. "How many kinds of death can be invited for a particular cause of my beloved?" So:

If Lalitā Devī finds a drop of sweat, either on the feet of Kṛṣṇa or Rādhārāṇī, she wants to have, to remove that she's ready to die one lākh of times, or she wants to have, to accept one lākh of bodies. Such eagerness to remove the drop of sweat on the feet of any one of Them, her heart cannot tolerate that a little trouble in her worshippingable revered. Why? To have one lākh of bodies to remove that, so sacrifice of one lākh of bodies. With such type of conception one lākh of bodies will come at once, all will be eager to remove that, kṛta-deha-lakṣyām, one lākh of births may remove that, may be satisfaction by that.

But she's seen sometimes to talk a little more in favour of Rādhārāṇī. Sometimes she's seen that she's a little talkative, her necessity to talk. But that is only to keep up the interest of the party and not that that's a disease to her. Ha, ha.

"Let me bow down and try to purchase at the feet of Lalitā Devī. Grace will come only by her own qualification has been free feet and similar, let me purchase of her feet. To get a drop of grace of her qualities.

yam karma bhij braja bhina anu braja vrisabhanu jaya (?)

There are parties, or groups, who enhance the principle of service. The crucifying is there, competition. By competition, the conclusion is a process by which we can increase our intensity of activity. Without that monotonous temperament they cannot increase the capacity to the highest necessity, competition is necessary. Then we can get energy from the opposite side and easily the production may be more and more. That is a constant competition. Easily you can collect energy.

Kīrtaṇa is also of that type. The circumstance will help you, circumstance must come to help me to collect my whole energy. So kīrtaṇa, if we come to kīrtaṇa we must at our best position, cannot but be. And there will be opposition and we have to answer, so we cannot but be of our best attention about the matter, kīrtaṇa. Here also the competition, easily, without your notice, will easily help you to come to your best attention, conclusion. So we pray the serving nature, competition is necessary, so some is given.

Lalitā Devī is seen always to enhance Rādhārāṇī's party. And wherever she's wandering and whomever she's finding she's canvassing: "Oh, come, join our camp, our camp." And if one says: "Yes, I'm ready to join your camp. That is, I consider it my fortune if you please us." She says: "Oh, yes, I am giving you permission, admission to the group." Admitting us further, at once. This is her duty.

jnana karma siddhedaḷu vṛisabhanu jaya (?)

She's always in the nature of recruiting, recruiting for Her some. So whoever is coming forth then at once admission there.

And all facilities given at once, yes, everything that is necessary for the service for the beginners, everything is at once supplied. That is the nature of Lalitā Devī.

If this day anyhow comes to us will help our memory about her and that is of a very valuable type of service. Her grace we may hang over our head. With her temperament, her attitude, it will be service, valuable, may be our (surface money?) that our journey towards Goloka and join Rādhārāṇī's camp. Whenever possible in our lives after lives journey.

Die to live, die to live. Death is inevitable but death may be utilised and utilised for the highest cause. Everyone thinks that death demolishes everything but death may be utilised. All deaths are not equal. A dacoit is also facing death, a brave soldier also faces death. A dacoit, a murderer is meeting death, and one man to save a man from murder, he also may meet death, opposition. So by death also we can get something, acquire something, we can earn something by death. So, so many deaths may come but that will help us to lead from, to try lead a life of dignity, a life of highest dignity.

We are mortal, a member of the mortal world as we are as in the scientific body, but merge out of the body is not everything. But to reach where? To reach home, proper home. In a house, many may enter and many may go out, a servant also enters the house and Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: advice from posture, gesture, movement, posing to the outside. Our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) used to give that example, that how much strength is there? Anyone can break it with little strength. So all the opposition to Kṛṣṇa consciousness is only caused from so much as in the leg of a cockerel. It is very, very small, and only showing that thing, but very small.

..... Kṛṣṇa consciousness is all inundating. When it comes, only a little cooperation tendency in general, in whatever position, it can inundate, tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ:

(kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa-bhāvitā matiḥ, kriyatām yadi kuto 'pi labhyate tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate)

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.70)

Only a little inclination, a slight inclination, that is the value, price, the price is only little inclination, laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, and that is enough. And, janma-koṭi- sukṛtair na labhyate, by crores (one crore is ten million) of births that cannot be acquired in the general way. Does not care for any.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam (too unclear to transcribe)

.... very enthusiastic from that book

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: the best reward I have got from Paramānanda Prabhu who came when he was thirteen years old to Prabhupāda (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura), and lived all along with him. He told that: "Instead of Bhagavad-gītā I read your Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, one chapter every day." He told me. Then at that I said: "My mission has been successful." Who was so closely connected with Guru Mahārāja, when Guru Mahārāja is not (here ?) but one who was closely connected, he's satisfied.

Even Bana Mahārāja told: "That is very dignified. What we are writing, that has got flesh value, in English and Bengali. But in Sanskrit, Mahārāja has composed in such a way and such valuable things he's presented, very valuable he has given to us."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Our Satsvarūpānanda (?), here he has discovered one śloka there.

antaḥ kavi-yaśas-kāmaṁ, sādhutāvaraṇaṁ bahiḥ śudhyantu sādhavaḥ sarvve, duścikitsyam imaṁ janam

("O saintly devotees, please purify this wrongdoer who on the pretext of saintliness desires in his heart the prestige of a poet, and who is thus afflicted with the practically incurable disease of insincerity.") (Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, 1.9)

"His aim was creation for the prestige of the good name and fame of a good poet, and outwardly the coating is of a saint. So very hard to make treatment for a patient of such bad type. But you, you says the Lord, you have the most generous (existence?). Please make treatment for this hopeless patient." Hare Kṛṣṇa. "You can do anything and everything, very hard to make treatment for such most poisonous disease."

But his remark is in a ridiculous way, Satsvarūpānanda's remark, ha, ha, it is ridiculous, that here he's caught, ha, ha, which we read, here he's caught, vedāśraya nāstikya-vāda bauddhake adhika:

(veda nā māniyā bauddha haya' ta nāstika vedāśraya nāstikya-vāda bauddhake adhika)

("The Buddhists do not recognise the authority of the Vedas; therefore they are considered agnostics. However, those who have taken shelter of the Vedic scriptures yet preach agnosticism in accordance with the Māyāvāda philosophy are certainly more dangerous than the Buddhists.") (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 6.168)

Buddhists is ordinary and he's an atheist, he prefers that position as an atheist. But Śaṅkarācārya accepted the garb of a theist, that is most heinous thing.

"So here, Śrīdhara Mahārāja, in the garb of realisation, ha, ha, ha, ha, he's showing a subtilemost egoism."

Devotee: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "He's taking shelter in this statement of a sādhu."

Devotee: They're all victims, victims of his company.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Victims?

Devotees: Yes. They're happy to be a victim.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. antakya vidya tas karmam (?)

Kalidāsa says:

I have ambition to get the name of a poet.

But unknowingly, unconsciously, I am ready to be a laughing stock, they'll always laugh at me.

When there is a fruit that only the kind person can take it, touch it. And I am jumping to catch the fruit which only a kind man can have.

But it is only going to the ridiculous position.

Broth (?) is laughing to get the fruit which is long, a man can get it, laughing, little, jumping, and is always jumping to have. My position is fixed." Kalidāsa told.

Rūpa Goswāmī also told that: "I am going to write this Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu. A mean and untouchable fellow like me is going to deal with the high things of the Lord Supreme, so purest of the pure. I am meanest of the mean. How can I venture to deal with such pure things?" Then he has answered, has given his own explanation. "If an ordinary lower caste people gets some fire, the brāhmaṇas will utilise that fire for yajña purpose. They may take light from that fire, fuel, or ordinary person may collect some fuel. That may be utilised for the sacrifice purpose of the Supreme. So my position is like that, I'm trying to get some fuel."

Or, in his previous days there was no matchbox or any like that, so that fire was continued in a place by giving continuous fuel there. And if any fire was necessary in any place they sent some fuel and lit up from there and take it and began yajña.

"The ādivāsī (indigenous peoples), those who eats animals and anti and pure dirty life, they live dirty life, from there also the fire may be taken for the sacrifice of the Lord. So my position is like that. I'm collecting some fuel, or fire, that may be utilised by the saints for their cause."

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi. Nitāi.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: that two kuṇḍa, we are to look as representation of two halves, two moieties, Predominated Moiety and Predominating Moiety. And though the barrier within but there is a (summary?) underground. And that flow, that centre, They're One Unity, Oneness, apparently Two but Oneness. And when One, representing Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva, Both combined. When we are in the conception of Both the Moieties together then That becomes Śrī Caitanya.

dvau gaurāṅga tato (?)

And sometimes in Vṛndāvana divided into two but They have connecting link. In this way. And that should be revered as the liquified Rādhārāṇī, in the form of liquid. Such respect should be given to that kuṇḍa. So because people have no sufficient regard of service, so our Guru Mahārāja asked not to take bath within the pond but only a few drops to put on the head, Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura told. But in general it has been asked if anyone takes bath there then he can improve his devotional quality very much, but that must be treated with proper care and regard and devotion, otherwise the offence will be committed, will commit offence. Came crying, so to save us our Guru Mahārāja told: "Don't dive and try to take advantage of a bath, no. A drop or two you put on your head."

pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge (mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range)

("The path of divine love is worshipping to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration.")

Regard, that is the loving regard is very precious, it is not available anywhere and everywhere, not so cheap. It is the highest thing, highest (point?) of our soul which can attract Kṛṣṇa towards you. So it is of the very, very highest value, this love for Kṛṣṇa is not so cheap that you'll think: "I have got that. I can take bath regardfully and then I'll get much devotion." Don't venture. First try to understand what is this raga and when you get raga then you can know there, you can play, swim and play, but you must have that attitude cent per cent about the divinity of Rādhā-Govinda. Otherwise if you think it mundane, because the people, the sahajiyā Vaiṣṇavas, imitationists, they think they're already practising that they're in a position to swim and play but that is destroying the real quality of the creed and they're pests of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava society, those sahajiyās, imitationists. It is not so cheap.

So outer practises of those higher things has been discouraged by our Guru Mahārāja in the strongest terms. And he said here, Hiranyagarba entered that camp, Hiranyagarba, Nadia-nanda, they have entered that camp to get very easily, very quickly. What is the highest attainment of the whole theological world, and they think very easily they will get that. Misguided souls, against their guru (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja as well as against similar opposition of our Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura. They have given warning against such adulteration within the devotion of love, higher devotion as loved, who has got, not so cheaply.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

The play of the highest quarter of love divine with Kṛṣṇa, the supreme most connection conception of Godhead of purity and beauty, purity and beauty. Self- abnegation to the extreme dealings can take us to that plane, self-abnegation, self- surrendering to the extreme degree can take us to that plane where we can come nearby Reality the Beautiful.

Above the plane of knowledge, justice, we are to cross the ocean of knowledge, justice, calculation.

What do you say?

Devotee: Sometimes different devotees ask me to do different things. What should I do?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: According to him who holds the superior position, you will try to obey him, and you may consult also with others. "He's ordering me to do this, and you order me to do this. A.B.C, what should I do? Should I do what A has said or what you are telling?" You may frankly ask: "One gentleman, one Vaiṣṇava has asked me to do this and what you say that is a little different. Then what should I do?" This is a compromise. And the final decision will be with him you think to be the superior among them, as much help your inner guide will say that he is superior. Then you may refer to the inferior Vaiṣṇava: "That he has said this so I think I should do that, and you withdraw your order to me."

na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid: if you are sincere in your attempt then you'll be victorious, must be sincere in your marking.

(pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati)

("O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40)

We are our own enemy, worst enemy

End of side A, 9.9.83 + 13.9.83. side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ego, so if you want to become good, Kṛṣṇa has made arrangements for that, not to be afraid, not to be discouraged. So with our sincerity what we shall understand that: "This gentleman is of superior devotion so I should obey his order." In this way. And you may consult with others also: "He has said this, you said this. What am I to do? If you all consult and say one thing and I will do. I hope inferior position and don't understand what to do. You say do this, he says do this."

In the assembly of Parīkṣit Mahārāja, when Parīkṣit Mahārāja asked the question: "Only seven days left for my longevity, I shall have to die on the end of the seventh day. So what will be the best utility of my time? You are so many authorities here, please order me what I am to do. Only seven days left in my longevity."

Then one told something and another told another thing, third said a third thing. Then with folded palms he asked them. "I am one, you are so many, you are all revered persons. Please consult among you and say one thing what I should do, come to one conclusion what I should do, you consult within you and inform me what I am to do."

That very moment Śukadeva Goswāmī by divine arrangement he entered the retinue, and all stood in respect of him and unanimously everyone told: "That great saint has come by your fortune, attracted by your fortune. So we all want to hear from Him, we are very eager. We can't receive here and there, his darśana is not very easy for any one of us. Fortunately he has come and we are very eager to hear what he says, and you please put questions to him and we'll all hear."

And then Śukadeva was given the chair of the president in the assembly and Parīkṣit Mahārāja asked questions and Śukadeva giving answers and all with rapt attention attended the ceremony.

So we are to enquire: "What should I do? You two, three, four, five, different advises you are giving but please consult together and say one thing anyhow." In this way as far as possible your movement will be like this.

When there is any doubt, when suspicious, that what he says something, he says another thing, he says another thing. "What am I to do?" In that case it is best to have a consultation.

But when after selection of a guru we are under his guidance. At that time generally we shall obey the orders of Gurudeva. But some disastrous time may come on some of us that we see something else in guru which cannot be supported by anyone in general. We are to leave him. That is a very rare and disastrous misfortune that falls on a devotee by his very, very bad karma of previous times. Otherwise, generally we try our best to find out the best Gurudeva, the best saint, and then we surrender to him. The comparison amongst the sādhus are done and when we are satisfied that he's the best of the lot then you surrender. And we shall try our best to undergo his order, to obey his order, taking that he's God-sent. Just as a son he must have gratitude for his mother, a child. A God-sent caretaker, guardian, he must do everything good for him.

But very rare case there may be that another may be our guide, that is very, very rare and unfortunate. So generally we shall follow that principle. "He's the guardian." But before selection of guru we shall try our utmost as much as possible, "Where to sell my head? I shall be a slave to him." And before the selection we shall try our best, though it is not possible to know, to finish, to understand to finish not possible. Still, as much as possible we shall try our best to satisfy our inner enquiry, that he's the best of the lot and I must surrender to his feet as a slave. What he'll say I shall take it as the direction of the Lord Himself.

As much as my enquiry is sincere the Lord's word is there and He's responding to my call and there is no error in His activity so He has sent a proper man to guide him. If I am sincere in my enquiry God's response will be similar. And He has rewarded me, he has sent an agent to take me towards Him, bona fide, my caretaker, and I shall do according to his will in this way try to satisfy him. God-sent guru. Sincerity is the guarantee of one's own decision.

Nitāi. Nitāi.

Guru is outside, guru is inside also, caitya-guru who is within, dictator from within, and outside mahāntaḥ-guru. We do not understand the direction of the caitya-guru always in our lower level so mahāntaḥ-guru is necessary. In higher stages the mahāntaḥ-guru and caitya-guru become one and the same.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes. Guru Mahārāja, how will we detect if the bhakti is becoming infiltrated by karma and jñāna in our daily life of devotional service?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Karma, those practices that have got results to enjoy, to predominate over, karma. "I want the position of a master, I want to be master of something. I want some energy, men, money, everything, and that will go on according to my direction. I will be the supreme authority to interfere, to handle them." That is karma, enjoyment, I am the enjoyer.

And the jñāna, "I do not want anything mundane, it is all reactionary. Whatever mundane property I want to acquire that will vanish, that will bind me with something mean, and I will be prey to the mortality all changing here so I shall have to mourn, to suffer all these things so I do not like this. I like complete peaceful existence and no connection with the environment, it is all enchanting, all false, all hoax. It tries to catch us with some temptation and then gives us reaction that we are to suffer more than that we enjoy."

So the jñānī, the renunciationist, the salvationist, they want to cut off all connection with the environment and a life with a position of peace as we find in deep slumber. In dreamless slumber, peace, we merge in some super consciousness and we cannot trace our own ego there. They, by their dint of practices, subtle elements, they want to continue that deep sleep as samādhi, not to come out, "Always dreamless sleep I shall enjoy." That is the salvationists, their highest end is there.

But the devotionalists But there is a third school of thought who believe that this enjoying world is not everything, there are other worlds also. So they do not like to enter into slumber life, samādhi, to stop all sorts of movements and enter deep slumber, sleep, to put a stop to one's individual activities. But they, according to their internal expectations come to a third class of authority, of saints, who say that there is another world transcendental. This world is a reflection of that world and there everyone can live happily if they can give up the mania of exploitation, or enjoyment, and take to serving attitude. Then we can enter into a higher domain of existence where everyone is a serving unit. Here everyone is an exploiting unit, everyone wants to lord it over the environment. But there everyone wants that, "You please accept me in your service. I don't want anything, you please graciously accept me for your service. I want to be for your satisfaction." That is the soil and above all they're all hankering after the service of the central unit, central principle. And that is Kṛṣṇa.

Here, out-carrying current, so many they're going out from the centre and seeking self-interest. And there, all seeking one interest, centre interest, everyone is approaching towards centre to render their service to the main principle of the whole existence. Centre-carrying current, and they are all wanting to be utilised for that. "All our energy should be spent only for the satisfaction of the central unit, central principle."

And that is Absolute Good. Everything is For Itself. All our interests are relative relation and there ultimately subservient to one common cause. So one who represents the whole reality, we must work for his satisfaction then there will be harmony and we'll be best benefited.

Just as in a big business, machinery business, a big capitalist has opened a factory and if every man sincerely contributes for the good of the whole factory interest, the factory will make, will be gainer, and they will be benefited by the owner by the salary, all these things. By cooperation of the labour the factory will thrive, and if the factory thrives the serving persons also will get best benefit. But if every person who is working in a factory seek their own selfishness, idleness, or does something wrong, the factory will be loser and everyone will have to suffer.

So in a system we all work for the common end of all, and the Lord, He represents the common interest of all. We are for Him. I am giving an example but this is not a proper example. Everything for Himself, we are for Him, and that is the highest type of unity and harmony and we must try to place ourselves in that current and we'll be best benefited. There are also different ranks, in details, many things to be said, but mainly things like that. We shall all tend to help the centre, the centre, and not our individual plurality. Service of plurality that creates discord, and service of one promotes harmony and peace.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Specific place in that harmony with the Centre, every unit has the specific place of operation

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And there are different groups and they have their different positions, there is gradation. Nearer to the higher group are more important duty than lower group, in this way there are, but all in harmony, to try for harmonious work. Different departments and even competition may be possible there, different groups they're working in competition how the production will be more for the satisfaction of the Lord will be more. In this way also.

Gaura Hari.

Devotee: For the Centre, to come love for the centre, one possesses the beauty for the whole for the harmonious working, then this one day will become love, genuine feelings, not out of duty only, out of understanding the necessity

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That depends upon the individual capacity, not a hard and fast rule that everyone will make progress equally. According to the inner capacity, environment, all these things, one may go further, another may go slow. It depends upon many things. Every action has five causes to a particular incident Gītā says.

(pañcaitāni mahā-bāho, kāraṇāni nibodha me sāṅkhye kṛtānte proktāni, siddhaye sarva-karmaṇām adhiṣṭhānaṁ tathā kartā, karaṇaṁ ca pṛthag-vidham vividhāś ca pṛthak ceṣṭā, daivaṁ caivātra pañcamam)

("O mighty hero Arjuna, in the scripture known as Sāṅkhya, or Vedānta, these five causes of the accomplishment of all actions have been described, and you may now learn of these from Me."

(With the help of these five factors, all actions are effected:) The body, ego (in the form of the knot of spirit and matter), the separate senses, the different endeavours, and destiny, or the intervention of the Supreme Universal Controller.")

(Bhagavad-gītā, 18.13-14)

If any incident is analysed, we are to find five constituent parts that produce one incident, so not one. The environment, and the person, his previous, then association, so many things combined produce something. (adhiṣṭhāna, the body; kartā, subjective agent; karaṇa, the five senses; ceṣṭā, various activities; and daiva, the Supersoul).

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.

Devotee: Lord Brahmā, does he see there house in Goloka Vṛndāvana (?), Lord Brahmā. How is it possible for Brahmā to be there he sees, except reading karma miśra bhakti (?)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everything there as līlā and that is shown here. There, all nirguṇa, that is everything is nirguṇa, that is neither karma, jñāna, nor nothing else. Here also in līlā that sort of imitation is done, shown, reflection. Not only in the case of Brahmā but there are so many others, so many aśura, how the aśura can go there, how Nanda Yaśodā as mundane temperament can go there. So it is aprākṛta, similar to this world but not so. This Vṛndāvana is imitation of that.

Just as we are told the Goloka līlā may be shown here in dolls, in pictures, the dynamic thing can be caught in a picture, static. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes Guru Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A horse is running, so that dynamic running horse is shown in a picture in a static position. How is it possible? Take the opposite there. In static you can represent the dynamic. So there also in a static way in the dynamic world this static way may be represented.

Devotee: It is very clear. Sometimes Brahmā in this universe he's not a pure devotee, so is that a different Brahmā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not only a question of Brahmā but many such mundane representations here and that is in abstract there. There also sweeper, all the positions are there in full bloom, in Goloka līlā, Goloka means a solid circle. Everything is represented there and that is in the complete stage of harmony. When harmonised, everything has got its highest contribution in that. All pure but still gradation, the gradation, but all pure of particular type there. But the nastiness of this thing, the meanness, is absent. This raja-guṇa Brahmā here, tamo-guṇa she, and other meanness, nastiness, disqualification, is absent, in imitation, a drama.

I heard from Prabhupāda (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura) once in the beginning of my life here that when Srinha prasena avadhuta, the lion, is killing Prasena in Dvārakā, and the lion is again killed by Jambhuvan to take the gem from him. But Prabhupāda uttered that both the parties are satisfied, one whose killed he's also satisfied, one whose killing he's also satisfied. Can you think? In a drama when one is killed another is one murderer another murdered, but both the parties are satisfied according to the capacity of play. One whose murdered will be more satisfied than the murderer if his play becomes nice. Am I clear? No?

Devotee: Yes Guru Mahārāja, very clear

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very clear?

Devotee: Very clear!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, who seems to be loser of lower portion, he also may be satisfied. One sweeper, if he can play his part in a drama very well then he attracts the admiration of the audience, though he's working in the duty as a sweeper, his nature of play is satisfactory. Then the audience will say: "Oh, he has satisfied us all, the sweeper's play." So all play of different types there and here it is acquired position according to that. And in the harmony, who plays harmony, whoever he be he has got his place, position, but still got their own perfection in every point of līlā. Something like that.

..... cent per cent abnegation, and here that ego, separate interest has created misery, gradation, reaction, misery. Separate interest, local interest, local interest is absent in the absolute consideration, it is not real, it is misconception. Līlā is absolute there in Goloka but here misconception, separate interest. We are to show that thing here. There the drama shown in a stage and that play in the village, play in a stage that seems to be perfect, and when that play is shown in a village it may not be so relishable. In Goloka it is all perfect, all nirguṇa, and here that part is played here somewhat difficulty we may find. And that is also to the onlooker, to the audience, the difference with the audience, but one can see clearly if he comes to the vision of Goloka all right.

Same thing in different stages of consciousness it will seem different to the viewer's capacity, merit. Everything, anything, according to the intelligence of a person will catch the real purpose.

..... cannot have the full representation, same thing, for the difference for the onlooker. Here, difference in the self-interest, local-interest, gradation of self-interest, they see in variegated nature. So we are to eliminate that selfish characteristic of our vision that does not allow us to have an independent vision of the environment. It is prejudice, our prejudice covers our proper understanding. According to our prejudice we go to read the environment, everything.

Bhrama, pramāda, karaṇāpāṭava, vipralipsā - (mistakes, illusions, sensory inefficiency, and cheating - the defects of the material body). The four kinds of defects within us cannot allow us to grasp the real purpose of the environment, of the sight. The whole difference is within with the onlooker, the seer. The barriers, so many covers, it is within, the covers removed we shall see everything Goloka, we are also there, everyone is there.

The difference is in the stages of the onlooker who has got different types of prejudice according to that. The thing is one ultimately, one whole. This is māyā, māyā means to read anything by measurement of a defective standard, measuring things by the local or different standard. Mā, yā, "what is not," we have experience of that, māyā, it is not so, it has got its universal meaning but we throw on it some local meaning and read according to that. According to the standpoint of local interest, a smaller and little bigger, little bigger, but all limited interest we see things and the difference is there.

Bhūḥ, Bhuvāḥ, Svar, Mahāḥ, Jana, Tapāḥ, Satya, (the higher planetary systems that are not in the physical plane but in the mental plane), Virajā, Brahmāloka, Vaikuṇṭha, all. Same thing appears of different types according to the mentality, prejudice, of the seers of the sight. Perfect sight can see only Kṛṣṇa's play, the play of the beautiful, everything. Unprejudiced, unbridled, only different types of prejudice is the cause to show the same thing as different. Māyā means:

ṛte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani tad vidyād ātmano māyām, yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ

("O Brahmā, whatever appears to be of any value, if it is without relation to Me, has no reality. Know it as My illusory energy, that reflection which appears to be in darkness.")

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.34)

(one of the Bhāgavatam's four principal verses known as catuḥ-ślokī, i.e. 2.9.33-36)

The definition of māyā, ṛte 'rtham yat pratīyeta, what is the real purpose, real thing, reality, without that what apparent reading of a particular thing, not proper reading but improper reading of a thing, 'rtham ṛte, 'rtham means meaning, the real meaning is there and that is all serving to the centre. But one who does not see that but has some other experience, ṛte 'rtham yat pratīyeta, he sees, he feels, his understanding it is not so. The proper current is there but he can't read the proper current. What he feels otherwise, lives otherwise, that is māyā, that what is not for the central interest. Everything guided and enjoyed by the centre. Without that what sort of conviction or reading, that is māyā. Rte 'rtham yat pratīyeta, our belief that this is like this and not the original, the absolute. Without absolute whatever relative reading will be about the Absolute that is māyā.

Rte 'rtham yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani, and when fully identified with the interest of the Absolute then we cannot see that. Only when prejudiced we read that. And when fully identified with the Absolute we can't see that. That is māyā. Rte means without, and 'rtham means real purpose, the real absolute purpose everything has got, without that what conception we get from the environment, that is māyā, what is not absolute, otherwise than the absolute. Yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani, fully identified with the absolute current, we can't see that, that is māyā. Tad vidyād ātmano māyām, yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ, just light and darkness, just similar.

And artheṣu abhijñāḥ svarāṭ, in the first poem of Bhāgavatam, (1.1.1), the real meaning only known to Him, artheṣu abhijñāḥ svarāṭ, the meaning of every incident is only known to Him, and over that He's svarāṭ, He's not bound to follow one line, He's autocrat. Every second He may take a new step. So see the position. We are lost. He knows only the meaning of every incident known to Him, and who is He? He's svarāṭ, He's autocrat, He may change His purpose, His moods, and everything. The truth is such and we are to accommodate us with it. But we have no other alternative. Absolute beauty, absolute charm, our heart's inner connection with that wave, to dance in that wave.

We are to convince them of different planes of life. And the life of service is life divine and divinity is there, and the Absolute is there. Everything is for Itself. All these things we are to, if they're convinced then they gain, in which way we can obtain that sort of divine life. What is mundane, what is divine, we are to differentiate between them and canvass them to accept the life divine.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: we are very, very far off in the lower position. But such prospect we have got that as family man we can live with Him and serve Him. What more we want? This appealed to the core of my heart and I came out. I want such God. I want to live with Him as family man, with God. So Kṛṣṇa consciousness of Godhead can accommodate our family life with Him. What more may we want? I have come to serve that, mayātmā-bhūyāya ca kalpate:

(martyo yadā tyakta-samasta-karmā, niveditātmā vicikīrṣito me tadāmṛtatvaṁ pratipadyamāno, mayātmā-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai)

("One who is subjected to birth and death attains immortality when he gives up all material activities, dedicates his life to the execution of My order, and acts according to My directions. In this way, he becomes fit to enjoy the spiritual bliss derived from exchanging loving mellows with Me.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.29.34)

"As if they're My own, as if they're My own soul, ātma-bhūyāya." "Viśate tad-anantaram, enters into Me."

("By the potency of that supreme devotion, he is able to completely know My nature of Almighty Lordship and majesty. Thereafter, acquiring the perception of his divine relationship with Me, he enters into a group of My intimate personal associates, whose nature is nondifferent from Mine.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.55)

Enters into that conception of Godhead, that means His family, family life with Him. How good is it? All sorts of our enquiries and inner aspiration may be satisfied with Him. Akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ, all different types of aspiration within us can find fulfilment in Him, the whole self, exhaustively, nowhere else. Only in Him, akhila- rasāmṛta-murtiḥ, in Kṛṣṇa. All, gross or subtle, however subtle it may be, so many earnest aspirations within us, and everything may have fullest satisfaction only in His connection, and He is Kṛṣṇa. Who is Kṛṣṇa? Who can attract all naths within us and give satisfaction to that, the whole nervous system in its fullest extent can attract it and give them satisfaction. He's Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: in this age he was the pioneer of śuddha-bhakti, pure devotion, pure devotion, uncontaminated, unmixed with jñāna, yoga, karma, etc, what is pure devotion based on complete surrender, complete surrender, by surrender we gain.

And Gauḍīya Maṭh is preaching slavery. There was a rumour long past, the Ramakrishna Mission and others said: "Oh, Gauḍīya Maṭh is preaching slavery, kṛṣṇa- dāsa. We are so 'ham, we are the biggest, so 'ham, brahmāsmi, I am the greatest. Instead of that they say you are slave to that Kṛṣṇa, they're preaching slavery."

Our Guru Mahārāja (Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) told that: "Gauḍīya Maṭh stands for the dignity of the human race, for all animation." The most dignified position, slavery, surrender. Surrender to what? To the Absolute Good, Absolute Centre. Surrendered life, selfless, wholesale selfless surrendered life to the whole, how pure? Ha, ha.

And that: "I am the brahmā," that impossible thinking, ha, ha, that is the greatest disease, that: "I am the biggest. I want to be monarch of all I survey. I am the most heinous exploiting agent. I am brahmā."

Gauḍīya Maṭh preaches complete self-abnegation, self-surrender, to the prime cause, the Absolute Centre. That is divine, to give is divine. And the aspiration that "I shall get," that is devilism. "I want to lord it over everything" that is devil spirit.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

You have appreciated Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's Life and Precepts very much?

Devotee: Very much.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In short, how it is represented, the Life and Precepts of Śrī Caitanyadeva.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: A few years ago I was very much attracted to Bhaktisiddhānta Sarawatī Ṭhākura's writing. Then more recently Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's writing has become very relishable Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: More attractive to you?

Devotee: Very relishable, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very simple.

Devotee: Very simple and very organised.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Ācāryas that come, sometimes they make it clear and sometimes they make it complex, purposely.

Devotee: Bhaktisiddhānta Saravatī Ṭhākura was Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Has made it complex.

Devotee: Very complex, very developed.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very ontological aspect, he has dealt much. But in the simple way Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has distributed. It is necessary, analytic, synthetic, because in a simple way there is the possibility of becoming sahajiyā. We can take it like this mundane thing but this is all aprākṛta, the other side of the globe, it is such.

krṣṇera yateka khelā sarvottama nara-līlā nara-vapu tāhāra svarūpa gope-veśa, veṇu-kara nava kiśora, nata-vara nara līlāra haya anurūpa

("Lord Kṛṣṇa has many pastimes, of which His pastimes as a human being are the best. His form as a human being is the Supreme Transcendental Form. In this form, He is a cowherd boy. He carries a flute in His hand, and His youth is new. He is also an expert dancer. All this is just suitable for His pastimes as a human being.")

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 21.101)

Very similar, but not the same, far, far off, but similar.

kāma-preme dekho bhāi, lakṣanete bheda nāi tabhu kāma `prema' nāhi haya

("My brother, lust and love appear as one and the same; yet, lust is never love.") (Kalyāṇa-Kalpataru, U, 18)

Roughly calculating there is no difference between lust and love, but still, you carefully note that lust is not love. One is connected with this lower feeling, this flesh and blood, and another, the highest reach of the souls.

Devotee: The sentiment is similar but Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Similar but opposite.

Aprākṛta, aprākṛta bat, very similar to mundane but not mundane. That is the highest position. So Candi dāsa says:

sava rupare manu su satya taro pare nahi (?)

Of all existence this human form is the highest, even above God conception. In the ideal human conception is above all, even above God conception. Here we are to understand.

.....

Śukadeva Goswāmī who is supposed to be always constant in the position, along with Brahman. No mundane reference in his consciousness, wholesale conscious character. No charm for any mundane attraction, always he's in the plane.

Śukadeva's personality was necessary to inaugurate Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. Because everyone knew that he had not the least attachment for this mundane. And what is very similar to mundane, that is to be given to the world as the highest conception of Godhead. So that man, who had not the least attraction, and he did not come down to this level of mundane enjoying movement, always continuous flow of spiritual connection. He did not care to wear a cloth even. No attraction, careless wholesale. He was selected to give out to the scholastic section that the highest type of the līlā of Godhead is like mundane.

Giving some hearing, Parīkṣit Mahārāja says: "How do you say that Kṛṣṇa, that Parabrahman, that highest conception of Absolute is crawling in the compound of Nanda and sucking the breast of Yaśodā? The yogīs and jñānis, they're trying their utmost for lives together, life after life dedicating to find that thing over and above their own soul, trying so hard. Sometimes they meet for a second and then again separated. And that thing is crawling you say, that Paramātmā, above that Godhead Kṛṣṇa. How is that possible? Then what type of sādhana, what type of means they have adopted to attain that end?"

nandaḥ kim akarod brahman, śreya evaṁ mahodayam yaśodā ca mahā-bhāgā, papau yasyāḥ stanam hariḥ (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.8.46)

"It is impossible! Then all other endeavours are useless! This is karma, jñāna, dhyāna, etc, so many means to get that Absolute Truth, they are useless! By them we are told that for a second or so, they're connecting saying something I have experienced, however little it may be, some wonderful things I experienced for a second. Such is the history of the holy men we are acquainted with. And you say that very thing is crawling on the compound of Nanda and He's sucking the breast of Yaśodā? And Yaśodā running to whip Him, and He's crying: "I won't do My mother for any longer this offence. Please spare Me this time."

(Mother Yaśodā was breast feeding her small child, Kṛṣṇa, when the pot of milk on the stove boiled over. Setting Kṛṣṇa aside, she ran to catch the milk pot. Being neglected, Kṛṣṇa decided to break the pot of churned butter and ran away to feed the monkeys. Mother Yaśodā was quick to follow Him when she discovered the broken churning pot. She found Him not far off sitting atop an over-turned wooden grinding mortar feeding the monkeys the stolen butter. Kṛṣṇa, however, quickly saw her coming at Him with a stick in her hand, and immediately He got down from the grinding mortar and began to flee in fear, and He is crying: "I won't do it again Mother any longer - not this offence. Please spare Me this time.")

Is it possible? A farce? Who'll come, a sane man will come to understand, to accept that as divinity? What do you say? If it is possible then how wonderful sādhana is there, I want to know that by which the Godhead can be controlled in such a way. Is it possible? How wonderful that is. It is impossible. To make the impossible possible, if there is any means I want to know that. Why, how is that?"

Ha, ha, ha. The life of self-surrender. Not keeping up one's own ego to connect with some higher thing and try to utilise that for his own purpose? No! Complete surrender. Die to live. How to die and what is death, that is to be considered. What is surrender? What is that death? Then die to live by which we can live properly by that surrendering. That is the basis, wholesale, wholesale, the degree of surrender, the degree of surrender, that is the basis to get all these things. Give and you'll get, give and get, ha, ha. You are to give as a proper gift not only ordinary useless things but the most wholesale. You are to give yourself wholesale. Or as in Hegel's very good words: "Die to live."

Ātma nivedana dainya ghucāo jañjāl. Jañjāl, difficulties are coming, but, the only way to do away with them is to give yourself more and more and more. There lies the solution! Difficulties are coming and what is the cure for that? Give more, learn to give more.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Individuality is also there, but it is on the surrendered plane. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

To die in the physical sense is nothing. Mahāprabhu says:

sanātana, deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa yadi pāiye koṭi-deha kṣaṇeke tabe chāḍite pāiye, (deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa nā paī, pāiye bhajane kṛṣṇa-prāptyera upāya kona nāhi 'bhakti' vine)

"My dear Sanātana," He said: "If I could attain Kṛṣṇa by committing suicide, I would certainly give up millions of bodies without a moments hesitation."

("You should know that one cannot attain Kṛṣṇa simply by giving up the body. Kṛṣṇa is attainable by devotional service. There is no other means to attain Him.")

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.55-56)

Sanātana Goswāmī wants to teach us. When he came from Vṛndāvana to Purī to have the darśana of Mahāprabhu he came by the same route which Mahāprabhu had taken to get to Vṛndāvana from Purī, that jungle way. And there, taking water from different places, or different types of food, he got some itches on his body. And also something oozing from the body. And Mahāprabhu when He met him He used to embrace, and that oozing juice, Mahāprabhu's body was smeared by that. Sanātana Goswāmī felt much pain. "What is this Mahāprabhu?" Sanātana Goswāmī, to avoid His welcome he went to go away but forcibly Mahāprabhu took him and embraced him. And those things used to touch His body and he was very much pained by that.

Then Sanātana was consulting with Jagadānanda Paṇḍita. "I came to get something but by my misfortune I'm committing some offence. This bad juice, that is touching the divine body of Mahāprabhu committing offences. So I must go back or perhaps it would be better if I give away this body just in front of the wheel of the Jaganātha cart, it will be smashed to death and I shall get a good next birth, very happy."

And anyhow that came to Mahāprabhu that Sanātana was saying like that. Mahāprabhu was very much excited. "What do you say? You have come to such conclusion, a fools conclusion.

sanātana, deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa yadi pāiye koṭi-deha kṣaṇeke tabe chāḍite pāriye,

"If it is possible for anyone to achieve Kṛṣṇa only by giving this physical body then in a second, I want to die crores (ten million) of times. It is not so easy! What is the value of this body? This has got some negative value, and I shall sacrifice this body crores of times in a second if possible to get the grace of Kṛṣṇa. So, this is not the way at all. It is not a big thing. It is not a valuable thing - this is a negative representation (the body). What is this? It is nothing! Kṛṣṇa wants the inner attention."

dhana-śiṣyādibhir-dvārair yā bhaktir upapādyate vidūratvād uttamatāhānya tasyāś ca nāṅgatā

"If one relies on one's disciples or wealth to attain bhakti, his devotional practice will certainly become slackened. One cannot claim that one is engaged in devotional service simply on the basis of engaging one's money or disciples in bhakti. To rely on money and disciples to perform devotional service in one's place is not considered to be a branch of pure devotion." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 12.128)

Rūpa Goswāmī says: "Whereby we can feel, have some type of attraction towards Him by sacrificing dhan - money, śiṣya - and men that are submissive to me, by them, by good work that they are producing, śiṣya dibhirdāraiḥ, - or by a good wife. i.e., my wife may be a devotee and I may think that by that connection I will get devotion. Or, my disciple will be a devotee and in that way I shall acquire some devotion - No! That is small. That is a lower type of devotion - not pure. So, you are to give everything not by second representation, not through a representative - but you, you yourself have to give, to give away to Him, everything! Then, there will be pure devotion."

So devotion means sacrifice, dedication. Death, wholesale death of the ego. Ego is to be dissolved completely into the fire and the alloy will vanish and the bright gold will come up. Ātma-nivedanam (service to Kṛṣṇa in full self-sacrifice), śaraṇāgati (surrender), that is the only way. Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, when we want to be śaraṇāgata, to take shelter under His feet, that is also analysed in six ways and to understand them separately and take up all these things for our good. What is that surrender? How to taste it? And who are the other stalwarts that came in this way? How they dealt? What was their character? How their movement? To get encouragement from that, that unknown wholesale giving, unknown path, unknown path. But there are so many light-houses, the light-houses are there, the stalwarts, looking at them we shall make progress on that way. How giving we can live, give and live.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says in one of his songs:

keśava tuwā jagata bicitra karama-vipāke bhava-bana bhrama-i, pekhaluṅ raṅga bahu citra

tuwā pada-bismṛti, ā-mara jantraṇā, kleśa-dahane dohi' jāi kapila, tab koi nija-mate, bhukti, mukti jācato, pāta-i nānā-bidha fānd so-sabu-- bañcaka, tuwā bhakti bahir-mukha, ghaṭāowe biṣama paramād baimukha-bañcane, bhaṭa so-sabu, niramilo vividha pasār daṇḍabat dūrato, bhaktivinoda bhelo, bhakata-caraṇa kori' sār.

keśava tuwā jagata bicitra - "Oh, Lord! Your creation is a very wonderful type, different and variagated."

tuwā pada-bismṛti, ā-mara jantraṇā, pekhaluṅ raṅga bahu citra - "My real pain however, is from out of separation from You. And here I am seeing a diverse character of different types, different sectarian views."

tuwā pada-bismṛti, ā-mara jantraṇā, kleśa-dahane dohi' jāi - "But the real purpose of all these things is only our separation from You.

tuwā pada-bismṛti, ā-mara - "If we are to diagnose properly, only our separate existence from You - separate consciousness - is the root of all this faithfulness."

kapila, patañjali, gautama, kaṇabhojī, jaimini, bauddha āowe dhāi' - "I am suffering from Your separation, but so many doctors of different types have come. They are running to me to cure me; Kapila - Śaṅkara, Patañjali - Yoga, Gautama, Kaṇada - dhai, kanabhaji; everything produced from atoms - Kaṇada. Bauddha - that is, the dissolution of the mental system ends everything. Jaiminī, although good activity is transient, still, what to do? "Go on doing good activity and try to live happily; there is no other end to life."

tab koi nija-mate, bhukti, mukti jācato - They come apparently to represent You, but, when they give delivery to things, we find that either they advocate enjoyment or salvation; exploitation or salvation, that is in their fund and nothing else! In whatever dress they may couch, but ultimately if it is analysed we find either salvation, pleasure or this total dissolution into indecipherable something?

bhukti, mukti jācato, pāta-i nānā-bidha fānd - But, to take us to that goal, only these two goals, they create various kinds of charming traps to catch us. But, ultimately, they lead us to these two and nothing else. Either the higher planes of life in the subtle world (for the time being) or complete annihilation, effacement.

baimukha-bañcane, bhaṭa so-sabu - Why are they here? It is the view from the Universal standpoint; they have come to segregate those that are not sincere. Those that are sincere will not be affected by such canvassing. baimukha-bañcane, they come for only those half-hearted persons and take them away from this camp. Then, the devotees may go on in their own way peacefully. They won't be able to come to disturb them. They are in their own path. That is the underlying purpose of You.

niramilo vividha pasār - They have created multifarious very charming things for their canvassing:

daṇḍabat dūrato, bhakativinoda bhelo, bhakata-caraṇa kori' sār - But anyhow, I might have been saved. I understand that definitely only the feet dust of Your devotees is everything for me - nothing else! I want only the holy feet dust of Your devotee - bhakata-caraṇa - No other ambition I have got! And I have got this sort of yearning by Your Grace. So, Bhaktivinoda discarded them."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Gaura Nitāi.

I composed one poem of eleven stanzas about Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarawatī Ṭhākura), my Gurudeva, appreciated that very much. And he told to someone that: "It is not he who has written, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written through him." And some other place he has told: "Oh, I am confident that, what I came to inform, to teach the people, that will be left after me." And, to 'me', while reading the composition, he told: "A very happy style you have given to the śloka."

There it is mentioned: (in Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 4) dharmāś carma gato 'jñātaiva satatā yogaś ca bhogātmako jñāne śūnyagatiḥ japena tapasā khātir jighāṁsaiva ca dāne dambhikatānurāga

dhātrā bhavān preṣiṭaḥ

"O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you appeared at the hour of our greatest need. At that time, everyone practised body-worship and flesh religion, which any honest man will admit is ignorance. The yogīs were cheating the public with cheap miracles, exploiting them for money and pleasure. The philosophers, bewildered in trying to capture the infinite, found that their knowledge had led them to the void of nihilism. The mutterers of mantras were working to become well-known japa-chanters. Ascetics practised murderous torture for spiritual suicide. The proud gave in charity only to secure their fame. And all these abominable acts were performed in the name of anurāga-bhajan, the highest devotion to Godhead. At that dark hour, when all good intelligence had been spoiled by misconception, you were sent by the will of Providence."

dharmāś carma gato - "You came in a period when your necessity was felt the highest. What was going on at that time, in the name of religion, devotion? dharmāś carma gato - They preached that what has no interest with this body that cannot be called religion. Religion mainly came in relation to the bodily connection they asserted.

jñātaiva satatā - And who is an honest man? An idiot is an honest man.

yogaś ca bhogātmako, yoga - this from jīvātmā to paramātmā - that took the shape of the yogīs. They came to make trade, to show some miracles to the people and get some money or something, good name, bhogātmako.

jñāne śūnya-gatir - And what is the achievement of pure knowledge? That is to be resolved in nil? In zero? That is the highest achievement of knowledge. To take us to cipher, śūnya-gatir.

śūnya-gatir japena tapasā, And by this japam and tapasā, penances...

khātir jighāṁsaiva ca - But, to get some prestige, some popularity by this japam? One is making this japam (chanting the Holy Names), his attention is toward that of the appreciation of the people. A popularity seeker. And tapasā: the penance of vindictiveness, that penance was used in tapasā.

dāne dambhikatā - And the gift, the donation - that took the shape of Brahman; "I can give so much. I am a great giver in this game - a fame seeker. I am a great man. I have made a gift to so many places." A class of ego creating.

anurāga bhajane - And in the name of this loving service, duṣṭā-pacāro yadā, this mundane practice. These mundane practices went on in the name of anurāga bhajane.

dhātrā bhavān preṣṭaḥ - In such a critical moment, you were sent by the Provident Sphere."

Then the next śloka.

("The effulgent, nondifferentiated aspect of divinity known as Brahman is composed of infinite particles of individual consciousness, and has been considered by the Upaniṣads and by Vedic scholars to be the halo of the Absolute. The localised plenary portion of Godhead known as Paramātmā is sought after by the great yogīs practising extreme penances. Nārāyaṇa Himself, the predominating Lord of the Vaikunṭha planets, whose lotus feet are worshipped and served by His unexcelled beelike devotees, is only a partial representation of the original Personality of Godhead. The original or full-fledged aspect of divinity is Kṛṣṇa. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you have not come to distribute Brahman or Paramātmā or even Nārāyaṇa-bhakti, but svayam-bhagavān Kṛṣṇa, the original conception of the Absolute, who is all-ecstasy. It is you, O Gurudeva, who can gently place me in His hands, and you have come to give Him to the public."

(Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, v 7)

"Just as the moon, he helps the stars to twinkle, and he's (the moon) supposed to also help the 'asadhi'. Many drugs, the moon's rays help to gain their potency it is told - so also you have come to enliven the scriptures with the proper meaning and to please the real saints that are in the world. Like a moon, you have come here in this world." Then the next, "You have done a great service to the worldly people by composing many devotional scriptures, books and so many other things. Ācārya Rāmānuja, the great scholar, and many others also did, but your greatness and nobility is not to be limited there. What is more... yad dhāmnah khalu dhāma caiva nigame brahmeti.

That Brahman has been considered by the Vedic scholars to be the halo of the Absolute and even by the great yogīs. They are, with great trouble, searching after the Paramātmā - the All-Pervasive Spirit, All-Comprehensive, and All-Permeating. With great penance they are searching after that which is only a partial representation of Nārāyaṇa, Who is searched after by the great and who are above this self-salvation. Personally, they are engaged in the serving of this Nārāyaṇa in a happy way.

But, Nārāyaṇa, whose original full-fledged aspect is Kṛṣṇa, you have come here to give that! Not this Paramātmā, nor Brahman, nor even Nārāyaṇa-bhakti, but Svayaṁ Bhagavān, Who is the very full representation of the different types (expansions) that they are. That original conception of the Absolute, Svayaṁ Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa, who is All-Ecstasy, You have come to give that thing to the public. And, that is also in Vṛndāvana, the highest sphere, where He's receiving the different types of services including vātsalya, filial service, and, where Rādhārāṇī, with all of Her paraphernalia, is giving Him the highest form of affectionate service, you can give us the position of service in that plane!"

And Jīva Goswāmī supported and protected it by quoting the scriptures from different places. The taste of that divine truth is aspired for by Brahmā, Śiva, and Uddhava, who respect it as the supreme goal of life. What is this wonderful truth? śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanā: that the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. This is most wonderful. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are our master. It is within your power to allow them to bestow their grace upon us. You are in a position to bestow the highest gift ever known to the world upon us all. It is at your disposal. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, please be kind to us and grant us your mercy.") (Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, v 9)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: you may offer that to me.

kesa sadvam sri guruve namah

All these articles I offer to my Gurudeva as dakṣiṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Praṇāmas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

"I was blind in the darkness of ignorance but my Spiritual Master applied the ointment of proper spiritual knowledge and thus opened my eyes. Unto him I offer my respectful obeisances."

Now, whatever Vaiṣṇava you find you give your praṇāmas to them and go near to the temple, just in the front of the temple nath mandeer and there you take the Name, and then afterwards you may take your prasāda, along with other devotees.

..... Nāma. Muralidar.

Devotee: Your name is Muralidar

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Muralidar. Married?

Devotee: No, single, brahmacārī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Muralidar dāsa Brahmacārī. Gaura Hari bol!

.....

Devotee: therefore that is not sayujya karmana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not sayujya karmana. So but he's (altered such from this side, that is entered brahma, then from brahma he?) not sayujya, not buried on that place, and the possibility of going further.

sri kṛṣṇa mantra kalibhi upasyadi brahma nibhana uchatī (?)

Suppose in the last time he had some memory of Kṛṣṇa or Nārāyaṇa or some devotee, that will fetch him upward.

Devotee: Yes. Then one more question. In the next one:

jyāyasī cet karmaṇas te, matā buddhir janārdana tat kiṁ karmaṇi ghore māṁ, niyojayasi keśava.

("O Janārdana, O Keśava, if You consider that resolute and determined spiritual intelligence (vyavasāy-ātmikā-buddhi) is better than action in goodness and passion, then why do You engage me in the violent activity of warfare?")

(Bhagavad-gītā, 3.1)

So in the pada cet (?) there is karmaṇaḥ ?

So in the pada cet, buddhi is given as sattvica jñāna, and in the (banmanva ?) it is given as vyavasāyātmikā buddhir. But sattvica jñāna is the same as vyavasāyātmikā buddhir ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not always.

vyavasāyātmikā buddhir, ekeha kuru-nandana bahu-śākhā hy anantāś ca
buddhayo 'vyavasāyinām

("O beloved descendant of the Kuru dynasty, the intelligence of those who are on this path of exclusive devotional service unto Me is one-pointed and firmly situated in Me, since I am its only goal. But the intelligence of those who avoid exclusive devotional service to Me is splayed and characterised by endless desires because of its absorption in innumerable sense objects.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.41)

Devotee: Yes. that is above sattvic buddhir.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vyavasāya, vyavasāya means utsāha, enthusiasm. Here only one ended. The vyavasāyātmikā buddhir, the enthusiasm only towards one particular end, not multifarious aims, objects of life, but only one.

"If you think that this is better then how do You ask me to be engaged in the war, in the fighting, this karma ?"

Tat kiṁ karmaṇi ghore mām, niyojayasi keśava, (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.1)

kiṁ karma kim akarmeti, kavayo 'py atra mohitāḥ tat te karma
pravakṣyāmi, yaj jñātvā mokṣyase 'śubhāt

("Even very learned men are baffled in ascertaining the nature of action and inaction. Some cannot comprehend action, while others cannot comprehend inaction. Hence, I shall now teach you about such action and inaction, knowing which you will attain liberation from the evil world." (Bhagavad-gītā, 4.16)

What is karma and what is not karma it is very difficult to understand. By karma, only physical attempts should not be considered, but really the mind is there and that is the real seed of karma, the real cause is in the mind. The physical is innocent. The culprit is the mind. If you do not move your physical limbs but you go on mentally planning and planning so you are committing karma. And if you are clear in the mind to obey the direction of the God or dharma then physical activity has no value. Mind is all important, internal, that plan, purpose, impulse, saṅkalpa (acceptance), that is all important thing. So the object is divine and the activity may be mean, even killing, stealing, killing, murdering, if for the Absolute Good, then it is all right. In this way it is going to be explained. The mind is everything in karma, not the physical attempts. "So if you engage yourself in the fighting with some higher purpose then it cannot be considered as karma." At the same time if you sit without any physical attempt but mentally you are planning you are doing karma. Karma is to be traced in the mind and not in the body, the body is innocent. As the mind says, it only serves that. But for higher end of life also the body may do, hatvāpi sa imāṁ lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate:

yasya nāhaṅkrto bhāvo, buddhir yasya na lipyate hatvāpi sa imāṁ lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate

("He who is free from egotism (arising from aversion to the Absolute), and whose intelligence is not implicated (in worldly activities) - even if he kills every living being in the whole world, he does not kill at all, and neither does he suffer a murderer's consequences.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.

Destroying the whole universe he may not do anything, it is also possible. Only physically, mentally he's possessed by the Supreme Authority and he's doing. So physical activity should not be considered to be the criterion of one's action, good or bad. That has been stressed there.

What is there, after?

Devotee: There's still one difficulty though Guru Mahārāja. This one difficulty, this buddhi is given as sattvica-jñāna in the pada cet. But in the amu varj (?) it's given as vyavasāyātmikā Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vyavasāyātmikā buddhi, above sattvic, nirguṇa.

Devotee: Yeah.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: vyavasāyātmikā buddhir, ekeha kuru-nandana, (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.41), only one, to satisfy Him.

Devotee: That means in the pada cet it's general reference only?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the next śloka ?

Devotee: Next śloka is:

vyāmiśreṇeva vākyena, buddhiṁ mohayasīva

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

vyāmiśreṇeva vākyena, buddhiṁ mohayasīva me tad ekaṁ vada niścitya, yena śreya 'ham āpnuyām śrī bhagavān uvāca

("My intelligence is confused by Your words. They appear to be ambiguous, sometimes supporting action and sometimes supporting knowledge. So please instruct me which of these two paths is most beneficial for me.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.2)

Then?

Devotee: Loke 'smin

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

śrī bhagavān uvāca

loke 'smin dvi-vidhā niṣṭhā, purā proktā mayānagha jñāna-yogena sāṅkhyānām, karma-yogena yoginām

(The Supreme Lord replied: "I have already described the two types of faith to be found in this world. I have established that the learned who are aware of the conscious world, and those who are mainly active in the mundane plane, both engage in the (rudimentary) practice of the path of devotion (sādhana bhakti-yoga) by respectively following the path of knowledge and the path of selfless action offered to the Lord. Actually, the staircase leading to the land of dedication is one, while only faith is twofold, according to the steps attained by the aspirants.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.3) na karmanām anārambhān, naiṣkarmyaṁ puruṣo 'śnute na ca sannyasanād eva, siddhiṁ samadhigacchati

("Without performing scripturally enjoined duties, one cannot attain knowledge leading to freedom from action and reaction. How can a person of impure heart obtain perfection by abandoning his prescribed duties?") (Bhagavad-gītā, 3.4)

Pacītya suddhi (?) two phases, one sāṅkhya-yoga (the analytical discrimination between spirit and matter), neti, neti, neti, "This is ātmā." to find out that plane and to do accordingly. Another, karma-yoga, to do everything without attachment and the aim will be higher. Not for karmanā-vasana, this ordinary purpose of life is eliminated and the śāstra has said naiṣkarma, without, "Because the scriptures have ordered me I am doing. It is my dharma. I have no separate interest within me. Only by the order of the scripture I am doing." This is dharma. In Bhāgavatam also:

etāvān sāṅkhya-yogābhyāṁ svadharma-pariniṣṭhaya janma-lābhaḥ

paraḥ puṁsām ante nārāyaṇa-smṛtiḥ

"The highest perfection of human life, achieved either by complete knowledge of matter and spirit, by practice of mystic powers, or by perfect discharge of occupational duty, is to remember the Personality of Godhead at the end of life."

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.6)

Śukadeva Goswāmī says: sāṅkhya-yogābhyām svadharma-pariṇiṣṭhayā, these three things may take us up to this stage. What three things? Sāṅkhya-jñāna, neti, neti, this is pāñca-bhūt, this earth, air, all these material things, then there is mind, then there is intelligence. All these are material, eliminating them there is ātmā. In this way elimination, "I have no interest here, here, here, all stages eliminated." This is sāṅkhya-jñāna. And yoga also by pranayama, pratyahara, to enquire the inner stuff within, that is another thing, yoga. It also takes the jīva to the level of his own position eliminating the negative side, sāṅkhya-jñāna eliminating the negative side, and yoga by internal enquiry about the Paramātmā, that also eliminated from the negative connection. And the svadharma as it is in the śāstra, "brāhmaṇa should do this, kṣatriya should do this," śāstra as it is mentioned in the karma-kanda. If without any karmanā, as duty given by the śāstra, with this spirit if one does, then all these three takes us to the same level, tirtha-suddhi (?) Then, nārāyaṇa-bhakti, nārāyaṇa-smṛtiḥ begins positive side. And this is all withdrawn from the negative side by three means, sāṅkhya, yoga and svadharma, in Bhāgavatam.

Here also sāṅkhya and karma yoga. If we do the imperative duties that come to us only as duty and not any special purpose, then the karma is karma yoga. This karma yoga and sāṅkhya:

sāṅkhya-yogau prthag bālāḥ, pravadanti na paṇḍitāḥ ekam apy āsthitaḥ samyag, ubhayor vindate phalam

("The learned do not support the opinion of the childishly foolish mundane rationalists [known as karma-mīmāṃsakas] who hold that the path of renunciation [sāṅkhya-yoga] and the path of action [karma-yoga] are separate. One who carefully follows either of these paths will achieve the same result.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 5.4)

It is also mentioned hereafter, yoga and sāṅkhya-jñāna, aṣṭāṅga, is one and the same.

And niṣkāma-karma dharma parin

Withdrawn from the negative side we may come to the absissa, then nārāyaṇa- smṛtiḥ by bhakti we can make progress towards that. Now you try to understand.

vyavasāyātmikā buddhir, ekeha kuru-nandana bahu-śākhā hy anantāś ca
buddhayo 'vyavasāyinām

("O beloved descendant of the Kuru dynasty, the intelligence of those who are on this path of exclusive devotional service unto Me is one-pointed and firmly situated in Me, since I am its only goal. But the intelligence of those who avoid exclusive devotional service to Me is splayed and characterised by endless desires because of its absorption in innumerable sense objects.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.41)

Those that have got proper energy, there the object of life is one. And when scattered, disturbed, energy drawn by different directions, that gives these trifling results of our karma.

Devotee: Then, my question is, then why in the pada cet (?) for buddhi have we got sattvica-jñāna ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sattvica What is the original śloka ?

Devotee:

vyāyasī cet karmaṇas te, matā buddhir janārdana tat kiṁ karmaṇi ghore mām, niyojayasi keśava.

("O Janārdana, O Keśava, if You consider that resolute and determined spiritual intelligence (vyavasāy-ātmikā-buddhi) is better than action in goodness and passion, then why do You engage me in the violent activity of warfare?")

(Bhagavad-gītā, 3.1)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Devotee: In the pada cet (?) he Keśava, he Janārdana, rajasik or sattvika karmapekṣa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "If buddhi-yoga is better then why do You engage me in this dangerous battlefield?"

Devotee: "If sattvika-jñāna is better than rajasik and sattvika karma, then why do You engage me?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sattvika-jñāna, where do you get sattvika-jñāna ? Buddhi-yoga.

Devotee: In the pada cet it is given, karmanah rajasik or sattvika-jñāna apekṣa, then buddhi, sattvika-jñāna, jyāyasī cet karmaṇas te, matā buddhir janārdana ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

jyāyasī cet karmaṇas te, matā buddhir janārdana tat kiṁ karmaṇi ghore māṁ, niyojayasi keśava.

Sattvika-jñāna, that is also within māyā, sattva-guṇa, sattva raja tama, so here the purpose cannot be that, that is because sattvika is within māyā. So vyavasāyātmikā. Vyavasāyātmikā jñāna ?

Devotee: No, vyavasāyātmikā buddhir

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A little after, that conclusion will come, vyavasāyātmikā buddhir, ekeha (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.41). Go on reading.

Devotee: After. But my problem is why in the pada cet (?) and anuvar (?) there is different meanings for the word buddhi ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By sattvic, not, just as in many places sattva has been used for śuddha-sattva.

Devotee: Ah, this question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sattva is śuddha-sattva. Vyavasāyātmikā buddhir, that is more of śuddha-sattva characteristic.

Devotee: Then it's all right. Pure goodness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just as Viṣṇu is called sattva-guṇa Avatāra, Kṣīrodakaśāyī, sattva- guṇa, but He's always śuddha-sattva.

Devotee: All right, now I understand.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just as the sun is seen through the cloud, not real sun, but from the zone of māyā the real sun cannot be seen, it is sattva. But Viṣṇu is always nirguṇa yet He's told as sattva-guṇa Avatāra. Because within this raja and tama, that sattva is seen to be mixed sattva, not pure sattva, visuddha-sattva.

Devotee: From our vision it is sattva.

In English, how to translate tasya prajñā ? (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.61)
Generally, "A man of steady intelligence."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tasya prajñā, properly adjusted.

Devotee: Properly adjusted. Oh, that's good. Because generally they say: "A man of steady intelligence." But I'm not satisfied with steady intelligence. Properly adjusted, that we'll Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not influenced by separate interest. That is mukta, tasya means nirguṇa, that is properly adjusted.

Peculiarity there, with the Absolute, with the Centre. Properly adjusted, absolutely adjusted in the connection of the Absolute interest, only final adjustment with the Absolute consideration, proper adjustment, adjusted properly.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: from the Absolute standpoint it is līlā, everything is done by His sweet will. But the difference for us that we can dive deep to feel it. So many prejudices, or local interests, of different types, that comes to cover our calculation. The difficulty is there. Māyā means that. Prejudice of different types. All false, local calculation. That is making far.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: And the false local calculation, that is overcome by Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We are to try to overcome, to raise ourselves above the interest of local calculation and to reach up to the plane where universal flow is going, nirguṇa. And there is also, differentiated character. In Vaikuṇṭha, our attraction to rules and regulations, and above that the innate flow of love, and again there are sub-divisions, different camps, different types of service.

Devotee: Harmonising.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In every camp there is possibility of particular perfection, but ultimately the zenith is in the service of Rādhārāṇī. Within the rasa, different rasa, then mādhyura-rasa, the all-comprehensive which has got everything in it, it is possible. And there also differences, differentiation. So we are to eliminate, eliminate, elimination and acceptance, up to rādhā-kiṅkarā, elimination and acceptance, even in the positive world, what to speak of this negative side. And the middle, that is a stage of equilibrium, something like mukti, or nirviśa, non-differentiated area, but that is also local, temporary.

No permanent solution until we reach the dynamic world of service. Utility is there. The world is not without any object. The Buddhist, the Śāṅkarites, as they conceive that only to merge into zero conception, that is everything, that is the highest end, the stop, stoppage of everything, that is their conclusion. It cannot be, it has its purpose. To become zero cannot be the end of life. Samādhi, the stop of all movement. Movement, plurality is that. It is not. Plurality may work in harmony, and that is the success, harmony and plurality, and movement and no hitch. Here in this world movement means aggression but there it is not, the opposite. Movement means sustenance, sevā, service, everything is helping others. Sustenance, movement means, and here movement means dissipation, movement means aggression, exploitation.

ta eva vantam anuvārga sarvam tasya vāsa sarvam idam vivāti

The existence, real existence, of the truth is this, and the existence is wholesome. Not only nothing - not even injurious - but it is wholesome existence. Everything is good. All is great movement, waves of grace of the Lord. Everything! tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo:

tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāḥ

(Lord Brahmā says:) "One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8)

Try to find out, that everything, every wave, is favourable to you - the solution is there. Have no apprehension of unfavourable circumstances about anything. Adjust yourself in such a way. That is what is necessary for you and for all. Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo. Everything is positive and everything is good. To read negative and to read bad, injurious, that is our false ego. We are to get out of that, the false calculating ego, that is the ego in bondage. Ego in bondage means the ego calculating faults, false misreading, miscalculating, misdeeds.

Only through the help of the agents of the harmonious world, and by the advice in the books that come from that harmonious world with the help of sādhu, śāstra, we can get relief of our present diseased condition. We are in disease, hṛd-rogam, heart disease, the disease in the centre, heart, the feeler.

(vikrīḍitaṁ vraja-vadhūbhir idam ca viṣṇoḥ śraddhānvito 'nuśṛṇuyād atha varṇayed yaḥ bhaktiṁ parām bhagavati pratilabhya kāmam hṛd-rogam āśv apahinoty acireṇa dhīraḥ)

("One who hears with firm faith the supramundane amorous affairs of Lord Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs, as described by a pure devotee of the Lord, soon becomes freed from mundane lust and achieves divine love of Kṛṣṇa.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.39)

That has been accepted as the centre, the heart, the feeler. In the brain, the calculation, the brain like computer if it works as well, if it can read the environment through the heart normal, through the normal heart.

bhidiate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ kṣīyante cāśya

karmāṇi, mayi dr̥ṣṭe 'khilātmani

("The knot in the heart is pierced, all misgivings are cut to pieces and the chain of fruitive actions is terminated when I am seen as the Supreme Personality of Godhead.")

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.20.30)

A wonderful śloka. Bhidyate hr̥daya-granthiś, your heart is sealed! The feeling portion, the reading portion of you is sealed. Break up the seal and then you will come to feel everything is your friend. bhidyate hr̥daya-granthiś. Our attempt should be to break the seal by the real ego. The real ego has been covered, sealed. But, the seal should be broken! The natural feeling should be allowed to flow out, we should be allowed to feel. Then you will find that everything is all right.

Your brain will say: "Yes, now I find every calculation reaches the desired result." The computer will say likewise. And the heart? The heart will be opened. Heart will be opened and ego, the selfish part, the cover of the heart, that will be broken, the seal will be broken. And the natural flow will come to feel properly what is good and what is bad. You will find what is tasteful and what is bitter. The real heart from within will come to justify. Then, the brain will come to see that everything is all right.

What is subservient to feeling - ānandam ? sat-cit, cit-caitya, knowledge. Above that knowledge is that central thing - ānandam, happiness, blissfulness, pleasure, joy. That is the signal for which everyone is searching. That feeling is the heart's food, not the brain's food. It is heart's food which we are searching for, and that misrepresentation of the heart, that false, selfish ego, that is our worst enemy! It is unsatisfied, and always giving reports: "This is not good, it is not good." And we are running hither and thither: "What is good?" We are searching for that!

But, when the proper heart from within will come out, then, bhidyate hr̥daya-granthiś chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ: all doubts will be removed, "Oh, we are in perfect harmony."

kṣīyante cāśya karmāṇi: The past dues will all be cleared immediately. The past dues of our karma, reaction, birth, what is to come on me to have its realisation, that will be finished in no time! We shall enter our natural harmony. Then, we shall see that like some evil dream, something came in the middle - it was like a mad dream. But now, I am awake and the dream is nowhere. Only, the eternal connection.

Hare Kṛṣṇa Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol!

That is a wonderful śloka, bhidyate hr̥daya-granthiś. Karma, that is reaction which I am to clear off from my previous activity. That will also disappear and the harmonious outlook will come in me. And how will it come? When the heart will be opened. We have to break open the heart! The heart! The feeling thing, that is the most original thing in us which feels joy, pleasure or pain. That feeling of pleasure and pain, that is the most important factor for us.

yato vācho nivarttante, aprāpya manasā saha ānandaṁ brahmaṇo vidvān, na vibhethi kutaścaneti

("As one gets subjective realisation of the transcendental blissful aspect of the Supreme Divinity, he sheds fear completely for all time. Such a realised man of wisdom is freed totally from negative thoughts. Having his thoughts fully attentive to the All-Blissful Divinity, he is spared from such torture. Such is the secret doctrine.")

(Taittirīya-Upaniṣad, 11.9.1)

When we can come to such conclusion, that the Infinite, the Greatest, is really ānandam, not pain, the whole is pleasure, no pain, then all apprehension of pain will disappear. It is all pleasure, no pain. The Bhagavad-gītā is always asking us, "Concentrate in you! Have no complaint against the outside environment, but everything is in you." So be attentive to you, to your ego. There is no necessity to correct your outside environment.

We are always dissatisfied with the environment and want to correct them to suit our purpose. No! Your taste is bad. Everything is all right. Your taste is bad. Just as Rūpa Goswāmī has given one analogy. For one who is attacked with bile, the sugar candy will taste bitter. When the attack of bile is gone, disappears, then the sugar candy will taste sweet. So bitterness is not in the sugar candy but it is in the tongue. So take that sugar candy, that is the medicine of that bile disease.

So, take the Name, now it is bitter, but you go on taking in a particular process and the Name will cure your bile disease and it will be seen to be tasteful. You will be able to feel, "No, sugar candy is tasteful." So the wrong is in us, in the tongue, and not in the sugar candy.

syāt kṛṣṇa-nāma-caritādi-sitāpy avidyā- pittopatapta-rasanasya na rocikā

"The Holy Name, character, pastimes and activities of Kṛṣṇa are all transcendently sweet like sugar candy. Although the tongue of one afflicted by the jaundice of avidyā (ignorance) cannot taste anything sweet, it is wonderful that simply by carefully chanting these sweet Names every day, a natural relish awakens within his tongue, and his disease is gradually destroyed at the root." (Upadeśāmṛta, 7)

There is an attack of ignorance, bile of ignorance, and go on taking and the bile's disease will be off and you will get the taste of sweetness from that thing. So it is, though on the whole, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, God consciousness, may not be sweet, still, by the help of our previous sukṛti and also your reason which has come to you based on that sukṛti, go on with sādhana-bhakti. And we shall no sooner reach in a stage where we'll be able to find, "Oh, it is very sweet. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is very sweet and very beautiful." The whole process of sādhana is like that.

Avidyā, ajñāna, due to miscalculation we suffer, we feel pain, but the pain is outside, it is sweetness. With such attitude we are to approach, and the favourable association can keep our strength for investigation what will be necessary to attain the goal.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Today is the day of appearance of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. In this modern age, he came here with this full truth. It is he who foretold that: "Those days are not far off when we'll be able to see that the foreigners, the Europeans, Americans, they are also coming to join under the flag of Lord Caitanya and go on with kṛṣṇa-saṅkīrtana." He could foresee that such a natural and easy thing, why it should not be understood by the sincere intellect. It must be understood, cannot but be understood. There are men, well-meaning persons, that cannot but understand this sort of universal love. The Lord is love and let us be happy in His connection and go on with the life of love. Love should not be appreciated by the persons? It is impossible. So no sooner, all sincere intelligentsia will come to appreciate what is given by Mahāprabhu, the Doctor

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He has served that very thing to the devotees and Raghunātha Dāsa he has tasted and also he has added something to that, and Jīva Goswāmī he has given protection to that by giving śāstric evidence and that from the misconceptions of that thing of different types has protected, and the Brahmā, Śiva, Uddhava:

gaurāṅgaika-gatir vrajāśritamatih śrī gauradhāma sthitiḥ sachāstraikavṛtiḥ kusaṅga viratirduḥsthabyathā-niṣkṛtiḥ śrī rūpaik-ratiḥ sanātana-natiḥ śrī jīvatejasthatiḥ śrī siddhānta sarasvatī guruvaru gaudīya-goṣṭhīpatiḥ

Another stanza in his praise, gaurāṅgaika-gatir, whose only end of life was Śrī Gaurāṅga, aika-gatir, only! The only object of his life was Śrī Gaurāṅga. Vrajāśritamatih, The mental God took cover from the vraja-rasa - your most beloved Dayita Dāsa, at present, who is our Gurudeva! Please recommend my admission in the list of his servitors permanently, be gracious enough to do that. In this way it is concluded. That was appreciated by Prabhupāda (Śrīla Bhakti Siddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura Goswāmī Prabhupāda) and four others also in the beginning. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. Gaura-Haribol!

Devotee: Next week I have a speaking engagement with a civic group, a group of business men in a town close to us, to our temple, they call themselves the Rotary Club, it's an international group and they try to do good works for the community, their goal is to provide services for the community which will upgrade the standard of the community, so they asked me to come and speak about some of the Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You will ask them, we want thorough treatment. Who is the party, party is the soul, not this body or the mind, but the soul is the party and the thorough cure of the soul from the disease of this contamination with matter. Independent of matter soul can live happily and his connection with matter is the trouble and the cause of all his troubles. Either our diagnosis of the disease of the society is different from you do. We see that a mad man, he's engaged in the street in picking waste paper and this brick bats and something but if I put some brick bats and some paper in his hand to help him, that is not proper help. To help him, try to remind him of his home. Back to home, back to God, back to home, and there is no scarcity of anything, a solvent home you have got and you must go back there and don't wander in the street and try to collect these brick bats and these paper pieces and cloth pieces. Something like that, our social work.

Once when I was in Madras Maṭh our Guru Mahārāja was going to visit the Maṭh and we had a procession from the station to Maṭh. I approached the boy scout leader to join in our procession.

Some Maharastri gentleman he told: "We do only social works, nothing to do with religion."

I asked him: "We also are doing social works I told him but of different type, and what sort of different type, only you the human species, dog species, cow species, ass species, so many, horse species. You want to keep the dog as dog and render service to them, and our programme if there is possibility of the dogs attainment to the human species, if they can be lifted to human species, we try to help in that way. The dog should not continue to be dog but we shall help the dogs in such a way that the dog can be converted into human."

In this way our social service. Do you follow?

So our service, our angle of vision about the human beings is not limited in its prospect of prosperity, prosperous life in this human body. But he has got great prospect, the soul is the proper person within and not the body, and not the mind but the party is the soul. Who is suffering good or bad, or happiness, or pain, or pleasure, so the suffering going to the feeler, feeler means the soul, feeler is the soul, so he's concerned with good and bad or pleasure and pain. How to help the soul be cured wholesale from the pleasure and pain.

According to that we have made our programme. This sort of social work, we do social work, but social work of this type, this type. That thorough help not temporary, not for the time being and again the pain will come, not that. The greatest, prosperous and happy life in mundane world, that is also miserable, according to us. Our standard of happiness is higher, even a king, even a scholar, even a young man, who has got overflowing energy and running hither thither, he's also in need of help. So the standard of happiness here is to our consideration, that is painful stage. Happiness in the mundane, that is pain in our consideration. Just as painful person who has got disease feeling pain and given morphine injection and for the time being he's not feeling pain but pain is there only morphine has seized the pain. So the pain is there within, they cannot feel for their intoxicating, their exploiting tendency at present, but the reaction will soon come and he will have to feel pain.

So radical cure, of the being, that is in our consideration, we do such social work. Try to find the great R̥ṣis, the Messiahs, the Christ, Mohammed, they also came to relieve the people from pain, but what type of help they recommended, higher type. So many lākhs (100,000) and crores (ten million) of people they at least mentally, formally say, that we are followers of Christ, followers of Mohammed, followers of this and that. So they have got some recognition there and that sort of social work what is necessary to render real help to the people. And this is sham help, temporary help, and sometimes this sort of help does more harm, because with this help they become mad in their pride and energy and commits some nuisance.

Devotee: Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura in his Śiksāmṛtam, he is telling that there are many things one can do. In the initial stages of the book in the first few chapters, he's telling that one can set up passage ways for the public, can light streets for the public, that these are good works, and that these are the kind of works that these civic groups engage in, this kind of thing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That's punyam satya guṇam, that is also temporary, for the time being some relief, but no permanent value, very transient, temporary value, that is satya guṇa within this mundane, within ignorance, jurisdiction of ignorance. It is only being utilised in canvassing, to give some bait, to invite some people with some temptation and then to speak to them about what is real truth. Haridāsa Ṭhākura used to invite the boys and gave them laddu (sweets), and then after the boys have got laddu they're very happy. Then he used to say: "Take the Name of Kṛṣṇa." laddu dui asi dui laya harināma The temptation, the laddu, he gave them and then the child was cheerful, go on dancing, kṛṣṇa-nāma, Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa. It may be used for this purpose, this temporary happiness given to them that they'll be pacified, now listen to what is real happiness, in this way.

Devotee: So such a group should be approached with that attitude? Such a group, a civic group, they're professional people, they're civic minded, they're doing good in the community, they're householders, they're engaged in so many activities, but they're interested in doing something higher, should they be approached with the idea that these things that you do Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everyone should be approached with this idea, this higher idea.

Devotee: But with the bait or the stark reality?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But according to the capacity and standard of the people, we shall approach them in different ways, different ways. One who has got money, we shall try to get some energy from him, suiting his purpose, to get some energy and utilise in higher things, the sukṛti will go to him. He may not know but sukṛti will be done. Unconsciously he will get some benefit of higher type though he may not know because his energy is utilised for higher purpose. That is sukṛti, he may not know but his things are utilised for the highest purpose. As a reaction he gets something, that is sukṛti.

Without śraddhā, he has got no śraddhā, he is not coming consciously but unconsciously, to do something to him, to give injection. The patient is unconscious and the doctors give some injection, something like that, that is sukṛti. He cannot appreciate Kṛṣṇa bhakti but still he may do as a school, the dispensary, or feeding the students, there are so many students: "You please help them for feeding." And he's giving for feeding: "Oh I can give, I have no faith in religion but education, any type, I can give something for the feeding of the students."

Whatever position I am that does not matter. In this way he is giving and that is sukṛti, unknowingly, unconsciously, one's energy is being utilised by the cleverness of the ācārya as sukṛti, jñāta and ajñāta, sometimes conscious, sometimes unconscious, does not know anything, sukṛti. The cows are giving milk and their milk used in the service of the Lord, or the devotees. The cows are not knowing but some sukṛti is being done in the soul of the cow, in this way, ajñāta sukṛti, jñāta sukṛti, conscious and unconscious.

Then faith comes, sukṛti sufficiently accumulated then comes śraddhā, faith. That yes, if one thing is done, the whole can be done, satisfied, it is possible, that is śraddhā. If I know God everything is known because everything is within His sweet will. "Let there be light there was light. Let there be water there is water." So if I know the cause of the water and light, that is God, if I know Him, serve Him, everything is served, everything coming out of His sweet will and again entering into Him. All these things, so that is śraddhā, to have such a faith that if I attend one, whole one attended, that is śraddhā, that is faith proper, and the structure will be built on that faith, that is devotion. If I do my duty towards Kṛṣṇa, everything is done. Kṛṣṇa consciousness covers the whole thing within it.

I heard from Akshayānanda Mahārāja today that Harikeśa Mahārāja, he and perhaps his group in Russia, they're put into prison house. One gentleman has written to Akshayānanda Mahārāja from London, he has seen in an Australian newspaper that Harikeśa Mahārāja he has secretly, privately, making disciples and the disciples are washing his feet and drinking the water. That picture has been given in the paper, and the Russians say that they are all CIA of America, has come here, all Americans and preaching anti communist creed here to weaken our nation. So they have been put into prison house, the whole group including the Russians also that followed them. This news given this morning by Akshayānanda Mahārāja, he has got paper cutting from London, the paper is from Australia.

Devotee: The movement has been forced underground. In Russia now six of the devotees have been arrested and taken to labour camps. And also in Russia they give drugs, if they cannot brainwash the devotee they give so many drugs to turn his brain into vegetable.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Russian disciples they are also being treated that their brain has been disordered, they're under treatment for brainwash. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Harikeśa Mahārāja comes from what part of America?

Devotee: New York, he's a good friend of Hamsadhūta Mahārāja, he's very intellectual.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Harikeśa, I know him by his name, I have heard, might have come here also but I can't remember.

Devotee: I don't recall that he ever came here. He was conducting the German yatra, north European yatra, Germany, Denmark, Norway, like that, and Bhakti Sudhīr Goswāmī took sannyāsā initiation I think from Harikeśa Mahārāja, when he was working in Yugoslavia or somewhere.

Devotee: Mahārāja, yesterday Vidagdha Mādhava and myself went to Kṛṣṇanāga and I saw this one Mūrti of Mahāprabhu in the six armed form, ṣaḍ-bhuja. So I thought that it would be very nice for our temple in Malaysia because we call the temple, Temple of Śrīman Mahāprabhu, and I thought it would be nice to put in the temple room as a Mūrti put on a table in a glass casing. Do you think that is nice?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, you may do, not objectionable. That was shown to Murāri Gupta who was a devotee of Ramācandra. Murāri Gupta, he was a staunch devotee of Ramācandra, Rāma rule, and Mahāprabhu sometimes showed that: "I am Rāma, I am Kṛṣṇa, I am Nīmāi Paṇḍit, Lord Gaurāṅga." Both, done in this way and the vāmśi and duṇḍa come under the sannyāsā.

Devotee: Since most of the people that come to the temple they are Tamils they know something of Ramācandra, they know little bit about Kṛṣṇa. So I thought it might be very nice thing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. How to deal with the basic portion, lower type, to establish that He is Godhead, it will help, but He has come as human being, in the garb of human being to distribute love of Kṛṣṇa, Divine Love. That Mūrti is not very suitable for that purpose, but to establish the position that He's not a human being, He has got His Divine aspect, it will help that well. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: When we approach the public in a civic group or some other kind of organisation, should we approach with the mood that I want to attract just one person to Mahāprabhu's concept or

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I think it will be better as our Guru Mahārāja did in that posture to install the Deity in the temple. In paper you can show so many things, what you say on this Murāri Gupta, this six handed Mahāprabhu, that in your Sādhu-Saṅga paper, here and there, in the books also, that you can have. In the temple as our Guru Mahārāja established that should be more suiting. Rādhā Kṛṣṇa milita not that Ramācandra, Kṛṣṇa and Mahāprabhu are one and the same but here Rādhā Govinda, milita Mahāprabhu, that is the highest position. So when to worship in the temple, that Rādhā Kṛṣṇa.

rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedam gatau tau caitanyākhyam prakāṣam adhunā tad-dvayam caikyam āptam rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitam naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam

"I worship Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, enriched with the emotions and radiance of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. As the predominating and predominated Moieties, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are eternally one, with separate individual identities. Now They have again united as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. This inconceivable transformation of the Lord's internal pleasure- giving potency has arisen from the loving affairs of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa." (C-c, Ādi-līlā, 1.5)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is the highest conception, representation of Mahāprabhu and this (ṣaḍ-bhuja) is in the lower to show that Mahāprabhu is Rāma, Mahāprabhu is Kṛṣṇa and not representing that Rādhā Kṛṣṇa combined, that highest phase is not to be deputed here, but that is what we want more.

Devotee: Because we come in contact with people who voice willingness to surrender, to do sevā, but we find out through the course of our acquaintance with them that their surrender is not very deep, so we desire the association of those who have a deeper understanding of

..

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As much as we get we should utilise that, as much, and we shall depend on the Divine Will. We shall go on working according to the dictation of our conscience and the consequence left on the will of Kṛṣṇa. Always, that should be the maintainer of all our activities to be, then it will be service, not expectation too much for the results. Well and good, if Kṛṣṇa wills it will come. Or I am sparing much labour to one, to A, with less labour, B comes, and this occurs sometimes, that depends on Him. Work is with us, and the result is with Him.

Devotee: Yesterday you were saying that what we are seeing, what we are getting from the environment

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana

mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi

"I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties." (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47) mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr - never entangle with the results of karma, - mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi - at the same time don't leave karma. Go on doing without any expectation about the consequence. According to your conscience go on. And that will come according to the will of Kṛṣṇa. You are working for Kṛṣṇa, not for anything else. This sort of temperament should be always respectfully maintained, that every work is not separate from His will, to satisfy Him, whatever I am doing. To Him, to Vaiṣṇava, to Guru. All the activities should be with such sort of aim that I am doing this to satisfy Vaiṣṇava, Guru, Kṛṣṇa, because I am ordered to do so. If He likes to say that He wants to withdraw me from this field, "yes at once I am ready," no love for the activity in a particular locality, always openness. I am doing His satisfaction, working for Kṛṣṇa, not captured by the local interest. Everywhere local interest comes to capture us, we shall be free. Our aim will be located to higher, not in any mundane hopeful plane.

Devotee: But we don't want our surrender to be lip transaction, we don't want to be just speaking, our surrender.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because I am asked to do so I am doing so, if I am asked to withdraw, I am ready. No local interest, no local love, captured by the local however good or bad. I am a servant of Him, and a slave. I can only inform Him: "The position of this work in this place is such, if I am withdrawn it may suffer to certain extent." At most I can inform Him, but still if He says: "No, no, not necessary." "Yes I am ready." That should be the clear position.

When our Guru Mahārāja went there in Alhanāth near Purī, Jagannātha temple, eight or ten miles off, one devotee named Bivim bramacārī, he was so very busy about the activity there, too busy, fully booked, engaged always, no leisure. Then some devotee asked Śrīla Guru Mahārāja: "He is so busy here, has he got any local attachment of the place?"

Then to test that, Guru Mahārāja called for him, he came.

"You Bivim, I'm thinking that you'll have to go to Māyāpura for service."

"Yes Guru Mahārāja, when shall I go."

Then he says: "No not necessary, you remain here."

Only to test whether local attachment has attracted or not, but when satisfied: "Yes I'm ready, whenever you ask me I'm to go, but no not necessary you remain."

So we shall work in any area but we should not gather any local interest, interest will always be in the centre. I am His servant. Because He has asked me to do all these things, these things have got value. If He asks me to withdraw, this will all be useless. However better it may seem to me in my calculation, important activity, but the spirit will be drawn when He withdraws. Always towards the centre. Do you follow? Because He asks you to do so it is bhakti, it is devotion, not for the practices, but the very life of the service is His order, His will, the centre, all reverential thing.

Devotee: We become tied down in local interest, that means that we are too much concerned with that elevation of that particular group of people.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Particular group, those people, not universal, a particular group. Some obligation, some sort of special relationship with the land, with the people, with particular sect, particular association, facility, we are attached to all these things. But we should mind that we are a slave to One, and here only for His will, and if He wants to immediately transfer I shall go there. I am not indebted to anything else but Him. I am His slave. "I find this place is suitable to work in." At least I may, at most I may inform this to Him: "This is my favourable field." ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ - "This is favourable for my temperament to work." In spite of that: "No, you must go there." "Yes." That should be the attitude. Not love for any particular type of activity. Whatever He requests me to do I am ready, independent of the success or failure, that is in His hand. I am only to show that I am wholesale cent per cent His slave, His man. That is what is necessary in me.

Oh You Lord of Rādhā, I belong to none but You. None can have any influence on me but You. Your slight suggestion is the highest thing in me. In the prospect of different classes, that has got no charm, no temptation for me. I want You. I want my position in the higher sphere, not that I want to be lost in this desert. Higher and higher sphere. When by test I shall pass, I may be taken to the higher post and I may be entrusted with more faithful service, duty there. Anyhow my concern is with Him, with the Centre, generally for Kṛṣṇa consciousness then it may be transferred, when there I may be posted to some other position, in the Rādhārāṇī's camp, from there in particular group where different types of service are being done, planned and being done there.

So somewhere some bedding, somewhere this ornamental, environment, temperament, somewhere food department, so many departments there. I may be posted in some place according to my inner necessity and the immediate superior will be my guide at that time, within the system of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. In sakhya-rasa, also in vātsalya-rasa, dāsyā-rasa. The direct service of Kṛṣṇa. In the preaching camp also when Kṛṣṇa comes as Mahāprabhu to preach, there also different groups, departments, I may be entrusted, some by their śāstra fighting, Rupa and Sanātana, or like Nityānanda to approach the people and say to take the name of Gaurāṅga and Kṛṣṇa. Different departments. According to His will I shall be doing, but always direct connection I shall keep with the Centre.

Devotee: You once advised me that wherever I go, whatever I do, whomever I meet, whatever crowd of people I associate with, I should always look for that person who can give Kṛṣṇa to me, who can give spiritual realisation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, who can give me help in that direction. With that agent, connecting with him I shall begin any work. That should be happy and progressive.

End of side A, start of side B Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Swāmī Mahārāja (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Mahārāja), he has shown the way to distribute thousands and millions of books and he's making them very colourful with pictures, he's showing like this.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: So as we associate with these different groups of people we are . . . indication of support for Kṛṣṇa consciousness, then repeatedly we're disappointed in a sense that most of the support or most of the people that we contact, they're not very sincere, they may give some support, they may give some sukṛti, maybe jñāta sukṛti, maybe ajñāta sukṛti, but their sincerity is missing, or deep sincerity, or deep understanding and this we find not very satisfying.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What to do?

Devotee: We are successful in our campaign but we don't . . .

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: At most you can change your locality, you may be trying somewhere and little this side, you may go and try another field, then on the third field, at most you can do like that, ultimately it is all prearranged, you think all prearranged.

Devotee: That is what I am doing by your grace. It seems that to find a sincere soul is so rare that we have to scour the globe to try to find one or two.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: koṭi sevi maha muni ? It is said, already noted in the scripture. What you are searching after, the percentage is very, very few. It is not so easy to find them. Mahāprabhu after surveying the whole of South India, He came and Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya, that giant scholar, went to do some service by oiling His feet.

Then Mahāprabhu had a private talk with him. "Sārvabhauma, I made such a big tour but I could not find any devotee of your type, only with the exception of one, Rāya Rāmānanda. Only one I found in My whole tour for two years in the land of the Vaiṣṇava and Ācārya. Rāmānujācārya, all the Ācāryas come from South India, and in that land I made such an extensive tour for two years, but I could not find a single Vaiṣṇava of your standard."

Sārvabhauma was māyāvādī, he had been converted by Mahāprabhu to a particular stage of Vaiṣṇavism and He told: "I could not find a single Vaiṣṇava of your type, only with the exception of Rāmānanda Rāya, he gave Me great pleasure."

Sārvabhauma answered: "So I asked my Lord to meet Rāmānanda there."

"And yes you did and I was satisfied meeting him only, so I could not find a single Vaiṣṇava of your type." In His whole tour, Mahāprabhu said to him that.

So a Vaiṣṇava of that higher type is not to be found here and there like ordinary. But as much as possible let us hope one day they will also rise to higher standard but still that this is the highest type of Vaiṣṇava what Mahāprabhu told it is very rarely to be found.

In ISKCON also at the call of Swāmī Mahārāja so many came, but they can't stand, they're dispersing gradually, going to lower level. It is not very easy to appreciate and stand in the same plane and level, difficult. But still as much as done, that is enough, that is also most valuable. If for a minute, for second, we are in connection with that highest thought, that is not to be undermined, again that will take me in future births. That slight connection for the time being, that is also of rare value, because these things very rarely come to this world to give that connection. So high degree of self surrender through love.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

In the golden age also the meritorious persons they hanker for a birth in Kali-yuga. In the golden Satya-yuga. (kedar desu paja rajan kala vitsanti sambavam ?) They want a birth in this iron age, the golden age people. Some section of golden age people they aspire after a birth in this iron age. What for? A special grant, an extraordinary class of grant has been made by the Lord in this Kali-yuga.

kaler doṣa-nidhe rājann asti hy eko mahān guṇaḥ kīrttanād eva kṛṣṇasya mukta-saṅgaḥ param vrajet

"O King Parīkṣit, the age of Kali, the repository of all evils, has but one glorious characteristic: in this age, those who simply chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa are liberated and reach the Supreme Lord." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.3.51).

One special quality this Kali-yuga has got what others may not have in any time. And that direct by sound, by taking the Name one can attain the highest position. So what Mahāprabhu distributed in Kali-yuga, that is not even to be found in golden age Satya-yuga, it is such a very valuable thing. So a seconds connection with that very high thing, that is more than many things.

(karmaniya sadhyana sadgati vekha bhavati bhava nava tarunena ?)

Even a seconds association with a sādhu, that is not lost, that is kept and one day that will assert gradually and take me to the highest position. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: So they're wanting to come to Kali-yuga because there is a higher position?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: For the rare chance, a chance of rare improvement, attainment, a very valuable attainment, possibility is there in Kali-yuga what is not found in other good ages ordinarily.

Devotee: Who is that group in Satya-yuga ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They have got some sukṛti, previous sukṛti, anyhow some intuition within them, that what is distributed as a special grant in Kali that is the highest realisation. This sort of understanding in the underground consciousness, that is gathered by sukṛti, unknown sukṛti. Anyhow without their consciousness they have been utilised for the, by the higher devotees, their energy connected in some way or other with the devotees of that type, unconsciously. And that is kept there under intuition, suppressed intuition and from that intuition comes suggestion: 'let us have a birth there,' there something peculiarly wonderful achievement and that is most tempting thing to achieve that inner suggestion.

Devotee: And the place they are, Satya-yuga, it is not so high?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're not pleased with meditation, meditation, meditation, of the Deity, meditation of the quality, this, that, an ordinary order. This love, highest divine love dealing is not there, there is only the direct transaction with the highest form of Divine Love is in Kali. Love is greater. There are so many other, they're also power seekers, so many other tempting things are there. May go to Nārāyaṇa, to Rāmacandra, Dwārakeśa, this, that, and so many types of achievements. But the Kṛṣṇa connection, the Vraja connection, the wholesale surrender and what is the outcome there, that is not to be had anywhere and everywhere. svayaṁ bhagavān kṛṣṇa.

nandaḥ kim akarod brahman, śreya evaṁ mahodayam yaśodā ca mahā-

bhāgā, papau yasyāḥ stanam hariḥ

"Kṛṣṇa is said by authorities to be the Supreme Absolute Truth, and that Absolute is crawling in the courtyard of Nanda Mahārāja and sucking the breast of Yaśodā. What type of sādhana, what type of means have they adopted to attain that intimate end?"

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.8.46)

So, he can attend with that truth which is impossible to think, that Yaśodā whipping and He is crying, weeping and whipping and: "Oh mother I won't do it again." With this type of closest connection, with the Supreme. And some other position also. It is not to be found anywhere. So Raghupati Upādhāya says those that are afraid of this mortal world, let them take resort to Mahābhārata, Gītā, Vedānta, Purāṇa, etc. But I don't care for that, I want the charms underlying the pastimes that is found in the house of Nanda.

śrutim apare smṛtim itare, tam anye bhajantu bhava-bhītāḥ aham iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde param brahma

"Those who fear rebirth in this world may follow the advice of the Vedic scriptures - others may follow the Mahābhārata - but as for me, I follow Nanda Mahārāja, in whose courtyard the Supreme Absolute Truth plays as a child."

(Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.96)

Śruti, Smṛti, Purāṇa, so many things, they're also giving very high things but that is tasteless to me. I want this Nanda and Yaśodā. How they have got that very thing, which is so precious and which is sought in such a grand and most painful way to reach there? And that thing has come here, and easy thing like you and me, in this way. A family life, a family life, we have to see that Parābrahman. Is it reliable? If it is so I want this and nothing else, no other. The achievement of Vedānta, the achievement of Mahābhārata, the achievement of Gītā, or achievement of other Purāṇa, I don't want it. But Bhāgavata has given the family life with the son's play, that is the most charming.

I don't go to this Veda, or the Purāṇa, or the Smṛti, or the Vedānta, (ditakur ?) the reasonable aspect to understand the Absolute. All dismissed. Only I want this, intimate family life with the Lord.

Devotee: But in Satya-yuga ninety eight per cent of the association is pure devotee.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not this type of devotee, this type of devotee is unknown. In Satya- yuga the mass is of better character. Amenable. Not much trouble in the administration or in the social dealings. That is Satya-yuga, all God fearing in general. But that does not mean the highest standard of theism is there. It is not so. The majority are religious minded, that is Satya-yuga, but the standard of theism, religion, that is not very high. That is independent of any yuga but has special connection with Kali-yuga, by the sweet will of the Lord.

When Kali-yuga is coming, approaching, all the good men, the Ṛṣis, they are feeling much pain within their heart: "The Kali-yuga is coming, how the people will start to suffer, they will do so many heinous wrong things and they will have to suffer the consequence. How to save them?" The Ṛṣis are approaching towards Vasudeva: "The Kali- yuga is coming very soon, how those selfless people, unfortunate people can be helped?"

To consult with Vasudeva, the leaders of the Ṛṣis, they have come, and at that time Vasudeva has gone to take bath in Saraswatī River. The Ṛṣis impatiently they went to the river, ghāt, and there they found that Vasudeva is taking bath and is saying: "You Kali are very fortunate, you śūdra you are very fortunate, you strī (female), you are very fortunate." He's uttering these words and taking bath.

They were surprised, the Ṛṣis: "We have come, how to help the Kali, the śūdras, the strī and these Kali-yuga persons, and Vasudeva he says, that you Kali you are fortunate, you śūdra of lower class you are fortunate, you woman section you are fortunate. What is this?"

Then Vasudeva came out. They're standing on the banks of the river, then after giving and taking formal respect, then asked: "You have come to see me, any particular purpose?"

"Yes, we came for particular purpose but before that we want to hear from you, while taking your bath you were chanting these expressions, the kali danya, women you are danya fortunate. What is the meaning of that?"

Vasudeva said: "Because I saw that the Lord has made some special sanction for the Kali-yuga and that surpasses the fortune of the other yugas also, if it can be utilised."

"Is it so?"

Then in his āśrama they came and it was discussed elaborately. How? What sort of fortune? What is the special grant for the jīva in this Kali-yuga ? And they went back satisfied. "Yes, the special incarnation is deputation is coming to help the Kali."

So when ordinary persons, good persons, their heart cries for the pain and misery of the Kali-yuga, the Lord is also there, His heart also means to help the Kali who are especially under misfortune. And it has been, it is divine provision, providential arrangement, that this will be distributed, the highest thing will be distributed in the worst of the time. The best thing in the worst. asatu sada jayatu ?

Misery attracts, and the famine attracts the king's donation, special donation, something like that.

Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari .

I shall close now.

All of his life he took the Name of Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa Nāma, but just at the time of his disappearance he took the feet of Mahāprabhu's grace, best, and his look, eyes fixed in the eye and face of Mahāprabhu and:

śrī kṛṣṇa caitanya nāma parite carana nameśvara hitvan kailava karna ?

And when he took the Name of Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya, the life vanished, the whole life with most earnestness, ideal earnestness, he was taking the nāma of Kṛṣṇa but the last moment he took the Name of Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. Then who is Kṛṣṇa Caitanya? We are reminded, who is Kṛṣṇa Caitanya and the result, the consequence of the whole life, taking the Holy Name, Divine Name, the last result, the fruit, ripe fruit came as Kṛṣṇa Caitanya and he disappeared with the sound. This is peculiar thing. And Mahāprabhu Himself went to the Prasāda dealers.

'haridāsa-ṭhākura mahotsavera tare prasāda māgiye bhikṣā deha' ta' āmāre'

"I have come to beg some Prasāda from you, to do the festival of Haridāsa Ṭhākura." (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 11.74)

Mahāprabhu Himself has come to beg. The dealers, they have come with full pot to give Him. Then Svarūpa Dāmodara he stopped them: "No, no." He made some sign: "Don't give to Him, I am making arrangements to take." Then he came to Mahāprabhu: "You go and they will all give and I am taking with persons whatever necessary I am taking. You please go home to Your own quarters."

Then sitting along with the devotees, Mahāprabhu took that Prasādam and told: "Whoever in connection with Haridāsa Ṭhākura, they will all get kṛṣṇa-prema, in any connection. Whoever has taken to the burial ground, whoever has helped with little, throw of little sand to the burial ground, and whoever has come to take this Prasādam, any way connected with Haridāsa Ṭhākura, will give you best reward in the Divine Love."

They heard like that. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Namācārya Haridāsa Ṭhākura.

And he was a great sufferer, he was Mohammedan by birth, or by social custom. Some say brahmin's son in childhood he was stolen by some Mohammedans. Anyhow, he was in the Mohammedan society. And they saw that we convert Hindus to our religion and Hindu converted into Mohammedan? They could not tolerate, so serious punishment was dealt to him. He was whipped in twenty-two markets, showing to the people no such commitment can ever happen. But still Haridāsa Ṭhākura he could not leave this kṛṣṇa- nāma. Was so heavily punished, still he retained his attachment towards Kṛṣṇa. And Mahāprabhu took him to Purī where they're mainly Hindu population and hater of Mohammedans. But Mahāprabhu made arrangements for a special place through the help of the Rāj Guru and the king to allow Haridāsa there, for twelve or eighteen years or so. And he passed away before Mahāprabhu, other devotees they passed afterwards, Haridāsa Ṭhākura passed away just before Mahāprabhu.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Generally the sannyāsīns have got a custom to observe four months rest in one place during the rainy season. They generally stay in one place for four months in this rainy period and after the end of the period, no, in the middle of that, after two months, this pūrṇimā, they have a shave, clean shave, today is that day to have a clean shave for the sannyāsīns. The name is viśvarūpa kor ? kor means the blade by which shaving is performed. viśvarūpa kor, the name, this is the kor, this is the shaving, it's name is viśvarūpa. Whether, this is to commemorate the name of Viśvarūpa, the elder brother of Mahāprabhu who took sannyāsa and who disappeared in Pandapura. Śrī Ranga Purī gave this news to Mahāprabhu when He visited Pandapura. Here his name was Śankara Aranya and he disappeared in this holy place. Previous name was Viśvarūpa. Previous or not, may be not associated with his name because from previous time, before his disappearance, these things are going on. So viśvarūpa kor, viśva karma we are, is finished, near by, and viśvarūpa kor.

Devotee: Mahārāja, there are two verses which are composed by you when Haridāsa, Śrīla Prabhupāda Bhaktisiddhānta Śrīla Swāmī

Devotee:

śrī-siddhānta-saraswatīti vidito gauḍīya-gurv-anvaye bhāto bhānuriva prabhāta-gagane yo gaura-saṁkīrtanaiḥ māyāvāda-tiṁgilodara-gatān uddhṛtya jīvanimān

kr̥ṣṇa-prema-sudhābdhi-gāhana-sukhaṁ prādāt prabhuṁ taṁ bhaje

"Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura is well renowned within the select line of the magnificent Gauḍīya preceptors. He appears in the morning sky like the radiant sun and resounds the wonderful glories of Śrīman Mahāprabhu, delivering the poor souls helplessly devoured by the whale-swallowing doctrine of impersonalism. I worship that great master who allowed the fallen souls a precious chance to dive deeply into and experience the bliss found in that ambrosial ocean of pure love for Lord Kṛṣṇa."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A similar śloka, that is in the praṇama mantra, that is in the list of obeisances to guru-paramparā I have composed. śrī-siddhānta, the great Vaiṣṇava who was known as siddha Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī in the list of guru-paramparā. māyāvāda- tiṁgilodara-gatān, his general activity was to save and to deliver those people who are diving in the ocean, who have dived in the ocean of māyāvāda. That everything is māyā, māyā, all misunderstanding. And above māyā, what is unknown and unknowable non- differentiated entity, this is māyāvādā. Whatever is known comes within the jurisdiction of our subject, our thinking, that is all māyā. And beyond māyā only non-differentiated, non-specified thing, unknown and unknowable, never knowable and known.

So kr̥ṣṇa-līlā, Nārāyaṇa, Gaura, all these religious conceptions, they are within the māyā but holding the higher position in the māyā, satya-guṇa. Nārāyaṇa, Viṣṇu, all these in satya-guṇa, rāja-guṇa, tama-guṇa, satya-guṇa, divisions. In satya-guṇa, all these religious conceptions. But nirguṇa means summation of all negation, no positive assertion there, this is māyāvāda. māyāvāda tiṁgilo,tiṁgilo you know which can devour the whales.

In ancient India there was a conception that in the ocean, not only the whales are the biggest fish, but there is another type which can devour even these whales. timĩᅅgilo, gil means swallow, devour, who can swallow the great whales also. So big.

So māyāvāda, in the religious conception it is like timĩᅅgilo. They accept all religious concepts: "Yes you come, it is also a particular section but it is also māyā. And above māyā there is Brahman, unknown and unknowable, some conscious substance which can never be known. You admit that and we accept you, whether you are worshipper of Gaᅇśa, or Śakti, or Viᅅᅇu, or Śiva, or Kali, or anyone like Jesus, or Mohammed, it does not matter. But ultimately this is all different types of conceptions about religious matter.

But ultimately you are to accept unknown and unknowable in the highest. This is all in this misconception area, a degree of misconception." So this is timĩᅅgilo, the devourer of so many whales. māyāvāda-timĩᅅgilodara-gatān uddhr̥tya jīvanimān. And he delivered them from this misconception.

bhivava bahu migam mukti mohanta datri ?

Liberated them from this great ignorance that the highest position is summation of all negation. No real positive is there. This is negative side. Positive is there and positive is differentiated and specified. And there is subject, object and so many divisions for the..., only difference, here exploitation, there dedication.

tam eva hanta mano vaca ?

What is not there in the cause, how can it come in the effect? So there is also movement and this is the perverted reflection here in the mortal world, but originally that must be there. What is not in the cause can never come in the effect. And that is supposed to be the cause then, this differentiation, specification, all these things, must be there. That cause must contain what we find in the effect. In any form or other.

Devotee: So what is the meaning of this line then, māvāda-timīlōdara etc ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who are already within the belly of the māvādins, of those nihilists, spiritual nihilists, he took them out from that belly. ragatān uddhṛtya jīvanimān. Then in the ocean of the Divine Love of Kṛṣṇa you put them and help them to take bath and have their pastimes in that ocean of love of Kṛṣṇa. The ultimate cause is love and you can swim there in that ocean of love and that sort of happiness you gave to innumerable persons that were captured ultimately by māyā. Who did this? I signed on myself in the service of his feet.

Then there is another

End of recording.

83.10.25

Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ. "Oh all you sons of the universe, please listen. You are the son of nectar, you are all drops of nectar within, and outside, this poisonous food. You think yourself like that and attempt to regain your own position eternal, inner position, it is with you but anyhow you have missed it. You are unconscious of your own wealth within." So work for that, that what is within you:

kr̥ti-sādhyaḥ bhavet sādhyā-bhāva sā sādhanābhidhā nitya-siddhasya bhāvasya prākāṣyaṁ hṛdi sādhyatā

"The process of devotional service - beginning with chanting and hearing - is called sādhana-bhakti. This includes the regulative principles that are intended to awaken one to devotional service. Devotional service is always dormant in everyone's heart, and by the offenceless chanting of the Holy Names of the Kṛṣṇa, one's original dormant Kṛṣṇa consciousness is awakened, as the beginning of sādhana-bhakti. This can be divided into many different parts, such as, - faith, association with devotees, initiation by the spiritual master, engagement in devotional service under the instructions of a spiritual master, steadiness in devotional service and the awakening of a taste for devotional service. In this way, one can become attached to Kṛṣṇa and His service, and when this attachment is intensified, it results in ecstatic love for Kṛṣṇa." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.2)

Sādhana, a means to end, what is the nature of the means to end means, kr̥ti-sādhyaḥ bhavet sādhyā-bhāva sā sādhanābhidhā. The sādhana, the means, this name has been given to a particular process, sādhyā-bhāva, that is within you. You are to discover, to discover your own wealth.

Mahāprabhu has given an example. (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20. 127-136)

A poor man he has got some money underground, within his room, and some astrologer has told him: "Oh you are suffering from poverty but you have got money underground, in your room. But don't approach from the Southern side, there are the hornets. And never from the Western side, there is a witch, wizard. And also not from the Northern side approach, there is a python. But only try from the Eastern side, easily you will get the jar, and by enjoying the property you'll be removed."

So He says: "From the Southern side means by the help of karma, by the application of our energy. That means whatever we shall do, its particular conscience won't allow us to get leave, we must suffer or enjoy the consequence of that karma. Whatever the energy we should spare for utilisation, or something like that, we must have to suffer the reaction. So every action, every reaction, and we will be bound down with that, so leave that ambitious life, that with my own energy I shall earn that highest grace, give up that life.

Then another is yoga. By controlling our own internal system we may direct our attention towards the high. By practising so many physical methods, and also internal, mental methods. By ascending methods on the whole, to raise ourselves up with our own attempt, own energy, own intellect.

Yoga system, that is many siddhi, many mystic powers will come in your possession, and they will take your attention on different sides, and the right thing you won't be able to reach nearby. So many mystic powers will misguide you. Wonderful results of that psychic power. That is yoga, searching by ourselves from the gross to subtle plane of things.

Then there is a third course, jñānam, by cultivating. 'Who am I? What is this world? The all comprehensive thing is what? I'm a part of that. In this way, I am a point of spirit, a spark, ātmā, and there is that ocean of that light, or the eternal sky like thing. I'm a part of that, the whole conscious ocean, I am a drop of that.' In this way if you go on cultivating that oneness of consciousness, that will swallow you, and you will lose your individual consciousness. Individual enterprise will be merged in the whole, and you will be nowhere. You'll enter into the ocean of knowledge without being able to keep up your individual consciousness. So die, like a python that will swallow you, devour you. So that is also not serving the real purpose.

So approach from the Eastern side, that is devotion, that is the way of surrender. Don't utilise your own ability. You are finite, don't depend on your own ability to know the Infinite. But to come to the Infinite for a finite, the best process is to surrender to Him: 'Please accept me, please inform me who am I.' You are subject, He is Super-subject. Give Him to take initiative for your good, don't take it in your hand. Try to look at the environment as your guardian.

The first mantram of R̥g-Veda asks us to, whenever we approach to do anything, it says: "Think who you are, you are approaching towards something, before that you have your own conception of what you are."

om̐ tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya divīva cakṣur ātataṁ tad viprāso vipanyavo jāgrvāṁśāḥ, samindhate viṣṇor yat
paramaṁ padam

"As the sun and sunlight is continuous over the skies as light-giver to us (for that sunlight is the universal form of the Lord) similarly, the Divine Lotus Feet of the Lord Śrī Viṣṇu is always spread widely (like a canopy) over our head." (R̥g-Veda, 1.22.20)

You think of the environment, what relation that has on you. tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ. The all pervading entity, His lowest portion nearest to you. paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya divīva cakṣur ātataṁ. The spiritual scholars, experts, they see them, see it as, paśyanti suraya divīva cakṣur ātataṁ, just like a big eye, like a sun, like a sun, His big eye spread over your head, guardians eye. With this consciousness you approach to anything and everything. Guardians eye like the sun, so much concrete, He's looking after you, taking care of you. With this consciousness you approach to any and every action to perform any duty, 'the guardian's searching eye over your head,' then any misdeed will be impossible for you. If you approach anything and everything with this ideal, 'the vigilant eye over me,' of the Supreme, then how should we be? We cannot conceive anything. So hypocrisy should be banished, straight working will come, plain thing. We cannot but make ourselves one with simple, plain, true things, cannot conceal anything within our self. So the environment is not blind or matter, but it is conscious, and it is friendly, it is like guardian. Try to understand, read the environment in such a way. Not only is it all knowing, but it is friendly, and affectionate to you. Culture at every step, every moment, this consciousness, and easily, and in short time, transformation will be good and thorough.

Put yourselves in the relativity of the highest consciousness as well as highest affection, affection is better than knowledge, higher than knowledge, affection, love, that is the finding of the devotional section. Heart is higher than brain. We are more in the heart than in the brain. Our real existence is in the heart. So try to reveal your heart's trust, quench your hearts trust, and approach in this way. Eliminating, neglecting, the prospect of energy, atomic energy, our brain behind the atomic energy, but come to the solution of the demand of your heart. They say that for humanity sake, give up search after knowledge of destruction. Now the general cry is like that appealing to your heart, give up your brain design production, brain production, save us, appeal to your heart how it is better. So solution of our heart, that is the highest achievement, we must try for that.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. prema, love divine. Dedication is wealth not exploitation. One is not great by the capacity of his exploitation, but by the capacity of his dedication he should be given position whether good or bad, high or low, by dedication, how much he can dedicate. And dedication must not be misguided, dedication to the proper centre, to the truth. And truth is one with love. Truth, affection, beauty. Truth is not law, mere law, abstract law. But that is living thing, there is heart, truth is personal, truth is person. And the person, that guardian, friend, not only a commanding guardian but friend, heart to heart. And more than that. Sonhood of Godhead, consorhood of Godhead.

It has been found that how one lady during the time of Swāmī Mahārāja, about one hundred and fifty came here, and in this hall delivered a lecture, and one lady among them told. "What has attracted us to Swāmī Mahārāja is this, that we are thinking where is God? God is at infinite distance, unapproachable. But when we heard that we can live with God, and as family man, we can serve with our affection God Himself. Such prospect drew me here under his feet, that God can be so near, as we can serve Him as family man, our Master. What more could we want? This has attracted us."

He's friend, not only father, but He's friend, He's consort, He's everything. He loves me more than I may hope to love me, caretaker, everything. We are to find out such plane of living where we can throw ourselves with the highest confidence, that Dhāma, Dhāma, where the slavery is unknown.

I think I read from history when Megasthenes (302-288 B. C.) came to visit India, he gave some description of the Indians at that time. There was one, slavery was unknown, and the stealing, and so many other dirty things were unknown to the Indians. Now also amongst the Aborigines, we also, sometimes, we find they do not know to steal, they do not know to lie, hypocrisy they do not know. So there is a soil, there is a plane, where all these deceptive mentalities, tendencies, unknown. Rather positive affection is flowing everywhere, and of highest degree of confidence. We are to, with the help of our inner most plenary tendency, most fundamental tendency, with that help, śraddhā, we can find out that plane for our living, for our living.

svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti: (This is Vṛndāvana, which is so friendly, so sweet, so near to us, and such a well-wisher of ours. We are quite at home there, sweet, sweet home.

In our innate and innermost existence, we are members of that plane.) Our inner existence is meant to live in that soil, it is like that, it is like that.

Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the full-fledged theism of the ancient Indian Vedic culture, came to inform this act in the first chance. And Mahāprabhu, Śrī Caitanya Deva, took it from there. That this is the ripe fruit of the tree of knowledge, tree of Vedic, or revealed knowledge. The acme, the highest, the fruit which comes naturally and which is ripe, just in the form of highest utilisation. And Śrī Caitanya Deva pointed out all other sources, or alternatives of proposals, they are stale. Now the new thing has been discovered. Direct transaction with the Divine Love. And the shortest route is this with the help of Divine Sound.

Try to go to Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead, Reality the Beautiful. He's commanding everything, the power is not commanding, but love is all commanding, that is commanding. The highest controller is not power, nor justice even. Justice is present there where there many partners, many demanders play the part, various parts, but where is one authority, there mercy, land of mercy. Everything belongs to Him, He's not to come under law in His behaviour to others, everything is for Itself. Dr Hegel says: "Everything is for Itself, Reality is for Itself." Everything belongs to Him, He's the Master Absolute, everything meant for Him. So no law, no justice, only favour, only favour can show surrender and get favour. That is the simple transaction and there is ample, no possibility, He's not bankrupt, so no possibility of being dealt with any despair.

This human birth valuable and fit for such search. There are other hopeless alternatives of our existence. In Christianity, or in Muslim theory, it is not accepted generally that any animal and the trees, creepers, they have souls, this is person below, under, within. They're of equal position, status, with us, but by karma now reduced to such inert section. Internally they hold the same status with us. But this human birth has been said to be very precious, very, very, valuable, because here with the help of the Divine Agent, we can help us to the greatest degree possible. So such valuable time, don't waste with any other thing, any other engagement than this attempt, this search of your love, of your heart, Lord of heart. Try, after a few days, you may lose this chance, you may have to go to some other species, it is not impossible. Ball coming near the goal, if we miss, then we repent. But ball is moving freely in the field, no repentance, no disturbance or disappointment. But if coming to the goal, if we miss, then we repent very much that I have lost the chance. So our birth has come to the human species, near the goal, from here working faithfully, properly, we can go out of this life of bondage. Not only in the positive attainment.

So in any way we may, to help us and to help others, to help others. Mahāprabhu told, Bhāgavat told: "Go to help others and you are automatically helped. When you go to help others in that direction, you are to energise to your best ability, and that influence comes within to work." So kīrtan unto taroṇa ? When you go to preach, at the same time you preach automatically in yourself, in your heart. The greatest command of that energy you will have to acquire when you go to preach. So offensive for offensive. The environment aggressive, they're trying to influence you from all sides, māyā, misconception.

Īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, yat kiñca jagatyāṁ jagat tena tyaktena
bhuñjīthā, mā gṛdhaḥ kasya svid dhanam

"Everything animate or inanimate that is within the universe is controlled and owned by the Lord. One should therefore accept only those things necessary for himself, which are set aside as his quota, and one should not accept other things, knowing well to whom they belong." (Śrī Īśopaniṣad, verse 1)

Īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, everything belongs, or working on behalf of the Lord. That is the real thing, but we consider that everything is moving how far to satisfy myself in bondage. Or so many other selfishness, extended selfishness. National selfishness, extended selfishness. Humanity, nation, country, that is extended fight between greater bigger unit, while being, small unit and bigger unit. To Infinite, that bigger or smaller has got no value, no value. So try to preach to break all sorts of separate interest, and try to find in harmony with the one interest. Īśāvāsyam, everything for Himself, I am for Himself. He has got every right over me, over anything. He can make or mar. Whole right concentrated with the centre, and the centre Absolute good. When centre is Absolute Good, as much power is concentrated there, it is so much better for everyone. So that shows it is so, and you try to read it. Everything for Himself, I am for Him, and there lies my best chance and prospect, that I am for Him. He's so good

End of side A of tape - side B.

As much power is concentrated there, it is so much better for everyone. So that shows it is so and you try to read it. Everything for Himself, I am for Him, and there lies my best chance and prospect, that I am for Him. He's so good that to become for Him, it is the highest reward in ones life. He's so good, infinite goodness. So pure optimistic in the fullest extent He comes, try to read the world in that way, no enemy. At present of course, you are to find some sort as long as you are weak you'll have to consider some thing. That sort of warning is also given, but our object, our destination is such, everything good.

tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam hṛd-
vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk

Lord Brahmā says: "One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days

practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8)

No apathy on the other side, you are responsible for your own past, present, future, you are responsible. You are detached because you have detached yourself from the environment, from the whole. State management, when it is given to the, from particular party to the government, when a party, a company cannot conduct the institution who gives to the government, like that you give up your state management to the Supreme Authority, the best, highest authority, and live under Him, surrendered. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

This is the general background of devotion, that is the highest prospect of all. Please try to be centralised, try to be centralised, and the centre is such and such. In all respects, it is the most desirable, centre is this, so don't be afraid of being robbed or being deceived. Be good and you cannot but come in the association of the good, because the goodness, good environment is conscious, and judicious, and affectionate, loving.

It is told that when the soul after emancipation joins the līlā of Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa accepts him, welcomes him like a madman, mad friend. He's suffering so long, his absence, separation. God receives a newcomer there.

"So long I am suffering your separation My friend, how could you live in the foreign land, neglecting Me, My friend, how could you do it? I remember everything. When you began your journey to this side you were insulted by so many, in so many variegated ways. You did such and such things as austerity, this thing, that thing, I am conscious. You begged door to door thinking of Me, taking My Name. I am fully awake to all those facts, but it was necessary, now you have come." Followed that Lord. He embraces him and gets fainted.

Sanātana Goswāmī has given this expression in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta. When first man, when he enters the līlā of Kṛṣṇa, he sees in such a way. To the servant He extends His feet. To the friendly He touches by the hand. To the motherly friend section He's kissing, and to the, as a consortherhood, He embraces the newcomers, and with Divine affection to the highest intensity. So much so He forgets Himself for the time being. So kind, so benevolent, so affectionate.

Anyhow we are to take ourselves to that plane of living, plane of living, there is different, it cannot be ignored. In the human section also classification, atheist, pure atheist, but atheist and moralist, moralist but not theist. Then imaginary theist and moralist, human section, the particular section. Then really theistic and moralist, there begins varṇāśrama dhārma. Then approaches further, further towards Godhead. But the highest stage, no question of morality, everything comes out from Him, everything belongs to Him. This consciousness eliminates morality even, but that has got morality in their own land, that is another thing. The decisions here, that cannot go there, not go there. There also is motherly affection, friendly affection, consort affection, that rasa. They have got their adjustment, adjustment, but that is another thing. Everything in connection with the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, rasābhāsa, that clash between different rasa is not desirable there also. There of course it is all right, automatically, like computer, everything is automatically done, but when we approach towards that, these things to be considered for us in the way. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

So you have to come out to help such sort of understanding, preach to the people, we do not know any greater benefit for the society or for mankind, or even more. The best help to society is to give God consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. God consciousness in the highest position is Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Attracting everything towards Him, kṛish means attraction, so many atoms disorganised, only attraction keeps them together and gives a thread from chaos to cosmos. So attraction when living it is love.

Attraction, gravitation, attraction, all the planets, everything exists in some ratio of attraction, but attraction endowed with life, that is love, attracting. Conscious attracting another consciousness, that is love, ceta.

Krish, everything, the attraction of all, the centre of all attraction. Krish, and na, and the giving pleasure, distributing joy. Attracting and giving joy, pleasing, that is Kṛṣṇa, in outer sense. And He's person, He's loving, love personified and also distributes love to outside.

And when distributes love in a scientific way He becomes Caitanya Deva, Mahāprabhu, most magnanimous. The highest form, love also there is gradation, the highest degree of love when organised way is distributed to the public, Rādhā Govinda combined, He becomes Śrī Caitanya. Not by history, by any other ancient characteristic, or theory, but in fact in the reality we can understand, see things, tattva dvesti, by the vision eye of our knowledge and love we can have recognition of things outside.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

I had to talk much with those Ramakrishnaites, ha ha, so little tired. Further we shall meet again and I invite some questions from you also.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

But when Mahāprabhu was going to Vṛndāvana via Rāmakeli (A one-time capital of Bengal), after that time He had to come back from Rāmakeli, again He had to go from Purī direct to Vṛndāvana. When going to Rāmakeli He called aloud, Narottama, Narottama, while passing by the side of the birthplace of Narottama Ṭhākura. Narottama Ṭhākura was not born at that time, but very shortly he came in this family.

We are to understand, internally, internal aspect, characteristic of the līlā, līlā means eternally. That is in the most fundamental plane, subtle most plane. It is causeless and it is irresistible, ahaitukī apratihātā, the layer of bhakti, pure devotion, is such, it is eternal, not even the factor of time .

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: (recording too unclear for about ten minutes to transcribe)

..... from the Eastern side, that is devotion, that is the play of surrender. Don't utilise your own ability, you are finite, don't depend upon your own ability to know the Infinite. But treat it more to come to the Infinite for the finite, the best method is to surrender to Him. "Please accept me, please inform me who am I." We're subject He's super-subject. Give Him to take initiative for your good, don't take it in your hands. Try to look at the environment as your guardian. The chief mantram of Ṛg-Veda asks us to whenever we're faced to do anything to face sincerely. We are approaching towards something and we have our own conception of what we are.

om̐ tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya divīva cakṣur
ātataṁ tad viprāso vipanyavo jāgrvāṁśāḥ, samindhate viṣṇor yat
paramaṁ padaṁ

"As the sun and sunlight is continuous over the skies as light-giver to us (for that sunlight is the universal form of the Lord) similarly, the Divine Lotus Feet of the Lord Śrī Viṣṇu is always spread widely (like a canopy) over our head." (R̥g-Veda, 1.22.20)

You think of the environment, what relation that has on you. Tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ, the all-pervading entity, His lowest portion nearest to you, paramaṁ padaṁ. Sadā paśyanti suraya divīva cakṣur ātataṁ, the spiritual scholars, experts, they see them as just like a big eye, like a sun, whose big eye is spread over your head, guardians eye. With this consciousness we approach to anything and everything. The guardians eye like the sun so much thinking that he's looking at everything taking care of you. With this consciousness you approach to anywhere and every action. The guardians searching eye is over your head, then any misdeed will be impossible for you. If you approach to anything and everything with this idea, "the vigilant eye over me of the Supreme," then how should we, we cannot conceive anything. The hypocrisy will be banished. Straight working will come, plain thing. We cannot but try to make ourselves one with simple, plain, true things, cannot conceive anything even in ourselves.

The environment is not blind or matter but it is conscious and it is friendly, it is like guardian. Try to understand and read the environment in such a way. Not only is it all-knowing but it is friendly, affectionate to you. Concern at every step, every movement, this consciousness. And in a short time your transformation will be good and thorough. Put yourself in the relativity of the highest consciousness as well as the highest affection. Affection is better than knowledge, higher than knowledge, affection, love, that is the finding of the devotional section. Heart is higher than brain. We are more in the heart than in the brain, our real existence is in the heart. So try to fulfil your heart's welfare, and approach in this way. Eliminating, neglecting the prospect of atomic energy, or brain behind the atomic energy but come to the position of the demand of our heart.

Humanity says, "give up such affairs, knowledge satisfaction." Now the general cry is like that, appealing to your heart that, "Give up your brains design luxury, brain's luxury, give up, appeal to your heart," heart will say. Solution of our heart, that is the highest achievement and we must try for that. Hare Kṛṣṇa, prema, love divine.

Dedication is love not exploitation. One is not great by the capacity of his exploitation but by the capacity of his dedication. This should be given position, whether good bad, high or low, how much he can dedicate. And dedication must not be misguided, dedication to the proper centre to the truth and truth is one with love. Truth, affection, beauty, this is not mere law, abstract law, but there that is the thing within, there is heart. Truth is person and the person as guardian, friend, not only commanding guardian but friend, heart to heart. And more than that, sonhood of Godhead, consortherhood of Godhead.

It has been found that how one lady during the time of (Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta) Swāmī Mahārāja about one hundred and fifty came here and saw our regular lecture. And one lady among them told: "What has attracted us about Swāmī Mahārāja is this, that we are thinking, 'where is God? God is at infinite distance, unapproachable.' But when we heard that we can live with God as family man, we can serve with our affection the God Himself, such prospect drove me here and everything. That God can be so near as we can serve Him as family man, what more we want? This has attracted us here."

So He's friend, not only father but He's friend, He's consort, He's everything. He loves me more than I may hope to love me. We are to find out such plane of living where we can throw ourselves in the highest sentiment, that Dhāma. That Dhāma where slavery is unknown.

I think I read from history where Megasthenes (302-288 B. C. - he wrote extensively on the subject of pre-Christian roots of Vaiṣṇavism) came to visit India he gave some description of the Indians at that time. There was one, "slavery is unknown," and "the stealing and so many other dirty things were unknown to the Indians." Now also among the aborigines sometimes we find that they do not know to steal, do not know to lie, hypocrisy, so many things.

So there is a soil, there is a plane where all these deceptions, deceptive mentalities, tendencies are unknown. Rather positive affection is going everywhere at to the highest degree of confidence. We are to, with the help of our innermost plenary tendency, most fundamental tendency, with that help, śraddhā, we can find out that plane for our living.

svarūpeṇa vyavasthitiḥ

("This is Vṛndāvana, Vṛndāvana is so friendly, so sweet, so near to us, and such a wellwisher of ours. We are quite at home there, sweet, sweet home. In our innate and innermost existence, we are members of that plane.")

Our inner existence is meant to live in that soil, it is like that, it is like that.

Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the things that were given of the ancient Indian Vedic culture came to inform this activity in the first chance. And Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva took it from there. That this is the ripe fruit of the tree of knowledge, the tree of Vedic, or revealed knowledge. The acme, the highest, the fruit that has come naturally and which is ripe. Just in the highest form of utilisation. And Śrī Caitanyadeva pointed out all other processes of alternatives or proposals are stale, now the new thing has been discovered. Direct transaction with the divine love and the sort of fruit is this with the help of divine sound try to go to the Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead, Reality the Beautiful.

He's commanding everything. The power is not commanding but love is all- commanding, that is controlling. The highest controller is not power nor justice even. Justice is present there where there are many partners, many demanding to the power in various ways. But where there is one authority, then mercy, the land of mercy. Everything belongs to Him. He's not to come under law in His behaviour to others. Everything is For Itself. Just as Hegel says: "Everything is For Itself. Reality is For Itself." Everything belongs to Him. He's the master absolute. Everything meant for Him.

So no law, no justice, only favour, so surrender and get favour. That is the simple transaction. And there is ample, no possibility that He's bankrupt, so no possibility of being dealt with any despair. This human birth is valuable and fit for such search. There are other hopeless alternatives of our existence, in Christianity or in Muslim, here it is not accepted generally that the animals, the trees, creepers, they have souls, the person within. They're of equal position, equal status with us, but by karma now this is true, such inert section, but internally they hold the same status with us. But this human birth has been said to be very special, very, very valuable, because, here with the help of the divine agents, we can advance to the greatest degree possible.

So such valuable time, don't waste with any other things, any other engagement than this attempt, this search of your Lord of heart. Lord of heart, try, because after a few days you may leave this chance, you may have to go to some other species, which is not impossible. Ball coming near the goal and if we miss then we repent, but when the ball is moving freely in the field then no repentance, no disturbance, disappointment, but if it's coming to the goal if we miss then we repent very much that we've lost the chance. So our birth has come to the human species near the goal. From here working safely, properly, we can go out of this life of bondage, and not only in the positive achievement.

So in any way we may, to help us and to help others. To help others Mahāprabhu told, Bhāgavata told: "Go to help others and you are automatically helped." When you go to help others in that direction you are to energise with your best ability and that influence comes within to work, so:

kirtaniyat tato varam ?

When you go to preach at the same time you preach automatically in yourself, in your heart. The greatest command of that energy you will have to acquire when you go to preach. So offensive for offensive, the environment is aggressive, they're trying to influence you from all sides, māyā, misconception.

īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, yat kiñca jagatyāṁ jagat tena tyaktena
bhuñjīthā, mā gṛdhaḥ kasya svid dhanam

("Everything animate or inanimate that is within the universe is controlled and owned by the Lord. One should therefore accept only those things necessary for himself, which are set aside as his quota, and one should not accept other things, knowing well to whom they belong.") (Śrī Īśopaniṣad, v 1)

Everything belongs to or is working on behalf of the Lord. That is the real thing but we consider that everything is moving how far to satisfy my self in bondage or so many others. Selfishness, extended selfishness, national selfishness, extended selfishness. Humanity, nation, something, that is extended. Fights between greater, bigger units has been, either small units or bigger units to infinite that bigger or smaller has got no value, no value. So try to preach, to break all sorts of separate interest and try to find in harmony the one interest, īśāvāsyam. Everything For Himself, I am For Himself. He has got every right over me, over everything. He can make or mar. The whole life concentrated with the centre and the centre Absolute Good, the prime centre is Absolute Good and as much power is concentrated the it is so much better for everyone. So that shows it is so and you try to read that Everything is For Himself, I am For Him and there lies my best chance and prospect that I am For Him, He's so good

End of side A, side B, 25.10.83.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: as much power is concentrated there it is so much better for everyone. So that shows it is so and you try to read that Everything For Himself, I am For Him and there lies my best chance and prospect that I am For Him. He's so good that to become For Him it is the highest reward in one's life. He's so good, infinite goodness. So become pure optimistic to the fullest extent. Try to read the world in that way, no enemy. At present of course you are to find some sort as long as you are weak you have to consider something, that sort of warning also given. But the object, our destination is such, everything good.

tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam hṛd-vāg-vapurbbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk

(Lord Brahmā says: "One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8)

No apathy on the other side, you are responsible for your own past, present, future, you are responsible because you have detached yourself from the environment. State management when it is given to some particular party to the government, when the parties or company cannot conduct the institution, the gift to the government, like that. You give up your state management to the Supreme Authority, the best highest authority and live under Him by surrender.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. This is the general background of devotion that is the highest prospect of all. You try to be centralised, and the centre is such and such in all prospects it is the most desirable centre exists. So don't be afraid of being robbed or being deceived. Do good and you cannot but come in the association of the good because the goodness, good environment is conscious and judicious, affectionate, loving.

It is told that when the soul after emancipation joins the līlā of Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa accepts, welcomes him like a mad man, mad friend who is suffering so long his absence, separation. God receives a newcomer there: "That so long I am suffering your separation My friend. How could you live in the foreign land neglecting Me, My friend, how could you do it? I remember everything. When you began your journey to this side you were insulted by so many in so many variegated ways. You did such and such instead of charity, this thing that thing. I am conscious. You begged from door to door thinking of Me, taking My Name. I am fully awake to all those facts. But it was necessary, now you have come." That Lord, He embraces him and faints.

Sanātana Goswāmī has given this expression in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta. When such a man enters the līlā of Kṛṣṇa, he hints in such a way. To the servant class He extends His feet, to the friendly He touches by the hand, to the motherly section He'll give kisses and as a consortherd He embraces the newcomer. And with His divine affection to the highest intensity so much so He forgets Himself for the time being, so kind, so benevolent, so affectionate.

Anyhow we are to place ourselves, take ourselves to that plane of living. Different planes of living there cannot be ignored. In the human section also there is division, atheist, pure atheist, but atheist and moralist, moralist but not theist. Then an ordinary theist and moralist, in the human section, particular section. Then really theistic and moralist, there begins varṇāśrama-dharma, then approaches further towards Godhead. In the highest stage no question of morality, everything comes out from Him, everything belongs to Him. This conception eliminates morality even, but they have got morality in their own land, that is another thing. The decisions here cannot go there. There also, motherly affection, friendly affection, consort affection, that rasa, they have got their adjustment but that is another thing. Everything in connection with the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. Rasābhāsa gets clash with a different rasa is not desirable here also. There of course it is all right automatically, like computer everything is automatically done. But when we approach towards that these things should be considered by us in the way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

So you have come out to help such sort of understanding which to the people we do not know any greater benefit for the society or for the mankind. Or even more, the best help to the society is to give God consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. God consciousness in the highest position is Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Attracting everything towards Him, kṛṣ means attraction. So many atoms disorganised, only attraction keeps them together and gives the saying, 'from chaos to cosmos.' So attraction when living it is love, attraction, gravitation, attraction, all the planets, everything exists in some ratio of attraction. But attraction if endowed with life, that is love, attraction, conscious attraction, another consciousness, that is love. Kṛṣṇ, everything, the attraction of all, the centre of all attraction, kṛṣṇ, and ṇa, and giving pleasure, distributing joy, attracting and giving joy, He's pleasing, that is Kṛṣṇa, in the outer sense. And He's a person, He's loving, love personified and also distributes love to the outside.

And when He distributes rasa in a scientific way He becomes Caitanyadeva, Mahāprabhu, most magnanimous, the highest form. In love also there's gradation, the highest degree of love when in an organised way is distributed to the public, Rādhā- Govinda combined becomes Śrī Caitanya. Not by history or any other ancient characteristic or any fable but in fact, in the reality we can understand these things, tattva-darśī, by the vision, eye of our knowledge and love we can have recognition of things like that.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!
Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

I had to talk much with those Ramakrishnaites, ha, ha.

Further we shall again meet and I'll invite some questions of you also.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!
Hare Kṛṣṇa.

We are to understand internal līlā, internal aspects, characteristics of the līlā. Līlā means eternal. That is in the most fundamental plane, subtle-most plane. Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: and they are considered in śuddha, pure devotion, Narottama Ṭhākura, up to the point and also too much fervour, sentiment, hopeful and also commenting on the special religious of the time and the outer layer to the highest peak of realisation we found in Narottama Ṭhākura, all in the form of song.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and our Guru Mahārāja (Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura) they accepted Narottama Ṭhākura's composition in sum as in toto, but could not accept many ancient compositions, even that Caitanya-Maṅgāla, or other things, so many other songs in meaning connecting Śrī Caitanya, Nityānanda, could not be accepted. But Narottama Ṭhākura's production fully selected, śuddha-bhakti. Elimination of the, as Rūpa Goswāmī told: anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna, will be eliminated, and also awakening of the acme, high realisation, realised that, Narottama Ṭhākura.

He has accepted Nityānanda as Balarāma, as in Kavirāja Goswāmī, Rūpa and Sanātana also. And not, though this (Samaj Madikesu ?) claims they're descent from Narottama's line but they did not accept this.

Another thing we find in Narottama Ṭhākura, he accepted Lokanātha Goswāmī, in the truth, following the path of śuddha-bhakti and (..... śraddhā ?) But still he accepts in his highest realised stage:

kavi lokanātha pram hati ki boliya (?)

A relative and absolute consideration: "When the day will come my Gurudeva Lokanātha Goswāmī will take me by my hand and put me, produce me near Rūpa Goswāmī who is the general director to sanction rūpānuga-bhajana, give admission? When my Gurudeva will put me there, rūpānuga ?"

That also we find in him.

Jñāna-sunya-bhakti, knowledge-less devotion, something natural. Mahāprabhu told: "eho bāhya āge kaha āra, ("This is superficial; go further.") (see Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.51-313). Nityānanda Prabhu was not a great scholar. It was easy for this society to accept Śrī Caitanyadeva for His high scholarly life, or expression. But Nityānanda

Prabhu was not outwardly a very educated person but He had His fervour, His deep sentiment for Kṛṣṇa, Vṛndāvana, Mahāprabhu Narottama Ṭhākura appreciated that very much.

I think some of the followers of Advaita School did not like Nityānanda at that time.

So in that śloka:

sri pasubala dulacar nitai navailam prema loka bidyate rsi keloka (?)

"We may have the noble lineage, food, and there may be sufficient education, scholarly life, but those are useless. Still it is to be considered as a (member?) as a (aloof?), nothing more than that." So strongly pushing, Narottama Ṭhākura, if they do not have any appreciation for Nityānanda, cannot understand what is love, what is faith, what is devotion. If they cannot appreciate Nityānanda then their scholarship, their lineage has got no value and they should be considered as (this?)."

I think to make the section of the followers of Advaita, they discouraged Nityānanda, did not like His preaching. Nityānanda Prabhu's preaching was to the masses and so we are told that Mahāprabhu had some private talk in Puruṣottama, none knows what was the subject of the talk, of the private conversation and Nityānanda Prabhu came and accepted married life. Because He had to move through the masses and He was guest in the ordinary family, He's there as the guest, so if not married people will say this thing that thing against Him, so He accepted married life. After long time of renounced life He accepted married life. In order to mix with the ordinary masses He would be guest to any home and every home and began preaching about specially Gaurāṅga, bhaja gaurāṅga, kaha gaurāṅga:

bhaja gaurāṅga, kaha gaurāṅga laha gauranger nāma, yei jana gaurāṅga bhaje sei amāra prāna:

("Worship Gaurāṅga, speak of Gaurāṅga, chant Gaurāṅga's Name.
Whoever worships Śrī Gaurāṅga is My life and soul. Come straight to the campaign of Śrī Caitanya and you will safely attain Vṛndāvana.")

"You don't recognise who Gaurāṅga is. What type of highly valuable thing is passing through your door you can't estimate. Accept Gaurāṅga and you'll get the highest thing." That was the tenor, the nature of the preaching of Nityānanda. "Anyhow you come to the feet of Gaurāṅga.
Accept Him and you'll be taken to the highest position you can ever conceive as our highest destination." That was the tenor of His preaching. And going door to door He approached with fervent appeal.
Sometimes He rolled on the door of the parties.

thake bhuli nityananda dhumi bhedi jai (?)

The appealing was so intense, but not high , wandered and rolling on the outer door: "Accept Gaurāṅga. You can't know what a great thing, noble thing that has come down here."

And Narottama Ṭhākura supported Him fully.

"Your learning and your high lineage has no value if you can't, if you fail to appreciate what Nityānanda Prabhu has come to give you." And also he says:

Nitāiyer koruṇā habe, braje rādhā-kṛṣṇa pābe, (Narottama's Manaḥ-śikṣā

)

"Don't venture to approach direct to Vṛndāvana to have entrance into the group of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, that is very, very high. Go through Nityānanda."

Nitāiyer koruṇā habe, braje rādhā-kṛṣṇa pābe.

"If you get the higher education, if you, the student, if they give not much attention in the primary education then they'll have to suffer in the higher education. So we try to get the lessons of Nityānanda, His grace. Get a good foundation, strong, an instant foundation from Nityānanda, then you approach towards Vṛndāvana, you'll not have to come back, fall back, your progress will be solid and happy and no mistake, solid. So don't neglect Nityānanda Prabhu."

In this way Narottama Ṭhākura is trying his best to draw our attention towards Nityānanda Prabhu, the very foundation. Nityānanda is Balarāma and the vātsalya, sakhya, dāsyā, śanta under His command, only with the exception of mādhyura-rasa. But Narottama Ṭhākura says if you can have a good foundation in these rasas that will be higher, high. And in comparison that is complete but don't neglect all this service. Service is the first thing necessary otherwise if you cross them, neglect them and take a jump, you'll have to fall or you'll have to earn something which is not gaining, constantly you'll have to have that.

End of side A, start of side B, 25/27.10.83

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: that comes from mind, a form of thought, production of mind, as you may say. Universal mind and then from there the personal mind.

The play of līlā that is no beginning no end and nothing can oppose it. It is there and you have got that eye, that particular special eye to test it, then you can find it. It is to be read by the experts

So Narottama Ṭhākura's coming and going, that is there and his activities and he was known to that quarter. So Mahāprabhu before Narottama Ṭhākura's appearance He took the name of Narottama. Anyhow, Narottama was born in Malda (?) District, Kheturi and he was the son of a rich family. In his childhood he was indifferent to the worldly life. His elder brother, Krishnananda, Krishna, he was a big zamindar (landowner), so much so that they're called the kings of the locality, Raja Krishnananda.

Narottama Ṭhākura was a bachelor and at the age of about fourteen or so we find that Śrīnivāsa Ācārya and Narottama they came to Navadvīpa. Inner attraction, hearing the Name of Śrī Caitanyadeva they surrendered. So that type of devotion it is not, that was inborn in them, they could appreciate that, "This is our own soil, our own friends, our own relatives, our own destination." Their internal heart could have recognition of the plane Śrī Caitanyadeva came to give us, or show us.

So Śrī Caitanyadeva was at that time in Purī, Puruṣottama Kṣetra, Jagannātha Kṣetra. They came and the second circumambulation of the Dhāma took place. First Nityānanda Prabhu along with Jīva Goswāmī, He began Dhāma parikramā, Navadvīpa Dhāma parikramā, every temple, the different parts of the līlā to see and to show, to appreciate and understand the parts of Mahāprabhu's līlā. First Nityānanda Prabhu began with Jīva Goswāmī and the second is Narottama and Śrīnivāsa. One old brāhmaṇa, he took them, travelled to the different parts of the līlā of Mahāprabhu. Young then, and Narottama was grown up by this time Mahāprabhu disappeared. Anyhow he managed to get to Vṛndāvana accompanied by Śrīnivāsa Ācārya and Śyāmānanda Prabhu he went to Vṛndāvana. When going on the way they heard that Sanātana Goswāmī had disappeared. Broken-hearted they wandered on towards Vṛndāvana. When they reached Mathurā they heard that Rūpa Goswāmī had disappeared as well. They considered themselves to be very unfortunate and anyhow reached Vṛndāvana in the evening.

At that time with great pomp and splendour the āratī of Govindaji in the temple of Rūpa Goswāmī continuing at that time. And specially because Rūpa Goswāmī disappeared there was a great gathering and it was visited, that old temple of Rūpa Goswāmī, in a grand fashion. The upper portion broken by Aurangzeb, still, you can guess how grand and beautiful a temple, beautiful and grand, such combination is very rare. Grand as in the Vaikuṇṭha grand and beauty is Goloka Beauty harmonising the aiśvarya, grandeur, or controlled by beauty, that is very specially found.

There they first met the Goswāmī's, Jīva Goswāmī took care of them and they remained nearly a year in Vṛndāvana. At that time without Rūpa and Sanātana, other Goswāmīs they were still appeared. And gradually Śrīnivāsa took initiation from Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, Śyāmānanda from Jīva Goswāmī and Narottama Ṭhākura took initiation from Lokanātha Goswāmī.

And there is also a story. Lokanātha Goswāmī, he was very friendly and also devoted to Śrī Caitanyadeva from his early life. He was born in Yashohara, next to Nadia (he stayed?) and he's a brāhmaṇa. And he went to Vṛndāvana to live with the Goswāmīs. There, very strictly his abnegation, vairagya, indifference to the world was so much It is told he did not keep a class of water within his quarter because if anyone comes and begs for some water it cannot be avoided, so he did not store any water. If anyone comes and seeks for some water, begs, then it cannot be avoided. So in order to avoid any outsider entering into his compound he lived in such a way, no obligation, cut off from the society.

Always taking the Name won't make any disciples

But anyhow Narottama Ṭhākura's heart was captured by his personality, and he determined that: "I must take initiation from him." He thought, "All the wealth is reserved here, in his store, that store of grace is here, that must be looted."

He was so strict, no door to enter. What did he do? He ran and found out where he goes in the jungle to pass stool and he began to cleanse that place. After a few days it attracted the attention of Lokanātha Goswāmī. "I come here to pass stool but nowadays I find that this place is being cleansed by somebody." So after detecting he tried to watch whose doing all this and how it is going on. One day he caught Narottama, in the later part of the night, caught him red-handed. "Why do you do this?"

Narottama fell flat on his feet: "I want your grace, your blessings. Please forgive me. No other alternative have I got. I can't give my heart anywhere else."

Anyhow

After a year or so they thought and they were requested by the Goswāmī's to go back to Bengal and there preach the doctrine of Mahāprabhu. "These are the scriptures ready for that. Sanātana, Rūpa, they have left many things in book form. Though that should be preached in every nook and corner of the world but now peculiarly we'll have to try in Bengal because the influence of Śrī Caitanyadeva and also Advaita Prabhu, Gadādhara. To preach that is more special thing there, gaurā-līlā. So first you try to make them accepted there and try only from there it will go."

So all the books at that time, no printing press, so all hand written. Those books were carefully put in a big box, two or three maybe. And Jīva Goswāmī Prabhu sent for a bullock cart to carry them from Vṛndāvana to Bengal. And those three they are coming with the cart. Śyāmānanda also took initiation from Jīva Goswāmī, (that is old story told?)

Anyhow, when they reached the district of (Vana Malla Pura ?) near Vishnupura there was an ādivāsī (indigenous) chief, the zamindar (landowner) of the Santhal section, aborigines. Their occupation was somewhat looting, lived on looting.

We find when Sanātana Goswāmī was going to Vṛndāvana he also met a chief of those aborigines, the Santhal. He had an astrologer who found out that eight golden coins were with Sanātana and he will be killed and those coins will be taken off.

And here also we find they're taking each wooden box from bullock cart and their astrologer, they had also an astrologer. He foretold that there are many jewels and gems in those boxes, that was his reading. And so the chief ordered them: "Get them in my house." And at night they're sleeping nearby, but anyhow, stealthily, they managed to take those boxes and carried to the house. Chief Birhambir was his name.

Then in the early morning they found to their big disappointment the book boxes were missing. They tried their best to enquire all around but failed, no trace. Then what to do? Śyāmānanda went to his countryside (Ambika Kalna). Narottama Ṭhākura also went away (to Kheturi Gram) to work. But Śrīnivāsa who was supposed to be the leader, he could not go. He began to wander in the locality half mad in search of those gems and diamonds.

Then anyhow one day, that Birhambir he was a type of Vaiṣṇava, he use to hear bhāgavata-kaṭha, Bhāgavata discourse from one of his guru, or some priest or brāhmaṇa whose name was Vyāsa. And Śrīnivāsa he also now and then joined the class. A young man, beautiful figure, half mad, indifferent, he used to join the class. And he tried his best to conceal his feature, who is he, but anyhow unconsciously he was caught. When the Vyāsa was explaining Bhāgavata he committed some mistake and unconsciously Śrīnivāsa he interjected, "oh, this is not so, it should be this." Then he attracted the notice, the attention of the whole audience.

"What is this? This half mad boy has got such deep knowledge in Bhāgavata. So much so that he's slighting our brāhmaṇa's explanation of that." Then he was caught by the audience, "Who are you? You must speak up."

Then he had to give out the whole history. Then Birhambir he was present there, the local chief, "I'm fully conscious that I have taken and that is all kept here

Then Śrīnivāsa went there and saw and even made some pūjā, āratī, all these things. And Birhambir became his disciple and that was a big centre for preaching there.

And Narottama Ṭhākura was informed that those books had been recovered and they all rejoiced and began to sing. Narottama Ṭhākura anyhow influencing his elder brother, he made arrangement to install Deities in his home on a grand scale. About five Śrī Mūrti's were installed there, I forget the Names. And even that installation, a great festival took place. All the Vaiṣṇava's of the time were invited.

Jāhnavā Devī she herself went there with all her husband's, with all the paraphernalia of Nityānanda Prabhu. Śrīnivāsa Ācārya he was the leader of the function, in possession, the ceremony conducted by Śrīnivāsa Ācārya. And other Vaiṣṇava's, (Śrī Advaita paṇḍit ?) so many others joined.

And such a big saṅkīrtana was performed there that attracted Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu Themselves. And it is told, (some think like impossible?) that both, it is mentioned both (prakat and aprakat ?) different groups of saṅkīrtana parties took, participated there, participation. Mahāprabhu with His own group He was also seen singing and dancing and the then living group also mixing with that group, it was seen sometimes there. So intense invocation of the high divinity was found there that it has been described in this way. The original group cannot avoid this chance of saṅkīrtana as it was done in Śrīvāsa Angan (the place where the house of Śrīvāsa used to be) in the time of Mahāprabhu. So that was also taken down, drawn down by these devotees combined, the devotional method.

Then Narottama Ṭhākura began extensive preaching. He was very lenient. Went up to Manipur and he was very successful there. Even the king and queen of Manipur (with their?) subjects they accepted Narottama Ṭhākura. But he had the relatives, lineage. In the Manipur we see that two kinds of generations reckoned (ptri tantric and matri tantric ?) The area here they're (ptri tantric ?) The lineage is considered from the father's side. And in Manipur and in the Southern area someplace there is (matri tantric ?), the lineage counted from mother, daughter, in this way, mother's side, this line. The Manipur is more or less that matri tantric, mother is the chief, mother, daughter, she will keep there in the (body? gaudi?) and the husband will come and go just like wife as in the (Aryan?) from different (parts?)

So that custom was taken into account. So he was very liberal in his preaching there and was very much successful. The whole of Northern Bengal extended far East from Manipur was attracted by Narottama Ṭhākura. Of course he has written also many poems and they are considered as representing śuddha-bhakti, pure devotion. Up to the point and also too much fervour, sentiment

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: for the practice and diplomacy of misunderstanding, of the misunderstood world, diplomacy, that will trouble us, avoid them. A brāhmaṇa fails to understand, kṣatriya, vaiśya, but an ordinary sensible non-read man, an idiot may understand, idiot not in the sense of devoid of common sense but not such intelligence. Intellectualism is disqualification, jñāna, sunya, bhakti, love, variety, affection, love, that is the attraction, or outcome of the heart. Without brain, animal can live but heart is necessary everywhere for life.

Without brain an animal can live but without heart none can live. Only intuitive knowledge can inform them, no computer to calculate, the brain is a representation of computer. A reflex action that is intuition, unconsciously they can work. The intuition can go above brain calculation. There are so many birds and beasts that can understand that an earthquake is coming but human calculation so far can't understand the earthquake will come so far, or any catastrophe like that.

There are so many things our brain cannot feel, cannot catch, but so many animals they can get some clue before hand. Also in the present current life they can do. But after long and deep research man cannot find anything, beyond their reason.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva jīvanti san-mukharitām
bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vāñ-manobhir ye
prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām

(Lord Brahmā said to the Supreme Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa):

("Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes (kathā), which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3)

They hatefully reject any attempt in the intellectual line. Namanta eva, invite submissive state within you, namanta eva jīvanti, and in that way try to live your life. How to live life? San-mukharitām bhavadīya-vārtām, live the life in the association of the topics about You - about the Lord. Of course, san-mukharitām, not just any topics, but the topics which must come from the genuine source - jñāne prayāsam. jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva, jīvanti san-mukharitām bhavadīya-vārtām, sthāne sthitāḥ.

It does not matter what position at present, he holds. Śruti-gatām tanu-vāñ-manobhir, He is carefully attentive that expressions of good association must be of the genuine type, śruti-gatām tanu-vāñ-manobhir, by thought, deed and word. Wholesale, with a wholehearted tendency, we must try to attain the news given by the agents of the divinity. prayāsa - Then: "Only with that method, Oh Unconquerable! - You are conquered. Only through that process! Sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vāñ-manobhir ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām. In these three planes of life, You are found to be conquered by those only in that process who wholeheartedly attain the teachings of Your divine agents. Wholeheartedly! By thought, deed, and word - then only can they conquer You, Who is otherwise invincible." This is the path to God realisation recommended in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. Kṛṣṇa!

śreyāḥ sṛtiṁ bhaktim udasya te vibho, kliśyanti ye kevala-bodha-labdhaye teṣāṁ asau kleśala eva śiṣyate, nānyad yathā sthūla-tuṣāvaghātīnām

("My dear Lord, devotional service unto You is the only auspicious path. If one gives it up simply for speculative knowledge or the understanding that these living beings are spirit souls and the material world is false, he undergoes a great deal of trouble. He only gains troublesome and inauspicious activities. His endeavours are like beating a husk that is already devoid of rice. One's labour becomes fruitless.")

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.4) + (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.22)

This is the only way of devotion, yet they have rejected it - kliśyanti ye kevala-bodha- labdhaye - they want to have a clear conception of You, Oh Lord, but - teṣām asau kleśāla eva - their attempts have ended only in frustration. These are useless attempts at energising. Only pain is the consequence of their endeavour. nānyad yathā sthūla- tuṣāvaghātinām - just as those that labour much to get out rice from the husk. No paddy, only husk, the cover and they are trying their best to press that husk to take out rice from there. So, jñāna is the heart's cover, it is the outer aspect, this energy and knowledge, outer aspect. The substance, the rice, is devotion, is love. That is the tasteful thing within. Jñāna-karma anavṛtam, other things are mere covers, but things within is what is tasteful. Satyam-śivam-sundaram - sundaram (beauty) is the reality, anāndam, (ecstasy) is the reality and all else is the outer cover. If we mix too much with the cover, then we cannot mix with the substance within. Then, our life is ultimately a disappointment.

naiṣkarmyam apy acyuta-bhāva-varjitam, na śobhate jñānam alam nirañjanam kutaḥ punaḥ śaśvad abhadram īśvare, na cārpitam karma yad apy akāraṇam

("Knowledge of self-realisation, even though free from all material affinity, does not look well if devoid of a conception of the Infallible (God). What, then, is the use of fruitive activities, which are naturally painful from the very beginning and transient by nature, if they are not utilised for the devotional service of the Lord?")

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.5.12)

Naiṣkarmyam apy acyuta-bhāva-varjitam, those that are suffering from hard labour, they want to get rest, naturally. To live their life, they are dependent on labour and that is thought as useless and undesirable - labour and to live. "If I have to live, then I must labour. This is a dishonourable life." So, generally, people's aspiration is, "How to live a life without labour?" Naiṣkarmyam, they are in search of naiṣkarmyam, rest, peacefulness, a life of rest, not the servant of labour.

Naiṣkarmyam apy acyuta-bhāva-varjitam na śobhate, even if it is possible to get it to a certain extent without the connection of acyuta (the Infinite), that it is not estimated as a good gain, a successful life. Why? It is mere retirement, mere retirement in renunciation. That is also considered not to be fulfilment in anyone's life.

Na śobhate jñānam alam nirañjanam, though in that stage, no contamination of birth, death, disease and infirmity; still, that cannot be considered by the Vaiṣṇava's as a very fine life.

Kutaḥ punaḥ śaśvad abhadram īśvare, na cārpitam karma yad apy akāraṇam, then what to speak about this karma, work, labour, which is not done for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. That is labour which is already held in a condemnable position, insulting position. Even that higher position of rest is not considered to be a happy position, what to speak of this laborious life.

What can give fulfilment to both labour and rest? That is Kṛṣṇa, the harmonising principle of both. If you will act to please Kṛṣṇa, serve Kṛṣṇa, then the labour will also be converted into gold, no longer iron. And if the rest, that is, the renunciation, is also performed in the relativity of devotion, divine service, then that has colour - otherwise not. This is the speciality of the Bhāgavat teaching. It is always trying to put the conception of divine love, sentiment, feeling, above our intellectualism and mastery over energy. The master of power and the master of knowledge, if devoid of the master of love they have got no value. On the other hand, devoid of these two, if it is possible to enter into the area of divine love, one's life is successful. His movement is no longer considered as labour and is sambandha-jñāna. This is knowledge about the paraphernalia, who is who. That is not within the jurisdiction of any knowledge that we can get by research. Conduct research into the scientific condition into the nature, not like that. It is fulfilled in itself.

And Devarṣi Nārada came to Vedavyāsa to recommend that, "You must introduce this very clearly in your present book. You have dealt previously with different aspects of knowledge and work, but it is not so clear. So now very clearly and definitely you will have to describe independent of all them, the success of life is there in the full form without the help of knowledge, as well as energy, prayerful energy. Our reinstating is possible, reinstating ourselves to our lost wealth, that is possible independent of this sort of search, only break the seal, bhidyate hr̥daya-granthiś: (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.21)

(bhidyate hr̥daya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ kṣīyante cāsyā karmāṇi, dṛṣṭa evātmanīśvare)

("Thus the knot in the heart is pierced, and all misgivings are cut to pieces. The chain of fruitive actions is terminated when one sees the self as master.")

Break the seal of the fort of the ego and then the natural flow will come and recognise you and have its own thing automatically. Such arrangement is there. So to come home you will have not to take the guidance of any director, or you won't feel any tedious labour in journey. You will be carried by your natural affection, independent of your external guides. It can know his own soil, the plane can understand its own soil, a natural gift of attraction. No scientific search is necessary for that, the automatic attraction. That will bring you there, home.

Bhidyate hr̥daya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ, rather, you will be able to put a stop to your intellectualism, intellectual ambition and aspiration, it is unnecessary. It is wild goose chasing. It will never help me in reaching my goal. You will reject that.

Chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ, there will be no room of any suspicion at all. A natural selection, infallible, natural, whole selection is there. Try to find out that natural thing not acquired, not as the result of any long programme, fulfilling, fighting, war, all these things, quite natural. Only the artificialism in you, that is to be removed. That is to be bid adieu for all.

Bhidyate hr̥daya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ, kṣīyante cāśya karmāṇi, the reactions so long you acquired in your false journey that will evaporate out of itself. No problem! No problem! It is such. No karma, no reaction and no necessity of discovering a new invention. All these things. Progressive knowledge, civilisation, all redundant. Home selection is such. A child can know his mother, a calf also, there are so many cows, yet a calf runs to its own mother. Something like centre, something like natural guidance.

Anyhow you go, not much trouble, not much investigation, nor experiment, nor suspicion, nor clearance of that. Automatic, natural, happy, spontaneous life flow, movement, the interest is love. Love is such, independent of anything it can remain, love, affection, the innermost substance. And the existence is such.

To live, dive into reality they say, dive deep into reality and you are to find your home there. You are a child of that soil, quite comfortable. That is Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu. And that is not a very meagre and abstract thing, hazy thing, but that is the most intense and reality is that. Mahāprabhu showed in His character how much intensely He search for Kṛṣṇa and how intensely He engaged Himself deeply in that līlā of Kṛṣṇa. Ignoring so many facts concrete in the outside world. Forgetting everything, despising everything which is so important to us. So many functions, so many duty considerations, all are neglected and how deeply and intensely He engaged Himself in līlā. Diving deep into it, it captured His whole heart so intensely that externally He was found to be helpless; jumping into the ocean, crossing the wall, coming to the Jagannātha temple unknowingly. What sort of deep attraction did He have for that Reality, Jagannātha?

We see the Vighraha, the wooden form of Jagannātha. But how could He see? Tears running down incessantly filling up so many small pits, one after another, pits are being filled by the tears. What does He see? What is the depth of His vision? Is He seeing the wooden form of Jagannātha that we see? What is He to see? How He is feeling? What intensity is in Him?

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānām, tasyām jāgarti saṁyamī yasyām jāgrati bhūtāni,
sā niśā paśyato muneḥ

("While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un-interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69)

He has shown this is all night to Him. Our day world was really night to Him and what is night to us that was a very clear day to Him. He was fully awake there, He showed by His example. Forgetfulness of this apparent interesting world and what we think imagination, superstition. Deeply diving there, He showed by His own characteristic and nature, own example, own practices, that how sweet, how capturing is the life of a devotee in the internal world of reality.

"When they find Me everywhere, solution finished!"

He is there, what? My duty will be there. The Director, the All-dispensing officer is there. He can make or mar everything. He is there. What I shall feel is my duty towards that thing? So all ties dissolved, no duty, but still I find some inclination in discharging our duty for Him to help Him, to help Him. He's such. And that is our own reward. Not that He wants it. Without my help in discharging duty or service towards Him He will be undone, or He'll be imperfect, not that. My fulfilment is there and no want of accommodation, no bankruptcy there. He can give us engagement, any number of engagements we can get there for our interests. He's all right, without my help He can go, He can do. It is not for that purpose. But for my fulfilment I want that connection of the Infinite. My service won't add something to that, but I will be happy in the highest sense. He is there. Everywhere is He.

So my responsibility is to do good to the work, but still they (the guides) come at His inspiration, His guidance, "Comes to the world to say about Me. Try to recruit them for their fulfilment of life. Not for My necessity, My necessity is that they're suffering. Para- duḥkha duḥkhi (distressed upon seeing the distress of others).

(vairāgya-yug bhakti-rasaṁ prayatnair, apāyayam mām anabhipsum andham kṛpāmbudhir yaḥ para-duḥkha-dukhī, sanātanaṁ taṁ prabhum āśrayāmi)

("I surrender unto Śrī Sanātana Goswāmī, the ācārya of sambandha-jñāna. He is an ocean of mercy and is always unhappy to see the sufferings of others. Although I was blind, in the darkness of ignorance, he gave me the light of transcendental knowledge. He taught me the real meaning of detachment and made me drink the highest nectarine rasa of divine love.") (Ragunātha Dāsa Goswāmī's Vilāpa-kuṣumāñjali, 6)

There is such a conception of life that one has got no pain of his own but still he has got some pain for others. That is also within him but he's not concerned with his own self but concerning the pain of the outside. Such pain is also existent. Dāsa Goswāmī says about Sanātana Goswāmī. Para-duḥkha-dukhī: "You Sanātana, you Gurudeva, you came to help me because you could not tolerate my pain in your heart. So you came to deliver me from my difficulty. But You are perfect in Yourself, You are perfectly in the safest position."

What is that safest position? Not to care anything for him but Kṛṣṇa, that is the highest position showed by the gopīs. "If necessary I can contract eternal hell for my whole life for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa." The most desperate position, self-forgetfulness for Kṛṣṇa, no pain or pleasure for them, still they're found to be in severe pain in separation of Kṛṣṇa. Acintya-bhedābheda (everywhere there is simultaneously something common and something different; inconceivable bipolarity). Not for his own account but for Kṛṣṇa's concern. That knowledge, that position, that friendly connection with Kṛṣṇa, that is intolerable to them, that is intolerable, vipralambha, bheda-bheda. But, the characteristic is this, peculiar, that that pain, that is external, but internally they feel great pleasure, satisfaction.

Here in the opposite world of exploitation, apparently robbing things we find satisfaction, superficial. But there is underground some suspicions that the results won't be very good, the reaction will come to attack me underground. Superficially we may feel.

America conquered Japan, or the world, by atom bomb. Superficially they enjoyed the pleasure of defeating the world. But that is apparent. Internally the apprehension is there, the reaction may come. For such a disastrous action, it is self-condemned. It is not human. Similarly, our victory on the surface, that cannot eliminate the apprehension for the reaction, cannot be satisfied.

In demonic stage, it can absolve to certain extent for ignorance, but pain is there. As much as sensibility, doing heinous action to another, the pain is with that. But there in the Kṛṣṇa conception, just the opposite.

bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite

("The wonderful characteristic of divine love of Kṛṣṇa is that although externally, it works like fiery lava, internally it is like sweet nectar that fills the heart with the greatest joy.") (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.50)

Here also in the world we find so many persons they gave their life for helping others. But they spent all their energy and money for the good of the others. So many examples are there. Outwardly leading a poor life, but internally at mind they are happy. Externally leading poor life but internally happy. So also in Kṛṣṇa conception, those that are wholly given to Kṛṣṇa, externally they may be seen to feel pain of separation of Kṛṣṇa and so many other things, but internally they're in touch with absolute joy. They have done right things.

The quality is in the highest degree, the quality and the joy is of the highest type. Everything for Kṛṣṇa, Reality is for Itself. "I am for Himself. I am in the finest harmony." No hitch, no possibility of any hitch of a dislocated anomaly, smoothly going on, pleasure, no pain, but something natural, peace is there found in that.

"The sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest things."

("Our sincerest laughter with some pain is fraught; Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest thought.")

(The English Romantic poet, Percy Bysshe Shelley, 1792-1822) Gaura

Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

What is pain and what is pleasure? That is to be understood. External pain by which we are captured, but that is not real pain. Internal pain, plenary pain is real pain. So plenary, fundamental pleasure is real pleasure which is very eager in its turn to carry pleasure to you, but you do not care for that.

bhaktis tvayi sthīratārā bhagavan yadi syād daivena nah phalati divya-kiśora-mūrtiḥ muktiḥ svayaṁ mukulitānjali sevate 'smān dharmārtha-kāma-gatayaḥ samaya-pratīkṣāḥ

Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura he sings this for bhakti: "Oh Devotion, you are of such a magnanimous nature, if there is any way that we can have your least favour, then muktī (salvation or liberation) will wait to serve us with open arms. What to speak of muktī, even dharma (ritualistic virtue), artha (affluence), and kama (material enjoyment) will be waiting far, far away for whenever their calling bell is sounding. Then, they will rush to our feet saying, 'What do you want?'" (Śrī Kṛṣṇa Karnāmṛtam, 107)

End of side A, 4/5.11.83, start of side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: a great scholar, when he's going to teach a child he must have to come in the lower position of a child and to educate him. So the whole religious representation they have got such consideration, that, "these persons they must be allowed to eat anything and everything and to do something and they must be satisfied. When that stage is finished then they will have a birth in proper soil and then get higher chance of religious realisation. In an organic whole some sort of connection one must have with the others then everything is all right.

Islam, Christianity, everything has got its place, direct or indirect, some will help us direct and some from indirect. Everything has got its purpose. The hankerings of the material pleasure, they will wait far, far away. Whenever their calling bell sounds they will rush: "What do you want?" The bhakta is there. They're always eager to serve him but he does not want, he does not want, no attention towards them, no attention, no time to spare for thinking about them. Deeply engaged in the service of Kṛṣṇa.

Where from Queen Kuntī Devī is inviting, "You come" to the worldly adversity. She's inviting, "You come. When you come I get the chance of being united with the blessings of the touch of Kṛṣṇa Himself. So you come." She's directly inviting the adversity.

These are standing like lighthouse, beacon light for us encouraging to go on that path. There is something for which they're inviting we see and we must go on this path towards the land of Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣ ṇa, All-Attractor, the best friend of everything, the natural friend of the whole, Kṛṣ ṇa, attracts and gives pleasure. Kṛṣ ṇa. To be connected with Him direct process.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

There is more nobility there, Both the Parties combined, the greatest giver, the greatest taker. Who is giving, who is taking? It cannot be determined clearly who is giver, who is taker. Apparently seen that the potency is the giver and the consciousness is the taker. Anyhow, Both combined come here to distribute Themselves. To distribute Them to one and all. "This is the process. Accept this and come to Me."

Very magnanimously, and almost the sole agent was Nityānanda Prabhu. He preached: "Anyhow, accept Gaurāṅga. Nothing to be done. I shall look after all other things. Take His Name, enlist your name in His group, I shall look after."

But it is unbelievable. We are so far (away), that to understand our own interest, we are so far from our own inner interest that it is difficult to believe what is interest, what is not. The interest Himself is running, wandering from door to door, "Accept Me, accept Me, accept Me. I have come to your door. You take Me, accept Me." It is also possible by His magnanimous līlā, pastimes, it is also possible.

nāmnām akāri bahudhā nija-sarva-śaktis tatrārpitā niyamitaḥ smaraṇe na kālaḥ etādṛśī tava kṛpā bhagavan mamāpi durdaivam īdṛśam ihājani nānurāgaḥ

("O my Lord, Your Holy Name bestows auspiciousness upon all. And You have unlimited Names such as Kṛṣṇa and Govinda by which You reveal Yourself. In Your many Holy Names You have kindly invested all Your transcendental potency. And in chanting these Names, there are no strict rules concerning time or place. Out of Your causeless mercy, You have descended in the form of divine sound, but my great misfortune is that I have no love for Your Holy Name.") (Śikṣāṣṭakam, v 2)

Many say that it is one hand giving and another hand taking, so much magnanimity is there! But some sort of durdaiva is opposing me to accept that. Then, what is giving, what is giving, the fun of such preaching and distribution? Because it is not possible to get in a forced way, free, free achievement is necessary. Without disturbing our freedom, we are invited and welcomed. If freedom is not disturbed then everything will be spoiled. We are given to understand in such way, the harmony. Without interfering in our free will we are to be led to that, then we'll be benefited. This is the general way.

amara dutcya eva nahima adhikara tuwa daya vaicana parama dara patisara nandanata bhaga amara ?

To say so, that also wants some devotion. He is already within the compound who can show so, "That it is my misfortune that I do not get You my Lord. You are so great. But I am the most unfortunate fellow." Who can say such, he's also within the jurisdiction, he is in the line, to be entitled to attack such words and thought, that requires something great. He's already in the compound.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

He's already in the relativity of the Absolute happiness, or good, then only he can utter such words, "that I can't get." And that is extended to the highest position, that is nature, that is the law. For the finite to get Infinite the only law is that, "that I can't get it." Finite cannot finish Infinite. So his deepest connection can only make him utter such words, "that I am not fit. I am not getting, I am thirsty, I am not getting." That should be the real position of a finite in the relation with the Infinite. "I can't get it." Infinite's connection coming to him and influencing him and through his mouth, "I can't get it. That I can't finish. I want more and more."

Even it went to Rādhārāṇī Herself. "I could not do justice to what I should have done. What to speak not up to level, up to mark, I can't do. The service should have been of more higher type and deeper type, but I failed."

This will be the region, no circumference. No satisfaction, where there is satisfaction there is limit, that is limit, but it is unlimited satisfaction. But the health also increases, hunger also increases, health develops, to consume more. Hunger increases. As much as it is coming in connection and identifying with the Infinite, he's also being of that type. But still it is cultivation, it is culture, it is serving, the service is there, culture is there, mutual transaction is there. For Reality, die to live.

aham hi sarva-yajñānām, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca na tu mām
abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te

("Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24)

"Arjuna, I am everything. You are My intimate friend. At least I won't deceive you.

What to speak, I am everything, man-manā bhava. " (man-manā bhava mad-bhakto, mad-yājī mām namaskuru mam evaiṣyasi satyaṁ te, pratijāne priyo 'si me)

("Think of Me, serve Me, worship Me, offer your very self unto Me, and surely you will reach Me. Sincerely, this is My promise to you because you are My dear friend.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 18.65)

"Whole mind you give to Me. Mad-bhakto bhava, become My devotee. Whole devotedness due to Me. Mad-yājī, whatever you do, do only for Me. Be selfless to the extreme. Mam evaiṣyasi, you will enter and stay in Me for eternity. Pratijāne, I promise to you. Priyo 'si me, you are My favourite friend. At least I won't deceive you. I am everything. I am everything."

Another place: "You have come into this world many a time, I have also come. But I know them all, you do not know."

aparaṁ bhavato janma, paraṁ janma vivasvataḥ katham etad vijānīyāṁ, tvam ādau proktavān iti

(Arjuna said: "Vivasvān, the Sun-god, was born in ancient times, and You were born only recently. Therefore, how is it to be believed that You previously instructed these teachings to him?") (Bhagavad-gītā, 4.4)

"How can You say that You told this advice to Vivasvān, who is long and long ago born?"

Then Kṛṣṇa says: "Many a time you also came here and I also came, but you do not know any one of those previous lives, but I know them all fully well. This is the difference. I am everything. I am everything."

What is the most wonderful is that the Infinite has come in our form and is asserting that, "I am everything. I am everything." He has come in our level in such a way to assert, "I am everything. I am your heart's friend. I am all to you. Come to Me. You will get everything. Give up all your engagements, all the conceptions of your duties. They're all sham, temporary, cheating. But everything due to Me is real. I am so. Such a thing exists in this world, the fulfilment of everyone's life. I am so and so."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What about her, that Vinode Bhani? You asked

why?

Devotee: Oh, I just wanted to know if in his presence, Śrīla Prabhupāda Bhaktisiddhānta had made any ṛtvik ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Prabhupāda gave permission, and I was present there, "You can give hari-nāma there if anyone takes." I heard, I was present on the occasion.

Devotee: Also, we were reading in Śrī Guru and His Grace when you were talking about Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and Vipina-vihārī Goswāmī. So sometimes you say that "Vipina-vihārī Goswāmī was in the line, so many lady gurus, they had passed the mantram down," but you say, "we don't give recognition to them. What is their realisation?" But Ṭhākura Bhaktivinoda, his formal connection is with Vipina-vihārī Goswāmī. So, we always say that there must be connection of a genuine Vaiṣṇava, of a real Vaiṣṇava. So we find in the writings Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is necessary in the case of a general man but when a particular pārṣada (an eternal follower or associate-servitor) comes, his initiation is only a formal one. In that case it maybe supported. So a śikṣā-guru paramparā. The formal dīkṣā-guru paramparā, that is cancelled, that is not to be important in the case of a pārṣada-bhakta.

Devotee: Yes, but I mean in the case of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, we don't see with our limited vision, any other śikṣā of him, but he is giving so many things, his books, Jaiva Dharma, Navadvīpa Dhāma Māhātmya, Caitanya Śikṣāmṛtam, he's giving the ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is the proof that already all this wealth was in his possession. So he's sent from, looking at the chaos, chaotic condition, he was sent here from above to re-establish things.

yadā yadā hi dharmasya, glānir bhavati bhārata abhyutthānam adharmasya, tadātmānaṁ sṛjāmy aham paritrāṇāya sādḥūnām, vināśāya ca duṣkṛtām dharma-saṁsthāpanārthāya, sambhavāmi yuge yuge

("O Bhārata, whenever there is a decline of religion and an uprising of irreligion, I personally appear, like a being born in this world. I appear in every age to deliver the saintly devotees, to vanquish sinful miscreants, and to firmly establish true religion.") (Bhagavad-gītā, 4.7-8)

"Whether I come down or I send some representative, in this way."

Devotee: Sometimes, as in the case of Mādhavendra Purī, you mentioned what we find in him we cannot trace that in Mādhva Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Found in the Mādhva school, yes.

Devotee: So did you say once he could be considered kṛpa-siddha ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, kṛpa-siddha. The development in the midway cannot but be so. In the line, some high development in the midway, we are to take it like that. Because ultimately we are to give judgement only seeing the material, we are to ignore the form.

Devotee: So in one of the next books when we have The Lives of the Saints, like Sādhū-jīvanī, we want to make one book with all the lives of great devotees. You wrote one article called The Pontifical Position of Mādhavendra Purī many years ago in the Harmonist, so we want to include that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes I did.

Devotee: Very wonderful article on the sampradāya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Long ago. I was in Madras perhaps at that time. At that time Prabhupāda was living, our Guru Mahārāja he was here when that article was written.

Devotee: Yesterday, you mentioned how Kavirāja Goswāmī has spoken of Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura as the Vyāsa of caitanya-līlā. And in that section of Caitanya- caritāmṛta he mentions that in the future that more, that Vyāsa will come again and describe caitanya-līlā. How are we to understand that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vyāsa, is something like a title. Whomever gives exposition to the Vedic meaning, they're known as Vyāsa. Vyāsa, Somāsa and Vyāsa, to harmonise, to elaborate things when they're put in a substance, that is Somāsa, to combine many into one. And Vyāsa means when one is extended, one thing extended in different ways by branches, that is Vyāsa. When the Vedic truth, the revealed truth is extended in such a way that it may be acceptable and understandable by many.

veda tapa vinihita ?

The meaning of the Veda is taken from the source and it is differentiated and it is distributed to many. That is the title of the Vyāsa. This is a function of the Vyāsa. So there are many Vyāsa, and this Vyāsa is known as Kṛṣṇa Dvaipāyana Vyāsa, from whom we get the Bhāgavatam, Māhābhārata, all these, he's one of the special Vyāsa's whose name was Kṛṣṇa Dvaipāyana Vyāsa. But there are many other Vyāsa's previously. Whoever expands the meaning of the Veda, they're known as Vyāsa expansions, they're Vyāsa.

So Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura is recognised as the first Vyāsa of caitanya-līlā. And there may be in future many Vyāsa's that will come to make expansion of the, that is the detailed meanings of the līlā and the teachings of Śrī Caitanyadeva. Many Vyāsa's will come and they will go on giving relation about Śrī Caitanyadeva and His teachings. The meaning is that. Vyāsa is not one but it is rather a title, "who gives expansion, explanation of the inner meaning of the Veda," he's Vyāsa.

Devotee: You're the living representative of Vyāsadeva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Because you expand the meaning.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

artho 'yaṁ brahma sūtrānām, bhāratārtha-vinirṇayaḥ gāyatrī bhāṣya rūpo
'sau, vedārthaḥ paribrimhitaḥ

("Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam represents the real purport of Vedānta-sūtra. And although it is very difficult to draw out the real purpose of the one hundred thousand verse epic Mahābhārata, the great history of the world, Śrīmad Bhāgavatam has come to give its real meaning. The mother of all Vedic knowledge is the Gāyatrī mantra. Śrīmad Bhāgavatam gives the gist of Gāyatrī in a very full-fledged way. And the supplementary truths of the Vedas are also found within Śrīmad Bhāgavatam.") (Garuḍa-Purāṇa)

In Bhāgavatam, new light, the very substance taken out and given to the public. "This is the meaning of the Veda, cannot but be." Just as I am always trying to take out the meaning from Gāyatrī, this Brahmā-Gāyatrī, how it's coming to the sweet sound of the flute of Kṛṣṇa. Gāyatrī, in the lower conception, is the Brahmā-Gāyatrī, and in the highest, the vāmśi-nātha, the sound of the flute of Kṛṣṇa, one and the same thing. Religion is proper adjustment and the flute sound is helping the devotees to adjust in their present function of respective duties. The sound, attracting the gopīs, instructing, "come here, come there," all these. Yaśodā also serves hearing the sound of the flute, that says when He will come, making arrangement for His food etc., that vāmśi-nātha, the sound giving direction to adjust everyone in their respective service.

That song, and Gāyatrī is also in the beginning, Brahmā-Gāyatrī song which takes us out of the material world towards the conscious world, Brahmā. First stage Brahmā- Gāyatrī, the song that engages ourselves in Brahmā that is all-conscious thing. From the fossil conception to subject consciousness, from objective to subjective consciousness. Brahmā-Gāyatrī's first call is from objective consciousness to subject consciousness. Then that develops in the subjective world. The hierarchy is there. There is Guru-Gāyatrī, Gaura-Gāyatrī, Syāma-Gāyatrī, in this way Gāyatrī develops in the meaning and goes to the Bhāgavata conception. So Mahāprabhu's kīrtana, that is also Gāyatrī by chanting the Name of Kṛṣṇa we get emancipation: gānat trāyate, by singing which, the song which helps our self-determination, the song that helps self-determination, our emancipation, liberation. Liberation in the negative sense and self-determination in the positive sense.

muktir hitvān-yathā-rūpaṁ svarūpeṇa vyavasthitiḥ

("Liberation is the permanent situation of the form of the living entity after he gives up the changeable gross and subtle material bodies.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.10.6)

What is mukti? What is salvation, proper? That culminates in self-determination, the positive side. And the negative side it takes us away from the conception of the objective world. So Gāyatrī, the song that helps us from the objective consciousness to the subjective consciousness and then goes further in the subjective world, up to self-determination. Mahāprabhu's kīrtana song also helps for self-determination and Kṛṣṇa's flute also helps us in our immediate self-determination in the adjustment of respective service, as a guide. So, the same line, is Gāyatrī, going to Kāma-Gāyatrī, Gaura-Gāyatrī, in this way, above, to the acme, the highest position of self-determination. When already in self-determination then also every day's programme, "go there, go there, do this for Me, and all these things," that adjustment call also coming from the flute of Kṛṣṇa there. So song, this Gāyatrī culminates in Kāma-Gāyatrī, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

The same, one and the same, harmony, advaya-jñāna, undivided absolute, from the surface towards the, He is such, innermost existence. Home, from foreign land to home, and home duty is also guided by that flute of Kṛṣṇa, the sound.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Go-pūjā Vṛndāvana, Vaikuṇṭha, super-subjective world everything is to be worshipped, to be respected, to be served. To go in Vṛndāvana, generally śruti, that is śānta-rasa, represented by go (cow), there in Vṛndāvana.

Sādhū-pūjā, especially, Kṛṣṇa is maintaining, sustaining, feeding, taking interest for their growth, Kṛṣṇa Himself. So, not only that from the go section, generally the food of Kṛṣṇa, the favourite food also coming from that species. So we must show our veneration, our respect for them, for everything, especially for the go, for the food suppliers of Kṛṣṇa, that sort of service. Kṛṣṇa comes mainly from the go section. His favourite diet.

Every incarnation of God is to be worshippingable in different positions. Vaiṣṇava is also of different sections, of different types, of different sections, different avatāra. We should give our reverence to all, one and all, and special veneration towards Vṛndāvana.

..... He's congruent where His day of, Vāmanadeva came and Bali Mahārāja surrendered to Him, ignoring the direction of his Guru. So that is a very important thing and we should respect. Perhaps that came in this day, congruent, Bali Mahārāja pūjā. Bali Mahārāja surrendered to Vāmana, in this day, this day. So it will be given respect in general and we should worship Him. That is not connection with Vṛndāvana līlā, Govardhana pūjā. It is a separate thing. That took place on this day.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, sometime you said that Śrīla Prabhupāda Bhaktisiddhānta, he would, in his last days said to construct a cottage in Govardhana, that his disciples should construct a cottage in Govardhana and he would go there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The tenor of his line on that preaching was:

pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range

("The path of divine love is worshippingable to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration.")

He himself behaved in that way and also taught us, "That don't think that you have reached that raga stage. Always try from the lower position to give your reverence to the raga stage. Don't think that 'I am established there, I have got my position in that higher stage,' because then you will miss it.

vicakṣaṇa kari', dekhite cāhile haya, haya ākhi-agocara

(Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: "Suddenly a flash came, but when I tried to see that, it disappeared. It was withdrawn.")

Whenever you will make the subjective thing as the object of your experience, that higher subject will vanish. So if you want to make that permanent, always keep it at a respectable distance, that higher respectable distance.

So, he to that, the plane of our highest service is Rādhā-kuṇḍa, that is our goal, our hit (target). Service of the Vaiṣṇava's of the highest type, they serve there, Kṛṣṇa is served there. The highest quality of service is found in Rādhā-kuṇḍa and we are concerned with that only. But if we pose that we are there we won't be able to maintain our position there. Only, the strategy is this, that if we pose we are in the lower plain and just in the front, due, above that highest plain, then we can maintain our position safely.

So he tended that Rādhā-kuṇḍa is the highest position of our service and all our masters, lords, they are playing there. And from a little lower position we are to look at that, then it may be permanent. So close by we shall get the place Govardhana.

Vṛndāraṇyam rāsotsavād udāra-pāṇi-ramaṇāt tatrāpi govardhanaḥ, then rādhā- kuṇḍam ihāpi gokula-pateḥ premāmṛtāplāvanāt.

(vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī tatrāpi rāsotsavād vṛndāraṇyam udāra-pāṇi-ramaṇāt tatrāpi govardhanaḥ rādhā-kuṇḍam ihāpi gokula-pateḥ premāmṛtāplāvanāt kuryād asya virājato giri-taṭe sevām vivekī na kaḥ)

("Superior to the spiritual realm of Vaikuṇṭha is Mathurā, where Śrī Kṛṣṇa first appears. Superior to Mathurā is the Vṛndāvana forest where Kṛṣṇa enjoyed the rasa dance. Better still is Govardhana Hill, which was the site of even more confidential pastimes of love. But best of all is Rādhākuṇḍa, which is situated at the foot of Govardhana Hill, and holds the supreme position because it is overflowed with the nectar of the highest kind of divine love. Who is acquainted with the science of devotion who will not aspire for the divine service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī at Rādhā-kuṇḍa?") (Upadeśamṛta, text 9)

The next lower position is Govardhana. We shall stay there and we shall go from that place to Rādhā-kuṇḍa and we shall serve our guru

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: our Guru Mahārāja (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarawatī Ṭhākura) was of ontological nature, of sannyāsī, and not very practical to meet so many persons for preaching purpose, etc., of secluded nature. So he felt himself too much disturbed by the absence of (Śrīpād Bhakti Vilās) Tīrtha Mahārāja. At that time he was very much disturbed in his heart and expressed some of his internal relationship with Kuñja Bābu (later Śrīpād Bhakti Vilās Tīrtha Mahārāja).

There is a letter and it was published, that letter of Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarawatī Ṭhākura). There we find that Prabhupāda says he gives his own identification as Nayana-maṇi Mañjarī. "I am a young girl. Nayana-maṇi Mañjarī is my name. Vṛṣabhānu-nandinī, the Rādhārāṇī, likes me very much and She always tries to keep me just before Her eyes. But I am not very able, expert in discharging my duties.

But Bimala Mañjarī can help me to do my quota of service, even by Rādhārāṇī. But at present that Bimala Mañjarī has become apathetic towards Rādhārāṇī and left me. So I'm not able to discharge my little quota of duty that is expected by me from Rādhārāṇī."

That this formula, this is a formula, according to which one will try to find his real highest aim of realisation, travelling through this path. It is couched in such a way. So from there we know, Bimala, that was the name of Prabhupāda, Bimalānanda, Bimala Prasād. So from his name, connected with his name, Kuñja Bābu was given the name of Bimala Mañjarī. And here, experts in doing the external side of the duty, and Prabhupāda, he with his help could satisfy, or satisfactorily discharge his own duty as wanted by Rādhārāṇī. Or as he saw it, Her, in Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura.

This is a kind of posing formula. Following this we are to reach to our goal. From there we can, we know, that Bimala Mañjarī in the internal circle of service, Kuñja Bābu and he's in such position. So taking that position of his Gurudeva at present, that Yati Mahārāja, he also conceived him as his servitor and, "That Bimala Mañjarī he must have got a bona fide position in the higher circle. And by my fervent prayer I came near him and got some inspiration to do this, to undertake this task. And I am doing so." That is what he wants to say here, as far as I understand.

But this is a formula of the higher type for our realisation, but how far one is practically doing and how far it will be applied to any particular case, that is to be determined. One side, the sahajiyā, they have all such formula and they're trying to follow this and we cancel them abhorrently. At another side, such things are really existing for the lover of truth, cent per cent, and to approach from his bona fide sincere position of higher devotion. So particular cases should be dealt whether it can be applied here or there.

Devotee: One question arises, that, generally we preach, or we hear Your Divine Grace say, "that if I have got it or if I have seen it then it is rotten." Generally such high things are not admitted so openly in the public. And if a great soul has got such a vibhūti he will not say such things here to the general mass. So this is the only thing which we appear anxious about if correct.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is not for advertisement but to be concealed like the highest, most precious achievement.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Prabhupāda's writings, Anubhāṣya (Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta commentary), or the Bhāgavata writing, we did not find such type of self- advertisement.

Devotee: Never.

I think at the end of Anubhāṣya, in a very covered way

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very covered way

Devotee: In a very hidden way, he mentions

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Kiśora Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Svarūpa Dāmodara, Gadādhāra

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "But I am a servant of a servant."

Devotee: But nobody can understand that unless they are connected with Prabhupāda in the Mission. A general man will read it and cannot understand the meaning. It looks like poetry.

Devotee: In Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's Bhāgavata-Arka-Maricimālā, he says, and it sounds as though Yati Mahārāja has taken from there. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: "One day, while penetrating deeply on the meaning of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Svarūpa Dāmodara, the right-hand personal attendant of Mahāprabhu, came to me in a vision and said: "You divide into sambandha, abhideya, prayojana, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam," and gave a special explanation of the first verse. So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: "I did not think it proper to disclose this but I fear some offence to my Guru and my superiors if I do not admit it." So in almost the exact same language, Yati Mahārāja he is plagiarising, they say in English, plagiarism.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "If I do not mention this then I commit some offence against my Guru."

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He has got direct order in his inspiration, "That you give your, express your position as such and then you begin this work."

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura

("O my Lord, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, son of Vasudeva, O all pervading Personality of Godhead, I offer my respectful obeisances unto You. I meditate upon Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa because He is the Absolute Truth and the primeval cause of all causes of the creation, sustenance and destruction of the manifested universes. He is directly and indirectly conscious of all manifestations, and He is independent because there is no other cause beyond Him. It is He only who first imparted the Vedic knowledge unto the heart of Brahmājī, the original living being. By Him even the great sages and demigods are placed into illusion, as one is bewildered by the illusory representations of water seen in fire, or land seen on water. Only because of Him do the material universes, temporarily manifested by the reactions of the three modes of nature, appear factual, although they are unreal. I therefore meditate upon Him, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Who is eternally existent in the transcendental abode, which is forever free from the illusory representations of the material world. I meditate upon Him, for He is the Absolute Truth.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1)

A new explanation he has given, drawn from the inspiration of Svarūpa Dāmodara. And also he has expressed that he gave a new explanation to a particular śloka of Bhagavad-gītā.

kṣipram bhavati dharmātmā, śaśvac-chāntim nigacchati kaunteya pratijānīhi, na me bhaktaḥ pranaśyati

"He soon becomes righteous (dharmātmā) and attains lasting peace. O son of Kuntī, declare it boldly that My devotee never perishes."
(Bhagavad-gītā, 9.31)

In an assembly of Yāmarāja, śabha. But has he mentioned there his own śakhi, svarūpa, anywhere? Though he has mentioned it in a song, Kamala Mañjarī, his name, he expressed: "My name is such, my dress is such, my service is such. That is the highest position in the service of Rādhārāṇī." He has given vent to us.

Yati Mahārāja has not mentioned his name there?

Devotee: No.

Devotee: His own name? No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Sometimes also, Narottama Dāsa Ṭhākura's expressing that sort of higher aspiration in his songs.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bana Mahārāja, also, was expressing his svarūpa, from long time.

And perhaps he has mentioned in some book of his publication.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!

This is the Introduction of the publication of Bhāgavatam ?

Devotee: Yes. First page. Preface.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You re-read it again from the very beginning.

Devotee: Preface. "Fallen, fallen, still fallen am I. Who else except Śrī Gaura Hari, His mercy embodiment, Śrī Nityānanda's other self, Gurudeva, His Divine Grace Bhakti Vilāsa Tīrtha Goswāmī Mahārāja, who is none but Bimala Mañjarī, eternally waiting upon the transcendental erotic dalliance

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I find there is a defect. Gaura Hari

Devotee: Yeah, Nityānanda

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nityānanda's line

Devotee: Yeah, this sakhya, mādhyura

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How is it?

Devotee: Without asking you we could not Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari, Nityānanda, by Their Grace you must go to the line of Rādhārāṇī and then Gurudeva, or Prabhupāda, then we should come to Bimala Mañjarī. But what does he say? "Fallen, fallen, fallen as I am Devotee: "Still fallen am I. Who else except Śrī Gaura Hari, mercy embodiment of Śrī Nityānanda's other self, Gurudeva Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nityānanda's other self, Gurudeva, how there he can find the Bimala Mañjarī?

Devotee: This is also a problem.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Devotee: "His Divine Grace Bhakti Vilāsa Tīrtha Goswāmī Mahārāja, who is none but Bimala Mañjarī, eternally waiting upon the transcendental erotic dalliance Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Again go "other self

Devotee: "Who else except Śrī Gaura Hari, mercy embodiment of Śrī Nityānanda's other self, Gurudeva His Divine Grace Bhakti Vilāsa Tīrtha Goswāmī Mahārāja, who is none but Bimala Mañjarī, eternally waiting upon (serving) the transcendental erotic dalliance of Rādhā-Govinda at Their sportive land of Vraja. Out of his bountiful mercy operated upon my eyes with the collyrium of intuitive wisdom for having a glimpse of the divine sport. Although I am the vilest creature."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "By His Grace, suddenly I got entrance into that vision." Then?

Devotee: Later, next paragraph. "A vile destitute as I am, a dwarf as I am, what a foolish gesture to make a high jump to catch the moon. A poor soul as I am, how could I aspire after the gain of kṛṣṇa-prema when the Bhāgavata itself at the very outset says: 'Him, the sages and gods, are puzzled to know. Where angels fear to tread, devils try to trespass.' Meaning fools rush in where angels fear to tread."

Then in the next paragraph he tells about his spiritual vision of Rasa-Rāja, Mahābhāva. "Then how can I, such a fool vouch safe to undertake this task is a mystery which I felt not proper on my part to disclose as it might be bringing spiritual conceit. But subsequently I realise that it would be an act undone to my spiritual Guru which might stand as an obstacle on the path of my spiritual progress."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "Because it is this duty is given to me by my Guru, if I do not do then I shall commit offence to my Guru. So I am engaged in such bold actions."

Devotee: "Without any reserve I record the fact that one day in a spiritual vision my divine master commanded me to follow him and soon I could see myself present along with him at an enchanting dalliance of the Rasa-Rāja and Mahābhāva at that transcendental sportive land of Vraja. What a marvellous sight. But soon, I lost myself in ecstatic rapture. Alas! I lost the vision and lamented so bitterly when my divine master, once again appearing before me, behested me to penetrate upon Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and commissioned me to undertake this task. And yet, another one, for the attainment of final beatitude or summum bonum of my life."

.....

Devotee: I was thinking it is best for us to concentrate on ourselves on what you are giving to us.

Mahārāja, in the brahmā-vimohana-līlā (the pastime of Lord Brahmā's illusion) after Lord Brahmā offers his prayer to Kṛṣṇa:

jñāne prayāsam udapāśya namanta eva jīvanti san-mukharitām
bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vāñ-manobhir ye
prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām

("Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes (kathā), which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds.") (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3)

And other prayers in appreciation of Kṛṣṇa, doesn't he pray to become situated in Vṛndāvana as a creeper. Does he make a similar prayer to that of Uddhava?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Did he make?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where?

Devotee: When, after he began to pray to Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: After Brahma-stol (?) when Kṛṣṇa is born, at that time also there is some events of Brahmā with other gods. Then Brahmā, after this brahmā-vimohana when he stole the cowboys and calves, then again he met at Dvārakā. Always he's found to be tested, and still, Brahmā is our Mūla-Gurudeva, he's the original Guru of our line. And so much so that Mādhvācārya eliminated that from Bhāgavatam, he could not accept those two chapters of Bhāgavatam where Brahmā was under illusion, misunderstanding about Kṛṣṇa. But Mahāprabhu accepted everything in toto.

A very peculiar thing, acintya. Nimāi is very fond of this expression, acintya bhedābheda. Everything is unintelligible. Our original Guru he's perplexed, not only once but thrice. How to accommodate? That is līlā, to attribute to His līlā, independent of everything. Sometimes showing that He's under His servants. Whatever the servant likes He cannot but do that. And sometimes ignoring.

That is the spontaneous pastimes of the Absolute. Showing His Absolute submission to Rādhārāṇī, sometimes ignoring, sometimes She is ignoring.

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet ato hetor ahetoś ca,
yūnor māna udañcati

"Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa." (Ujjvala-nīlamanī)

Rūpa Goswāmī has supplied this basis. When we go to think about the pastimes of the Absolute we, the finite, will have to take this armour: aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva- kuṭilā bhavet. Naturally, it is crooked, just as the movement of the serpent. A serpent cannot go straight, but by zigzag way. So the Absolute, the waves that come from Him are in that way, above all. That characteristic is always maintained, cannot be taken under any laws and rules. With this initial consideration we should approach to study anything and everything about the Absolute. He is absolute, and we are infinitesimal. He is adhokṣaja.

Once I asked our Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarawatī Ṭhākura): "Why this difference in the conception of the last part of kṛṣṇa-līlā between Sanātana and Rūpa?"

Sanātana closed in Mathurā and Rūpa took in another stage towards Dvārakā. Lalitā- Mādhava and Vidagdha-Mādhava, Vidagdha-Mādhava in Vṛndāvana līlā and Lalitā- Mādhava in Dvārakā līlā. The same group taken there in different forms and Sanātana Prabhu he liked to complete in Mathurā and from Mathurā again, the wheel turning to Vṛndāvana. Nitya-līlā passing in this way.

(Sudira prayas ?) in Mathurā, after that long, long separation, again the wheel changes. In Vṛndāvana they think, "Oh, Nanda, Yaśodā has got no child," in this way, "You must have some child," some think in this way. Then, "Oh, yes, Yaśodā will have some child," in this way. Again, passing and developing and going to Mathurā, Kāṁsa, and from Mathurā maṇḍala, not, he took Kṛṣṇa into Dvārakā.

But Rūpa Goswāmī took Lalitā as Jambavatī, Rādhārāṇī as Satyabhāmā, Chandrāvalī as Rukmiṇī, in this way transformation somewhat. I asked this to Prabhupāda. Prabhupāda simply answered: "We are going into details. Why? It has been mentioned as adhokṣaja." That was his short answer.

Un-understandable, acintya-niya Everything is not bound to come within our fist. All Rights Reserved. In that way, that sort of expectant attitude should always be maintained within us if we like to be in connection with that plane of thought.

jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva jīvanti san-mukharitām
bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vāñ-manobhir ye
prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām

"Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes (kathā), which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3)

It is our defect that we want to understand anything and everything, it may be qualification here, but in relation to the transcendental truth of the highest order, it is disqualification. Everything we want to know, the clue of everything, the key to everything we want to have in our possession. But this is really a bar to progress. If we assert in this way, we rather lose confidence there and there will be some delay to extend the key to us. If a servant, getting engagement in his master's house is very particular to have the key of the store, very particular, then the master will suspect him. So that is a type of disease to know anything and everything. That is the understanding element in us is enemy to our progress. This is difficult of course to accept but still it is so.

Surrender, what understanding the gopīs had, knowledge from śāstra, this or that? Nothing, rather what we understand to be "standard purity," what we think to be knowledge - all these things, they're disqualifications in gain of the Absolute pleasure.

You see, Kṛṣṇa, one day, He suddenly fell ill and became senseless. And in another figure He came as a physician. "O Yaśodā, your boy is caught by some disease. Is it?" I am told by someone."

"Yes, yes, who are you?"

"I am a physician and I have come, a mystic physician. I'd like to see your son.

What is His disease?"

"He fainted, perhaps a headache, all these things."

He told that: "I can relieve a big disease but I want to cure Him and I can. Only I want some water and that can be taken in a porous pot from the Yamunā and only a chaste lady can do that. A chaste girl must take some water in a porous pot and then with the help of that I shall give some medicine and the Boy will come to consciousness immediately."

Then Yaśodā was mad to find out who is a chaste lady living in Vṛndāvana. Then told Jaṭilā and Kuṭilā, Rādhārāṇī's mother-in-law and sister-in-law. Jaṭilā was mother-in-law and Kuṭilā was sister-in-law, husband's sister. Naturally, they preached about some doubt, suspicion in the other girls of the gopīs, so generally they are considered to be chaste. So Yaśodā appealed to Jaṭilā first: "You please go and take some water."

"How is it possible? To fetch water in a porous pot is impossible."

"No. The physician says that if she's really a chaste lady, then she can take water." Then Jaṭilā could not avoid that mad, request of Yaśodā
.....

End of side A, 5/6/7.11.83

(The remainder of this pastime is not given out here by Guru Mahārāja, but included from Loving Search for the Lost Servant by the transcriber of this tape)

(Then Jaṭilā could not avoid that mad, request of Yaśodā) but she could not fetch any water. Then Kuṭilā was requested to fetch water in the pot, but she dared not venture to try it, seeing the attempt of her mother. Still, Yaśodā was so earnest in her request that Kuṭilā also could not avoid the task. But she could not fetch water either, because there were so many holes in the water pot that the water just poured through. They were astonished, thinking: "What can we do? Among all the girls in Vraja, not a single chaste girl is to be found? What a horrible thing!"

So Kṛṣṇa, in the garb of a physician, singled out Rādhārāṇī, saying: "I think that She is a chaste lady. Request Her to fetch the water."

And at the request of Yaśodā, Rādhārāṇī could not avoid the task. She had to go fetch water, but She was thinking of Kṛṣṇa: "If You come to My relief, then only it may be possible; otherwise it is impossible," She prayed. Rādhārāṇī dipped the porous pot in the water as Kṛṣṇa touched the pot from within the water. And Rādhārāṇī with great suspicion took the pot from the water and in great wonder She said: "The water is there!" She had taken some of Her maids, the sakhīs, Her chief friends, with Her, and they were all astounded to find that She drew the water from the Yamunā. The holes were there but still the water remained within the pot. So She brought the water to Yaśodā and everyone was astounded. And that water with some fictitious medicine was given to the boy Kṛṣṇa, and He arose from His "unconscious" state.

This was a tactic by Kṛṣṇa to show the position of Rādhārāṇī, to show what chastity is. What is chastity? Ordinary "chastity" is not real chastity. Real purity, real chastity, is far above all relative considerations of chastity. And that is inconceivable, beyond our knowledge and reason, just as how a porous pot can contain water. It is a miracle. But God works wonders. His ways are filled with miracles. We should be prepared for that - prepared that all the empirical knowledge of this world, all our experience, will prove to be wrong. It won't have any value in the higher plane. What is found there is a new thing.)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: that is the strategy of remaining in the relativity of the highest quarter of service of Kṛṣṇa.

pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range

("The path of divine love is worshipping to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration.") (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarawatī Ṭhākura)

He wanted us to teach in that way. So he ordered that: "A cottage should be built in Govardhana, I shall live there and from there, I am not fit to live in Rādhā-kuṇḍa, I am a little lower (in Govardhana), but my Guru Gaura Kīśora Bābājī, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and others, they're fit to serve there. We shall go and serve them and come back in the next lower position and there we shall stay."

To maintain the subjective position in the subjective world that is a tactic. Otherwise, if we think we are in the highest quarter, that will vanish from us. Only from a little down, with respectable eye, we can have the vision. And whenever we think that we are there, it is nowhere, it is the nature. So at respectable distance we can have a look of that thing. That is the peculiar principle. If you look straight you lose but if you try to look at it with some screen or any other hiding place, then you can see. A peculiar type of posing of seeing, or coming in contact with the thing of the highest order.

vicakṣaṇa kari', dekhite cāhile haya, haya ākhi-agocara

(Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: "Suddenly a flash came, but when I tried to see that, it disappeared. It was withdrawn.")

If you like to contact with it direct then it will vanish from your experience, from your look. Ha, ha, ha, ha. Espionage, through spy you can know things of the enemy land but not direct. Ha, ha, ha. They can't come in direct connection but through spy you can, something like that. Espionage, if you go to know direct it is impossible, something like that. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So become spy, only from behind the screen you can handle, interfere, but not direct. Things are such.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: That is the eternal position of the jīva-śakti.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The land is such. Kṛṣṇa is also playing like that, something like a thief. The play in that particular order and there, in that way, we can have the highest experience of the ontological truth. By chance, as if by chance, ontological truth comes to us, He accepts us suddenly we can find Him. He's Absolute, He's autocrat, He's independent. Whenever whimsically He comes to give His connection to me, then I can have that. It is never within my clutches. So through the, it won't come directly within my control, by its nature. But the highest position, to have Him in closer connection, has been devised by the devotees in that way because by nature it's not a thing to come direct within my control, always above. So by this system we can come to the highest realisation.

In the highest order in the līlā of Rādhā-Govinda, Rādhārāṇī's always bhāma. Kṛṣṇa asks Her to do something, "No, I won't do that." And this has been accepted as the highest mood of the negative side. "I won't." Whatever He will want, to deny that. That is bhāma-bhāva and Rādhārāṇī's full of that nature and that enhances the eagerness, earnestness of Kṛṣṇa. So the whole thing is a crooked one. And this is the way recommended for the poorest to come in contact with the highest. It is a wonderful device. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Direct transaction, clear, face to face transaction, is absent there. Everything is stealing, all stealthily performed. And there you'll be gainer, like black marketing. In the highest area, in the area of autocracy that is wholly black marketing.

Aprākṛta, aprākṛta-vāt, just similar to the lowest conception of things, the highest is that. Autocracy is considered to be the lowest in our present living, we can't tolerate, but autocracy is there. So, aprākṛta, the highest quarter of the transcendental world which can harmonise with everything which is considered to be of the lowest type, all harmonised. That is the beauty, the beauty, what is undesirable, what is nasty, what is bad, that is harmonised in such a way that that gives the highest position. The harmony, the harmonious strength is so much there, His peculiar position is so much there where the lowest has proved to be the highest by His magical touch. Because He is there, no dirt is dirt, that is purest. His magical touch means that. The Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the touch of Kṛṣṇa, the Beauty of the highest order, just as the touch-stone, whether one wants not only silver to make it gold, but iron, lead, anything of the lowest order, that may be turned into gold. The touch-stone is so powerful. The lowest type of everything of our conception gets the highest position by the magical touch of the wonderful substance, and He's Kṛṣṇa, He's Kṛṣṇa. All the dirty things coming in contact with Him, harmonised in such a way that holds the highest position. The highest centre is so wonderfully powerful, or whatever you'll like to say.

(Raghunātha) Dāsa Goswāmī says: "If you are not up to mark to accept this as truth then you'll be thrown down into paravyoma. Go and live there where there's the general law and rules, fair dealings, go there. Go down to the land of fair dealings." Ha, ha, ha, ha. "Vaikuṇṭha, there are simple dealings there, you can calculate and go on generally."

But this most diplomatic position, even Brahmā, Mahādeva, they're all bewildered to know. Brahmā confessed: "How I can know that a cowboy with the rod in His armpit and taking His morsel with His friends in a one pot giving in the mouth, and going in search in the forest, and He is the highest? How can I know?"

Brahmā says: "I have got some intimacy with my father, Nārāyaṇa. Sometimes whenever I have any difficulty I approach Him to get some instruction and do accordingly. But I have not come in connection with the supreme power of such nature. A cowboy in one dish taking food with His friends and with a rod in His arm He's going in search for cows and He's the highest? So now I see that You are far above (my father Nārāyaṇa. Vaikuṇṭha is fair and lawful field we can know but these most tactful and obscure diplomacy we have never experienced anytime that this is in the highest quarter. How? We should not be blamed for (being unaware of) that. Wonderful, obscure."

"Full many a gems of purest ray serene The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear; Full many a flower is born to bare unseen, To lose its sweetness in the desert air."

(Thomas Gray's Elegy in a Country Churchyard)

There may be unknown quarter, there may be so much wealth and so much sweetness unknown to us. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

To find our highest Mastership, our Lordship, as a thief, what peculiarity. Who is the Master of everything, He's a thief. Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. Everything in Whose possession He comes as a debauch. Everything belongs to Him, but He's playing the part of a debauch. All wonderful, He's a thief, everything belongs to Him and He behaves as a thief, as one of us. A peculiar plane, all equal, superior also, father, mother, mother may be whipping and He's weeping, mother whipping and the Lord weeping. A peculiar type of līlā, pastimes. The bhakti, here is bhakti. Where is bhakti ? What is the symptom of pure devotion? Where the highest authority is submissive to the servant, there is devotion. Devotion to be located there where the Master is subservient to the servant. That peculiar power of devotion is to be found there. Bhakta-parārdhīno:

(aham bhakta-parārdhīno, hy asvatantra iva dvija sādhubhir grastahṛdayo, bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ)

(The Lord tells Durvāsā: "I am the slave of My devotees; I have no freedom apart from their will. Because they are completely pure and devoted to Me, My heart is controlled by them, and I reside always in their hearts. I am dependent not only on My devotees, but even on the servants of My devotees. Even the servants of My devotees are dear to Me.")

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63)

The highest has been forcibly taken down to serve the devotee, His servant. A peculiar power of devotion, devotion means this. Kṣetra-hari prema bhajana, the last acquisition of devotion is this, that that can control the Supreme Lord and forcibly take Him to the devotee as a friend, as a friendly servant. The Master submits and surrenders to the servant, a peculiar thing that is there. So what more we can expect?

The Infinite is at the disposal of the finite. Can we conceive? And that is done stealthily in various diplomatic ways. So finite has got its supreme most unthinkable position, that the Infinite is coming to serve him, the finite. The most glorious unthinkable position a finite can have, unthinkable that the Infinite is at the disposal of the finite. What is this? Impossible, this impossible can be effected by devotion, rāga, love. Love is such a powerful, unthinkable jewel. It is impossible, the Infinite's defeat to finite. What is that unthinkable position? It can be attained through love only.

So how adorable and how precious and valuable the love is. And to acquire a drop of that, what sacrifice we should do? Nothing is bigger. To acquire a drop of that divine love, no sacrifice is sufficient, is enough. Die to live. So wholesale death is adorable life. It is the impossible of the impossible.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

And Mahāprabhu came to give you that. And who is He? How magnanimous is He? He Himself is in that position, He has come to us begging from door to door: "Enlist your name to purchase that thing." He came as a canvasser from door to door. "Enlist your name. I have come to recruit for that highest quarter where the Infinite will be slave to the finite. And that valuable thing, a drop take."

Consider, it is the impossible of the impossible. Is it possible? Ha, ha.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura
Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Inconceivable of the inconceivable.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: that is also a peculiar plane of the conception of the Infinite. I heard once said by a servant of a Vaiṣṇava that it is the sweet will of his Guru, our Gaura Kīśora Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, to live as long as he likes, it is his sweet will. The basis is that what a Vaiṣṇava wills, Kṛṣṇa sanctions that without any hesitation. So we take it what a Vaiṣṇava wills is absolute. Sometimes there is a line of understanding in this way. That is to find the Infinite in every part of it, every part represents the whole, that is a peculiar nature of Infinite. What a servant wills, we can take it for certain that it's Kṛṣṇa's will and it cannot be violated. In that sense that Infinite represents Himself fully in every part of it in His own zone. So from there, this expression, "As you have kept me I am so." Ha, ha. This line of thought originates from this conviction.

Mutually, a Vaiṣṇava says to another Vaiṣṇava: "As you like, I am like that, as you have kept I am so and so." The fashion, the etiquette is like that and the truth behind is like that in the ontological calculation. What a Vaiṣṇava wills Kṛṣṇa's will accordingly and what Kṛṣṇa wills then it is absolute, in this way. "As you have kept I am so and so." The background of such statement is like that. Kṛṣṇa. The Vaiṣṇava commands Kṛṣṇa, his will. Every part of the Absolute is absolute, He's so.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Mahārāja, in this regard, sometimes you say the Vaiṣṇava Guru has two aspects. His own adhikāra and level of attainment and capacity and the inspired side of the Vaiṣṇava is the Guru.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. With personal and dedicated power, two sides. Inspired side, that is inspiration given by Kṛṣṇa. Just as an officer, a private man can be a man in the service, a District Magistrate, or a Captain, General, anyone, his personal capacity and his official capacity, in this way the difference. And delegated power as representative of Kṛṣṇa, he talks in a way of official style. But independent of that he's a person and he's very humble, "I am nothing," in that way, niṣkiñcana.

"Everyone is delivered from the sinful world only with the exception of me," Narottama Ṭhākura says. "Mahāprabhu came and delivered the whole world, all the fallen souls delivered, save and except myself."

tuwa narottama aloila bhadi jagat udhar he jalu e avatari ?

"In this incarnation the whole sinful world is absolved, only with the exception of my most fallen soul."

That is a sort of feeling in them as regards their personal position. Kavirāja Goswāmī he says:

purīṣera kīṭa haite muñi sei laghiṣṭha

("I am so mean, lower even than the worm in stool.") (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.205)

And when he's in the office, official side: "This is the truth what I say and there is nothing to concern it. Whoever does not care for this is doomed." Kavirāja Goswāmī, the man who says: "I am the worst of the worms in the stool. A greater sinner than even the Jagāi and Madhāi etc.," he says: "That Mahāprabhu avatāra is doing such and such magnanimous work. If anyone misses this chance he's gone forever."

janmiyā se kene nāhi maila:

pāiyā amṛtadhunī, piye viṣa-garta-pāni janmiyā se kene nāhi maila)

("Anyone who attains a human body but does not take to the cult of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu is baffled in his opportunity. Amṛtadhunī is a flowing river of the nectar of devotional service. If after getting a human body one drinks the water in a poison pit of material happiness instead of the water of such a river, it would be better for him not to have lived, but to have died long ago.") (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 13.123)

"Who loses this chance, what is the good of his living? It would rather have been better if he's died immediately after his birth. He could not take the chance of human life in such a great magnanimous opportunity."

In this way he's asserting, asserting, a personal capacity who thinks himself even worse than a worm in the stool, yet in official capacity his statement is so courageous. That those who have not accepted the grace of this great magnanimous incarnation of the Lord, his position is the worse type of suicidal person.

Pāiyā amṛtadhunī, piye viṣa-garta-pāni, there is the flow of the nectar and neglecting that he's drinking the water of a poisonous pit. In the poisonous pit there is water and he's drinking, leaving the flow of the nectar.

Janmiyā se kene nāhi maila, that is so worthless, useless and unfortunate.

This strong assertion, from whom? Who thinks himself independently of his inspiration that: "I am worse than a worm in the stool."

So two sides, one inspired by Kṛṣṇa and another taken away from that grace of Kṛṣṇa. Two types of personality we find. As a servant of the Vaiṣṇava, that is in the official function in the office of Kṛṣṇa. Doing something, in charge in his duty, that is one personality. "I have got this responsibility to do from the higher. So like a District Magistrate I must do it," in this way. Two-fold functions we see, one personal, another official, in the service of the Lord. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, one question here. We've got Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam published by Tridaṇḍi Śrī Bhakti Prajnan Yati Mahārāja. And in the introduction, the beginning, he has written a statement here. He says: "Fallen, fallen, still fallen am I. Who else except Śrī Gaura Hari, mercy embodiment, Śrī Nityānanda's other self, Gurudeva. His Divine Grace Bhakti Vilāsa Tīrtha Mahārāja, who is none other than Bimala Mañjarī. He has operated on my eyes with the collyrium:

(om ajñāna-timirāndhasya jñānāñjana-śalākayā cakṣur unmilitaṁ yena, tasmai śrī-gurave namaḥ)

("I was blind in the darkness of ignorance but my Spiritual Master applied the ointment of proper spiritual knowledge and thus opened my eyes. Unto him I offer my respectful obeisances.")

This line, so

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Devotee: Then he says: "I record the fact that one day in a spiritual vision my divine master commanded me to follow him and soon I could see myself present along with him at an enchanting dalliance of the Rasa-Rāja and Mahābhāva at that transcendental sportive land of Vraja. What a marvellous sight. But soon, I lost myself in ecstatic rapture. Alas! I lost the vision and lamented so bitterly when my divine master, once again appearing before me, behested me to penetrate upon Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and commissioned me Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the next? I could not follow.

Devotee: He had a vision of Rasa-Rāja and Mahābhāva in Vraja. "And after some time I lost that vision and lamenting, again my Divine Master came, Gurudeva appeared and ordered me to take this task, take up this work of Śrīmad-Bhāgavata.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And I am engaged by special request after coming down from the highest position.

Devotee: Yes. We feel a little difficult.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Question is this your question?

He's posing in this way, the Bhāgavata our Gurudeva Bimala Mañjarī

Rādhā-Govinda Rasa-Rāja Mahābhāva must be of perfect nature, most perfect nature, that is the what is the purpose underlying? But what I say, that is perfect and infallible. After getting the perfect vision by the grace of my Gurudeva, by his special request I have come down and I am explaining Bhāgavatam. So you should be taken as the highest angle of vision. This is true

How far this is true

How far we can accept this a true? Itihāsa, history

Devotee: He's recording history.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What I avoided in case of our Goswāmī Mahārāja. So many things that I know that if I say it will create havoc. Ha, ha, ha.

So far as I know in this connection that when confidential.

Devotee: We just want to know for ourselves.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But when Tīrtha Mahārāja, that is Kuñja Babu at that time, Kuñja Babu we considered himself to be the co-founder of this Institution, Gauḍīya Maṭh Mission. But sometimes we are told that for the financial difficulty he had to accept the service in the war field in Mesopotamia in the First Great War. The staff, he was working in the Post Office, then the class who took the risk of going to the war field they could get a big remuneration. So he accepted that service and went, risking his person to that place. And it was told that for financial difficulty, to meet the expenditure of the Mission he was compelled to do so for greater remuneration. At that time Prabhupāda (Bhaktisiddhānta Sarawatī Ṭhākura) found himself

Devotee: and we should be under the guidance of a superior Vaiṣṇava. I need to ask, how is it possible to be under the guidance of a particular devotee? How is this attraction born? Where from this attraction is coming? And how do we cultivate this sentiment?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: inner guidance, that is śraddhā. The appreciation and association will come from within to recognise where I may be benefited. Inner guidance, caitya-guru, or śraddhā. By śraddhā we come to have some inner guidance that is caitya-guru, the guru, the preceptor within, inside us. And by that help we can come to mahānta-guru, the guru outside, and there we are to take instruction, advice, guidance. He does not understand my English?

Devotee: He understood what you have said Mahārāja. Vidagdha Madhava dāsa Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When did you come back?

Devotee: I came on Saturday night. But I paid my daṇḍvats, but you were busy yesterday, twice I came but you were busy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you follow what I say?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By sukṛti and śraddhā we have got some inner guiding tendency and by the help of that we shall come to understand our outside favourable situation. Not knowledge but heart will be able to select about bhakti, śraddhā, ruci. Our inner tendency, that will guide us, not our reason. Reason there may be but principal guidance from ruci or our inner hankering or something, love, that will guide.

Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, bhakti can only give bhakti, nothing else, it is most fundamental, elementary, nothing can produce bhakti only bhakti can produce bhakti.

smarantaḥ smārayantaś ca, mitho 'ghaughā-haraṁ harim bhaktyā
sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulakāṁ tanum

["The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti-yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, and thus, even within this world, their spiritualised bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31]

Bhakti is by itself. As Hegel told: "Absolute is by Itself." So bhakti is by itself, absolute nature, function, that is by herself. Ahaitukī, no cause, causeless. Nothing can produce devotion. Devotion is eternally existing and devotion can give devotion and nothing else can give devotion. Devotion is such an original substance. Nothing can oppose it and nothing can create it. She is eternally existing with the Absolute as is nature, inseparable from Him.

Ajñāta-sukṛti, jñāta-sukṛti, śraddhā: śraddhā ratir bhaktir anukramiṣyati:

sataṁ prasaṅgān mama vīrya-saṁvido bhavanti hr̥t-karṇa-rasāyanāḥ kathāḥ taj-joṣaṇād āśv apavarga-vartmani śraddhā ratir bhaktir anukramiṣyati

["One will rapidly progress on the path of liberation, and naturally will develop firm faith, attraction and devotion, when he cultivates the activity of engaging in discussions about My glorious Pastimes in the association of pure devotees. Such activities are very nourishing to the ear and heart."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.25.25]

By gradual development it gets the name of the prema, of love, in a final position, in a permanent position. What is śraddhā in the beginning, when fully developed that becomes divine love.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, you say that association is very important, but this association is the same mentality?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mentality, mind is a foreign thing, acquired thing, from the illusory world, [but nature is more?] same tendency, same nature.

Devotee: For me it's not possible to see the nature of the others, spiritual nature.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may not be detectable but undetectably also it may work.

Subconscious work is also possible for us. That is called fortune, sometimes.

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya
bhakti-latā-bīja

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

While wandering through the different species in this world of creation any fortunate soul comes to have a real guide, Guru, bhāgyavān, fortune. That means sukṛti, unconsciously, subconsciously acquired wealth, that is in the subconsciousness world. That may help us, underground. That is bhāgya, sukṛti, previously, unconsciously acquired merit, as a part of pure devotion. In crude form, underground.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: then we have got some action for our free will, cooperation with that śraddhā, may help.

.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Conscious element means endowed with free will, a part of that possesses free will, part of consciousness, part of life, that also possesses the quality of life. Something like that.

Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A part of stone possesses the quality of the stone. So consciousness means what is endowed with free will, life means free will. So anu-cetana means anu free, small quantity of free will and small quantity of consciousness, reason, everything. Otherwise, how that will be able to cooperate with the whole? Bindu bindu, in very small quantity.

But in Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu it is mentioned Kṛṣṇa possesses in full, sixty-four qualities. Nārāyaṇa possesses in full, sixty qualities. Ordinary [demi] gods possessing partial, fifty-five qualities. And ordinary jīva possessing fifty partial qualities. What are the qualification is mentioned there. "Jīva fifty, I have got fifty-five, all partial. Nārāyaṇa sixty, full qualities. And Kṛṣṇa sixty-four, full. And Rādhārāṇī, She is told to possess seventy-five full qualities." It is mentioned there. You can try to get that knowledge.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa-kaṭha:

nāhaṁ tisthāmi vaikunṭhe yogināṁ hṛdayeṣu vā mad bhaktāḥ yatra gāyante tatra tiṣṭhāmī nārada

"Nāhaṁ tisthāmi vaikunṭhe, Nārada, I do not live in the transcendental world, vaikunṭhe, infinite. I am not to be traced in the conception of Infinite.

Yogināṁ hṛdayeṣu vā, neither do I exist in the heart of the thinkers, heart of the yogīs, that is, thinkers of the smallest part of the world, the finest part of the world, the subtle- most aspect of the world, not there.

But mad bhaktāḥ yatra gāyante, wherever My devotees chant about Me, I stay there.

My devotees, where they talk about Me, I am there."

In the Rāmānuja School three Ālvārs, Ālvār means pāṣada, who are eternally living in Vaikunṭha with Nārāyaṇa, eternal servitors, they are known as Ālvārs in the South of India, Tamil word. One dark night anyhow in a temple, three Ālvārs met together. Some occasion brought those three together. Then, they cannot see one another but they heard of their name but can't see in the dark night. They're talking about Nārāyaṇa, one talking about Nārāyaṇa, another giving answer. In this way these three met and anyhow talking in a dark night unknown to one another in a temple. And one of them asked: "Do you feel the presence of a fourth man here, fourth person?" Another says: "Yes." And what is meant by that? In their talk, Nārāyaṇa has come there, He's also there.

"Mad bhaktāḥ yatra gāyante, wherever My devotees talk about Me I cannot but be present there. I may withdraw from the heart of the yogīs. I may withdraw from the knowledge of those that deal with all-comprehensive aspect of the world, of the goal. But I can't withdraw from the place where My devotees are talking with one another about Me. That is the most charming place for Me."

So kṛṣṇa-kāṭha, talk about Kṛṣṇa is Kṛṣṇa Himself, the Name of Kṛṣṇa is Kṛṣṇa Himself, deha-dehīra, nāma-nāmīra kṛṣṇe nāhi 'bheda':

['nāma', 'vigraha', 'svarūpa' – tina eka-rūpa tina 'bheda' nāhi, -- tina 'cid-ānanda-rūpa deha-dehīra, nāma-nāmīra kṛṣṇe nāhi 'bheda' jīvera dharma – nāma-deha-svarūpe 'vibheda']

["The Lord's Holy Name, Form, and Personality are all one and the same. There is no difference between them. Since all of them are Absolute, they are transcendently blissful. - There is no difference between Kṛṣṇa's body and Himself. As far as the conditioned soul is concerned, everything is different. One's name is different from the body, from one's original form and so on."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 17.131-2]

No whole and parts, part and whole, such consideration is not present there. Each part can work as the whole, can represent the whole. His eye can represent the ear, the nose, everything. His foot, His hair also can represent everything for Him. Such autonomy is there. The autonomy is there in such a way that every part represents the whole.

Mahāprabhu told to Sanātana Goswāmī: "Do you not know that every letter in Bhāgavatam represents the whole of Kṛṣṇa?"

When Sanātana Goswāmī told to Mahāprabhu: "You Yourself are Kṛṣṇa so whatever explanation You may like to draw from Bhāgavatam You are able to do that.

Regarding the ātmārāmāś śloka:

[ātmārāmāś ca munayo, nirgranthā apy urukrame kurvanty ahaitukīm bhaktim, ittham-bhūta guṇo hariḥ]

["Those sages who, being merged in the bliss of the spirit soul, are totally free from the binding knot of mental images - they too engage in the unmotivated service of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the performer of marvellous deeds. This is but one of the qualities of the Supreme Lord Hari, who charms the entire world."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.7.10]

One time Mahāprabhu gave sixty-one kinds of interpretations on one śloka, one poem. Then Sanātana Goswāmī told: "You Yourself are Kṛṣṇa, Infinite, so You can represent everything in the infinite character."

"Sanātana, why do you admire Me? Don't you know that every part of Bhāgavatam is full Kṛṣṇa." A part of Infinite is Infinite. No number of finite can make Infinite. So every part of Kṛṣṇa is full Kṛṣṇa. We are to understand in such a way. Puzzling. Acintya, not to enter into the cell of the human brain.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Still, we have no other prospect, higher prospect than to deal with that thing. It is more than infinite. Infinite is in His one part.

mistya bahinam krsna ekam se ?

"I lie down in Śeṣa," means infinite, ānanta-svayam, His bed is infinite. On the bed of infinite He's lying and sleeps, ānanta-svayam.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. So give up the way of knowledge, to know Him, to measure Him. But whatever little quota of service given to you, try to be satisfied with that. There you will find Him, according to your fullest capacity. As much as in the ocean, so much water, my necessity is only a glass, that is suffice. So for you, He's not bankrupt, not bankrupt to anyone of us or any number of us. So we are not to be afraid that so many partners, so many beggars, then how may their thirst be filled up? No anxiety.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Happiness, satisfaction, we are hankering for a drop of it, but the ocean of that mercy, that grace, that love divine, ocean, how much we can contain? How much can we contain? One drop, ak bindu jagat dubai ?

Mahāprabhu says: "Only one drop is sufficient to inundate the whole creation, one drop is sufficient. The whole creation will be inundated, ak bindu jagat dubai ?"

It is of such character. There's no end of our search, kṛṣṇānusandhāna [the search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa], no end of such life. That one day our search will be finished and we shall sit tight as a capitalist with a big belly? No! Always students, always searching. That is infinite. Always searching as a student. When he's teaching as a professor, still he's a student because Infinite cannot be finished. To know Infinite, that attempt can never be finished, it will go further and further.

Kīrtanānanda told me: "Yes, we are a student but not in you're school, but in our Guru Mahārāja's school." There may be a [calling institution? under?] Guru Mahārāja

..... ? Ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

..... wrote in Madras in Back To Godhead: "I am monitor, a leader in this class, a leader in the class of devotion, as an student." The leader student is known as monitor or something? He told he was like that. "All students in the school of bhakti, devotion. And this group, I think that I possess the position of a monitor, the leader amongst the students. I am at the study and also trying to take others of lower standard." And sometimes he comes to see that: "Oh, these are higher than myself. Kṛṣṇa has engaged me to serve them." Guru, sometimes the Guru sees the disciple as his own Guru, so many Gurus. "So many Gurus, Kṛṣṇa has engaged me to serve them, to treat the disciple also to do some service, to that Kṛṣṇa and the student. I'm serving Him. Not educating him, not in the sense that I am master and he is lower, or holding lower position. Kṛṣṇa has engaged me to help them in service. In the conception of service also it can be seen that śiṣya [a submissive disciple] is Guru and the Guru is servant to the śiṣya, such aspects

.....

So many materials are offered to the Deity and the devotee does some service to those materials and makes them fit for the consumption of the Deity. Whatever s/he does is all service, not enjoyment, not exploitation. Whatever s/he does, a cent per cent Vaiṣṇava, all their actions are in the mood of service in connection with the Centre and His relations, His parts. Service, everything is service. When the husband and wife are being united that is also service, it is possible. Not exploiting one another in the mood of service in the mood of service everything can be done and that is in the transcendental world. Without the trick or mood of exploitation we can cooperate. We can exploit a thing, we can renounce a thing and we can serve a thing. Divine life is in service. Every unit is serving another unit in connection with Kṛṣṇa. What we cannot think, that cannot be in the spirit of service. But it can be, everything can be approached, every action may be approached in the mood of service, it is possible. Especially in the Vṛndāvana conception, in Vraja conception, in the highest quarter of the divinity it is such. Everything, all phases of activity there but all in the spirit of loving service. Love means service, service of a sweet type, a sweet type of service is love.

Service is the background, without that love is not possible. Sacrifice, love means sacrifice, based on sacrifice. Love divine, one who loves some, then s/he's ready to sacrifice for them, that is love. Love divine, how noble that is. How much tendency to sacrifice oneself for others, the highest type of sacrificed love we find in Vṛndāvana. That strict aim of love and the very atmosphere is searching divine sacrifice, that is love, automatic, automatic. And there is also the sweetness of different kinds. So that sweet behaviour, conduct with one another, that is also of different kinds like different types of sweetness, variegated sweetness, finds groups and then again some division, super subdivision, branching and branching and branching.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, due to our past habits we are often thinking that we are the enjoyers of this devotional process. This is the reverse idea. It's a very unhealthy attitude, "I want to enjoy devotional service."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Enjoy devotion? You say that we can also enjoy devotion, is it?

In one sense it is there. There is some enjoyment, which means satisfaction, not only that is the highest quality of satisfaction, enjoyment means satisfaction but not exploitation. Die to live. By robbing a person you may be satisfied and also by donating something to a person also you can find satisfaction. So these two satisfactions are of different types. In this way you are to push. So satisfaction in exploitation is not of a similar type as when we give something in relation to a personality. There's a qualitative difference. So similar, in the highest sacrifice of the very highest type of satisfaction and rāsa, rāsa is everywhere, śuk, rāsa, happiness, pleasure. Of the lowest kind is reactionary and of the highest kind, that is also reactionary but that reaction brings you:

'dāsa' kari' vetana more deha prema-dhana

That sacrificing tendency is increased more and more. That rāsa, the lowest type of rāsa and the highest type of rāsa, lowest type of rāsa in the crude exploitation, the regulated exploitation, then by renunciation and then by service, considered and then by automatic, spontaneous service. In this way, but the rāsa, the pleasure, the satisfaction, their quality and degree will be different.

One can feed, for selfish purposes one can feed a man and for the good of the country also in a war they can fight and they kill. They kill persons when fighting for a country but that killing and killing for selfish ends may be different. Dedication is also in that way. But this is all mundane, we are only giving an example to understand about the fine difference.

Devotee: Is seeking the desire for enjoyment natural for the soul?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not in the soul, this is in the mind, it is in the cover of the soul, not to be found in the soul proper. The soul's proper function is service, sevā, and the foreign thing has come, accumulated, that is this misconceived idea, there is that thing. That is an unnatural thing, not in the nature of the soul. Soul is a seeker of satisfaction but by sacrifice. Die to live, that process. Give and be happy and give and receive the thing, that kind of happiness, and by giving there is a world opposite.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

It is quite clear in this world as we contact happiness that may be extended infinitely.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: boy of seven years, [bhagavatam satyaharam ?] when just like a boy he takes his play ball, He took the mountain up.

līlā chidendra hari atar [?]

Chidendra means play ball, līlā is play and chidendra ball. Just like a ball of playing He took the Govardhana up. All subjective evolution, everything is subjective evolution, saṅkalpa ["I want this."]

"Let there be water." There was water. "Let there be light." There was light. In the Bible it is His wish, His will is supreme, whatever He wills that comes to effect.

"Oh, Dhṛtarāṣṭra, you may see Me, I order you to see Me but your blindness will be intact, no necessity is removing blindness, no question. I say see Me and you will be able to see Me."

What is this? His will is supreme.

Nārada told to a devotee after the devotee asked Nārada: "You went to Vaikuṇṭha?" "Yes."

"Where from you are coming?" "I'm coming from Vaikuṇṭha." "Did you see Nārāyaṇa?"

"Yes I saw. I had the fortune to see Him."

"What is He doing?"

"He's passing an elephant through the eye of a needle, through the hole of the needle." "It is impossible, what you say sādhu, you are talking nonsense."

"So, you may not enter Vaikuṇṭha for a long time, you are to wait here."

Through the hole of the needle He's passing an elephant, miracle to us.

God works wonders, adbutkrama [the "wonderful stride" of Vamanāvatāra], urukrama ["One whose activities are glorious," indicating Lord Vāmana whose krama, or step, covered the whole universe]. Every action of Him is wonderful, very high, over estimation.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Mahārāja, can you tell [Pravan ?] Swāmī the story of api cet sudurācāro and Yāmarāja and Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We heard a story that Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura while taking the Name he was wandering in the sky. According to his sweet will he was wandering and suddenly found that he's just nearby the Yāmalaya, god of death. Yāma means, 'whose the judge,' the sinners are judged in his court. He found himself nearby there and also he found that there was Brahmā, Nārada, etc., and they're talking about the meaning of the śloka in Bhagavad-gītā, api cet sudurācāro. And there they don't find any solution.

api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāḥ sādhuḥ eva sa
mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ

["If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all nondevotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life. "]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30]

"One who has devoted himself exclusively to Me, if he's seen to do many mistakes, many mischievous actions that are seen, he should be accepted, he should be judged as a righteous man, sādhuḥ eva sa mantavyaḥ, as honest as anyone. Api cet sudurācāro, externally though a person is seen to commit so many crimes, but if he is exclusively given to My devotion he should be considered as pure as anything, considered as a saint, mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito, whatever he's doing he's doing rightly, cent per cent, samyag vyavasito."

kṣipram bhavati dharmātmā, śāśvac-chāntim nigacchati kaunteya
pratijānīhi, na me bhaktaḥ pranaśyati

"He soon becomes righteous [dharmātmā] and attains lasting peace. O son of Kuntī, declare it boldly that My devotee never perishes."
[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.31]

"Very soon he will become religious, externally also. Śāśvac-chāntim nigacchati, and he will be seen to acquire the real peace in his life.

Kaunteya pratijānīhi, Oh, you son of Kuntī, you go and declare in the public with determination, pratijānīhi, you may promise, give them a guarantee, the public, that na me bhaktaḥ pranaśyati, My devotee never meets destruction, they can't be ruined."

Their contention, Yāmarāja, Brahmā, Nārada, in this point they do not find solution.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja ahaṁ tvām sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

"Giving up all sorts of duties one may come to My feet. This is ananya-bhajana. One who will give up all phases of duties and only accept his duty towards Me, My exclusive devotee is he."

"Now, kṣipram bhavati dharmātmā, he will again be seen as a dutiful man, externally pious man." This is anomaly. The meaning of ananya-bhajana is that he'll give all sorts of duties. "Pure, impure, everything, and he'll come to My feet." Again, "He will be very saintly in his activities in the near future," what is the meaning?" Do you follow?

Then at that time they marked that Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura was moving in the sky and taking the Name and they sent for him. "He's a pure devotee and not any ordinary devotee but he has got deep knowledge in the scriptures. Let him come and explain this verse of Bhagavad-gītā."

So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura was invited and he went there and he gave the meaning.

Kṣipram bhavati dharmātmā, "Who will be dharmātmā ?"

Api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāḥ sādhuḥ eva sa mantavyaḥ, the conclusion should be, or remark will be that he's a saint, cent per cent saint, ananya-bhāḥ. Sādhuḥ eva sa mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ, and his statement is cent per cent right, who utters that decision. That exclusive devotee of Kṛṣṇa, whatever be his outer practices, he's cent per cent saintly. And who can understand and utter this, mantavyaḥ, who can understand such principles, he will be dharmātmā. He will in the near future, shortly, he will become dharmātmā, that is, his conduct will be very pure very soon."

And śaśvac-chāntim, "he will also get the chance of accepting the path towards eternal truth. So, you Arjuna, you take this advantage and go to the public and there you declare with boldness that My devotee who is given wholly towards Me, though apparently, outwardly, he may be doing something wrong, but he won't be disturbed, he'll be saved. Na me bhaktaḥ, no destruction for My exclusive devotee, his life is insured. Go to the public and declare, and you take the benefit of becoming, by this declaration you will get that benefit, that you will become saintly and you will have the chance of the acceptance of the spiritually eternal peace. Whoever will understand will have the courage to declare that My exclusive devotee's are never ruined, they get this chance in their turn and very soon they'll also come to this path and they will attain the eternal peace."

Am I clear?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is told, because he has got that appreciation, that exclusive devotion. Everything is meant, everything is for Itself and not for any other part. We may obey or disobey the laws of the provincial and separate interest, may do or not do. But we must obey the rules "For Itself, everything For Him." That is the main rule, all others are subsidiary. We may carry out or not carry out but we must carry out our duty towards the centre. That is the all-important factor in every case.

"And one who can appreciate that and boldly assert that to the public, he must have got some substantial feeling in the matter and he's sure to survive to improve his future condition very soon and he will get that path of eternal peace, that is Myself."

That is the underlying meaning. Sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja, that is the highest quality in every part of the whole, that everyone must be dedicated towards the Centre, even crossing his dutifulness in respect to other environments, positions. "And one who can feel this, appreciate this and accept this, he will also soon get such a position because his inner heart can appreciate and there is something of the realisation in that part. So that will also come to victory very soon and the public will also see that he is also coming in this path of ananya-bhajana, exclusive adherence towards the call of the Absolute Centre. That is all in all.

And these things, kṣipram bhavati dharmātmā, dharmā means moral, dutiful, father, mother, country, society, all these things, humanity, all these *dharma*s, duties. But neglecting all these if one keeps up his straight relationship with Me, he will be considered not committing any faults. He's in the line of sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja, he's doing the right thing. And one who can appreciate this he will also very soon be converted in the same class. That is the value."

Devotee: Even more light from your revealed explanation Mahārāja.

The super excellent explanation of you, it is revealed explanation. But only in the Gītā of Guru Mahārāja is it found, this sort of explanation. But other guru-varga's take ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "Not only who is following the exclusive devotional path, but who can appreciate this, he will no sooner be a member of this school."

Devotee: How others have explained it, other guru-varga's, their explanation, it is your specific explanation

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sādhur eva sa mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ. Kṣipram bhavati dharmātmā. They will say that what he lacks, he's in a sādhana course, but when he'll be mature all these things will disappear. That is it may disappear or may not disappear, that is my question. But develop sarva-dharmān parityajya Rūpa Goswāmī has seen and given a description. Just as the Ganges water is seen to be filthy, but externally, externally filthy Ganges can it not purify? It can. Externally filthy Ganges water, the purificatory capacity of Ganges water has got no concern with external filthiness. Good scent or foam and any mud combination that cannot remove the purifying tendency and capacity of the Ganges water.

So the Vaiṣṇava, they may have physical and mental defect, but Vaiṣṇava means the ātmā, in ātmā they're a purifying agency, the purest, normal factor in the world. But externally, whatever may be seen there, like that foam and dirt in the Ganges water. The purifying capacity of the Ganges water cannot be disturbed by any foam or any dirt mixed with the water. That is something separate, that spiritual capacity. It does not depend in any way on these material, foreign things or capacity. So Vaiṣṇava, he may be seen as a little greedy, some a little excited easily, all these things. Physically also, one may be blind, one may be deaf, another may be lame. "Why a Vaiṣṇava will be a lame man? Why he can't hear well?" But these things won't do. That Vaiṣṇava, that saintly characteristic is independent of the physical.

The Vāsudevavipra he was a leper, in Mahāprabhu's Southern tour, in Kurmakṣetra, a leper Vāsudeva, he was a great devotee. And in the physical conduct also if any worm is falling on the earth from his sore he's putting the worm back into the sore so it didn't die. And also suffering from leprosy but he was a devotee cent per cent. Mahāprabhu found him and that leprosy disappeared when He embraced him. In this way.

Sanātana Goswāmī when coming back to Purī from Benares, or Vṛndāvana, then, by the contact of the bad water in the jungle he had some sores on his body. Mahāprabhu used to welcome him and he pushed back: "Don't touch this body of a sinful man. So many itches and sores are oozing this bad odour, all these things, don't touch me." Mahāprabhu forcibly embraced him.

Then one day he told that: "I should leave the place or I should invite death, falling before the wheel of the Jagganātha cart." Then Mahāprabhu, when He heard this He chastised him and then again forcibly embraced and the whole thing disappeared, a good position outwardly immediately. In this way.

Mahāprabhu told: "Sanātana, you are a Vaiṣṇava, your body may not be so defective. Vaiṣṇava 'prākṛta' kabhu naya, it is Kṛṣṇa's test to Me. I am a sannyāsī. Whether I have got any difference in the recognition in My dealing with the Vaiṣṇava, 'between the show is here, this defect is there in the Vaiṣṇava so I must keep him aside,' Kṛṣṇa is testing Me. Only for that purpose it is seen. And your body is already pure. Only to test the public Kṛṣṇa has created this and if I cannot see it then I'll be deceived by Kṛṣṇa, so it is nothing, it is nothing but a mere show. Your body's as pure as anything. You are a Vaiṣṇava, devotee of Kṛṣṇa. This is only apparently shown to serve some purpose of the divinity of Kṛṣṇa. And where there is vaiṣṇavatara, saintly devotedness, there can never be such things. Only to test My devotion Kṛṣṇa has sent you in this condition to Me."

So He embraced him and showed that he's as pure as anything, spiritual. He may be or may not be, still, the principle is this, that our duty is wholesale dutifulness towards Kṛṣṇa. That is all that is necessary.

In the ordinary sense the gopīs, they're also sinners, they're crossing the laws of the society and the śāstra so they're sinners. But they hold the highest position of purity of their exclusive devotedness towards Kṛṣṇa and none else. Even at the risk of so much, crossing morality, they cannot help themselves but to serve Kṛṣṇa cent per cent and they're considered to be the highest devotional life. But that sort of devotion is not very cheap.

Anyone in this world may say, "go on in taking that advantage," but that won't do. The devotion must be there and there will be some measurement of the devotion. Anyone, he will pass in the name of exclusive devotion, but sahajiyā, that cannot be allowed.

Devotee: Mahārāja, two new devotees have come from America.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: New devotees? Today? Just now?

Devotee: One is Navadvīpa dāsa, Swāmī Mahārāja's disciple, and Prayraka.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're coming from ISKCON direct?

Devotee: No, they're coming from America, direct.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Direct, to here?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: astrology astronomical, stars, sun, moon, eclipse, all these things. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Have you taken breakfast?

Devotee: No. Afterwards.

Devotee: Navadvīpa dāsa is just sitting for you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You come direct from America?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not through Vṛndāvana? Swāmī Mahārāja's disappearance festival will Devotee: Not yet. We went

.....

Devotee: read this Bhāgavatāmṛtam. Is that like we can try to follow in the footsteps of Sanātana Goswāmī while chanting, while taking the Name? Once I heard you say that we should surrender to the Name and allow the Name to take us wherever He wants.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh yes. That means sevonmukhe hi jihvādau:

[ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ]

["Because the name of Kṛṣṇa is identical with Kṛṣṇa Himself, and on the absolute spiritual platform, Kṛṣṇa's name, form, qualities, and associates, cannot be appreciated by the material senses. However, when one engages the tongue in chanting the Holy Names of the Lord and tasting the remnants of the Lord's food, Kṛṣṇa gradually reveals Himself to the purified senses of that devotee." [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234]

To be in the spirit of service, dedication to the Name, what does it mean? Surrendering means to get impetus from that quarter to regulate me. And there, the connection will be supreme, supreme means He does not come to me as a servant, subservient, but as a master, His connection means the connection of a master. He'll regulate me. As much as I shall come nearer to Him I shall feel His command and His master-hood that I am fully regulated by Him, to every natha, impure, every natha. Name connection, to get the connection of the Name or anything of the Supreme, that means to be regulated by Him. Otherwise I am subject and that is an object, that is an experience of māyā.

Do you follow? The criterion is there. "One will find that he's humbler than humbler and he's only an instrument to the hands of that universal force of Me." That is the criterion and not that I'm a subject and I'm enjoying the sound and feeling some sentiment within me. And some sort of shivering and the hairs are standing on end. These external symptoms have no value. The real thing is that, "as much as I am entering into the command of Him and as much as I can feel that I am helpless of the helpless. Only an instrument in His hand, everything for Himself, that must be 'die to live,' we must keep it in mind, 'die to live.'" This ego must be dissolved and another new ego from within will spring up, it means such thing in reality. The test is there, that I am doing, handled by Him. Gradually more and more. "I am His servant, nitya- dāsa, servitor, and He's kind enough to regulate me to His highest intensity. He's my Lord, everywhere, everything is under His control." That sort of transformation must come in me.

If somehow we can come in contact with that sound, nāma rūpaṁ murāreḥ, then all our other activities will be paralysed; we will have no necessity of performing any other activity. Our many variegated duties will have no importance to us at all if we can achieve the service of the Divine Name of Kṛṣṇa."]

[Bṛhad-Bhāgavatāmṛtam, 1.1.9]

Nija dharma, duty, as we find in the direction of the varṇāśrama, our duty to the god, to the world, to the environment. Dhyāna, meditation about anything and everything. Pūjā, the arcana of the Rāmānuja section. Jñāna, the Śankara and other sections and duty of the Jains, karma-kandi, everything will be off. Katham api sakṛdāttam muktidaṁ prāninām yat, anyhow if we get the grace of the Divine Name our liberation is effected, unconsciously. Muktidaṁ prāninām yat, that is not the real gift of the Name. Muktidaṁ prāninām yat paramāmṛtam ekaṁ jīvanam bhuṣanam me, and it comes to show that that is one with Kṛṣṇa and He's the Lord of your life and the ornament, everything in your life is He, that Kṛṣṇa, that Name. The Name and the Personality Himself, the figure, the colour are one and the same inseparably They're one. And that is the Lord of your heart. And it is ornamentally the necessity in you also comes from there that is everything to be found in Him. The Lord of your life and also the supplier of all external activities to you also is He, jīvanam bhuṣanam me.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Anyhow if we come to find its grace we get out from all this sinful life. And no consideration of any caste or creed, white or black, or brāhmaṇa or śūdra, anyone coming in His real connection he cannot but attain His grace. He's very, very precious, nobly gracious, the Name of Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Some people can remember their previous births.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very few can remember about their previous lives. Jñātisya [?], a Sanskrit word there is jñātisya [?]. There are some, very few, who can remember their past births. Here, a few days before, one Bengali gentleman, Mr Banergi [?] or so, he, in order to prove transmigration of the soul, he began to collect the names of those persons who could remember their previous lives. And he found and mentioned names of several persons. He tested that one person is here, he says that: "In my previous life I was there and there is an almeira [an iron box] and there are some things stored by me, I want to have them." And it was tested and found to be so. Such cases, several cases enlisted. So birth and rebirth is proved here. Whether there is rebirth, birth after birth, it is proved by this instance scientifically. "In my previous birth I was so and so. Let me take from there. I kept these things in my almeira." In this way a few examples were found in India. About twenty years or so ago I found one gentleman he was after this campaign, the birth and rebirth is there. They are told as jñātisya [?]. They can remember, they have previous recollection of life's incidents. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I also heard that during that second great war some head and some body, one head is all right and that body is all right, and after cutting, and one head of a particular man was connected with the body of a particular man. And it was in the hospital under the care of the doctors they were connected and they lived. And they tested that the brain of the man that was living his life. Whose head was connected with the body of another, the body had no value but the man whose head was taken, after the connected body is fully cured, told that: "I have left my things there, I have such things here," he could tell, the head. An Italian head connected to a French body, an Italian head and according to the head he told that: "My father, my brother, my things, my wife, all these things." According to the head. I saw this in a newspaper.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, Viraha Prakash Mahārāja is asking, "How is the ātmasamiksa [?] begins?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ātmasamiksa [?] begins? It is the results of the previous actions, previous sukṛti. The same thing to be traced, ātmasamiksa [?] of different type. The elevationist, salvationist, then dedicationist, all may have their different types of ātmasamiksa, "Who am I?" "Who am I?" An elevationist, a karmi, he also may have ātmasamiksa according to Jaimini and others. "If we do in this way then I shall flourish, I shall live long in good health, in good mind, with good enjoying life. In the karma-kaṇḍa."

Then the salvationists, Buddhists, Śāṅkara, their ātmasamiksa will be of another type. "This is not the world to live in happily. So I must retire from this mortal life." This sort of ātmasamiksa there.

But these are artificial according to us. Our ātmasamiksa, of the devotional school, is otherwise. The same question, "Who am I?" I am not only a factor of this material world. Neither a factor of the taṭastha, that is only mere tiny soul in the world, but above that there is a huge world, Vaikuṇṭha, Goloka. There, ātmasamiksa is of another type, from the sukṛti gathered from different lives they will come to find the, "No, there is God. I have some relation with Him and I must get His service. A life of service is the elevated form of life. Renunciation and elevation in this life is not satisfactory." So different types of ātmasamiksa.

The ātmasamiksa of the devotees, the perfect form of ātmasamiksa, self-analysis, self-search, that comes from sukṛti as it is told ajñāta-sukṛti [pious deeds performed accidentally, without knowledge of their effect], jñāta-sukṛti [pious deeds performed knowingly], then it flows over the surface as śraddhā [faith]. "There is one, if we can successfully connect with Him properly, then I shall be best benefited." That will develop in that way.

Does he understand my language, statement? No?

The same thing, ajñāta-sukṛti, jñāta-sukṛti, then śraddhā.

bhaktis tu bhagavad-bhaktasaṅgena parijāyate

sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate pumbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-saṅcitaiḥ

["Actually we can recognise a sādhu by sukṛti. Apparently we can know him from the śāstras, the scriptures, because the śāstra helps us to know who is a sādhu, and the sādhu gives us the interpretation of the śāstra. So sādhu and śāstra are interdependent, but the sādhu holds the more important position and the śāstra has the secondary position. The living śāstra is the sādhu, but to know who is guru, who is sādhu, we are to consult the descriptions given about them in the scriptures. The symptoms of the sādhu, both of the guru as well as the disciple, have been written in the Bhāgavatam, in the Gītā and in the Upaniṣads."] [Bṛhan-Nāradiya-Purāṇa]

Ajñāta-sukṛti, jñāta-sukṛti, that accumulated gives birth to what is śraddhā. Śraddhā means the faith that if I do my duty towards the Centre then the whole is fed, whole I served. Put food to the stomach and the whole body is served. That sort of knowledge comes from the sukṛti that is ultimately by the grace of the divine agents.

Just as when by accident a man fallen on the street, no knowledge. Some good persons come with a need to help him then by their treatment, by their nursing, if he has got some knowledge, then he will say: "Oh, I am so and so. Please take me to my home and they will take care of me." That man, getting consciousness by the nursing of the street persons, he will say, whenever his knowledge will come: "Take me to my home." He will cooperate with them or they may take him to hospital. When the consciousness will come he will say: "I am so and so, please inform them, they will take care of me." Again he may be unconscious but whenever consciousness comes only he will suggest.

So, the jīva is moving unconsciously, whenever particular conscious will comes with the help, first help when unconscious, first help will come from the outsider. Then unconsciousness comes, he may begin to help himself, self help will come. So after sukṛti, śraddhā will come, then self help will begin. Before that, sukṛti, that in an unconscious condition only the passer by in the street they can help him. But when he has got his consciousness then he may help his own cause. Before that it is not possible.

Devotee: for the relation to come down. Also one should make some effort towards.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Effort in the proper line in submission with the superior efficient persons. Whimsical effort won't bring much success everywhere. Effort in the proper channel will be effective, will be of use, otherwise, whimsical action won't produce much good result. Regulated action is necessary, always, and regulation must be by the experts. Vaiṣṇava anugāya he, vaiṣṇava, guru, ācārya, anugāya, śāstra, regulated effort is necessary to attain success.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: his previous consciousness gone and he's thinking ahead, such and such, and guided by that idea. But when madness is gone, again he's reinstated in his former position. "Oh, what is this? The madness forced me to think that this. Now I am all right." Vicitra citra, our consciousness is thrown away, out, in such a way, and fixed there, and we find, "Oh, I am this, I am this." All false, stand erect in your own soil. Give up these false ideas, manias. This is all mania and you are all suffering from mania and universal mania is there. So many points of soul they're suffering from this universal mania, from this cholera, from blindness, from this, that, so many diseases, but it is a common disease. Get up."

uttiṣṭhataḥ jāgrataḥ prapya varāṇ nibodhataḥ kṣurasya dhārā niśitā

["Awake, arise: Having obtained the human form of life, you must not sleep in the darkness of ignorance. Awaken knowledge of your real self by associating with great souls and obtaining their mercy. This material creation is as sharp as a razor's edge, for it is the cause of many miseries. It is impossible to cross over without transcendental knowledge. Therefore one must take shelter of the great learned transcendentalists who forever sing the praises of that Supreme Person who is the destroyer of birth and death."][Kāṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.3.14]

Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putraḥ, "Oh you persons of the nectar soil, of the immortal soil. Oh child of the immortal soil, you hear." The address in the Veda is like that. "Oh you immortal child, amṛtasya putraḥ, you'll never die, you are a son of the immortality, of eternal substance. You hear, listen to me, you are not so and so, you are such and such." This is the announcement of the Vedas, of the revealed truth, Upaniṣad, the first Veda, encouraging. "Why do you degrade yourself? You are of high order and you have degraded so much that you have forgotten your own noble lineage and you have become such a coward of the coward, the worst crazy and mad who has forgotten your own noble position. Now come, stand, get up, and hear that you are such and such. And you have got so many prospects also there on the other side, on the higher side.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

This is the basis and then we shall make progress towards Vaikuṇṭha.

vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī tatrāpi rāsotsavād vṛndāraṇyam udārapāṇi-ramaṇāt tatrāpi govardhanaḥ rādhā-kunḍam ihāpi gokula-pateḥ premāmṛtāplāvanāt kuryād asya virājato giri-taṭe sevām vivekī na kaḥ

["The holy place known as Mathurā is spiritually superior to Vaikuṇṭha, the transcendental world, because the Lord appeared there. Superior to Mathurā-purī is the transcendental forest of Vṛndāvana because of Kṛṣṇa's rāsa-līlā pastimes. And superior to the forest of Vṛndāvana is Govardhana Hill, for it was raised by the divine hand of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and was the site of His various loving pastimes. And, above all, the super-excellent Śrī Rādhā-kunḍa stands supreme, for it is over-flooded with the ambrosial nectarean prema of the Lord of Gokula, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Where, then, is that intelligent person who is unwilling to serve this divine Rādhā-kunḍa, which is situated at the foot of Govardhana Hill?"]

[Upadeśāmṛtam, 9]

We shall go to the higher length of life, and that comparison. So on the whole sat- cit-ānanda, our eternal existence we must get back. And cit, and we have got that sort of permanent feeling of the nature of that soil, leaving the experience of the feeling of the experience of this lower soil. Then, ānandam, fulfilment, heart's fulfilment, that is in the land of dedication. Die to Live. That is life there and death here. You are to die from here and you are to live, begin your life from there, that plane of dedication, and make progress, further. It is reality. It is not imagination. Don't become sahaṁjyā, don't, being in this plane, you are thinking that you have got everything. It is reality. Step by step you are to feel and understand and realise, get and go forward. It is the reality. Kṛṣṇa is not imagination. That is the reality if you can come to feel and that is only possible through śraddhā and through sādhu-saṅga, His grace, His grace, not a matter of right. That right is in a very lower position dependant on His grace. If you can collect so much grace then you can have that service as your right. Dependant on grace, your right, there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

That vision is Gaura Kiśora Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja. He's out for begging, mādhu-karī, and so many boys are feeling pleasure in disturbing him, a man of that type. Outwardly throwing some dust, etc., on him, and making some jokes, cutting some jokes. And he says: "Kṛṣṇa, I shall complain to Yaśodā. You have become so boisterous You are attacking me. What have I done? What wrong have I done to You? You have come with these boys to disturb me, I shall lodge a complaint against You to mother Yaśodā and she will give a good check in You."

So, where is he awake? He's awake to see that everything is in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The boys are disturbing but he's seeing, "No, what are these boys doing? The direction ultimately comes from that quarter." His understanding is so deep he cannot see anything without Kṛṣṇa's interference. At the back of everything is Kṛṣṇa and the things between all removed, only Kṛṣṇa consciousness in every occasion. Every event he's seeing only that Kṛṣṇa is there and He's at the root. Without His sanction, nothing can happen and that is very wakeful in him, in his mind, and also he's in Vṛndāvana. "Kṛṣṇa, You are disturbing me and I shall take it to Yaśodā Ma and she will punish You, then You will see, " in this way. But it is not an imitation, it must be realisation, deep realisation, all coming from Kṛṣṇa. These are all prejudices of different kinds that are hindering my connection with the universal substance, controlling agents.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Division, estimation.

Nitāi. Nitāi.

Our Guru Mahārāja [Bhaktisiddhānta Sarawatī Ṭhākura] wrote, Prakṛta-sahajiyā- sata-dusani. Mādhvācārya wrote, he gave one-hundred points against māyāvāda conception, "That I am Brahma, I am he, he's one and the same." Mādhvācārya gave a hundred points against it. And our Guru Mahārāja, he saw that sahajiyāism is the worst enemy to śuddha-vaiṣṇavism. So he also wrote one-hundred points against this prakṛta-sahajiyā vata. "This is the worst enemy to śuddha-bhakti, prakṛta-sahajiyā- sata-dusani," in different ways.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

You have taken your pāraṇa [breaking Ekādaśī fast]?

Devotee: Some people can remember their previous births.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very few can remember about their previous lives.

End of recording of side A, 4/23/24.12.83. side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: the potency and the owner of the potency become One and sometimes They bifurcate and become Two and begin Their pastimes. Sometimes closest and sometimes far. In Vṛndāvana līlā we find Both divided and in Gaura līlā we find combined, because One cannot exist without the Other. Kṛṣṇa, jñāna-śakti, the figure, the enjoyer and Rādhārāṇī the enjoyed providing Him. The enjoyed and the enjoyer, They're automatically one and the same. Sometimes They come very close then becomes Gaurāṅga and at other times They divide and begin Their pastimes. That is the meaning of that śloka given by Svarūpa Dāmodara who is considered to be Lalitā Sakhi in Vṛndāvana. That They cannot be thought out separately, always They're connected. Sometimes very closer and sometimes a little far, beginning Their pastimes. In Vṛndāvana we find They're divided and They're making pastimes. In Navadvīpa They're combined. He's searching Himself and distributing to others.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, by the grace of guru one can realise himself. By the grace of Śrī Gurudeva one can come to realise himself, to understand, ātmā-samikha, to the highest degree. And he can find himself in Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa līlā or he can find himself in Gaurāṅga līlā ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In both the līlā, but tending more towards one, some group, and some will be tending more towards another, and some in the midway. Three classes amongst them. Some more addicted to the separate pastimes and some more addicted to the closed pastimes of Gaurāṅga and some in the middle, both this side and that side. This is found. Some want more to see Gaurāṅga līlā, they're very eager to see Gaurāṅga līlā when Kṛṣṇa Himself in the mood of Rādhā is searching Himself and distributing to others, very fond of serving that līlā. And another group, when They separate Themselves and begin Their pastimes, and to help in that affair, another group is more attracted. And there is a third group who likes this and that also, mainly, but there are so many subdivisions.

Devotee: So if somebody is mostly attracted to, or partaking of Gaurāṅga līlā, he's at the same time partaking of all the pastimes of Rādhā-Govinda līlā ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, yes, yes. In a different percolated way. Just, who serves Rādhārāṇī, she's serving Kṛṣṇa the best. Do you follow? How? Rādhārāṇī can render the highest form of service to Kṛṣṇa. So that another may not be trespasser between the Two, they will help Rādhārāṇī and her/his energy will be utilised by Rādhārāṇī for the service of Kṛṣṇa, that person will be best benefited. Can you follow? Because her/his energy, when it comes in the hand of Rādhārāṇī is being made more qualitatively better and being utilised to Kṛṣṇa and fetching more gain to that person. Can you follow?

So also here, by serving Gaurāṅga līlā, Both combined, s/he may serve the most. It depends on the sweet will of Both of Those. So it can't be said definitely, because according to Their necessity it will be designed and it cannot come under law because They're above law. Their whim, any moment demanding anything and that should be supplied. They're not a stereo type stale thing under law but independent, in every second They're having new demand on the new pastimes. Nava-navayana, every moment is new, every new, that does not become old. Always above law and we should not try to bring Them under law, They are above law. This is the primary thing we must keep in our mind, that, "to put Them under law and I shall read the law and understand the law and I shall get Them in the cage," it is not like that. Always free. Only we can have a glimpse towards, some glimpse, some spark, towards the whole. That is what we may expect. Divya-darśana, towards this, He's this side, not within this cage, we can say, so far we can say, "He's this side."

Śrutibhir vimṛgyām, [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61], all the revealed scriptures are showing the direction, "He's in this direction." That much they can assert. Big theistic philosophers, or scholars, or devotees, they give some glimpse, some ray to us. "This side, this direction."

Of course, Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa has written when he was singing the grace of Rūpa and Sanātana. "That the Rūpa Sanātana, what type of devotees they were?" astyasya ratnati vat ?

"Just as the jewel is in the palm of one mans hand, and he can show it this side, that side, every side, in this way. Rūpa and Sanātana, they showed that ecstatic jewel, that transcendental jewel, Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, in that way. This side that side, as if a gem within the fist, they could show. By the grace of them who are so favourite of the Supreme Lord that they could do so."

Sanātana Goswāmī when writing he says: "What am I? A tiny soul. And I am writing about the harem of Kṛṣṇa, that this queen was of this type, this queen was this nature, this and that. What a fallen soul I am, like a dust in the earth, and I am dealing, I am giving descriptions of the beloved queens of Kṛṣṇa in the harem? But believe me my friends, someone is forcibly conducting my hand and forcibly making me write, not myself. Please believe me."

Kavirāja Goswāmī also says:

e kantha lakaya mari madhana mohan ?

"What I am saying here, it is not mine, I am like a parrot. The Madhan Mohan is forcing me to say what I am saying."

That is, He expresses Himself through them. His quite surrendered souls are instrumental in that affair. He can, yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyaḥ, [Kāṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23], He can give Himself, none else, He can only give Himself. Those that are saying about Him, they're ultimately saying that, "that I am a mere instrument, He's doing through me I can feel."

When Mahāprabhu is saying to Rūpa Sanātana, He also says like that. "Something is passing through Me to you Sanātana. I feel that Kṛṣṇa as He is, He's in the sound, He's passing through Me, some thought is passing through Me through some sound and He's embracing Me. I do not know the meaning of what is passing through Me."

In this way.

Vyāso vetti na vetti vā, sometimes the Guru may not feel what is passing through him to a particular disciple, he may not know, it is also possible. Vyāso vetti na vetti vā, Vyāso, through whom so many divine scriptures have come, he may not know the full meaning of that. He can control Absolute, everything in His hand, everything is under His control. He's using ABC according to His own whim, and they cannot but do so.

mukam karoti vācālaṁ panghum langhāyate girīm yat kṛpā tam ahaṁ vande śrī gurun dīna-tāraṇam

"I offer my respectful obeisances unto Mādhava, Who is the Personification of transcendental bliss. By His mercy, a blind man can see the stars in the sky, a lame man can cross mountains, and a dumb man can speak eloquent words of poetry."

[Bhavārtha-Dipikā, maṅgala stotram, 1]

If He likes, a dumb man may speak, may be an orator. Mukam karoti vācālaṁ panghum langhāyate girīm, a crippled man can cross the mountain. Yat kṛpā, His grace is such, miracle of all miracles.

Adbutkrama, every stride is wonderful, every movement is beyond our conception and law. He's such, and we have come to know Him, to understand Him. We have left everything, nothing in the world has any charm for us. We want to know that unknown thing. Our mania is not to search the concrete things what can be had, but what can never be had, our mania is to search after that. The unknown and unknowable, Adhokṣaja. Who always keeps all the senses, the instruments of knowing, under Him. His existence is always transcending the layer of our understanding. It is His sweet will. Sometimes suddenly He may come, appear, and give some impression, "I am so," then withdraws. We are helpless, still, our mania is to search after Him. We may not have, it does not matter, still, we must not lose our energy in the search of so much trash, so many brickbats and fossils. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Gurudeva, whatever glimpse of such a high truth one may have, or may have had in the past, to remember that it is no good, no?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sometimes, yes, remembering is also good. And that remembrance also lives on His will. If He likes He can make him forget everything. All Rights Reserved. So we are slave, we, after all, we are aspiring after slavery, a position of a complete slave. "He may make or mar, if He likes He may efface me. His position is such. Wholesale with Him and nothing with me. And only I want my submission to Him. That is the truth. He's all in all. I am nothing of the nothing. Still, I want His consciousness, His association. That is enough for me, that my Lord, that I am connected with some magnanimous, great, divine whole, that is all, kṛṣṇa-dāsa."

mari raki madi sukhi thakura deham ?

"They've every right, at the expense of us They may enjoy to our advantage."

That should be our aspiration. "Let Them go on with Their pastimes happily, making me or doing away with me. If dealing death to me is necessary for Their free pastimes, I want to go forever." That sort of surrender we should try to have, try to reach to that standard. "He has every right over me, to efface me." And we are told by the spiritual scholars that is the highest position of having Him. Those that are so much forgetful for having Their pastimes, really, they live in the high order. So much intensity of self-sacrifice takes us nearer to Them, so much self-abnegation takes us nearer to Them, self-surrender takes us nearer to Them. That is "die to live," die to live, ha, ha, ha. If you want to have a real life you will have to die as you can conceive yourself to be ever in this world. And all your so-called prospects, you will die, then your real figure will come out in pristine glory. Die to live. So as much as we can we are to embrace death, ha, ha, ha, death in connection with Him, of course.

Devotee: Ha, ha, embrace death, Guru Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Self-effacement. The renunciation school, they also want to efface themselves, but that is another thing. That has no connection with the positive truth. They want to retire into darkness, no consciousness. And here, the sacrifice is conscious sacrifice, to welcome death for the satisfaction of the universal pastimes, the positive connection. This death of the Vaiṣṇava school has got positive background. And the renunciation, self-abnegation of the Buddhist and Śāṅkara schools have no positive background, not hunting for the satisfaction of the whole, not that. This death is a positive death and that is something negative. The positive death is that I die for a good cause, just as a soldier dies for the cause of the country. The patrons die for the country and the goondas [rogues] they also die for selfish quarrel. Both may be brave, but one for some exploitation but because there's hindrance in the exploitation he's risking his life. And here, the risk for the cause of the universal līlā with a positive background, death but no death, death means the highest form of emancipation. They rather enter into the most confidential group of the servants, the suicidal squad, just as a suicidal squad, they hold the highest patriotism. So, here the devotees, they're like suicidal squad, they're to be depended upon. In time of need, for the pastimes, they're ready to be martyred for that. So in the highest rank they hold this sort of service, positive.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

I close here.

Devotee:

yat-pāda-pallava-yugaṁ vinidhāya kumbha- dvandve praṇāma-samaye sa gaṇādhirājaḥ vighnān vihan̐tum alamasya jagat-trayasya govindam ādi puruṣaṁ tam ahaṁ bhajāmi

[For the power to crush the obstacles of the three worlds, He whose lotus feet Gaṇeśa perpetually holds upon the pair of nodes of his elephantine head - the Primeval Lord, Govinda, do I worship.] [Brahma-saṁhitā, 50]

Would that be the right verse?

yat-pāda-pallava-yugaṁ vinidhāya kumbha-dvandve praṇāma-samaye sa gaṇādhirājaḥ

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaṇādhirājaḥ means Gaṇeśa.

Devotee: Yes.

vighnān vihan̐tum alamasya jagat-trayasya govindam ādi puruṣaṁ tam

aham bhajāmi

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So Govindam is (in a kumbha ?) What is the meaning of kumbha? yat-pāda...

Devotees: yat-pāda-pallava-yugam... kumbha-dvandve - praṇāma-samaye sa gaṇādhirājaḥ.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So English translation is there?

Devotee: Yes, English translation, "I adore the Primeval Lord, Govinda, Whose lotus feet are always held by Gaṇeśa upon the pair of tumuli, protruding from his elephant head.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is in the skull?

Devotee: Yes. In order to obtain sah [?] for his function of destroying all the obstacles on the path of progress of the three worlds.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whatever duty he does, with the help of Govinda, and Govinda there informal meeting only. Nṛsimhadeva vighna vijnasum [?] and Gaṇeśa also is (vighna vijnasum?). So (vighna vijnasum?) self of Kṛṣṇa is Nṛsimhadeva, and Nṛsimhadeva's help is taken by, sought for by Gaṇeśa when he does his mundane duty. So kapalinam [?] that may, very mysteriously, or deep thinking, that (kapali?) means that Nṛsiṁhadeva, it may come. But ordinarily it may come Śiva. This is [vaisnava ananda sarsam [?]. Eliminate Gaṇeśa and honour Śiva, or Nṛsiṁhadeva, and then go on with your taking the Holy Name.

Devotee: Then, in this translation here, as Kedanath has read yesterday. "One should begin the worship of the demigod Gaṇapati who drives away all impediments in the execution of devotional service. In the Brahma-saṁhitā it is stated that Gaṇapati worships the lotus feet of Lord Nṛsiṁhadeva, and in that way he has become auspicious for the devotees in clearing out all impediments. Therefore, all devotees should worship Gaṇapati." This is coming.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With little difficulty. Taking the remote connection, that when he discharges his duty towards the mundane world, he does it with the help of Nṛsiṁhadeva. So, if you worship him to get out of the difficulties of your devotional way, then by the dint of his power of connection with Nṛsiṁhadeva, he will come to help you. A remote connection, but generally it is eliminated clearly.

Devotee: It may be...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may be connected everywhere, because everywhere He is within.

jīve sambanidi jani kṛṣṇa dr̥ṣṭvām [?]

In the broad, broadest universe of discourse, everything is coming. You should honour all the jīva, thinking that within him the God is residing.

That is the most spacious and widest jurisdiction. Give honour to everything, whatever we see, thinking that within him God exists, the widest way.

Devotee: Just previously, from the Padma Purāṇa, there's one verse given:

harir eva sadā rādhyāḥ, sarva-deveśvareśvaraḥ itare brahma-rudrādyā, nāvajṣeyāḥ kadācana

[Kṛṣṇa, or Hari, is the master of all demigods, and therefore He is always worshippingable. But this does not mean that one should not offer respect to the demigods headed by Brahmā and Śiva.]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Itare brahma-rudrādyā, nāvajṣeyāḥ kadācana. He will serve Hari exclusively, but that does not mean that he will despise other demigods, brahma- rudrādyā, including Brahmā and Śiva. And don't disparage anybody but your necessity is only exclusively devoted to Hari.

Devotee: So in that mood we should respect Gaṇeśa. That may be the connection.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Indifferent, we are not going to dishonour anybody, to create any spirit of animosity, but we are given wholesale to my own Lord. That should be the attitude.

.....[?]

Religion is proper adjustment. We are maladjusted. It requires for our best benefit that we should be adjusted. We are a part of a whole and we must be conscious of that fact. And where the part is properly adjusted, in the whole, that is in harmony. And where it is not, that is in māyā, illusory, delirium. There are so many different conceptions predominating - provincialism, localism, selfishness, separatism - not properly connected with the prime cause. That is the difficulty. If we want to be reinstated - at present we are maladjusted, that is falsely adjusted, erroneously adjusted - if we want proper adjustment we are advised to follow a particular course, of sādhanā.

In Kali-yuga, this divine sound, taking the hint or the direction from the divine sound, that we can trace that what should be the proper way to go to the final adjustment. And whatever other attempts we make for that sort of highest adjustment, how we are to behave with the present environment, that has been recommended, that your dealings with the present environment will be such and such.

Generally, for the success of worldly things, worldly attempts, we worship Gaṇeśa. Just as the labour leaders, head of the labourers, the ordinary labourers, Gaṇeśa. Gaṇa means mass, and leader of the masses. Mass is ignorant and the leader of the masses is also expected to be so. But ostentatiously he has got some power, and with the manpower they may oppose anything and everything. So, to satisfy them, to bribe them, the leader should be honoured. In a general sense the leader of the masses, they should not be ignored, they should be honoured so that they cannot put any obstacle on the way of our progress. It is the general thing.

In this world, this is the world of māyā, māyā means bribe. Here, everything is going on with bribe. We want our selfish attempts to be satisfied. That is illegal, unlawful, to try to fulfil our respective separate desire, without caring for the others, not to take into account the centre. Ignoring the centre, ignoring the outside, only we want to satisfy our own interest. That is the crude form of maladjustment, kāma. Then dharma, artha, dharma, all these things, self-centred means sense pleasure centred, sense-pleasure centred. And for that purpose we try to acquire some help from the outside and for that we are to pay something to them, and that all may be considered as bribe. So:

vipanya devata bhakta yadanti sraddha anita [?] No.

karme strete hitajna prapadyante anya devata [?]

Whoever is found to worship another god, demigod, so many proposed authorities of different departments, whenever we go to satisfy them it cannot be denied that we are bribing them to fulfil my motive, my selfish motive. They're in power, they're in some position by their previous karma. They're the heads of particular departments and we want those things from them and we give something to them and get it very cheaply. This is the bribe. This is māyā. And our object is sense pleasure, sense pleasure.

And what is wanted in us, in normal, that we should seek after the satisfaction of the pleasure of the centre, that is God. If we want to attain that end of our life, that divine, highest, that pure end of our life, self-abnegation and self-dedication. First self- abnegation we must be prepared for and then self-dedication and dedication only for the centre. That is what will be conducive and our real benefit. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So always, those that are in the path towards the highest divinity, the Vaiṣṇava, the sādhū, our submission, our search of help, anything, all our association, our concern will be with them. And that is the most safe position. Go through Vaiṣṇava, go in the company of Vaiṣṇava. If you get a Vaiṣṇava, then even eliminating the God Himself, worship Vaiṣṇava, and He will be more pleased with you. That is the position.

And just the opposite position we find in the case of Gaṇeśa. Gaṇeśa comes, the leader of the mass comes just on my way, how should we deal with him? We should not disturb him. He may create some unnecessary trouble so how to deal with him? You don't submit to him direct but you may talk with him of some nearest relative who is connected with Viṣṇu, Kṛṣṇa. He's Śiva. In the case of the Vaiṣṇava: tadīyānām samatasmāt parataram̐ devi tadīyānām samārcanam.

[ārāadhanānām sarveśām, viṣṇor ārāadhanam̐ param tasmāt parataram̐ devi, tadīyānām samārcanam]

[Lord Śiva told Pārvatī-devī: "Of all kinds of worship, worship of Lord Viṣṇu is best, and better than the worship of Lord Viṣṇu is the worship of His devotee, the Vaiṣṇava."] [Padma Purāṇa]

Even you may eliminate Viṣṇu but if you honour Viṣṇu dāsa your case will be more hopeful. But in the case, the opposite case, you are eliminating the son, the subordinate. And anyhow, to keep the apparent gentleman-like character, "Oh, your father, how is he?" in this way. Not to dissatisfy, not to dishonour, and not to honour. But his connection, if anyone has any least connection with Nārāyaṇa, with Viṣṇu, my Lord, then I shall march to that. With this attitude we are to deal with the leaders of the opposite forces where we are living. This is what we are to understand here, itare brahma-rudrādya, nāvajṣeyāḥ. We won't indulge in cultivating hatred within us in connection with the opposite party. All our energy should be devoted to our prime cause, but who are not in need, we should deal with indifferently and never with any positive hate or anything. That should be our single attitude.

But there may be particular cases. When I shall find that a man, a person of the enemy camp is going to attack a Vaiṣṇava, Guru, or Śrī Mūrti, then of course the position will be otherwise. Like the case of Hanumān and others may come there.

The general is this - adjustment towards Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa conception of the God, Who is love, Who is beauty, Who is rasa, ānanda sukha, happiness.

Not power, not power, nor majesty, nor splendour, grandeur, all these things. We are to consult the śāstra and the sādhu, specially those that are trying to come to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, our object will be such. But if we meet in the way the grandeur, the splendour, all these things, we shall try to utilise it without being...

Suppose if I meet just on the way something, this great honourable, magnanimous, splendour, all these things, then I shall try to utilise them for that plain and simple, plain and simple process of worship of Vṛndāvana. That should be our temperament.

Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Just as our Guru Mahārāj told:

pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range]

["The path of divine love is worshipping to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."] [Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura]

Rūpa, Sanātana, they, under the direct guidance of Mahāprabhu, they eliminated grandeur wholly, grandeur of any type, even social grandeur, this red cloth. That is also a grandeur, that is, that's showing the highest section of the preacher. The highest section of the religious leaders, the sannyāsīns, the preachers, that means the religious leaders. They have got this robe, red cloth, so it has got some connection with grandeur, leadership, social leadership, that was also eliminated by Rūpa, Sanātana.

So much so, when a big scholar came to discuss with them what is the real purpose of the śāstra they avoided. They did not consider it useful to spare their time in that useless discussion. "He has not come with the spirit of enquiry but he has come to conquer, so waste of energy." They avoided.

But Jīva Goswāmī Prabhu, he could not tolerate so much self-abnegation because of his Guru's position. "That they will ignore my Guru, I can't tolerate that. I must fight with him, and I shall make him understand why my Gurudeva avoided his discussion, avoided discussion with him, meaning it's sheer waste of time. Not that they're afraid of his scholarship." And he proved it that, and that increased the honour of the Goswāmīs there and it was helpful for the general public to think how big Rūpa, Sanātana is, but still, they're so humble, in humiliated position they're passing. That helped the ordinary public to appreciate their greatness and thereby they were benefited.

And this also was taken by our Guru Mahārāj, so some were of the opinion that our Guru Mahārāj was the avatāra of Jīva Goswāmī. And I mentioned in my own poem, that stotram, that:

raghu-rūpa-sanātana-kīrti-dharaṁ, dharaṇī-tala-kīrtita-jīva-kavim

[kavirāja-narottama-sakhya-padaṁ, praṇamāmi sadā prabhupāda-padam]

[O Śrīla Prabhupāda, your intense magnitude of devotion allows you a glorious position within that intimate group of Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa, Śrīla Sanātana, and Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī. Your happy and elevated philosophical conceptions have crowned and seated you along with that esteemed personality, Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī, on this Earth planet. And you share a friendly relationship with Śrī Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Gosvāmī and Śrī Narottama dāsa, as dear to them as their very own lives. I eternally offer my respects to that charming effulgence that decorates the lotus toe-tips of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura Prabhupāda.]

[Śrī-Śrī-Prabhupāda-padma-stavakaḥ, verse 7]

Who, kīrti-dharaṇ, who has hold fast the flag of Rūpa Sanātana, and who is accepted in particular sections of the devotees as the incarnation of Jīva. So, his attitude was like Jīva. Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge. I shall gather together all the powers and grandeur and everything like that and I must put them on the, just near the feet, divine feet of my Gurudeva, to show that all these things are only to worship the feet of the Divine Master. Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge. But we have got no necessity for them, no necessity for them.

It has got two sides. One side, that the dark side is this, if we go to handle with these things then we may be captivated in them. If we are weak then we will be captivated in them. But only those that are masters of that idea, they can put them in the worship of the higher sādhu.

And another thing is this. That if it is not done then ordinary mass will think that they hold the highest position, and not the niṣkiṣcana Rūpa Sanātana. All the vaisajya [?] is in the lower level, and the plainness of Vṛndāvana it is not in want of grandeur but it does not require grandeur, it is above grandeur. The plainness, the plainness, the real beauty, does not require any grandeur or any splendour, any (vaisajya?). It is full in itself, something like that.

There was a talk between Śrīvāsa and Svarūpa Dāmodara in Purī, in (Hora-paścami?) day or so. Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita is pleading on behalf of Lakṣmī Devī, (vaisajya?). And Svarūpa Dāmodara he has taken the part of the gopīs in Vṛndāvana. Two parties talking and mild fight is going on. Then Svarūpa Dāmodara saying to Śrīvāsa: "You don't remember that in Vṛndāvana the tree, the creeper, the bush, and whatever simple things are to be found there, they are not devoid of (vaisajya?), of grandeur and splendour. But that is underground. If they require it, it will come in their beck and call, but generally they do not like it. He's above, the simplicity and the plainness and the natural position, that is of the highest type. We are to realise that. That those that have got such liking in their heart, they generally come to like Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa, Svayaṁ Bhagavān. But others, they will like Vaikuṇṭha, the land of grandeur, awe, power, reverence, all these things.

We like to come to Kṛṣṇa consciousness so we will be very much particular about these things in our consideration, consideration. We are very small and if we want the biggest to be very near to us, He will have to come in a smaller shape to us, He will have to come. So we shall be prepared for that. We come to be very near. We are so mean and He is so high. And we want intimate connection with Him. So we should not think anything, we should not be lover of any grandeur and splendour. There they create differences, create differences between everything. But only in the plane of plainness and simplicity, and especially in the land of love and mercy, that high and low camp may be close together, closely together. So close association with the highest, that is only possible in the atmosphere of Vṛndāvana. Not in any other place, any other place.

kana chedi padma locana [?]

To an affectionate mother the blind son seems to appear as a good-eyed child. There is a Bengali saying. The affection has got so much fascinating power, the ugly son may seem to the affectionate mother very beautiful. Because all the defects is minimised by devotion, Yoga-Māyā, bhakti is such, bhakti is a type of such grace that the distinction between the low and the high is minimised to the least point, even nothing. So, we are so mean, we are so low, so that will be our real soil of our hankering where we can come closer to the land of that mercy.

yajna tari jari kitchu nahi pai [?]

If You come my Lord to search for my qualities, to examine me, to test me, I have got nothing to say. No capital, nothing to produce to You, a certificate. But only Your grace, only Your grace, Mahāprabhu told. "Just go to that department and put your petition." That department, where? Without any consideration help is coming. Go to that department. And don't mention that you have got this or that qualification. No qualification, no qualification, there is a department where no qualification persons is helped. Try to go there, and sincerely of course, you must be mindful of your own position. In the internal mind you will foster that 'I am so big, I am so great, I am such a scholar, I am such,' all these things internally. And externally, hypocritically you will present yourself in the bad word. That won't do. You feel it, you feel it yourself that what you think that you have got, all these qualifications, that is all sham, all wrong, all hypocrisy. Really, you have nothing, no qualification, no qualification.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, trṇād api sunīcena - what is the meaning - trṇād api sunīcena

? He says, "I am lower than a blade of grass." Why? He says, "A blade of grass has got its some sort of position in the material world, some sort of intrinsic description, position, quality. But what about me? I am of opposite quality, vikṛta, I am disfigured. The blade of grass has got its own identification of some type or other. But I am a diseased person, no normal intrinsic nature I have got. I am a madman. A man may not be meritorious, but if he is of normal brain, he may be utilised in any position. But a madman he may not be relied on in any work. That vikṛta masteska [?] vikṛta citra [?] I am vikṛta citra [?] I am a misguided soul. My energy, my intelligence, everything, focused towards opposite side. So my position is worse than a blade of grass. Trṇād api sunīcena. If I think really my position is worse, because, I am besides myself, whatever may be the prospect and possibility of my future, but at present I am mad, so I am negative, have negative value. So I am lower than the blade of grass, if really it is to be considered."

So, where to go for my benefit? To go to the...

Devotee: Madhouse.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Madhouse, madhouse is my real place of treatment, madhouse. And if I go to an ordinary hospital it will be of no help, no help.

Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi.

So Vaiṣṇava, who are in the line, in this line, they are always helpful under all circumstances, Vaiṣṇava, and next, Vaiṣṇava śāstra, first Vaiṣṇava and then Vaiṣṇava śāstra. They will be our healthy association and helpers, help us.

And other gods who are holding superior position here, they're of other type. They sincerely believe according to their mania, "that this is all bad, that Vaiṣṇava, what is this? You'll thrive here." Like Cārvāka and others, "Oh, why you leave this pleasant world of enjoyment and pleasure and running after phantasmagoria? What is God? All these things. At present you are getting so much pleasure, and leaving this your mania is drawing you towards some future, whether that is existent or not none can say."

All these things, there are so many departments. To mix with them, that our precious internal wealth will be at stake. So don't go to associate with them or to be beggar at their door. Not reliable, they naturally have no faith in this, in their good faith also in their so-called nature, they will try to take, to draw to their jurisdiction, that department. So don't, but at the same time don't unnecessarily make them your enemy so that they will come and hinder you. Remain indifferent. Nāvajṣeyāḥ kadācana, itare brahma-rudrādyā, nāvajṣeyāḥ kadācana.

[Kṛṣṇa, or Hari, is the master of all demigods, and therefore He is always worshipping. But this does not mean that one should not offer respect to the demigods headed by Brahmā and Śiva.]

But at heart you know surely that your Master, your Lord is Kṛṣṇa. Without Vṛndāvana līlā nothing can satisfy you. The gopīs, the different rasa, the sākha, the Yaśodā, the vātsalya-rasa, even Yamunā, even the Govardhana-Giri, even the so many forests, so many trees, that has captured your heart. And your heart won't allow...

Devotee: Even if there appears to be sometimes in Bhāgavat that the chronological order is off, and sometimes the śloka does not rhyme, or something like that. But we're told that what we see as imperfection from this side, that doesn't apply to the sound divine, sound transcendental which comes down by the will of Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa. The formal analysis is not as important as faithful hearing by the pure hearted devotee.

And Bhāgavatam is also the natural commentary on Vedānta-sūtra by Vedavyāsa, Brahmā-sūtra harsa, by Vedavyāsa, that is also declared in scripture. But the difficulty is until one comes to Vaiṣṇava line he can't accept, or learn, or understand, or appreciate Bhāgavatam. Those who study Bhāgavatam as scholars never become Vaiṣṇavas.

End of side A, start of side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...coming direct to Mahāprabhu's mission, and who, that is Mahāprabhu gave His charge to Svarūpa Dāmodara who's considered to be the second of Mahāprabhu.

sakha mahāprabhu ditiya svarupa [?]

His charge was handed over to Svarūpa Dāmodara. And then at once he faltered and again came to Mahāprabhu. "Why You have made me (my sansha?) And what is my aim of life? I don't understand clearly. You please instruct personally."

And Mahāprabhu told, "I have giving your charge to Svarūpa Dāmodara. He knows more than I know. So don't undermine him. Still, if you have got any liking to hear from Me direct, don't care for your good prasādam, food, don't care for good food,

.....or good dress..... Don't attend to worldly discussion, material discussion, don't enter there.....You yourself also don't discuss these worldly things with anyone. Neither you listen to nor you speak about the mundane things. And don't care about the good dish and nor for good dress. And then.....without caring for the environment you should go on with taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa. Don't hanker for any fame, prestige, or birth, you will give prestige to everyone, you will try to give prestige to everyone but don't hanker for the prestige from others. In this mood go on taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa.....And sometimes if you feel tendency to your highest object of life, do as very secret, don't take it out in the public, but in your mind, in meditation, you may go on with Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa pastimes." And that was granted to him, and that Govardhana-śīla and kunga-mala.

Then again, Mahāprabhu took him by his hand and put it to Svarūpa Dāmodara, that he has crossed, already He put to Svarūpa Dāmodara. The Svarūpa Dāmodara's prestige, the Vaiṣṇava prestige to keep up, again took and put Svarūpa Dāmodara. And so Raghunātha dāsa he most painfully, he, as long as he lived he tried his best under the direction of Svarūpa Dāmodara.

But when Mahāprabhu Himself and Svarūpa Dāmodara suddenly expired, departed, then he thought, "Where should I live here? It will be difficult for me to go on with my life. And also, we should see once Vṛndāvana, how Rūpa Sanātana is there, the favourite disciple."

He started for Vṛndāvana, and sometimes he kept in his mind that "Giridhari is given to me by Mahāprabhu Himself. I am surrendered to Him but I can't tolerate my longevity here. Life is rather a great burden, can't, then what I shall do? I shall climb up to Govardhana.....by accepting a call from the feet of the Hill I shall leave my life." With this idea, within, he went to Vṛndāvana.

But after meeting Rūpa and Sanātana, a diabolical change, revolutionary change came in him. "Where should I go, leaving Rūpa Sanātana? They're living incarnation of Śrī Gaurāṅga, always following the teachings of Śrī Gaurāṅga, very rare. Not a minute left outside, continuously living with the teachings of Śrī Gaurāṅga very carefully."

So he saw Mahāprabhu in Rūpa and Sanātana, and lived there, and he learned many things from Rūpa Gosvāmī and Sanātana. Sanātana was given the charge of all those devotees that will come to live in Vṛndāvana. So Sanātana strictly observed that direction of Mahāprabhu. And he took care of, especially, of Raghunātha dāsa.

He has got, indifference was unlimited, did not care for his body, least. One day Sanātana found he's living near the Rādhā-kuṇḍa but his consciousness somewhere else. Sanātana found a tiger came and he took water, drank water from Rādhā-kuṇḍa, perhaps cast a glance to Raghunātha dāsa and went away. Sanātana found it from a distance, then came to Raghunātha. "What do you do, when you got?"

He took the feet dust of Sanātana Gosvāmī.

Sanātana Gosvāmī says, "I have one request." "No request but order, please."

"You must live in a cottage and not under the tree, under the shade of the tree. This is my request to you. Anyhow I shall ask any gentleman to make a small cottage for you here. You please stay there. This is my request to you."

"If you order I must do that."

In this way Sanātana used to take care of the devotees of Mahāprabhu in Vṛndāvana, as they're śikṣā-guru. First Yadadānanda Ācārya, a formal initiation, then Mahāprabhu's care, then from there the caretaker was Svarūpa Dāmodara Prabhu, and from there he went to the care of Rūpa and Sanātana, śikṣā-gurus. And how he accepted them.

krpam buddhe yat para dukha dukhi sanatan.....[?] Such Sanātana, Gurudev who came in the form of Sanātana.....

These things were produced from Raghunātha after his conduct from Rūpa Sanātana, again more and more Rādhā-dāsyā. "I don't want Kṛṣṇa if there is no Rādhārāṇī." And this sort of high, elevated serving attitude is very rarely found, and it's found in Dāsa Raghunātha so he's accepted as the prayojana-ācārya. What is our highest end, that came by the desire of Mahāprabhu, sweet will of Mahāprabhu, through Raghunātha, to know what will be the highest end of our life. So much so,

.....[?]

Be very careful, if you have any attraction for the śāstric injunction, or any calculation, then you will have to come down to Paravyoma. You were there, Goloka, higher sphere, then Paravyoma, then Vaikuṇṭha, the domain of Nārāyaṇa, in this way.

Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi. Nitāi. Can't see, slight help.

Who has got no eye, what is the use of the mirror? Ha, ha. A very, very sweet and very deep meaning there,very sweet.

.....
[?] Very sweet, and he was the disciple of (Maninath?), he established that (Chapahati?) Vighraha who was the disciple of Gadādhara Paṇḍita. From Gadādhara Maninath, from Maninath this (Nayanath?) And Maninath installed that Deity there.

And Prabhupāda [Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura] begged it from the trustees. They were hesitating. Prabhupāda told, "No, no. The property you may keep with you. Only service of the Deity you please give me."

They were astonished, "What is this? What type of man is he? He's a foolish man. He don't want the property of the Deity. 'The property will remain with the trustees and the service of the Deity I shall perform with my own men and money,' by him."

That was the offering of Prabhupāda there. And anyhow they gave it and became disciple also. Nṛsimha Cakravartī.

That man, he came to stay here in his father-in-law's house but his own house was in a village (Kaitan?) where was my mother's house in that village. And in my, when I was child I lived there. There is a good primary school so I was given to study at that school from six to eight, three years. And that gentleman used to adore me very much. Ha, ha. Took me always on the shoulder and on the lap, I remember. And he also expressed that. When I came, he was initiated before me, then when I came, he was very, very happy.

Gaura Hari bol!

What is the necessity of a mirror to a blind man. The outlook, the angle of vision is not present, then how can he draw the real gist from the common mass? So subject is all- important, the subject is dependent, objective side, dependent. Not that the subject is dependent on object, produced and dependent, but just the opposite, but the opposite view we shall take. We are nearer to consciousness. Then through consciousness we come to matter, ha, ha, or anything. I am conscious unit and the conscious must be nearer to me, consciousness. And through consciousness I come to many things outside in different stages. But really speaking that is also, what I know that is conscious aspect and not outside, that is unknown and unknowable, the other side.

So the Rahu, Ketu, all considered as animate, not inanimate. The shadow is not inanimate, shadow of a tree is not inanimate. Why? What I conceive, collect about the shadow, that is also a conscious facsimile. My nearest thing is conscious, that idea, idea of the shadow, that is nearer to me than the shadow itself. What the shadow is, is difficult to say and feel, but the idea of shadow that is nearer to me and the idea means it is reflected in consciousness.

So here the fossilism is being crushed, fossil. There the fossil is the source of every production, evolution. Evolution from fossil to consciousness, to knowledge. Knowledge has evolved from the stone. The stone occupying a part of the ocean of knowledge, and so many things possessing a part of the ocean of knowledge. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Just, that is the Vedāntic knowledge. Śaṅkara and others they have given more importance to the material things, prakṛti, the potency. If the atoms and electrons are broken then only the powers may be detected, nothing else. The power, the potency, the energy, that is prakṛti. And the conscious of the energy, that is puruṣa, consciousness. So Vedānta gave importance, athāto brahma-jijṣāsā.

The all comprehensive principle from which everything comes and is maintained, sustained, and again, enters into whom, the prime cause. That is Brahman. And what is this brahma-jijñāsā ? Janmādy asya yato, what is the necessity of your breaking the brain with this question? Janmādy asya yato, because everything is coming from Him so I am concerned to know the controller where I live, who is the controller, absolute? So I have necessity to know Him. Athāto brahma-jijñāsā. Janmādy asya yato.

Everything cannot be told at once to everyone. There are different stages of knowledge and we must say to them what he may grasp. In that way we are to show in this way to be adjusted; in this way the Vedānta marching, marching towards the analysis of the knowledge of the whole of the creation.

May that Lord Kṛṣṇa grant pure love for Him to those engaged in devotional service to His lotus feet."] [Tattva-Sandarbha, 8]

A similar śloka written by me, composed.

yad dhāmnah khalu dhāma caiva nigame brahmeti sanjṣāyāte

["The effulgent, nondifferentiated aspect of divinity known as Brahman is composed of infinite particles of individual consciousness, and has been considered by the Upaniṣads and by Vedic scholars to be the halo of the Absolute. The localised plenary portion of Godhead known as Paramātmā is sought after by the great yogīs practising extreme penances. Nārāyaṇa Himself, the predominating Lord of the Vaikunṭha planets, whose lotus feet are worshipped and served by His unexcelled bee-like devotees, is only a partial representation of the original Personality of Godhead. The original or full-fledged aspect of divinity is Kṛṣṇa. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you have not come to distribute Brahman or Paramātmā or even Nārāyaṇa-bhakti, but svayam-bhagavān Kṛṣṇa, the original conception of the Absolute, who is all-ecstasy. It is you, O Gurudeva, who can gently place me in His hands, and you have come to give Him to the public."] [Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 7]

This is my composition. Yad dhāmnah khalu dhāma caiva nigame brahmeti. The ray of Whose domain, the ray, the lustre of Whose domain, has been given the name as Brahman, (anga-jyoti? - kṛṣṇa-anga-jyoti? - amer-anga-jyoti?) The lustre of the abode of Kṛṣṇa, not direct of Kṛṣṇa. The lustre of the abode of Kṛṣṇa has been given to be known as Brahman. Yad dhāmnah khalu dhāma caiva nigame brahmeti sanjṣāyāte is given the name of Brahman in the Veda.

Yasyāṁśāsya kalaiva duḥkha nikarair yogeśvarair mṛgyate. And the yogīs, after much austerity, they are trying to find out the antaryāmī [Paramātmā] which is all pervading, which should be traced within every point, every article, every atom. What is that aspect? This is the real sphere, Brahman. And it is the all-permeating aṇor aṇīyān, smallest of the small, entering into everywhere. They're trying to find out that, and that is only a particular function of the function of the function of Nārāyaṇa. Yogeśvarair mṛgyate. They're searching what is the very part of the part of the part.

And vaikunṭhe paramukta-bhṛṅga-caraṇo nārāyaṇo yaḥ svayam. And He Himself in Vaikuṇṭha in an elegant way sitting, and so many qualified devotees they're busy to serve Him. Paramukta-bhṛṅga-caraṇo. There those servitors in Vaikuṇṭha just like so many bees in the lotus, paramukta-bhṛṅga-caraṇo. The liberated of the higher type who are living in Vaikuṇṭha and there they're as if mad to take the honey of the lotus feet of Nārāyaṇa. In a very sweet engagement they're busy there in serving Nārāyaṇa.

Tasyāṁśī bhagavān svayaṁ. We are to cross that plane and to find out who is the very gist of Nārāyaṇa Himself, Bhagavān Svayaṁ. Why? Rasa-vapuḥ. He has got all the rasa, different phases of ānandam personified, raso vai saḥ. If I go to note, to give stress to the highest characteristic of the Absolute we cannot but say, admit, that it is ānandam, rasam, beauty, charm, and not power, grandeur, or anything else. That is the very gist we can give fulfilment and attract our innermost heart. That is rasa, and akhila-rasāmṛta- sindhu, rasa-vapuḥ, Svayaṁ Bhagavān.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are in a position to take us to that Kṛṣṇa. This Brahman, Paramātmā and Nārāyaṇa, and superseding Him there is this such gist, sweet substance of everything in Kṛṣṇa conception. You are eligible to give it to us. So great you are. So what to talk about you, you can do. This Rāmānuja, Madhvācārya, where they are, and you are where? According to the capacity of your deed, the valuation of your gift, you should be judged, in this way.

And that was very much appreciated, and another stanza also, this one stanza and another connecting with Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana, and the last, the Rādhā-dāsyā, śrī- gaurānumataṁ svarūpa-viditaṁ, in this way I satisfied Prabhupāda [Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura] very much.

[śrī-gaurānumataṁ svarūpa-viditaṁ rūpāgrajenādrtaṁ rūpādyaiḥ

pariveśitaṁ raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtaṁ aho tad dātum īśo bhavān]

["What was sanctioned by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu by His descent was intimately known only to Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī. It was adored by Sanātana Goswāmī and served by Rūpa Goswāmī and his followers. Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī tasted that wonderful thing fully and enhanced it with his own realisation. And Jīva Goswāmī supported and protected it by quoting the scriptures from different places. The taste of that divine truth is aspired for by Brahmā, Śiva, and Uddhava, who respect it as the supreme goal of life. What is this wonderful truth? śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanā: that the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. This is most wonderful. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are our master. It is within your power to allow them to bestow their grace upon us. You are in a position to bestow the highest gift ever known to the world upon us all. It is at your disposal. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, please be kind to us and grant us your mercy."]

And he took me in his last bed. "Sing this song particular. Who is the highest servitor of Rādhārāṇī, that Rūpa Maṣjarī, you sing. I want to hear, to listen from your tongue the highest conception of our realisation represented in the song of Narottama Ṭhākura. That we may not know this thing and that thing, but our everything is the divine feet of Śrī Rūpa, and our highest attainment. That is the gate to the entrance where we shall find our highest attainment, not hither thither."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: capardina?

Devotee: capardinam dvsitva pujanam [?]

This is the statement. That's all, only this. Other subjects. This is the only subject dealt with in the book, that Kardar has brought to question. This is the only point coinciding in the book of [Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta] Swāmī Mahārāj, vignaysham apu daya twa capardinam dvsitva pujanam [?]

What is the meaning Mahārāj? And it's slightly different in another book. This is the book published by Your Grace, and I have another book, I found Haridāsa dāsa. He's given Jīva Goswāmī - vignaysham apu daya twa capardinam dvsitva bar pujanam [?]

And in [Viśvanātha] Cakravartī Ṭhākura, slight difference again – vignaysham apu daya twa capardinam bar dvsitva pujanam [?]

.....
It is only this vignaysham section we are concerned with.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is coming, the light coming to my mind is this, vignaysham, that is Gaṇeśa.

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Leaving him aside, go to the source, (kapali?) means Śiva. And (vaisnava ananyata sambhu?) He has got some connection with Viṣṇu, so eliminate, when Gaṇeśa comes to you, set aside indifferently, or (unavailable?) anyhow, and take the relationship of Śiva with him and go to Śiva. And taking the link of Śiva, then he has got some connection direct with Viṣṇu, (vaisnava ananyata sambhu?), so go straight from there to Viṣṇu.

Devotee: So this is an aparādhā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: without worshipping Gaṇeśa you go to the (kapali?) (kapali?) means generally Śiva, (kapala?) skull. (kapali?) to use as ornament that (kapala?) He's (kapali?) And then, another suggestion comes to my mind. (kapalinam?) means in the (kapal?) of (vigneshā?), Gaṇeśa, as suggested in Brahma-saṁhitā, when Gaṇeśa, he does his duty to disturb the hindrances of the worldly type, then, at his forehead, he thinks about Nṛsiṁhadeva. The (kapala?) means this skull, so within the skull, Gaṇeśa, whenever he's engaged in his duty, to discharge his duty, to disturb the hindrances of the worldly things, he takes recourse to Nṛsiṁhadeva, he meditates. And by His power he's able to do away with all these things. So (kapali?) whose fitting in his (kapal?), or in his skull, as we find in Brahma-saṁhitā.

So (kapali?) means two. Generally Śiva is (kapali?), His connection takes the connection of Śiva, eliminate Gaṇeśa, and accept the relationship of his father Śiva, and then from there give some honour and go to Viṣṇu, Kṛṣṇa.

And my suggestion is coming, (kapali?), who resides in (kapala?) in the skull. And that is found in Brahma-saṁhitā if you read that.

Devotee: I foolishly forgot. I misplaced, I didn't bring it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, you try to find out that.

Devotee: I had it but I forgot to bring it

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When Gaṇeśa he destroys the difficulties of the obstacles in the way of the surface of the worldly men, at that time, to perform that duty, he invokes the grace of Nṛsiṃhadeva on his forehead. In this way something is mentioned. So (kapali?), who resides in the (kapala?)...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...everywhere, not all and sudden that the highest realising sentiment will grow in one's heart, gradually he will feel within himself. According to the awakening, degree of awakening, he'll be able to find this properly.

And Sanātana Goswāmī, in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, the Gopa-kumara, gradually, according to the awakenment of his inner heart and sentiment he's led to different planes of life. And not feeling satisfaction, again some connection from the higher and he's taken to the higher plane next. Again sometime he's staying there then after some time some dissatisfaction came in him and another agent came from another higher position and he's taken there. In this way, gradually, according to his own inner awakenment, he's taken to different higher planes. It is found there in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāj, in the Bhāgavatam, in the eleventh canto and also in the seventh canto, the sannyāsa dharma that is mentioned, it seems as if that one has to go to the forest...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One has to?

Devotee: One has to live in a forest, and stay in one place for only one day.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is external, that is external - one day in every place. Kuṭicaka, bahudaka, [haṁsa, and paramahaṁsa]. There are different stages. First kuṭicaka - he will construct a cottage and he will live there for some time.

Then bahudaka - the next, second stage, he won't fix himself in a particular place but he will take different types of water. Bahudaka means many types of variegated water, that he will wander to any and every place and go on practising his own life.

Then haṁsa - the next, third stage, will be haṁsa. Haṁsa means water and milk mixed together but the swan can take out the milk leaving the water intact. So he'll be (saragrahi ?), wherever he may mix, what society he may mix, he must try to take the very gist of truth, leaving which is unnecessary in the society. That is haṁsa.

Then paramahaṁsa - the highest stage is paramahaṁsa - that wherever he may stay he will be all right, no external environment will be able to affect him, or to change him, the highest position.

These are the - and again, more than that it is said sometimes that avadhūta, the fifth stage. At that time he's particularly seen to mix with the filthy atmosphere, but it is not so, that can never affect him. That is the fifth stage. In this way it has been mentioned, in general, independent of Godhead.

Sannyāsa is of three kinds - vidvat, (vivisya?) and narottama. Vidvat sannyāsī has been described of such a degree that when one can understand fully he even leaves his body and gets relief of that bondage immediately. That is vidvat.

And (vivisya?), gradually he wants to accept different stages, and pass through that, and go to the highest realisation.

And there is another - narottama. Hṛdi kṛtvā hariṁ gehāt pravrajat.

[yaḥ svakāt parato vecha jātānirveda ātmavān hṛdi kṛtvā hariṁ gehāt pravrajat sa narottamaḥ]

[A narottama, or first class human being, is one who awakens and understands, either by himself or from others, the falsity and misery of this material world and thus leaves home and depends fully on the Personality of Godhead residing within the heart.] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.13.27]

He wants Hari, and finding in his heart, he gives up his family life and wanders here and there, but Hari in his heart he wants. And naturally whenever there is a congregation of the saints he stays there, kīrtana, kathayantaś ca mām nityam, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca.

[mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam kathayantaś ca mām nityam, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca]

["My devotees mix together, talk about Me, and exchange thoughts that give consolation to their hearts. And they live as if this talk about Me is their food. It gives them a high kind of pleasure, and they find that when they talk about Me among themselves, they feel as if they are enjoying My presence."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

The sādhu-saṅga, so, the summary of everything for a Vaiṣṇava sannyāsī is this, that he will mix with the sādhus, the Vaiṣṇava saints. And what is the mixing with the sādhu? That is serving him, in other words, if he will serve under his Guru that will be the most profitable. If such high Guru is not within his conception, such guide, high guide, then also within the equal association he will try to maintain the higher thoughts divine within his heart by such activity. And the association means a form of service, serving attitude. Without serving attitude we cannot enjoy a saint, a Vaiṣṇava. To associate with a Vaiṣṇava means to serve Vaiṣṇava. To associate with anything holy, that means to serve. Otherwise, if I exploit, I want to get some pleasure from the environment, I shall have to go down. Serving spirit must be maintained in one's heart and that will be dynamic and gradually lift him from higher to higher.

And the static aim is with the Māyāvādīs, that is different order. They want to have a temporary life full of rest. That has already been discarded. That is impossible. Temporarily it may be possible. A slumber, a samādhi, but the samādhi will break down one day.

tava deha dehi chavaschati?

In Rāmānanda Rāya. Those that aspire after the highest salvation, they have ultimately come to be a fossil. They're unconscious, fossil is also unconscious, not conscious of his own soul, fossil. The stava-deha, in Rāmānanda Rāya. He may become a Himalaya, or an Alp, long, long time sleeping there, no awakenment of any consciousness. And deva-deha, the demigods, there they enjoy. And the punya, merit is finished then again comes here to work, to begin his life fresh, with fresh prospects.

I stop here today.

Devotee: In the second stage of sannyāsa, the kuṭicaka stage?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kuṭicaka, bahudaka, haṁsa, paramahaṁsa. And then again the section divided, vidvat sannyāsa, (vivisya?) narottama, three kinds of sannyāsa - vidvat, (vivisya?), narottama. Again, every sannyāsa sub-divided into four stages - kuṭicaka, bahudaka, haṁsa, paramahaṁsa.

Vidvat sannyāsa does not come under division, because when taken it is finished. He thinks himself in such a safe position he at once leaves his body and vanishes. Vidvat sannyāsa - he does not want to, this is not of course Vaiṣṇava sannyāsa, he does not want to loose any time here, he's so disturbed with the present atmosphere he does not want at all to live here even for a second. He finishes himself. This is not very optimistic line.

(vivisya?) he comes under regulation (vivisya?) means (isya?), not finally fit but wants to be fit. In (vivisya?) sannyāsa - four sections - kuṭīcaka, bahudaka, haṁsa, paramahaṁsa. The first, to settle in a particular place with some simple and humble life, and to go on with the mantram, and bhikṣā, taking food by bhikṣā. Not talking much with anyone or mixing with the society at large. This is the first stage.

In the second stage he will try to mix with the society, not only in that place but he will have an experience of the wide world as much as possible and to come in connection with different classes of men. And to test what he has done whether it is right or wrong. He must consolidate his position by meeting and coming in contact with different forces - anti as well as favourable, and unfavourable, (parikṣa?) test, the life of test stage.

The third, haṁsa, haṁsa means he will try his best to draw what is the essence of every teachings, every book, every society, every community, every different conceptions of theism, all these he may contact, but he will try to draw the essence; the third stage.

And fourth stage is the stage of one's well-established position. He may do this, that, anything, but he's settled in his idea what he got previously from his Guru perfectly undisturbed he may pass his time. Whatever things may come from outside they can't disturb him in such position he will live then one day he will pass away.

And another is narottama-sannyāsa, they do not care for all these things, formalities, but their simple thing that they will take shelter to Hari, to Nārāyaṇa, Who is within, Who is within. Thinking of Nārāyaṇa he will wander here, there, tīrtha, wherever, but his main thing will be the worship of Nārāyaṇa, whether in Vṛndāvana, Purī, or some such place, Ayodhyā, according to his conception. In this way the devotional class, he may be a tridaṇḍī, hr̥dī kṛtvā hariṁ gehāt pravrajat:

[yaḥ svakāt parato veva jātānirveda ātmavān hṛdi kṛtvā harim gehāt pravrajat sa narottamaḥ]

[A narottama, or first class human being, is one who awakens and understands, either by himself or from others, the falsity and misery of this material world and thus leaves home and depends fully on the Personality of Godhead residing within the heart.] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.13.27]

Will take shelter under the holy feet of Hari, and he will leave the world, worldly life, and will wander here, there, everywhere, taking the name of the Lord and mixing with the devotees of the Lord, in this way. This is the general conception of the sannyāsa. This is some negative side. The positive side will be in the case of narottama-sannyāsa when we take particularly to this system in a practical way we want to deal with very successfully, then we are to find that anyhow we must come in connection with the service of the Hari, Guru, Vaiṣṇava. Merely the recollection of Hari is not forceful enough to expedite our realisation. Something positive should be done.

Just as Prahlāda Mahārāj told, when Nārada went to see after Mahādeva, went to see the positive participation in devotion line to Prahlāda. Prahlāda told, "What did I do? Devarṣi, you know everything about me. I am simply trying to recollect my Lord. Recollection, remembrance, but remembrance is not enough, it is very weak connection with Hari. Mere remembrance, it is śanta-rasa, maybe taken, found to be counted as śanta-rasa, a very weak but favourable position towards the service. But actual service of Hari, always to be busy to find out how we can satisfy Him, that is laudable thing, and I have not got that temperament. If you really want a devotion of Hari, just go to Hanumānjī. He's surcharged with the spirit of serving Rāmacandra. How wonderfully he does it. So I am in a weak position. It is His grace that I am not engaged in any worldly thought, but very meagre and lower order, not very intense remembrance I have got about Hari."

So, the mere connection with Hari is not enough. That is good, but from there we have to enter into the serving stages. And there also are classification and intensity also. Really we come to face the opportunity by taking sannyāsa exclusively giving up everything and the whole-time service of the Hari. That is not mere recollection, remembrance only, but actual service to satisfy Him. That is necessary. So dāsya, sākhyā, vātsalya, mādhyā, that will come gradually in the retinue thereafter.

But do you follow? Who asked this question?

Devotee: I asked the question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So the sannyāsa, the renunciation, has been described in this way. You will find in Gauḍīya Kanthahara all these things, all these things you will find in Gauḍīya Kanthahara. Vidvat, (vivisya?) narottama sannyāsa.

Devotee: What is the spiritual significance of taking water from different places? You said the other day that a bahudaka sannyāsī takes water from different parts of the world.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is not very important for our section. Bahudaka, udaka means water, bahudaka means multifarious types of water. The significance is that he will wander in many places and drink many, ha, ha, different types of water. That is only a connection, connection to show, but really, water is not the important thing, that he'll drink. But many variegated waters mean that in various countries he will move, that is mixed with various types of men and culture and consolidate his own position whether he's moving on rightly or wrongly. That is the purpose internally.

Devotee: Mahārāj, for the Vaiṣṇavas, what is the position of bābājī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bābājī, that position was given by Mahāprabhu, was taken by Sanātana Goswāmī just in presence of Mahāprabhu. Bābājī veśa was first taken by Sanātana Goswāmī in Benares in front of Mahāprabhu and Mahāprabhu gave His consent it is supposed. That is considered to be above the sannyāsa, above, that is generally considered the paramahansa veśa. Sannyāsa āśrama:

Nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśya na śūdro, nāhaṁ varṇī means brahmacārī, na ca gr̥ha-patir - gr̥hastha, no vana-stho - vānaprastha, yatir vā – sannyāsa, these four stages in āśrama. Now, nāhaṁ vipro, I am not within that, I am above. Even a sannyāsī he has got some sort of position. He is also to follow some regulation, some particular forms of life. But bābājī, they are considered to be above any sort of law, no position in the society. The sannyāsīns have got some position in the society as a general guide of the society, Guru. But bābājī, they do not care even for anything, they cut off all connection with the society and they're given wholesale towards Vraja, Vṛndāvana sevā in Vṛndāvana, and in parakīya-bhajan also they're engaged.

[nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśya na śūdro nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gr̥ha-patir no vana-stho yatir vā kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānanda-pūrṇāmṛtābdher gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ]

["I am not a priest, a king, a merchant, or a labourer (brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra); nor am I a student, a householder, a retired householder, or a mendicant (brahmacārī, gr̥hastha, vānaprastha, sannyāsī). I identify myself only as the servant of the servant of the servant of the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the gopīs, who is the personification of the fully expanded (eternally self-revealing) nectarean ocean that brims with the totality of Divine Ecstasy."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.80]

But our Guru Mahārāj [Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura] he saw that the imitationists they are accepting the dress of bābājī but they are not fit for that, for the standard. "So, in the dress of bābājī their bābājī-veśa is being misused and in the name of that dress they are going on with adulteration, the sahajiyā. There are so many different outcomes of that degraded bābājī section. They're not fit for that high position but take the dress and go to imitate the thing. But it is impossible for them to catch the real spirit of life, so they degrade and create so many pests in the society, and create a bad name for Rūpa, Sanātana and Mahāprabhu, and Gauḍīya sampradāya at large."

So, he laid stress in the sannyāsa. "You first prepare yourself as a head of the society and as a teacher of the society, then when such high time will come, then you may see to take to that position, if you find necessary. That does not depend on external dress but internal improvement. Really, that thing depends on internal improvement of one's heart or realisation and does not depend on the external dressing."

So this way Prabhupāda [Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura] came and created this sannyāsa, tridaṇḍa-sannyāsa, Vaiṣṇava sannyāsa, (anyaram?) and to preach that, "Bābājī is our Guru, above us. And we do not recognise you, anyone taking the dress of bābājī, no, you are not bābājī. Only external dress cannot give you the honour of the post of bābājī. But you are all hypocrites and you are disserving the society and the Vaiṣṇava proper. We don't care. You all go down. Don't venture to take the dress, to pollute the dress of Rūpa, Sanātana, never do this." This is the warning of our Guru Mahārāj. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So, Prabhupāda introduced this sacred thread. "That become a brāhmaṇa first, Brahmaloka, then Virajā, then Brahmaloka, then Paravyoma, Vaiṣṇava plane. First become a brāhmaṇa, daiva brāhmaṇa, try to acquire the quality of a brāhmaṇa and have the sacred thread. Then above this, the Vaiṣṇava, crossing Brahmaloka."

But they put this kaupīna, the bābājī class they do not use, they are afraid of using this brahma-sūtra but they use kaupīna. But kaupīna, Guru Mahārāj told, it is higher. Kaupīna means to stop all mundane sensual inclination to the utmost, so don't venture to take kaupīna as Rūpa, Sanātana did. Before that, try to be in a position of a brāhmaṇa, take the sacred thread. If you have courage and real sincerity to go towards spiritual world then come forward and take sacred thread and red robe and then make some substantial progress in the spiritual line. Then when you will find yourself quite safe in the spiritual line, not only that but established in Kṛṣṇa līlā in Vṛndāvana, then you make take the honour of that dress of Rūpa, Sanātana. Otherwise, to dishonour them you should not imitate their dress. That was the temperament of our Guru Mahārāj and he inaugurated this tridaṇḍa sannyāsa into the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava School.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Once I was in Vṛndāvana. One educated brahmacārī he took bābājī in (Kaliyana?). I had a talk with him.

"You don't have any respect for the bābājīs, and we are in the line of Rūpa, Sanātana." Then I told him. "We think that we are in the āśrama of sannyāsa that is servant of Rūpa, Sanātana, of the bābājī section real. We pose ourselves to be the servants of the bābājī. That is well and good but we do not know that. And at the same time you should know that we cannot give you, you people, the position of that bābājī, we do not accept you as bābājī. You are intruders, you are intruders, forcibly entered physically the plane. As fools rush in were angels fear to tread, your position is such." Then he was infuriated. "You don't care for us?"

"No."

Then that man who posed as a bābājī he was caught red-handed, and he himself left that position, came back to family life. Not exactly family life, but giving up this bābājī vocation he came to the town, and he was educated so he began to coach students, and thereby to earn something and eat. It is such.

Gaura Hari bol!

It is very hard nut to crack. Not imitation can take us there. But by the grace of the Vaiṣṇava the inner awakening, inner awakening, that can only be effected by the service of the Kṛṣṇa and His servants, His devotees. One must earnestly try to achieve that sort of taste really, and not outwardly. The proper realisation is necessary. The conviction, the faith, the faith will take us to the complete realisation, the faith.

A man, a friend died somewhere. News came, I began to cry. Why? I don't see that he's dying here, my friend is dead, dying, but only through faith, I began to cry, 'my friend has died,' through faith. From far away the feeling it may rouse, and many things may be done through faith.

So for the farthest world the faith, faith is a positive thing, it is not imagination. Imagination is worthless. Faith is not imagination. It is more substantial than anything. What we experience here, that is futile, that is nothing, that is illusion. What we feel, what we say as concrete realisation, the world, concrete world, that is all hallucination. But faith is such that it can show in a very subtle way the truth, more than mathematical calculation, the computer, showing so many things beyond the reach of our senses, by mathematics.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! So Giri Mahārāj has been bitten on the face?

Devotee: While he was sleeping.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: While sleeping, who will come?

Swāmī Mahārāj told that he's the most wretched person. In Bengali he told, Swāmī Mahārāj. I told to Tamal Kṛṣṇa. So he told, the Bengali word, not goonda, but...

Devotee: Desperate?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Something like desperate. The Bengali word I am trying to remember...

...

... of a soldier, he has committed something wrong and he must be punished. But [Queen] Victoria, she did not like to deal the first case with punishment. She wanted to release him. But the advocates on the other side told that, "thrice he's already forgiven, thrice, so this is the fourth time. You can't forgive him." But still Victoria is only pushing, pressing, "What you say, everything is against him, but can't you incite any instance in his favour?" Then that gentleman he could understand her position and told, "His household life is said to be good, household life." Then Victoria, "Then this time also, when some goodness can be traced in him, so this time also forgive him." And I cited this example when I requested the committee they forgive this time, first time, all them, the Hansadūta, then this Jaya Tīrtha Mahārāj, Tamal Kṛṣṇa, and some others.

...I am taking some, a portion of his energy, consciously or unconsciously of him, and I'm connecting it with the service of Kṛṣṇa through a devotee. So he's surely being benefited in his life eternal. This accumulated, this energy utilised through some devotee, that will be accumulated and when sufficient in magnitude it will attract him towards the Lord, it will create śraddhā in him, faith in him.

So our Guru Mahārāja previously told that, "I want one lākh of paisa spent."

[one lākh is 100,000 and a paisa is a monetary unit of India and Pakistan worth one hundredth of a rupee.]

Then when one gentleman came with three lākhs of rupees to construct a temple, one of his sannyāsī disciples told him, "Gurudeva, you wanted one lākh of paisa but three lākhs of rupees have been given by one single man." Then he answered, "I did not want from one person. One lākh of paisa means from one lākh of men, creating sukṛti in at least one lākh of persons."

So to collect, apparently it may seem that I am a beggar and he is a giver, but really, I am giver under the direction of the Lord, and he is beggar. I am giving him unconsciously some, injecting some goodness in him, sukṛti, that is nirguṇa. Nirguṇa means transcendental, a drop of transcendental devotion I am giving him in return by utilising his energy unconscious of him putting to some service of the Lord. This is the underlying principle of begging from door to door, or any place. That they're using in the mortal world their energy and being more and more mortalised, but I am giving some connection with immortal through his energy and that is sukṛti, and sukṛti when sufficiently accumulated creates śraddhā.

bhaktis tu bhagavad-bhaktasaṅgena parijāyate

sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate pumbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-saścitaiḥ

["Actually we can recognise a sādhu by sukṛti. Apparently we can know him from the śāstras, the scriptures, because the śāstra helps us to know who is a sādhu, and the sādhu gives us the interpretation of the śāstra.

So sādhu and śāstra are interdependent, but the sādhu holds the more important position and the śāstra has the secondary position. The living śāstra is the sādhu, but to know who is Guru, who is sādhu, we are to consult the descriptions given about them in the scriptures. The symptoms of the sādhu, both of the guru as well as the disciple, have been written in the Bhāgavatam, in the Gītā and in the Upaniṣads.] [Bṛhan-Nāradya-Purāṇa]

Sukṛti will take care, bring us, to the association of the sādhu. No other way to come to the feet of the real sādhu, only sukṛti can come previously. So for that, and also for us, to give everything for the service of Kṛṣṇa, that is our name, fame, everything. Our fame is - everything we should devote to Kṛṣṇa, wholesale. I shall devote to Kṛṣṇa. I shall do anything and everything for His satisfaction, through His devotees and scripture even.

So you like to do some service. I think I asked Parivrājaka Mahārāj also. Perhaps the visa may allow him to stay for fifteen or some more days. So at least ten days he may attend the religious public, to help the festivals to be managed. "You come and just help. Many sādhus and many ordinary gr̥hastha men, women, they will come for the circumambulation of the nine islands, Navadvīpa, Mahāprabhu, with saṅkīrtana. That will be a very religious scenery. You all come and see and partake in that. And for that, some rice, wheat, (something tell?) some oil, some potato, whatever you like to give, give us, we shall take it there, this way." The method, in this way you collect funds for the annual celebrations...

...to try in our hand, but the result will be in the hand of Kṛṣṇa. Sometimes this experience we have got - sometimes we tried hard in one place but no sufficient result. But in another place with least endeavour we get much. Where we give much attention sometimes we may fail there, and then with very least attention and energy we get more. It is managed by Kṛṣṇa. So we do not know what will happen but we shall try, we shall try.

[mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi]

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

Don't look after the result but concentrate yourself wholesale in the discharge of your duty that there may not be any fault in discharging your duty. That is your part. And what result will come, good or bad, you have nothing to bother with that. It is His will. With this spirit we are to go on collection. And also underlying, that if I can get something from him to be utilised for the service of Mahāprabhu, then this man unconsciously will be benefited for his eternal life: that will be in the subconscious area. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

...never bother about result, but wholly concentrate in your duty. That is the key to success of one's life towards eternity. Then become very close to eternity, the eternal will, the Absolute Will - "I am doing so much, expecting, how my labour is met with the eternal will." But I must not be dejected, must not be dejected. Try to satisfy myself under any eventuality. That is a test in our life. This is not an endeavour for a day or two, but I am going to practice my transaction with the Infinite, with the Absolute, for whole life. With that spirit and courage we shall come in the field...

End of side A, start of side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...So,

prāpaścikatayā buddhyā, hari-sambandhi-vastunaḥ mumukṣubhiḥ parityāgo, vairāgyaṁ phalgu kathyate.

["That renunciation which is practised by those desirous of impersonal liberation and rejects things in connection with Śrī Hari, thinking them to be material, is called phālgu- vairāgya, external or false renunciation."]
[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.125]

As recommended by the Buddhists or the Śāṅkarites, the salvationists, "That give up everything and reduce yourself to zero. Give up connection with everything, and as in deep sleep, so you are to reduce yourself to that stage. That is the perfect." But this has been rejected hatefully by the Vaiṣṇavas, specially the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, those that are under the direction of Mahāprabhu. This is phālgu, or temporary, phālgu means which is apparent.

Near Gaya there is a river whose name is Phālgu. That is, whenever we remove the sand from the bed of the river we can see the current is passing underground. But on the bed it is all sand, all sand, phālgu. So, renunciation cannot be complete, we may be, however long time, still it is temporary.

ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ āruhya kṛcchreṇa param padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nāḍṛṭa-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ

["O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

In Bhāgavatam this śloka. The Brahmā in his singing, addressing to Kṛṣṇa, 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas. "Hey, O 'ravindākṣa, O You lotus-eyed. Ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta- māninas, Those that can conceive themselves completely disassociated with their environment, completely disassociated, disconnected from the environment, completely liberated, emancipated, māninas, they think like that, but actually it is impossible. Vimukta-māninas, they think themselves that they're perfectly liberated from the environment, as if in sound sleep. But sound sleep is not a permanent thing. The reaction will come from the sleep, the sprout will come again, inevitably.

Tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ, their calculation is wrong totally because they have not counted You, their counting is independent, they and the environment. But You are there to harmonise both, to keep connection with both the parties. They forget that, they can't understand that. If they can find that centre, then they can understand that their relation, the environment and his relation is not in his hand, it is in the hand of the Absolute. And it is unavoidable, it is not in their hands. And it depends, his position is an organised part, not an independent part from the environment, but his position is an organised part. So he and he has common relation there, and management comes from there, whether united or separated, or how related or not related, and that depends on the centre, not on them. They cannot negotiate independently, or discuss, or adjust, independent of Him. Tvayi asta-bhāvād, because they do not count You, they're only, between You and them there is a wall, they cannot pierce the wall and understand the barrier, they can't break the barrier and have connection with You, so they commit such wrong. Avīśuddha-buddhayaḥ, what is their ultimate position, realistic position is what?

Āruhya kṛcchreṇa param̐ padam̐, after much trouble they rise up to the highest point, highest point of liberation, āruhya kṛcchreṇa param̐ padam̐ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādr̥ta- yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ. And from there they do not count the upper relation and the adjustment with the main centre, all these calculations omitted, so they have to come, fall back again, hurled down for this mistake.

So, we are not to shun, not to abandon anything, but we are to come to a satisfactory harmless adjustment. Not only harmless, but the adjustment that can give our fulfilment of life. This is phālgu-vairāgya. And what is yukta-vairāgya, just the opposite:

prāpaścikatayā buddhyā, hari-sambandhi-vastunaḥ mumukṣubhiḥ parityāgo, vairāgyam̐ phalgu kathyate.

["That renunciation which is practised by those desirous of impersonal liberation and rejects things in connection with Śrī Hari, thinking them to be material, is called phālgu- vairāgya, external or false renunciation."]
[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.125]

Apparent, not real, undercurrent in the very subtle-most plane there we cannot detect. So, who can detect that, that from revealed plane, from God's, who can see anything and everything, from his, this real perspective is coming through Veda, revealed scripture. What is that?

anāsaktasya viṣayān, yathārham upayusjataḥ nirbandhaḥ kṛṣṇa-sambandhe, yuktaṁ vairāgyam ucyate

["That renunciation in which there is no attachment for the objects of the senses, but in which everything is seen in relationship to Kṛṣṇa and all things are engaged in His service is called yukta-vairāgya, or practical renunciation."]

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.126]

Only, you will have no greed to enjoy the environment, anāsakta, you must not have any particular tendency to enjoy it. But the thing is not to be blamed. Your enjoying tendency is blameable. So you are to withdraw your enjoying tendency, 'that you are master of the thing, you can enjoy it in your own satisfaction,' that sort of tendency must be withdrawn, anāsaktasya viṣayān. Yathārham upayusjataḥ, and you are required to behave with them properly. And what is that properly? That is in connection with the calculation of the central interest. Neither you can enjoy, nor you can reject. A function between you and the environment is fixed already by His will. Ha, ha. You can't change it. That thing belongs to Him, you also belong to Him. And how you are to deal with your endeavour, that is also already prearranged, and you can't evade that. Only you are to be readjusted position. Anāsaktasya viṣayān, no local interest should be imposed. Yathārham upayusjataḥ, just proper, independent of you and He, the central, the real function between, relation between, that must be awakened, the real transaction, yathārham upayusjataḥ.

Nirbandhaḥ kṛṣṇa-sambandhe, and what is the key to that, the test, the criterion? Kṛṣṇa- sambandhe; how you can utilise the environment for the service of Kṛṣṇa. You are a servant and here is the object of service. You can't reject that, you are bound to utilise the object for the service of your Lord. You are a servant and this is the object of service. This is not meant for you. At the same time, it is not so that you can reject them, or you can live independently without anything. This is also artificial life. This is not truth. So whatever is helpful for the service of the Lord we must take care about those things that they may not be lost, may not be missed.

What is necessary for the service of Kṛṣṇa, we must be attentive to the protection of that thing. That indifference to protect things which may be utilised in the service of Kṛṣṇa, that is not devotion. Sometimes we may think that we have adopted the way to get out of this mundane world, why should we be so much particular about these things? As much as possible we shall try to keep things that are necessary for the service of Kṛṣṇa, properly. Proper attention should be given to anything and everything, only for the purpose of the service of Kṛṣṇa. Both exploitation and renunciation, both are bad, both are unnatural, both are unwholesome. And no fulfilment can be reached by either method, exploitation and nor renunciation. We are to be initiated in this angle of vision of life. This is Goloka, everything may be harmonised by Him, He's so good, so great. Nothing coming in His contact can be wrong. It is only wrong when it is in contact with things that are defective. So nothing, everything is all right if it is in connection, one condition, if for Kṛṣṇa. He is for, everything is for Him, everything is for Him. When deviation from that point there is anomaly, derangement, and reaction, and misery. Misery is the outcome of māyā, that miscalculation, misrepresentation, miscalculation, it is the outcome of miscalculation. And proper calculation, and to follow that, that is devotion. And our very life, nature, is dedication and dedication towards the centre and the Absolute Centre, and nothing less than that, that will fetch local value. Nothing less than Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. Other demigods they're also local, their position is also provincial, local. Kṛṣṇas tu bhagavān svayam.

lokaṁ, mṛdayanti yuge yuge]

["All the above-mentioned incarnations are either plenary portions or portions of the plenary portions of the Lord, but Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the original Personality of Godhead. All of them appear on planets whenever there is a disturbance created by the atheists. The Lord incarnates to protect the theists.] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.3.28]

The Absolute Reality, Beauty, everything is justified when it is meant for Him, His satisfaction. That is the one thing we are to understand and we must try to follow. This is devotion, Goloka. The criterion is this, and we must, this is the test, we shall try to examine how far it is meant for Kṛṣṇa, for His satisfaction. Of course, that depends on our stage of realisation, otherwise anything we may think, "Oh, this is for Kṛṣṇa's satisfaction, Kṛṣṇa is satisfied." I have done something and I may say, utter the word, "Yes, Kṛṣṇa's satisfied." My mere statement won't be exactly what is with Him. The Absolute position there and we are to realise that position. That is sādhana. And with help of the saints as well as the scripture revealed, and saint and scripture of different types. So,

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva

[guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

It is not a relative thing, it is absolute, and all relative positions we shall have to learn to eliminate and understand what is Absolute. What is Absolute? How it is Absolute? We are to learn that, gradually, by progressing in a proper line, proper method, accepting sādhana, the śravaṇa, varaṇa, sādhana, āpana, prapanna [daśā] - five stages in our development of our realisation. And both the scripture, sādhu-śāstra, guru-vākya, cittete koriyā aikya, three things must come to prove that one thing - the saints, opinion of a saint, and the scripture, and one's hearty response, hṛdaye nābhya nujṣāto, the approval of the inner heart, with the opinion of the revealed scripture. And also, which will be directed, or dictation of a proper saint, and the saint can be found only by the help of the scripture, and the scripture's meaning also will come from the saint proper. So they're interdependent. We are to face that, the ultimate guidance, our sukṛti.

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva

[guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

Our good fortune if we acquire sukṛti that will guide me. Birds of the same feather flock together. It will carry me towards proper place. I will be able to meet that and by comparing I'll be able to understand what degree, truth is where? The conception, the truth, Absolute Truth, and relative truth, what is the criterion of the Absolute Truth, how it is Absolute; all these things to be understood by the reference of the scripture, sādhu, and one's inner approval, heart's approval.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Every step we are doing that, always eliminating and accepting, elimination and nomination, acceptance, every time we are in progress. Dismissing something and accepting another thing, always, this is progress, this is life. That is dynamic in character. And sometimes also it is, if we are cursed, we may go down more, to down, to down, down, down. That also happens in this world. 'Always everything is going up and no setback?' It is not so. There is setback also. So the caution is given there in the śāstra, the aparādhā, the error, the negligence, the idleness, so many things that may push us down. We must be cautious of the fact.

caitanya cande daya karo vichar vichar kori vecitte pari samskar [?]

It is not a blind faith, question of blind faith. The understanding is also possible to apply here, and that will be astonished, your understanding will be astonished finding new things, things of new order. Gītā says:

āścaryavat paśyati kaścīd enam, āścaryavad vadati tathaiva cānyaḥ
āścaryavac cainam anyaḥ śrṇoti, śrutvāpy enaṁ veda na caiva kaścit

["Some see the soul as astonishing, some describe him as astonishing, and some hear of him as astonishing, while others, even after hearing about him, cannot understand him at all."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.29]

It's most wonderful, your own self is also wonderful, what to speak of Paramātmā, Nārāyaṇa and Kṛṣṇa, your own soul, your personification proper, that is also of wonderful conception. Āścaryavat paśyati kaścīd enam. When you come to conceive one's soul, "Oh, how wonderful type of existence is he. So diametrically opposite to this material and mental thing, āścaryavat paśyati. Āścaryavat vadati. And when one begins to give description about the soul he is also charmed, enchanted, 'What am I saying, what can I say? Can I give vent to this properly about the soul, proper, which I myself am?' And āścaryavac cainam anyah śṛṇoti, those who come to hear, they're also astounded, 'What is this? Such strange things, things we have never heard before. Such thing is possible, ātmā? Eternal, all knowledge, all pure, and eternal. Without food it can continue, a member of the eternal plane. How is it possible? And he's an understanding principle, an atom that can understand himself and that can understand others also."

Our Guru Mahārāj used to give some example, many a time I have mentioned. A boy is born in a dark cell. Then, someone has come to tell him, "You come out. I shall show you the sun, it is very wonderful, the sun." Then the boy will take a light, a candle with him. "No, no. Why do you take the candle?"

"Without candle how can I see the sun?"

"No, no. To see the sun candle is not necessary?"

"You are fooling me. Without help of candle nothing can be seen. And you say the sun can be seen by the sun without candle, I don't trust."

Then he'll be forcibly taken and he will be, "Oh, sun is seen by its own light, not only that, sun can show the whole thing, me, you, others, all things can be shown by the sun only, is it possible?"

So:

ātmā pariṣāna-mayo vivādo, hy astīti nāstīti bhidārtha-niṣṭhaḥ vyartho 'pi naivoparameta pumsām, [mattaḥ parāvṛtta-dhiyām sva-lokāt]

[One party says: "God exists!" The other says: "God does not exist!" Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says that the ātmā is self-effulgent, but still we find that one class of men says, "He exists, we see Him, He can be seen," and another says: "He has never existed." This quarrel has no end because one of the parties hasn't got the eye to see what is self-evident. This quarrel is a useless waste of time, but still it will never stop; it will continue forever.] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.22.34]

Ātmā is self-effulgent, it can show itself, it can show others. Only devoid of it we are suffering from suspicion and half-knowledge and ignorance. But when we can come to ātmā we can feel ātmā by his own self, and at the same time by the standard of that light we can comparatively know what is non-ātmā, what is not soul. That also can be understood indirectly by feeling the position of ātmā.

First beginning, the start of your energetic movement must begin from here. Try to understand you, your own self, your own ātmā, of what nature it is. Then you are to feel out what things will be necessary for the upliftment or development for that thing. Otherwise it is all false engagement. Know who are you and what is the demand. That will be that ātmā wants Paramātmā. He's hankering to come in connection with Paramātmā and higher type of ātmā there is. And that is generally said, "The plane of God," but partial.

Then there is, the yogīs are after that. Then there is devotion of Nārāyaṇa, Vāsudeva, Brahmā, Nārāyaṇa, and supreme-most position is held by Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The Autocrat, Absolute Good, Reality the Beautiful, the Beauty, the Sweetness, the Charm, all charming. Ha, ha, ha. Struck dumb seeing Him, charmed, the centre of charm, attraction, charm, beauty is charming everything and has made possible cosmos out of chaos; charm, beauty, that has given the very life of cosmos. Kṛṣṇa. Attraction and as reaction, satisfaction, attraction and satisfaction, that is the coming and going, attraction and giving, surrendering satisfaction. Kṛṣ - ṇa, Kṛṣ means to attract, and ṇa means dealing satisfaction, action reaction. The Absolute Centre, that is Kṛṣṇa, with His paraphernalia.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi
Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Guru Mahārāj, if someone is attracted for a long time to a particular rasa but is not fully satisfied, then, can he aim for another rasa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. No question of selection, rather, it is automatic. Ha, ha, ha. It can't hold him back. The inner tendency, attraction, will be such. He can't avoid. His own nature, what to do? It is not a dress that I shall reject something and take up another, put on. Not like garment, putting on and putting off. It is coming from within, out of necessity the adjustment cannot but come.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi. Nitāi. Dayāl Nitāi.

Mahāprabhu was satisfied with Emperor Pratāparudra when He found that the king has engaged himself in a very mean service, that of a sweeper. A king is doing the service of a sweeper attracted Him most. He Himself when Guṇḍicā Marjana, the Jagannātha will come to Guṇḍicā. When Mahāprabhu with His party, in His uttri He's collecting the dust and He's throwing outside. Then washing, Jagannātha will come. So, nothing is negligent, but we are attracted when, with those menial services we have got much, we can attract attention of the high, high. So nothing is insignificant when it is connected with Him. Still, there is gradation, gradation is there. The sincere beginning of the service must have always tendency to go towards lower side. But by Kṛṣṇa's will they will be accepted for higher satisfaction. But their, the devotees' tendency will always be to go to the mean services, so-called. Not anything is not mean, but so-called mean. [Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī says: "I want the service of a servant, and I want to show my reverence towards sākhyā, friendly service." Dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu raso 'stu satyam, nityam, sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam:

[sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam dāsyāya te mama raso
'stu raso 'stu satyam]

[Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, the greatest exponent of the faith of servitude to Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā-dāsyam, wrote: "I won't allow myself to become fascinated by the proposal of the higher level service as a friend, sākhyā. Rather, I shall tend always to do the lower service, dāsyā, the service of the servant. I shall not consider myself to be a high-class servitor and I shall always tend to go towards the lower class of service. But He may forcibly take me to a higher service - "No, you are no longer to serve there; now you must serve in this higher category."]
[Vilāpa-kusamāṣjali, 16]

The sākhyā-rasa, the confidential service, I am not fit for that, I always try to revere that, to show my reverence. And I shall try to, if possible, if accepted, to do the meanest service. If I get that engagement I am more than, I am, you are, more than anything, full satisfaction, that should be the attitude. But Kṛṣṇa will take him up. "No, do, to serve Me in this way." Then what to do, we are to do such, according to the rasa it is such, for us. And those that are eternal friends, they won't go that side, won't admit. Ha, ha. A part and parcel and surcharged with Yoga-māyā, with the spirit of that particular, service of that particular level, surcharged, injection by Yoga-māyā. And Kṛṣṇa is finished by that aggression. By the aggression of the friends He's pleased, when it is manipulated by Yoga-māyā. But we should not be puffed up in that way. We are beginners, not nitya-siddhas, sādhana-siddha line. Non-realised have come to realise. So our nature should be favourable that they're showing Dāsa Goswāmī Prabhu. Always try to go downwards.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Nityanānda Prabhu, He broke the daṇḍam into three parts. "Mahāprabhu, My Lord, He will carry you daṇḍa? I won't allow. I can't tolerate that My Lord will carry you in His hand." And some say that He broke into three parts, into tridaṇḍa, not eka-daṇḍī of Māyāvādīs, but tridaṇḍī of the Vaiṣṇava sannyāsī. Any questions?

Devotee: Did Nityanānda Prabhu and Caitanya Mahāprabhu appear the same time, or was Nityanānda Prabhu older? Did He appear before?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That you will find within the books. Nityanānda Prabhu was almost twelve years elder than Mahāprabhu, nearly. And Acyutānanda was that Advaita's last son, youngest son, he was more younger, Acyutānanda. When Mahāprabhu took sannyāsa and went to visit Śāntipur, at that time Acyutānanda was about five years young. So nearly nineteen years junior than Mahāprabhu. And Nityanānda Prabhu twelve years elder than Mahāprabhu. So thirty-one years elder Nityanānda Prabhu than Acyutānanda. Acyutānanda was the youngest son of Advaita Ācārya. What makes you to ask this Acyutānanda and Nityanānda's age?

Devotee: No, it was not Acyutānanda, it was Caitanya Mahāprabhu and Nityanānda Prabhu.....

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally twelve years elder, Nityanānda Prabhu. When Nityanānda Prabhu came to Navadvīpa, at that time, twelve years, Mahāprabhu began saṅkīrtana and Nityanānda Prabhu came here for twenty-two years. Ten years or twelve years, stayed there, something like that. Nityanānda Prabhu, after visiting all the holy places of pilgrimage, then He joined Navadvīpa līlā. And He was disciple of Mādhavendra Purī, Godbrother of Īśvara Purī, Mahāprabhu's Gurudeva. Nityanānda Prabhu, Advaita Prabhu, they're all Godbrothers to Īśvara Purī, whose disciple was Mahāprabhu, Śrī Caitanyadeva. This is all shown to us, līlā.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāj, it's said that Swāmī Mahārāj, he was attracted to sākhyā-rasa. It is said that Swāmī Mahārāj was writing as if his līlā is sākhyā-rasa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sākhyā-rasa, I do not know what he has written but I found it such position from his only one letter what he wrote when he was going to America.

Devotee: Yes, that's the poem.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That letter has been given to me...

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and I read that, and from there I could suppose that his position, he's satisfied with that sākhyā-līlā.

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He mentions there that his Gurudeva is Rādhārāṇī, mādura- rasa. And he's asking Kṛṣṇa's help in his discharging the duty, which is ordered by Rādhārāṇī, given by Rādhārāṇī to him. He says that "Rādhārāṇī will be satisfied if You help me in my carrying out the orders of Rādhārāṇī for the preaching purpose." He's begging the help of Kṛṣṇa in his campaign because Rādhārāṇī will be satisfied and his Gurudeva is representing Rādhārāṇī. That is mentioned there. From there I conjectured, and what playfully he has mentioned there, "After finishing this job I shall again join Your Vṛndāvana līlā as a friend and we shall and we shall play to our highest sentiment, in this way. Therefrom it maybe conjectured that his acme of serving pleasure is within sākya-rasa, supposition.

Devotee: So many devotees, disciples, that came to Swāmī Mahārāj, they came, they had some, possibly attraction for the...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not necessarily.

Devotee: Not necessarily.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All that will come under him, they will be forced to enter into sākya-rasa, it is not that. May be mādura-rasa, further, he may come with another Mūrti, another dress, garment, attitude. So ācāryaṁ mām vijānīyān, [nāvamanyeta karhicit na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ]

["One should know the Ācārya as Myself and never disrespect him in any way. One should not envy him, thinking him an ordinary man, for he is the representative of all the demigods."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27]

The Ācāryaship is not fixed in any type of devotee. We are requested to, we are given to understand that oneness in Ācāryaship, "That I am Ācārya, I am Ācārya, indefinite. In particular man I can approach in particular way. I am infinite, indefinite."

End of recording (undated 4).

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Any supplement perhaps will exceed the original. Ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: By your grace everything can be possible Mahārāj.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. Yes. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: That's how we feel.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vyāso vetti na vetti vā. It is possible. Sometimes it is possible. Mahāprabhu says to Sanātana Goswāmī: "Oh Sanātana, you are very lucky. Kṛṣṇa is sending so many things to you through Me. I can't follow them. But it is passing through Me to you, I feel." He says, sometimes like this. Of course not in Mahāprabhu's case but Mahāprabhu expresses the idea. Kavirāja Goswāmī says Sanātana Goswāmī, and Sanātana Goswāmī says: "I have got the audacity to deal with the queens of the harem of Kṛṣṇa, how, who is who, what is the characteristic of Rukmini, what is of Satyabhama. Who am I? Where are they? And I am writing about them, giving description, bold steps. I am not doing. Someone is forcing my hand to write." He says, "I feel, forcibly my fingers are used, utilised to give description of these matters." So it is possible. Kavirāja Goswāmī says in Caitanya-caritāmṛta. [Ādi-līlā, 8.78] ei grantha lekhāya more 'madana-mohana', [āmāra likhana yena śukera paṭhana]

[Actually Śrī-Caitanya-caritāmṛta is not my writing but the dictation of Śrī Madana- mohana. My writing is like the repetition of a parrot.]

"Madana-mohana is inspiring, is utilising me, as an instrument. I am sufficiently old, my hands are shivering, and I am writing. It is strange. It is He, He is very, I am mere instrument."

He's autocrat. Whatever He wants to do He can do that. Guru is Kṛṣṇa, the highest potency, one may say. Relative position, Absolute is present everywhere in relative consideration. Absolute is present everywhere in all relative concerns, and we are ..... both, the relative and the Absolute. We should give honour to all, everything, every stage, every plane.

Gaura Hari bol!

....our prospect should be to enquire after Infinite, Absolute. How much we can accept and understand, very minimum, very minimum, what is my hunger, what is the space in my belly, ha, ha, nothing. He's infinite.

Eka bindu jagat dubai. Mahāprabhu says, "Only it is an ocean, it is love, the love of Kṛṣṇa is like an ocean, endless, and one drop I'm trying to taste it, one drop, one drop of the ocean I am trying to give you a taste." And then He says, ag bindu jagat dubai, "One drop is sufficient to inundate the whole creation."

A drop of the Infinite is such. It is also of infinite character, one drop. Part of zero is zero. Any number of zeros put together is zero, so any number of infinite is infinite. Infinite minus infinite is infinite, infinite minus infinite, the remainder is infinite, like zero. So one drop is infinite. Every particle is infinite, of the Absolute. All conscious, everywhere present, full autonomy. Every part of His body can do any service of another. Eye can hear also, the leg can speak. Just as mind, mind can be present to see, mind can hear, mind can taste, mind is in the centre, he can do all the corresponding activity of the senses. Eye can see but cannot hear, but mind can see and hear and taste, he's the centre. So Kṛṣṇa's body, Kṛṣṇa's figure is like that, cinmaya, conscious. Any part can do the function of any part. It is like that. Sakalendriya-vṛttimanti, aṅgāni yasya sakalendriya-vṛttimanti.

In Brahma-saṁhitā, whose limbs have got the capacity of functioning of all senses, all other parts of the body. Ke?

Devotee: Madhupati.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Madhupati. You are to start forSunday?

Devotee: Sunday morning.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sunday morning. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

You ask Aksayānanda Mahārāj, in my name, to start as soon as possible to (Anilkela?) to Viraprakash Mahārāj, he will meet. And from there he may come back to Mahāprabhu.....

Devotee: When we were there Mahārāj, at London, Viraprakash called him, because he wanted Aksayānanda Mahārāj to go there, to Venezuela. But later on, the next day, or the next two, second day, he wanted to call with Prahmana but he didn't want him to come to Venezuela. You already know that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Aksayānanda Mahārāj has written in letter to you?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "Viraprakash wants me there immediately."

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And it is necessary for him to go there. Praman has left sannyāsa but he wants to retain his ācāryaship.

Devotee: Yes, ācāryaship.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vāntāsi. He could not stand in his ācārya position, came back. We tried our best. And he told, "Yes, I shall try to shake off the present feelings and I shall try my best to continue with the old work, old duties." But he could not. Now it is fully realised it is impossible for him to reach his sannyāsa āśrama. Then he should retire, he should retire, as with Haṁsadhuta. Haṁsadhuta was retired from the post I am told. He was ordered to take off his (katak from the throne?)...

But he wants to retain his ācārya post. He should be repentant for his own character and condition. That standard will be discouraging to the people.

It is not for trade purpose.

.....[?] Fallen souls are more concerned with Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu than Kṛṣṇa. If we can understand that it will be more useful, in the real, serve real purpose.

An investment in Navadvīpa Dhāma will automatically take one to Vṛndāvana. How one will be carried there will be unknown to him. But those who have good fortune invest everything in the service of Gaurāṅga. If they do that, they will find that everything has automatically been offered to the divine feet of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She will accept them in Her confidential service and give them engagement, saying: "Oh, you have a good recommendation from Navadvīpa; I immediately appoint you to this service."] [Caitanya-Candrāmṛta, 88]

As much as we shall try to stick ourselves to the holy feet of Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva, automatically we shall find that we are without any hindrance from outside. Just as if we're booked in a special train, special train. That company will take, guarantee, carrying us to the goal, safely and surely. This is the relationship of Gaura līlā, Kṛṣṇa līlā. We are to book ticket here and we shall see in no time that very safely we have reached Vṛndāvana. Otherwise it is very difficult, there are much hindrances there. Gaura līlā is such. And He's not in the private company, but He has the governments open company, like that. Because Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa, Both combined, They have opened this campaign to carry the fallen souls. Specially planned, designed for the purpose, how the most fallen can reach the highest goal, for that purpose, the Both, the Predominating and Predominated Moities combined has come to take us. So our immediate dire necessity to understand what is Gaura līlā, what is Gaura līlā, Gaura līlā, because we are fallen to the extreme. No qualification, no qualification. Take to Gaurāṅga līlā, try to understand it is Kṛṣṇa līlā, Rādhā-Govinda līlā, but only a new shape mixed with extreme magnanimity, magnanimity, suiting the purpose.

mām hi pārtha vyapāśritya, ye 'pi syuḥ pāpa-yonayaḥ striyo vaiśyās tathā śūdrās, te 'pi yānti parām gatim

[O son of Pṛthā, low-born persons of degraded lineage, women, merchants, or labourers - they also attain the supreme destination by taking full refuge in Me.] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.32]

In Gītā also Bhagavān says, the Lord. Mām hi pārtha vyapāśritya. "I am so designed, so disposed," Kṛṣṇa says, "That coming in connection with Me anyhow, whoever he may be, however fallen he may be, from the extremely fallen stage, any connection with Me, he's assured, is assured of highest distinction. Mām hi pārtha vyapāśritya, vyapāśritya, asraya means to take shelter. How? apa, negligent, of lower type, not very pure and higher type of taking shelter, anyhow, vyapa, vsesa. Extremely negligent type of connection with Me give guarantee for everyone to take the highest quarter because My domain is that of love and affection, not justice."

The question of justice is eliminated, question of merit, demerit eliminated. A mother's affection does not depend on the qualification of the child, it is so magnanimous in its existence, nature, so magnanimous, so much magnanimity is there, is possible. And instead of taking to our own capacity we shall rather try to surrender to that department, to that department what is necessary, exclusively. I don't, if you, I should not approach the whim of the justice, that department.

vicārite āobi, guṇa nāhi pāobi, krpā kara choḍata vicāra

If You come to judge, then I have no hope, my Lord. So, there is a department of You independent of any qualification or any merit, You distribute Your mercy, Your affection. I want to connect with that, that line, to have a ticket in that office. You are infinite, I am finite, so I am infinitely disqualified. I should, must come to understand to this fact, reality, that I am finite, He's infinite. How it is possible my connection with Him? Impossible, I'm infinitely fallen, or de-merited, or small, finite, from every standpoint. I am not fit. If He comes to test whether I am, I may suit His purpose, no hope in me. So, only that department, that will be most paying for us, that no justice, no judgement, nothing of the kind, only causeless mercy, to book, to have booking in that department. There is the door open for us, through that line of our advance towards the Absolute Truth, from the beginning to the end, that mercy. Not by dint of my power or energy. No dependence, not to be dependent on our own energy or my own knowledge. Energy and knowledge, my calculation, calculation of the finite, how much it can progress, make progress towards the understanding of the Infinite? So this is the department. I have written one poem for the praise of Nityānanda Prabhu, there is a passage:

śrī-kṛṣṇa prema nāmā parama sukha-mayaḥ ko 'pyacintyaḥ padārtho yad gandhāt sajjanaughā nigama bahumataṁ mokṣam apyākṣipanti [kaivalyaiśvarya sevā pradagaṇa iti yasyāṅgataḥ premadātuḥ śrī-nityānanda-candraṁ bhaja bhaja satataṁ gaura-kṛṣṇa pradaṁ tam]

[Pure unalloyed love for Lord Kṛṣṇa, which is inconceivable to all, embodies the most supreme and intense happiness. When the devotees of the Lord realise the joy of such love, they cast away the innumerable doctrines offered by the Vedas, including the soul's emancipation. Lord Nityānanda openly bestows pure love, automatically including worship of the nondifferentiated Brahman and service offered in Vaikuṇṭha, which is dominated by opulence and grandeur. Let us eternally worship that great personality Śrī Nityānandacandra, who freely grants the association of Śrī Gaurāṅgadeva, who is none other than Lord Kṛṣṇa.] [Śrī Kīrtana Maṣjuṣā, p 16]

That is something, some substance is there, by name, kṛṣṇa-prema, divine love of Kṛṣṇa, to Kṛṣṇa, śrī kṛṣṇa-prema. Parama sukha-mayaḥ ko 'pyacintyaḥ, it is indescribable, unthinkable. The love towards Kṛṣṇa is a substance unthinkably giving happiness, or ecstasy. So much so that the theistic scholars, highly qualified scholars, they even throw the proposal of salvation or liberation what is generally considered to be the goal of every jīva soul, every soul, to get liberated, emancipation. That has been generally recommended in the revealed scriptures to be the highest goal. But those that have got some scent of this kṛṣṇa-prema, love of the Absolute Beauty, they throw off that proposal of liberation, emancipation, which has been made much of even in the revealed scriptures, highly praised, mokṣa, mukti, highly praised in the revealed scriptures. And that also is thrown off by those who have got a bit of the divine love towards Kṛṣṇa.

So, Nityānanda, Who can give, Who can distribute to us a drop of that prema, love, divine love, He holds highest position than so many other incarnations of God. I have, Nityānanda was not a very good scholar, but from door to door He approached: "Accept Gaurāṅga. Gaurāṅga, the highest end has personally come to you. Accept Him..."

[approximately 3minutes 10 seconds of the tape from here is blank]

...they could hear, then they began searching. "He's not here. Where is He?" Began to search after Him, found He's such, in this way.

Some day He's wandering near the seashore and one girl she's singing in praise of Jagannātha very fervently. Mahāprabhu ran straight towards that sound, and there was a thorny land, thorns also very dangerous thorn, that is (sidukata?) long thorns.

Then Govinda attended, anyhow stopped Him. "One girl is singing." "Oh, girl's singing. Govinda saved My life."

Sometimes jumping into the ocean, Kṛṣṇa, suddenly He felt that in Yamunā Kṛṣṇa is playing with the gopīs, He jumped there, and became unconscious. The waves are playing with Him. And they found that "where is Mahāprabhu?" Svarūpa Dāmodara, they began their searching, the night is almost over, they can't find.

At last, one fisherman is coming, "Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa Hare Kṛṣṇa," half-mad. Then, "What's the matter?"

"Every night I catch fish but today I threw my net and very weighty something coming in I thought a big fish, but when I took it on the shore I found a big human figure. And when I went to remove that body from my net, I anyhow had to touch Him, and now I am half-mad."

Then Svarūpa Dāmodara told, "You don't know our Mahāprabhu? You must"

"No, no, no, it is not He. It is something else, so long. I have seen Him, with a beautiful figure."

"Anyhow, try to show us."

Then he went and saw, Svarūpa Dāmodara. And the joints are dislocated there and the long figure lying on the sand, no sense. Svarūpa Dāmodara and others began to chant Kṛṣṇa Nāma at the ear, then He came to senses, and then the joints were all right. Then He began to describe the līlā of Kṛṣṇa in this way. With this sort of intensity of the separation of Rādhā Kṛṣṇa He lived twelve years more, after Advaita Ācārya's poetry that was sent to Him.

In the meantime Advaita Ācārya and others, Advaita Ācārya we are told lived about one hundred and twenty-five years, others, gradually departed. And Raghunātha Dāsa, Gadādhara Paṇḍita was there, Raghunātha Dāsa went to Vṛndāvana, Gadādhara Paṇḍita soon disappeared. And when Mahāprabhu disappeared that very day Svarūpa Dāmodara he also, his heart also failed the same day. He was unconscious and then he could not come to his senses, in this way.

Advaita Ācārya is the devotee who brought, attracted Śrī Caitanyadeva here as Yugāvatāra, by preaching, by giving, the transcendental, by distributing the transcendental Name, granted delivery to so many souls, fallen here. But we are all indebted to him, in this way Advaita Ācārya, ācāryaṁ bhakti-śaṁsanāt.

[advaitaṁ hariṇādvaitād, ācāryaṁ bhakti-śaṁsanāt bhaktāvatāram īśaṁ tam, advaitācāryaṁ āśraye]

[Because He is nondifferent from Hari, the Supreme Lord, He is called Advaita, and because He propagates the cult of devotion, He is called Ācārya. He is the Lord and the incarnation of the Lord's devotee.]

Therefore I take shelter of Him.]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.13]

Advaita, some says he's inseparable with Hari, in that sense, advaita. And Ācārya, he was the teacher of the Divine Gospel, so Ācārya, ācāryaṁ bhakti-śaṁsanāt. Advaita Ācārya, and many, this, mahā-viṣṇur jagat-kartā, māyayā yaḥ sṛjaty adah tasyāvatāra [evāyam, advaitācārya īśvaraḥ]

[Lord Advaita Ācārya is the incarnation of Mahā-Viṣṇu, whose main function is to create the cosmic world through the actions of māyā.]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.12]

That Kāranārṇavaśāyī, three functional God, the representative of Viṣṇu Himself that are relatively set with this world, the main, Kāranārṇavaśāyī..... Advaita Ācārya is supposed to be that, with some connection with this world, and taking them towards that, the main figure, Advaita Ācārya.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. In Bhavisya Purāṇa it is mentioned that Mahāprabhu came, not in Navadvīpa but in Śāntipūr. I found a copy of Bhavisya Purāṇa in Madras which was printed from (Naisindu Press?) or something from Bombay, Maharashtra. There it is mentioned that Gaurāṅga Āvatāra took place, He came in Śāntipūr. And there is also mention of Sanātana Goswāmī, Rūpa Goswāmī - Rūpānanda, Jīvānanda - in this way...

Rāmānujācārya is meeting, Madhvācārya is meeting Him. And in a very mystic way Gaurāṅga is answering them, their questions, and they're going away. It is represented in this way. So Rāmānuja, Madhvācārya, they also came to meet Him, because some difference with Him, it was mainly loving concern, and they were more some viddhi, rules regulations given more respect, śāstric. And this independent raga, so they came to consult, "Why You say against our beliefs?"

And Mahāprabhu is answering in such a way, mystic way, they can't ...

End of side A - start of side B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...personally come to you. Accept Him. Don't dismiss your fortune. Come to your own door. With this appeal Nityānanda Prabhu wandered from door to door. And how great is He because He can give a drop of that divine nectar of divine love. And what is the value of the love? Even the good-minded, the personal scholars, Vedic scholars, revealed scriptures scholars, they throw off the highly proposal of liberation and all these things from the revealed scriptures. A bit of it they have of that substance, divine love of Kṛṣṇa.

So who can give that thing, how great his position, though he wanders from door to door like a beggar, "Accept Gaurāṅga, accept Gaurāṅga, the fortunate personified has come to you," and running from door to door, "Accept Him and you will be benefited to the highest degree." With this appeal Nityānanda is approaching, wandering. So what is His position? His position is higher than those that can give mukti, and mukti can be given only by Nārāyaṇa, not by other gods. Only Nārāyaṇa can give liberation. But Nityānanda can give more than the gift of Nārāyaṇa. So Baladeva, Nityānanda, His position is higher than Nārāyaṇa in Vaikuṇṭha, what to speak of other gods and human beings. Naturally, Nityānanda's position has been proved in this way to be the higher, though like a beggar He went from door to door with the appeal, "You accept Gaurāṅga as your Lord and you will be immensely benefited, infinitely benefited, as much as you can never estimate. So,

If you want really to be big, dignified, then become the smallest. Go to the lowest, go to the lowest. In the company of the Absolute you will find you have healthy position of the highest. That will, He will adore you, He will embrace you, He'll embrace you. It is very difficult to have a distant view from far off, and He will embrace you as an affectionate child. This is possible. The transaction of divine love, prema dharma, priti, bhakti, bhakti is such. We are nowhere, our position if we calculate Absolute, from the Absolute standpoint. But this will take up in very closest and very adorable position of the Almighty, the bhakti, the surrender, the love and affection is such. So try to understand what is this bhagavāt prema, kṛṣṇa prema, love divine coming from Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura told if the scholars can understand in any way this, what is given by Mahāprabhu that this is our goal, then everyone will come and flock together under the banner of Śrī Caitanyadeva. What Caitanyadeva has offered for our highest prospect and that is really been claimed for our inner existence, really it will be our home, for our home. What Caitanyadeva has given for proposal that is for your home, home. When the people will understand that He wants to take us home then everyone cannot but come under His banner. And in no time it will be seen very soon, very soon. That was the prophesy of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. And our Guru Mahārāj practically began that. And Swāmī Mahārāj successfully showed to the world to great extent, how, as if they're eager, western scholars are eager to embrace the gift of Śrī Caitanyadeva.

mām hi pārtha vyapāśritya, ye 'pi syuḥ pāpa-yonayaḥ striyo vaiśyās tathā śūdrās, te 'pi yānti parām gatim

[O son of Pṛthā, low-born persons of degraded lineage, women, merchants, or labourers - they also attain the supreme destination by taking full refuge in Me.] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.32]

"No qualification is necessary, only to disown your foreign covers. You yourself within, you are always Mine but your outer attention to your outer cover that will be responsible for all your distress in this world. That is cover; that is foreign thing. That can be washed away, left out. Your inner self cannot but be My dearest potency. So outwardly however lower position you hold it does not matter at all. You're a śūdra or a vaiśya or this etc., that is your dress; that is your dress. You give up your dress you are wholesale Mine, so this disqualification in the world midst that is the disqualification of the dress, not the man within. Man within is perfect, My friend. But only the question of the dress, upādhi, what is not elemental connection with him so, but it has come from the environment like so many dusts carried by the storm, dust has come to cover the body. Something, wandering through the world of misconception so many particles of ignorance, suspicion, all this has come to cover your body. They're all foreign things, not your own element. In element you are perfectly good and you are direct part of the potency of Mine. So, svarūpa, who are self determined, you will find you are Mine, Mine. So have hope. No chance of being discouraged..... from the scriptures, from the sādhus. Know your own self, enquire about your own self, you (accept your within?) And that will encourage you infinitely to come with force towards Me. So I'm the Veda.

Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ. Oh you My sons, My favourite sons, you listen to, you are a particle of nectar, infinite ecstasy, you are a particle. In your self, in your intrinsic character you are so high and so pure and divine. But all difficulty of the outcome will be collected from the unfavourable environment. Shake off and you are free, you are Mine. Your acquired experience from the environment is responsible for your present position. It is not with you, with your real self. Try to find it out, try to understand, try to realise what you are, how dignified your position is. Qualitative, quantitatively not so big but qualitative your position is so high. So always you are to retain My connection under the guidance of Guru. It is also mentioned."

kr̥ṣṇa-bhakti-janma-mūla haya 'sādhū-saṅga' kr̥ṣṇa-prema janme, teṅho punar mukhya aṅga

["The root cause of devotional service to Lord Kṛṣṇa is association with advanced devotees. Even when one's dormant love for Kṛṣṇa awakens, association with devotees is still most essential."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.83]

The very path if I may call that janma-mūla, very birth, very awakenment, first awakenment of the divine devotion is effected by the association of the sādhu, sādhu- saṅga, the association of the sādhus. That gives us the first peeping, first awakenment, first light, ray, first ray of Kṛṣṇa, and when I have realised fully my position, then also, kr̥ṣṇa-prema janme, teṅho punar mukhya aṅga, only under the guidance of him, Guru, Vaiṣṇava, that I can render my appointed service towards the high, śakti.

sata puju yada yaham [?]

"As I am venerable to you, respectable and very, so, My servitors, My attendants also of that type, they should also be venerated, should also be respected, worshipped as part of My sata puju yada yaham [?] As I am worshipping so My devotees also, they're also worshipping. They form My part, a part of My potency, so they should be venerated, respected, worshipped, as My part. My connection is such."

... of the police (or anga?) his son is to be respected formally by the father. So if a boy or a śūdra is disqualified from the standpoint of this world, if he attains the position of Kṛṣṇa devotion he should be respected, respected from the standpoint of devotion. That is the Absolute calculation, to obtain devotion. Other positions are minor or temporary and also non-important. But the calculation of big and small, high and low, from the standpoint of devotion, that is Absolute. So one who has got higher type of devotion he should be considered high in the event of any other relative position in this world, even by knowledge.

Haridāsa Ṭhākura was not very scholarly, and he was not within the caste of Hindu, a Mohammedan, a Muslim, Muslim and not very scholarly. But still, the highly scholarly and highly qualified brāhmaṇas of high social position, they should take the feet dust of Haridāsa because he's a devotee. When, after the disappearance of Haridāsa Ṭhākura, Mahāprabhu took his body on His chest and began to dance and then took to the burial ground, all the devotees including the brāhmaṇas they took feet water and then drank it.

haridāsa thākura ei paduda pi bhaktada, bhaktakam [?]

All the devotees, including brāhmaṇas, and they're also devotee, but still, they took the feet water of Haridāsa Ṭhākura, though he was not of a Hindu birth and also not very educated but he took the Name of Kṛṣṇa and he had such power that even the prostitute who went to convert him, she was converted, ha, ha, converted. One zamindar chief of demonic type sent a prostitute to degrade Haridāsa Ṭhākura and she attempted at night when approaching the cottage of Haridāsa Ṭhākura where he was taking the Name at night, Name of Kṛṣṇa. Then she tried her best to capture him by the instigation of that chief. Haridāsa Ṭhākura did not show any apathy but he told, "Oh, you wait, I shall fulfil your desire, you wait. I have fixed the number of the Name of Kṛṣṇa. That is not finished. When it will be finished I shall fulfil your desire." Waiting, waiting, three nights continuously she went there and waited. And the end of the third night wholesale change came in her mind. She confessed that, "I was appointed by that demonic zamindar Ramacandra to pollute you but my mind has changed. I want to take Kṛṣṇa Nāma. Please give it to me."

And then Haridāsa Ṭhākura came out, that, "I knew all these things, and also I knew that for three days of hearing your mind would be changed. And so I told that I shall fulfil your desire, after I finish my specified number I shall fulfil your desire because I knew that by this time your heart will be fully changed and your desire will be to become the disciple, to beg Hari Nāma from me. And so I gave you assurance. Now the time has come, you take Name and you remain in this cottage and you serve the Tulasī. I am going away from here." Haridāsa Ṭhākura gave her Hari Nāma, the prostitute, and also appointed her to worship the Tulasī there and to live in that cottage and he went away to some other place.

So Haridāsa Ṭhākura not respectable lineage, not very much learning but still he was a devotee who was respected in such a way. Where there is bhakti, according to the degree of our affinity towards the Absolute, of our adherence, of our love and affection, our surrender towards Kṛṣṇa, then our position should be, position has absolute character of small or big, high and low. That is determined only according to the intensity of work, affinity, love towards Kṛṣṇa; the Absolute plane, Absolute plane.

This is religion. Religion must have such sort of assurance to be our own, own, not the object of high mathematical calculation or scientific research. Home consciousness, heart will be satisfied, our innate necessity will be satisfied.

Long missing link; when Guru Mahārāj went to Madras he found somewhere the name of a particular book, Long Missing Link. Very earnestly he searched, "what is that book?" I tried to get a copy for me, then anyhow we managed to get a copy of that book and given to me. After cursory reading he told, "What I meant it is not so." Long missing link he thought must come from a devotee. We have lost our Kṛṣṇa consciousness and come outside, long missing link; a sweet expression. We have missed that for a long time, that link which our heart aspires after. And it must be Kṛṣṇa consciousness. But it is not so. Long missing link, the link of our home, the link for loving Lord Kṛṣṇa, that is the link. And anyhow, somehow or other we are out of that position, unaccountable in our calculation how we are cast aside, off, so we are to understand what is satisfaction of our intellect, that taṭasthā-śakti, marginal potency.

What is the, dvāv imau? I can't remember this. Kṣaraś cākṣara eva ca. Dvau bhūtu sargau loke 'sminn. Yes. Dvau bhūtu sargau loke 'sminn, kṣaraś cākṣara eva ca.

[dvāv imau puruṣau loke, kṣaraś cākṣara eva ca kṣaraḥ sarvāṇi bhūtāni, kūṭa-stho 'kṣara ucyate uttamaḥ puruṣas tv anyāḥ, paramātmety udāhṛtaḥ yo loka-trayam āviśya, bibharti avyaya īśvaraḥ]

["In this world, there are two kinds of souls: the fallible and the infallible. All beings from Lord Brahmā down to the lowest stationary life-forms are known as fallible (as they have deviated from their intrinsic nature). But the personalities who are eternally situated in their divine nature are known as infallible (personal associates of the Lord).

But totally distinct from both these types of souls, there is a Supreme Person who is known as Paramātmā, the Supersoul. He is the Supreme Lord. Entering into the three worlds in His eternal form, He maintains all beings in the universe."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 15.16-17]

[dvau bhūtu sargau loke 'sminn daiva āsura eva ca viṣṇu-bhaktaḥ smṛto daiva āsura-tad-viparyayaḥ]

[There are two classes of men in this created world. One consists of the demonic and the other of the godly. The devotees of Lord Viṣṇu are the godly, whereas those who are just the opposite are called demons.]

[quoted in Varnadharma-tattva of Gauḍīya Kanthahara, from Padma-Purāṇa]

Two kinds of substance found here in this world. One is kṣara another is ākṣara. Kṣaraḥ sarvāṇi bhūtāni, everything which we see, experience, that is all kṣara, mundane change, moving, kṣaraḥ sarvāṇi bhūtāni. All the articles of whatever we see aside in the environment, that is all kṣara, kṣara means is changing, changing, looses its position, cannot maintain its own position, always in a current, in a changing pose, kṣara, and ākṣara which is constant, undistinguishable, ākṣara. Those two parts, one unknown and unknowable basis and another known and knowable, two kinds of experience, two kinds of substance we find. Dvau bhūtu sargau. The created things are of two types, one, always changing position, and another is maintaining its position constantly the same, ākṣara. Then, dvāv imau puruṣau loke, kṣaraś cākṣara eva ca, kṣaraḥ sarvāṇi bhūtāni, kūṭa- stho 'kṣara ucyate. Undetectable, non-differentiated substance, that is kūṭa, and jīva coming from ākṣara world, is the, is emanating from ākṣara, that inexplicable character, that ākṣara, and non-distinguishable. From there, a part is being disturbed and coming this side.

yasmāt kṣaram atīto 'ham, akṣarād api cottamaḥ

[ato 'smi loke vede ca, prathitaḥ puruṣottamaḥ]

[Because I am transcendental to the fallible souls and also superior to My infallible eternal associates, My glories are sung in the world and in the scriptures as Puruṣottama, the Supreme Person.] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.18]

"And I am above these two substances. I'm not in the kṣaraḥ, changeable aspect, nor in the constant aspect, above that. So I am told, Puruṣottama. Dvāv imau ākṣaram para brahma paramam, and ākṣara is sometimes called as Parabramha. But I am above that. I am Puruṣottama," in Gītā.

So apparently jīva has been told to come out from that ākṣara type of creation, taṭasthā, coming into this world. Yasmāt, the conscious unit is thickly put together undetectable unit. From there, from that type of consciousness, so many sparks coming in this world. And by the direct help of the super region they may go crossing that ākṣara stage, undetectable stage, they may pass through, over, and have another world which is filled of serving attitude, dedicating mood. Here, enjoying mood, and there, dedicating, opposite, and in a "bhajante mām, [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.8], the worshippers will come to this conclusion, with this understanding a worshipper will come to worship Me. I have taken that Rādhā-dāsyā which is the highest goal of the rūpānuga Gauḍīya sampradāya. Iti matvā bhajante mām, with this conception one will come to worship Me, that I worship Myself. The method of worshipping, I am setting example, to show, to attract them, so, iti matvā, so thinking that what is My finest potency, that worship Me, with this ideal one will come to worship, but always under the direction of My first-class worshipper."

Am I clear? No.

Devotee: Yes, very clear.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not clear. "That I worship Me, with this idea one will come to worship Me, and you always keeping before My representation, My finest śakti, Rādhārāṇī or Gurudeva, always from under Their direction is worshipped, and not direct worshipper.

[aham sarvasya prabhavo, mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate] iti matvā bhajante mām, budhā bhāva-samanvitāḥ

"I am Kṛṣṇa, the Sweet Absolute, I am the root cause of the all-comprehensive aspect of the Absolute, the all-permeating aspect of the Absolute, and also the personal aspect of the Absolute - the Master of all potencies, who commands the respect of everyone - Lord Nārāyaṇa of Vaikuṇṭha. The universe of mundane and divine flow, every attempt and movement, the Vedas and allied scriptures which guide everyone's worship - all are initiated by Me alone. Realising this hidden treasure, the virtuous souls who are blessed with fine theistic intellect surpass the standards of duty and non-duty, and embrace the paramount path of love divine, rāga-mārga, and adore Me forever." [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.8]

Iti matvā bhajante mām, budhā, budhā means su-medhasaḥ, in Bhāgavatam the theistic fine intellect, they will be able to appreciate this. I have written here in this way, Rādhā-dāsyā. Iti matvā bhajante mām, budhā bhāva-samanvitāḥ, bhāva-samanvitāḥ means raga-samanvitāḥ, anu-raga, love, affinity. Not by rules, strictly by following the śāstric rules, not; bhāva, from inner inspiration, inspiration, that raga-mārga, bhāva-samanvitāḥ.

aham sarvasya prabhavo, mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate iti matvā bhajante mām, budhā bhāva-samanvitāḥ.

mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam

[kathayantaś ca mām nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca]

"My devotees mix together, talk about Me, and exchange thoughts that give consolation to their hearts. And they live as if this talk about Me is their food. It gives them a high kind of pleasure, and they find that when they talk about Me among themselves, they feel as if they are enjoying My presence." [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

These four ślokaś contain the whole of Bhagavad-gītā. You are to follow like that. Then the next śloka.

mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam kathayantaś ca mām nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca

Mac-cittā, "I am in their heart, in their thinking, mac-cittā. Mad-gata prāṇā, his whole life, his whole energy, also meant to be spent for Me, to be utilised for Me, mad-gata prāṇā. Jnāṣa śakti, the energy, that is also fully devoted for My cause. Thinking about Me and devoting whole energy for Me, mad-gata prāṇā. Bodhayantaḥ parasparam, and they, when they come outside they talk about Me to make for mutual understanding, bodhayantaḥ parasparam. Kathayantaś ca mām nityam, and always they like, they love to talk about Me, no other matters they come to talk with, wherever, whatever, everywhere, I am the subject of their talk. Kathayantaś ca mām nityam, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca, tuṣyanti, they find very much satisfaction, saṁtoṣa toṣa. In vātsalya-rasa they're feeling saṁtoṣa [contentment], even in vātsalya-rasa it comes. And ramanti, ramana, just as a wife and husband they enjoy that particular connection, so, in talking about Me they even feel such sort of ecstasy, in My connection." Tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca, here, Śaṅkarācārya and all have told ramanti, "Even they can feel with My association as the very deep connection in the world, as the husband and wife, very closer connection, ramanti ca. So they, in My company, they feel such type of ecstasy, ramanti ca." Then, teṣām satata-yuktānām, bhajatām prīti-pūrvakam dadāmi buddhi-yogaṁ taṁ, yena mām upayānti te

["To those devotees who are constantly dedicated to Me, and who engage in My service out of their love for Me, I bestow the internal divine inspiration by which they can approach Me and render various intimate services unto Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.10]

Teṣām satata-yuktānām, those persons who are continuously without and gap, continuously engaged in Me, satata-yuktānām, always in Me, connected in Me. Bhajatām prīti-pūrvakam, and serving Me with great love and respect, prīti-pūrvakam, with love, with their heart. Dadāmi buddhi-yogaṁ taṁ, I inspire them, I detect them such intelligence, such reasoning in them. Yena mām upayānti te, by which they will come to Me, they will come to Me, in closer connection." But I found here it is redundant. Already it is said, satata-yukta, "continuous, always they're in Me connection, it is already. Now they will again come to Me. I shall give such instruction for such reason sent to him that they will come to Me."

Devotee: They're already there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Already there. Mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ paraspāram kathayantaś ca mām nityam, eternal, always, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca. Teṣām satata- yuktānām. "In this way who are always connected with Me without gap. Bhajatām prīti- pūrvakam, and with heartfelt love they're serving Me, prīti-pūrvakam. Dadāmi buddhi-yogaṁ taṁ, again I shall give them insinuation and inner instruction, yena, by which they will come to Me, mām upayānti te."

This is redundant; it is already said, already there. Again they will come. How it is to be harmonised? So upayānti te, I took here the meaning, they come, upayānti means pāra-kīya-bhāvena - upapati - pati - upapati - servant and paramour, upapati. Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana, He's not considered as husband, not married husband, nor lawful husband, but master of the lord of the heart, even deceiving the husband. Gopīs are deceiving their husbands. They're being united with Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa's position is Absolute, such, and there He relishes more.

"From the outside you have got social and śāstric demand but My position is over and above śāstra whatever the social laws and scriptural laws will say you to do and follow. My connection is above that, above law, above society, above Veda, everything. Veda is My instruction given for the ordinary people who are deviated from Me. It is meant for them. And samaj, the society, that is also under the guidance of that instruction which is given to the fallen. But My connection with everything, it is intrinsic, independent of all law, and society, and recognition from anyone. It is the constant. It can never be avoided. So deceiving any other demand that comes from your previous life connections, you deceive them, you have got no freedom there. When the nature will come to demand you, you have no freedom, but your heart you must take out towards Me completely. That is upapati, Vṛndāvana bhajana means.

So yena mām upayānti te, those that are ramanti, already they have come in connection with Me as husband and wife, still, I give special feeling and insinuation, I inject that, to come as upapati, paramour. Crossing the rules, society, śāstra, everything, it is independent, My connection with everything is independent of all you can conceive. It is the most innate natural. It does not require any śāstric sanction or any social sanction. Rather, you may keep, you may live in the society showing that formal respect to them, but from your inner heart of heart you are Mine. That is yena mām upayānti te, the special instruction, or nature, or insight I give to those devotees, upayānti te."

Then, next śloka:

teṣām evānukampārtham, aham ajṣāna-jam tamaḥ nāśayāmy ātma-bhāva-stho, jṣāna-dīpena bhāsvatā

["Out of compassion for them, I, situated within the hearts of all living beings, dispel the darkness of ignorance with the radiance of knowledge."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.11]

This is more difficult. Teṣām evānukampārtham, it may be interpreted in two ways. "For their favour, I am to, some external interpretation is to favour them. And internal explanation - I want their favour. Those that are devotee of such highest order, then I aspire after their favour." As in Bhāgavatam told: parātmanor yad-vyavadhānaṁ, [dagdhāśayo mukta-samasta-tad-guṇo, naivātmāno bahir antar vicaṣṭe parātmanor yad-vyavadhānaṁ purastāt, svapne yathā puruṣas tad-vināśe]

[When a person becomes devoid of all material desires and liberated from all material qualities, he transcends distinctions between actions executed externally and internally. At that time the difference between the soul and the Supersoul, which was existing before self-realisation, is annihilated. When a dream is over, there is no longer a distinction between the dream and the dreamer.] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.22.27]

End of recording.

Date unknown 4, 19a - 19b

Devotee:?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:? Gaura Hari bol!
Nitāi. Nitāi. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāj, the devotees, they also want to give some dāna [alms, charity].

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What are they?

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Caitanya. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. What is your point?

Devotee: So can we ask you some questions...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: ...about paintings for Brahma-saṁhitā? Sometimes we would ask questions, the artists would put questions to Prabhupāda [A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Mahārāj] on the details, and he would think that, he would describe this sometimes as teasing, that these questions would tease him because sometimes they may be a little intricate. So we hope not to be too intellectual about it but if we can ask the questions, simply or clearly, and you could give some advice.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Let me hear then I can say.

Devotee: The first painting that we want to do is in the first verse and the second verse there is a description of Gokula Vṛndāvana as a thousand-petaled lotus with Kṛṣṇa in the centre. And in the twenty-sixth verse there is a description of Lord Brahmā's meditation on the thousand-petaled lotus of Gokula Vṛndāvana with Kṛṣṇa and Rādhārāṇī and the gopīs. So we want to do one painting of the Gokula Vṛndāvana planet with Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa surrounded by the gopīs. So it is described that Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa are seated on a divine throne and the whorl of the lotus flower where They're seated is described as a hexagonal figure. So we were wondering what is the meaning, that it's hexagonal figure, the whorl of the lotus?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I am sorry that we are not to enter into the discussion of such higher and subtle position of the līlā of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa. That is not to be brought into public. And that is the distinction of Gauḍīya Maṭh and the sahajiyā section. They are trying to imitate all these things. But we are, we have no faith in imitation. It will come in individual case, and it will awaken in an irresistible way when the program of the sādhana stage is finished, it will come automatically, spontaneously. We are believers in that, in that. Not to know the form already, and then we'll reach there. That is not the policy accepted by Guru Mahārāj Prabhupāda [Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura]. Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range] ["The path of divine love is worshipping to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."] Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura also said, "stick to the rulings of the class you are fit for, then you will see automatically."

yathā yathā gaura padāravinde, vindeta bhaktim kṛta puṇya rāśiḥ tathā tathot sarpati hr̥dy akasmāt, rādhā padāmbhoja sudhāmbhu-rāśiḥ

[Prabodhānanda Saraswatī Ṭhākura says: "As much as we devote ourselves to the lotus feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, we will automatically achieve the nectarine service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana. An investment in Navadvīpa Dhāma will automatically take one to Vṛndāvana. How one will be carried there will be unknown to him. But those who have good fortune invest everything in the service of Gaurāṅga. If they do that, they will find that everything has automatically been offered to the divine feet of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She will accept them in Her confidential service and give them engagement, saying: "Oh, you have a good recommendation from Navadvīpa; I immediately appoint you to this service."] [Caitanya-candrāmṛta, 88]

Strictly stick to Gaura līlā, Mahāprabhu, then you will find automatically within your heart that Rādhā-rasa-sudhānidhi is flowing. Don't attempt directly to have it.

vaisnava heta mali seti nitya sravan kirtanadi jal [?]

It will come automatically, spontaneously. Not intellectually you are to approach that. That will give you a bad prejudice. Not only that, but it will be harmful prejudice and you will have to expend more energy to do away with that layer of misunderstanding. So our Śrīla Prabhupāda did not allow these things. Do your duty in your plane, what you deserve, and that will come naturally. That is his instruction all through, not only temporarily, but all through. Don't go to be a disbeliever and be very eager to see the final result. Don't do like that, for then you will get Māyā instead of Yoga-Māyā.

He knows it fully well, She knows it fully well, when you are to be taken in to the confidence, taken in to the confidential area and that cannot be acquired by any other thing but His sweet will - the flow of Her sweet will, or His sweet will. Try to have the natural thing, not any thing of imitation or any reflection. Reflection and shadow, these two kinds of misconceptions may be there, may come there. Reflection is more dangerous. In Hari-Nāma also it has been stated like that, and shadow, both misguiding.

And we are to cross that. In our way that sort of temptation may come, but we must not think that everything will come within the fist of our intellect.

acintyāḥ khalu ye bhāvā na tāṁs tarkeṇa yojayet

[prakṛtibhyaḥ param yacca tad-acintyasya lakṣam]

["That which is inconceivable can never be understood through the logic and reason of the mind. The very symptom that something is inconceivable is that it is beyond logical comprehension."] [Skanda Purāṇa] + [Mahābharata, Bhīṣma Parva, 5.22]

Which is inconceivable, don't take it under the jurisdiction of reason.

When it will be extended to you, you will be astounded to find only a peep into that. na tārṁs tarkeṇa yojayet, Don't try to drag that into the zone of reason. This is autocratic in its nature. It may come in one shape to you, it may go in another shape to another gentleman. It is so expansive and so free in its nature. It is infinite. Rather the Infinite is the base of those pastimes. Always prepare yourself. Hanker, but don't make it an object of experience.

When Mahāprabhu also talked about that as if in a trance, as if in a trance He's giving description of His wonderful experience of Kṛṣṇa līlā. Several times we found that sort of deep, deep līlā, the higher līlā of Kṛṣṇa to be related by Mahāprabhu Himself. Govardhana līlā and the Jala-keli, when He jumped unconsciously into the ocean and for a few hours carried by the taraṅga, waves of the sea, He was carried to Cakratīrtha from [Sargadar?]. The Jala-keli of Kṛṣṇa He described how it is. And also, in [Chata- parvat?] no end to His līlā. When His body was transformed like that of a pumpkin, then also He described a līlā with the nature of that description, not any book produced thing. It cannot be taken into black and white, such thing.

So we received caution, often, that don't try, it will come automatically. Go on with the program that is given by śāstra and Guru, and it will be, if you have such a possibility of fortune then it will come to you. Not a matter of experience, and it can be given to this and that, not to be tackled in such way. Yathā yathā gaura padāravinde, [Caitanya-candrāmṛta, 88] engage your full attention in Gaura līlā and that will come automatically within you, from indirect way it will come to you. From higher domain when He will be pleased it will come down for some time to give you experience and you will simply be astonished. "What is this?" Then again, when gone, it is drawn, you will have nothing to lament. A living thing, try to come to get, to hope. We cannot make it the object of our - such higher thing, much, such higher thing, that ordinary man's conduct with his intimate friends, that is very hard to get, and the secret līlā of the Supreme Lord, how we dare to enter into, and specially publicly, that is not possible. Externally we can try to have, to give some description of the outer possibilities, and not actual thing.

Hare Kṛṣṇa Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: So they can do something general.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We won't venture to enter, in general.

Devotee: Like lotus flower.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lotus flower representing the idea of beauty, softness, all these things, lotus flower. And in different petals representing Divine, that form of rasam, in this way, such way we can take it, beauty, softness. No mundane ideas should be drawn there, only a distant similarity. But categorical difference there should be, there will be always.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!

Even we are not allowed by our Master to read the books where they are described - Govinda-līlāmṛtam, and even Stava-Kusumaśjalī, even Ujjvala-Nīlamanī - did not allow to study and to discuss it. Rather, he would have been very much disturbed if he heard that someone is interfering with the higher līlās in those books. He did not like it, didn't like.

Devotee: Mahārāj, one question I had on that subject...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: dustyabhya val kori veyajan [?]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is giving warning that we'll get only the bad result if you venture, cross the line, there will be bad effect come to you, aparādha. From the lower position where anārtha, the steps are shown through śraddhā, sādhu-saṅga, by śravaṇa kīrtana, then anartha-nivṛtti, undesirable things will vanish altogether, anartha-nivṛtti, [then niṣṭhā,] then ruci, then āśakti, then bhāva-bhakti, the sprout of real devotion, then prema-bhakti. And sneha, mana, rāga, anurāga, bhāva, mahābhāva. By such steps we are to approach there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ha, ha, ha. Once, Prabhupāda [Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura] remarked, you may, how you will take it I don't know. One gentleman, of course he was a senior, he wanted to discuss these things with Prabhupāda and he laid much stress to that. And ultimately he left the association of Prabhupāda and lived a secluded life. But previously he did much service to the mission, that gentleman. Prabhupāda remarked, "Oh, his true life, he's married with Kṛṣṇa and she has got a child." Something, such remark Prabhupāda made. He was a man but taking name as a gopī he wanted to culture about the life of the gopīs and to intimate connection of Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs. In this way he wanted to culture intensely and Prabhupāda remarked in that way. "Oh, s/he has turned into a lady, a gopī, and after coming in contact with Kṛṣṇa she produced a child."

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol!

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And another time, the Guru Mahārāj of Prabhupāda, Gaura Kiśora Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāj, he was in a hut near the Ganges. Another disciple of Prabhupāda, Kṛṣṇa Chaitanya or something, he imitated, leaving Prabhupāda he imitated Prabhupāda's Gurudeva Gaura Kiśora Bābājī. And constructed a tiny hut nearby and imitated his bhajan, Hari-Nāma, and the, the discussion of Narottama Ṭhākura, all these things, and observed strict vairāgyam in his physical life. Gaura Kiśora Bābājī remarked one day that, "Only by entering the room of labour," when a lady she gives birth to the child she's in a room, is it not, in a special room? Here, it is called (atudar?) (atu?) means (rogī? kata? dar?) "So if a lady enters into the room where that labour and shows, imitates some pain of giving birth to a child, then child won't come by imitation of the sound."

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "There is many things before, many events, previous events there must be, important previous events, then the child will come. Only imitation won't give birth to a child." That was his remark to that gentleman.

So śuddha-sattva, you must come in connection with what is known as śuddha-sattva first, viśuddha-sattva, the nirguṇa world. Śuddha-sattva means nirguṇa, sattva-guṇa and viśuddha-sattva, śuddha-sattva, viśuddha-sattva, that nirguṇa, coming in connection with nirguṇa. Then only you may try to approach the subtle happenings or events there. So not to satisfy curiosity where fools rush in where angels fear to tread, fools rush in where angels fear to tread. So in this spirit we must approach the whole thing. And at the same time, by God's grace, disbeliever: "So give me, I shall judge the whole thing to the details, then I shall accept what you say." There are many things below, whose charm of, and the reasonableness of that, that is enough to convince a person to come this side, and they should be left high, on the high above our head. So very cautiously we are to handle all this līlā, especially mādihura-līlā.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Yes, the other day I was thinking, when I joined the mission about a year, Prabhupāda arranged for one full month Kārttikamasya, to preach in Vṛndāvana, and asked the Mahārāj, Bhāratī Mahārāj of that time, to "Explain the seventh canto, the story of Prahāda, not of Kṛṣṇa, Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, or Yaśodā, anything of Vṛndāvana, but preach śuddha-bhakti of Prahāda first. They're all rife in business as sahajiyā. Just try to make them understand that enter into the domain of bhakti, what about Kṛṣṇa līlā, that is far, far above."

So in Vṛndāvana they rather wondered, "What is this? In Vṛndāvana they're explaining Bhāgavat leaving tenth canto, only seventh canto Prahāda līlā, the lower portion of bhakti."

That was wonderful, very strange. Again I found later on when Prabhupāda himself he gave lecture between Rādhā-kunḍa and Śyāma-kunḍa. There is a boundary line. Have you gone there in Vṛndāvana?

Devotees: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rādhā-kuṇḍa and Śyāma-kuṇḍa and there is a bound. And there Prabhupāda used to explain for a few days, and Upadeśāmṛtam. Upadeśāmṛtam of Rūpa Goswāmī, that was read by him and explained, not about Rādhārāṇī not about Kṛṣṇa, that Upadeśāmṛtam, the basis. His attention was always towards the basis and the fruit will come of itself. Pour water into the root, pour water into the root, fruit will come of its own accord. So he himself explained sitting in the middle of both Rādhā-kuṇḍa and Śyāma-kuṇḍa, and he explained not only Bhāgavatam, but Upadeśāmṛtam. Upadeśāmṛtam you know?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That the substance is of Mahāprabhu, and the language of Rūpa Goswāmī. What are they?

vāco vegaṁ manasaḥ krodha-vegaṁ, jihvā-vegāṁ udaropastha-vegāṁ

[etān vegān yo viśaheta dhīraḥ, sarvām apīmāṁ pṛthivīm sa śiṣyāt]

["A sober person who can tolerate the urge to speak, the mind's demands, the action of anger and the urges of the tongue, belly and genitals is qualified to make disciples all over the world."]

[Upadeśāmṛtam, 1]

All these things.

kṛṣṇeti yasya giri taṁ manasādriyeta dīkṣāsti cet praṇatibhiś ca bhajantam īśam śuśrūṣayā [bhajana-vijṣam ananyam anya- nindādiśūnya-hṛdam īpsita-saṅga-labdhyā]

["One should mentally honour the devotee who chants the Holy Name of Lord Kṛṣṇa, one should offer humble obeisances to the devotee who has undergone spiritual initiation and is engaged in worshipping the Deity, and one should associate with and faithfully serve that pure devotee who is advanced in undeviated devotional service and whose heart is completely devoid of the propensity to criticise others."] [Upadeśāmṛta, 5]

In this way, the last is, kṛṣṇasyochchaiḥ praṇaya-vasatiḥ preyasībhyo 'pi rādhā- kuṇḍaṁ cāsyā munibhir abhitas tādṛg eva vyadhāyi yat preṣṭhair apy alam asulabhaṁ kiṁ punar bhakti-bhājāṁ tat premedaṁ sakṛd api saraḥ snātur āviṣkaroti

["Of the many objects of favoured delight and of all the loveable damsels of Vrajabhūmi, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī is certainly the most treasured object of Kṛṣṇa's love. And, in every respect, Her divine kuṇḍa is described by great sages as similarly dear to Him. Undoubtedly, Rādhā-kuṇḍa is very rarely attained even by the great devotees; therefore it is even more difficult for ordinary devotees to attain. If one simply bathes once within those holy waters, one's pure love of Kṛṣṇa is fully aroused."] [Upadeśāmṛta, 11]

This is the last śloka in Upadeśāmṛta. That was explained by Prabhupāda. Not even anything of Govinda-Līlāmṛtam or Śrīla Viśvanātha Chakravartī Ṭhākura's Śrī Kṛṣṇa- Bhāvanāmṛta - these things were left, so our training in that line. Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge, [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range.] ["The path of divine love is worshippable to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."] That is always on our head, that the prospect, our life's future, life after life. It cannot be finished. We shall rather foster the hope, the pure hope that we shall maybe taken in one day in that camp, with this idea.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Ha, ha, ha, ha. Nitāi Caitanya.

Devotee: Mahārāj, sometimes in the Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī he's making reference to Govinda-Līlāmṛtam, Ujjvala-nīlamanī, these other confidential selected works. How are we to take that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: These three chapters we were generally not allowed to enter into of Caitanya-caritāmṛta, the (Catuhdas, Ādi Catuhdas, and astamadhya), that is mādhyā-līlā Rāmānanda Rāya, to certain extent, where the līlā portion of Rādhā- Govinda is mentioned we had no entrance into that, līlā. (Ādi Catuhdas?) or something like Svarūpa Dāmodara and, of course when (parayan?) is going on we read, go on reading, making (parayana?)

Devotee: What's (parayana?)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But not to enter into details of discussion about that thing. Three chapters ...

Devotee: What do you mean by (parayana?)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: (parayana?) means from the beginning to chant the whole book, finish the whole book, that is parayana.

Devotee: Continuous reading.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then we went on reading, but without giving any particular attention to the līlā of the highest order of love. That was barred. Don't try to come into details there. That will come automatically when the time will be, don't make it a discussion of the public, don't take it in the public eye.

So much so, Prabhupāda once while in Vṛndāvana, he had got a balya-bandhu, a friend of his childhood, one attorney there. And he came to see him so he went to give a return visit, Prabhupāda, went to give a returning visit to his friend of boyhood. Then he saw, this Paramahansa Mahārāj with him at that time, now Paramahansa Mahārāj is at Calcutta, Mahānanda Brahmācārī previously, he was with Prabhupāda. And he went to give the return visit, and when told, "He's upstairs," and he went there and saw that Pran Gopāla Goswāmī he's explaining Bhāgavatam rasa-līlā with Prabhupāda just bowed down his head and came away, immediately came away.

Then his friend came, leaving that rasa-līlā (uday?) there, going on, explanation. Friend also came down. "And yes, the rasa-līlā is going on, the explanation and you did not take your seat at all and you just bowed down your head and coming down. What is there the matter?"

"Our Guru's order is such that if you attend rasa-līlā explanation you will commence offence; that will be offence to attend rasa-līlā. So I can't stand there even for a second. I have to come back. This is Guru's order."

So aparādhā, so for us, such a strict behaviour he has shown, and we also do that, especially myself. So many other places, the jhulana-līlā, the rasa-līlā, they show by dolls. I never do that. What's true to my understanding of my Gurudeva's will or his words, I don't make any show of jhulana or rasa-līlā of the type. I found in my heart, find in my heart, that this was not desirable of Prabhupāda. But in so many Maṭhs I see at present, I hear also that they're doing that. But I strictly abstain from that sort of showing, the jhulana-līlā or rasa-līlā. That is too high for us I considered.

I must be true to my hearing to the words of my Gurudeva if I want my realisation and not my position. The position or some sort of popularity to attract people by such show and to make money or make favourable field for preaching, they may do like that. But I don't do. I don't want popularity, nor any position of a higher Ācārya. I am a student, still I am a student, I consider myself to be a student, a faithful student what I heard from my Gurudeva I try my best to stick there to keep my position there as I heard from him. I don't want to mutilate that any way to suit my purpose. I try not to do that. So, of course, for big propaganda they may take different ways as they think they're now free. But I am not a member to do so, to go on in such way.

I try because, ha, ha, When Prabhupāda offered me to go to the West and I told simply that "I don't consider myself fit to go there to the West, I won't be able to show success there for such defects", two defects I showed. Then some of the sannyāsīns they showed much reverence to me, "What is this? So many persons there to take, you lose this chance. You don't, you neglect to take advantage of such a position that you'll be a world preacher, you don't, you have no hankering for that?" I told, "Yes Mahārāj, I have no hankering after such position. My only humble ambition is that I be reckoned as a sincere devotee of Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadev. No other ambition I have in my mind to become a world preacher and so on." So, in my nature I am such and such, such and such. I want truth and I hope I crave for the mercy of the Vaiṣṇavas and you all that I may not have that ambition, but to be the humblest, most humble servant of the Lord, I may not be misguided.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

I may engage myself in the lower form of service, tad dāsa-dāsa-dāsānām dāsatvaṁ dehi me prabho. My faith may be so firm and may be of such quality that the least offer of His Divine Service may satisfy me. I may not be ambitious to run high to get the chance there in the higher officer class. With my lowest connection with the Divinity I may go on, satisfied with my life. Gaura Hari bol! Pāda dhūlī, Mahāprabhu says, "Just consider Me as dust at the feet of You Kṛṣṇa." What is that śloka?

ayi nanda-tanuja kiṅkaram, patitaṁ mām viṣame bhavāmbudhau kṛpayā tava pāda-paṅkaja-sthita-dhūlī-saḍṛśaṁ vicintaya

["O son of Nanda Mahārāja, I am Your eternal servant, yet because of my own karma, I have fallen into this terrible ocean of birth and death. Accept this fallen soul and consider me a particle of dust at Your holy lotus feet."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 5]

"Consider Me to be one of the dusts in Your feet." That may be our guidance. That is too much. Our faith should come to such a great, in quality, that we may be satisfied to become a dust in His feet. Then, by His sweet will it may happen, anything. But our humble aim should be to have the least connection of the Divinity, the Reality, not a concoction, concocted Kṛṣṇa.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge. Very sweet, the rāgapāṭha is on the head, the rāgapāṭha, we are servants of the rāgapāṭha. We are in viddhi-mārga, under śāstric rule, we must live and move under śāstric rule and always keep the rāgapāṭha on our head.

Once, Prabhupāda, while in Rādhā-kuṇḍa, one paṇḍa, he, in his talk made a slight remark that, "We are brāhmaṇas in Vraja, we can bless [Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī." Prabhupāda was surcharged by such haughty remark. "Dāsa Goswāmī is the highest ācārya in our camp, Gauḍīya camp, and that fellow he says that he's able to bless Dāsa Goswāmī and I am to hear that?" He left taking food, he won't take food, and he remarked, "If I was an ordinary bābājī I won't care, I'd leave the place, I would leave the place. But I am running with the motorcar here like an ācārya, I have got the responsibility, moving here in the pose of an ācārya that I shall protect the sampradayā. I shall brush the dusts, the undesirability from the sampradayā. In a motorcar I am running on the Vṛndāvana. How can I tolerate such remark against my Guru?"

He left food. "No, I won't, if no..." (patikar?) means? Until any ...?

Devotee: Opposition, contradiction?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not contradiction. Any (pritikar?), arrangement for any relief or something like that, proper word is...

Devotee: Counteraction.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Counteraction, not counteraction, "but something else is made by me I can't, I won't take any food, I can't take any food."Prabhupāda fasting we're all fasting. Then, one influential person when he heard the news, he came, and he anyhow managed to take that brāhmaṇa and he begged pardon, "Excuse me. I'm an ordinary man, a fallen fellow. I do not know the greatness of Dāsa Goswāmī. He came in a caste, in a śūdra family and I am in brāhmaṇa family, with general inclination I made such remark, but now I find that I committed mistake. Please forgive me." Then of course it was minimised and Prabhupāda took food and we also took food. Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge, gaurava bāṅge, always his posing was that of a protector, or not only protector, a servant protector of the sampradāya. He himself remarked...

End of side A, 19a. side B.

...sampradāya. He himself remarked, he said, "Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has taken a pose that I am a jarudhar." Jarudhar means who rubs away the dirt. The Nityānanda Prabhu's Nāma-hatta, and I am a jarudhar, one who with a broomstick in his hand he brushes...

... I'm one of the sticks in the broomstick.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the hands of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is jarudhar, the broomstick in his hand. I am one of the sticks. And if he'll be sincere, if this remark is sincere, if we take it sincerely and not imitation or not any false assumptions, if his sincere liking is for that then we are to measure, this is the unit with which we must construct our body and then we shall hope to enter, venture to hope to enter into Vaikuṇṭha, in Goloka, in the camp of the Vrajavāsīs. So, trṇād api sunīcena, [taror api sahiṣṇunā, amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

This is not a figurative word, not ornamental thing, but this is real, substantial. If we think like that, in what level should we come, should we take ourselves to be qualified to enter into the domain of the Lord in Goloka, not least ambition, cent per cent dedicating agent. The meanest of the mean, with this idea, this is the qualification to enter into that domain, what is required of us.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Trṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā, because in cent per cent humility there cannot be any trace of enjoying spirit. No aggression is possible. The meanest of the mean, that to eliminate fully the aggressive nature, aggressive nature cannot be present there only. Aggressor, the enjoyer must be aggressor. The aggression is a property of this world of exploitation. And dedication, and dedication of this quality is necessary for the entrance of that domain. This is reality, otherwise all concoction, all imagination. If this is imagination then that is also imagination. If this is concrete reality then to them Goloka is reality. In that plane they will come in contact with Goloka in such subtle and fundamental plane they will come in contact with that thing really. Otherwise, this is all in fool's paradise, to live in fool's paradise. Gaura Hari bol! If we have faith in this then that is real to us. Otherwise, we'll be given the ambition to live in fool's paradise.

Nitāi Caitanya. Dayāl Nitāi. Gaura Hari bol!

I think I did something to give vent to the feeling of my Gurudeva today, his position, to clear his position. I did something today. Gaura Hari bol! Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge, this is enough. Tad dāsa-dāsa-dāsānām dāsatvaṁ dehi me prabho. This is not a figurative thing, this is not mere poetry. Mahāprabhu says, nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśyo na śūdro nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gr̥ha-patir no vana-stho yatir vā kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānanda-pūrṇāmṛtābdher gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ

["I am not a priest, a king, a merchant, or a labourer; nor am I a student, a householder, a retired householder, or a mendicant. I identify myself only as the servant of the servant of the servant of the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the gopīs, who is the personification of the fully expanded (eternally self-revealing) nectarean ocean that brims with the totality of Divine Ecstasy."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.80]

This is not ornamental thing only, this is reality, this is reality to become ostentatiously mean, really to become eligible for the higher service. So selflessness, so self abnegation is necessary for a unit of the lowest order to enter into that domain, so self abnegation is necessary. Then we can come into that plane. There is a plane undercurrent, undercurrent plane, and if we really want to contact with that we shall be, we have to be such finest of the fine in our, and no demand in it's negative way we are to transform us into. Then we can have touch of that plane where we can come. The least exploiting and speck of the ambitious life won't take us there. This is another thing. Pratiṣṭhā, pratiṣṭhā, that is, pratiṣṭhā means self establishment, or what is that?

Devotee: Aggrandisement.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Aggrandisement no, pratiṣṭhā, pratiṣṭhā, the hard stability, to be stable, to be immortal, to be invincible. Not self giving but self establishing tendency, pratiṣṭhā. "I must stay, I must live." If necessary I must die for the interest of Kṛṣṇa.

Mārobi rākhobi yo icchā tohārā, [nitya-dāsa prati tuwā adhikārā] ["Slay me or protect me as You wish, for You are the master of Your eternal servant."] [Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura]

A suicidal soldier, for the cause of the country, if necessary I must die, I must efface myself, I must, maybe effaced if it is necessary. My very existence may be effaced if it is necessary for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Caitanya.

My very existence may be effaced if it is necessary. Such temperament, such selflessness of such degree is necessary to find out that plane, such subtleness.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Caitanya. Dayāl. Mahāprabhu. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Let us be blessed by the, by Prabhupāda.....

Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Caitanya. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!
Gandhi told once, that gentleman, "Gandhi ki jai! Mahātmā Gandhi ki jai!"

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, "Oh, we are, they are giving, singing glory to a particular form. If I go away from that position, they'll go, "Down with Gandhi! Down with Gandhi!" Ha, ha, ha.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "So, it does not concern me," he says. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

So the jai goes to somewhere else. All glory to Guru and Gaurāṅga. All glory to Guru and Gaurāṅga.

Devotees: Jai.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrīpāda Bhaktivedanta Swāmī Mahārāj ki jai!

Devotee: Jai!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sevā Vṛnda ki jai! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

You are helping me to take out from my inner heart so many beautiful and so many valuable things. It is through your help that these old memories are becoming again fresh to me. I am forced to take out those things from the inner nature of my previous life which I got from my Gurudeva, the wealth. Again I show, I got the chance of seeing that treasury, treasury, I was given the opportunity by this recapitulation what I heard from the divine feet of Gurudeva.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi. What's the time?

Devotee: It's nine-thirty.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But are you dissatisfied?

Devotee: No, no. Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. I'm always satisfied.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With this connection, a valuable thing, and this is what is our education what I got from the divine feet, I just sincerely put it to you all. It is such.

Gaura Sundara. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge. He told, "We must not go and live in Rādhā-kunḍa." Our, one day, in the, near Lalitā-kunḍa, the Svānanda-sukhada-kuṣja is there, and there, the first story, and told, "A second story is necessary. But I won't be able to live there." I told that if you don't live in the first floor then who will live there? What is the necessity of further construction?

"No. You don't know. Better persons will live there. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Gaura Kiśora Bābājī Mahārāj, they will live there. And we live on the ground floor and we serve them and we comeAgain he told, "I shall live in Govardhana. Rādhā-kunḍa is the highest place, the place of our Guru Mahārāj, our Gurudeva. They will live here in closer connection with līlā, and we are not fit to live in, there. We shall live in Govardhana, a little far away, because we shall have to come and serve our Gurudeva, so we must be, but we must not live in closer connection with them, we are not fit."

Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge. The whole tenor of his life was such, pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge, that is high, high, and from below we are to honour that, to establish in the whole world this sort of posing, that that is too high.

One day in Allahabad, perhaps that very year [Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedanta] Swāmī Mahārāj was initiated in [Malaka?] in a park, when he was speaking he told, "I am out to give (mydarn?) (mydarn?) means to wrestle, a challenge to wrestle, wrestling, what is it? (mydarn?) That in a meadow, two fighters, just as one who has become Mohammed Ali, what is that? The boxing, "I am ready to fight with any person to show that the highest position is occupied by my Gurudeva, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, Mahāprabhu. Let anyone come to fight with me to decide. I'm ready." That he told. "I am ready to give (mydarn?) to anybody and everybody. Let him come and fight with me. I want to establish the throne in the highest place is my Gurudeva.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge. Nitāi Caitanya. Then, this garland.....

Devotee: Jai! Hare Kṛṣṇa. That stick, bring that stick.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That stick is there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... and Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's translation and the translation seems to be more accurate and sweet than the original. The writing is of such a type, such a type. The translation, that accords, to our feeling, that is better than the original, wonderful thing, wonderful, more expressive, more clear, more accurate.

... and Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's Śrī Kṛṣṇa-saṁhita is also marvellous thing, about the teachings of Mahāprabhu. The original writers, the Goswāmīns, in Sanskrit they have described many things, and Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is translating and the translation seems to be more accurate and sweet than the original. The writing is of such a type, such a type. The translation, that accords, to our feeling, that is better than the original, wonderful thing, wonderful, more expressive, more clear, more accurate.

Devotee: I've never heard of any astrological meaning to his birth, especially on the same day.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I heard, in day also, different parts also. And there should be, generally there will be differences in combination of different domains. Whole day may not continue to be of same type, there may be sub differences also, one thing. Another thing, that will depend on who is appearing, his previous karma, and his work, and specially his inner capacity of registering the bad omens, and the grace of the Lord in him, previously acquired. All these things will come into account, and the resultant will be the consequence. Not only time and space, but the person who is being born, his capacity, his previous acquisition, all these also to be considered. And the day means, whole day may not have equal influence. It may be different in different parts of the day. All these things to be calculated. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Another angle of vision - in Kali-yuga the Nāma-saṅkīrtana has been given as the means to the, to our highest end. So, because the age is iron, so the bhajan will also be of lower type, it is not bad, just the opposite, because the time is so much vitiated, vitiated. But ordinary means they cannot produce their desired end. But the highest thing, that is above all external circumstances, unfavourable circumstances, that can only stand. So also, the worst may be the time, but at that time if a devotee of Kṛṣṇa appears then that can't have any influence over him. Rather, that will be purified, that time, that bad time will have a record to add to his auspicious character. It is, there may be so great thing. And generally that is with nirguṇa, they may not care for the material good or bad symptoms, nirguṇa.

Generally when Kṛṣṇa appeared, the place was a prison house, the black night, and hail and storm. Apparently it was very ominous but His appearance made everything pure. He's touchstone. A bad iron or good iron, or bad brass or good brass, a bad silver or good silver, when it comes in connection with touchstone then that becomes gold, and gold of higher type. Just mundane, or cannot effect in any way, independent of that, (śuka śubha?) auspicious or ominous, that is confined here in the domain of loss and gain.

And in the eternal atmosphere everything contributes, every contribution is for the service of the Lord. It is all auspicious. Waves of that plane all help wholesale, wholesale, because connected with the Absolute Good. What is apparently seen to be bad, if that comes in connection with the Absolute Good that is cent per cent good. Only one thing, whether to please Him, whether it is in connection with the Absolute Harmony, that will justify, its existence, its character, its future, everything. Only one, whether it is to satisfy Him, for Himself, if it is to satisfy the Absolute Autocrat, only one criterion, nothing else. No other calculation will stand there. He's above law. Absolute, law comes from it, justice comes from it. It is rather, the plane of mercy. Justice presupposes that there be many interests, and to bring harmony amongst them, among the, some adjustment in the many conceptions of interest, different interest. So, oneness, where it is absolutely oneness, unity, absolute unity, there no question of justice, if analysed.

We are told that is mercy, it is beauty, it is ecstasy, it is good, and unchallengeable. That is autocracy, and sweetness, that is charm, that is the conception of the Absolute Prime Cause. Everything for Himself, Hegelian language, everything meant for His satisfaction. He's the Absolute, He's the Absolute. Everything is meant for Him. So no consideration of right, wrong, good, bad, only one good, whatever He likes it is good. No law, no measurement, no calculation, always useless, groundless.

And generally it was thought that is an Absolute Power, but Mahāprabhu says, Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam says, "No, Absolute Beauty, Absolute Good, not power." That is the peculiarity of Bhāgavatam and Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism, Mahāprabhu. That beauty is controlling, love controlling, love and beauty, similar, love controlling. No objection should come to that from any quarter of reasonable thinkers, the love, charm, no room for any objection. And we are preachers of that. That is your inner wealth, love, a particle in you, and the source, the ocean, is there, you are connected. Find out the plane, the subtle-most plane, the subtle-most, that electric plane, ethereal plane, the airy plane, so many planes, the light plane, heat plane, in the world. So this is the subtle-most, all-embracing plane which is irresistible and which is the sustainer of all other planes of life and vitality, anything and everything. Find out, dive deep within your heart and you will find out a trace of that plane in you, and try to work in that plane eliminating all these external, superficial planes of life, interests of life. That is the interest, the common interest of every living being, every being. That is the deepest identification of you all. That is peace proper, the highest conception of peace is there only, in love, in the plane of Love Divine. And what is going on in the name of love here, country love, society love, lady love, money love, that is all sham, tasteless, useless, and brings reaction. And that is non-reactionary. That can absorb everything, and what you get as a reaction that is also enhancement of that thing. That is no reaction as we understand it in this plane.

'Dāsa' kari' vetana more deha prema-dhana, the surrender to the extreme, to become the highest conception of slave, and the remuneration is also of this type, "That give me as remuneration the chance of love, more propensity to serve, dedication. Supply me the capital of dedication as my salary, the more I can dedicate. Supply that energy and that goodness in me, the service is its own reward. I shall serve and I get salary that I can serve more correctly and more affectionately, more healthy." With that sort of reaction, remuneration is also of that type, reaction. But in these planes, superficial planes, the remuneration, the reaction, that is of bad type. Janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhī-duḥkha- doṣānudarśanam [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9]. It will produce such result, such effect.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Our preaching is that you find out that you are loving unit, so all the hitches should be removed. Our underlying principal to ask everybody, "That you are really a unit of love, love. Eliminate all sorts of discord." If such things be allowed to be preached then it would be, really, more than heaven, of our conception.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

That Rāmaprasād, one devotee of the Śakti worshipper. mano jamin jaila pati java kaila phalta saman [?]

His poem, if you cultivate the human heart then you will find what sort of gold is being produced thereby, cultivate heart. Your cultivating the heart outside, try to cultivate your heart and the golden production will come from within, mine within, mine your own, cultivation within. That will produce more valuable things, so, that type.

Dive deep into your heart, like Mahāprabhu, "Go deeper." Rāmānanda Rāya saṁvāda. Whatever Rāmānanda says, Mahāprabhu says, "Go deeper, go deeper." Eho bāhya āge kaha āra, eho bāhya āge kaha āra. "This is also superficial. Go more deep."

Then Rāmānanda, another plane, another plane, another plane, in this way, lastly he went to the plane of Śrī Rādhikā. "That I think that is the highest plane of dedication and love and beauty."

"Yes. It is. Yes it is there." And, "How to attain that?" That was the question of Mahāprabhu to Rāya Rāmānanda, "How to attain that?" It is also mentioned there. With the help of the friends, help of the friends of that, they are the canvassers, recruiters, so with their help we can enter, as well as we can get service, engagement, and everything.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

One who is really engaged in such research then he does not care if it's the prison house or the temple, may be equal to him. His object of search is within his heart. None can oppose it, none can oppose it.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāj, can you explain the circumstances of Lord Caitanya's disappearance, and why it is not mentioned in Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What did I do, say?

Devotee: Would you explain the circumstances of Lord Caitanya's disappearance, and why it is not mentioned in Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I told this already? What did I say?

Devotee: No. He's asking, "Can you explain it?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh! Can I explain, why it is not mentioned? Not only of Caitanyadev but also of Nityānanda Prabhu, Advaita Prabhu, Viṣṇu-Tattva omitted, because we are not encouraged to think that Their body was mundane and that must have been done away with either by burial or by burning or in any some other way has been disposed. Out of curiosity, so it is omitted. That it is not material, so the material end is not to be encouraged, not to be mentioned, in any way, in any way.

There are many versions about Mahāprabhu's disappearance. Some say He entered into Jagannātha, in the body of Jagannātha. Some say He entered, Gadādhara Paṇḍita says He entered into his own Gopīnātha Devata. Some say He walked over the sea, away. In this way, various descriptions we find. Some say He started above entrance the sun, so, everything may be true simultaneously. Gadādhara Paṇḍita has seen that "He came and just entered my Deity and disappeared." And some devotees were in Jagannātha Temple and say "He, the other day, generally He had a, He used to look at the Jagannātha from far, but that day He was advancing slowly and coming to Jagannātha He said some words and embraced Jagannātha and disappeared." And some say "He was walking over the sea and disappeared." And some say that "towards the sun He approached and disappeared." Everything may be true simultaneously. As He wished to show about His disappearance to the devotees they saw like that. And many could not see how He went away.

Find out that His body was not material, material. How it is possible, we are to understand that, how it is possible that without any material body one can show a material body. The body is not of matter but still He can show that it is as if it is matter. That is His department.

Whether it is possible, even we're told a ghost can appear and disappear.

So many yogīs by dint of their psychic power, by utilising that, they can appear and disappear. And so many incarnations of God hitherto known to the world they can appear and disappear. So why should it not be of that type? No difference, to expect such is not to expect much.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Mahārāj.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: The wife of Dhṛtarāṣṭra...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gāndhārī.

Devotee: It's said in the Mahābhārata that before she became the wife of Dhṛtarāṣṭra she was known all over Bhārata-Varsa as a devotee of Śaṅkara.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Devotee of?

Devotees: Śaṅkara. Śiva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śaṅkara, yes, then?

Devotee: I wondered if that had any bearing on the fate of Dhṛtarāṣṭra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why? Have you got any sign in Dhṛtarāṣṭra previous to his marriage that he was devotee of Viṣṇu or Nārāyaṇa? And then, her association converted him to go away from the devotion of Kṛṣṇa, have you got any such..

Devotee: Evidence.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sign?

Devotee: No, I don't.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, Dhṛtarāṣṭra is the representation of mind, manasa. Vidura, that of conscience representation, conscience. But Dhṛtarāṣṭra as manasa, mind only. Mind's inclination towards this enjoyment more, so, for wife, for children, more inclined. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The Bhīṣma, the sense of beauty. All may be vitiated. Vidura holds the higher position there. The sense of beauty, that may be, may take misdirection, as we say in the case of Draupadī's vastraharem [?], the endeavour to make Draupadī naked, Bhīṣma did not come with opposition. A sober man, a devotee, but his conscience was cowed down by the sense of beauty.

Of course he explained that, "Yudhiṣṭhira understands more about the conception of duty, and when he does not give any opposition so I could not." That was Bhīṣma's explanation. "What is the real direction of the Veda in such condition, the purport of Veda is known most by Yudhiṣṭhira than ourselves. While he's tolerating I could not say anything."

But Vidura did not care for that, he simply saw the general goodness of the dynasty in future and boldly approached Dhṛtarāṣṭra. "Under your care, taking the advantage of your guardianship, what these brutes are doing? They're bringing danger to your own dynasty by such activity. You are dishonouring Pāṇḍava and dishonouring your own self. She's also connected with your family. Should you not help her in such distressed stage?"

Then Dhṛtarāṣṭra was awakened, mind pressed by the conscience, asserted, and asked Duryodhana to put end to such misdeeds, and asked, "Draupadī should be taken to me." And then Draupadī was taken to him. That is a great test. Draupadī's, the attempt to make Draupadī naked in the assembly, that is a great test, trial, to find out who is who.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Pāṇḍava's also did not object.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They thought that they're bound down by the vow. Bhīma, now and then he burst and he's promising, and checked by Arjuna. "We are warned what my elder brother has done, we silently must accept that. Don't be boisterous, then the enemy they will enjoy our dissension amongst us." In this way Arjuna dissuaded Bhīma, at times. And Bhīma used to leave his promise, "I shall break your thigh, Duḥśāsana, I shall drink the blood of your chest." Now and then Bhīma outbursts and expressing his promise in future, and he did that. Ha, ha. But Pāṇḍava's were to tolerate anything and everything, "That the extreme may come over us, we shall try to stand, even in such condition, united, united with our hope towards Kṛṣṇa."

And Kṛṣṇa came to relieve, when Draupadī during, that is a play of the highest type of devotion. When Draupadī was placed under such awkward position, she looked after the respectable members in the assembly - no response. Looked towards her formal husbands, they're so big, so great, so powerful, indomitable - no response. Then disappointed from all quarters for help in this extreme moment she had to come, with one hand to help herself from the exposing, and with her other hand towards Lord Kṛṣṇa. Then left her, that self..... and with both palms together prayed for Kṛṣṇa, and there is a word, gopī jana vallabha, reference towards Kṛṣṇa's Vṛndāvana līlā. Nowhere in Mahābhārata we can find any reference to Kṛṣṇa līlā, or Vraja līlā of Kṛṣṇa, or Dwārakā, Mathurā, but only here we find from the lips of Draupadī. Dwārakā he braja gopī jana vallabha, "You are protector of all. We after all belong to You, and You come to my aid." When frustrated from the help of her own husbands, so powerful, then she had to come back.

pate pati nama [?]

"The masters of the master, the master of the master, the original master, we belong after all to You. Give me in such acute position, oh gopī jana vallabha, You are friend of the gopīs in Vṛndāvana. Without consideration of the social position and status and ownership, even conferred by the śāstra, the laws, under Veda, Your connection with us is above law. I take shelter there for my protection."

Immediately help came. We are told Kṛṣṇa ordered all the merits acquired by previous lives of Draupadī may be immediately converted to protect her in the form of cloth, clothing, and the clothing got infinite character. And there, she's drawing, drawing, cloth drawing and cloth extending, cloth extending, no end. She's all right there, cloth coming. That was her position.

And then Vidura went to Dhṛtarāṣṭra, "What nuisance has been done by your sons? And you are sitting tight. You are responsible for all this misbehaviour. It will destroy, it will burn the whole dynasty, whole capital, everyone of us here. Just quench the fire, put out the fire."

Then Dhṛtarāṣṭra, he called for Draupadī, "Take her." Then of course, order was carried out, and some truce was affected there. And they will go to the forest with Draupadī for twelve years, and after finishing that forest living, for one year they will live hiding them. If at that time they can be traced then again twelve years banishment, in this way, again one year's disguise, if found out, again twelve years forest banishment, in this way. But at the end they came and fought. Kṛṣṇa went..... Bhīṣma stood as the leader of the Kuru dynasty, and this side, merely Arjuna and Kṛṣṇa.

[On the other side, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Arjuna, in a grand chariot drawn by white horses, resounded Their divine conchshells.] [Bhagavad-gītā, 1.14]

They began first war-cry and then in this way then the Bhagavad-gītā came. Arjuna tried to back away, and to excite Arjuna to begin the battle Kṛṣṇa had to advise so many things and the instruction is known as Bhagavad-gītā. Bhagavad-gītā - the physical non-violence has been crushed there. Ha, ha. The non-violence of Gandhi is for material purposes, non-violence for material purposes, that has been crushed, no meaning, that is all sham, that is also māyā, that is also māyā. Truth is independent of this material...

End of side A, start of side B.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...not to save this should we utilise the faculty of non-violence. This is a prison house and no kindness should be shown, no liberality should be seen to keep the prison house intact. The wholesale, the whole prison houses may be demolished, no harm to the soul. The truth is of such nature, truth real is of such nature. What is himsā, what is ahimsā! Apparently what is himsā, non-violent, if correctly analysed, that may be found to be somewhat illusory aspect. This is not search after truth, this is not real search after truth. The real search after truth is independent of this material importance. That is independent. That comes from the other side.

The Petain when he came, in, who was the second great war, the French General was some Petain or someone. And he came in contact with Hitler and had a truce to save his country, and he did so. By surrendering to Hitler's Germany France was externally saved. But when [Charles] de Gaulle came back from England he tried that Petain, that General, who maybe saved France from the attack. And the General was given capital punishment. He wanted to save physical France at the cost of the honour of the real France. Perhaps that was his point. So physical non-violence, this was dishonoured, condemned.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Mahārāj, when Vasudeva Datta was talking with Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu about the deliverance of the whole universe with all the living entities within it, Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said that all of them already were liberated.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: My question is, at that time all the living entities after dying they were, after leaving his body were liberated, or this is a continuous process and we think that they are...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We conceive that they are all removed. Suppose, in the ocean if we take a pot of water, how many seconds it takes to fill up the gap?

Devotee: No, immediately.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Immediately. We cannot trace even the time. It is in the infinite. A brahmāṇḍa is like that, a drop. It may be taken out, but immediately in no time it will be seen to be. He knows. It is not unreasonable. If we have got theistic conception in a right way then it is like that. A whole brahmāṇḍa is a point in the infinite. A point removed, immediately place filled up. So many brahmāṇḍas, as with the Virajās, so many brahmāṇḍas are floating like a small seed. A huge brahmāṇḍa is relatively like a small seed, a mustard seed, and floating in innumerable number in the ocean of Virajā, prakṛti. So it is difficult for us to think that how much time it took to remove the whole brahmāṇḍa, and how, all these things. But, in the infinite characteristic it is no exertion at all, nothing of the kind.

Ordinary time, we cannot find any concentration of much wealth, money, etc., in a particular, but in the time of war we find when that great exertion of the nations, immediately a clash, a forest is removed and a camp is established in twenty-four hours. Such huge exertion we cannot think how it is possible. But great power, their work is of that type. A question of the amount of energy and intelligence, not want (in general?)

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

What is wonder to us that is negligent movement there. Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Only willing and automatically done. Ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: Mahārāj. What is the criterion for cultivating the internal spiritual growth as opposed to external activity, or also in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Increased favourable tendency, that progress may be traced. A man is known by his company. The test, the test, that is the criterion, whether he's hankering for the association of the good or bad environment, his taste, his eagerness to associate known by his company. Whichever way his taste is walking, progressing, that is to be looked at, what does he love? That is the environment, sādhu-saṅga, more and more affinity towards the sādhu, and śāstra, of that order, that is the environment. Increasing, increasing his taste, progressively increasing his taste for particular thing, that will prove whether progress or, whether we are making progress or deteriorating.

Devotee: And can that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Going in the front or backing that will be known by the measurement of the external environment. 'I'm going towards the theistic conception or coming back from that sort of deep conception to more subtle, more gross?' Importance is being increased to me for which side?

bhaktiḥ pareśānubhavo viraktir, anyatra [caiṣa trika eka-kālaḥ

["As with every mouthful an eater feels the threefold effects of his satisfaction, his stomach being filled, and his hunger being dispelled. In the same way when a surrendered soul serves the Lord he realises devotion of three natures simultaneously: devotion in love, the personal appearance of the Lord who is the abode of love, and detachment from all other things."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.42]

With the progress towards the spiritual side my disgust about the material things will increase when I have some conception, clear and clear conception about the spiritual truth towards which I am making advance. And my affinity, my speed also will have some acceleration in my progress. They will show whether I am making progress or I am standing still or I am going back. Bhaktiḥ pareśānubhavo viraktir, anyatra caiṣa trika eka-kālaḥ. And internal satisfaction will also stand guarantee. I shall be my own witness from within, whether I am gaining or losing. My own understanding will stand there only, pareśānubhavo.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Is it possible that sometimes we can gain a closer concept of the Absolute by serving, by manipulating the external nature, rather than doing bhajan, doing personal bhajan?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Bhajan and activity, the activity may be more than bhajan, and the bhajan may be illusion. What do you think? So, that is not the thing by which to be judged. Only the surrendering, 'I am asked by Guru Mahārāj to go some activity, I thought I am engaged in bhajan, but my superior sādhu he's asking me to go to some other duty.' Apparently I may be, may feel a little disturbed. But in that case, own bhajan should not be entrusted much if I know fully well that who has ordered me, he holds superior position to me. Then own bhajan should be stopped and to carry out the order of the superior person, that should be accepted, because that will fetch something of higher order, of higher plane to me. This is more or less in ascending method and that is in descending way, coming, so higher, it is coming, it will fetch more subtle and higher value for me. I may earn silver but that may come in gold. Command of a Vaiṣṇava will be more, it will fetch more than I shall do myself. That should be considered. But if the Vaiṣṇava who is ordering me he's of superior type, if I can understand that. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: You once explained to me, I was asking you about writing, I was telling you that sometimes the realisations and how to express myself writing was very easy, up to a point, and then became very, very difficult. So I asked you should I continue or should I go to something else? It seems that the inspiration or the incentive to write was disappearing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow what you say.

Devotee: Ok, I was explaining that while writing Bhaktivedānta literature or...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are writing an article...

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, at that time?

Devotee: And I was feeling very much inspired...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: ...to write, as if I was getting some inspiration and motivation from another source.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Spontaneous flow you are feeling, that is coming. At that time some gentleman wanted you to..... What you are to do?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That will depend in what regard you understand the man who is ordering you. If you have much reverence for him you may at least, mild protest, "That I little after I am coming. Will there be any harm?" If he says, "No. You must come now." You keep it now and go away. You may request him, "That only stop for a few minutes or an hour, I am engaged in some deep duty." But still if he urges, "No. You leave it. Come." And if you have higher respect for him you'll leave it and go. But if you have any question about his superiority that will be another thing. But if you are sure that he's of higher status then you will give up your own engagement, your own realisation, and go to obey his order. When one is engaged in worshipping his own Deity in the Temple, at that time some sādhu has come, sādhu has come outside and he knows it that he has come, he will leave his engagement in the worship of the Deity and he will go and welcome, show his courtesy to the sādhu, make arrangement, then he'll come again here. If he does not do he commits offence.

Devotee: Was this the...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the case of Gajaraja. The one, the king Pāndya in the Southern India, he was engaged in worshipping his own Deity, and at that time Agasthya Ṛṣi he came. And his officers tried to inform him, he also could understand, but he posed as he did not, he did not hear. And after finishing his worship he came out. But because he consciously took the pose of a...that as if ... not dumb, but as if he can't hear, that sort of posing that his consciousness was drawn to be of a gross character, more gross. So in next birth he had to take that of an elephant, Gajaraja. And when he was in a battle with a big...

Devotee: Crocodile.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Crocodile, but he was a devotee, he has devotion of Kṛṣṇa within heart. He cried for some help from Kṛṣṇa and Kṛṣṇa went and cut the crocodile and saved His servant, free His servant in the form of elephant. And it is told that he had to take the birth of an elephant because he posed himself that he's not hearing, some sort of the mentality of an elephant he took. So, one should leave his own engagement and go to his needful service for the sādhu of superior order.

Devotee: This was also the circumstance with Mahārāj Parīkṣit?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Parīkṣit's case is something else. That Śṛṅgī, that man was not a devotee, that Śṛṅgī. But Parīkṣit was a better class of devotee, but with the duty of a king, that sort of formality. That was the cause. Parīkṣit, at heart, he was right. He thought that, "If I go back without the water that man will be responsible for not doing his duty towards the guest. And as result of that his hard earned tapasya, the fruit of his penance will be taken away by me. And instead of doing that I may assert as a king and for this wrong behaviour I am punishing him. Let me punish him because he failed to discharge his proper duty (as an asramaite?)" So he put the, he saw a...

Devotee: Snake.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A snake, dead, and put it with the end of his bow on the neck. But sincerely he did it at his best knowledge that he need not take away the result of the penances which he is so painfully earning. So as a king he gave a sort of punishment. That was misunderstood by his son who had some power of penances, though boy, previously earned in his previous life, and he cursed him. He accepted that, and that was the cause of the great Bhāgavatam. Parīkṣit is not to be condemned in any way. But here, the Pāndya king, he's really to be condemned. But Parīkṣit is a leader. That is nirguṇa. That is mere show. But here in the case of Pāndya it is not a show, it was really the fact.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Now, in Caitanya-caritāmṛta there's a story about Minaketana Rāma dāsa, and that pūjārī. One pūjārī was worshipping the Deity and Minaketana Rāma dāsa..... because he did not show respect he said, "Here's the second Romaharṣāna sūta."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. What's the difficulty?

Devotee: I was just wondering maybe if you could elaborate on that, also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What's the question?

Devotee: I was just thinking this is another illustration...

Devotee: Another example.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Another example. Yes. He did right. This Minaketana Rāma dāsa, he was a devotee of Nityānanda Prabhu. And sometimes he felt within himself the presence of Nityānanda... that he forgot himself and did many, showed many feats of devotional sentiments. Minaketana Rāma dāsa was of that type, and when in the house of Kavirāja Goswāmī there was a function and there one brāhmaṇa, pūjārī, the worshipper, named Guṇarnava Misra, a brāhmaṇa pūjārī, he engaged himself in the worship of the family Deity. And when Minaketana Rāma dāsa, the intimate devotee of Nityānanda was present there, and so many persons knew him that he's a devotee of high order and came to show their respect to Minaketana Rāma dāsa. But the pūjārī did not care, he thought, "I am already engaged in the Deity worship," and he did not think that he should give up his engagement and again come to worship him, to worship, to show his respect to that devotee. At that, Rāma dāsa he was dissatisfied with his attitude he thought that those that are showing respect to him, that is really not to him but to his Master, Nityānanda, Nityānanda.

And in Naimiṣaranya also, when Romaharṣāna sūta he was engaged in chanting Bhāgavatam, Baladeva presented, Baladeva means Nityānanda, Nityānanda Baladeva. Baladeva was present there and he did not leave his reading of Bhāgavatam and did not come also to show any respect of Baladeva, so he was punished by Baladeva. "That you are reading Bhāgavatam but you don't know that the very purpose, the object of Bhāgavatam is present at your front. And you don't know to respect Him. Bhāgavatam is full of the greatness, nobleness of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, and you are reading that, and I am nearest to Kṛṣṇa. You don't come to respect Me, that is not to show respect to Kṛṣṇa. In fact, only theoretical, only intellectualism you are continuing, what is intellectual, and you have no idea about the very fact, very purpose of Bhāgavatam. So this sort of sham explanation and reading of the scriptures that cannot be encouraged, that should be punished." In this way he was punished.

And here also, similar thing, and that Rāma dāsa Minaketana he cited that, "That here's the second Romaharṣāna, engaged in the formal things. But that is more material, substantial, ignoring that, Nityānanda, my Lord of my heart, he has by dishonouring me he's really dishonouring Nityānanda, my Lord, so he should be punished." That was his idea.

And then, the brother of Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja, he was there, he had some faith in Mahāprabhu because of his extraordinary scholarship perhaps, but no faith in Nityānanda Prabhu Who was so closely connected with Mahāprabhu, Śrī Caitanyadeva. So he perhaps took the side of that brāhmaṇa. "Why this Rāma dāsa has been excited and saying against that gentleman whose engaged in the pious worshipping of the Deity? He's wrong."

But Kavirāja Goswāmī could not tolerate that. He gave a stricture to his own brother. "What do you say? That is not correct. Caitanya, Nityānanda, They are not separate things. You have some respect for Śrī Caitanyadeva but not for Nityānanda. That is ardha-kukkuṭi-nyāya, [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.175-176]. One half you give recognition, another half you don't like to take into account, disregard, for this is hypocritical. From other way, that you are really an atheist. You have no respect for Śrī Caitanyadeva also, that is only a show."

So in this way Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja pleaded for Minaketana Rāma dāsa, that is for Nityānanda Prabhu's order, then this sort of formal worship of the brāhmaṇa. Then, in the early morning, Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī had a dream that Nityānanda with His paraphernalia has appeared very vehemently, very clearly before him, and says. "Oh, you Kṛṣṇadāsa, I am very much pleased by your attitude, with your attitude, and come, I want to admit, to give you admission in Vṛndāvana līlā."

āre āre kṛṣṇadāsa, nā karaha bhaya, vṛndāvane yāha, - tāñhā sarva labhya haya

["O My dear Kṛṣṇadāsa, do not be afraid. Go to Vṛndāvana, for there you will attain all things."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.195]

"You will be crowned by the highest success, highest type of success."

"Then I rose, 'What sort of dream so clear I saw? Nityānanda Prabhu ordered me, appeared before me in such a vivid expression and clearly ordered me to go to Vṛndāvana. I must not lose this chance.'" He thought in his mind and began to make arrangement for leaving to Vṛndāvana, and he did so. And he says, "I am so mean, purīṣera kīṭa haite muṣi sei laghiṣṭha, [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.205] "I am the meanest creature than a worm in the stool, purīṣera kīṭa haite muṣi se laghiṣṭha, jagāi mādhai haite muṣi se pāpiṣṭha. More and more sinner than that standard sinner notorious Jagāi Madhai. Mora nāma śune yei tāra puṇya kṣaya. Whoever takes my name his merits diminishes, and mora nāma yei, who takes my name, whoever hears my name his merit diminishes and who takes my name he commits sin. Such a nasty type of man I am. But Nityānanda Prabhu's grace took me to Vṛndāvana and gave me as my Master Raghunātha, Rūpa, Sanātana, and this Madan Mohan, Govinda, Gopīnātha, and whatnot. I am an ocean of successful happiness, ecstasy. It is a shameful thing to speak so highly of one's own self. But I cannot avoid it because I can't forget what sort of grace of Nityānanda Prabhu. It is only citing my example, so I stand witness to the grace of Nityānanda. A man of such lowest type has been raised so high to have got the association of such great men like Rūpa, Sanātana and Raghunātha, all these things. So many teachings, so many siddhāntas, then what more I have got, so many things have come. I can't deny that Nityānanda Prabhu's grace, and how it is effective."

preme matta nityānanda kṛpā-avatāra, uttama, adhama, kichu nā kare vicāra

["Because He is intoxicated by ecstatic love and in an incarnation of mercy, He does not distinguish between the good and the bad."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.208]

"O you people, I cry, I loudly speak it out to you that there is that causeless mercy, there is a store or department of causeless mercy. And Nityānanda Prabhu is the Master of that storehouse. And independent of my qualification He has given it to me. So I am here chanting the glory, the great glory of that great Gurudeva dāsa, the great mercy, ocean of mercy, the causeless mercy. He's mad in His duty of distribution of that Divine Love. And whoever is coming in front He's giving it to him without any consideration of his eligibility or non-eligibility. Such great, such is the most magnanimous nature of Nityānanda Prabhu. Only to give out that to you public for your future benefit I am sacrificing me, by shame to your, shamefully I am presenting my, citing my example before you." That is his, Kavirāja Goswāmī, and most similar case has been told.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Nitāi Nitāi Nitāi Nitāi Nitāi. Then, we may stop here today.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the adjustment, we are maladjusted. It requires for our best benefit that we should be adjusted. We are part of a whole and we must be conscious of that fact. And where the part is properly adjusted, in a whole, that is its harmony, and where it is not that is in māyā, illusory medium. There are so many different conceptions predominating - provincialism, localism, selfishness, separatism, not properly connected with the prime cause, that is the difficulty.

If we want to be reinstated - at present we are maladjusted, but it's falsely adjusted, erroneously adjusted - if we want proper adjustment we are advised to follow a particular course, of sādhanā. In Kali-yuga this Divine Sound, taking the hint or the direction from the Diving Sound, that we can trace what should be the proper way to go to the final adjustment. And whatever other attempts we make for that sort of highest adjustment - how we are to behave with the present environment - that has been recommended. The pure dealings with the present environment will be such and such.

Generally, what is success of worldly things, worldly attempts, we worship Gaṇeśa, Gaṇeśa, just the labour leaders, head of the labourer, the ordinary labourer. Gaṇeśa - gana - means mass - and leader of the masses. Mass is ignorant, and the leader of the masses is also to be expected so. But ostentatiously they have got some power, and with the man-power they may oppose anything and everything. So to satisfy them, to bribe them, the leaders should be honoured. In a general sense, the leader of the masses they should not be ignored, they should be honoured so that they cannot put any obstacle in the way of our progress. It is the general thing.

In this world, this is the world of māyā - māyā means bribe, here, everything is going on in bribe. We want our selfish attempts to be satisfied, that is illegal, unlawful. To try to fulfil our respective separate desires without caring for the others, not to take into account the centre, ignoring the centre, ignoring the outside. Only we want to satisfy our own interest. And that is the crude form of maladjustment, kāma, then dharma, artha, dharma, all these things, self-centred means sense pleasure centred, sense pleasure centred. And for that purpose we try to acquire some help from the outside, and for that we are to pay something to them, and that is all, may be considered as bribe. So:

vipanya devata bhakta yajnanti sraddha aranyata kame sreste hita jnana prapadyante anya devata [?]

Whoever is found to worship another god, demigod, so many proposed authorities of different departments, whenever we go to satisfy them, it cannot be denied that we are bribing them, to fulfil my motive, my selfish motive. They are in power, they are in some position, by their previous karma, perhaps they're the heads of particular departments. And we want those things from them and we give something to them and we get it very cheaply. This is the bribe. This is m $\ddot{a}$ y $\ddot{a}$. And our object is sense pleasure, self pleasure. And what is wanted in us, the normal, that we should seek after the satisfaction of the pleasure of the centre, that is God. If we want to attain that end of our life, that divine highest, that pure end of our life. Self abnegation and self dedication, first, self abnegation we must be prepared for, and then self dedication, and dedication only for the centre. That is what will be conducive to our real benefit. Those that are on the path to the highest divinity, the Vaiṣṇava, the s $\ddot{a}$ dhu, our submission, our search of health, anything, all our association, our concern will be with them, and that is the most safe position. Go through Vaiṣṇava, go in the company of Vaiṣṇava. If you get a Vaiṣṇava, then even eliminating the God Himself, worship Vaiṣṇava, and He will be more pleased with you. That is the position. And just the opposite position we find in the case of Gaṇeśa. With Gaṇeśa comes the leader of the mass comes just on my way, how should we deal with him? So we should not disturb him. He may create some unnecessary trouble. So how to deal with him? Please don't direct, submit to him direct. But you may talk with him, or some nearest relative, who is connected with Viṣṇu, Kṛṣṇa, he's Śiva. In the case of the Vaiṣṇava:

tadiya nama sama tat mat paratama devi tadiya nama acanam [?]

Even you may eliminate Viṣṇu, but if you honour Viṣṇu d $\ddot{a}$ sa your case will be more hopeful. But in the case, in the opposite case, you are eliminating the son, the subordinate. And anyhow to keep the apparent gentleman like character, "Oh, your father, how is he?" In this way, so not to dissatisfy, not to dishonour, and not to honour. But His connection, if anyone has the least connection with Nārāyaṇa, with Viṣṇu, my Lord, then I shall march to that. In this attitude we are to deal with the leaders of the opposite forces where we are living. This is what we are to understand here.

avini brahma vidya avadya jnana [?]

We won't indulge in cultivating hatred within us, in connection with the opposite party. All our energy should be devoted to our prime cause. But who are not in need, we should deal with indifferently, and never with any positive hate or anything. That should be our general attitude. But there may be particular cases. When I shall find that a man, a person of the enemy camp is going to attack a Vaiṣṇava, Guru, or Śrī Mūrti, then of course the position will be otherwise. And the case of Hanumān and others will come there. But the general is this, adjustment towards Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa conception of the Lord, Who is love, Who is beauty, Who is the rasa, ānanda, sukha, happiness. Not power, nor majesty, nor spender, grandeur, all these things.

We are to consult the śāstra and the sādhu, especially those that are trying to come to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, our object will be such. But if we meet in the way, the grandeur, the splendour, all these things, we shall try to utilise it without being...

Suppose if something great, venerable, magnanimous, splendour, all these things, then I shall try to utilise them for that plain and simple process of worship of Vṛndāvana. That should be our temperament.

Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, just as our Guru Mahārāj told:

pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge, [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range]

["The path of divine love is worshipping to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."] [Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura]

Rūpa and Sanātana, they, under the direct guidance of Mahāprabhu, they eliminated grandeur wholly, grandeur of any type. Even social grandeur, this red cloth, that is also a grandeur. That is showing the highest section of the preachers, the highest section of the religious leaders, the sannyāsīns, the preachers. That means the religious leaders, they have got this robe, red cloth, so it has got some connection with grandeur, leadership, social leadership, that was also eliminated by Rūpa and Sanātana. So much so that when a big scholar came to discuss with them what is the real purpose of the śāstra they avoided, they did not consider it useful to spare their time in that useless discussion. "He has not come with the spirit of enquiry, but he has come to conquer", so a waste of energy, they avoided.

But Jīva Goswāmī Prabhu, he could not tolerate so much self abnegation, because of his Guru's position. "That they will ignore my Guru I can't tolerate that. I must fight with him and I shall make him understand why my Gurudeva avoided his discussion, avoided discussion with him, meaning it's sheer waste of time. Not that they're afraid of his scholarship, and he proved that. And that increased the honour of the Goswāmī's there. And it was helpful for the general public to think how big Rūpa and Sanātana is, and still they're so humble in dealing with their position, they're passing. That helped the ordinary public to appreciate their greatness and thereby they were benefited.

And this also was taken by our Guru Mahārāja, so some were of the opinion that our Guru Mahārāja was the avatāra of Goswāmī. And I mentioned it in my own poem, that stotram, that:

raga rupa sanatana kiti varam vara nitara kirtada jiva karam [?]

Who, kiti varam, who has hold fast the flag of Rūpa and Sanātana, and who is accepted in particular section of the devotees as the incarnation of Jīva. So, his attitude was like Jīva. Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge. "I shall gather together all the powers and grandeurs and everything like that and I must put them on the, near the feet, divine feet of my Gurudeva to show that all these things are only to worship the feet of the divine master. Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge. But we have got no necessity for them, no necessity for them. This has got two sides. One side, that the dark side is this, if we go to handle with these things then we may be captivated in them. If we will admit that we will be captivated in them, but only those that are masters of that idea, they can put them in the worship of the higher sādhus.

And another thing is this, that if it is not done then ordinary mass will feel that they holds the highest position, and not the niṣkiṣcana, Rūpa and Sanātana. All the (vaisajya?) is in the lower level. And the plainness of Vṛndāvana, it is not in want of grandeur but it does not require grandeur, it is above grandeur. The plainness, the plainness, the real beauty does not require any grandeur or splendour, any (vaisajya?). It is full in itself, something like that.

There was a talk between Śrīvāsa and Svarūpa Dāmodara in Purī, in (Hora-pancami?) day or so. Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita, he's pleading on behalf of Lakṣmī Devī, (vaisajya?). Svarūpa Dāmodara, he has taken the part of the gopīs in Vṛndāvana. Two parties talking and a mild fight is going on. Then Svarūpa Dāmodara saying to Śrīvāsa: "You don't remember that in Vṛndāvana the trees, the creepers, the bush, and whatever simple things are to be found there, they are not devoid of (vaisajya?), grandeur and splendour. But that is underground. If they require it, it will come in their beck and call. But generally they do not like it. It is above, the simplicity and the plainness, and the natural position, that is of the highest type, you are to realise that. That those that have got such liking in their heart they generally come to like Vṛndāvana, not Svayaṁ Bhagavān. But others, they will like Vaikuṇṭha, the land of grandeur, awe, power, reverence, all these things."

So we like to come to Kṛṣṇa consciousness so we will be very much particular about these things in our consideration, consideration. We are very small, and if we want the biggest to be very near to us, He will have to come in a smaller shape to us, He will have to come. So we shall be prepared for that. That we come to be very near, we are so mean and He's so high, and we want intimate connection with Him. So, we should not think anything, we should not be lover of very grandeur and splendour. There, to create differences, create differences between everything, but only, only in the plane of plainness and simplicity, and especially in the land of love and mercy, that high and low camp, very close together, closely together. So close association with the highest, that is only possible in the atmosphere of Vṛndāvana. Not in any other place, any other place.

kana chedi pada locana [?]

To the affectionate mother, the blind son he seems to appear as a good eyed child. There is a Bengali saying. The affection has got so much fascinating power, the ugly son may seem to the affectionate mother very beautiful because all the defects is minimised by her devotion, Yoga-Māyā.

Bhakti is such, bhakti is a type of such grace that the distinction between the low and high is minimised to the least point, even nothing. So we are so mean, we are so low, so that will be our real soil, of our hankering where we can come in closer in the land of that mercy.

yajna tavi chari kitchu nahi pai [?]

"If You come my Lord, if You come to search my qualities, to examine me, to test me, I have got nothing to say. No capital, nothing to produce to You, a certificate. But only Your grace, only Your grace." Mahāprabhu told, "Just go to that department and put your petition." That department, and where? Without any consideration help is coming.

Go, to that department. And don't mention that you have got this or that qualification, no qualification, no qualification. There is a department where no qualification persons are helped. Try to go there, and sincerely of course, you must be mindful of you own position. In the internal mind you will foster that "I am so big. I am so great. I am such a scholar, I am such," all these things internally. And externally hypocritically you will present yourself in the that won't do. You feel it, you feel it yourself, that what you think you have got, all these qualifications, that is all sham, all wrong, all hypocrisy. Really, you are nothing, no qualification, no qualification.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: trṇād api sunīcena, what is the meaning, trṇād api sunīcena? He says: "I am lower than a blade of grass." Why? He says: "A blade of grass has got its, some sort of position in the material world, some sort of intrinsic description, position, quality. But what about me? I am of opposite quality, (vikṛita?) I am disfigured. The blade of grass has got its own identification of some type or other, but I am a diseased person. No normal intrinsic nature I have got. I am a mad man. A man may not be meritorious but he is of normal brain, he may be utilised in any position. But a mad man, he may not be relied in any work."

That vikrita maskrista, vikṛtya kitya [?]

I am vikṛtya kitya [?] I am a misguided soul. My energy, my intelligence, everything, focused towards opposite side. So my position is worse than a blade of grass." Tṛṇād api sunīcena. "If I think really, my position is worse, because, I am beside myself. Whatever may be the prospect and possibility of my future, but at present I am mad. So I am negative, of negative value. So I am lower than the blade of grass, if figuratively it is to be considered." So where to go for my benefit? Madhouse is my real place of treatment, madhouse. And if I go to an ordinary hospital it will be of no help.

Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi.

So Vaiṣṇava who are in the line, in this line, they are always helpful, under all circumstances, Vaiṣṇava, and next, Vaiṣṇava śāstra. First Vaiṣṇava and then Vaiṣṇava śāstra, they will be our healthy association and helper.

And other gods who are holding superior position here, they're of other type. Their object they sincerely believe according to their mania, "but these are all bad, this Vaiṣṇava, what is this? You will thrive here." This Charvaka and others, "Why you leave this pleasant world of enjoyment and pleasure and running after phantasmagoria, what is God, all these things? At present you are getting so much pleasure, and leaving this, your mania is drawing you towards some future. Whether that is existing or not none can say."

All these things, there are so many departments. To mix with them, that our precious internal wealth will be at stake. So don't go to associate with them or to be beggar at their door. Not reliable, they're naturally, they have no faith in this. In their good faith also, in their so-called nature, they try to take, to worship, to draw to their jurisdiction, their department. So don't, but at the same time don't unnecessarily make them your enemy, that they will come and hinder you. Remain indifferent.

navagiya kadacana, apare bramha rudraya navagiya kadacana [?]

At heart you know surely that your Master, your Lord, is Kṛṣṇa. Without Vṛndāvana līlā nothing can satisfy you. The gopīs, the different rasa, the sākha, the Yaśodā, the vātsalya- rasa, even Yamunā, even the Govardhana-giri, even the so many forests, so many trees, that has captured your heart, and your heart won't allow anything to enter there to take possession. So your heart when it is already given to there. Only try to mix with them that will help you to take them to that place, that place, the land of Kṛṣṇa, the land of Yaśodā in the vātsalya-rasa, Nanda, where the Lord bears the shoe of His father on His head. And that is natural there, where the Yaśodā can whip her child for thieving so many things, stealing so many things. And He's there. The bhakti, the devotion, the love, the prema, can play with Him in such a way. It is possible. The Infinite has been, has become the servant of the finite, as if, as if He's so low that He's subservient to the finite. So low, not so high He is, so high He is, His high position where we may be taken, so close connection. It is possible.

But: nirmat-sarāṇām satām, then one qualification is necessary Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam

[1.1.2] says in the beginning. All these attainments is in your favour, in your.....

but one condition, nirmat-sarāṇām satām, this is only for those people, honest people. The honesty is to be tested, to be examined, that honesty must be of this type, nirmat- sarā. Complete elimination of the element like jealousy within you, jealousy. If jealousy is there, one who cannot tolerate the good of others, that is matsara, matsara is he who cannot tolerate the good of another, that is, he's matsara. So Māyāvādīns all matsara because they cannot tolerate that any other thing will hold the supreme position where he will not be represented. With this idea they can go only up to mukti, Brahmaloka. And after Brahmaloka if they're to enter, they will have admit that without His representation highest thing can remain, highest things is existent, so they're not matsara, they're not nirmat-sara.

But Bhāgavata, the devotee, must be nirmat-sara. Our Guru Mahārāja used to, analogy, this analogy, haleocentric and geocentric. Geocentric, the 'so ham' means geocentric. "Because I am in the earth, earth must be in the centre. I won't admit any other plan or proposal. I am on the earth, the earth must be in the centre." And that haleocentric, "Though I am not in the sun, but I admit that sun is the centre." So the devotees, they're of haleocentric thought. "He's all in all. I may be His negligent part, but I am not all in all." But Māyāvādīns will say, "No, so ham, I am Brahma." They're all geocentric. And haliocentric are the devotees. "No, Kṛṣṇa is all."

So nirmat-sarāṇām satām, matsara, "I must be represented, I do not admit anything where no taxation without representation, no admittance of giving any cause, rent, where I am not the manager," so, that Washington's slogan. So, nirmat-sarāṇām satām... the toleration of other's prosperity, superiority, that everyone is my Guru, in another word. "Whatever I shall find there, everyone is my Guru and my guardian and my affectionate friend." That sort of consciousness we are to get, we are to earn, nirmat- sarāṇām satām. Then we can only be admitted into the plane of Vṛndāvana, nirmat- sarāṇām, self-eliminated to the highest sense, then you will be there, you will be plane. Everything is nirmat-sarāṇām, but they are, the type is there, but the bad essence is not there, bad odour is not there.

So there, everything is adored, everything. The Nanda's shoes are being adored on the head of the Supreme. What is the position? The shoe of Nanda is taken on the head, Whom we take to be the Supreme Entity. Because there is no nirmat-sarāṇām.....

None has any conception of the superiority of, cannot tolerate the superiority of others. It is such. The plane, the first fate is that, the general creed is that, and there of course development for the līlā, the development, the big and small, all these things are there. But the party feeling, this separate consciousness, and that sort of party feeling is eliminated. That is līlā, play. Real fight and mock fight. Drama, a man is killed, a man who is killed in a drama fight, he gets more applause than the hero, it may be.

Prabhupāda told that (singha prasena nabadip?) Sringha killed Prasena, then Sringha was again killed by Jāmbavān. Because it is līlā, so who is killed, the killer and the killed, both are satisfied. Both, who is killed, he is feeling misery? No. Because killing is not in fact eternal, cetana. In Vaikuṇṭha, nothing is killed, all is eternal, all is consciousness. Then the play of killing and being killed - that is only a form, only a form. So both are being satisfied. Who is being killed, who is robbed, he is also satisfied, who is robbing he is also satisfied. That play, that is līlā, without causing any real misery to any party.

And the movement, the movement is going, movement does not effect any dissipation. Movement generally means some dissipation of energy, dissipation, but here, the movement without any dissipation, rather promoting energy, the opposite, because the very nature of things requires it. Where there is no death, where there is no pain, but still the drama, the play is going on like that. So we are to understand in that way.

Because it is (abnisa?) the soul is immortal. Supersoul, what is the question of being in mortality? And what is immortal that is constant, there is no dissipation, there is no mortal transformation. It is already constant thing. And distinct play is going on as if killer, killing, all these things, and giving, non-giving, infinite. If we deal with zero, so if we can deal with infinite, if you deal with zero everything is unaffected. So all transactions zero. Then, wherever you are you are there, no play, no loss...

End of side A, start of side B.

Devotee: Śrīdhara Mahārāj, you were saying earlier on that the leaders of the masses should be honoured so that they will not be an obstacle on the path of devotional service. So if they are an obstacle, somehow or other they represent an obstacle on the path of devotional service, should we still honour them?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is he?

Devotee: Nitya-siddha, disciple of Jaya Tīrtha Mahārāj.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is his question?

Devotee: He said, "You say we should honour the leaders of the masses so that they don't give some obstacle. But if they do give an obstacle should we still honour them?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then conditionally, if you give more honour, where that degree of honour he may be conquered, generally, to avoid with some honour, that is the process given by Mahāprabhu, amāninā mānadena. Your dealings should be generally, that will be more effective in the long run, amāninā, you don't want any honour from them but you will give their due honour. That process generally to be used, and in the long run that has been seen to be more successful in our way, in our journey. It is not possible, everywhere according to the temperament of the person, and they will have to suffer from the reaction. But on the whole that has been found to be the highest process, because the journey is not very short, a long way. And that attitude has been considered to be the most useful, amāninā mānadena, don't want any honour but give honour to them. You are aloof. In Bhāgavatam also:

prema maytika upekṣa bhāṇi sesa viśasita [?]

Those that are against you..... indifferent to them, not attack offensive for offensive. That will waste your energy more. But avoid, avoid. If we stick to that in the long run you will be victorious, upekṣa. Prema, love, affinity towards God, friendship with the devotees, and (balish?) that ordinary ignorant, to be benevolent towards them, and to the ordinary, the general recommendation from Bhāgavatam. And from Mahāprabhu something more, amāninā mānadena, and tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā. Don't oppose anyone, give opposition to anyone, but still if opposition comes to you, try to tolerate. But especially don't encroach on the honour of anyone but give honour to all. This policy will help you more for the longest journey.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

All the positive energy we can collect should be devoted towards the, should be dedicated towards my highest aim. Maximum we can gather should not be wasted in any other way, but to my highest aim. And at the same time, if He likes to protect me He can do. I am not living in the relativity of a stone, but all conscious, omniscient and omnipotent entity. He's seeing everything and if He likes He can interfere. As in the case of Prahāda and so many other devotees, He participated to protect His devotees.

Devotee: May I ask a question?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: What Rūpa Goswāmī says in Upadeśāmṛta, that one of the causes of fall down is to over endeavour to get things which are very difficult materially. So what is the limit of our endeavour to get things for Kṛṣṇa which are very difficult?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everywhere you cut your coat according to your cloth.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is yukta-vairāgya, that is applicable everywhere, everywhere. As our Guru Mahārāj told, (maharambha?) That a man he has got the capacity of managing a kingdom, an empire, he can find more time, make much time, much leisure. And another man he cannot manage his own (healthier sheer type members?) the whole time engrossed there and becomes mad to manage the family affairs. So according to the capacity one is to adjust himself in his own way.

Suppose if a devotee is a king and there is molestation in the temple under his rule, he can..... in that position he has got his duty. He must go to protect them with punishment, because he's a king, he's in that position of that government. But indifferently he may do that, he is king, not as a man. Ostentatiously he may go on with his duty, but internally he may be non-interfering.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written in Kṛṣṇa-saṁhitā, (baha grahi sara grahi?) Two types of people - one reads, hears, and collects many things in the form of advice and understanding - but they cannot find out the gist, the very substance of the thing. But (sara grahi?) they collect the very gist of everything and eliminate the burden. And in the (sara grahi?), the highest class of devotion, externally he's managing the government and society, everything he's doing, but internally perhaps he's a gopī of Vṛndāvana, a gopī internally, there he's another and he's doing his duty that way. But externally he's a king, or he's a general, he's fighting. So such double function also may happen, one may have, sometimes, not always.

Devotee: One question.

Devotee: Mahārāja, the nine islands of Navadvīpa, it is said that each one corresponds to one of the nine processes of devotional service, śravaṇaṁ kīrtanaṁ smaraṇaṁ pāda-sevanam [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.23-24] It is said that Antardwīpa corresponds to ātma-nivedanam. So which process of devotional service is corresponding to this island, Koladvīpa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Koladvīpa - pāda-sevana.

Devotee: Pāda-sevana?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Pāda-sevana. And Lakṣmī Devī, she generally represents that sort of service, pāda-sevana. She has got her special tendency to service of Nārāyaṇa with pāda-sevana, in the viddhi-mārga.

Devotee: Aparādha-bhaṣjan-pāṭ - [the place where all offences of those who surrender are forgiven.]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And in Mahāprabhu's līlā it has been added, aparādha-bhaṣjan, here in the pāda-sevana part of His Dhāma He showed His extensive mercy by releasing the greatest offender against Him. He pardoned them. A general forgiveness He showed to the offenders in the līlā. Koladvīpa.

kuliyā-grāmete āsi' śrī-kṛṣṇa-caitanya, hena nāhi, yā 're prabhu nā karilā dhanya

["At Koladvīpa - the Govardhana Hill of Vṛndāvana, concealed in Śrī Navadvīpa Dhāma - the Most Generous Absolute expressed Himself in His maximum generosity. Without considering any crime, He absolved whoever He found. He accepted them all."] [Caitanya-Bhāgavat, Antya-līlā, 3.541]

All object was fulfilled by Mahāprabhu here in Koladvīpa, when after sannyāsa He came here. After sannyāsa, after five years, He once visited His home and at that time when He came first here and He took His residence in Vasudeva Sārvabhauma's brother, Vidya- Vachaspati. Vidya-Vachaspati he was the brother of Vasudeva Sārvabhauma, and the Guru of Sanātana Gosvāmī. He put up with him there, and came for bath in the Ganges. And so many offenders flocked together around Him and prayed for, prayed to be forgiven, pardoned. And He granted general amnesty. "Yes. I absolve you all, from all the offences you committed against Me." One Cāpāla Gopāl - "Oh, you have committed offence to Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita, not to Me, so you have to go to him for forgiveness and he'll forgive you." He told.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

[aksaram brahma paramam, svabhāvo 'dhyātmam ucyate bhūta-bhāvodbhava-karo, visargaḥ karma-saṁjītaḥ]

[The Supreme Lord said: Certainly Brahman is the indestructible, unchangeable Absolute Truth, and the pure spirit soul is the genuine personality of the living being. The word "karma" denotes abnegation for the sake of a demigod, which produces the bodies of humans and other species, created by the agency of gross and subtle material elements; this abnegation refers to the performance of charity, sacrifice, austerity, and all duties rendered for the propitiation of that god.] [Bhagavad-gītā, 8.3]

So this, I have a little confusion as to what is He referring to as the svabhāvo of Brahman as dhyātmam. What is this dhyātmam translation proper?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Svabhāvo 'dhyātmam ucyate. Aksaram brahma paramam - that you understand?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Aksaram. Svabhāvo aksaram brahma paramam, then, svabhāvo 'dhyātmam ucyate, bhūta-bhāvodbhava-karo, visargaḥ karma-saṁjītaḥ. Then?

adhibhūtaṁ kṣaro bhāvaḥ, puruṣaś cādhidaivatam adhiyajño 'ham evātra, dehe deha-bhṛtām vara

["Physical nature is known to be endlessly mutable. The universe is the cosmic form of the Supreme Lord, and I am that Lord represented as the Supersoul, dwelling in the heart of every embodied being." [Bhagavad-gītā, 8.4]

Svabhāvo..... which is including, in the area of karma, the action and reaction in this world, svabhāvo, that is the, when duties in the mental system, which is checked by force and ideal, action, reaction, in the subtle form in the mental system. That is adhyātma, svabhāvo. The soul is independent of that, that is it's captured in the mental system, and the mental system, that is composed of many subtle things in the different stages of this world of exploitation, up to Satyaloka. The saṁguṇa, satya, rāja, tama, trī- guṇa. In the subtle body, which contains within it the result of karma, that up to Brahmaloka, this practical, this natural life. That is adhyātmam.....

Ātmā means svabhāvo, the nature. What is the nature? That will be karma, the result of karma that is contained in the mental system and creates svabhāva. There'll be rāja- svabhāva, sattya-svabhāva, and tama-svabhāva. And svabhāva of animals, the birds, the beasts, the worms, the gods, the ṛṣis, that are in the circle of this māyā, the twenty-four stages of life within māyā. That is svabhāva, within mental jurisdiction. With the dissolution of the mind one attains Brahmaloka and further up. Otherwise he's captured, the ātmā is captured in the mental tendencies, mental system. By the dissolution of the mental system one is liberated, aksara. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes. Now this adhyātmam is temporary? Svabhāva is temporary?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not temporary. After liberation it will disappear. With baddha- jīva, it is constant. Wherever he goes he has got the mentality, the duty, connected in exploitation, gross or subtle, thin or very dense, the exploitation. Sattya, raja, tama, within exploitation known as false identification. "I am enjoyer, and unique, wandering in the world.....

that is all adhyātmam, adhyātmam ucyate, the soul is captured in the mental tendency in the ambition of exploitation. The soul captured in the ambition of exploitation, that is, the whole life is ucyate. And when the charm for exploitation vanishes he's liberated. Then, when he can appreciate the life of dedication he enters Vaikuṇṭha. And fullest surrender, wholesale surrender to the Lord of love, then he attains Vṛndāvana, in this way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! So, Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, you are to reply those letters of...

Devotee: One more question first Mahārāja, here. One boy likes to ask one more question.

Devotee: Mahārāja, for proper functioning of this material world there are so many laws and arrangements. Then what is the position of the spiritual world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is infinite. And whatever we can conceive that is only finite of the finite. What we can do? The soul in - so much magnitude we can conceive, that is in one part. Such is infinite. Infinite is so great, so deep.

In Bhagavad-gītā, Kṛṣṇa says to Arjuna: "I am so, I am so, I am so, I am such, I am such. Arjuna, what more I shall say to you? In nutshell, in conclusion, I say this much to you. Whatever you can conceive, that is in My one negligent part. I am so. Think about Me like this. That what more, the most you can conceive, that forms only a negligent part. I am such."

So, we may not try to conceive, to have the conception of the Infinite. That is futile. So, jṣāne prayāsam udapāsyā:

[jṣāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva, jīvanti san-mukharitām bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vāñ-manobhir, ye
prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām]

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You, although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."] [Śrīmad-Bhagavatām, 10.14.3]

Don't indulge your intellect to capture the Infinite within your fist. That is useless. But only how you can utilise yourself in the universe, that should be your enquiry. "That I am a point in the infinite. Still I am something. How can I utilise myself in this infinite?" That should be my duty to know, and then I'll be normal. And if I want intellectually to know more and more, more and more - wild goose chasing - that is a kind of disease. But normality will return in me when I shall think that, "It is impossible. But I am a part of the Infinite. How can I utilise myself in this Infinite?" To know that and to do that, that will be the best thing recommended to us, for us. Know thyself, and do accordingly. The Infinite is there, you also are there, and you are a part of that Infinite it is also true. Then, you have got your own partial duty and you must do that and satisfy yourself. And you know that, then you will be able to come in touch with the Infinite. There you can meet Infinite in Its highest form that is possible for you to get. That is the conclusion of the scripture, of the experts, of the revealed, received, revealed truth.
